The housing Green Paper committed the Government to delivering 2 million homes by 2016 and 3 million homes by 2020 by raising supply over time towards the 240,000 per year target in 2016.

The growth by 2016 will include 100,000 new homes in 45 towns and cities that make up the 29 new growth points. We have committed ourselves to investing £1.7 billion for infrastructure in the growth areas over the next three years.

During this parliamentary session, my right hon. Friend the Minister for Housing has brought forward a Housing and Regeneration Bill. The Bill received its Second Reading in the House on 27 November. It will create the new Homes and Communities Agency, which will deliver more social and affordable housing, promote regeneration and facilitate the establishment of sustainable communities. The Agency will work with local authorities, housing associations and private developers to provide the housing and related infrastructure required. The Bill will also establish a new social housing regulator—the Office for Tenants and Social Landlords—which will drive up the quality of social housing provision by setting standards for housing associations, backed up by new intervention powers to secure improvements where landlords are failing.

We are also providing at least £8 billion over the next three years to invest in affordable housing—initially through the Housing Corporation and then through the new Homes and Communities Agency. This new investment, which is an increase of 50 per cent. compared to the previous three years, will help to deliver 70,000 affordable homes a year by 2010-11, of which 45,000 will be for social rent. The Housing and Regeneration Bill will also make changes to the housing revenue account subsidy system to enable local authorities to keep rental income from new homes to incentivise them to build where it is shown to provide value for money.

Owing to the positive response from local authorities and developers following the Green Paper we have increased the number of ecotowns schemes to be provided by 2020 from five to 10. The entire community will be designed to reach zero carbon standards.

We have also announced around £1 billion for Housing Market Renewal pathfinder areas. The investment is aimed to continue to help develop practical solutions to address housing market weakness and tackle high vacancy rates, high population turnover, low demand for social rented housing and low sales value.

The Housing Green Paper reaffirmed the Government's commitment to ensuring both councils and housing associations maintain their focus on improving the quality of their existing accommodation and delivering decent homes. We also committed ourselves to at least £2 billion investment in the Arm's Length Management Organisation programme over the next spending period 2008-09 to 2010-11.

We are also making some £10.2 billion available over the years 2008-11 through the regional housing pot. This is a very significant increase on the funding for the previous three years, which totalled some £7.8 billion. The funding will underpin our commitment to decent homes and to increasing the supply of affordable housing.

Housing: Sustainable Development

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the basis was for the decision not to require new homes funded through the Housing Corporation from April 2008 to meet higher standard than Code Level 3 for Sustainable Homes. [168652]

Mr. Iain Wright: Code Level 3 is already a very high standard and significantly beyond current Building Regulations for Energy/$CO_2$ emissions. For the Housing Corporation it will be a minimum requirement to build to Code Level 3 for the forthcoming 2008-11 Affordable Housing Programme. This ensures that Government-funded housing is leading the way in the drive towards sustainable housing. The energy requirements within Code Level 3 will become part of the Building Regulations in 2010.

Injunctions

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many injunctions have been (a) sought and (b) obtained under sections 26 and 27 of the Police and Justice Act 2006. [167553]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Police and Justice Act 2006 amended measures which have been available since summer 2004. My Department has requested that local authorities provide data on the number of antisocial behaviour injunctions (ASBIs) they have obtained from 2006-07. Those data are not yet available.

The Housing Corporation has collected data from registered social landlords (RSLs) on the use of antisocial behaviour injunctions since 2005-06, in which 758 are reported as having been granted.

Landlord and Tenant: Digital Broadcasting

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what role she plans for the proposed new Office for Tenants and Social Landlords in (a) supporting access by tenants to digital television receiving systems and (b) encouraging provision by landlords of communal digital television receiving systems for dwellings in multiple occupation. [168510]

Mr. Iain Wright: The recently introduced Housing and Regeneration Bill will create OFTENANT, the Office for Tenants and Social Landlords. It is too early to provide details on how it might support the successful delivery of the digital switchover programme in advance of its establishment. This will be a matter for the regulator once it is established, taking into account its remit of improving core housing services for tenants.

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what steps she is taking to encourage social landlords and local authority housing providers to upgrade communal television systems in advance of digital switchover. [168513]

Mr. Iain Wright: Responsibility for upgrading communal television systems is a matter for landlords in consultation with tenants. Digital UK is responsible for communicating with landlords and property managers in order to increase awareness and understanding of what they need to do to prepare for switchover.

The Department continues to co-operate closely with the Department for Media, Culture and Sport, the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform and Digital UK in working to deliver a successful switchover programme.

Planning

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what recent meetings she or other Ministers in her Department have held with non-governmental organisations on planning reform; and what the outcome of such meetings was. [163859]

Mr. Iain Wright: Ministers have met a wide range of non-governmental organisations on planning reform, principally as a result of the planning White Paper. The Government summary of responses to the consultation on the White Paper is available in the Library of the House.

Planning: Renewable Energy

Gregory Barker: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether her Department plans to allow local authorities to take green tariffs into account when considering the carbon footprint of new developments. [167076]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Government are working with the public sector, business and voluntary organisations in assessing a number of options for solutions that will help to reduce the carbon emissions from new developments.

Green supply tariffs have a role to play in contributing to the achievement of the Government's climate change goals. As such, the Government are committed to working with Ofgem to ensure consumers have accessible, transparent and user-friendly information on the 'green electricity' tariffs available to them. Ofgem published a consultation paper on green tariffs "Cutting green customer confusion" on 21 November.

Planning: Research

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what research (a) commissioned and (b) evaluated by her Department was taken account of in reaching the decision on new homes in the current plan period; and if she will make a statement. [165045]

Mr. Iain Wright: In order to respond to the Barker review of housing supply, the Department commissioned the university of Reading to develop a theoretical affordability model that models the impact of different levels and regional distributions of housing supply on affordability. This research was published at the time of the Government's response to the Barker review in November 2005, and is available on the Department's website:

http://www.communities.gov.uk/publication/housing/affordabilitytargetsimplications.

Since then the university of Reading has continued to develop the model, and the Department will be publishing details of the latest version of this model in due course.

The National Housing and Planning Advice Unit (NHPAU) has recently published a response to the Government's housing Green Paper, which used this model to examine a range of housebuilding scenarios.

In addition to the research outlined above, a range of other evidence and analysis was used as part of the decision-making process underlying the housing Green Paper announcement that 3 million homes would be built by 2020. This included the official household projections produced by the Department and examination of housing supply data and the regional plans existing at that time.

Railway Stations: Hampshire

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 20 November 2007, Official Report, columns 785-6W, on railway stations in Hampshire, what the schedule is for including in the Railways for All programme those Hampshire railway stations which have not been announced for inclusion in the programme; and if she will make a statement. [168912]

Mr. Tom Harris: I have been asked to reply.

The Department is currently drawing up the next list of stations to be targeted for investment under the Access for All Programme, and will make an announcement before the end of the year. Stations in Hampshire will be considered, alongside other stations not selected so far, for enhancement during the 2012 to 2015 period.

In addition, annual rounds of Access for All Small Schemes Funding will continue to support smaller scale enhancements, such as the low height ticket counters being installed at Havant, Southampton Central, Farnborough and Brockenhurst over the same period.

Regional Planning and Development: Northamptonshire

Mr. Hollobone: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what account was taken of the capacity of the A14 in setting housing development targets for north Northamptonshire; and if she will make a statement. [168507]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Milton Keynes and South Midlands Sub Regional Strategy (MKSM SRS) sets out the district level housing targets for North Northamptonshire. At the Examination in Public the Highways Agency accepted that possible capacity constraints on the A14 would need to be investigated further.

Since then, the North Northamptonshire Joint Planning Unit has been developing a core strategy which is currently at the Examination in Public stage, and has worked closely with the Highways Agency, which has been carrying out studies to look at online improvements and options for the potential widening of parts of the A14. The Highways Agency has presented information to the Examination in Public to show improvements that can be made to the A14 to meet the anticipated housing trajectory.

Regional Planning and Development: South West Region

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 12 September 2007, Official Report, column 2138W, on Regional Planning and Development: South West Region, how much affordable housing she expects to be built in (a) Forest of Dean constituency and (b) Gloucestershire in the next five years. [166304]

Mr. Iain Wright: It is for each of the Gloucestershire Local Planning Authorities to determine both the need and the amount of affordable housing to be built in their areas, having regard to the planning guidance set out in PPS3 and the draft Regional Spatial Strategy. The Gloucestershire planning authorities are now preparing local development documents in which they will set an overall (i.e. plan-led) target for the amount of affordable housing to be provided in their areas.

Religion: Publications

John Battle: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what publications her Department and its predecessors have produced relating to faith communities since 1997. [168126]

Mr. Dhanda: Since 1997, 20 publications have been produced by the Department for Communities and Local Government and its main predecessor organisations which relate predominantly to faith communities. The 20 publications focusing entirely on faith issues are:

1. "Guidance on New Measures to Outlaw Discrimination on Grounds of Religion or Belief: (Part 2, Equality Act 2006)" Communities and Local Government, 2007.
2. "2005 citizenship survey: race and faith topic report" Communities and Local Government, 2006.
3. "Review of the Evidence Base on Faith Communities" Office of the Deputy Prime Minister, 2006.
4. "Incitement to religious hatred" Home Office, 2006.
5. "Working Together: Co-operation between Government and Faith communities—Progress Report" Office of the Deputy Prime Minister, 2005.
6. "Ministers of Religion from abroad: second stage consultation" Home Office, 2005.
7. "Community Cohesion Pathfinder Programme" Faith and Cohesion Office of the Deputy Prime Minister, 2004.
8. "Working Together: Co-operation between Government and Faith Communities" 03m Faith Communities Unit Home Office, 2004.
9. "Religion in England and Wales: findings from the 2001 Home Office Citizenship Survey" Home Office Research Study 274 Home Office Research, Development and Statistics Directorate, 2004.
10. "Tackling Religious Discrimination: practical implications for policy makers and legislators" Home Office Research Study 221 Home Office Research, Development and Statistics Directorate, 2001.
11. "Religious Discrimination in England and Wales" Home Office Research Study 220 Home Office Research, Development and Statistics Directorate, 2001.
12. "Information about Ministers of Religion" Immigration and Nationality Directorate ISBN 1858935083 Home Office, 2001.
13. "Transport requirements of minority ethnic and faith communities: research findings" Department for Transport, Local Government and the Regions, 2002.
14. "A forum for faith communities and government" Department of Environment, Transport and the Regions, 2001.
15. "Faith, communities and social work: shifting identities and changing realities" Department of Environment, Transport and the Regions, 1999.
16. "The local inter faith guide: faith community co-operation in action" Department of Environment, Transport and the Regions in association with the Inter Faith Network for the UK, 1999.
17. "Faith, communities and social work: shifting identities and changing realities: symposium report" Department of Environment, Transport and the Regions, 1999.
18. "Involving communities in urban and rural regeneration: a guide for practitioners" (includes specific section on faith communities) Department of Environment, Transport and the Regions, 1997.
19. "Challenging religious discrimination: a guide for faith communities and their advisers" Department of Environment, 1997.
20. "Faith interaction: Inner Cities Religious Council newsletter" Department of Environment, 1993-98.

Rented Housing: Finance

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government for what reasons private-sector housing renewal and grant support to those living in that sector are not included in the public service agreements for her Department. [167882]

Mr. Iain Wright: Progress to increase the proportion of vulnerable households living in decent homes in the private-sector to 70 per cent. by 2010 is ahead of target. Progress on private-sector renewal remains important work for my Department and will contribute to our departmental strategic objectives. We will continue to monitor progress through the English House Condition Survey.

Local authorities' duties and responsibilities remain unchanged. Many services and activities undertaken by local government, alone or in partnership, are not directly reflected in the national indicator set but will continue to be important to local areas and the people they serve. We expect local authorities to continue to set priorities, determine performance indicators and monitor and review performance.

Rented Housing: Standards

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many landlords have signed up to the Respect Standard for Housing Management. [167549]

Mr. Iain Wright: As of 31 October 2007, 374 social landlords have signed up to the Respect Standard. We estimate that this constitutes 68 per cent. of landlords and 5.5 million social housing tenants.

Social Rented Housing: Rents

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government who is responsible for setting the upper limit of social housing rent which each local authority is authorised to charge; how that upper limit is calculated; and if she will make a statement. [165544]

Mr. Iain Wright: Rent-setting powers of local authorities are set out in section 24 of the Housing Act 1985. Local authorities are free to set whatever rents they consider reasonable. Government have no rent-setting powers.

When setting rents, local authorities will have regard to the 'guideline rent' for their authority. This is the notional rent that operates inside the Housing Revenue Account (HRA) subsidy system and is used to calculate the assumed rental income for the authority, that calculation forming part of the authority's overall entitlement to HRA subsidy. Each authority has its own guideline rent.

Local authorities will also have regard to the 'limit rent' for their authority. This is the maximum level to which the Department for Work and Pensions will pay housing benefit on the dwellings in that authority.

Guideline and limit rent is calculated using a formula that takes a number of factors into account, including the type and location of the housing authority's dwellings, local factors such as manual worker salaries in the county the authority is in, and national factors such as inflation.

Tuberculosis: Leeds

John Battle: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many cases of tuberculosis there were in (a) Leeds and (b) Leeds, West constituency in each year since 1997. [168125]

Dawn Primarolo: I have been asked to reply.

The number of reported tuberculosis cases in the Leeds local authority since 1997 is as follows.

| | Number |
| 1998 | 75 |
| 1999 | 77 |
| 2000 | 67 |
| 2001 | 94 |
| 2002 | 107 |
| 2003 | 79 |
| 2004 | 113 |
| 2005 | 111 |
| 2006 | 152 |

Note:
There are no data on the number of cases occurring in the Leeds West constituency, as this information is not collected on a constituency basis.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

Cyprus

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent representations he has received on the UK's role in Cyprus. [167727]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The UK has a unique role in Cyprus, as both countries are EU, UN and Commonwealth members, and the UK is one of the three guarantor powers for Cyprus. The UK has a strong bilateral relationship with Cyprus, a key trading partner. We maintain a structured dialogue and co-operate on a wide range of issues.

The UK is fully supportive of the UN's efforts to promote the reunification of Cyprus and we have lent our full support to the 8 July agreement between the two leaders. The UK works with its EU and UN partners to achieve this goal. In north Cyprus, we have supported the EU's efforts to bring the Turkish Cypriot community closer to Europe, facilitating the reunification of Cyprus through economic development.

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps his Department has taken to encourage the reunification of Cyprus following the 2004 Annan plan. [167728]

Mr. Jim Murphy: In 2004, the UN plan for a comprehensive settlement of the Cyprus problem was approved by the Turkish Cypriots, but rejected by the Greek Cypriots. The UK continues to support a bi-zonal, bi-communal federation, established on the basis of political equality. We have fully supported the UN's efforts to restart settlement negotiations between the two communities on this basis, and have lent our full support to the 8 July agreement between the two leaders.

We engage fully with Turkey, Greece, the Republic of Cyprus and the Turkish Cypriot leadership, encouraging them to play a full and positive part in the settlement process. During her last visit to the island, my right hon. Friend the Member for Enfield, North (Joan Ryan), the UK's recently appointed Special Representative for Cyprus, urged both communities to show the flexibility and political courage required to bridge the gap between words and deeds.

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his Department's policy is on trade with Turkish-occupied northern Cyprus. [167730]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The EU made a commitment in April 2004, reiterated in January 2007, "to end the isolation of Turkish Cypriots and facilitate the reunification of Cyprus" with "particular emphasis on the economic integration of the island and on improving contact between the two communities and with the EU". We fully support these objectives.

The EU wants direct trade with northern Cyprus and the Government have supported the attempts of successive EU presidencies to realise this goal. We believe that this would bring Turkish Cypriots closer to Europe, slow the economic integration of northern Cyprus with Turkey, promote economic integration within Cyprus and reduce economic disparities between the two communities, so facilitating a settlement.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what estimate he has made of the number of Turkish troops situated in Cyprus; and if he will make a statement. [163217]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The Government estimate that there are between 20,000 and 30,000 Turkish troops in northern Cyprus. We believe that a reduction in the number of Turkish troops would help build trust on the island. A settlement would allow comprehensive demilitarisation of the island.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the (a) processes for and (b) impact of commercial development in the buffer zone in Cyprus; and if he will make a statement. [163219]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The monitoring and control of development in the buffer zone is a matter for the UN Peacekeeping Force in Cyprus, whose mandate we strongly support.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the North Cyprus Property Commission's ability to (a) pay compensation for and (b) order restitution of Greek Cypriot property (i) promptly and (ii) in full. [163118]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office has made no assessment of the ability of the Immovable Property Commission to fulfil its functions. This matter is properly before the European Court of Human Rights.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the extent of bicommunal activity in Cyprus sponsored or organised by (a) the UK, (b) the UN, (c) other countries, (d) the Republic of Cyprus, (e) Turkish Cypriots, (f) civil society in the Republic of Cyprus and (g) civil society in Northern Cyprus. [163218]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The UK supports a range of bicommunal activities. For example, we have provided financial support for the UN Commission on missing persons and have promoted bicommunal discussions highlighting the economic benefits of a solution. My right hon. Friend the Member for Enfield North (Joan Ryan), the UK Special Representative to Cyprus, met bicommunal civil society groups in October, during her visit to the island.

The bulk of the UN work on bicommunal activities is organised by Action for Co-operation and Trust in Cyprus (ACT). The ACT was created in October 2005 and has a total budget of US$26.5 million. It is managed directly by the UN Development programme. More information about the work of ACT can be found at:

http://www.undp-act.org/MAIN/default.aspx.

Notwithstanding these efforts, the UN Security Council noted in its last resolution on the UN Peacekeeping Force in Cyprus mandate that the search for peace in Cyprus would benefit from more bicommunal activity.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent progress there has been in cross-green line co-operation between police services of the Republic of Cyprus and the Turkish Cypriots; and if he will make a statement. [163131]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office is not aware of any co-operation between the police services of the Republic of Cyprus and the Turkish Cypriots.

The technical committees envisaged under the 8 July 2006 agreement would provide a forum for discussion of those issues, such as crime, that would benefit from enhanced bicommunal co-operation. We continue to urge the rapid implementation of the 8 July agreement.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how much of the EU's 259 million euros aid package to Turkish Cypriots (a) has been spent and (b) is contracted to be spent; what obstacles there are to the disbursement of the aid; and if he will make a statement. [163128]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The financial aid regulation is supporting practical projects designed to bring the Turkish Cypriot community closer to Europe. The European Commission's 2007 report on the Financial Aid Regulation, available at

provides a full account of implementation of the regulation. By October 2007, €61 million had been tendered for; total amount contracted reached €25 million; and a total of €8 million has now been spent.

Potential obstacles to effective implementation of the regulation cited in the report include: tight contracting deadlines, property issues, low absorption capacity, staffing of the programme team and lack of co-operation between the Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities. The Commission is working hard to overcome these obstacles, delivering projects that promote reunification by bringing the Turkish Cypriots closer to Europe.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the likely impact of the euro circulating in the Republic of Cyprus on (a) the Turkish Cypriot economy and (b) Turkish Cypriot people and their savings; and if he will make a statement. [163126]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The UK has made no such assessment. As the application of the EU's acquis communitaire is suspended in those areas of the Republic of Cyprus in which the Government of the Republic of Cyprus does not exercise effective control, the euro will not be legal tender there. It will be the responsibility of the EU Commission to monitor the impact of the introduction of the euro. The UK continues to believe that bringing Turkish Cypriots closer to the EU will help to build economic links between Greek and Turkish Cypriots, and will make a future settlement less costly to accommodate. The UK has promoted academic research and public debate on the role the single currency might play in promoting economic integration and reunification of the island.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of the process of preparing conversion of the currency in the Republic of Cyprus to euros; and if he will make a statement. [163216]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The UK has not made any such assessment. Any such assessment would be the responsibility of the EU Commission. When the EU Council agreed on 10 July that Cyprus would be allowed to adopt the euro from 1 January 2008, it also encouraged Cyprus to continue with appropriate policies to ensure that it could make the most of the benefits of joining the euro, in particular on budgetary rigour, structural reform and maintaining the competitiveness of their economy.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what progress is being made on opening new crossing points over the green line in Cyprus, apart from Ledra Street; and if he will make a statement. [163114]

Mr. Jim Murphy: We strongly support the efforts of the UN to broker an agreement between the parties, which would permit the opening of the symbolic Ledra Street crossing, or other green line crossing points. That would constitute a significant confidence building measure. This message was reinforced in the resolution on Cyprus adopted by the UN Security Council on 15 June. Although there have been positive gestures by both sides, key issues remaining including the demarcation of the buffer zone at Ledra Street. We continue to believe that further crossing points should be opened on the basis of arrangements used at existing crossing points, and call upon all involved to extend their full co-operation to the UN.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the (a) prospects for and (b) obstacles to opening a new green line crossing point at Ledra Street, Nicosia; and if he will make a statement. [163115]

Mr. Jim Murphy: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer I gave him today (UIN 163114).

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of levels of cross-green line crime in Cyprus; and if he will make a statement. [163130]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office has made no formal assessment of the level of cross-green line crime in Cyprus. However, we remain concerned that lack of co-operation between the two sides on criminal matters provides a hospitable environment for organised criminal groups. The technical committees envisaged under the 8 July 2006 agreement would provide a forum for discussion of this issue. We continue to urge the rapid implementation of the 8 July agreement.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when the UK stopped providing data to the Republic of Cyprus authorities about movements of people from the North of Cyprus through the Sovereign Base Areas checkpoints; for what reason this stopped; and if he will make a statement. [163214]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The Sovereign Base Areas (SBAs) provide all information at their disposal on the movement of people to the Republic of Cyprus. There is practical co-operation between SBA and Republic of Cyprus officials on a daily basis, and regular meetings take place between the SBAs, Republic of Cyprus and the European Commission where information on movement of persons and goods is exchanged.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what estimate he has made of the number of Turkish Cypriots (a) resident in the south of Cyprus and (b) visiting the south on a daily basis for work; and if he will make a statement. [163215]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The Government have not estimated the number of Turkish Cypriots who reside and work in the Republic of Cyprus.

In the period 1 May 2006 to 31 April 2007, according to the EU Commission report on the Green Line Regulation, 1,348,215 Turkish Cypriots crossed from the northern part of Cyprus to the Government-controlled area. This was broken down as 812,756 in the first six months and 535,459 in the second.

We regret any reduction in contacts between the two communities. We believe that increased people-to-people contacts, and trade between the two communities and the rest of the EU, can make an important contribution to solving the Cyprus problem.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what progress is being made with the missing persons initiative in Cyprus; and if he will make a statement. [163111]

Mr. Jim Murphy: We welcome the progress of the Committee on Missing Persons since it launched its project on the Exhumation, Identification and Return of Remains of Missing Persons in August 2006. The committee carries out important humanitarian work, identifying and returning the remains of those who lost their lives during this period. The remains of 28 missing persons were returned to their families in July this year. We hope that this process will promote reconciliation between the communities.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if the Government will make available to the UN Missing Persons Committee in Cyprus the information that they hold on atrocities which result in the deaths of Greek Cypriots, Turkish Cypriots and foreign nationals between 1960 and 1974; and if he will make a statement. [163112]

Mr. Jim Murphy: Government records from this period deemed worthy of preservation are, with a few exceptions, housed at the National Archive where they are available to the public, free of charge. The Foreign and Commonwealth Office currently selects on average 40 per cent. of created files for preservation, of which less than 1 per cent. are closed or retained (unavailable to the public).

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the expected budget shortfall for the UN missing persons initiative in Cyprus is for (a) 2007-08 and (b) 2008-09; and if he will make a statement. [163123]

Mr. Jim Murphy: Any budget shortfall, as well as the budget for 2008-09, is a matter for the UN in the first instance. The UK has donated a total of £82,000 to the committee, including a contribution of £10,000 in the current financial year. By this and other means, the Foreign and Commonwealth Office has supported and encouraged the efforts of the Committee on Missing

Persons in Cyprus and the UN Mission in Cyprus to promote outside donor support for the important work of the committee, as well as continuing support from the parties in Cyprus.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what financial assistance the UK is giving to the UN missing persons initiative in Cyprus in 2007-08; and if he will make a statement. [163124]

Mr. Jim Murphy: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer I gave to him today (UIN 163123).

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when the British high commissioner for Cyprus last visited Rizokarpasso in northern Cyprus; what assessment he made of the (a) number, (b) scale and (c) reasons given for demolition of Greek Cypriot homes; what representations he made to the Turkish Cypriots; and if he will make a statement. [163110]

Mr. Jim Murphy: Our high commissioner in Nicosia last visited the Greek Cypriot community in Karpas on 22 June 2007 as part of a regular pattern of visits, which supplement the United Nations' humanitarian and monitoring activity. The issue of the demolition of Greek Cypriot homes was specifically discussed during this visit and subsequently with the Turkish Cypriot leadership. Our high commission in Nicosia continues to urge the Turkish Cypriot leadership to respect the property rights of the enclaved Greek Cypriot communities.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what reports he has received of the statement by President Gul in Northern Cyprus that the island consists of two states, two peoples and two religions; what his policy on this matter is; and if he will make a statement. [163117]

Mr. Jim Murphy: Turkey has frequently expressed its support for a settlement in Cyprus on the basis of political equality and a bizonal, bicommunal federation, negotiated through the good offices of the UN Secretary-General. Our contacts with the Turkish Government, both before and after President Gul's comments, suggest that it is still their objective.

The leaders of the two communities in Cyprus reached agreement on 8 July 2006 on steps designed to lead to a resumption of settlement negotiations. That agreement, which has the full support of the UK, the UN Security Council and the international community, has yet to be implemented. During his recent meeting with Turkish Prime Minister Erdogan, my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister underlined the importance of all parties seizing the opportunity for progress next year.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether (a) Famagusta and (b) Kyrenia meet the requirements of the 2004 International Ship and Port Facility Security Code; and if he will make a statement. [163213]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The Government have not formally assessed whether the ports of Famagusta and Kyrenia meet the requirements of the International Ship and Port Facility Security Code. The port facilities do not appear on the International Maritime Organisation's list of facilities with approved security plans.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the impact on EU trade and shipping of the Turkish embargo on Cypriot and Cyprus-associated shipping; and if he will make a statement. [163121]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The European Commission is responsible for monitoring the implementation of the acquis by Turkey and for providing evidence-based impact assessments on the accession process. The UK has made no detailed assessment of the impact on EU trade and shipping of the Turkish embargo on Cypriot and Cyprus associated shipping. However, the opening of Turkish ports to Cypriot shipping would clearly have important economic benefits for the region as a whole. The interdependence that accompanies trade, both on the island and between Cyprus and Turkey, has an important role to play in reunifying the island.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has made to Turkey on its embargo on Cypriot shipping; and if he will make a statement. [163122]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The Government regularly raise with Turkey the importance of fulfilling its obligations to the EU. My right hon. Friend the Prime Minister did so when he met the Turkish Prime Minister on 23 October. The European Commission's annual progress report on Turkey, published on 6 November—http://ec.europa.eu/enlargement/pdf/key_documents/2007/nov/turkey_progress_reportts_en.pdf)—evaluates Turkey's implementation of its obligations, including those under the Ankara Agreement Protocol.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what reports he has received of the (a) effectiveness of the bicommunal school in Limassol and (b) proposals for Turkish Cypriots resident in Limassol of a separate school for Turkish Cypriot children; and if he will make a statement. [163134]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The UK is aware that ideas for a separate school for Turkish Cypriot children in Limassol have been discussed by the two communities. This is a long-standing issue. We hope that these discussions can produce agreement on how Turkish Cypriot children in Limassol can best be educated.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what plans he has to promote progress on the July 2006 Gambari Agreement in Cyprus; what assessment he has made of the obstacles to such progress; and if he will make a statement. [163133]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The UK fully supports the 8 July 2006 process. Time is not on the side of a settlement. Following his meeting with Prime Minister Erdogan in October, my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister made clear the importance of seizing the election free window of opportunity for progress towards a settlement in 2008. In addition, we continue to urge both sides to show the flexibility necessary for the technical committees and working groups envisaged under this agreement to begin work, and to prepare the ground for fully fledged settlement negotiations as soon as possible.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what estimate he has made of the rate of building on Greek Cypriot-owned land in northern Cyprus (a) before and (b) after the rejection of the Annan plan; and if he will make a statement. [163129]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The Government have not estimated the number of properties that have been built or which are under construction in northern Cyprus. However, property development in northern Cyprus has clearly accelerated since the rejection of the Annan plan, which has resulted in the building of large numbers of new properties. The Government are concerned at the scale of such construction on Greek Cypriot-owned land in northern Cyprus. Our high commission in Nicosia regularly raises the issue of property development with the Turkish Cypriot leadership. We believe that the difficult and complex issue of property is only likely to be fully resolved in the context of a comprehensive settlement, and we urge both sides to engage constructively with the United Nations to enable settlement negotiations to start as soon as possible.

In our contacts with the Turkish Cypriot leadership, we recognise the Turkish Cypriots' need for economic development in support of reunification. But we urge them to ensure that any property development which does take place does so in a manner that is environmentally sustainable and does not complicate an eventual solution.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the ability of the Turkish Cypriot economy to comply with standards required by the EU acquis communautaire; and if he will make a statement. [163127]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The Government have not made such an assessment. The history of the EU demonstrates the power of trade to promote economic prosperity and political reconciliation. The preliminary finding of the World Bank report from 2006 on the economy in northern Cyprus was that the external constraints on access to EU markets for the Turkish Cypriot community were one of the two biggest constraints to economic development in northern Cyprus. I endorse the conclusion that the long-term welfare of all Cypriots is in jeopardy if steps are not taken to ensure the convergence of living standards on the island. That is why we remain committed to supporting the Turkish Cypriots and the EU Commission in economic and regulatory reform, particularly through the aid regulation, and to supporting the EU presidency in its efforts to find a way for the Turkish Cypriots to trade directly with the EU.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what estimate he has made of the rate of migration from Turkey to the north of Cyprus (a) before and (b) after the rejection of the Annan plan; and if he will make a statement. [163132]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The Government do not have specific data concerning the rate of migration from Turkey to the north of Cyprus before and after the rejection of the Annan plan.

However, a Turkish Cypriot census in April 2006 indicated that roughly 40 per cent. of the population of northern Cyprus is of Turkish or Turkish-mixed origin. This figure includes temporary workers and students but excludes soldiers and their families.

Pakistan: Politics and Government

Mr. MacDougall: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make a statement on the political situation in Pakistan. [169580]

Dr. Howells: I refer my hon. Friend to the reply I gave to my hon. Friend the Member for Milton Keynes, South-West (Dr. Starkey) on 12 November, Official Report, column 41W.

I welcome General Musharraf's announcement that he will hold elections on 8 January and that he has stepped down as Chief of the Army. But I urge him to lift the state of emergency, restore constitutional order and create the conditions for free and fair elections. There must be a level playing field for all political parties. We hope that Pakistan will rapidly meet the conditions which will allow its full membership of the Commonwealth to be restored.

Tibet: UN Resolutions

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps he has taken to encourage the UN to give effect to UN Resolutions 1353 and 1723 on Tibet; and if he will make a statement. [168233]

Meg Munn [holding answer 26 November 2007]: We have not made representations to the UN on UN Resolutions 1353 (1959) and 1723 (1961) on Tibet. We do, however, regularly raise our concerns on Tibet directly with the Chinese Government, including the need to respect and protect the fundamental rights and freedoms of the Tibetan people. We did this at the last round of the UK-China Human Rights Dialogue in London in February, and we continue to monitor the situation in Tibet closely.

Turkey: Foreign Relations

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the likely impact of the strategic partnership with Turkey on UK relations with (a) Greece and (b) Cyprus; and if he will make a statement. [162758]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The Republic of Cyprus and Greece have raised concerns and sought clarification about the strategic partnership document. We have reassured them that the UK remains fully committed to the reunification of the island and fully supportive of the 8 July 2006 process.

In my statement published on the Foreign and Commonwealth Office website on 31 October at http://www.fco.gov.uk/servlet/Front?pagename=OpenMarket/Xcelerate/ShowPage&c=Page&cid=1007029391629&a=KArticle&aid=1193598399882

I emphasised in the strongest terms that there is no change to our policy on the non-recognition of the so-called Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus, and that the UK's priority is progress towards reunification, as envisaged by the 8 July Agreement. My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary, following his meeting with Foreign Minister Bakoyannis on 6 November, reiterated this position.

The concerns expressed by the Republic of Cyprus and Greece show that, while we share the same strategic objective of reunifying Cyprus, there are honestly held differences of opinion on how to achieve this. We continue to discuss all such differences of opinion.

Both the Republic of Cyprus and Greece share the UK's desire of Turkish accession to the EU. Greece and the UK continue to support the 8 July process towards achieving a unified Cyprus. The UK shares many vital interests with both countries, and its bilateral relations with both countries are, as ever, very important.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs on what basis negotiations with Turkey were conducted on the Strategic Partnership Agreement in relation to those parts of the agreement that relate to undertakings on behalf of the Turkish Cypriot community in Cyprus; and if he will make a statement. [162759]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The UK/Turkey Strategic Partnership (formerly UK/ Turkey Action Plan) is a formalised dialogue which has existed between the UK and Turkey since 2004. It draws together into one high-level bilateral document the breadth of co-operation across the two Governments on a wide range of issues including climate change, trade, security, EU membership and counter-terrorism. It includes a section reiterating long-standing commitments to bring the Turkish Cypriot community closer to Europe.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assistance (a) has been given and (b) is planned to be given to Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus authorities and universities in relation to their engagement with the Bologna process as referred to in the Strategic Partnership Agreement with Turkey; and if he will make a statement. [162769]

Mr. Jim Murphy: Officials in the Foreign and Commonwealth Office are in contact with Turkish Cypriot academics on how to raise Turkish Cypriot educational standards. These contacts have sought to promote an exchange of ideas between educational establishments on practical issues. The aim is to ensure that Turkish Cypriot universities are able to maintain standards comparable with those of the institutions that are members of the Bologna process.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what consultation was undertaken with leaders of the Turkish Cypriot community over the text of the Strategic Partnership Agreement with Turkey, in so far as it refers to Turkish Cypriots; and if he will make a statement. [162770]

Mr. Jim Murphy: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer I gave him today (UIN 162759).

Leaders of the Turkish Cypriot community were not consulted over the bilateral UK/Turkey Agreement.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what action he plans to take to uphold the right to representation of Turkish Cypriots in the European Parliament as referred to in the Strategic Partnership Agreement with Turkey; and if he will make a statement. [162771]

Mr. Jim Murphy: Turkish Cypriots are European citizens. Our preferred means to enfranchise them would be a comprehensive settlement of the Cyprus problem that enables them to elect representatives to the European Parliament in the normal way. We are making every possible effort to secure that outcome. In the absence of a settlement, we welcome interest shown by Turkish Cypriots in the European Parliament and by European parliamentarians in the Turkish Cypriot community—not least as oversight and encouragement of disbursement under the Aid Regulation by the Commission. It is for the Parliament to decide precisely what mechanisms to employ. But we will urge the Council to support any such initiatives, as complementing its own efforts to bring Turkish Cypriots closer to Europe, underlining what the two communities have in common, and to help reunify the island.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what plans he has to promote direct (a) commercial, (b) economic, (c) political and (d) cultural contacts between the UK, EU and Turkish Cypriots, in accordance with the Strategic Partnership with Turkey; and if he will make a statement. [162773]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The Government fully support the EU's desire to end Turkish Cypriot isolation and facilitate the reunification of Cyprus. We believe that lifting the isolation of the Turkish Cypriots, and bringing them closer to the EU, will help to build economic and cultural links between Greek and Turkish Cypriots, and will make a future settlement less costly to accommodate. Long-standing UK policy is to put market forces at the service of a settlement and promote people-to-people contacts at all times.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what reference there is in the Strategic Partnership Agreement with Turkey to (a) building on Greek-Cypriot-owned land in Northern Cyprus, (b) migration from Turkey to Northern Cyprus, (c) the Turkish military presence in Cyprus, (d) implementation of the EU customs union agreement in Cyprus, (e) the UN process on Cyprus with particular reference to the 2006 Gambari agreement; and if he will make a statement. [162812]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The Strategic Partnership reflects the breadth of co-operation between the UK and Turkish Governments. The agreement is not, however, designed to be an exhaustive reflection of our policy on Cyprus. The document emphasises our primary goal of a comprehensive and enduring Cyprus settlement, which would address many of the issues referred to. Our policy is to continue to support the 8 July Process, which I reiterated in my 31 October statement published on the Foreign and Commonwealth Office website at http://www.fco.gov.uk/servlet/Front?pagename=OpenMarket/Xcelerate/ShowPage&c=Page&cid=1007029391629&a=KArticle&aid=1193598399882.

The Government's position remains that Turkey must implement all its obligations to the EU, including those in relation to Cyprus, such as normalisation of relations and the implementation of the Ankara Agreement Protocol.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what consultations were held with Greece as a guarantor power, prior to the signing of the strategic partnership with Turkey on 23 October 2007, in relation to the provisions relating to Cyprus and Turkish Cypriots; and if he will make a statement. [162819]

Mr. Jim Murphy: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer I gave him today (UIN 162759).

No consultations were held with Greece prior to the signing of the Strategic Partnership with Turkey.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has received from (a) Greece and (b) the Republic of Cyprus over the Strategic Partnership Agreement of 23 October; and if he will make a statement. [162820]

Mr. Jim Murphy: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer I gave him today (UIN 162758).

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he made to Turkey over the military occupation of northern Cyprus when negotiating the Strategic Partnership Agreement of 23 October; and if he will make a statement. [162821]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The UK/Turkey Strategic Partnership Agreement focuses on the long-term strategic objectives between Turkey and the UK. Regarding the presence of Turkish troops in northern Cyprus, UK Ministers have called for a goodwill gesture from Turkey in the form of a troop reduction, in order to build trust on the island.

The question of how to provide security for both communities is a central issue that will need to be addressed in the course of negotiations to achieve a comprehensive settlement. This underlines the importance of the rapid implementation of the 8 July process, to prepare the ground for fully fledged settlement negotiations.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what treaty obligations govern negotiations and other discussions concerning Cyprus between the guarantor powers, with particular reference to bilateral negotiations between two guarantor powers without the participation of the third; and if he will make a statement. [162822]

Mr. Jim Murphy: Article IV of the Treaty of Guarantee provides that Greece, Turkey and the UK will consult together in the event of a breach of the treaty.

The UK/Turkey Strategic Partnership is intended to promote reunification of the island, which is the long-standing obligation of all three guarantor powers. The UK/Turkey Agreement does not change in any way our long-term policy on the Cyprus settlement question, which is unconditional support for the implementation of the UN's 8 July 2006 agreement. Therefore it was not necessary to consult with all guarantor powers concerning Cyprus.

Venezuela

Colin Burgon: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 20 November 2007, Official Report, column 747W, on Venezuela, what assessment he has made of the (a) impartiality, (b) funding streams and (c) personnel involved in Transparency International in Venezuela. [168569]

Dr. Howells [holding answer 27 November 2007]: Globally, we consider Transparency International to be a professional and impartial organisation, doing important work. The UK is committed to combating international corruption. Like other Governments, we look at Transparency International's annual index with interest, as it raises awareness of the continued need to combat corruption both here and overseas.

We work with Governments and civil society organisations such as Transparency International on projects to combat corruption, including in Venezuela. When I discussed corruption with the Venezuelan ambassador on 26 November, I took note of his concerns about Transparency International in Venezuela. We agreed that efforts to combat the problem of corruption in Venezuela were welcome and would continue to receive the UK's support.

Zimbabwe: Politics and Government

Mr. MacDougall: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make a statement on the political situation in Zimbabwe. [168543]

Meg Munn [holding answer 26 November 2007]: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer that the Minister of State, Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, my hon. Friend the Member for Pontypridd (Dr. Howells) gave to the hon. Member for Kettering (Mr. Hollobone) on 20 November, Official Report, columns 1093-1094.

HEALTH

Autism

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what recent assessment he has made of the ability of local authorities to meet the needs of people with autism; [168509]

(2) what steps he is taking to ensure that local authority commissioners (a) demonstrate their plans to provide services to people with autism and (b) provide adequate resources to implement those plans; [168517]

(3) what assessment he has made of the ability of the service plans of local authority commissioners to meet the needs of people with autism; and if he will make a statement. [168518]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: We have not made any assessment of the ability of local authorities or the ability of the service plans of local authority commissioners to meet the needs of people with autism. It is for local authorities to manage their priorities and decide how resources should be attributed, taking into consideration locally identified needs and assessments of individuals.

As stated in the guidance on eligibility criteria for adult social care, councils have to commission services to meet the needs of people who meet the criteria under "Fair Access to Care Services—Guidance on eligibility criteria for adult social care". A copy is available in the Library. If there are gaps in services, they should be filled. For 2007-08, the Government have provided £12.5 billion for local councils in respect of adult personal social services.

In addition, "Better services for people with an autistic spectrum disorder: A note clarifying current Government policy and describing good practice" was published on 16 November 2006. It clarifies the nature and intent of existing Government policy as it relates to adults with an autistic spectrum disorder (ASD). A copy is available in the Library.

Annette Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what guidance he issues to local authorities on support for adults with an autism spectrum disorder. [169622]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: 'Better services for people with an autistic spectrum disorder: A note clarifying current Government policy and describing good practice' was published on 16 November 2006. It clarifies the nature and intent of existing Government policy as it relates to adults with an autistic spectrum disorder. A copy is available in the Library.

Care Homes: Food

Anne Main: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the average daily cost to the public purse was of food for each publicly funded patient in a nursing home in the most recent period for which figures are available. [168203]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The information requested is not collected centrally. Following the nutrition summits I held in March and July this year, the Department launched the Nutrition Action Plan on 30 October to tackle a wide range of issues and barriers to improving nutrition and nutritional care.

Childbirth

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate his Department has made of the percentage of births which did not require (a) medical and (b) significant midwifery intervention in each year since 1977; and if he will make a statement. [165442]

Ann Keen: The information requested is not available for all births in the years requested. "NHS Maternity Statistics" were first collected in 1989-90 and include the requested information for births in national health service hospitals only. The latest available data is for 2005-06. This information is available in the Library.

Consent to Medical Treatment

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 20 November 2007, Official Report, column 820W, on consent to medical treatment, which primary care trusts have put in place procedures for implementing the Mental Capacity Act 2005. [169471]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: Resources for the implementation of the Mental Capacity Act were made available to the national health service and to local authorities separately. In addition local authorities were asked to take the lead in creating local implementation networks where all local stakeholders—health, social care, voluntary and private organisations—met and planned the local implementation and the local training to be made available. We expected all primary care trusts to participate in these networks, and have no information to suggest that they have not done so.

Cumbria

Tim Farron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether his Department plans to move any of its offices to the Westmorland and Lonsdale constituency. [166565]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department has no plans to move any of its offices to the Westmorland and Lonsdale constituency.

Dental Services

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he is taking to ensure that patients are informed of their entitlement to treatment by an NHS dentist. [165279]

Ann Keen: Primary care trusts (PCTs) are responsible for ensuring that their local residents and people seeking services within their area are aware of the range of national health service services available. NHS dental services are a mainstream NHS service. Any United Kingdom resident (or visiting European Union resident under reciprocal arrangements) who is eligible for NHS care is therefore eligible for NHS dental services. PCTs' methods of promoting NHS dental services range from leaflets to targeted local advertising campaigns. Most also run dental helplines providing advice on how to access services locally. The location and other details of NHS dental practices can be accessed nationally via NHS Direct and NHS Choices or from the local PCT, often through Patient Advisory and Liaison Services.

The Department works with the local NHS continually to improve patient communication. Improving the range and depth of information available via NHS Choices (previously NHS.UK) is one part of this ongoing work. The NHS Choices website is currently being enhanced to include a central contact number for each PCT through which potential patients can access information about the availability of services in their chosen area, in addition to the existing dental query helpline and out of hours contact numbers. We expect this improvement to the existing service to be available later this year, and further improvements will follow next year. The site can be accessed at:

For those unable to access the information in this way, the information is more widely accessible through computerised information systems in libraries and other communal places. It is also anticipated that PCTs will continue to promote the availability of and entitlement to services in more traditional ways, using literature placed in other primary care premises such as general practices and pharmacies, in libraries, and in Yellow Pages wherever possible.

Dental Services: Attendance

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many missed dental appointments there were in each primary care trust area in each year since 1997. [165280]

Ann Keen: This information is not held centrally, and could be provided only at a disproportionate cost.

Dental Services: Cumbria

Mr. Jamie Reed: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many dental practices are operating in (a) Cumbria and (b) Copeland. [163013]

Ann Keen: The NHS Business Services Authority's dental services division can provide validated information on the number of NHS dental practices only at disproportionate cost.

Dentistry: Student Numbers

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many students (a) started and (b) graduated from dentistry courses in England in each year since 1997. [165281]

Ann Keen: Information for 'home fee' students is provided in the following table:

| Academic year | Admissions | Dental graduates |
|---|---|---|
| 1996-97 | 685 | 504 |
| 1997-98 | 631 | 542 |
| 1998-99 | 603 | 563 |
| 1999-2000 | 600 | 554 |
| 2000-01 | 623 | 591 |
| 2001-02 | 626 | 566 |
| 2002-03 | 665 | 524 |
| 2003-04 | 672 | 548 |
| 2004-05 | 674 | 565 |
| 2005-06 | 848 | 560 |

Departmental Accountancy

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what policy costing guidance documents were in use within his Department prior to the development of the Department's policy costing handbook, aside from the Policy Appraisal and Health document dated November 2004. [165690]

Mr. Bradshaw: Before the issuing of the Policy Costing Handbook no consolidated costing guidance documents were issued within the Department for policy branches. References to a range of other guidance which referred to costing had been provided through the Department's intranet, such as the Policy Appraisal and Health document, the Treasury's Green Book Appraisal and Evaluation in Central Government, NHS Costing Manual (for national health service reference costs) and the annual publication by the Personal Social Services Research Unit, Unit Costs of Health and Social Care.

Departmental Assets

Dr. Cable: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what departmental assets are planned to be sold in each financial year from 2007-08 to 2010-11; what the (a) description and (b) book value of each such asset is; what the expected revenue from each such sale is; and if he will make a statement. [164168]

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what departmental assets are planned to be sold in each financial year from 2007-08 to 2010-11; what the (a) description and (b) book value of each such asset is; and what the expected revenue from each such sale is. [164517]

Mr. Bradshaw: The following tables of assets in the ownership of the Secretary of State are planned to be sold during 2007-08 and are aggregated for the period 2008 to 2011 as sale dates cannot be confirmed.

The sale price has been given where a property has been sold. Where a property remains to be sold, the anticipated receipt is commercially confidential and therefore has not been provided.

Departmental Board

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the dates were of all meetings his Department's Departmental Board has held in 2007; and if he will place copies of the (a) agenda and (b) minutes of each meeting in the Library. [162249]

Mr. Bradshaw: A summary of proceedings from each scheduled meeting of the Departmental Board is published on the Department's website within three months of the meeting. The Board met on the following dates in 2007:

11 January

15 February

15 March
19 April
10 May
14 June
12 July
11 October
8 November

Proceedings available so far have been placed in the Library. Proceedings from the meetings in October and November will be placed in the Library in due course.

Departmental Manpower

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many civil servants in his Department (a) transferred to other Government Departments and (b) left the civil service in each of the last five years. [162737]

Mr. Bradshaw: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by my hon. Friend the Exchequer Secretary to the Treasury, my hon. Friend the Member for Wallasey (Angela Eagle) on 13 November 2007, Official Report, columns 203-07W.

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people aged (a) 30 to 39, (b) 40 to 49, (c) 50 to 59 and (d) 60 to 69 have (i) applied for jobs, (ii) received interviews and (iii) gained (A) temporary and (B) permanent jobs in his Department in 2007. [165110]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department does not hold age information on applicants or interviewees for temporary posts who are not appointed. We do not hold records on over-60s separately from those on over-50s. The following table presents the data available from existing records without disproportionate cost.

| Age group | Applied | Interviewed | Appointed (to permanent posts) |
|---|---|---|---|
| Internal Recruitment | | | |
| 30-39 | 104 | 72 | 20 |
| 40-49 | 102 | 73 | 12 |
| over 50 | 35 | 21 | 1 |
| External Recruitment | | | |
| 30-39 | 9 | 2 | 0 |
| 40-49 | 5 | 2 | 0 |
| over 50 | 4 | 2 | 1 |

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will place in the Library a copy of the organisational chart for staff in his Department. [165695]

Mr. Bradshaw: The current Department of Health organisational chart has been placed in the Library.

Departmental Pay

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many staff in his Department received bonus payments in each of the last five years for which information is available; what proportion of the total work force they represented; what the total amount of bonuses paid has been; what the largest single payment was in each year; and if he will make a statement. [165278]

Mr. Bradshaw: The table presents the number of staff receiving bonuses, the proportion of staff receiving bonuses (as a percentage), the total amount of bonuses paid and the largest single payment made in each year since 2004-05. Information for 2007-08 is not yet available.

The Department changed its payroll provider in 2003-04. Information on performance bonus payments prior to 2004-05 is only available from individual payslips. To retrieve information for years prior to 2004-05 would therefore incur disproportionate cost.

| | Number of staff receiving bonuses | Percentage of staff receiving bonuses | Total amount paid as bonuses (£) | Largest single payment (£) |
| 2006-07 | 420 | 18 | 1,400,049 | 22,500 |
| 2005-06 | 581 | 24 | 1,252,140 | 30,000 |
| 2004-05 | 679 | 24 | 1,064,465 | 22,500 |

Departmental Press

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much his Department has spent on newspapers, magazines and periodical subscriptions in the last 12 months. [164521]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department's library service is responsible for central purchasing of newspapers, magazines and periodicals for library use and for retention by individual units. The Department spent £276,321 on newspapers, magazines and periodical subscriptions in the last 12 months.

Departmental Standards

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health on what date he expects to publish his Department's 2007 autumn performance report. [163381]

Mr. Bradshaw: In line with HM Treasury guidelines, the Department's autumn performance report will be published by 15 December. However, the exact publication date is still to be decided.

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he expects to publish his Department's autumn performance report. [164871]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department of Health has not yet set a date for publication of its autumn performance report for 2007. However, it is our intention to publish it before the House rises for the Christmas recess.

Departments: Consultants

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which management consultancies his Department has engaged in the last 12 months, broken down by departmental directorate; and which such companies also work (a) as and (b) for providers to the NHS. [164617]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department does not collect information on contracts with management consultants in the format requested. To do so would attract disproportionate cost.

A new system will be introduced in April 2008 called SHOWA, which will be able to gather such information for the Department.

Doctors and Dentists Review Body

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health, with reference to paragraph 3.6 on page 20 of his Department's evidence to the Review Body on Doctors' and Dentists' Remuneration, how many voluntary redundancies there were over the same period, broken down into clinical and non-clinical redundancies. [163387]

Ann Keen: For the period between 1 April 2006 and 31 March 2007 there were 993 voluntary redundancies. Of these 812 (82 per cent.) were clinical and 181 (18 per cent.) were non-clinical. Only eight (0.08 per cent.) were medical voluntary redundancies.

The comparative figures for the voluntary redundancies against paragraph 3.6 are shown in the following table. These are cumulative year-to-date figures.

| Month | Clinical | Non-clinical | Total |
| 2006 | | | |
| September | 87 | 301 | 388 |
| October | 117 | 368 | 485 |
| November | 124 | 530 | 654 |
| December | 139 | 609 | 748 |
| 2007 | | | |
| January | 160 | 663 | 823 |
| February | 175 | 712 | 887 |
| March | 181 | 812 | 993 |

Doctors: Housing

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when decisions on changes to the arrangements for accommodation for junior doctors were made. [164573]

Ann Keen: The arrangements for accommodation of junior doctors changed as a result of changes in training for doctors in foundation year 1, brought about through modernising medical careers. The change means there is no longer a need for these doctors to be resident on hospital sites.

Changes to the Medical Act 1983 were made following consultation, which ended in January 2006. The Department consulted extensively on the changes to the Act between 1 October 2005 and 31 January 2006 and the legislation went through Parliament in July 2006. We have implemented the provisions at the first opportunity.

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether the Medical Act 1983 (Approved Medical Practices and Conditions of Residence) Regulations 2005 (S.I., 2005, No. 2413) applies to foundation year (a) 1 and (b) 2 junior doctors. [164582]

Ann Keen: The Medical Act 1983 (Approved Medical Practices and Conditions of Residence) Regulations 2005 lapsed from 1 August 2007. Therefore, the 2005 Regulations are no longer in force.

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what guidance he has given to NHS trusts on charging junior doctors for hospital-owned accommodation. [164583]

Ann Keen: Guidance already exists within the terms and conditions of employment for junior doctors on the application of charges for accommodation provided through hospital channels. It was not considered necessary to issue further guidance for doctors already covered by existing contractual provisions as the change to the Medical Act did not alter their situation in respect of tax or rental charges.

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what consultation he has had with junior doctors on the removal of the statutory responsibility of trusts to require junior doctors to reside on site. [164587]

Ann Keen: The Medical Act 1983 made it a requirement of provisional registration with the General Medical Council for junior doctors to live in accommodation supplied by the hospital or conveniently nearby to where he was employed. The Department held meetings on the provision of accommodation with the Junior Doctors Committee in March 2004, August 2004 and March 2005 prior to the consultation on the changes to the law between October 2005 and January 2006.

Emergency Calls: Ambulance Services

Mr. Boris Johnson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the average time taken to respond to an emergency telephone call by the ambulance service was in (a) England, (b) London and (c) each London borough in each year since 1997. [166941]

Mr. Bradshaw: The information requested is not collected centrally.

The ambulance response time data that are collected, and which include the number of emergency calls received by ambulance trusts across England and their performances against the targets set, are published annually. The latest statistical bulletin, 'Ambulance Services, England, 2006-07' was published in June 2007. A copy is available in the Library.

Eyesight: Testing

Mr. Jamie Reed: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many children under the age of 16 years have received free NHS eye tests in (a) Cumbria and (b) Copeland in the last five years. [163016]

Ann Keen: Information on children aged 15 or under receiving free national health service sight tests will be available at primary care trust level in the publication 'General Ophthalmic Services: Activity Statistics for England and Wales: April to September 2007'. This will be published by March 2008.

General Practitioners: Private Sector

Ben Chapman: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the extent of private companies' co-operation with general practitioners on service configuration. [169196]

Ann Keen: None. Proposals for the reconfiguration of services are a matter for the national health service locally, working in conjunction with clinicians, patients and other stakeholders.

Ben Chapman: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what his policy is on the engagement of general practitioners in private healthcare facilities; and if he will make a statement. [169197]

Mr. Bradshaw: It is a personal matter for general practitioners and private providers of healthcare facilities to determine their contractual arrangements in delivery of non-national health service services.

Health Services: Foreigners

David T.C. Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the amount spent by the NHS each year on providing NHS outpatient care for non-EU citizens. [168135]

Dawn Primarolo: It is not possible to provide the information requested. Successive Governments have not required the national health service to provide statistics on the number of foreign nationals seen, treated or charged under the provisions of the National Health Service (Charges to Overseas Visitors) Regulations 1989, as amended, nor any costs involved.

Health Services: Immigrants

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what (a) health and (b) financial impact assessments he has made of charging refused asylum seekers or other undocumented migrants for NHS care; and if he will make a statement. [167762]

Dawn Primarolo: Charging refused asylum seekers and other undocumented migrants for national health service hospital treatment has been in place for over 18 years. In conjunction with the Home Office, the Department is currently reviewing access by foreign nationals to NHS healthcare. The review is looking at a range of asylum and immigration issues as well as public health and humanitarian concerns.

Charging overseas visitors for hospital treatment is not merely about the protection of scarce NHS resources. Equally important is the protection of the principle that the NHS exists primarily for those people who are living on a legal and settled basis in the United Kingdom, not those who are not.

Hearing Impaired: Health Services

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people are waiting for hearing tests in (a) England, (b) West Yorkshire, (c) Hemsworth constituency, (d) Mid Yorkshire Hospitals NHS Trust and (e) Pontefract Primary Care Trust; what steps are being taken to reduce the numbers of people waiting; and if he will make a statement. [167920]

Waits for audiology assessments in requested organisations—September 2007

| Organisation/area | Audiology assessments: total waiting | Audiology assessments: number waiting 6+ weeks | Audiology assessments: number waiting 13+ weeks | Audiology assessments: number waiting 26+ weeks |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Provider—Mid Yorkshire Hospitals NHS Trust | 36 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Commissioner—Wakefield PCT | 32 | 6 | 4 | 2 |
| Yorkshire and the Humber SHA | 7,684 | 5,485 | 4,654 | 3,674 |
| England—Commissioner level | 91,349 | 59,415 | 42,542 | 30,384 |

Notes:
1. Only information on audiological assessments is collected. Audiology assessments include hearing tests, which cannot be separately identified.
2. Pontefract has no primary care trust (PCT) but is part of Wakefield PCT.

Diagnostic Monthly Monitoring (DM01)

As part of the process to address the challenges in audiology services the Department, working with key stakeholders, developed the national audiology framework, 'Improving Access to Audiology Services in England', which was published in March 2007. Since the publication of the framework a number of key steps have already been implemented; we have improved the data on audiology by collecting monthly data of all audiology assessments together with a quarterly census of waits for all diagnostic tests, including audiology. We are also currently piloting the collection of referral to treatment times for all direct access referrals into audiology. A good practice guide was published in June 2007 that includes model pathways for the delivery of care. An audiology advisory board has been created to support the implementation and to review progress on the key deliverables. Progress has been made on testing the new assess-and-fit technology which enables a hearing aid to be fitted on the same day as assessment. Work has also begun on the Audiology Transformation Project, which is aimed at ensuring the good practice guidance can be fully implemented and the potential gains in capacity realised.

The strategic health authorities have provided assurance that their activity plans for 2007-08 aim to deliver the six-week maximum wait for all diagnostic tests, including audiology assessments, by March 2008.

With regard to the local position, a new joint £3 million investment from Wakefield District PCT and Kirklees PCT has enabled the Mid Yorkshire Hospitals NHS Trust to cut the waiting times for digital hearing aid assessment to six weeks. The investment has been used to fund additional staff for extra clinics at the Mid Yorkshire Hospitals Trust and also to offer further services in the community. This means that more patients are being seen, and are having their digital hearing aids fitted as soon as possible, with the majority of patients having aids fitted within 12 weeks.

HIV Infection

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the number of people in the UK who had HIV (a) at the latest date for which figures are available and (b) in each of the previous five years. [169515]

Dawn Primarolo: The information available is shown in the table.

Estimated number of adults (aged 15-59) living with HIV (both diagnosed and undiagnosed) in the UK between 2001 and 2006

| | Estimate |
| 2006[1] | 69,400 |
| 2005 | 63,500 |
| 2004 | 58,300 |
| 2003[2] | 53,000 |
| 2002 | 49,500 |
| 2001 | 41,200 |

[1] From 2004 to 2006, estimates exclude individuals aged 15-59 living with HIV who were infected through blood, tissue or blood products (466 in 2006) or through mother-to-infant transmission (233 in 2006) because the proportion undiagnosed cannot be reliably estimated for these prevention groups. Numbers diagnosed include individuals with unknown exposure, allocated to each category according to the distribution of those with known exposure. These estimates (rounded to the nearest 100) with credible ranges were estimated using Multi-parameter Evidence Synthesis, in an extension of the method described in Goubar A et al. www.hpa.org.uk/infections/topics_az/hiv_and_sti/publications/cesaHPAreport.pdf.
This methodology combines data from a number of sources such as the "Annual survey of HIV-infected persons accessing care, Unlinked anonymous surveillance, NATSAL 2000, ICH National Study of HIV in Pregnancy and Childhood."
[2] From 2001 to 2003, no range is available for these estimates. Numbers diagnosed were adjusted for under-reporting and failure to access services. Numbers undiagnosed derived for England, Wales and Scotland using data from Natsal 2000 and the Unlinked Anonymous programme in an extension of the method previously described (Petruckevitch et al. "Genitourinary Medicine 1997; 73:348-54"). Numbers undiagnosed for Northern Ireland derived by using exposure specific factors. All cases infected through blood and blood products or tissue were assumed to be diagnosed.
[3] Published estimates prior to 2005 only include persons aged 15-59. The methodology for calculating these estimates changed between 2003 and 2004 (although the key data sources were the same).

HIV Infection: Death

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people in the UK died from AIDS in each of the last five years; and how many in each year were under the age of 25. [169517]

Number of deaths among HIV-infected individuals in the United Kingdom 2002-06 by year of death and age at death[1]

| Age at death | 2002 | 2003 | 2004 | 2005 | 2006 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| < 25 years | 13 | 12 | 12 | 8 | 18 |
| > 25 years | 507 | 560 | 484 | 531 | 479 |
| Total | 520 | 572 | 496 | 539 | 497 |

[1] Includes all deaths in HIV-infected as it is presently not possible to assign deaths by primary cause and an individual may have several causes of death which can be difficult to interpret.
Notes:
1. Data in the table include reports received by the end of June 2007. Numbers will rise as further reports are received.
2. Deaths are reported by region of death; the individual may have been infected and diagnosed with HIV elsewhere in the UK or abroad. Region of death is not reported in all cases.
Source:
Health Protection Agency.

HIV Infection: Young People

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people in the UK under the age of 25 were diagnosed with HIV in each of the last five years. [169518]

HIV diagnoses in the United Kingdom among individuals aged less than 25 years at diagnosis, by year of HIV diagnosis

| | Number |
|---|---|
| 2002 | 796 |
| 2003 | 965 |
| 2004 | 1,019 |

HIV diagnoses in the United Kingdom among individuals aged less than 25 years at diagnosis, by year of HIV diagnosis

| | Number |
|---|---|
| 2006[1] | 860 |

[1] Cumulative data reported by the end of June 2007. Numbers will rise as further reports are received.

Note:
The data includes many individuals who have been infected with HIV outside the UK but who have been subsequently diagnosed in the UK.

Source:
Health Protection Agency.

Home Visits: Subsistence Allowances

Mr. Walker: To ask the Secretary of State for Health in what year the 40p per mile payment was introduced for NHS clinical staff who use their own cars for patient visits; and if he will increase this payment. [169522]

Ann Keen: The current mileage allowances for national health service staff employed on national conditions of service including the 40p per mile were introduced in July 2000.

The rates are set by the NHS Staff Council.

Hospitals: Cleaning Services

Mr. Jamie Reed: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what progress is being made on plans to deep-clean hospitals. [163015]

Ann Keen: As the Prime Minister announced in September, deep cleaning will occur in all hospitals, starting this winter, with resources allocated through the strategic health authorities (SHAs).

A letter from the Chief Nursing Officer and Director General of National Health Service Finance, Performance and Operations was sent to the NHS on 1 November giving instructions on the various measures targeting healthcare-associated infections, including deep cleaning.

Each trust's deep-clean plan will vary according to local need. Trusts will agree costed deep-clean plans with their lead commissioners and SHA, who will monitor performance against this plan, as per normal performance management arrangements. Foundation trusts will also be invited to agree plans and funding for additional deep cleaning with local commissioners, together with local arrangements for checking the agreed work has been carried out. SHAs will take an overview as to progress across their area and will report to the Department.

I refer my hon. Friend to the written ministerial statement on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 134WS.

Hospitals: Food

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the average spending per meal on hospital food was in each financial year since 1997-98 for which figures are available. [162238]

Ann Keen: The information requested is in the following table. Data was not collected before 2001-02.

| | Average amount spent per patient main meal (£) |
|---|---|
| 2001-02 | 2.19 |
| 2002-03 | 2.41 |
| 2003-04 | 2.37 |
| 2004-05 | 2.60 |
| 2005-06 | 2.65 |
| 2006-07 | 2.83 |

In-patients are expected to receive three main meals per day. The spend includes the cost of provisions and staff costs. The data are collected from the national health service. Since 2004-05 the data provided has not been collected on a mandatory basis and therefore will not be complete.

Hospitals: Hygiene

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the likely effect of compulsory ward inspections on (a) hygiene standards and (b) infection rates in hospitals. [163405]

Ann Keen: The Healthcare Commission is currently carrying out spot checks of 120 trusts and, from next year, the commission will be undertaking annual specialist inspections of all acute trusts. It will be for the Healthcare Commission to decide how detailed an inspection is required in any individual case and inspections are likely to vary in depth, with the greatest focus being on those trusts giving rise to the greatest concern.

The Healthcare Commission has the power to issue improvement notices where it finds material failures to comply with the statutory code of practice for the prevention and control of healthcare-associated infections, in order to ensure that such failings are remedied.

As these inspections will be in place, the Department considers that compulsory ward inspections would duplicate activity.

Hospitals: Infectious Diseases

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many cases of (a) methicillin-resistant staphylococcus aureus, (b) vancomycin-intermediate staphylococcus aureus, (c) clostridium difficile-associated diarrhoea, (d) vancomycin-resistant staphylococcus aureus and (e) glycopeptide-resistant enterococci were recorded in each hospital in England in each of the last five years; and if he will make a statement. [163401]

Ann Keen: From April 2001 all national health service acute trusts in England were required to report all cases of methicillin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA) bloodstream infections under the mandatory surveillance scheme run by the Health Protection Agency (HPA). The latest data for each trust for the quarter from April to June 2007 and for each 12 month period from April 2001 to March 2007 are available (table 3 and table 5 respectively) at www.hpa.org.uk/infections/topics_az/hai/Mandatory_Results.htm

Data are not collected for vancomycin-intermediates Staphylococcus aureus or vancomycin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus under the mandatory surveillance scheme. However, the Staphylococcal Reference and Antibiotic Resistance Monitoring Laboratory (ARMRL), the national reference laboratory responsible for the detection and investigation of antibiotic resistance, has screened over 50,000 MRSA isolates for resistance to vancomycin in the past 10 years. Of these, the ARMRL has confirmed two isolates of vancomycin-intermediate Staphylococcus aureus. The ARMRL has not confirmed any isolates of vancomycin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus.

Information is also available by acute NHS trust for England for Clostridium difficile infection under the mandatory surveillance scheme from January 2004 in people aged 65 years and over. The latest data for the first two quarters of 2007 and data for 2004, 2005 and 2006 are available at (table 1 and table 2 respectively)

www.hpa.org.uk/infections/topics_az/hai/Mandatory_Results.htm

The HPA also collects acute trust data on Glycopeptide-resistant enterococci blood stream infections in England from October 2003. Data for each 12 month period from October 2003 to September 2006 were published in July 2007 at:

www.hpa.org.uk/infections/topics_az/enterococci/mandatory_surveillance.htm

Ms Abbott: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the effect on the level of hospital-acquired infections of the widespread introduction of subcontracting in hospital cleaning; and if he will make a statement. [164412]

Ann Keen: Mandatory surveillance of health care associated infections was not introduced until 2001 but prevalence surveys of health care associated infections were undertaken in 1980, 1993 and 2006. There has been little change in the prevalence of hospital acquired infections overall over the last 20 years.

The Conservative Government introduced compulsory competitive tendering in 1983, requiring the national health service to market-test domestic cleaning, catering, and linen and laundry services on a regular basis. This Government lifted that requirement in 2000, and trusts must now benchmark their services before deciding whether to market-test.

Current guidance on contracting for cleaning makes it clear that quality must be considered alongside cost in decisions on how to provide cleaning services. Recent information suggests that there is currently no difference between in-house and outsourced cleaning in terms of standards and outcomes.

Immigration Status of Employees

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the Prime Minister's answer of 14 November 2007, Official Report, columns 657-8, on the immigration status of employees, what steps his Department has taken to establish the immigration status of its employees since the Security Industry Authority wrote to employers in August on security checks. [166103]

Mr. Bradshaw: We apply the baseline security checks, which include a nationality check, to all employees on entry to this Department; this forms part of our standard recruitment process and is applied to permanent, fixed-term and casual employees.

Incontinence

Mr. Allen: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when the Under-Secretary of State for Health, the hon. Member for Brentford and Isleworth (Ann Keen) will meet the hon. Member for Nottingham North to discuss the issues relating to incontinence arising from the Westminster Hall debate on 24th October 2007, Official Report, columns 93-100WH. [163630]

Ann Keen: The Under-Secretary of State for Health has now arranged a meeting with my hon. Friend to discuss issues relating to incontinence on Wednesday 5 December.

Influenza

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what quantity of influenza vaccine the Government's scientific advisers have recommended should be stockpiled; and what quantity of influenza vaccine has been stockpiled. [167409]

Dawn Primarolo: The Government have already stockpiled 3.3 million doses of H5N1 vaccine. The science underpinning the further development and potential use of pre-pandemic vaccine, including the range of options for the size of any future stockpile, has been reviewed by United Kingdom and other international experts. Their conclusions are available on the Department's website at www.advisorybodies.doh.gov.uk/sagpf/minutes/sag-modelling-summary-nov2007.pdf

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the expenditure on the seasonal influenza immunisation programme, broken down by major cost area. [166383]

Dawn Primarolo: The major costs of the flu immunisation programme for England are estimated to be as follows:

| | £ million |
|---|---|
| Vaccine cost reimbursement | 54 |
| Item of service payment | 67 |
| Personal administration fee | 21 |

These estimates are based on last year's costs. The costs do not take into account any locally-funded initiatives, or incentives via the Quality Outcomes Framework.

Malnutrition

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what proportion of finished episodes of care with a primary diagnosis of (a) coronary heart disease, (b) stroke and transient ischaemic attack, (c) diabetes, (d) chronic obstructive pulmonary disorder, (e) cancer, (f) dementia, (g) depression and (h) chronic kidney disease had a secondary diagnosis of malnutrition or nutritional anaemias in each year since 1997-98. [164603]

Ann Keen: The following table shows a count of finished consultant episodes where the primary diagnosis was either coronary heart disease, stroke and ischaemic attack, diabetes, chronic obstructive pulmonary disorder, cancer, dementia, depression or chronic kidney disease and the proportion of these which also had a secondary diagnosis of malnutrition or nutritional anaemia, in each year since 1997-98 to 2005-06 (the latest data available).

NHS hospitals, England

| | Finished consultant episodes where the primary diagnosis is either coronary heart disease, stroke and ischaemic attack, diabetes, chronic obstructive pulmonary disorder, cancer, dementia, depression or chronic kidney disease. | Finished consultant episodes where the primary diagnosis is either coronary heart disease, stroke and ischaemic attack, diabetes, chronic obstructive pulmonary disorder, cancer, dementia, depression or chronic kidney disease and the secondary diagnosis is malnutrition or nutritional anaemia. | Percentage of finished consultant episodes where the primary diagnosis is either coronary heart disease, stroke and ischaemic attack, diabetes, chronic obstructive pulmonary disorder, cancer, dementia, depression or chronic kidney disease, that had a secondary diagnosis of either malnutrition or nutritional anaemia. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2005-06 | 2,234,947 | 18,552 | 0.83 |
| 2004-05 | 2,131,758 | 16,422 | 0.77 |
| 2003-04 | 2,076,479 | 14,640 | 0.71 |
| 2002-03 | 2,011,836 | 13,364 | 0.66 |
| 2001-02 | 1,947,016 | 11,445 | 0.59 |
| 2000-01 | 1,929,903 | 10,301 | 0.53 |
| 1999-2000 | 1,930,793 | 9,865 | 0.51 |
| 1998-99 | 1,834,918 | 9,740 | 0.53 |
| 1997-98 | 1,742,749 | 9,381 | 0.54 |

Notes:
1. Diagnosis (Primary Diagnosis)
The primary diagnosis is the first of up to 14 (seven prior to 2002-03) diagnosis fields in the HES data set and provides the main reason why the patient was in hospital.
2. Secondary Diagnoses
As well as the primary diagnosis, there are up to 13 (six prior to 2002-03) secondary diagnosis fields in HES that show other diagnoses relevant to the episode of care.
3. Finished Consultant Episode (FCE)
A FCE is defined as a period of admitted patient care under one consultant within one health care provider. The figures do not represent the number of patients, as a person may have more than one episode of care within the year.
4. Ungrossed Data
Figures have not been adjusted for shortfalls in data (i.e. the data are ungrossed).
5. Assessing growth through time
HES figures are available from 1989-90 onwards. During the years that these records have been collected by the national health service there have been ongoing improvements in quality and coverage. These improvements in information submitted by the NHS have been particularly marked in the earlier years and need to be borne in mind when analysing time series. Changes in NHS practice also need to be borne in mind when analysing time series. For example a number of procedures may now be undertaken in outpatient settings and may no longer be accounted in the HES data. This may account for any reductions in activity over time.

Mentally Ill: Deaths

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many deaths of patients have occurred in mental health institutions over the last five years. [163929]

Mr. Ivan Lewis [holding answer 13 November 2007]: Information on the total number of in-patient deaths in national health service mental health accommodation in England from 2001-02 to 2005-06 is shown in the following table.

Total number of in-patient deaths in NHS acute hospitals and other NHS accommodation in England from 2001-02 to 2005-06

|---|---|
| 2001-02 | 2,970 |
| 2002-03 | 2,920 |
| 2003-04 | 2,660 |
| 2004-05 | 2,490 |
| 2005-06 | 1,980 |

Notes:
1. Data refer to all male and female deaths, for all age groups and from all causes.
2. Ungrossed data: the figures have not been adjusted for shortfalls in data.

Mid Yorkshire Hospitals NHS Trust: Finance

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will place in the Library a copy of the recent report by PricewaterhouseCoopers to his Department on the Mid Yorkshire Hospitals NHS Trust's financial position. [163391]

Ann Keen: The Department introduced a new working capital loans system in 2006-07. As a result, there were 17 NHS trusts that could not afford to meet the repayments within a reasonable timescale. Mid Yorkshire Hospitals NHS Trust was one of these trusts.

As announced in our quarter 4 NHS financial performance report 2006-07, the Department, along with SHAs, is working through a review process with these trusts to identify long-term solutions in these areas.

PricewaterhouseCoopers was commissioned to carry out the review at Mid Yorkshire Hospitals NHS Trust. The Department is considering this report, along with the reports relating to other trusts in the financially challenged trust regime, in relation to current policy formation and development.

With this in mind we are currently applying section 36 of the Freedom of Information Act to the report, as the information would be likely to inhibit free and frank provision of advice and the free and frank exchange of views for the purposes of deliberations.

The results of this review process are being discussed with the strategic health authorities and solutions are being prepared in the context of the operating framework for 2008-09.

Midwives

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many registered midwives were not practising in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [165443]

Ann Keen: This information is not collected centrally. However, the annual work force census on 31 September 2006 showed there were 24,469 qualified midwives working in the NHS in England, an increase of 2,084 (9 per cent.) since 1997.

Milton Keynes Hospital: Maternity Services

Mr. Lancaster: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many midwives worked in Milton Keynes hospital in each month of the last three years. [168046]

Mr. Ivan Lewis [holding answer 26 November 2007]: This is a matter for the chair of Milton Keynes Hospital National Health Service Foundation Trust. I have written to Mike Rowlands informing him of the hon. Member's inquiry. He will reply shortly and a copy of the letter will be placed in the Library.

NHS: Complaints

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many complaints were made about services at each NHS trust in each of the last three years; and how many such cases resulted in litigation. [165276]

Ann Keen: The information requested has been placed in the Library. It details the number of written complaints about hospital and community services received by each individual national health services trust in 2004-05, 2005-06, and 2006-07.

There is no direct causal link between cases of litigation and complaints, as it is possible to pursue litigation without first lodging a formal complaint; and aggregated information on litigation cases is held separately by the NHS Litigation Authority. There are therefore no data available on how many individual litigation cases begin as complaints. Data on number of litigation cases in 2004-05, 2005-06, and 2006-07 are set out in the following table.

| | CNST | Existing Liability Scheme (ELS) | Ex-regional health authorities (Ex-RHAs) | Total |
| 2004-05 | 5,273 | 329 | 7 | 5,609 |
| 2005-06 | 5,427 | 270 | 0 | 5,697 |
| 2006-07 | 5,280 | 146 | 0 | 5,426 |

Note:
CNST is for clinical negligence incidents from 1 April 1995, ELS for clinical negligence pre 1 April 1995, and Ex-RHA is for liabilities relating to the Ex-RHAs. The number of claims relates to the year a claim is made, not the year the incident occurred.

NHS: Finance

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will place in the Library copies of the recovery plans agreed by strategic health authorities for all trusts that were in deficit at the end of 2006-07. [163369]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department manages the financial performance of the national health service through strategic health authorities (SHAs). National health service organisations that overspend are required to develop recovery plans to demonstrate how they will return to financial balance. Recovery plans are agreed and managed by SHAs, so the information requested is not held by the Department.

NHS: Internet

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what patient involvement there has been in the design of the NHS Choices website. [166372]

Mr. Bradshaw: NHS Choices has carried out extensive engagement with patients, voluntary groups and professional bodies on the design of the NHS Choices website. This engagement is integral to the development of the site and will continue as NHS Choices evolves.

NHS Choices is a service aimed at all those interested in health information and services, including patients. An extensive programme of qualitative and quantitative user research and testing has been completed to inform the design of the service both pre and post launch. This type of research has informed, and will continue to inform, the evolution of the site's products and design.

Pre-launch (NHS Choices was launched in June 2007) a series of workshops were conducted with members of the public, general practitioners (GPs), health service workers, and voluntary and public-sector intermediaries designed to test the service vision. NHS Choices also carried out tactical 'scorecard' and 'naming' research among groups of C2DE internet users.

Post-launch, three learning forums have been used to test the live site, site propositions and design and content prototypes with groups of internet users drawn from all ages, genders and ethnic groups. Each session comprises of four groups, and lessons from these groups have been feeding into service development for subsequent releases.

A representative survey of general practices in England has also been conducted to benchmark awareness and usage of the site, provide a broad site evaluation and test various service propositions. In addition, qualitative research has been used with GPs to understand in greater detail their engagement as clinicians with the site, and again to test further developed service propositions.

To engage with national health service staff, 10 road shows have been conducted across the country. This engaged more than 500 NHS staff from trusts to primary care trust and practice managers.

Product development has also involved a high level of engagement. The site's new GP profiles are designed around a three-year research programme by Manchester university, a pilot by the National Programme for Information Technology and extensive negotiations with the British Medical Association, Royal College of the General Practitioners and other professional bodies. New services piloted across the country are also being evaluated with users, such as the qualitative research in Derby with young people to inform smoking cessation and physical health services.

Further qualitative research is planned with young mothers and with those with long-term health conditions and their carers to specifically test proposed products such as NHS LifeCheck and condition pathways. NHS Choices' customer insight team are also about to conduct an on-line survey with GPs to further test 'score-card' content and GP service engagement.

NHS Choices will soon be scheduling on-line surveys with public users (some with long-term health conditions) and continuing to provide qualitative or quantitative research to address product development needs. A nationwide survey of pharmacists will be conducted in the near future to benchmark their awareness and usage of the service as well as their broader evaluation of the service.

The Department is also carrying out a nationwide quantitative survey by the Central Office of Information and Market and Opinion Research International benchmarking usage awareness of the service among the public as well as health information and service behaviours via the internet.

NHS Choices has also worked with the Royal National Institute of Blind People to carry out an accessibility assessment on the site.

NHS: Public Appointments

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what criteria are used by the NHS Appointments Commission in evaluating the suitability of candidates for the position of chair of NHS hospital trusts. [164898]

Ann Keen: The Appointments Commission is directed by the Secretary of State for Health to appoint people to NHS boards with a range of skills and experience including those with a strong community service and/or voluntary sector background. Appointments are made on the overriding principle merit and in an open and transparent way. The current criteria used are as follows.

Qualities required to be an NHS trust chair

Candidates will need to demonstrate that they have the necessary experience, and will need to show that they have:

experience of leading an organisation with a significant budget and of comparable complexity;

a considerable reputation within their field whether public, private or voluntary sector;

a portfolio of high level governance and organisational skills including strategic planning, financial management, risk management, organisation performance management and service development in a regulated environment; and experience of building alliances and working relationships with a range of stakeholders.

Preference will be given to candidates who live in the area served by the organisation but specific eligibility criteria may apply.

Candidates who are shortlisted for interview will need to show that they have the competencies required to be effective in this demanding leadership role. They are

Patient and community focus—high level of commitment to patients, carers and the community and to tackling health inequalities in disadvantaged groups;

Self belief and drive—the motivation to improve NHS performance and the confidence to take on challenges;

Intellectual flexibility—the ability to be creative, make sense of complexity and clarify it for other people;

Strategic direction—the ability to develop a clear vision and enthuse others;

Holding to account—the willingness to be held to account for board performance and the ability to hold the chief executive and non-executives to account;

Team working—the ability to take on a personal leadership role and build an effective team;

Effective influencing and communication—a high level of ability to gain support and influence, political acumen.

Prescription Drugs: Side Effects

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many patients in England (a) were admitted to hospital and (b) died because of a negative reaction to prescription drugs in each of the last three years. [167921]

Dawn Primarolo: Reports of suspected adverse drug reactions (ADRs) are collected by the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA) and the Commission for Human Medicines (CHM) through the spontaneous reporting scheme, the yellow card scheme. Approximately 20,000 reports of ADRs are reported to the MHRA/CHM through this scheme each year. The scheme collects ADR reports from across the whole United Kingdom and includes all medicines, including those from prescriptions, over-the-counter or general retail sales. Reports are also received for herbal medicines and other unlicensed medicines.

The following table shows the number of UK suspected ADR reports received by the MHRA between 2004 and 2006 which have: had a fatal outcome; or resulted in or prolonged hospitalisation.

| Year received by MHRA | Number of UK suspected ADR reports received which resulted in or prolonged hospitalisation | Number of UK suspected ADR reports received with a fatal outcome | Number of UK suspected ADR reports received which resulted in or prolonged hospitalisation and had a fatal outcome |
| 2005 | 4,579 | 1,021 | 220 |
| 2006 | 4,635 | 964 | 203 |

It is not possible to estimate from the yellow card scheme the number of people who suffer adverse reactions to drugs since the scheme is associated with an unknown level of under-reporting. In addition, it is important to note that the submission of a suspected ADR report does not necessarily mean that it was caused by the drug. Many factors have to be taken into account in assessing causal relationships including temporal association, the possible contribution of concomitant medication and the underlying disease.

Occupational Health: Private Sector

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate his Department has made of the cost to a private employer of a specialist nurse visit. [163869]

Ann Keen: No estimate has been made centrally. It is for local trusts to determine the cost of providing a national health service employee to a private employer.

St Helier Hospital: Maternity Services

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much was spent on the provision of maternity services at St Helier hospital, Surrey in each of the last 10 years for which figures are available. [164055]

Dawn Primarolo: This information is not held centrally by the Department. It is for the local national health service to decide on the provision of maternity services based on the needs of the local population.

Telford and Wrekin Primary Care Trust: Bowel Cancer

David Wright: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when the national bowel cancer screening programme will be implemented in the Telford and Wrekin primary care trust area. [165190]

Ann Keen: The National Health Service bowel cancer screening programme is one of the first national bowel screening programmes in the world, and the first cancer screening programme in England to invite men as well as women. It is an ambitious project, with national roll-out of the programme expected by December 2009, with all people in the age range receiving an invitation by 2011. Implementation in the Telford and Wrekin area will occur on a phased basis from 2008-09. The provision of local health services is the responsibility of the local NHS organisations in conjunction with their strategic health authorities.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Afghanistan: Reconstruction

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development pursuant to the answer of 19 November 2007, Official Report, column 551W, on Afghanistan: reconstruction, what progress has been made towards meeting the benchmarks of the Afghanistan Compact. [168385]

Mr. Malik: The latest full reporting against all 43 benchmarks outlined in the Afghan Compact by the Joint Co-ordination and Monitoring Board (JCMB) took place on 1 May 2007 with JCMB V. The next full report against all benchmarks will be at JCMB VII, currently planned to be held on 6 February 2008 in Japan.

JCMB VI recently reported that of the 12 short-life benchmarks due to be completed before 2011, the majority have been achieved or are on schedule. Benchmark 1.4, Disbandment of Illegal Armed Groups, was extended to March 2011 based on the presentation of a roadmap to it in line with the timeline for the development of security sector reform initiatives, including the development of the Afghan National Army and Afghan National Police. Difficulties with achieving the following benchmarks were highlighted at JCMB VI: mine action (1.6), CSO baseline statistics (2.3.2), minerals regulations (3.4) and banking (8.4).

A full history and list of progress against all benchmarks can be found online at www.ands.gov.af

Basra Development Commission: Standards

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what progress the Basra Development Commission has made against its objectives since its launch; and if he will make a statement. [168339]

Mr. Malik: Prime Minister Gordon Brown and Iraqi Deputy Prime Minister Barham Saleh met in Baghdad in October 2007 and agreed that the UK would help establish a development commission in Basra to promote private sector growth. The Basra Development Commission will provide the strategic advice and vision to help kick-start Basra's economy.

Since October, the UK-led Provincial Reconstruction Team (PRT) in Basra has been working with the provincial council to develop the Commission's role and identify potential commissioners from Iraq, the region and internationally, including from the UK. It is expected that, following inauguration later this month, appointed officials and commissioners will develop detailed objectives and that the Commission will be fully functioning by March 2008.

Departmental Data Protection

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many requests his Department received from the National Audit Office for access to databases containing personal information on members of the general public in each year since 1997. [168972]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what provisions his Department has in place to ensure that databases containing personal information on members of the general public are not accessed (a) by unauthorised staff and (b) by authorised staff for unauthorised purposes; [168980]

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development (1) how many breaches of data protection security there were in his Department in each of the last five years; and if he will provide details of each breach; [168836]

(2) on how many occasions the Information Commissioner was contacted by his Department to report breaches of data protection security in each of the last five years; [168810]

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what procedures are in place in his Department to ensure that personal information relating to members of the public is (a) stored and (b) transported securely. [168473]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and Agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many times electronic databases in his Department containing personal information on members of the public were accessed in each month of each of the last five years. [168990]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many staff at each grade in his Department have access to electronic databases which contain personal information on members of the public. [168991]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many breaches of personal data security there were in his Department in each year since 1997. [168992]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development when each electronic database in his Department which contains personal data was created. [168993]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many electronic databases his Department has which contain the (a) names, (b) addresses, (c) bank details and (d) other personal information of members of the public. [168994]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development whether he proposes to review how his Department transports data; and whether his Department uses TNT to transport data. [169220]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Mr. Rob Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many breaches of the Data Protection Act 1998 requiring investigation there have been in the last five years in his Department; what the nature of such breaches was; and what the results of the investigations were in each case. [169256]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many confirmed data security breaches there have been in his Department in the last 36 months; and what action was taken after each occurrence. [170249]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Developing Countries: Overseas Aid

Mr. Lancaster: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development when he plans to publish the development effectiveness summaries for key multilateral partners on his Department's website. [169311]

Mr. Malik: We plan to publish multilateral development effectiveness summaries covering 15 institutions on the DFID website on 3 December.

Fairtrade Foundation: Finance

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how much his Department allocated to the Fairtrade Foundation in each of the last five years; how much will be given in 2008-09; and if he will make a statement. [168391]

Mr. Thomas: In each of the last five years we have given the following funding to the Fairtrade Foundation:

|---|---|
| 2003-04 | 240,695 |
| 2004-05 | 230,478 |
| 2005-06 | 264,169 |
| 2006-07 | 296,795 |
| 2007-08 | 135,583 |

We are currently discussing future funding with the UK Fairtrade Foundation and its international partner, Fairtrade Labelling Organisations International (FLO). At the request of FLO, we have agreed to give interim funding to the Fairtrade Foundation for the next two years, until a strategic review on its expansion has been completed and a longer-term proposal can be put to donors. Our interim support will be around €1 million over two years. No decision has been made about the size of our longer-term funding, but we remain committed to expanding the fair trade sector.

Forced Labour: Cocoa

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what recent discussions his Department has had with (a) the Government of Ivory Coast, (b) the Government of Ghana and (c) other Governments of cocoa-producing countries on the use of child labour in cocoa production. [168521]

Mr. Thomas: DFID officials regularly discuss child labour in the cocoa industry with the Government of Ghana, who has shown strong commitment to the issue. The Government have passed a Children's Act which prohibits child labour, especially the engagement of children in hazardous and exploitative work. It has also been working with the International Labour Organisation on a Programme for the elimination of child labour since 2000 and is collaborating with the industry initiative, known as the Harkin-Engel Protocol, to eradicate child labour in cocoa production.

DFID has not held discussions with the Government of Ivory Coast on child labour in cocoa production. DFID does not have a bilateral programme with Ivory Coast.

DFID has had no discussions with the Governments in other cocoa-producing countries specifically on the use of child labour in cocoa production.

Non-Governmental Organisations: Finance

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what funding his Department gave to (a) domestic and (b) international non-governmental organisations and charities pursuing fair trade goals in each of the last five years; and if he will make a statement. [168393]

Mr. Thomas: Over the last five years we have provided over £2 million in funding to a number of different fair trade projects with different domestic non-governmental organisations. The annual breakdown is as follows.

| | Amount (£) |
|---|---|
| 2003-04 | 96,052 |
| 2004-05 | 130,478 |
| 2005-06 | 334,653 |
| 2006-07 | 944,789 |
| 2007-08 | 870,330 |

We have provided funding through a variety of mechanisms, including programme grants to the Fairtrade Foundation and other fair-trade organisations such as the Co-operative College and the Development Awareness Fund. Though all recipients of the above grants are UK-based, a number of them work with international organisations. For example, the Fairtrade Foundation works closely with Fairtrade Labelling Organisations International. As a result, some funding reaches non-UK based NGOs, though the specific amounts may not be detailed in project proposals.

Tibet: Asylum

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how much he allocated to support work with refugees from Tibet in each of the last five years. [169052]

Mr. Malik: We have not provided any support to refugees from Tibet in the last five years.

Written Answers to Questions

Monday 3 December 2007

LEADER OF THE HOUSE

Written Questions: Regional Government

Mrs. May: To ask the Leader of the House whether she plans to allow regional Ministers to answer written parliamentary questions from hon. Members. [169598]

Ms Harman: The accountability of regional Ministers is one of the issues which the Select Committee on the Modernisation of the House of Commons has confirmed will be an inquiry.

HOUSE OF COMMONS COMMISSION

Office of the Parliamentary Commissioner for Standards: Pay

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the hon. Member for North Devon, representing the House of Commons Commission what the (a) salaries of staff in and (b) total costs incurred by the Office of the Parliamentary Commissioner for Standards were in the most recent year for which figures are available. [170474]

Nick Harvey: The total staffing costs of the Office of the Parliamentary Commissioner for Standards for 2006-07 were £379,609 and the overall running costs £386,548, as reported in the Commissioner's 2006-07 Annual Report (HC1012). These figures do not include indirect overhead costs, such as accommodation, which are not available. It is not the Commission's practice to give details of individual salaries.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Birds: Conservation

Martin Horwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions he (a) has had recently and (b) plans to have with conservation organisations and statutory country agencies on the future of the UK bird registration scheme under section 7 of the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981. [168925]

Joan Ruddock: My Department has discussed the bird registration scheme with the Joint Nature Conservation Committee, the RSPB and the Hawk Board recently. On 6 December, I am due to meet the RSPB, the Hawk Board and a number of other organisations, together with Members of Parliament who have shown an interest in the future of the bird registration scheme.

Martin Horwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment he has made of the likely effect of a discontinuation or weakening of the UK bird registration scheme under section 7 of the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981 on (a) the enforcement of wildlife crime in the UK and (b) the UK's biodiversity targets; and if he will make a statement. [168926]

Joan Ruddock: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave the hon. Member for Bridgend (Mrs. Moon) on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 861W. Birds registered under section 7 of the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981 are primarily captive bred birds. The UK's biodiversity targets are aimed at improving the conservation status of wild species. Only six species of wild birds subject to registration are also subject to biodiversity action plans, and these are only kept in very low numbers. Therefore any discontinuation of the bird registration scheme is unlikely to affect the UK's biodiversity targets.

British Waterways: Finance

Tim Farron: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent assessment he has made of the likely impact of budget reductions on British Waterways. [170527]

Jonathan Shaw: The formal comprehensive spending review settlement for 2008-09 to 2010-11 for Departments has been announced and will now be followed by DEFRA's own financial allocation process, during which the budget for British Waterways will be determined. The final allocations will not be known until the new year after further discussions with Ministers. The process of allocation will be based on careful prioritisation across the Department and all its sponsored bodies. We are engaging British Waterways in this and working with them to develop a long-term strategy which will maximise public benefits while delivering an affordable sustainable network within the total funding available.

Carbon Emissions: Government Departments

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent estimate he has made of the carbon dioxide emissions of each Department as a result of the consumption of (a) gas, (b) electricity and (c) water in each year since 1997. [169919]

Mr. Woolas: The Sustainable Development Commission (SDC) publishes information on carbon dioxide ($CO_2$) emissions arising from central Government Departments in its sustainable development in government report. SDC data are only from 1999-2000 and include data on emissions from electricity and use of fossil fuels. There are no estimates of $CO_2$ emissions arising from water consumption.

The latest annual report is available on their website at:

http://www.sd-commission.org.uk/sdig2006/.

Climate Change

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Oldham West and Royton of 12 November 2007, Official Report, column 12W, on climate change, if he will clarify the information given in the tables; and if he will make a statement. [170116]

Mr. Woolas: A detailed description of UK emissions estimates can be found in the 'UK Climate Change Programme: Annual Report to Parliament, 2007', as laid before Parliament by the Secretary of State in accordance with section 2 of the Climate Change and Sustainable Energy Act 2006. Copies of the report can be found in the parliamentary Libraries.

Coastal Areas: Standards

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many beaches were awarded blue flag status in each of the last three years. [169852]

Mr. Woolas: The information requested is set out in the following table.

| | 2005 | 2006 | 2007 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Blue flag awards (England) | 65 | 77 | 85 |
| Blue flag awards (UK) | 118 | 136 | 149 |

More information can be found on the Blue Flag website.

Commission for Rural Communities: Finance

Paddy Tipping: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will publish the budget of the Commission for Rural Communities for (a) 2006-07 and (b) 2007-08; and what the planned budget is for (i) 2008-09 and (ii) each subsequent year of the current spending round. [170084]

Jonathan Shaw: The 2006-07 budget for the Commission for Rural Communities has already been published in their Annual Report and Accounts, which are available in the Libraries of the House. The budget for 2007-08 has also already been published and is available in the Commission's published Corporate Plan, available from their website. Details of the Commission's future funding will be announced in due course.

Convention on Biological Diversity

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what his policy is on decision V/5 of the Convention on Biological Diversity on socio-economic and scientific assessments; and if he will make a statement. [168238]

Joan Ruddock: Decision V/5 of the Conference of the Parties refers to the programme of work on agricultural biodiversity and covers a wide range of issues. To be able to provide the information required by the hon. Member a more specific request is required. The hon. Member is welcome to write to me with the details and I will respond to him.

Departmental Carbon Emissions

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if his Department will adopt the Carbon Trust's Carbon Management Programme. [167809]

Mr. Woolas: The Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs adopted the Carbon Trust's Carbon Management Programme in April 2005.

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether his Department met the targets in the Sustainable Operations on the Government Estate to reverse the trend in carbon dioxide emissions by April. [167810]

Joan Ruddock: The report of Sustainable Operations on the Government Estate 2006-07 is not yet complete. Publication is expected in January 2008.

Departmental Finance

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs for what reasons he transferred £26,800,000 to the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills for the Business Resource Efficiency and Waste programme; and if he will make a statement. [166461]

Joan Ruddock: The Business Resource Efficiency and Waste Programme's (BREW) funding is distributed to regional and national delivery bodies over three years (April 2005 to March 2008).

£26,800,000 was transferred to the Department for Innovation, University and Skills' Technology Strategy Board in 2007-08 to run the Sustainable Consumption and Production strand of their Technology Programme, which provides grants for research and development into resource efficiency and for knowledge transfer networks. The transfer reflected commitments that had already been made by the Technology Programme, in agreement with DEFRA.

EU Agriculture and Fisheries Council

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will make a statement on the Agriculture and Fisheries Council held in Luxembourg on 22 to 23 October 2007. [170947]

Jonathan Shaw: I refer the hon. Member to the written ministerial statement made on 8 November 2007, Official Report, column 17WS, by my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State (Hilary Benn).

Floods: Kent

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs which areas of Kent he has identified as particularly vulnerable to flooding; and if he will make a statement on future plans for flood defence spending in Kent. [169565]

Mr. Woolas: The areas of Kent at the greatest risk of flooding are those within the low-lying fringes of the coastline. Flooding from the sea has major consequences due mainly to the speed at which the flood can occur. Two thirds of the 71,000 people at risk of flooding in Kent are at risk from the sea.

The Environment Agency is the principal operating authority with responsibility for flood risk management in England and uses long-term plans to identify the best way to reduce flood risk. These 100-year plans, developed with key partners, set out the schemes required. This year the Environment Agency is spending a capital budget of £18 million in Kent to reduce flood risk.

Specific allocations for future years have not yet been set but spend for flood and coastal erosion risk management across all operating authorities will rise progressively from the current level of £600 million a year to £800 million in 2010-11. DEFRA funding will be directed to the most pressing problems on a national basis using a prioritisation system which reflects new Outcome Measures for the programme.

Floods: Repairs and Maintenance

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the answer of 27 November 2007, Official Report, column 141, on responsibility for repairing damage to infrastructure from flooding, who is responsible for the maintenance of, and repairs to, the infrastructure of drains following the summer floods in 2007. [169851]

Mr. Woolas: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 12 November 2007, Official Report, column 14W.

Fly-Tipping

Mr. Spring: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many incidents of fly-tipping were recorded in (a) the east of England and (b) Suffolk in each of the last five years; what the estimated cost was of dealing with incidents of fly-tipping in each area in each year; and how many (i) prosecutions and (ii) convictions there were for fly-tipping in each area in each year. [169568]

Joan Ruddock: I have arranged for a table to be placed in the Library of the House showing the number of fly-tipping incidents and prosecutions recorded in each local authority by local authorities on Flycapture for 2004-05, 2005-06 and 2006-07.

Following the release of the 2006-07 Flycapture statistics on 9 October 2007, this information has been sent to all MPs and has been placed in the Printed Paper Office.

It is also available to download electronically on DEFRA's Flycapture website:

http://www.defra.gov.uk/environment/localenv/flytipping/flycapture-data.htm

Game: Non-Domestic Rates

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will provide his Department's list of game farms to the Valuation Office Agency for its work on business rates; and if he will make a statement. [168918]

Joan Ruddock: DEFRA holds information on those game farms of over 50 birds that have provided their details to the Great Britain Poultry Register (GBPR), a register set up to control and prevent avian influenza. DEFRA is currently consulting on expanding the uses to which the information on the register might be put.

One of the issues canvassed in the consultation paper is the possibility of sharing data with other Government Departments and non-departmental public bodies (NDPB). When the consultation process is complete, and responses have been analysed, DEFRA will be able to form a view on whether the supply of personal data to the Valuation Office Agency (or any other Government Department or NDPB) is tenable.

No decisions will be made about the sharing and use of GBPR data, in addition to what already happens, until this process is complete. Since a lot of the information in question would constitute personal data, any such decisions will take full account of our obligations under the Data Protection Act 1998 and relevant guidance, such as that issued by the Information Commissioner.

Home Energy Efficiency Scheme: Finance

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the procedure is for reimbursing CORGI gas installers who accept Warm Front vouchers and who do not have access to the internet. [169338]

Mr. Woolas: Installers registering for the Warm Front 300 heating rebate scheme must do so using the internet.

Once successfully registered, installers are reimbursed by sending the voucher and claim form with the customer's signature and a copy of the invoice to the Scheme Manager at eaga plc. Following checks, eaga plc will make the payment within 30 days.

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs at what stage his Department informs CORGI gas installers installing equipment under the Warm Front programme that £50 of each £300 voucher they accept in payment from a customer will be withheld from them as payment for administration charges. [169339]

Mr. Woolas: The scheme description and processes sections of the Warm Front 300 rebate scheme website details the £50 administration charge. Installers must confirm that they fully understand these processes prior to their registration to work on the scheme.

Housing: Carbon Emissions

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps the Government have taken to encourage the building and construction industry to build carbon zero housing. [168792]

Yvette Cooper [holding answer 27 November 2007]: I have been asked to reply.

The Government have put in place a wide set of programmes to encourage the building and construction industry to build zero carbon housing.

My Department has commissioned English Partnerships to run the Carbon Challenge. The aim is to accelerate the house building industry's response to climate change by creating a number of zero carbon communities and to equip the industry with the appropriate skills and technology. In the first phase of the Carbon Challenge around 1,000 zero carbon homes will be built all of which will be required to meet Level 6, which is the highest level, of the Code for Sustainable Homes.

Furthermore, the industry, together with local authorities and other stakeholders have been invited to come forward with proposals for eco-towns. Eco-towns will be entirely new settlements which are exemplar "green developments" of five to 20,000 homes and designed to meet the highest standards of sustainability. The development as a whole (including all homes) should reach zero carbon and should use the standards set out in the Code for Sustainable Homes as a guide.

The stamp duty relief for new zero carbon homes will also act as a financial incentive to the industry.

The building and construction industry are also represented on the 2016 task force which was established to look at the barriers to achieving zero carbon homes by 2016 and the measures needed to address them.

Inland Waterways: Finance

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) what assessment he has made of the effect of reductions in the budget for the maintenance of inland waterways; [169108]

(2) what estimate he has made of the effect of reductions in the budget for inland waterways on the tourist industry. [169110]

Jonathan Shaw: DEFRA sponsors the three largest navigation authorities—British Waterways, the Environment Agency and the Broads Authority. DEFRA does not hold information on the funding and condition of waterways owned or managed by other navigation authorities.

The formal CSR settlement for 2008-09 to 2010-11 for Departments has been announced. This will now be followed by the Department's own financial allocation process during which the budgets for the Environment Agency, British Waterways and the Broads will be determined. The process is based on careful prioritisation across the Department and all its sponsored bodies. We are actively engaging delivery partners in this, but most final allocations, including those for the Environment Agency and British Waterways, will not be known until the new year after further discussions within DEFRA.

The contribution of the inland waterways to the tourist industry is acknowledged and navigation authorities will bear this in mind when determining their priorities.

We are working with British Waterways and the Environment Agency to develop long-term strategies which will maximise public benefits whilst delivering an affordable sustainable network within the total funding available.

Members: Correspondence

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs with reference to the letter of 1 October from the Minister for the Environment (reference: MC45270/TB), when he will respond to the letter from the hon. Member for West Worcestershire of 26 October 2007. [170090]

Mr. Woolas: I am sorry for the delay in responding. A reply will be sent to the hon. Member shortly.

Nitrate Sensitive Areas

Mr. Brazier: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the nitrate levels were in each of the areas which his Department plans to designate as nitrate vulnerable zones (a) on the most recent date for which figures are available and (b) (i) five and (ii) 10 years prior to that date. [166780]

Mr. Woolas [holding answer 29 November 2007]: We are currently consulting on this matter and no decisions have been taken.

There are approximately 7,000 surface water monitoring points in England and Wales used to assess whether waters should be designated as polluted waters in the recent review under the nitrates directive. The information requested would require extensive research to be undertaken and therefore it is not possible to provide it because of the disproportionate costs involved.

Nitrogen Oxides: Pollution Control

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether the Government are planning to seek a (a) temporary and (b) permanent derogation from mandatory air quality limits on Nox which will apply from 2010 under EU directive 1999/30/EC. [170671]

Jonathan Shaw: There is no provision for a derogation from mandatory air quality limit values for oxides of nitrogen or nitrogen dioxide under directive 1999/30/EC. That directive sets limit values for nitrogen dioxide to be met by 2010.

A new ambient air quality directive, currently under negotiation, is expected to permit member states to apply for an additional five years to meet the nitrogen dioxide limit values. Subject to adoption of the directive, UK Government decisions around the use of this flexibility will be subject to public consultation.

Radioactive Wastes: Waste Management

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs which local authorities have expressed interest in having a depository for nuclear waste in their area; and if he will make a statement. [169218]

Mr. Woolas: The consultation on "Managing Radioactive Waste Safely: a Framework for Implementing Geological Disposal" closed on 2 November 2007. An invitation for communities to express an interest will be invited later, once responses to the consultation have been assessed.

Science Advisory Council: Biofuels

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether the Science Advisory Council supports the Government's targets on biofuels. [168718]

Mr. Woolas: The Science Advisory Council (SAC) has not been asked by the Government, nor as far as I am aware has it voluntarily commented on whether it supports the Government's targets on biofuels.

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what representations he has received from members of the Science Advisory Council on the environmental effects of the Government's targets on biofuels; which members of the Council have made such representations; and if he will make a statement. [168719]

Mr. Woolas: Members of the Science Advisory Council (SAC), collectively or as individual members, have not made any representations to my Department on the environmental effects of the Government's targets on biofuels.

Sewers

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) what guidelines are issued by Ofwat on the design of foul sewerage systems in respect of the frequency of storm events; and if he will make a statement; [169990]

(2) what discussions he has had with Ofwat on the design of foul sewerage systems in respect of the frequency of storm events; and if he will make a statement. [169991]

Mr. Woolas: Ofwat does not issue guidelines on the design of foul sewerage systems. This is a matter for individual water and sewerage companies. Design standards for developers constructing new sewers are produced by the water and sewerage industry itself.

Foul sewerage systems do not carry storm water and are not therefore designed for frequency of storm events.

Ofwat and local authorities will be represented on a steering group which will be assisting the Government in looking at build standards for future sewerage provision. This forms part of DEFRA's work on implementing the Government's decision to transfer private sewers and lateral drains draining to the public sewerage system into the ownership of the water and sewerage companies.

Summer Time: Carbon Emissions

Mr. Yeo: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment his Department has made of the likely effect on UK carbon dioxide emissions of maintaining British Summer time in winter and introducing double British Summer time in summer. [168763]

Mr. Woolas: The Building Research Establishment, as part of the 2006 review of the UK Climate Change programme, estimated that adopting British summer time (BST) all year round would lead to approximately a 1 per cent. increase in carbon dioxide emissions. Switching to continental time (BST in the winter and BST plus one hour in the summer) would increase these emissions by about 2 per cent. Continental time was found to generate savings from domestic lighting and cooling in non-domestic buildings, but these effects are likely to be offset by increases in non-domestic heating and lighting, and by a small increase in domestic heating.

Water: North East Region

Mr. Henderson: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will ensure that water customers in the North East region will not have to contribute to a national recovery of compensation costs which affect other regions and other water company areas under the Water Abstraction Charges Scheme. [169850]

Mr. Woolas: The Environment Agency is expected to take action against abstraction licences where the abstraction is adversely impacting on conservation sites, in particular those designated under European legislation. Where it needs to revoke or modify an abstraction licence, compensation is generally payable. The compensation payments form part of the cost of meeting its duty to manage water resources and will therefore be recovered via abstraction charges.

The Environment Agency is consulting on options to recover any compensation that may be payable. No decision on changes to abstraction charges will be taken until the consultation ends on 7 December and the Environment Agency has submitted its proposals to Ministers.

Whales

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate he has made of the number of humpback whales living in the wild. [169542]

Jonathan Shaw: Commercial whaling seriously depleted all humpback stocks (a species listed as vulnerable on the International Union for Conservation of Nature and Natural Resources (IUCN) Red list of threatened species). None of the "great" whale species have recovered to pre-exploitation levels.

The International Whaling Commission (IWC) recognises that there is considerable scientific uncertainty over the numbers of whales of different species and in different geographical stocks. For this reason, the IWC have decided not to give whale population figures except for those species/stocks which have been assessed in some detail.

At present, the following table shows the best estimates (and associated confidence intervals) for humpback whales in certain areas.

Humpback whales

| Population | Year(s) to which estimate applies | Approximate point estimate | Approximate 95 per cent. confidence limits |
|---|---|---|---|
| Western North Atlantic[1] | 1992-93 | 11,600 | 10,100-13,200 |
| Southern Hemisphere south of 60S in summer (i.e. incomplete)[2] | 1997-98 | 42,000 | 34,000-52,000 |
| North Pacific[3] | 2007 | at least 10,000 | [4] |

[1] A rate of population increase of 3.1 per cent. (SE=0.005) was obtained from the Gulf of Maine for the period 1979-1993.
[2] Rates of increase. East Australia: 1981-96 12.4 per cent. (95 per cent. CI 10.1-14.4 per cent.). West Australia: 1977-91 10.9 per cent. (7.9-13.9 per cent.).
[3] Rates of increase of about 7 per cent. have been reported for the eastern North Pacific, 1990-2002.
[4] Not yet available.

SCOTLAND

Departmental Food

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what percentage of (a) beef, (b) lamb, (c) pork and (d) dairy products used in his departmental headquarters were imported products in the most recent period for which figures are available. [166644]

David Cairns: None. The Scotland Office does not provide in-house canteen or other catering services.

Departmental Health Insurance

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland how many officials in his Department have private health insurance provided as part of their employment package. [167926]

David Cairns: None.

Departmental ICT

Gordon Banks: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland which manufacturers' software is used in his Department. [167222]

David Cairns: The Scotland Office has a variety of software, from different manufacturers, used within the Department. A typical PC will have a Microsoft Windows XP operating systems and software packages from at least 10 manufacturers. The software build has been developed to interact well and securely with all Government Departments and aid office productivity.

Departmental Manpower

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland how many (a) EU foreign nationals and (b) non-EU foreign nationals are employed by his Department. [168100]

David Cairns: All the staff in the Scotland Office are on secondment from other civil service departments, mainly the Ministry of Justice or the Scottish Executive. It is the responsibility of those Departments to provide details of EU foreign nationals and non-EU foreign nationals employed.

Departmental Pay

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland how many people in his Department and its predecessors were paid over £100,000 in each year since 1997. [167200]

David Cairns: The Scotland Office was established on 1 July 1999.

Details of how many people were paid more than £100,000 in each year since 1999 are contained in the Scotland Office Annual Reports. Copies of which are available in the Library of the House.

INNOVATION, UNIVERSITIES AND SKILLS

Education Funding

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills (1) what funding he has allocated in cash terms to (a) Higher Education Funding Council for England funding for teaching costs only, (b) fee grants, (c) fee loans, (d) maintenance loans, (e) maintenance grants and (f) access funds in each year from 2008-09 to 2010-11; [168983]

(2) what the resource cost is expected to be of (a) fee loans and (b) maintenance loans in each year from 2008-09 to 2010-11. [168985]

Bill Rammell: We are working through the detailed implications of the higher education settlement following the DIUS CSR07 announcement and will be in a position to provide more information early next year.

Departmental Foreign Workers

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many (a) EU foreign nationals and (b) non-EU foreign nationals are employed by his Department. [168105]

Mr. Lammy: The information about EU and non EU foreign nationals could be obtained in the form requested only at disproportionate cost. All potential new appointments to the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills are subject to nationality, passport, proof of identity and reference checks before contracts of employment are issued.

Departmental Land

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what land surplus to his Department's requirements it is (a) selling, (b) leasing and (c) intending to (i) sell and (ii) lease; and what the size and name of each relevant site is. [168844]

Mr. Lammy: The Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills has no surplus land.

Departmental Orders and Regulations

Alan Duncan: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many regulations his Department and its predecessors have (a) made and (b) revoked in the last 12 months. [167077]

Mr. Lammy: The Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills (DIUS) and its predecessors, the Department for Education and Skills (DFES) and the Department of Trade and Industry (DTI), in as much as DFES and DTI covered areas of work now covered by DIUS, made 40 regulations and revoked 26 in the 12 months which ended on 27 November 2007.

Education: Chelmsford

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what percentage of 18-to 24-year-olds in West Chelmsford constituency are in full-time education; and what the figures were in each of the last five years. [168456]

Bill Rammell [holding answer 28 November 2007]: Annual average estimates of the proportion of people in full-time education by age are available at a local level from the Annual Population Survey (APS[1]) and its predecessor the Local Labour Force Survey (LLFS[2]). Estimates for West Chelmsford for 2006 and for the previous five years are shown in the following table. These small area estimates are based on very small samples and are therefore subject to high sampling variability. They should therefore be treated with caution and in particular changes from year to year should not be used in isolation from the figures for a run of years. Regional and national estimates have been shown for comparison.

[2] LLFS estimates are for the average of the 12 months from March to the following February.

Percentage

| | LLFS 2001-02 | LLFS 2002-03 | LLFS 2003-04 | APS 2004 | APS 2005 | APS 2006 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| West Chelmsford | 34 | 20 | 22 | 32 | 33 | 30 |
| East of England | 18 | 19 | 22 | 20 | 22 | 21 |
| England | 26 | 26 | 27 | 27 | 28 | 27 |

Educational Institutions: Catering

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills which (a) further education colleges and (b) universities have been supplied with meat by McLaren Foods in the last 12 months. [170442]

Mr. Lammy: The information requested is not collected by this Department.

English Language: Education

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills when he plans to assess the effectiveness of the recently introduced changes to the provision of English for Speakers of Other Languages. [169608]

Bill Rammell: The first return of learner data is not expected until December 2007, and this will help to develop an understanding of the implications of the Government's changes to ESOL policy for 2007/08 at a national as well as local level. The LSC and the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills are working very closely to analyse the full impact of the ESOL policy changes on demand, as well as on provider behaviour. We have commissioned additional impact assessment work to help us do this and expect to have results in the new year. The priority for the Government and the LSC is that public support is available to those who need it most, and we will continue to work towards this agenda.

Health Insurance

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many officials in (a) his Department and (b) each of its agencies have private health insurance provided as part of their employment package. [167930]

Mr. Lammy: The Department does not offer private health insurance as part of the employment package.

The Department has no agencies.

Higher Education: Closures

Anne Snelgrove: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills (1) if he will make it his policy to require the Higher Education Funding Council for England (HEFCE) to collect information about and report to him on proposals by universities to withdraw services from specific campuses; and if he will instruct the HEFCE to do so in the case of the University of Bath and the Oakfield campus in Swindon; [168711]

(2) how much funding from the public purse was given to the University of Bath for the Oakfield Campus (a) prior to and (b) since its opening in 2000; how many higher education schemes initiated by his Department are run at the campus; and how many students were on these courses at the Oakfield Campus at the latest date for which figures are available; [168712]

(3) if he will assess the likely effect on the delivery of vocational courses funded by his Department at the University of Bath of that university's proposal to withdraw from the Oakfield campus in Swindon; [168562]

(4) what assessment he has made of the likely effect of the University of Bath's proposal to withdraw from the Oakfield campus in Swindon on his Department's policy of encouraging greater access to higher education; [168563]

(5) what discussions he has had with the Higher Education Funding Council for England on the interests of students whose courses are affected by the withdrawal of universities from satellite campuses. [168714]

Bill Rammell [holding answer 27 November 2007]: Higher education institutions are autonomous bodies funded through block grant and free to decide their own strategies including the organisation of teaching and learning, in the light of their relative strengths and student demand. That said, I expect them as a matter of good practice to consult local Members of Parliament on any major reorganisation which affects their constituents.

I understand that Bath university has decided to withdraw the offer provision of higher education from the Oakfield campus in the light of its assessment of student demand. That is a matter for the university, but I would expect all institutions contemplating changes of this sort to engage in early dialogue with HEFCE so that wherever possible, options for other alternative provision can be considered and they should also keep hon. Members informed of their future intentions. I am aware that a number of proposals about enhancing opportunities for higher education study in Swindon are currently under consideration.

Higher Education: Greater London

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what percentage of 18 to 22 year olds from each London borough were studying at university (a) in 1997 and (b) at the latest dates for which figures are available. [169233]

Bill Rammell: The main measure for tracking progress on increasing participation is currently the higher education initial participation rate (HEIPR). This is the sum of the HE initial participation rates for individual ages between 17 and 30 inclusive. It covers English-domiciled first time entrants to HE courses, which are expected to last for at least six months, at UK higher education institutions and English, Scottish and Welsh further education colleges, and who remain on their course for at least six months. The earliest figure is 39.3 per cent. for 1999-2000 and the latest available figure is 42.8 per cent. for 2005-06.

Equivalent figures for the 18-22 year old age group are 33.4 per cent. for 1999-2000 and 36.2 per cent. for 2005-06.

Figures for 2006-07 will become available in 2008. The HEIPR is not disaggregated below national level.

HEFCE's 'Young participation in Higher Education' publication includes the proportion of young people who enter higher education at age 18 or 19 by local authority, although this only covers the years up to 2000. Participation rates based on this work are given on the supporting POLAR website (www.hefce.ac.uk/polar). The figures for 1997 and 2000 are shown in the table.

Proportion of young people from London boroughs who entered higher education at age 18 or 19, for the cohorts reaching 18 in 1997 and in 2000

Higher Education: Mature Students

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills (1) how many (a) full-time and (b) part-time mature students enrolled on a higher education course in each year since 2001; [166861]

(2) how many (a) full-time and (b) part-time (i) mature and (ii) other students were enrolled on higher education courses in each year since 2001. [166862]

Bill Rammell: The latest information is shown in the table. Figures for 2006/07 will be available in January 2008.

UK domiciled entrants to undergraduate courses by age[1], higher education institutions in England, 2000/01 to 2006/06

| | 2001/02 | 2002/03 | 2003/04 | 2004/05[2] | 2005/06 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Full-time | | | | | |
| Under 21 | 213,070 | 218,450 | 219,325 | 222,770 | 239,430 |
| 21 and over | 76,600 | 81,625 | 83,255 | 83,270 | 85,210 |
| Total | 289,670 | 300,075 | 302,580 | 306,040 | 324,640 |
| Part-time | | | | | |
| Under 21 | 11,970 | 11,770 | 12,665 | 14,570 | 16,750 |
| 21 and over | 237,390 | 236,950 | 245,935 | 237,040 | 253,425 |
| Total | 249,360 | 248,720 | 258,600 | 251,610 | 270,175 |

[1] Mature students are defined as those aged 21 or over.
[2] In 2004/05, there was undercounting of students by one large part-time provider which contributed to the fall in part-time entrants between 2003/04 and 2004/05.

Islam: Education

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills when the Higher Education Funding Council for England plans to respond to the recommendations of the report Islam at Universities in England. [169612]

Bill Rammell: The Higher Education Funding Council for England (HEFCE) set out a programme of work in response to relevant recommendations in the report Islam at Universities in England in September. This will lead to proposals from HEFCE in summer 2008.

National Security

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills pursuant to the statement of the Prime Minister of 14 November 2007, Official Report, columns 667-72, on national security, when he plans to invite universities to lead the debate on academic freedom and associated issues as referred to by the Prime Minister. [168442]

Bill Rammell: As a first step, I undertook to engage with the university sector by setting out my views in a lecture given to the Fabian Society on 27 November. A copy of this lecture can be found on the website of the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills. I am undertaking a number of visits to different universities to talk to students and staff about this issue as well as contact with sector bodies to encourage them to engage with and lead this debate. Academic freedom is one of the most powerful means at our disposal to challenge the views of violent extremists and to promote cohesive communities.

Overseas Students: Entry Clearances

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what estimate he has made of (a) the number of overseas students who had to withdraw from a course at a UK university due to delays in receiving their visa and (b) the number of overseas students who applied for university courses in the UK and subsequently applied for a student visa (i) successfully and (ii) unsuccessfully in the latest period for which figures are available. [169594]

Bill Rammell: The Department does not have any figures on the numbers of overseas students who have had to withdraw from courses through delays in receiving their visas. There is no reason why applications for visas which are made in good time and with the necessary supporting documentation would be delayed. UKVisas' latest published statistics for the F/Y 2005/2006 indicate that a total of 284,447 student applications were received, of which 194,827 visas were issued and 88,897 applications refused. These figures do not distinguish between level of study and thus cover higher education, further education and language study.

Skilled Workers: Greater London

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what steps his Department is taking to ensure that residents from each London borough will have the requisite skills to take advantage of jobs resulting from the Olympics in 2012; and if he will make a statement. [169236]

Mr. Lammy: I refer the hon. Member to the reply given to the hon. Member for Romford (Andrew Rosindell) on 26 November 2007, Official Report, column 272W.

Sponsorship

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what television programmes have been sponsored by his Department, its predecessors and its arm's length bodies since 1997; how much public money was spent in each case; which departmental initiatives, bodies or programmes they were supporting; and what assessments were made of the effectiveness of the campaigns. [166865]

Mr. Lammy: I refer the hon. Member to the reply given on 24 October 2007, Official Report, column 428W, which gives details of television programmes that have been sponsored by the Department, its predecessors and arms length bodies since 1997.

We hold only very basic information on marketing campaigns by our agencies and am therefore unable to provide more detail. I can provide details on those campaigns specifically commissioned by the Department's predecessors.

Investors in People: In Good Company (September 2004 on ITV1 Carlton region)

Spend: £100,000 to cover all production, fees, excluding VAT.

Investors in People wished to increase take-up of its accreditation among small to medium enterprise (SME) market of between five and 250 employees.

Qualitative research groups were conducted to evaluate the impact of the programmes.

Adult basic Skills: City Survival Guide (ITV London January-March 2003)

Spend: £35,000 including production, fees, excluding VAT.

Developed to complement the national Gremlins publicity campaign at a more local level.

No formal research evaluation conducted of this specific element of a much wider, long-term campaign. Viewers were able to call a helpline number to find out more about adult literacy courses.

Students: Finance

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills if he will make a statement on the Department's proposal to stop funding at Higher Education Funding Council for England level for students undertaking study for equivalent or lower level qualifications at the Open University; what impact assessment he has made of the decisions with particular reference to students from lower income backgrounds and part-time students; and what other funding sources are available to those people. [169609]

Bill Rammell: The Department took this decision which applies to every provider in order to target resources on our top priorities and the country's long-term needs. It will enable an additional 20,000 students without a first qualification whom we could not otherwise support to enjoy all the benefits of participating in higher education. Many of this group are likely to be part-time students from lower income backgrounds. The overall effect of these changes on the income of individual institutions will depend on how successful they are in attracting students who meet our priorities. No students currently studying for equivalent and lower level qualifications will be affected, no institution will lose grant in cash terms and future students studying for such qualifications will be able to look at what is on offer at over 250 providers. But they cannot be more deserving of public funding than those who have not obtained a first qualification. The Higher Education Funding Council are currently consulting the university sector on the detailed implementation of this policy.

Students: Grants

Mr. Boswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what assistance is afforded by his Department to UK-based students who wish to travel abroad for short periods to support their studies or career development potential or for volunteering and cannot afford the cost. [169427]

Bill Rammell: Eligible students studying a course of higher education, who are attending an overseas institution as part of their UK course receive a maximum overseas rate of loan for living costs of £5,375 and receive travel grants to meet the cost of travel within and outside the UK for the purpose of attending the overseas institution. Those who attend their UK institution for less than 10 weeks of the academic year will have their tuition fee reduced by 50 per cent.

Career development loans are also available to individuals who want to undertake learning at institutions outside the UK, as long as they intend to take up employment in the UK, the EU, or the EEA when they complete their course. No specific support is available for volunteering abroad.

Students: Minorities

Jim Cousins: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what percentage of first year undergraduate students, excluding those from other European Union member states and overseas, were from black and ethnic minority backgrounds in the (a) 2007-08 academic year and (b) in each of the last five such years, in (i) England and (ii) each university in the North East. [167212]

Bill Rammell [holding answer 26 November 2007]: The latest available information is shown in the following table. Figures for 2006-07 will be available in January 2008.

UK domiciled undergraduate entrants by ethnic background to English[1] and north-east higher education institutions, academic years 2001-02 to 2005-06

Students: Postgraduate Education

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many and what proportion of postgraduate students at UK universities were from (a) the UK, (b) the EU and (c) outside the EU in each of the last five years. [167145]

Bill Rammell [holding answer 22 November 2007]: The latest available information is shown in the following table. Figures for 2006-07 will be available in January 2008.

Students: Standards

Mr. Boswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what involvement his Department has with the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development's Programme of International Student Assessment; and if he will make a statement. [161888]

Jim Knight: I have been asked to reply.

The Department for Children, Schools and Families (DCSF) funds England's participation in the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development's Programme for International Student Assessment (PISA).

The study is carried out in England by the National Foundation for Educational Research (NFER), under contract to DCSF.

The latest round of PISA testing took place in schools in England in November and December 2006. OECD will publish its international report on the findings on 4 December 2007 and NFER and DCSF will also jointly publish a national report for England on the same day.

Vocational Education: Loans

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what the (a) resource cost and (b) cash cost of career development loans is expected to be in each year from 2008-09 to 2010-11. [168984]

Bill Rammell: Career development loans are administered by the Learning and Skills Council through three high street banks. Banks provide the loan capital to individuals on a commercial basis. Government expenditure meets the interest on the loan during the time the individual is on their course and the administration costs for the participating banks.

The following table shows the planned public expenditure for career development loans across the next spending review period

| | 2008-09 | 2009-10 | 2010-11 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Cash terms | 23.7 | 23.7 | 23.7 |
| Real terms (2007-08 prices) | 23.1 | 22.5 | 21.9 |

Vocational Training: Gloucestershire

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many Train to Gain places have been made available in each district area in Gloucestershire. [170100]

Mr. Lammy: Train to Gain is a major aspect of the drive to create a demand-led service and does not generate places in the traditional sense. Through Train to Gain, employers can access the advice and support they need to help them identify and then meet the skills their businesses need to succeed. In the first year of its operation, there were a total of 883 learners funded through Train to Gain in the Gloucestershire county council district areas. The breakdown was as follows: Cheltenham 137, Cotswold 155, Forest of Dean 68, Gloucester City 207, Stroud 226 and Tewkesbury 90.

OLYMPICS

Olympic Games: China

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Minister for the Olympics what steps she took on her recent visit to Beijing to encourage the Chinese authorities to ensure freedom of movement and expression in China for both domestic and international press (a) in the run-up to the Beijing Olympic Games in 2008 and (b) afterwards; and how many meetings she has had with Chinese officials at which media freedom was discussed. [169047]

Tessa Jowell: During a meeting with the President of BOCOG and Party Secretary of Beijing, I urged the Chinese Government to make permanent the new regulations for foreign correspondents that were implemented in January 2007. These regulations temporarily lift restrictions on travel and the requirement to seek official permission for interviews, up to and including the 2008 Olympic Games. While these regulations are welcome, we continue to urge the Chinese to lift all media restrictions, both before and after the Games, including on domestic media.

I made similar representations during my previous visit to Beijing in September 2006, and in a meeting with the Chinese Information Minister in London in April 2007.

As part of my most recent visit to Beijing, I also met a group of British and international correspondents to hear their views on how the new regulations are operating.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Alcoholic Drinks: Misuse

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what she plans the next steps of the Alcohol Harm Reduction Strategy to be; and what stage each one has reached. [169176]

Mr. Coaker: In June of this year, the Home Office, Department of Health and Department for Children, Schools and Families jointly launched 'Safe. Sensible. Social'—The next steps in the National Alcohol Strategy which builds on lessons learned and progress made since the Alcohol Harm Reduction Strategy for England published in March 2004. The renewed strategy outlines the Government's long-term commitment to tackling alcohol-related harms. New measures outlined in this Strategy include:

support for local areas to tackle alcohol-related crime and disorder, earlier identification interventions and treatment for drinking that could cause harm, continuing to tackle underage sales of alcohol, greater effort to tackle alcohol —related offending,

a review of the relationship between price, promotion and harm, a review on the effectiveness of the alcohol industry's social responsibility standards document in contributing to a reduction in alcohol harm, promoting a sensible drinking culture through sustained national campaigning to challenge the tolerance of drunkenness and drinking that causes harm, and preventing harms to those under 18 years of age.

We will shortly publish a local strategy toolkit and guidance on the use of tools and powers to help local areas tackle alcohol related harms. We have recently carried out a Tackling Under Age Sales of Alcohol campaign which saw overall failure rates falling to 14 per cent. and will shortly undertake a Responsible Alcohol Sales Campaign. We recently undertook a Confiscation of Alcohol Campaign to support the commencement of new powers (section 27 Directions to leave) available through the Violent Crime Reduction Act to disperse persons who are likely to cause or contribute to alcohol related crime or disorder, and support the use of existing powers in relation to the confiscation of alcohol (Confiscation of Alcohol (Young Persons) Act 1997). We launched Alcohol Arrest Referral Pilot pilots in Cheshire, Ealing, Manchester and Liverpool in October that aim to reduce re-offending by individuals who have been arrested for alcohol-related offending.

We have also gone out to tender for the independent review on the effectiveness of the alcohol industry's social responsibility standards document in contributing to a reduction in alcohol harm, we expect the review's findings to be published in April 2008. In addition, the Department of Health are taking forward the independent review the relationship between alcohol price, promotion and harm, we expect the review's findings to be published in the summer of 2008.

We are currently drawing up plans for a wide ranging communications campaign to promote a sensible drinking culture by challenging the tolerance of drunkenness, raising the public's knowledge of units of alcohol and ensuring that everyone has the information they need to estimate how much they really do drink, and developing a range of new kinds of information and advice aimed at people who drink at harmful levels, and their families and friends.

We believe that through a combination of continued tough enforcement of the law and the promotion of a sensible drinking culture, we can continue to see significant reductions in alcohol-related crime and disorder.

Animal Experiments

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department for what reasons her Department has decided to end the work of the Research and Alternatives Sub-committee of the Animal Procedures Committee. [169586]

Meg Hillier: The Animal Procedures Committee is an independent non-departmental public body and as such the Home Office plays no role in decisions about the work of its sub-committees. However the Committee has now wound down its Research and Alternatives Sub-Committee following the transfer of the Home Office budget for research into alternatives to the National Centre for the Replacement, Refinement and Reduction of Animals in Research (NC3Rs). The decision to transfer the budget was announced on 21 May 2004, Official Report, column 69WS and implemented a recommendation of the House of Lords Select Committee on Animals in Scientific Procedures which reported in July 2002.

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will make a statement on the use of carbon dioxide to destroy animals regulated under the Animals (Scientific Procedures) Act 1986. [169882]

Meg Hillier: Schedule 1 to the Animals (Scientific Procedures) Act 1986 lists exposure to carbon dioxide gas in a rising concentration as a method of humane killing of rodents, rabbits and birds up to 1.5kg provided the process of killing is completed by one of the methods listed in the schedule.

The Animal Procedures Committee completed a review of Schedule 1 of the 1986 Act and published its report and recommendations in December 2006. The scientific evidence relating to this killing method continues to evolve and following on from their report the Committee has agreed to monitor and consider new research into the use of carbon dioxide for the purpose of killing with a view to making further recommendations on whether the current use of carbon dioxide for killing specified laboratory animals should remain a Schedule 1 method. On receipt of their findings we will consider what, if any, action to take.

The full Animal Procedures Committee report on Schedule 1 and the Home Office response is published in the Report of the Animal Procedures Committee for 2006 [HC41].

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department for what reason the Animal Procedures Committee has been asked to consider the criteria for the discharge of genetically altered animals from the controls of the Animals (Scientific Procedures) Act 1986. [169885]

Meg Hillier: The Animals (Scientific Procedures) Act 1986 makes provision for the protection of animals used for experimental and other scientific purposes and subjected to regulated procedures which may cause pain, suffering distress or lasting harm. As genetically modified animals are assumed to be potentially more prone to pain, suffering, distress or lasting harm as a result of the genetic alteration than the background strain from which they are derived their production, breeding and use is regulated under the 1986 Act.

It has, however, always been accepted that there will be some lines of genetically modified animals that are not predisposed to these harms, and administrative provision has been made for the discharge of such animals (at least for breeding purposes) from the controls of the Act. However, in practice, no such lines have, so far, been discharged from the controls of the Act.

In view of this, and as the current discharge criteria were formulated some years ago, the Animal Procedures Committee has been asked to advise on whether the discharge criteria should be revised in the light of the current state of knowledge regarding refined methods of welfare assessments and phenotyping of genetically altered animals. Should they so advise, the aim would be to remove any unnecessary obstacles currently preventing strains being discharged from the controls of the 1986 Act without weakening the provisions for the welfare of protected animals.

Animals (Scientific Procedures) Act 1986

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what infringements there have been of the Animals (Scientific Procedures) Act 1986 since 1997; and if she will make a statement. [169590]

Meg Hillier: The number of infringements since 1997 is detailed in the following table. This information is collected annually and since 1999 is contained in the annual Statistics of Scientific Procedures on Living Animals Great Britain, copies of which can be found in the House of Commons Library. Infringement reporting changed in 2000 when three new classifications were introduced.

Class 1 infringements involve minor breaches of licence or certificate conditions which are not potential criminal offences, have no aggravating circumstances and no disputed facts;

Class 2 infringements may include potential criminal offences but are cases where it would be clear from the circumstances that prosecution, variation of licence/certificate conditions or revocation action would not be appropriate;

Class 3 infringements are the more serious cases, where training/retraining, variation, suspension or revocation of licences/certificates or referral to the police for possible prosecution are considered.

Arrests: Cambridgeshire

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many arrests were made per full-time police officer in the Cambridgeshire Constabulary in the last 12 months for which figures are available; and if she will make a statement. [169528]

Mr. McNulty: The requested information on arrests rates is not available from the information collected centrally, as the information on arrests collected by the Ministry of Justice is limited to just those arrests made for notifiable offences (that is offences covered by police recorded crime).

Asylum: Iraq and Afghanistan

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) Iraqi and (b) Afghan nationals were granted asylum in (i) the last 12 months for which figures are available and (ii) each of the previous six years. [169480]

Mr. Byrne: Information on initial decisions and appeals for nationals of Iraq and Afghanistan for October 2006 to September 2007 and each of the previous last six years are shown in the following tables. This is the latest data for which information has been published.

Appeal determinations do not necessarily relate to initial decisions made in the same period.

Information on asylum applications, initial decisions and appeals by nationality are published quarterly and annually. Copies of these publications are available from the Library of the House and from the Home Office Research, Development and Statistics website at: http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/immigration1.html

Closed Circuit Television

Mr. Clegg: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department with reference to the answer of 20 June 2007, Official Report, column 1950W, on closed circuit television (CCTV), what the reasons are for the further delay in publishing the report on the future CCTV strategy; and when it will be published. [166901]

Jacqui Smith: The National CCTV Strategy was published on 19 October 2007 and is available for download from:

http://www.crimereduction.homeoffice.gov.uk/cctv/cctv048.pdf

Community Policing: Greater London

Mr. Boris Johnson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) police constables and (b) sergeants have been dedicated to neighbourhood policing work in (i) London and (ii) each London borough in each year since 2001. [166923]

Mr. McNulty: The Home Office's collection of police personnel data by function does not separately identify those dedicated to neighbourhood policing work.

Community Support Officers: Greater London

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many police community support officers there were in London on 1 October (a) 2004, (b) 2005, (c) 2006 and (d) 2007. [169247]

Mr. McNulty: Police service strength is collected by financial year, with provisional data given midway through the year (30 September) and finalised data given as at the last day of the year (31 March).

Data for 31 March are given in the table.

Police community support officer strength[1] in London[2] as at 31 March 2004 to 2007

Convictions: Human Trafficking

Mr. Clegg: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many individuals have been convicted for trafficking people into the UK in each of the last five years. [166984]

Jacqui Smith: The Sexual Offences Act 2003 came into force in 2004. Since then convictions are as follows:

| | Number |
|---|---|
| 2004 | 3 |
| 2005 | 21 |
| 2006 | 27 |
| 2007 | 16 |

There have been no convictions to date for trafficking for exploitation under the Asylum and Immigration (Treatment of Claimants) Act 2004.

Crime

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many police officers per notifiable offence in England there were in each year since 1997; and if she will make a statement. [167099]

Mr. McNulty: The data requested are given in the following table.

Police officers (FTE)[1] per 100 notifiable offences[2] in England, 1997 to 2006-07

| | Police officers per 100 notifiable offences |
|---|---|
| 1997 | 2.7 |
| 1998-99 | 2.4 |
| 1999-2000 | 2.3 |
| 2000-01 | 2.4 |
| 2001-02 | 2.3 |
| 2002-03 | 2.2 |
| 2003-04 | 2.3 |
| 2004-05 | 2.5 |
| 2005-06 | 2.5 |
| 2006-07 | 2.6 |

[1] Police officer strength figures are based on full-time equivalent figures, excluding those officers on career breaks and maternity/paternity leave.
[2] The data for 2002-03 onwards take account of the introduction of the National Crime Recording Standard in April 2002. These figures are therefore not directly comparable with those for earlier years; similarly, data from 1998-99 onwards incorporate changes in police recording practices following revisions to Home Office rules on counting and classification of crime in April 1998; they are also not directly comparable with previous years.

Departmental Foreign Workers

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) EU foreign nationals and (b) non EU foreign nationals are employed by her Department. [168106]

Mr. Byrne: Information on the number of EU foreign nationals employed within Home Office headquarters is not recorded centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost. There are currently no non-EU foreign nationals employed within Home Office HQ.

The Identity and Passport Service currently employs 13 EU foreign nationals and 10 non-EU foreign nationals; all 10 are Commonwealth citizens.

The Criminal Records Bureau does not currently employ any EU or non-EU foreign nationals.

The Border and immigration Agency does not record centrally the nationality of employees upon appointment and information could be provided only at a disproportionate cost. All candidates for posts within Home Office HQ and its agencies are subject to the same pre-appointment checks regardless of nationality. Our pre-appointment checks ensure that we only select those that pass eligibility in accordance with the Cabinet Office nationality requirements:

www.civilservice.gov.uk/careers/nationality_rules/index.asp

The need for an individual to undergo national security vetting, and the level of vetting that is appropriate, will depend on the particular post they are going to fill. Where necessary, this will include a check of time spent overseas.

Departmental Ministerial Policy Advisors

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the office costs for her Department's special advisers for 2007-08 are expected to be, including costs of support staff; and how many full-time equivalent civil servants work in support of such special advisers. [164936]

Mr. Byrne: Three civil servants provide support directly to the special advisers in the Home Secretary's office. They provide administrative support of a non-political nature in accordance with the Code of Conduct for Special Advisers.

Information on the cost of such staff can not be provided as the numbers involved will be so few that to reveal the cost could identify an individual's salary, which is confidential between the individual and the employer. Office costs will be accounted for in the 2007-08 departmental annual reports and accounts.

Detection Rates

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the crime detection rate was in (a) each police force area and (b) England and Wales in each year since 1997. [167097]

Mr. McNulty: The information requested is given in the following table.

Detection rates for all recorded crimes, by police force area in England and Wales from 1997 to 2006-07

| Police force area | 1997 | 1997-98[1] | 1998-99[2] | 1999-2000[3] | 2000-01[3] | 2001-02 | 2002-03[4,5] | 2003-04 | 2004-05 | 2005-06 | 2006-07 |

[1] The number of crimes recorded in that financial year using the coverage and rules in use until 31 March 1998.
[2] The number of crimes recorded in that financial year using the expanded offence coverage and revised counting rules which came into effect on 1 April 1998.
[3] Revised detections guidance was implemented on 1 April 1999.
[4] The National crime Recording standard was Introduced in April 2002. Figures before and after that date are not directly comparable.
[5] Includes the British Transport Police from 2002-03 onwards.
Note:
The overall detection rate remained broadly stable between 2001-02 and 2003-04. It then rose to reach 27 per cent. in 2005-06 and 2006-07. However, the overall detection rate has been affected by forces limiting the usage of non-sanction detections i.e. where a crime is detected but no further action is taken for a variety of reasons.

Entry Clearances

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer of 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 948W, on entry clearances, what methodology will be used to identify the location of applicants for indefinite leave to remain in the United Kingdom; and if she will make a statement. [168858]

Mr. Byrne: As explained in my response to the previous question on this matter, the Border and Immigration Agency is currently assessing what changes may be required to its data collection in order to make more tailored information available to its partners, including local authorities.

Integral to this phase is defining what methodology the agency will use to collect the relevant data. Analysis on this matter has only just commenced and further work is required before a defined approach can be established.

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many grants of the right to remain in the UK were issued to applicants who entered the UK as work permit holders in each year since 2000. [169292]

Mr. Byrne: Statistics are not available in the format requested.

The available information on grants of leave and indefinite leave to remain can be found in the yearly Command Paper "Control of Immigration: Statistics United Kingdom". This publication may be obtained from the Library of the House and from the Home Office Research, Development and Statistics website: http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/immigration1.html.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department under what legislation she may (a) deny entry to the UK to and (b) deport from the UK people whose presence is not conducive to the public good; on what occasions each power has been used in each year since 1990; and if she will make a statement. [169454]

Mr. Byrne: The Secretary of State may exercise a non-statutory personal power to deny a foreign national entry to the UK if she considers from all the evidence available that an individual's presence in the UK is not conducive to the public good and that such a decision is justified in her opinion.

The principal power to deport a person on the ground that their deportation would be conducive to the public good is contained in section 3(5) of the Immigration Act 1971 (as amended). There is a corresponding power in regulation 19 of the Immigration (European Economic Area) Regulations 2006 in respect of EEA nationals and the family members of EEA nationals.

Comprehensive figures on the use of these powers since 1990 can be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Extradition: USA

Mr. Clegg: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what representations she has received on amending the terms of the extradition treaty between the US and UK; what assessment she has made of those representations; and if she will make a statement. [167020]

Jacqui Smith: Since 28 June the Home Office has handled 14 pieces of correspondence from hon. Members and members of the public on the subject of UK/US extradition arrangements. The hon. Gentleman himself also raised the issue with me in a recent meeting.

The representations supported inaccurate claims in the press that I was about to introduce an additional statutory bar to extradition called "forum" which could prevent extradition where a case could be tried in the UK.

The Government keep extradition legislation under review, but have no plans to introduce this additional bar, which would apply to all countries with which the UK has extradition relations, including the US. I am satisfied that the Extradition Act 2003 already contains full and effective safeguards for the rights of requested persons. Introducing a ground for refusal of extradition based on forum is not only unnecessary, but would make the Act operate in a manner that is inconsistent with all of the UK's bilateral extradition treaties—including the bilateral treaty between the UK and the US. It would also give rise to real practical difficulties for prosecutors and would risk allowing criminals to evade justice.

Home Office Ministers have consistently made it clear in Parliament and to the press that the new extradition treaty with the United States is not one-sided, and we are satisfied that the provisions ensure that extradition is dealt with under procedures that are as broadly comparable as it is possible to achieve between two different jurisdictions.

The UK/US extradition treaty means that both the UK and the US are under an international obligation to assist with extradition requests to the extent compatible with the law. The key issue is to ensure that offences are dealt with in the place where they can be most effectively prosecuted. Where the main witnesses and the main evidence are in another state, then it makes sense for the defendants to be extradited to face justice there.

Taking all these matters into account, I am satisfied that the right balance has been struck between the need to safeguard the rights of defendants against the need to uphold the rule of law.

Firearms: Children

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps her Department is taking to prevent children coming into possession of replica firearms, air rifles and BB guns. [166594]

Mr. Coaker: The Violent Crime Reduction Act 2006 made it an offence for a person under the age of 18 to buy an imitation firearm (including a BB gun), and to sell an imitation firearm to a person aged under 18. The Act also increased the minimum age at which a young person may purchase or hire an air weapon, or possess an air weapon without adult supervision, to 18; it made it an offence to sell, hire or make a gift of an air weapon to a person under 18; and it required that all commercial sales of air weapons must be through registered firearms dealers.

This package of measures is designed to prevent children and young people gaining possession of such items.

The Act also outlawed the sale, manufacture or importation of realistic imitation firearms, applicable to people of any age.

Fraud: Internet

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps the Government are taking to help prevent internet fraud; and if she will make a statement. [169249]

Mr. Coaker: The Government take all fraud seriously and believes that internet fraud is best prevented by raising the public's awareness of how they can be attacked online and advises them of how they can avoid their details and money being stolen.

To that end the Government support GetSafeOnline which is a joint Government and industry initiative which provides clear, accessible and up-to-date advice on the easy ways in which the public and small businesses can protect themselves and their PCs while using the internet.

Frontiers: Security

Mr. Paterson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate she has made of the cost of (a) establishing and (b) running an e-borders system (i) excluding and (ii) including Northern Ireland. [168403]

Mr. Byrne: The costs to Government of establishing the e-Borders programme is £490 million, with further running costs of £596 million over the 10-year life of the current contract.

It is not possible to disaggregate the specific costs requested.

Mr. Paterson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when an e-borders system in Great Britain was first proposed. [168406]

Mr. Byrne: The vision of e-Borders, in the context of developing a new concept of screening passengers before they travel to the UK, was first proposed in the White Paper 'Secure Borders, Safe Haven' (CM 5387) published in February 2002.

Genetics: Databases

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate she has made of the number of replicated profiles on the National DNA Database; and how many of these are (a) multiple profiles of the same individual under (i) different and (ii) the same names, (b) identical twins or triplets and (c) adventitious matches between different individuals. [162366]

Meg Hillier: It is estimated that at 31 October 2007 there were approximately 646,890 replicate profiles from individuals on the National DNA Database. If a crime scene profile matches replicate profiles from individuals, a match report showing all the apparent individuals matched will be sent to the force. Thus the presence of these replicate profiles does not impact on the effectiveness and integrity of the database. Nonetheless, a long term exercise is under way to identify issues associated with the removal of such redundant replicate profiles.

Of the 646,890 replicates, 107,966 are due to upgrading samples from the SGM to the SGM Plus method of analysing DNA. When the NDNAD was set up in 1995, the SM profiling system was used which looked at six areas of DNA plus the area sowing the person's sex. In 1999 SGM was replaced by SGM Plus which looks at 10 areas of DNA plus the sex area. SGM has a one in 50 million chance of being incorrect, and SGM Plus has a better than one in 1,000 million chance of being incorrect, when applied to the general population, though they are less discriminating between individuals who are related, or if matched against partial profiles from crime scenes i.e. where the DNA found at the crime scene is too degraded to look at all the relevant areas of DNA. It was decided when SGM Plus was introduced that it was too costly to reanalyse all the samples taken between 1995 and 1999 to upgrade them from SGM to SGM Plus. However, if a match occurs involving an SGM profile, or a partial crime scene profile, the original samples are routinely reanalysed using SGM Plus to provide the best possible match. This may lead to the existence of both an SGM and an SGM Plus profile for the same person.

The information requested on the number of multiple profiles of the same individuals under different and the same names is not available. However, since July 2004 the NDNAD Custodian's Data Quality and Integrity Team has been carrying out a programme to analyse replicate profiles of the SGM Plus type that are shown on two or more Police National Computer records. This work is in support of police operations and is not an exhaustive review of all replicates. It has revealed 3,752 pairs of false/dual identities on PNC where the owning force has now merged the PNC records, and 3,327 pairs of identical twins and five sets of identical triplets on the NDNAD. A marker is entered on the Police National Computer to alert officers to the existence of these twins or triplets.

To date no adventitious matches between unrelated individuals have been discovered where the SGM Plus profiling system has been used.

Hoaxes and False Alarms: Metropolitan Police

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many and what percentage of 999 calls received by the Metropolitan Police were hoaxes in each year since 1997. [166970]

Mr. McNulty: This information is not held centrally. This is a matter for the Commissioner of Police of the Metropolis.

Human Trafficking

Mr. Henderson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment she has made of the effect of the introduction of the EU anti-trafficking hotline on the level of human trafficking. [168310]

Mr. Coaker: We foresee some difficulties with a proposed EU anti-trafficking hotline, including issues relating to the management and dissemination of information received and language difficulties. The value of a hotline over and above national arrangements and existing structures would have to be demonstrated.

Ibrahim Moussawi

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will deny entry to the UK to Ibrahim Moussawi; what recent representations she has received about this person; and if she will make a statement. [169455]

Mr. Byrne: The Border and Immigration Agency is unable to comment on individual cases.

Identity Cards

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent estimate she has made of the likely cost of an identity card and passport package in 2007-08 prices. [164799]

Meg Hillier: It is expected that the full cost of Identity Services provided by the National Identity Scheme will be recovered through charges to individuals and to private and public user organisations. A detailed charging strategy is still to be fully developed, although it is intended that running costs of the scheme will be recovered from fees just as they are now for passports.

The previous best estimate for the average unit cost of the combined passport and ID card package was £93, based on 2005 prices. A figure at 2007-08 prices would be subject to increase, in line with the rate of inflation. Decisions on the actual fee structure will be made before the first identity cards are issued and so it is not possible to give a precise figure for the cost of an identity card and passport package at present.

Illegal Immigrants: Employment

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the annual budget is for investigations into employers who give jobs to illegal immigrants. [169706]

Mr. Byrne: The cost of investigations into employers who give jobs to illegal immigrants is not disaggregated from the overall costs of the Border and Immigration Agency and therefore not readily available. Any attempt to calculate the cost of investigations into employers who give jobs to illegal immigrants would need to take into account a large number of factors and this could be done only at disproportionate cost. However the total public spending for the Border and Immigration Agency is set out in the published Home Office Report, a copy of which is available in the House Library and on the Home Office website at:

http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/documents/ho-annual-report-07.

Injuries

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) injuries and (b) deaths there were per 1,000 of the population from (i) traffic accidents, (ii) assaults and (iii) other violent crimes in each year since 1997. [167005]

Mr. McNulty: The recorded crime figures do not specify if any injuries or deaths are due to traffic accidents.

The available recorded crime data is given in the following table. Figures for wounding and homicide per 1,000 population have been provided. However, the figures given in the table are not directly comparable due to an expansion in the offence coverage in 1998-99 and the introduction of the National Crime Recording Standard in 2002-03, both of which increased the amount of recorded crime significantly. These changes will have affected the calculations derived from the base figures.

Number of offences per 1,000 population which resulted in wounding[1] and homicide

Litter: West Midlands

Lynda Waltho: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what powers police have to take action against those caught (a) dropping litter and (b) fly-tipping; how many (i) prosecutions were brought and (ii) penalty notices were issued under each power in each of the local authority areas in the West Midlands in each of the last five years. [168862]

Joan Ruddock: I have been asked to reply.

Dropping litter is an offence under section 87 of the Environmental Protection Act 1990, punishable by a fixed penalty fine, which can be set locally by a council within a range of £50 to £80, or prosecution (with a fine of up to £2,500 on conviction). Police community support officers, persons accredited under community accreditation schemes, parish councils and local authority authorised officers have enforcement powers, although responsibility rests primarily with the local authority.

Data on the number of fixed penalty notices (FPNs) issued and cases taken to court can be found on the DEFRA website at www.defra.gov.uk

The deposit of waste without a licence, or fly-tipping, is an offence under section 33 of the Environmental Protection Act 1990. The offence carries a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment, an unlimited fine, or both. Due to the serious nature of fly-tipping, there is no FPN available. Local authorities must prosecute offenders through the courts.

Flycapture, the national fly-tipping database, was set up in 2004 and records the number of fly-tipping incidents dealt with by the Environment Agency and local authorities. The database also records enforcement actions taken, including prosecutions.

Data are available from April 2004 onwards and are as follows:

Passports: Proof of Identity

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether she expects all the offices in the National Identity Scheme network serving first-time passport applicants to be operational by the end of 2007. [166092]

Jacqui Smith: Based on current estimates, the Identity and Passport Service is scheduled to roll out 62 of the interview office network by the end of 2007. The remaining seven are scheduled to open in early 2008.

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether electronic data on deaths and naturalisation is used to check passport applications. [166093]

Jacqui Smith: The Identity and Passport Service (IPS) currently runs automated checks for all passport applications against electronic records relating to infant deaths provided by the Office of National Statistics and the General Registry Office for Scotland and Northern Ireland.

Passport applicants' naturalisation details are checked against electronic data from the Border and Immigration Agency (BIA). These checks commenced in December 2006. The link to BIA will be fully automated in 2008 to improve the efficiency of these checks.

An automated service to introduce identity and death checks against electronic data from the Department for Work and Pensions will be deployed in December 2007 and will be operational from February 2008.

Police Custody: Greater London

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) police cells and (b) custody suites there are in each London borough. [169271]

Mr. McNulty: The provision of police custody accommodation in London boroughs is a matter for the Commissioner of Police of the Metropolis and the Metropolitan Police Authority.

Police Custody: Suffolk

Mr. Spring: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) how much the Border and Immigration Agency and its predecessor paid Suffolk police authority for use of its police cells in each of the last five years; [167907]

(2) how much the Border and Immigration Agency pays Suffolk police authority to use a police cell for a 24 hour period. [167908]

Mr. Byrne: The Border and Immigration Agency has paid Suffolk police authority the following amounts for use of police cells in each of the last four years. Data for 2002-03 the fifth year is not readily available because of change of computer system.

| | Amount (£) |
|---|---|
| 2002-03 | n/a |
| 2003-04 | 430 |
| 2004-05 | 2,032 |
| 2005-06 | 1,117 |
| 2006-07 | 136 |

n/a = not available.

The Border and Immigration Agency pays Suffolk police authority incidental expenses at cost to use a police cell for a 24 hour period. These expenses include meal costs, interpreters and female staff as appropriate.

Police: Cars

Mr. Boris Johnson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many police cars were in use in (a) England, (b) London and (c) each London borough in each year since 1997. [166925]

Mr. McNulty: This information is not collected centrally as it is a matter for individual police forces.

Police: Disciplinary Proceedings

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many SO19 officers are currently suspended from duty; and what percentage of the total SO19 squad those suspensions represent for each police force. [169246]

Mr. McNulty: Authorised firearms officers within the Metropolitan Police Service now serve within CO19 Specialist Firearms Command. Information is not collected centrally on the number of authorised firearms officers suspended from duty in police force areas.

Police: Road Traffic Control

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what percentage of police funding for 2007-08 has been allocated to traffic policing in each police force area in England and Wales; how many dedicated traffic police officers there were in each police force area in each year since 1997; what percentage of the number of police officers these figures represent in each case; what recent discussions she has had with the Association of Chief Police Officers on the number of dedicated traffic police officers; and if she will make a statement. [166881]

Mr. McNulty: Government funding for police authorities is chiefly allocated using a funding formula that provides an assessment of the relative need of each police force in England and Wales.

Funding for traffic policing is not separately identified. Decisions on the distribution of resources are matters for the Chief Officer and the police authority.

Such information as is available which has been provided by police forces to the Home Office is set out in the following tables. Information at force level prior to 2003 is not available.

[1] Staff with multiple responsibilities (or designations) are recorded under their primary role or function. This can result in substantial changes from year in year in certain forces, and may not fully reflect overall deployment. The traffic function includes staff who are predominantly employed on motorcycles or in patrol vehicles for the policing of traffic and motorway related duties. The does not include officers employed in accident investigation, vehicle examination and radar duties.

Home Office

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the average (a) number of police in and (b) proportion of each police force employed in speed enforcement on roads was in each of the last five years. [167007]

Mr. McNulty: The Home Office's collection of police personnel data by function does not separately identify those employed in speed enforcement.

Police: Terrorism

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many police officers were seconded from Essex police to the Metropolitan police for counter-terrorism duties in each of the last 48 months. [167430]

Mr. McNulty: Information collected centrally about the number of officers on secondment does not identify the force to which the officer is seconded.

Proof of Identity: Aviation

John Cummings: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what constitutes an official identity photo document for a British subject who does not hold a passport or driving licence when demanded by certain airline carriers operating internal UK flights. [166034]

Meg Hillier: The form of official identity photo documents required for domestic flights is a matter for individual airlines to define as there is no legal requirement to provide proof of identity for travel within the UK.

Schools: Offensive Weapons

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what funding the Government has allocated for educational programmes in schools in 2007-08 aimed at tackling gun crime. [164757]

Mr. Coaker: The Department for Children, Schools and Families will shortly be making available additional funding to accelerate the roll out of the extended schools programme in 12 local authorities where gun, gang and knife crime is most prevalent. This extra funding will be in addition to the £790 million given to local authorities during 2005-08 to fund the roll out of extended schools.

The Home Office also provides small grants to local community groups through the Connected Fund. Some of this work includes working with young people in schools on educational programmes on gun crime. In 2007-08, the Connected Fund has allocated a total of £500,000 to 100 local community projects.

Security

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to her written ministerial statement of 14 November 2007, Official Report, column 45WS, on protective security, if she will provide a copy of Lord West's report to hon. and right hon. opposition Members. [166776]

Mr. McNulty [holding answer 22 November 2007]: No. As my right hon. Friend the Home Secretary said in her written ministerial statement of 14 November 2007, Official Report, column 45WS, we do not intend to publish the report because we do not wish in any way to compromise our security.

Sexual Offences: Victim Support Schemes

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent assessment she has made of the rollout of the Independent Sexual Violence Advisers scheme; and if she will make a statement. [168697]

Mr. Coaker: Independent Sexual Violence Advisers (and Independent Domestic Violence Advisers) are currently being independently evaluated by Cardiff University and Wolverhampton University. This evaluation is being funded by the Home Office. The evaluators are planning to produce an interim report in December and a final report next summer. The Government will make a decision on the continued roll out of these Advisers based on this evaluation.

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many Independent Sexual Violence Advisers (ISVAs) have been appointed since the commencement of the scheme; how many ISVAs remain in post; and in which areas they serve. [168698]

Mr. Coaker: In total, 38 Independent Sexual Violence Advisers (ISVAs) were appointed in 2006-07. The following table gives the locations and catchment areas of the ISVA services.

At the end of 2006-07, ISVA services were asked to complete an assessment which included details of the recruitment and retention of ISVAs. As a result of this exercise, as far as we are aware all the ISVAs funded have remained in post.

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much of her Department's budget has been spent or committed on the Independent Sexual Violence Advisers scheme in the 2007-08 financial year; and how much has been budgeted for the scheme for the 2008-09 financial year. [168699]

Mr. Coaker: Following the £760,000 funding provided to develop 38 Independent Sexual Violence Adviser (ISVA) services in 2006-07, the Government committed a further £760,000 in 2007-08 to sustain these services. In addition to this, just over £85,000 was allocated for accredited training for the role.

Budgets for 2008-09 are currently being worked up.

Terrorism

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many staff in her Department are assigned to the monitoring and investigation of cults associated with terrorism; and if she will make a statement. [168885]

Mr. McNulty: The monitoring and investigation of groups concerned in terrorism are operational matters for the Security Service and the police. It would be inappropriate for me to comment further.

Terrorism: Essex

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much was spent by each authority in Essex on combating terrorism in the borough in each of the last two years for which information is available. [167426]

Mr. McNulty: The Home Office does not hold information relating to spending by each authority in Essex on combating terrorism.

Terrorism: Victims

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) males and (b) females were (i) killed and (ii) injured in terrorist attacks in the UK in each year since 1990, broken down by age group. [167427]

Mr. McNulty: Available information on persons killed relates to homicides recorded by police in England and Wales where the circumstance was 'attributed to acts of terrorism'. Data for the period 1990 to 2005-06 are shown in the following tables. The figures do not include the deaths of alleged suspects who die during terrorist activity.

Injuries inflicted as a result of terrorist activity in England and Wales cannot be separately identified from the recorded crime datasets held by the Home Office. However, the Official Report into the 7 July London bombings states that an additional 700 persons were injured in the four attacks.

Statistics for Scotland and Northern Ireland are a matter for the respective Secretaries of State.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Crime: Offensive Weapons

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many incidents of crimes involving knives were reported in Belfast, North constituency in each year since 2002. [168487]

Paul Goggins: The number of incidents of crimes involving knives in North Belfast District Command Unit in each year since 2002 is as follows:

| | Number of incidents |
|---|---|
| 2002-03 | 135 |
| 2003-04 | 112 |
| 2004-05 | 141 |
| 2005-06 | 173 |
| 2006-07 | 127 |

In addition to raising the age at which knives can be purchased from 16 to 18 years of age, I have recently published proposals to toughen the laws on knife crime in Northern Ireland. The proposed changes will double the penalties for a series of knife crimes including possession, manufacture and sales offences and are part of the draft proposed Criminal Justice (NI) Order 2007 published for consultation on 8 November.

Criminal Justice Order

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the reasons are for the date at which the draft Criminal Justice Order will come into force. [168537]

Paul Goggins: Under the Northern Ireland Act 1998, a draft of a proposed Order-in-Council must be laid before Parliament for a period of 60 parliamentary sitting days. The proposed draft Criminal Justice Order was published on 8 November 2007 for consultation with a closing date of 31 January 2008. Following consideration of the representations made, the draft Order will then be laid for debate in Parliament. Subject to parliamentary approval of the draft Order, commencement will be staged with priority being given to the sentencing powers dealing with dangerous sexual and violent offenders. If Parliament approves the Order, it is my intention that these priority powers will come into operation within weeks of that approval.

Departmental Computers

Mr. Gauke: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many of his Department's (a) computers and (b) laptops have been stolen in 2007; and what the value of those items was. [168601]

Mr. Woodward: There have been no computers owned by the NIO stolen in 2007. However, two NIO laptops were stolen during this year, with an estimated value of £1,000 each.

Departmental Data Protection

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland (1) what reviews have been undertaken of his Department's rules on data protection in the last two years; if he will place in the Library a copy of the report of the last review of his Department's compliance with data protection laws; and if his Department will undertake a review of its compliance with data protection laws; [168077]

(2) on how many occasions in his Department confidential data have been downloaded on to compact discs (i) without and (ii) with encryption in the last 12 month period for which figures are available; how many of those discs have been posted without using recorded or registered delivery; what procedures his Department has in place for the (A) transport, (B) exchange and (C) delivery of confidential or sensitive data; what records are kept of information held by his Department being sent outside the Department; what changes have been made to his Department's rules and procedures on data protection in the last two years; on how many occasions his Department's procedures and rules on data protection have been breached in the last five years; what those breaches were; what procedures his Department has in place on downloading confidential data on to computer discs, before its transfer; what technical protections there are in his Department's computer systems to prevent access to information held on those systems which is not in accordance with departmental procedures; and if he will place in the Library a copy of each of his Department's rules and procedures on the protection of confidential data on individuals, businesses and other organisations; [168260]

(3) how many employees of each grade in his Department (a) have access to confidential or sensitive data and (b) are authorised to download such data to disk; how many of his Department's employees have undergone data protection training in the last 12 months; what the average length of time is that each employee of his Department has spent on data protection training; how many investigations of employees of his Department for improperly accessing confidential information have taken place in the last 12 months; how many such investigations resulted in cases of disciplinary action; and what the circumstances of each of those cases was. [168287]

Mr. Walker: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland whether his Department's information technology and data management systems are BS7799 compliant. [168741]

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland (1) on how many occasions the Information Commissioner was contacted by his Department to report breaches of data protection security in each of the last five years; [168818]

(2) how many breaches of data protection security there were in (a) his Department and (b) his Department's agencies in each of the last five years; and if he will provide details of each breach. [168829]

Paul Goggins: I refer the hon. Members to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Departmental Manpower

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many members of staff in the Northern Ireland Office are (a) Northern Ireland civil servants and (b) Home Office civil servants, broken down by grade. [168486]

Mr. Woodward: The following table shows the breakdown of staff in the Northern Ireland Office by (a) Northern Ireland civil servants and (b) Home Office civil servants, broken down by grade.

Domestic Violence: Convictions

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many people were convicted of domestic violence offences in Northern Ireland in each of the last six years; and what the penalty imposed in each case was. [166211]

Paul Goggins: At present specific information on domestic assaults is not included in court conviction and sentencing data. It is not possible, therefore, to separate domestic violence from other violent offences.

It is, however, possible to give the number convicted of offences which, by their definition, relate to domestic violence. Specifically these are: 'breach of non-molestation order'; 'breach of occupation order'; and 'breach of exclusion requirement'. Conviction and sentencing data for these offences are documented in Tables 1-3.

A wider range of information on the incidence and impact of domestic violence is available from the Northern Ireland Crime Survey and from PSNI statistics. PSNI statistics from 2005-06 to 2006-07 report a 6.1 per cent. decrease in the number of domestic crimes recorded and further details are available at:

http://www.psni.police.uk/2._domestic_incidents_and_crimes-3.pdf

I have placed a copy of the latest available statistical bulletin on domestic violence from the Northern Ireland Crime Survey in the Library of the House.

Data in the following tables cover the calendar years 2000 to 2005 (the latest available years) and are collated on the principal offence rule; so only the most serious offence with which an offender is charged is included.

Table 1: Disposals given to those convicted for 'breach of non-molestation order' 2000-05

| | 2000 | 2001 | 2002 | 2003[1] | 2004 | 2005 |

Driving Under Influence

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what research he has commissioned on lowering the permitted alcohol limit for drink drive offences in Northern Ireland. [170455]

Paul Goggins: The permitted alcohol limit for drink drive offences in Northern Ireland is a devolved matter and is the responsibility of the Minister of the Environment in the Northern Ireland Executive.

Homicide: Elderly

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many elderly persons have been murdered in their homes in Northern Ireland in each year since 1998; and how many persons have been (a) charged with and (b) convicted of such murders. [168539]

Paul Goggins: The number of elderly persons murdered in their homes in Northern Ireland for each year since 2001 is set out in the following table.

The table also sets out the number of murders cleared, and the number cleared by means of a charge or summons.

It is not possible to supply data for the first three years requested as the exact location of murders was not recorded prior to 2001. Since the recorded figures for convictions do not record details of victims, it is not possible to provide data on the number of convictions.

| | Number of murders recorded | Number of murders cleared | Number of murders cleared by means of charge/ summons |
| 2001-02 | 2 | 2 | 2 |
| 2002-03 | 1 | 1 | 1 |
| 2003-04 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| 2004-05 | 1 | 1 | 1 |
| 2005-06 | 0 | 0 | 0 |

Illegal Immigrants

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many illegal immigrants were discovered working for his Department in the last year for which figures are available. [170478]

Paul Goggins: No illegal immigrants have been discovered working in the Northern Ireland Office.

Northern Ireland Act 1998

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will review the effectiveness of section 75 of the Northern Ireland Act 1998; and if he will make a statement. [168538]

Mr. Woodward: In accordance with schedule 9 to the Northern Ireland Act 1998, the Equality Commission for Northern Ireland recently conducted a major review of the effectiveness of the duties imposed by section 75 of the 1998 Act. This involved independent research and widespread engagement across the public, voluntary and community sectors.

A final report setting out the Commission's recommendations for enhanced effectiveness of section 75 implementation will be published shortly.

Orange Order: Crimes of Violence

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many attacks were made on Orange halls in each constituency in Northern Ireland in each year since 1998. [168488]

Paul Goggins: PSNI has advised statistics in relation to recorded criminal damage offences involving an Orange Hall are only available from 2001-02 and are collated by District Command Unit rather than constituency. These are shown in the following table.

Criminal damage offences recorded where the location of the offence is an Orange Hall 2001-02—2006-07

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many people were (a) charged with and (b) convicted of attacks on Orange halls in Northern Ireland in each year since 1998. [168489]

Paul Goggins: PSNI has advised that statistics in relation to those charged with criminal damage offences involving an Orange Hall are only available from 2001-02. The table details these statistics.

The information requested in relation to convictions of those charged would necessitate a manual trawl through files across Departments and police districts which would incur a disproportionate cost.

Police Service of Northern Ireland: Religion

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many and what percentage of (a) applicants and (b) appointees to the Police Service of Northern Ireland were (i) Protestant, (ii) Roman Catholic and (iii) of non-determined religion in each of the last four years. [168000]

Paul Goggins: I am advised that as of 23 November 2007, the number of people in each category of applicants and appointees in each of the last four years is as; follows:

| | Protestant | | Catholic | | Not determined | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Number | Percentage | Number | Percentage | Number | Percentage |
| Applicants | | | | | | |
| 2004 | 6,713 | 62.90 | 3,691 | 34.59 | 268 | 2.51 |
| 2005 | 8,456 | 61.29 | 4,909 | 35.58 | 431 | 3.12 |
| 2006 | 9,152 | 58.69 | 5,953 | 38.18 | 488 | 3.13 |
| 2007 | 3,819 | 51.28 | 3,310 | 44.45 | 318 | 4.27 |
| Appointees | | | | | | |
| 2004 | 303 | 50.67 | 290 | 48.49 | 5 | 0.84 |
| 2005 | 218 | 48.55 | 227 | 50.56 | 4 | 0.89 |
| 2006 | 200 | 49.26 | 202 | 49.75 | 4 | 0.99 |
| 2007 | 177 | 48.36 | 187 | 51.09 | 2 | 0.55 |

Only one recruitment competition was held in 2007, hence the reduction in the number of applicants. In previous years, two competitions were held.

The reason the percentages quoted for Catholic and non-Catholic appointees are not exactly 50:50 when represented in this way, is that the 50:50 provisions are applied to each recruitment competition and not to each calendar year.

Police Service of Northern Ireland: Training

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much was spent by the Police Service of Northern Ireland on equality and human rights training in each financial year since 2002-03; and what percentage this represented of the total training budget. [168534]

Paul Goggins: Human Rights and Diversity training has been embedded across all aspects of the PSNI training programme. For example, all lessons delivered within the college would have been audited for human rights compliance and officers involved in firearms training would also receive twice yearly training on human rights. Therefore, a breakdown of costs for individual aspects of training courses is not readily accessible. To collate the figures would require a manual trawl of records and this could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Sexual Offences: Prisoners Release

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many sex offenders were released on licence under Article 26 of the Criminal Justice (Northern Ireland) Order 1996 in each year since the legislation came into operation; and how many were (a) fined and (b) recalled to prison for breach of their licence conditions under Article 27 of that Order in each year. [168490]

Paul Goggins: The information requested is set out in the following table. The first year that people were released under Article 26 was 2000.

| | Released on licence (Article 26) | Breach of licence | Recall to custody | Fine |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 2000 | 3 | 0 | — | — |
| 2001 | 3 | 2 | 2 | — |
| 2002 | 6 | 1 | 1 | — |
| 2003 | 9 | 0 | — | — |
| 2004 | 14 | 0 | — | — |
| 2005 | 11 | 0 | — | — |
| 2006 | 10 | 3 | 1 | 2 |

WALES

Delivery Services

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales which companies are under contract to his Department to provide mail services. [170176]

Mr. Hain: The Wales Office have mail service contracts with Royal Mail and Government Car and Despatch Agency.

Departmental Data Protection

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales what plans his Department has to review the practices involved in transporting data; whether his Department (a) uses and (b) plans to continue to use TNT to transport data; and what plans it has to put the transportation of confidential data out to tender. [169382]

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales how many confirmed data security breaches there have been in his Department in the last 36 months; and what action was taken after each occurrence. [170243]

Mr. Hain: I refer the hon. Members to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Departmental Marketing

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales if he will place in the Library a copy of the guidelines issued to staff maintaining his Department's and its agencies' corporate identity; and what the estimated cost of (a) producing and (b) complying with such guidelines is. [170224]

Mr. Hain: The Wales Office does not issue staff guidelines on corporate identity and subsequently does not incur costs against this.

Advice is provided on a case-by-case basis by the Communications team as and when necessary.

Education: Wrexham

Ian Lucas: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales how many students entered (a) further education and (b) higher education in each ward in Wrexham in the last 10 years. [168898]

Mr. Hain: The following table shows data available from the Health Education Statistics Agency illustrating Wrexham domiciled first year undergraduate and further education enrolments at UK higher education institutions by level of study and electoral ward. These are derived from unitary local authority returns. These do not provide comparisons over the period requested, but only since 2003, and currently until 2005-06.

Illegal Immigrants

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales how many illegal immigrants have been discovered working for his Department in the last year for which figures are available. [170476]

Mr. Hain: None.

PRIME MINISTER

Departmental Ministerial Policy Advisers

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Prime Minister what the expected salary level of the Prime Minister's independent adviser on ministerial interests will be in the year commencing 1 January 2008. [170475]

The Prime Minister: The independent adviser on Ministers' interests will publish an annual report, which will include information relating to his appointment and role.

Ministry of Defence

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Prime Minister (1) when he last visited the Ministry of Defence's permanent joint headquarters; [169988]

(2) when he last visited the Ministry of Defence main building; and for what purposes. [169989]

The Prime Minister: I have regular meetings and discussions with ministerial colleagues and officials on a wide range of subjects, including within the Ministry of Defence.

Transport

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Prime Minister how many times he has met individuals representing (a) rail passengers, (b) the rail industry, (c) bus passengers, (d) bus companies, (e) coach passengers, (f) coach companies and (g) cyclists since he became Prime Minister. [170735]

The Prime Minister: My officials and I have meetings with a wide range of organisations and individuals on a range of subjects.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Alcoholic Drinks: Licensing

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what terms of reference have been adopted for the review of the operation of the Licensing Act 2003; and when the review is expected to conclude. [167978]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Prior to the introduction of the Act on 24 November 2005, Ministers committed to evaluate the impact of the Act after sufficient evidence became available. This will review progress in achieving the aims of the reform and the impact of the Act on the four statutory licensing objectives: (the prevention of crime and disorder; public safety; the prevention of public nuisance; and the protection of children from harm).

The evaluation will also consider the level of administrative burdens placed on business by the Act measured against a May 2005 baseline; the impact of the Act on the provision of live music; and the efficiency of various processes in the Act. A key element of the review will be the assessment of the impact of reform on crime and disorder which is being carried out by the Home Office.

The review brings together the various outputs and conclusions from a number of studies about whether any changes are necessary to: (a) statutory Guidance produced under section 182 of the Act; (b) regulations made under the Act; and (c) the primary legislation itself.

The studies are described as follows:

Scrutiny Councils Initiative;

Review of Statutory Guidance;

DCMS Simplification Plan;

Independent Fees Panel Report;

Live Music Forum Report;

National Statistics licensing data bulletin;

Analysis of actual on-trade closing hours;

Home Office Study into impact on Crime and Disorder.

We expect to conclude this work in the new year once the Home Office crime and disorder evaluation is published.

Arts Council of England: Finance

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport pursuant to his Department's press release of 12 October, how much funding the Arts Council England will receive from the comprehensive spending review settlement in (a) cash and (b) real terms until 2011. [168557]

James Purnell: Over the next three years Arts Council England will receive the following revenue Grant in Aid:

| | Revenue GIA (£ million) |
|---|---|
| 2008-09 | 428.955 |
| 2009-10 | 443.455 |
| 2010-11 | 466.955 |

In real terms, the figures in 2007-08 prices would be:

| | Real terms (£ million) |

British Film Council: Ministerial Powers

Mr. MacShane: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if he will make a statement on his oversight role under the Royal Charter establishing the British Film Council. [169366]

Margaret Hodge: The Secretary of State has oversight of the work of the British Film Institute through his Department's sponsorship of the UK Film Council.

The only reference to the Secretary of State in the British Film Institute Royal Charter (as amended and in effect from 19 April 2000) relates to the appointment of the chairman, who shall be appointed, with the approval of the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport, by the Film Council.

British Film Institute: Public Appointments

Mr. MacShane: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if he will ensure that the British Film Council publishes the short-list of candidates to be chair of the British Film Institute prior to his approving the Film Council's choice. [169365]

Margaret Hodge: No. Publication of the shortlist would breach individuals' rights to confidentiality. The UK Film Council has responsibility for appointing the chair of the British Film Institute and will ensure a fair and open competition. The Secretary of State must formally approve the appointment.

Broadcasting: Emergencies

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what recent discussions he has had with Ofcom on their ability to waive licence fees and vary rules with regard to broadcasting in times of emergencies; and if he will make a statement. [169992]

James Purnell: None. The planning, licensing and regulation of radio (except BBC) is a matter for the independent regulator Ofcom.

Crimes of Violence

Mr. Betts: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what consultation took place on the Guidance on Expedited Licence Reviews under the Violent Crime Reduction Act 2006 before it came into force. [166200]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Department for Culture, Media and Sport produced non-statutory guidance to assist police forces and licensing authorities when considering using the provisions inserted at section 53A of the 2003 Act by the Violent Crime Reduction Act 2006. Members of the Department's stakeholder advisory group on licensing, which includes representatives of local authorities, the police and the licensed trade, were given an opportunity to comment on a draft of the guidance before it was finalised.

Cutty Sark: Finance

Dan Rogerson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much has been provided for the project to restore the Cutty Sark from (a) Government funds and (b) lottery funding. [169007]

Margaret Hodge: Between 1996 and 2006, the Heritage Lottery Fund awarded five grants totalling £13,457,216 to the project to restore the Cutty Sark. These were (1) £160,000 for urgent repairs (1996); (2) £48,216 towards a conservation plan (1997); (3) £198,000 for restoration of the Mizzen Mast (1998); (4) £50,000 towards phase one of the preservation project (2003); and £13,001,000 towards the conservation project (including £1,251,000 of development funding) (2006). Government do not directly fund such projects.

Delivery Services

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport which companies are under contract to his Department to provide mail services. [170163]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Department for Culture, Media and Sport has contracts for the provision of mail services with Pitney Bowes, the Government Car and Despatch Service and the Royal Mail.

Departmental Computers

Mr. Gauke: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many of his Department's (a) computers and (b) laptops have been stolen in 2007; and what the value of those items was. [168599]

Mr. Sutcliffe: My Department has not had any laptops or computers stolen in 2007.

Departmental Correspondence

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what percentage of inquiries received by his Department from the public were responded to within (a) one week, (b) 14 days, (c) 28 days, (d) two months and (e) three months in the last period for which figures are available; and in what percentage of cases it took (i) over three months and (ii) over one year to respond. [167381]

Mr. Sutcliffe: DCMS takes very seriously its responsibility for responding to inquiries from members of the public. The Department does not hold the information requested in the format required, and to provide it in this format would incur disproportionate cost.

For the period 1 January 2007 to 23 October 2007, 90.58 per cent. of our responses to members of the public (8,624 of 9,521 cases) were answered within 20 working days and we aim to answer as high a percentage as possible within a significantly shorter timeframe. Additionally, 74.35 per cent. of responses to letters from MPs and Peers were answered within 20 working days for the same time period.

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport (1) what reviews have been undertaken of his Department's rules on data protection in the last two years; if he will place in the Library a copy of the report of the last review of his Department's compliance with data protection laws; and if (a) his Department and (b) his Department's agencies will undertake a review of their compliance with data protection laws; [168085]

(2) on how many occasions in (a) his Department and (b) its agencies confidential data have been downloaded on to compact discs (i) without and (ii) with encryption in the last 12 month period for which figures are available; how many of those discs have been posted without using recorded or registered delivery; what procedures his Department has in place for the (A) transport, (B) exchange and (C) delivery of confidential or sensitive data; what records are kept of information held by his Department being sent outside the Department; what changes have been made to his Department's rules and procedures on data protection in the last two years; on how many occasions his Department's procedures and rules on data protection have been breached in the last five years; what those breaches were; what procedures his Department has in place on downloading confidential data on to computer discs before its transfer; what technical protections there are in his Department's computer systems to prevent access to information held on those systems which is not in accordance with departmental procedures; and if he will place in the Library a copy of each of his Department's rules and procedures on the protection of confidential data on individuals, businesses and other organisations; [168251]

(3) how many employees of each grade in his Department (a) have access to confidential or sensitive data and (b) are authorised to download such data to disc; how many of his Department's employees have undergone data protection training in the last 12 months; what the average length of time is that each employee of (i) his Department and (ii) his Department's agency has spent on data protection training; how many investigations of employees of his Department for improperly accessing confidential information have taken place in the last 12 months; how many such investigations resulted in cases of disciplinary action; and what the circumstances of each of those cases were. [168271]

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what procedures are in place in his Department to ensure that personal information relating to members of the public is (a) stored and (b) transported securely. [168479]

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport (1) on how many occasions the Information Commissioner was contacted by his Department to report breaches of data protection security in each of the last five years; [168819]

(2) how many breaches of data protection security there were in (a) his Department and (b) his Department's Agency in each of the last five years; and if he will provide details of each breach. [168830]

Mr. Sutcliffe: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Mr. Walker: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport whether his Department's information technology and data management systems are BS7799 compliant. [168751]

Mr. Sutcliffe: My Department gained accreditation last year for part one (documentation) of BS7799 and is fully compliant with part two (processes) of the standard.

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport (1) how many requests his Department received from the National Audit Office for access to databases containing personal information on members of the general public in each year since 1997; [168971]

(2) how many times databases held by his Department and containing personal information on members of the general public were accessed in each month of the last five years; [168973]

(3) how many security breaches regarding access to personal data occurred within his Department in each year since 1997; [168975]

(4) when each electronic database held by his Department containing personal information on members of the general public was first created; [168976]

(5) how many electronic databases held by his Department contain (a) names, (b) addresses, (c) bank details and (d) other personal information on members of the general public. [168977]

Mr. Sutcliffe: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Mr. Rob Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many breaches of the Data Protection Act 1998 requiring investigation there have been in the last five years in his Department; what the nature of such breaches were; and what the results of the investigations were in each case. [169259]

Mr. Sutcliffe: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by right hon. friend the Prime Minister on 21 November, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Departmental Foreign Workers

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many (a) EU foreign nationals and (b) non EU foreign nationals are employed by his Department. [168111]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Department for Culture, Media and Sport is currently employing one EU foreign national and one non EU foreign national.

Departmental Land

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what land surplus to his Department's requirements it is (a) selling, (b) leasing and (c) intending to (i) sell and (ii) lease; and what the size and name of each relevant site is. [168845]

Margaret Hodge: The Department for Culture, Media and Sport is in the process of selling 3.6 acres of surplus land to the "North of the British Library".

Departmental Publicity

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many full-time equivalent staff are responsible for brand management and marketing in his Department and its agencies. [165235]

Margaret Hodge: The Department has 0.5 full-time equivalent staff responsible for brand management and marketing.

DCMS publish a set of brand guidelines which stipulate clear rules about how the DCMS brand should be presented in various visual formats and we insist that our rostered design agencies abide by these guidelines.

We also manage and approve requests from independent and partnership organisations that are working with DCMS and require a joint branding.

The objectives of the DCMS brand are to ensure the visual consistency across printed and digital media to enable a better understanding of the Department's objectives and responsibilities, and raise its profile amongst its diverse audiences which include internal stakeholders, the general public and sponsored bodies.

With regard to its agencies, this information could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much his Department and its agencies spent on staff working on (a) marketing and (b) branding in the last 12 month period for which figures are available. [167309]

Margaret Hodge: The Department has not spent money on staff working on marketing and branding in the last 12 month period.

Information on the Department's agencies could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much has been spent by his Department on advertising in the last 12 months. [167960]

Margaret Hodge: The Department has spent the following on advertising in the last 12 months.

"London 2012: Ask the team" Birmingham event, 25 June 2007—adverts in four local newspapers: £2,639.

"London 2012: Ask the team" London event, 11 October 2007—adverts in three local newspapers: £5,186.

Digital Broadcasting: Salisbury

Robert Key: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if he will bring forward from 2012 the proposed start of digital broadcasting from the Salisbury transmitter. [169288]

James Purnell: The timetable for digital switchover, announced by my right hon. Friend the Member for Dulwich and West Norwood (Tessa Jowell) in 2005, was the result of a great deal of work conducted by spectrum planners, working alongside the broadcasters, Ofcom and Digital UK.

The order in which transmitters would cease broadcasting in analogue, and begin transmitting high power digital signals, was determined primarily by the following technical criteria:

- The need to co-ordinate frequency use with neighbouring countries;
- The desire to avoid interference with maintained analogue services in one region while converting another;
- The time needed in order to convert all 1,154 transmitters, a process requiring a great deal of equipment and highly specialised engineers.

It is therefore extremely difficult to bring forward (or delay) the switchover date for one particular transmitter without a very compelling reason.

East of England Development Agency: Tourism

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what he estimates will be the level of funding for the East of England Development Agency for the purposes of tourism for 2008-09; what proportion this represents of his Department's expenditure on tourism in that year; and if he will make a statement. [166974]

Margaret Hodge: Funding for regional development agencies (RDAs) is not ring-fenced for particular purposes. In 2008-09, the Department for Culture, Media and Sport will provide a contribution of £3.5 million towards the funding of the eight RDAs outside London. Total funding for the RDAs will be £2.2 billion (distributed through the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform) of which the East of England Development Agency (EEDA) will receive £132 million. EEDA allocated £1.34 million for supporting tourism in 2007-08, but has not yet finalised its business plan for 2008-09.

Flags: Public Participation

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many representations he received on the consultation document on flag flying; when he will report on the consultation; and if he will make a statement. [168887]

Margaret Hodge: 305 responses were received by the time the consultation on flying the Union flag on Government buildings closed on 9 November.

DCMS has committed to publishing a summary of those responses within one month of the end of the consultation. The Government intend to respond in the new year.

Football Association

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what meetings he had with the Football Association in each week since June 2007; what the (a) location and (b) duration of each meeting was; whether a record of each meeting was kept; who attended each meeting; what the cost was of each meeting, broken down by (i) administrative and (ii) other costs; and if he will make a statement. [169537]

Mr. Sutcliffe: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State has met the Football Association on a number of occasions since June 2007, firstly on 7 August at the Creating Chances launch, in his office on 8 August, at the launch of Kickz on 14 September, at a reception he hosted for the England women's football team at DCMS on 7 November, at the Barclays Spaces for Sport event at Rosemary Gardens, Islington on 22 November and at Fulham Football Academy on 26 November.

I have also met the FA on a number of occasions since June 2007. Firstly on 13 June and 5 July both in my office, at Soho Square on 18 July, at the FA Agents Conference at Wembley Stadium on 11 October, at a reception for the England women's football team at DCMS on 7 November, at Fulham Football Academy on 26 November and most recently on 28 November at Soho Square. A note was taken of the main issues discussed on 13 June, 5 July, 8 August and 28 November respectively.

The cost of these meetings was met from normal departmental running costs.

Football: Females

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if he will make representations to enable a women's football team from Great Britain to compete in the 2008 Olympics; and if he will make a statement. [169361]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Any decision on whether a Great Britain football team participates at the 2008 Olympic games is a matter for FIFA, the four Home Nations' Football Associations, and the organisers of the Olympic tournament. I believe that the participation of a GB women's football team in the 2008 Beijing Olympics would have strongly benefited women's football and raised its profile across the whole of the UK. I am therefore very disappointed that, despite encouragement from Government and the current enthusiasm for the women's game, no agreement could be reached between the four Home Nations' Football Associations to allow a GB women's football team to participate.

Football: Schools

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what recent discussions he has had with ministerial colleagues in the Department for Children, Schools and Families on football development in (a) primary schools and (b) secondary schools; and if he will make a statement. [170104]

Mr. Sutcliffe: On 21 November 2007, our Secretary of State and the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State at the DCSF, chaired a seminar with governing bodies and school sport associations, including the Football Association and the English Schools Football Association, to develop our plans to increase competitive sporting opportunities for children and young people and create world class junior competition structures in both schools and clubs.

Football: Tickets

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what recent representations he has made to the football association on the pricing regime of Premier League football tickets for the 2007-08 season; and if he will make a statement. [170129]

Mr. Sutcliffe: I meet regularly with the football authorities to discuss a range of issues, including those of direct concern to supporters such as ticket pricing.

Ticket pricing is a matter for the football authorities and it would not be right for Government to seek to intervene in these issues directly.

However, there is a clear role for Government to play in acting as a 'critical friend' to football, and in seeking to facilitate useful debates around areas of concern across all levels of sport.

The Government are committed to ensuring that all football clubs are run in the best possible way and that they remain a focal point of their local community. It is essential that a serious debate takes place around the rising costs involved for those wishing to support their local team on a regular basis and the potential impact this trend might have on the supporters of the future.

Illegal Immigrants

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many illegal immigrants have been discovered working for his Department and its agencies in the last year for which figures are available. [170479]

Mr. Sutcliffe: No illegal immigrants have been discovered working in the Department for Culture, Media and Sport or the Royal Parks in the last year.

Islam

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if he will ask Ofcom to place in the Library the material in its possession originating from (a) West Midlands police, (b) the Crown Prosecution Service and (c) other sources relating to Channel 4's Dispatches programme, Undercover Mosques and the Ofcom investigation into it. [169627]

James Purnell [holding answer 29 November 2007]: The matters raised are the responsibility of the Office of Communications (Ofcom) as independent regulator. Accordingly, my officials have asked the chief executive of Ofcom to respond directly to the hon. Member. Copies of the chief executive's letter will be placed in the Libraries of the House.

Licensed Premises: Finance

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if he will put measures in place to require owners of licensed premises to contribute to the cost of managing public safety consequent upon the night-time economy. [170273]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Such measures would amount to taxation and would therefore be a matter for the Chancellor of the Exchequer to consider. Licensed premises are likely to already be paying tax which would include a contribution to managing public safety at all times of the day and night. There are, therefore, currently no plans to introduce the measures envisaged.

Members: Correspondence

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport when the Minister for Sport will respond to the letter from the hon. Member for West Worcestershire of 15 October on consumer credit licences and amateur private sports clubs (reference: 80018). [170089]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The issues raised in the letter from the hon. Member for West Worcestershire of 15 October fall within the remit of the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (DBERR).

I understand that a reply was sent to the hon. Member on 19 November by my hon. Friend the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Trade and Consumer Affairs (Mr. Thomas).

Multiple Occupation: Digital Broadcasting

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport whether communal digital television receiving infrastructure will be built in to all new dwellings for multiple occupation constructed as part of the 2012 Olympic site regeneration. [168997]

James Purnell: Yes. All residential properties built as part of the Olympic Village will have the benefit of a fibre communications network which will allow for transmission of voice, data and other communication protocols including digital television.

Museums and Galleries

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport pursuant to the answer of 26 November 2007, Official Report, column 11W, on museums and galleries, if he will list each of the (a) museums and (b) art galleries sponsored by his Department in each of the last 10 years. [169969]

Margaret Hodge: The Department for Culture, Media and Sport sponsors the following museums and galleries:

1. The British Museum
2. The Geffrye Museum
3. The Horniman Museum
4. The Imperial War Museum
5. The Museum of London
6. The Museum of Science and Industry in Manchester
7. The National Gallery
8. The National Maritime Museum
9. The National Museum of Science and Industry
10. National Museums Liverpool[1]
11. The National Portrait Gallery
12. The Natural History Museum
13. The Royal Armouries
14. Sir John Soane's Museum
15. TheTate
16. Tyne and Wear Museums[2]
17. The Victoria and Albert Museum
18. The Wallace Collection.

The Department began sponsorship of the following museums within the last 10 years:

19. The National Coal Mining Museum for England (from 1998-99)
20. The Design Museum (from 2001-02)
21. The National Football Museum (from 2003-04)
22. The Peoples History Museum (from 2003-04).

[1] Includes the Walker and Lady Lever art galleries.

[2] Includes the Laing and Shipley art galleries.

Music

Jeff Ennis: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport (1) what his estimate is of the number of brass bands which were playing in England on (a) 1 November 2007, (b) 1 November 1997 and (c) 1 November 1987; [166962]

(2) what his estimate is of the number of junior or youth brass bands which were playing in England on (a) 1 November 2007, (b) 1 November 1997 and (c) 1 November 1987. [167037]

Margaret Hodge: The Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport is unable to make these estimates because the information is not held centrally.

Royal Opera House: Finance

Greg Clark: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much has been granted to (a) the Royal Opera House and (b) the London Coliseum by (i) the Arts Council for England and (ii) other public bodies in each of the last five years. [167605]

Margaret Hodge [holding answer 26 November 2007]: The figures are as follows:

(a) The Royal Opera House

| | | | | | £ million |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | 2003-04 | 2004-05 | 2005-06 | 2006-07 | 2007-08 |
| Arts Council England (ACE) Core Grant | 21,754,450 | 23,110,841 | 24,866,154 | 25,550,000 | 26,252,600 |
| Other public bodies | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |

(b) English National Opera (who are based in the London Coliseum)

| | | | | | £ million |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | 2003-04 | 2004-05 | 2005-06 | 2006-07 | 2007-08 |
| Arts Council England (ACE) Core Grant | 15,000,000 | 16,078,500 | 16,556,220 | 17,011,516 | 17,479,300 |
| ACE Stabilisation Funding (Lottery) | 6,496,000 | 1,816,000 | 1,688,000 | 0 | 0 |
| ACE Restoration Closure Grant (Lottery) | 1,070,000 | 500,00 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| ACE Restoration Award (Lottery) | 6,733,000 | 0 | 326,000 | 0 | 0 |
| Heritage Lottery Fund Restoration Award | 6,654,000 | 1,380,000 | 311,000 | 0 | 0 |
| Westminster City Council | 100,000 | 57,000 | 60,000 | 56,000 | 52,000 |

Sport: Finance

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much funding his Department has allocated to sport in (a) Ribble Valley and (b) the Lancashire county council area in the last five years. [168306]

Mr. Sutcliffe [holding answer 26 November 2007]: Financial support for sport from public sources is primarily channelled through Sport England and UK Sport, the two DCMS sponsored bodies which dispense Exchequer and Lottery funds for sport from DCMS, in line with their own policies and priorities for the development of sport.

UK Sport is the Government's lead agency for high performance sport. It is not possible for UK Sport to determine an amount of funding allocated to specific counties or regions.

The following table provides details of the Exchequer funding and Lottery funding allocated through Sport England to (a) Ribble Valley local authority and (b) Lancashire county council area for the last five years.

| | | | | | £ |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | 2002-03 | 2003-04 | 2004-05 | 2005-06 | 2006-07 |
| Exchequer funding | | | | | |
| Lancashire | 0 | 0 | 96,000 | 657,931 | 293,878 |
| Lottery funding | | | | | |
| Ribble Valley | 20,000 | 0 | 0 | 56,950 | 0 |
| Lancashire | 1,746,952 | 2,258,697 | 4,078,083 | 4,687,554 | 459,442 |

National Governing Bodies (NGBs) also fund sport through Whole Sport Plans which provide a national funding allocation for each sport and is distributed by Sport England. It is not possible for Sport England to determine the amount of funding allocated through NGBs to specific counties or regions.

Sports: Anti-Semitism

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what steps he is taking to tackle anti-Semitism in (a) football and (b) other sports; what recent representations he has received on the issue; what recent meetings he has had with the Football Association about the issue; what the (i) location and (ii) duration of each meeting was; whether a record of each meeting was kept; who attended each meeting; what the cost was of each meeting, broken down by (A) administrative costs and (B) other costs; and if he will make a statement. [169538]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Sporting Equals, an independent organisation funded by our non-departmental public body, Sport England, are developing guidelines on discrimination in sport, including anti-Semitism.

I have had no meetings with the Football Association (FA) on this issue; however, I have received some correspondence from the public concerning anti-Semitism in sport.

Since the end of 2005, the FA has been working with Maccabi GB (a Jewish charity for sporting, educational and social events), and the Community Security Trust to understand the scope, scale and steps that need to be taken to ensure positive action in tackling anti-Semitism in football. The FA encourages people to report all types of abuse and investigates all incidents, taking appropriate action where proven. Additionally, the FA has available on their website, a religious calendar available to all organisations to assist when planning events and competitions.

Sports: Finance

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much funding his Department allocated to sport in (a) each London borough and (b) each Government region in the last five years. [169378]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Department for Culture, Media and Sport does not fund sport directly. In this instance the funding has been provided by Sport England for sport and physical activity.

(a) London boroughs that have received funding in the last five years for sport and physical activity

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many reports relating to funding awards his Department and its agencies expect to receive from sports governing bodies in each year until 2010; how many staff his Department expects to allocate to processing these reports and analysing the findings in each year; and how much is allocated to fund that activity. [169501]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Department does not receive any such reports directly. DCMS receives assessments of the reports listed as follows within its framework of formal quarterly reviews of both UK Sport and Sport England. I meet with the chair of each body on an annual basis to discuss financial performance, including the outcome of these quarterly reviews. As such, DCMS allocates neither staff nor budgets exclusively to the processing or analysing of these reports.

UK Sport

UK Sport requires each of its 24 funded sports to submit a plan for each four-year 'Olympic Cycle', expecting one plan from each funded NGB in autumn 2008 to cover the 2009-13 London cycle. In addition, each sport is asked by UK Sport to submit an annual budget and cash-flow, monitored on a quarterly basis.

Each funded sport will submit one four-year plan, one annual budget, and four quarterly monitoring reports in 2008-09; and one annual budget and four quarterly monitoring reports in 2009-10.

Sport England

Sport England requires each of the 35 governing bodies with Whole Sport Plan funding agreements to submit progress reports annually. Sport England also carries out quarterly reviews for each of these sports.

The 26 governing bodies that receive Club Links and Step into Sport funding provide quarterly reports for each stream.

The 31 governing bodies that receive Club and Coach Fund awards submit quarterly progress reports.

The 19 governing bodies with clubs that are currently part of the Community Club Development Programme assist them in providing six-monthly progress reports.

Sports: Summertime

Mr. Yeo: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what assessment he has made of the likely effect on participation rates in sport and outdoor recreation of introducing British summer time in winter. [170767]

Mr. Sutcliffe: There has been no research to assess the likely effect of introducing British summer time in winter on participation rates in sport and outdoor recreation.

VisitBritain: Finance

Nick Ainger: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much VisitBritain spent in each year since its establishment; how much it is budgeted to spend in each year of the 2007 Comprehensive Spending Review period; and what the percentage change (a) was and (b) is expected to be from each year to the next. [168920]

Margaret Hodge: Since its establishment, VisitBritain's total spending has been:

| | £ million |
|---|---|
| 2003-04 | 65.9 |
| 2004-05 | 61.5 |
| 2005-06 | 68.4 |
| 2006-07 | 70.1 |

The majority of this was grant-in-aid from DCMS, as follows (with percentage changes on the previous years):

| | £ million | Percentage |
|---|---|---|
| 2003-04 | 47.9 | + 1.7 |
| 2004-05 | 48.4 | + 1.1 |
| 2005-06 | 48.9 | + 1.0 |
| 2006-07 | 49.9 | + 2.1 |

The rest of VisitBritain's spending for these years was funded by partnerships with the private sector for specific marketing campaigns, income from the visitor accommodation quality scheme, and other sources.

Total spending for future years will depend on levels of non-DCMS income. VisitBritain's grant-in-aid funding for 2007-08 is £50.7 million, which includes £750,000 in additional funding for rural domestic tourism marketing following the July flooding.

Grant-in-aid funding for the period covered by the Comprehensive Spending Review will be as follows (with percentage changes on the previous years):

|---|---|---|
| 2008-09 | 47.9 | - 4.0 |
| 2009-10 | 45.4 | - 5.2 |
| 2010-12 | 40.9 | - 9.9 |

Wembley Stadium

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what discussions he had with the Football Association before the construction of Wembley Stadium on (a) the provision of a roof and (b) facilities within the stadium; and if he will make a statement. [169535]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The history of my Department's involvement in the development of the Wembley Stadium project is well documented in a number of published reports including: English National Stadium Review Interim Report (December 2001)—HC 479; English National Stadium Review Final Report (October 2002)—HC 1179; The English national stadium project at Wembley—HC 699 Session 2002-03.

The Lottery Funding Agreement between the English Sports Council, Wembley National Stadium Ltd. and the Football Association sets out the minimum standards required in relation to: the design and engineering of the stadium; the technical specifications of the playing area; facilities for participants and spectators; safety management; and communications.

However, the detailed design specifications of the roof and facilities at Wembley Stadium are a matter for Wembley National Stadium Ltd. and the Football Association.

DEFENCE

Military Covenant

9. Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what recent discussions he has had on the Government's observance of the military covenant. [169654]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The Defence Secretary has had numerous recent discussions on this important subject with Cabinet Colleagues, ex-service organisations and others. As part of the recently announced Service Personnel Command Paper discussions are being held with key stakeholders from the charity sector, service families' federations and across Government.

RAF Fylingdales and Menwith Hill

10. Mr. Goodwill: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make a statement on the future role of RAF Fylingdales and Menwith Hill in ballistic missile defence systems. [169655]

Des Browne: The early warning radar at RAF Fylingdales will process and pass on tracking data into both the UK's own US ballistic missile warning system, the US ballistic missile defence (BMD) system. RAF Menwith Hill will continue automatically to route information from US satellites but will now also pass this data into the US communications network for BMD. This data will also alert our own missile warning radar at RAF Fylingdales as part of its long-standing UK mission to provide missile attack warning.

Royal Navy

11. Andrew Miller: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make a statement on the role of the Royal Navy in operations abroad. [169656]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The Royal Navy and Royal Marines are considerably engaged in the current operations in Afghanistan and Iraq.

The Royal Navy is also contributing to a wide range of standing and contingent military tasks, including the defence and security of overseas territories and contributing to the NATO Rapid Reaction Forces.

Royal Marines routinely deploy on land operations

Afghanistan: Languages

12. Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many British armed forces personnel have been trained in Afghan Persian, Dari, Pashto, Turkic and other languages of Afghanistan. [169657]

Des Browne: There are around 39 languages spoken in Afghanistan. 188 personnel have received training in Pashto and 56 personnel have received training in Dari, the two most significant languages for UK deployments. One individual has received training in Balochi. No training has been given in the other languages.

Afghanistan: Helmand Province

13. Mr. Quentin Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what progress has been made by UK armed forces in Helmand Province over the last three months; and if he will make a statement. [169659]

16. John Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what progress has been made by UK armed forces in Helmand Province over the last three months; and if he will make a statement. [169662]

Des Browne: UK forces have continued to clear the Taliban from the Gereshk and Sangin Valleys, and to provide the Afghan National Army with the training needed to take increasing responsibility for operations.

Our forces are bringing security to an increasing proportion of Helmand's population and enabling the development work needed to improve their quality of life.

Armed Forces' Veterans

14. John Barrett: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what plans he has to improve priority care for armed forces' veterans. [169660]

Derek Twigg: NHS priority treatment has been restricted to veterans with disablements accepted under our no fault compensation schemes as service-related. I am pleased to confirm the Health Secretary's announcement on 23 November that eligibility will now be extended to any veteran whose condition the general practitioner suspects is due to service. This will offer a significant enhancement to the veterans' health care and I welcome the decisions in Scotland and Wales to follow this lead.

Defence Industrial Strategy

15. Mr. Carswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he expects the second part of the Defence Industrial Strategy to be published. [169661]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: We are currently reviewing the timetable for the publication of the updated Defence Industrial Strategy. I will inform the House of the rescheduled publication date in due course.

Submarine Fleet

17. Angela Watkinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what plans he has for the future size of the submarine fleet. [169663]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Our judgment remains as set out in the 2004 Defence White Paper, 'Delivering Security in a Changing World', that a fleet of eight of the current classes of attack submarines will be sufficient in the medium term to meet the full range of tasks. We expect to reduce to a fleet of eight attack submarines by December 2008.

For the future, the more capable Astute submarines will represent a significant addition to the delivery of effects-based warfare. Our current planning assumption envisages an attack fleet of seven submarines after 2022, but this will remain subject to review. Over the next 15 years, attack submarine numbers will fluctuate between seven and eight as the Astute submarine replaces the Swiftsure and Trafalgar class submarines.

Menwith Hill

18. Mr. Chaytor: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make a statement on the use of Menwith Hill for missile defence purposes. [169664]

Des Browne: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer I gave today to the hon. Member for Scarborough and Whitby (Mr. Goodwill).

21. Greg Mulholland: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what information the Government will receive from the US Administration on the operation of the US missile defence system in the event of missile engagements taking place that are wholly or partly informed by data from the radar at RAF Menwith Hill. [169667]

Des Browne: There is no radar at RAF Menwith Hill. The satellite early warning information which is routed through RAF Menwith Hill, is shared by the US and UK.

HMS Lancastria

19. Gordon Banks: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what discussions his Department has had on recognising the wreck of HMS Lancastria as a war grave. [169665]

Derek Twigg: During 2005 and 2006 the Ministry of Defence through the British embassy in Paris, discussed with the French authorities protection for the wreck of HMT Lancastria, which lies in French territorial waters and which we consider to be a military maritime grave. These discussions were positive and in the summer of 2006, the French authorities gave the wreck legal protection.

FRES

20. Robert Key: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the latest in-service date is for the Future Rapid Effect System. [169666]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: It is our policy not to release or discuss planned in-service dates for equipment projects ahead of the main investment decision.

Military Casualties

22. Ian Lucas: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what steps he has taken to improve continuity of care for wounded servicemen and women; and if he will make a statement. [169668]

Derek Twigg: We are always looking to improve the clinical, welfare and administrative care of wounded personnel. Earlier this year we created the Standing Joint Commander Medical post at the Royal Centre for Defence Medicine in Birmingham to coordinate the operational patient pathway. A new Defence Patient Tracking System was launched on 8 October 2007 for patients evacuated to the UK, to ensure that they receive the right care in the right place at the right time.

Iraq

23. Mr. Love: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment he has made of the capability of the Iraqi security forces in Basra province; and if he will make a statement. [169669]

Des Browne: Since taking on the primary role in providing security for Basra city, the Iraqi Security Forces have proved able to deal effectively and efficiently with security related incidents as they arise.

As the Prime Minister of Iraq announced in October, the formal transfer of Basra province to Iraqi control is expected to take place later this month. This is in no small part due to the increased capability of the Iraqi Security Forces.

Afghanistan: Peacekeeping Operations

Mr. Holloway: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence at what level in his Department the decision by British military commanders to support district centres in northern Helmand province was approved; and whether the Prime Minister was aware of Governor Daud's request prior to deployment of British forces in support of their district centres. [168859]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Decisions on how UK forces are deployed in the military conduct of the ISAF mission in support of the government of Afghanistan are an operational matter. These decisions are taken by the military command structure in theatre supported by the permanent joint headquarters (PJHQ) in the United Kingdom. Ministers are informed and fully briefed on all key operational decisions by PJHQ and the Ministry of Defence as appropriate.

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what new contributions to the International Security Assistance Force operational requirements of equipment, personnel and other resources have been provided since 19 September 2007 as called for in UN Security Council Resolution 1776. [167421]

Des Browne: Since 19 September there have been a number of new contributions pledged and provided by various nations. In the wake of the NATO Force Generation Conference (6-8 November) there have been renewals or further contributions made by 13 nations with a 14th pending political approval and a 15th under consideration. Capabilities committed have included Hercules transport aircraft, support helicopters and training teams for the Afghan National Army. The specific details are a matter for each individual country concerned.

Africa: Peacekeeping Operations

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much his Department's financial contribution will be to the EU military mission to Chad and the Central African Republic under the 2004 ATHENA mechanism. [169453]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Force generation for the EU military mission to Chad/Central African Republic has not yet been completed; therefore the EU Special Committee ATHENA has not yet screened and agreed a budget. I am therefore unable to say how much the Department's financial contribution will be to the mission.

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when EUFOR Chad/RCA will reach its full operational capacity. [169458]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Planning for the EU military operation to Chad/Central African Republic is ongoing and the EU Force has not yet deployed. The Operation Commander's assessment on obtaining Full Operational Capability cannot be made until the EU Force is established in theatre.

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether any EU members have placed caveats or national restrictions on their military contribution to EUFOR-Althea. [169462]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The UK has placed no caveats or national restrictions on our military contribution for Op Althea. Any national caveats by other EU member states are classified and not normally available within the public domain. Individual member states may make their caveats public (for example as part of their national parliamentary process), but details of such public notifications are not declared to the EU or to other member states as a matter of course.

Air Force: Cadets

Phil Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what plans he has for changes to the level of funding for the Air Cadets. [170115]

Derek Twigg: The MOD currently has no plans to change the funding of the Air Cadets.

Armed Forces: Cadets

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what estimate he has made of the likely effect on expenditure on minibuses by army cadet groups of the London low emissions zone in the first 12 months of its operation. [168658]

Derek Twigg: The minibuses operated by Army Cadet groups will not incur any additional charges in the first 12 months of the operation of the London low emissions zone. We are currently reviewing which vehicles may attract charges when charging for minibuses comes into effect in October 2010.

Armed Forces: Food

Anne Main: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the average daily cost to the public purse was of food provided to a member of (a) the Army, (b) the Royal Navy and (c) the Royal Air Force in the most recent period for which figures are available. [168204]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The average daily cost, known as the daily messing rate (DMR), is based on a "basket" of nearly 100 basic catering items, and is calculated on a quarterly basis by applying prices obtained from the MOD's food supply contractor to the appropriate ration scale. The DMRs for 1 October 2007 to 31 December 2007 are as follows:

Army personnel: The DMR in their home posting is £1.63;

Royal Navy personnel: The DMR in port is £1.78 (unless on duty watch, when 'at sea rates' apply);

RAF personnel: The DMR at home bases is £1.63.

For personnel on active duty, such as on exercise, on operations or at sea, the rate can rise to £2.69 per day. These apparently low amounts are achieved by the scale of purchase of the 'basket items1 and the associated economy of scale. Furthermore, DMR is the cost of the raw materials only and does not include transport or other costs.

Armed Forces: Housing

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many substitute service family accommodation properties were rented in each year since 1997. [168871]

Derek Twigg: The following table shows the number of substitute service family accommodation (SSFA) properties rented in each year since 1997.

| | Total number of properties rented during year |
|---|---|
| 1998 | 966 |
| 1999 | 1,132 |
| 2000 | 1,054 |
| 2001 | 1,070 |
| 2002 | 1,118 |
| 2003 | 1,329 |
| 2004 | 1,474 |
| 2005 | 1,845 |
| 2006 | 2,023 |
| 2007 | 1,884 |

MOD is required to accommodate entitled personnel within 10 miles of their duty station (or 20 miles with permission of their service commander). Where no suitable service family accommodation can be found, SSFA is offered within the appropriate distance from a duty station.

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the 50 most expensive substitute service family accommodation and substitute single living accommodation properties rented out in the last 12 months were. [168873]

Derek Twigg: The information requested will take time to collate. I will write to the hon. Member and place a copy of my letter in the Library of the House.

Armed Forces: Pay

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Defepce what pay increases the armed forces have received in the last two years. [170275]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Increases in the pay of the armed forces, as recommended by the Armed Forces' Pay Review Body for 2006-07 and 2007-08, are shown in the following table. The table shows both the overall percentage increase in pay for service personnel and variations to this by individual rank groupings.

| Financial year | Service pay increase (percentage) | Exceptions |
|---|---|---|
| 2007-08 | 3.3 | 9.4 per cent. for pay range 1, level 1 (higher and lower) and 6.2 per cent for pay range 1, level 2 (lower) |
| 2006-07 | 3.0 | 3.3 per cent for other ranks range 1 (lower), range 1, level 1 (higher) |

Armed Forces: Widowed People

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many armed forces widows voluntarily surrendered their pensions on remarriage or cohabitation in each of the last five years; and what the associated saving to the defence budget was in each year. [169976]

Derek Twigg: An exercise is currently under way to provide detailed figures. I will write to the hon. Member as soon as this exercise is completed.

Armoured Fighting Vehicles: Contracts

Robert Key: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will name the prime contractors bidding for the Future Rapid Effect System contract; and if he will make a statement. [169310]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth [holding answer 29 November 2007]: The acquisition strategy for the future rapid effect system (FRES) is to establish an alliance, led by the Department and supported by a system of systems integrator (SOSI). The approved acquisition strategy involves a strong competitive element with an initial wave of three separate competitions to select a system of systems integrator (SOSI), a utility vehicle (UV) design and a UV integrator. An alliance construct, rather than a prime contractor is considered to be the most appropriate commercial arrangement to deliver FRES.

A team of Thales and Boeing has been named as the preferred bidder in the SOSI competition and contract negotiations are under way.

Three vehicle designs were selected to take part in the UV Design competition. The vehicle designs selected were BOXER (ARTEC, a German and Dutch joint venture company), PIRANHA (General Dynamics UK) and VBCI (Nexter).

The UV Integrator competition is at the pre-qualification stage. Pre-qualification questionnaires were issued in October 2007 and responses are due to be returned by the end of November. One or more UV Integrators will be selected, by the end of March 2008, to go forward to the next stage. As we are in the midst of the UV Integrator competition, I am withholding the names of companies participating as their release would, or would be likely to prejudice commercial interests.

Army: Manpower

Mr. Kevan Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will estimate the cost of expanding the size of the Army by three battalions. [165588]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: It is not possible to provide any worthwhile estimate of the cost of an additional three battalions; the figures required to calculate this cost are not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost. Expenditure is spread over a variety of budgets and will vary according to the composition of the battalion, the role to which it will attributed, the tasks in which it will be engaged and where it will be deployed.

Army: Recruitment

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will list, by regiment, the extent of recruitment against targets for each year since 2000. [166967]

Derek Twigg: Officers are not recruited against regimental targets but against a whole Army requirement. It is only after completing officer training and commissioning that an officer joins a particular regiment. The information for targets and achievements against total officer recruiting for direct entry and professionally qualified officers is only recorded since 2002, and is shown in the following table.

| | Direct entry | Professionally qualified officer |
| 2002-03 | | |
| Entered training | 690 | 110 |
| Manning requirement | 660 | 150 |
| 2003-04 | | |
| Entered training | 750 | 90 |
| Manning requirement | 660 | 160 |
| 2004-05 | | |

| Manning requirement | 720 | 140 |
| 2006-07 | | |
| Manning requirement | 710 | 130 |

Similarly, soldiers are not recruited against regimental targets but against Arms and corps requirements. Information held centrally on targets and achievements for Soldier recruitment to arms and corps is shown as follows. Further detail could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Army: Scotland

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what percentage of army troops was from (a) Scottish regiments and (b) the Royal Regiment of Scotland in each year since 2003. [168895]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: While there are regiments which can be considered as having direct Scottish lineage, there is no single recognised definition of a 'Scottish Regiment'. I can, however, advise that since 2003, Regular Army units which recruit predominantly from, and are historically affiliated to, Scotland have represented roughly between 4 per cent. and 5 per cent. of the British Army.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what percentage of army troops who have been injured or wounded (a) by accident and (b) in action in each year since 2003 was from (i) Scottish regiments and (ii) the Royal Regiment. [168896]

Derek Twigg: The information is not held in the format requested and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Ballistic Missile Defence

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what public consultation was conducted before 25 July 2007 on the use of Menwith Hill as part of the US ballistic missile defence system. [168867]

Des Browne: The Ministry of Defence published a discussion document on missile defence in November 2002, ahead of a full debate in the House in 2003. The principles underlying ballistic missile defence, as they affect the UK, have not changed since then.

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what discussions he has had with his Czech and Polish counterparts on the US Ballistic Missile Defence programme; and if he will make a statement. [168868]

Des Browne: It is not the practice of the Government to make public details of all discussions with foreign Governments as this would, or would be likely to, prejudice international relations. However, the issue of missile defence is routinely discussed with our allies in a number of NATO forums.

Chief of the General Staff's Briefing Team Report 2007

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will place in the Library a copy of the Chief of the General Staff's Briefing Team Report 2007. [169464]

Des Browne: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave on 27 November 2007, Official Report, column 308W, to the hon. Member for Banbury (Tony Baldry).

Defence: European Union

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what discussions he had with his EU counterparts at the meeting of Defence Ministers in Brussels on 19 November 2007; and if he will make a statement. [169465]

Des Browne: I refer the hon. Member to my hon. Friend the Minister for Europe's written ministerial statement of 27 November 2007, Official Report, columns 17-21WS.

Departmental Catering

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what his Department's total expenditure was on (a) food services and (b) food purchases as listed in his Department's resource account code hierarchy, in near cash terms, in each financial year since 2000-01. [169349]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The total resource costs of the expenditure items are set out in the following table:

| | | £ million |
|---|---|---|
| | Food Services | Food Purchases |
| 2000-01 | 69.2 | 124.6 |
| 2001-02 | 74.2 | 130.5 |
| 2002-03 | 89.5 | 142.5 |
| 2003-04 | 98.7 | 172.6 |
| 2004-05 | 87.5 | 147.9 |
| 2005-06 | 93.4 | 149.3 |

Departmental Expenditure

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what his Department's total expenditure was on (a) administration and (b) administration claims, as listed in his Department's resource account code hierarchy, in near cash terms, in each financial year since 2000-01. [169353]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The total resource costs of the expenditure items are set out in the following table:

| | | £ million |
|---|---|---|
| | Administration | Administration Claims |
| 2000-01 | 138.2 | 4.7 |
| 2001-02 | 167.3 | 6.3 |
| 2002-03 | 161.1 | 5.2 |
| 2003-04 | 189.4 | 10.3 |
| 2004-05 | 188.5 | 27.9 |
| 2005-06 | 191.1 | 18.5 |
| 2006-07 | 189.8 | 22.4 |

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what his Department's total expenditure on welfare services, as listed in his Department's resource account code hierarchy, was in near cash terms in each financial year since 2000-01. [169355]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The total resource costs of the expenditure item are set out in the following table:

| | £ million |
|---|---|
| 2000-01 | 12.7 |
| 2001-02 | 16.2 |
| 2002-03 | 17.8 |
| 2003-04 | 16.8 |
| 2004-05 | 18.5 |
| 2005-06 | 18.3 |
| 2006-07 | 18.9 |

Departmental Labour Turnover

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the percentage turnover of staff was in (a) his Department and (b) his Department's agencies in (i) the last 12-month period and (ii) the last 24-month period for which figures are available. [169033]

Derek Twigg: The percentage turnover of Ministry of Defence civilian personnel within the Department for financial years 2005-06, 2006-07 and from 1 April 2005 to 31 March 2007 are shown in the following table:

| | 2005-06 | 2006-07 | Percentage 2005 to 2007[1] |
| MoD (excluding trading funds)[2] | 10.7 | 11.7 | 11.2 |
| Trading funds | 13.1 | 13.4 | 13.3 |
| MoD Total[2] | 11.0 | 11.9 | 11.5 |

[1] Turnover percentage for 1 April 2005 to 31 March 2007 is based on the annual average level of outflow for 2005-06 and 2006-07 divided by the weighted 25 month average strength.
[2] Departmental totals exclude Royal Fleet auxiliary personnel and locally engaged civilians for whom outflow data is not available.

Information on outflows from individual Defence agencies is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Land

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will list all land and properties in London that his Department (a) rents, (b) leases and (c) owns, indicating in each case whether the property is used by (i) the Territorial Army and (ii) other services. [169372]

Derek Twigg: This information is not held in the form requested and will take time to collate and verify. I will write to the hon. Member and place a copy of my letter in the Library of the House.

Departmental Manpower

Mr. Holloway: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will place a copy of his Department's civilian and military manpower capitation rates document for the latest available financial year in the Library. [167909]

Derek Twigg: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given in the other place by my noble Friend, Baroness Taylor of Bolton, to the noble Lord, Lord Astor of Hever on 20 November 2007, Official Report, House of Lords, column WA62.

Departmental Public Expenditure

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the Winter Supplementary Estimates, HC 29, if he will break down the revised provision by subhead in (a) near cash and (b) non-cash terms. [169356]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The following table provides a breakdown of the Requests for Resources of the Ministry of Defence Winter Supplementary Estimates 2007-08 HC, by subhead showing all categories of expenditure.

| TLB | Estimate type | Winter Supplementary Estimates (£000) |
|---|---|---|
| Total War Pension and Allowances | | 1,027,007 |
| MOD total | | 43,262,476 |

[1] Commander-in-Chief Air Command was created from the former Strike and Personnel and Training Command TLBs.

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the winter supplementary estimates, HC 29, what the source is of the £55 million operating income not appropriated in aid; for what reasons the direct resource departmental expenditure limit will increase by that amount; and if he will make a statement. [169357]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The £55 million operating income is deposited in bank accounts which have not yet been brought to vote. These are subject to end year flexibility (EYF) arrangements where the Treasury have agreed that the Department can draw these funds down as additional Direct RDEL.

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the winter supplementary estimates HC 29, for what reasons he plans to transfer £455 million from capital departmental expenditure limit (DEL) to resource DEL; and if he will make a statement. [169358]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The requested transfer of £455 million from Capital to Resource DEL reflects forecast actual spending patterns in the Department's operating costs, such as increased fuel prices.

Departmental Publicity

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much has been spent by his Department on advertising in the last 12 months. [167959]

Derek Twigg: The amount spent on armed forces recruitment advertising in financial year 2006-07 was as follows:

| Force | Amount spent on recruitment advertising (£ million) |
|---|---|
| Naval service | 4.828 |
| Army | 23.248 |
| RAF | 4.344 |

Details of civilian recruitment advertising costs are not held centrally and can be provided only at disproportionate costs.

Advertising costs in financial year 2006-07 with regard to raising awareness of veterans issues were £62,970.

It should be noted that the aforementioned figures take no account of Departmental PR activities.

Directorate of Targeting and Information Operations

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make a statement on the work of the directorate of targeting and information operations; and who the members of the group are. [169424]

Des Browne: The role of the directorate of targeting and information operations is to provide the policy lead and strategic direction for military targeting, rules of engagement and information operations. It has a staff of 83.

EU Countries: Military Exercises

Mr. Soames: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what exercises UK armed forces are committed to with European Union formations for the next 18 months; and which such exercises they have participated in over the last 12 months. [169892]

Des Browne: There are no standing European Union military formations and the European Union does not conduct military exercises apart from headquarters level planning exercises. Two UK staff officers were involved in a planning exercise in 2007 and on similar level of involvement is envisaged in 2008.

EU Defence Policy

Mr. Soames: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence to which European Union formations UK armed forces have a potential obligation; and on what scale. [169893]

Des Browne: There are no standing European Union military formations. All forces are, volunteered by member states on a case-by-case basis.

The EU mission Operation Althea continues in Bosnia Herzegovina and the UK fills 10 posts in the headquarters. The UK, along with Germany and Italy, is providing the NATO pan-Balkans Operational Reserve Force until the end of 2008.

Under standing augmentation procedures, the UK has provided four staff officers to the headquarters for the proposed ESDP mission to Chad. These staff are currently in France.

The UK has also volunteered to provide one of the two EU Battle Groups on standby in the second half of 2008. The UK and the Netherlands have offered to provide an EU Battlegroup on standby from January to June 2010.

Battlegroups would only deploy on operations following a unanimous decision from all 27 EU member states.

The UK Permanent Joint Headquarters (PJHQ) at Northwood is one of five national operational headquarters declared available for EU military operations. PJHQ will host and provide technical and administrative support, including trained core staff, for the Nordic Battle Group on standby between January and June 2008. The UK has offered the same facility for the Polish-led Battle Group in the first half of 2010.

EU Rapid Reaction Force: Aviation

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the status is of the EU's Air Rapid Reaction Force; and if he will make a statement. [169463]

Des Browne: There is no EU Air Rapid Reaction Force.

As part of their collective commitment to the EU's Headline Goal 2010 process, member states undertook to develop the ability rapidly to generate forces to support EU-led operations. The EU Military Committee is currently discussing proposals to identify for planning purposes, air assets that member states might make available at short notice to support EU led crisis management operations.

Ex-servicemen: Hearing Impaired

Mr. Walter: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what consideration he has given to allocating resources to the provision of new techniques for assessing hearing deterioration among former military personnel. [169210]

Derek Twigg [holding answer 29 November 2007]: In line with generally accepted current practice, pure tone audiometry is the main method used to inform determination of claims for hearing loss by former military personnel under the War Pension and Armed Forces Compensation Schemes. Pure tone audiometry is undertaken to quality assured standards by suitably trained technicians. Where the test is considered unreliable, unrepeatable or in some other way unrepresentative of true hearing level, other tests may be used such as evoked response audiometry.

Mr. Walter: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will (a) initiate a review of and (b) publish the evidence his Department uses when considering hearing tribunals for former military personnel. [169312]

Derek Twigg [holding answer 29 November 2007]: The approach used by the Department in the assessment of noise-induced hearing loss for the purposes of the War Pension Scheme was upheld by an independent expert review in 1998-99 and further endorsed by the November 2002 Industrial Injuries Advisory Council report on occupational deafness. The audiological literature is kept under review including research on technical aspects of, and new approaches to, hearing loss assessment and possible application to MOD's no fault compensation schemes. The scheme rules governing the assessment of noise induced sensorineural hearing loss are currently in article 42 of and part VI of schedule 1 to the Naval, Military and Air Forces Etc. (Disablement and Death) Service Pensions Order 2006.

Hacking

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many instances of cyber-attacks on his Department's (a) public internet website, (b) non-classified intranet, (c) classified intranet, (d) non-classified e-mail system and (e) classified e-mail system were reported in each month since 2005; and what the circumstances were of each incident. [169461]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: It would not be in the interests of the UK's national security for MOD to confirm whether it holds information about attacks against its IT systems as this would enable individuals to deduce how successful the Department is in detecting these attacks.

Information Strategy Co-ordination Group

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make a statement on the work of the Information Strategy Co-ordination Group; and who the members of the group are. [169425]

Des Browne: The Information Strategy Co-ordination Group had a mandate to initiate and oversee information strategies for operations and other areas of UK defence interest. Membership comprised the Director General Operational Policy, Director of Targeting and Information Operations, the MOD Media Operations and Press cells, representatives of the Permanent Joint Headquarters and other Government departments as appropriate. The group last met in December 2006. Its work has been taken over by other internal MOD and inter-departmental bodies.

Iraq Conflict: Legal Opinion

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will place in the Library the private legal advice obtained by armed forces chiefs prior to the invasion of Iraq. [167334]

Des Browne: We hold no such advice.

Iraq: Medals

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will amend the regulations for the award of campaign medals to members of the armed forces who have served in Iraq and Afghanistan to enable indication of the number of multiple deployments which have been undertaken. [167740]

Derek Twigg: There are no plans to amend the regulations for the Iraq campaign medal and operational service medal Afghanistan to recognise multiple tours. To acknowledge that armed forces personnel are returning to theatres of operation where they have already received a campaign medal the accumulated campaign service medal was introduced in January 1994. The medal recognises long campaign service rendered by members of the armed forces since 14 August 1969. It is awarded to holders of the general service medal 1962, the operational service medal, British campaign medals and approved medals instituted by other recognised organisations for multinational operations, on completion of 36 months accumulated campaign service, after first qualifying for the appropriate medal. A clasp is awarded for each subsequent period of 36 months accumulated campaign service.

Iraq: Peacekeeping Operations

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether all British forward field hospitals in (a) Iraq and (b) Afghanistan have CT scanners; and how many each forward field hospital has. [168890]

Derek Twigg: In Iraq, the UK has one Role 2 (Enhanced) field hospital, located at the contingency operating base, Basra. In Afghanistan, it has one Role 2 (Enhanced) field hospital at camp bastion, the UK military base in Helmand Province. Both have a CT scanner, which is sufficient to meet current and projected requirements.

In both Iraq and Afghanistan, CT scanners are available at other coalition medical facilities, and these may be used in treating UK casualties if it is more convenient to do so.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what percentage of Army troops who (a) are and (b) have been on operational deployment in Iraq during the month of August in each year since 2003 is from (i) Scottish regiments and (ii) the Royal Regiment of Scotland. [168894]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Historical data to support the calculation of the proportion of the total number of Army personnel who have been on operational deployment to Iraq during the month of August since 2003 and who are from particular units are not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

There is no single definition of a 'Scottish Regiment'. However, there are units which can be considered as having direct Scottish lineage, i.e. the battalions of The Royal Regiment of Scotland, The Royal Scots Dragoon Guards, 19 Regiment Royal Artillery, 40 Regiment Royal Artillery and 1st Battalion The Scots Guards. Of these, the following have, since 2003, been deployed in Iraq during the month of August as formed regular army units:

|---|---|
| 2005 | 19 RA |
| 2003 | 40 RA |
| 2003 | 1 Scots (KOSB) |
| 2005 | 2 Scots (RHF) |
| 2004 | 3 Scots (BW) |

Members: Correspondence

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when the Minister for Veterans will respond to the letter from the hon. Member for West Worcestershire of 14 September (reference: MC04936/2007). [170091]

Derek Twigg: I replied to the hon. Member on 28 November. I apologise for the delay.

Military Aircraft: Helicopters

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the 10-year projected budget was for (a) helicopter procurement and (b) the Future Rotorcraft capability in each year since 1997. [162523]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The 10 year projected budget for helicopter procurement and the element of this reported under the Future Rotorcraft Capability programme is shown as follows.

Nearest £100 million

| | Total forward forecast helicopter procurement | Future Rotorcraft Capability element |
|---|---|---|
| 2001-02 | 3,900 | — |
| 2002-03 | 4,300 | — |
| 2003-04 | 4,300 | — |
| 2004-05 | 4,200 | — |
| 2005-06 | 4,300 | 4,000 |
| 2006-07 | RY | RY |
| 2007-08 | 5,600 | 4,100 |

RY = Review Year
—no formal recosting of the future budget took place.

These figures include funding for the introduction of new helicopters into service and to undertake significant modification programmes such as midlife enhancements or life extension activities; they do not include funding for emergent urgent requirements and separately funded commodity items. Figures prior to 2001 are not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

The figures for financial years 2001-02 and 2002-03 are presented in accordance with previous accounting policies within the Department and reflect cash flows rather than the accrued value of the programme. Direct comparison of these costs with subsequent forecasts is not advised.

Netherlands: International Co-operation

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the status is of plans to create a UK/Netherlands EU battlegroup; and if he will make a statement. [169452]

Des Browne: The UK and the Netherlands have offered to provide an EU battlegroup on standby from January to June 2010. The battlegroup will come from the existing UK/Netherlands Amphibious Landing Force.

Nuclear Responsibilities

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 22 November 2007, Official Report, column 1033W, on nuclear responsibilities, what assessment he has made of the contribution the nuclear non-proliferation treaty has made towards nuclear disarmament. [169469]

Des Browne: The nuclear non-proliferation treaty makes an invaluable and irreplaceable contribution to multilateral nuclear disarmament and is the cornerstone of UK policy in this area. All actions that the UK undertakes on nuclear disarmament are concomitant to our legal obligations under Article VI of that treaty, which are equally applicable to the other recognised nuclear weapons states. The White Paper on The Future of the UK's Nuclear Deterrent (Cm 6994), published in December 2006, set out the UK's record on nuclear disarmament and announced the reduction of operationally available warheads to fewer than 160, which has now been achieved.

The NPT has now achieved near universality and includes states which renounced their nuclear weapons programmes when they joined the NPT as non-nuclear weapons states. We continue to call upon those remaining states outside the NPT to accede as non-nuclear weapons states.

Nuclear Weapons

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what meetings have taken place between UK and US officials on concept studies for the development of a new missile system to replace Trident with particular reference to the underwater launched missile system in the last three years. [168881]

Des Browne: Since the vote in this House on the future of the UK nuclear deterrent on 14 March 2007, there have been three meetings of the Joint Steering Task Group that oversees the execution of the Polaris sales agreement. Concept studies for the development of a new underwater launched missile system have been discussed by officials at those meetings.

Reserve Forces: Pay

Mr. Swayne: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many (a) Army Cadet force instructors and (b) Reserve officers on the Army unposted list are owed arrears of pay for a period of more than one month; and what the total of these arrears is. [169206]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth [holding answer 29 November 2007]: There are no systemic problems with the joint personnel administration (JPA) system affecting the pay of Army Cadet Force instructors and Reserve officers on the Army unposted list.

We are, however, aware of 45 Territorial Army personnel formerly on the unposted list who, because they were not on the established strength of a unit, may have experienced delays in receiving their pay. All have now been assigned to a unit and payment via the JPA system can be made. Details of how long arrears of pay may have been due, and the amounts involved are not held and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Where payment cannot be made via the JPA system, arrangements are in place for individuals to receive cash payments at unit level.

Service Personnel and Veterans Agency: Location

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what estimate he has made of the (a) cost and (b) effect on future expenditure of moving the Services Personnel and Veterans Agency from RAF Innsworth to HMS Centurian, Gosport; and if he will make a statement. [170644]

Derek Twigg: I have yet to receive the Business Case in support of the recent study into the future accommodation requirements of the Service; Personnel and Veterans Agency.

Sick Leave: Dismissal

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many staff in his Department (a) were disciplined and (b) had their employment terminated as a result of a poor sickness record in each of the last five years. [163704]

Derek Twigg: Staff are not disciplined as the result of their poor sick record. Under the Department's restoring efficiency procedures, measures are applied to restore and maintain acceptable levels of attendance and deal with staff whose excessive sickness absence and attendance record has become a cause for concern. Employment can be terminated where patterns of irregular attendance from staff becomes unacceptable or where long term sickness absence persists and there is no prospect of a regular return to work. Staff also have their employment terminated when they are medically assessed as being so unwell in the longer term that ill-health retirement is approved. A new method of recording the termination of employment in the above circumstances was introduced in 2003 on a gradual basis. The data for 2003 are therefore unreliable. Data from 2004 until November 2007 are as follows:

| Termination of employment for: | 2004 | 2005 | 2006 | 2007 | Total |
| Irregular attendance | 72 | 79 | 64 | 43 | 258 |
| Long term sickness absence | 59 | 73 | 59 | 48 | 239 |
| Ill-health retirement | 208 | 193 | 158 | 116 | 675 |
| Grand total | 339 | 345 | 281 | 207 | 1,172 |

Special Boat Squadron: Pay

Derek Wyatt: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) when he expects the Special Boat Service personnel serving in Afghanistan to receive their full pay; [169202]

(2) when the Specialist Pay Team last paid the salaries of the Special Boat Service in Afghanistan; [169203]

(3) what steps he has taken with the Specialist Pay Team to ensure the payment of the full salaries of the Special Boat Service in Afghanistan. [169204]

Derek Twigg [holding answer 29 November 2007]: Problems have been identified with the specialist pay components of total salary for a small number of members of the Special Boat Service. This is very much regretted. I have asked for the issues to be investigated and I will write to the hon. Member when the investigation is complete.

Submarines

Dr. Julian Lewis: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether a decision has been taken to reduce the size of the attack submarine fleet below the planned total of eight. [164729]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth [holding answer 19 November 2007]: Our judgment remains as set out in the 2004 Defence White Paper, "Delivering Security in a Changing World", that a fleet of eight of the current classes of attack submarines will be sufficient in the medium term to meet the full range of tasks. We expect to reduce to a fleet of eight attack submarines by December 2008.

For the future, the more capable Astute submarines will represent a significant addition to the delivery of effects-based warfare. Our current planning assumption envisages an attack fleet of seven submarines after 2022, but this will remain subject to review. Over the next 15 years, attack submarine numbers will fluctuate between seven and eight as the Astute submarine replaces the Swiftsure and Trafalgar class submarines.

Territorial Army: Pay

Mr. Swayne: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he approved the policy that the Territorial Army training bounty was a payment in lieu of pension; and if he will make a statement. [169884]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The annual training bounty is not a direct substitute for pension and takes into account a variety of factors. However, the relationship between pensions and bounty has been recognised for many years. For example, the 1978 Report of the Committee on the Study of Wastage in the Territorial Army Volunteer Reserve (TAVR) headed by Major General P Shapland CB MBE stated:

"The Committee has discussed the possibility of replacing all or part of the bounty with either a Pension or a Long Service Gratuity and has concluded that neither are suitable for the TAVR."

In a recent employment tribunal it was held that the exclusion of the reserve forces from the armed forces pension scheme was objectively justified in respect of members of those forces undertaking Man Training Days. All forms of reserve service other than Man Training Days are pension earning.

Trident: Finance

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the estimated annual maintenance cost of the Trident weapons system is expected to be in (a) 2007-08 and (b) each year until 2024. [169443]

Des Browne: The annual expenditure for capital and running costs of the current Trident nuclear deterrent, including costs for the Atomic Weapons Establishment, is expected to be around £1,500 million in 2007-08 and 2008-09, some 5 per cent. of the defence budget, and around £1,700 million in 2009-10 and 2010-11, some 5¼ per cent. of the defence budget. Spending plans for subsequent years will be set as part of the Government's spending review process.

United Kingdom Hydrographic Office

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence which private stakeholders his Department has met to discuss the review of the United Kingdom Hydrographic Office. [169451]

Derek Twigg: The UK Hydrographic Office (UKHO) is a trading fund within the Ministry of Defence. Departments routinely carry out reviews of trading funds from time to time as part of the ownership role. In February 2007, I announced that we would carry out a review of the structural and ownership options for the United Kingdom Hydro graphic Office (UKHO). This is due to report at the end of the year.

I refer the hon. Member to my answer of 12 November 2007, Official Report, columns 54-55W, outlining the number of private stakeholders the study team, led by members of the MOD, have met to discuss the review of the UKHO. These include trade associations, the Chart and Nautical Instrument Trade Association (CNITA) and the Locus Association, and 14 other private sector industry participants; these were:

The Landmark Information Group,
Transas Limited,
Serco,
Amey,
Kelvin Hughes,
Furuno,
Vanos SA,
Bogerd Martin,
Safmarine Container Lines,
Farstad Shipping Ltd,
McKeil Marine,
GasChem Services,
Brostrom Tankers SA,
Dorchester Maritime.

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many submissions from private sector companies the team carrying out the review of the United Kingdom Hydrographic Office has received. [169449]

Derek Twigg: The UK Hydrographic Office (UKHO) is a Trading Fund within the Ministry of Defence. Departments routinely carry out reviews of trading funds from time to time as part of the ownership role. In February 2007, I announced that we would carry out a review of the structural and ownership options for the United Kingdom Hydro graphic Office (UKHO). This is due to report at the end of the year.

During the course of the study four private sector companies wrote to us expressing their views, and in addition we received two detailed submissions from the Chart and Nautical Instrument Trade Association (CNITA) and Transas Limited. The study team met with a further 12 private sector organisations.

DUCHY OF LANCASTER

Citizens' Juries

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what the guidelines were for the operation of citizens' juries in the 2006-07 Policy Review; and what the guidelines are for the operation of the citizens' juries announced by the Prime Minister on 3 September; and if he will make a statement. [165553]

Edward Miliband: The public engagement strand of the Policy Review gave a representative group of the population the opportunity to discuss in deliberative forums key issues around the future of public services. Ipsos MORI was engaged to manage the process including recruiting the population sample, developing stimulus material and running the events. Further information about the forums is available on the Cabinet Office website at the following address:

http://archive.cabinetoffice.gov.uk/policy_review/public_engagement/index.asp.

The Prime Minister announced on 3 September that a number of citizens' juries would be held around the country to bring citizens together to discuss a broad range of issues and potential solutions. Government Departments are leading on arrangements for their own citizens' juries.

Data Protection

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what (a) procedures and (b) protocols govern the transfer of personal data between central Government departments and (i) other Government departments, (ii) local authorities and (iii) other Government agencies. [167683]

Edward Miliband [holding answer 26 November 2007]: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Departmental Data Protection

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster (1) what reviews have been undertaken of the Cabinet Office's rules on data protection in the last two years; if he will place in the Library a copy of the report of the last review of the Cabinet Office's compliance with data protection laws; and if the Office will undertake a review of its compliance with data protection laws; [168081]

(2) on how many occasions in the Cabinet Office confidential data have been downloaded on to compact discs (i) without and (ii) with encryption in the last 12 month period for which figures are available; how many of those discs have been posted without using recorded or registered delivery; what procedures the Office has in place for the (A) transport, (B) exchange and (C) delivery of confidential or sensitive data; what records are kept of information held by the Office being sent outside the Office; what changes have been made to the Office's rules and procedures on data protection in the last two years; on how many occasions the Office's procedures and rules on data protection have been breached in the last five years; what those breaches were; what procedures the Office has in place on downloading confidential data on to computer discs before its transfer; what technical protections there are in the Office's computer systems to prevent access to information held on those systems which is not in accordance with departmental procedures; and if he will place in the Library a copy of each of the Office's rules and procedures on the protection of confidential data on individuals, businesses and other organisations; [168266]

(3) how many employees of each grade in the Cabinet Office (a) have access to confidential or sensitive data and (b) are authorised to download such data to disc; how many of the Office's employees have undergone data protection training in the last 12 months; what the average length of time is that each employee of the Office has spent on data protection training; how many investigations of employees of the Office for improperly accessing confidential information have taken place in the last 12 months; how many such investigations resulted in cases of disciplinary action; and what the circumstances of each of those cases were. [168268]

Tom Brake: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster whether he proposes to review how the Cabinet Office transports data; and whether the Cabinet Office uses TNT to transport data. [169368]

Mr. Evans: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster (1) how many confirmed data security breaches there have been in the Cabinet Office in the last 36 months; and what action was taken after each occurrence; [169900]

(2) how many confirmed data security breaches there have been in (a) the Prime Minister's Office and (b) the Leader of the House's Office in the last 36 months; and what action was taken after each occurrence. [170215]

Keith Vaz: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what procedures are in place in the Cabinet Office to ensure that personal information relating to members of the public is (a) stored and (b) transported securely. [168460]

Edward Miliband: I refer the right hon. and hon. Members to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Departmental Ministerial Policy Advisers

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster whether salaries have been paid from the public purse to (a) Bob Shrum and (b) Stan Greenberg since 27 June. [164725]

Edward Miliband: I refer the hon. Member to my answer to the right hon. Member for Horsham (Mr. Maude) on 30 October 2007, Official Report, columns 1075-76W. I can also confirm that Mr. Stan Greenberg has not received a salary from the Cabinet Office or 10 Downing street since 27 June.

Downing Street Political Office

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what role the administrator of the Downing Street Political Office will play in arranging events (a) on Government property and (b) in Government facilities. [171467]

The Prime Minister: I have been asked to reply.

As was the practice under previous administrations and in accordance with the Ministerial Code, I have hosted a number of political events at Downing street. The costs for these events are met by the Labour Party.

National Youth Volunteer Service: Finance

James Brokenshire: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what value of funds has been spent on the National Youth Volunteer Service by the private sector since January 2006. [167545]

Phil Hope: Since the youth-led volunteering charity v was established in May 2006, it has received pledges from the private sector totalling over £30 million. Of this amount, v has drawn down £8.4 million of the private sector funding, with a further £8.4 million match-funded by Government.

Russell Commission: Grants

Mike Penning: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster which organisations have received grants from the Russell Commission since March 2006; what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of those grants in enabling organisations to increase volunteering by young people; and if he will make a statement. [170291]

Phil Hope: The independent charity v was set up in May 2006 to implement recommendations of the 2005 Russell Commission report into youth action and engagement. The Office of the Third Sector has regular meetings with v to monitor progress against these targets.

Details of the organisations v has commissioned to provide short-term, part-time and full-time volunteering opportunities are set out in press releases published by v on 24 July 2006; 27 September 2006; and 26 March 2007 which are available on v's website at www.wearev.com.

In addition, through the Match Fund scheme, v has partnered with the private sector and has paid out £8.4 million to a further 73 organisations to generate volunteering opportunities for young people. Taken together, the total number of volunteering opportunities commissioned has now reached 210,000.

Through vcashpoint, a youth-led initiative to help young people aged 16-25 to set up their own community projects, v has awarded grants of up to £2,500 to 72 projects.

Last week v unveiled the organisations who will receive £75 million funding through its new national youth volunteering programme, vinvolved starting in April 2008. This is the first time that there will be a nationwide network of people and organisations focused on youth volunteering.

Voluntary Organisations: Finance

Greg Clark: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster if he will list the projects which were approved under the Millennium Volunteer programme but which will no longer be funded from April 2008. [170147]

Phil Hope: v, an independent charity, made the decisions about future funding for Millennium Volunteers projects through an open and transparent commissioning process. To date over 200 third sector organisations have received funding through vinvolved. Sixty out of the 95 organisations will receive funding through vinvolved. Details of the successful organisations are available on v's website at www.wearev.com.

The following organisations currently providing MV projects did not make any application for funding through vinvolved or were unsuccessful at the Expression of Interest (EOI) stage:

1. Barnsley Metropolitan Borough Council
2. CEDAR Projects
3. Dearne Valley Venture
4. Doncaster Metropolitan Borough Council
5. Family Education Development Trust
6. Hackney Voluntary Action
7. Henshaws Society for Blind People
8. Leeds College of Technology
9. Nottingham City Council
10. Read on Write Away
11. Sports volunteering North West
12. Stoke on Trent College
13. Student Community Action Newcastle (SCAN)
14. Studentforce for Sustainability
15. Torridge Voluntary Services
16. Wandsworth Voluntary Sector Development Agency
17. Wycombe Youth Action
18. Youth Voice

The following organisations currently providing MV were unsuccessful at full application stage. However, this list is subject to change as in 14 local areas, v was unable to appoint vinvolved teams, v will be inviting the following organisations to reapply along with others through their further application process, details will be available on v's website week beginning 3 December 2007.

19. BVSC
20. Citizens Advice
21. DISC
22. EcoLocal
23. Hammersmith and Fulham Volunteer Centre
24. Hartlepool Voluntary Development Agency
25. Oxfordshire Children and Voluntary Youth Services
26. Southend Association of Voluntary Services
27. St. Thomas Community Network
28. University of Birmingham Guild of Students
29. Volunteer Centre Tower Hamlets
30. Wakefield Council
31. Watford and District YMCA

The following organisations will not (at this stage) receive funding through vinvolved but have been named in bids as strategic partners:

32. Blackpool Council (Integrated Youth Service)
33. Connexions Somerset Ltd.
34. Southwark Council
35. Worcestershire County Council Youth Service

WOMEN AND EQUALITY

Departmental Foreign Workers

David Simpson: To ask the Minister for Women and Equality how many (a) EU foreign nationals and (b) non-EU foreign nationals are employed by her Office. [168094]

Barbara Follett: The Government Equalities Office is currently in the process of establishing itself as a separate department. In the interim, its personnel records are held by the Department of Communities and Local Government. Although DCLG check information to ensure people who apply for posts here are eligible to work, they do not record their nationality on their staff directory database.

TRANSPORT

Airports: Baggage

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) when she expects passengers using (a) Birmingham, (b) Bristol, (c) Glasgow, (d) Edinburgh and (e) Manchester airports to be allowed to take more than one item of hand luggage on their journey; [168670]

(2) when she expects passengers using (a) Heathrow, (b) Gatwick, (c) Stansted and (d) Luton airports to be allowed to take more than one item of hand luggage with them on their journey; [168671]

(3) when she expects passengers using (a) Newcastle and (b) Cardiff airports to be allowed to take more than one item of hand luggage on their journey. [168672]

Jim Fitzpatrick: My right hon. Friend's written statement of 14 November explained that airports may permit passengers to carry more than one item of hand luggage from 7 January 2008, provided they have been able to show that they have in place the screening capacity needed to handle the additional bags without any adverse impact on the standard of security achieved. It is now the responsibility of each airport to bring its plans to the Department for approval, as and when it is ready to do so.

Airports: Immigration Controls

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what discussions she has had with the Home Secretary on waiting times for immigration at (a) Heathrow and (b) other UK airports. [168668]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Secretary of State has regular contact with Home Office Ministers to discuss ways in which the passenger experience at our major airports, including at immigration, can be improved.

"Improving the Air Passenger Experience" published on 21 November 2007, set out what Government are doing to improve end-to-end passenger journeys.

Airports: Police

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the main features are of the police services agreement for designated airports; what costs are expected to arise from it; and upon whom these costs will fall. [170206]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Police service agreements need to specify the level of policing to be provided at each designated airport, to be determined following consultation with other security stakeholders, including industry, HM Revenue and Custom and the Border and Immigration Agency. They shall also specify the payments to be made by the airport manager in connection with that policing, and any accommodation and facilities to be provided by the manager.

Airports: Security

Ms Abbott: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport pursuant to the Prime Minister's statement of 14 November on national security, from which airports passengers will be allowed to fly with more than one item of hand luggage in 2008; and if she will make a statement. [165661]

Jim Fitzpatrick: My right hon. Friend's written statement of 14 November explained that airports will be allowed to make changes to the one bag rule from 7 January 2008. Airport authorities are working with their key stakeholders (including airlines) to complete proposals which seek the Department's approval for the removal of the one cabin bag regulation at their airport. They will need to be able to show that they will have in place the screening capacity to be able to handle the additional cabin bags, whether by the use of new technology and procedures, or by deploying extra staff or other resources.

Cars

Mr. Bone: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what estimate she has made of the number of car miles travelled in (a) 1997 and (b) 2006; and if she will make a statement. [170761]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Annual total car vehicle kilometres for 1997 and 2006 are available in Table 7.2 of Transport Statistics Great Britain 2007. This publication is available in the House of Commons Library or online at:

http://www.dft.gov.uk/pgr/statistics/datatablespublications/tsgb/2007edition/.

Departmental Consultants

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much her Department has spent on consultants in each of the past five years. [164638]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Details of expenditure by the Department on consultants in each of the past five financial years is as follows:

| | £ million |
|---|---|
| 2002-03 | 227.5 |
| 2003-04 | 239.5 |
| 2004-05 | 193.3 |
| 2005-06 | 72.1 |
| 2006-07 | 82.9 |

The business units within the Department currently use separate accounting systems which record expenditure differently. The totals include either the value of purchase orders raised or actual spend incurred. Purchase order values record the anticipated spend level, but the actual invoice value for completed work may differ and could be paid in a future financial year.

The Professional Services Forum definition of consultancy has been applied since 2005-06 resulting in more accurate coding of expenditure.

Departmental Correspondence

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what percentage of inquiries received by her Department from the public were responded to within (a) one week, (b) 14 days, (c) 28 days, (d) two months and (e) three months in the last period for which figures are available; and in what percentage of cases it took (i) over three months and (ii) over one year to respond. [167374]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Cabinet Office publishes a report to Parliament on an annual basis on the performance of Departments in replying to Members/ Peers correspondence. The report for 2006 was published by way of a written ministerial statement on 28 March 2007, Official Report, column 101W. Information for 2007 will be published as soon as it is ready after the end of the calendar year.

Information on handling correspondence from the public is not held in the required format.

Departmental Land

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what land surplus to her Department's requirements it is (a) selling, (b) leasing and (c) intending to (i) sell and (ii) lease; and what the size and name of each relevant site is. [168848]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The requested information has been placed in the Library of the House.

Departmental Ministerial Policy Advisers

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the office costs for her Department's special advisers for 2007-08 are expected to be, including costs of support staff; and how many full-time equivalent civil servants work in support of such special advisers. [164922]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Two civil servants support the special advisers to the Secretary of State for Transport. Both provide support of a non-political nature in accordance with the code of conduct for special advisers.

Individual civil servants' salary details are not disclosed in order to protect the privacy of the individual concerned. Office costs will be accounted for in the 2007-08 departmental annual report and accounts.

Departmental Publicity

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much her Department and its agencies spent on managing their corporate identities in the last 12 month period for which figures are available. [167340]

Jim Fitzpatrick: In the financial year 2006-07 the Department's agencies spent £205,000 on work related to maintaining corporate identities. More than £90,000 relates to preventing internet fraud at DVLA.

Departmental Special Advisers

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport who the special advisers in her Department are; what expertise each has; and what the cost of employing them was in the latest year for which figures are available. [163425]

Jim Fitzpatrick: I refer the hon. Member to the written statement given by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 22 November 2007, Official Report, columns 147-150WS.

Driving: Disabled

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will assess the viability of a temporary system of disability permits for those suffering from short-term limiting conditions lasting less than the three years required for receipt for the Blue Badge. [170569]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Department recently conducted an independent strategic review of the Blue Badge Scheme which considered, among other things, who should be eligible for a badge and the issue of temporary disability. We will outline our plans in this area in a comprehensive Blue Badge Reform Strategy, which is due for publication by spring 2008.

Excise Duties

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many people renewed their vehicle excise duty online in (a) 2006 and (b) 2007 to date. [170199]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The information requested is as follows.

3,793,557 people renewed their car tax online in 2006.

7,432,852 people renewed their car tax online up to 30 October 2007.

Exhaust Emissions

Mr. Boris Johnson: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what estimate her Department has made of the number of cars in (a) England and (b) London which are in emissions bands (i) G, (ii) C-F and (iii) A-B. [169816]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The number of cars licensed (in thousands) at the end of December 2006 in London and England were as follows:

| | All Cars | Band G | Band C-F | Band A-B |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| London | 2,569 | 14 | 1,049 | 21 |
| England | 23,612 | 113 | 11,162 | 312 |

Haven Gateway Partnership

Mr. Carswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what meetings (a) she and (b) her officials have had with (i) Haven Gateway Partnership and (ii) lobbyists engaged by Haven Gateway Partnership in the last 12 months. [166912]

Jim Fitzpatrick: There have been no ministerial meetings with the Haven Gateway Partnership in the past 12 months. Representatives from the Highways Agency have attended two Haven Gateway Transport sub group meetings, and three Transport Forum meetings.

The partnership comprises a range of bodies and Ministers and officials will have met representatives from the individual bodies represented in the partnership in the course of regular business.

Health Insurance

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many officials in (a) her Department and (b) each of its agencies have private health insurance provided as part of their employment package. [167925]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Only one employee in the Central Department receives private health insurance as part of their employment package. None of the Department's agencies provide this employee benefit.

Heathrow Airport

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) how many extra flights she has estimated will pass through the airspace of each London borough if a third runway is built at Heathrow Airport per (a) hour, (b) week and (c) year; [169299]

(2) if she will place in the Library information on the proposed flightpaths that would be created to serve a third runway at Heathrow Airport. [169300]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The aircraft routes for a third runway and mixed mode within the vicinity of Heathrow are only indicative and it is therefore not possible at this stage to state how many flights would pass through the airspace of each London borough.

The indicative flight paths are shown in the consultation document "Adding Capacity at Heathrow Airport", Figures 8-11 and 19-20. These figures give an estimated overview of the average number of daily departures and arrivals across the affected airspace.

A copy of this document has been placed in the Library and is available on the Department for Transport's website:

www.dft.gov.uk/heathrowconsultation

Ports

Mr. Carswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what meetings (a) she and (b) her officials have had with (i) Hutchinson Ports and (ii) lobbyists engaged by Hutchinson Ports in the last 12 months. [166980]

Jim Fitzpatrick: I met Hutchison Ports senior managers on 18 October. Other ministerial meetings in the past 12 months with representatives of the ports industry, or industry conferences at which Hutchison Ports will have been represented, are the British Ports Association's (BPA) annual lunch in March, attended by the then Minister of State for Transport, my hon. Friend the Member for South Thanet (Dr. Ladyman), a meeting I had on 16 October with the UK Major Ports Group and the BPA, and a conference I attended, the first annual UK Ports and Shipping Forum, on 14 November.

Departmental and Highways Agency officials have had a series of meetings with Hutchison Ports over the past 12 months to discuss a variety of topics of relevance to the port including European and national port policy, contingency planning, and provision of rail and road infrastructure.

Salisbury Railway Station: Closures

Robert Key: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether, under the terms of their franchise, South West Trains is permitted to close the travel centre at Salisbury Railway Station (a) without consultation and (b) without equivalent alternative arrangements being made. [169287]

Mr. Tom Harris: South West Trains cannot close the Travel Centre at Salisbury Station without consultation, unless the facility will be used for an alternative railway use such as a waiting room. Such closures can be treated as a minor modification which is governed by the closure provisions in the Railways Act 2005.

Trains: Standards

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will make a journey in a Desiro Class 450 train unit to assess the level of passenger comfort provided. [169825]

Mr. Tom Harris: Officials from the Department, acting for the Secretary of State, have made multiple journeys on the Desiro Class 450 trains to assess the level of comfort.

Stagecoach South Western Trains (SSWT) have carried out an ergonomic study on the class 450s. The findings of this report have been independently reviewed by Passenger Focus, the passenger representation body, and have been made public by SSWT on their website.

Transport: Research

Graham Stringer: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment she has made of how her Department's spending programme for each of the next three years will reflect the priorities identified in the Eddington review; and if she will make a statement. [165974]

Jim Fitzpatrick [holding answer 19 November 2007]: In the Department's response to the Eddington study, 'Towards a Sustainable Transport System' (Cm 7226), figure 3.1 sets out the Department's spending plans, for the next three years and beyond, against the three major areas of investment highlighted by Eddington: city and regional networks, national networks, and international networks.

In implementing the comprehensive spending review settlement, the Department will look at all uncommitted funding decisions to ensure that these are consistent with the Eddington study and with the Stern review. The best transport solutions will be those that give the biggest contribution, per £1 of taxpayers' funding, to the Department's five goals of:

maximising the competitiveness and productivity of the economy;

cutting emissions of carbon dioxide and other greenhouse gases;

protecting people's safety, security and health;

improving quality of life; and promoting greater equality of opportunity.

Transport: Sustainable Development

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much was spent on producing the White Paper, Towards a Sustainable Transport System; and how many copies were printed. [168684]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The total publication costs for the discussion document, "Towards a Sustainable Transport System: Supporting Economic Growth in a Low Carbon World" is £11,175.96 (not including VAT). This includes the cost for typesetting, printing, publication costs, use of copyright and mailing services.

The aforementioned costs do not include the time taken for officials to prepare the document.

In total, 922 copies were printed off in the initial run. The Department for Transport received 380 copies, the Stationery Office received 350 copies, and the remainder were directly distributed to key stakeholders.

To keep down costs, the report is also available on the Department for Transport website:

http://www.dft.gov.uk/

Woodhead Southerly Tunnel

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what discussions she has had with the National Grid on its plans to lay cables along the Woodhead Southerly Tunnel. [167555]

Mr. Tom Harris: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State has had no discussions with national grid on its plans to lay cables in the Woodhead Southerly Tunnel, which it owns.

JUSTICE

Criminal Law

Mr. Malins: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice which measures enacted in criminal justice legislation over the last five years are not yet in force; and if he will make a statement. [166173]

Maria Eagle: The majority of measures enacted in Criminal Justice legislation over the past five years have been implemented.

The Serious Crime Act 2007 and the Corporate Manslaughter and Corporate Homicide Act 2007 were given royal assent this year and are not yet in force.

There are various minor measures in the Proceeds of Crime Act 2002 relating to the consequential amendments and repeals of provisions in other legislation that have yet to be enacted. The operation of the legislation has not been adversely affected.

The Racial and Religious Hatred Act 2006 was commenced on 1 October 2007 except in so far as it inserts new provisions into the Public Order Act 1986.

In respect of the Anti-social Behaviour Act 2003, this Act contains provision that relate to matters of which the owners are not the Ministry of Justice (or the Home Office). The information in respect of this Act could therefore be provided only at a disproportionate cost.

The following table shows measures enacted in other pieces of legislation that are not yet in force.

| Act | Provisions not in force |
|---|---|
| Crime (International Co-Operation) Act 2003 | 32 sections (10-12, 20-25, 90, 54-75) and 2 schedules (3 and 4). |
| Criminal Justice Act 2003 | 26 sections (33-35,43, 50-54, 56, 62-66,137-138, 151, 154-155, 181, 188, 280-283) and 7 schedules (4, 11, 21, 22,25-27). |
| | 26 sections (14, 15, 22, 27, 29-30, 31, 39, 41, 48, 182-187, 196, 204, 213, 216, 244, 266, 279, 300-301, 303) and 8 schedules (2-3,10, 31, 32, 35, 37, 38) are partially in force. |
| Domestic Violence, Crime and Victims Act 2004 | 13 sections (9, 12-13, 15-16, 46, 48-53, 51) and 2 schedules (8-9). |
| | 1 section (54) and 3 schedules are partially in force (10-12). |
| Drugs Act 2005 | 1 section (2). |
| Offender Management Act 2007 | 23 sections (1-15, 21-24, 28-30, 31) and 2 schedules (1-2). |
| | 3 schedules (3-5) are partially in force. |
| Police and Justice Act 2006 | 14 sections (7, 14, 19-21, 34, 35-38, 39-40, 41, 43) and 4 schedules (5, 8, 11-12). |
| | 1 section (46) and 1 schedule (1) are partially in force. |
| Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005 | 6 sections (117, 120-121, 158, 167, 170). |
| | 18 sections (60-70, 79-81, 144, 162,165, 167) and 7 schedules (4, 5, 9,10, 13, 14, 17) are partially in force. |
| Violent Crime Reduction Act 2006 | 22 sections (1-14, 15-20, 59, 61). |

Departmental Domestic Visits

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what visits (a) he and (b) the Minister of State with responsibility for prisons have undertaken to (i) prisons, (ii) young offender institutions and (iii) secure training centres since 28 June 2007. [170008]

Mr. Hanson: Details of the prisons, young offender institutions and secure training centres visited by Ministry of Justice Ministers since 28 June 2007 are set out as follows.

Visits to prisons, young offender institutions and secure training centres since 28 June 2007

Departmental Official Hospitality

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what entertainment or hospitality members of the Department's management board have received in each of the last three financial years; and if he will make a statement. [164742]

Maria Eagle: Paragraph 4.3.5 of the Civil Service Management Code sets out the rules on the registration of hospitality. The Government are committed to publishing an annual list of hospitality received by members of departmental boards. The first list for 2007 will be published as soon as it is ready after the end of the current calendar year.

Industrial Diseases: Compensation

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how his Department plans to handle complaints about the management of compensation claims of miners when the original claimant has died but a surviving family member wishes to pursue the complaint on their behalf. [170558]

Bridget Prentice: Responsibility for dealing with complaints about solicitors is solely a matter for the Law Society rather than Government, since the legal profession is independent.

I understand from the Law Society that:

Where the original claimant of miners compensation has deceased, the estate (or those acting on behalf of their dependants) can make a complaint to the Legal Complaints Service about how the original claim was handled by a solicitor.

This arrangement applies for existing and future cases and is not limited to miners compensation cases, rather is part of general LCS policy.

If a solicitor failed to comply with a decision by an adjudicator to pay compensation to the family of a deceased client, the case would be referred to the Solicitors Regulation Authority, who would ask the Solicitors Disciplinary Tribunal to order enforcement of the compensation decision.

In future all Legal complaints will be handled by the Office for Legal Complaints Ombudsman Scheme, as provided for by the Legal Services Act 2007, which will be completely independent of legal professions. The OLC is expected to be operational by late 2010.

Information Commissioner: Complaints

Anne Main: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many complaints the Information Commissioner has processed in the last 12 months; what was the average amount of time taken by the Information Commissioner to process these complaints; how many of these complaints have taken over (a) six months, (b) 12 months and (c) 24 months to be processed; and if he will make a statement. [169019]

Mr. Wills: The ICO is the UK's independent authority set up to promote access to official information and to protect personal information.

The ICO receives complaints under the Data Protection Act (DPA), the Privacy and Electronic Communications Regulations (PECR), the Freedom of Information Act (FOI), and the Environmental Information Regulations (EIR).

Figures are available until the end of October 2007 as set out in the table as follows.

| | Total complaints completed | Average completion time (days) | Completed cases taking over 6 months | Completed cases taking over 12 months | Completed cases taking over 24 months |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| DPA and PECR | 12,092 | 46 | 346 | 38 | 6 |
| FOI and EIR | 1,564 | 176 | 527 | 335 | 56 |

Issuance of Penalty Notices for Disorder

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) with reference to the answers of (a) 16 January 2007, Official Report, columns 1027-28W, (b) 22 May 2007, Official Report, column 1252W, and (c) 26 November 2007, Official Report, column 111W, on the issuance of penalty notices for disorder for 10 to 15-year-olds, what factors have contributed to the length of time it has taken to publish the evaluation of the pilot project; and when the evaluation report was first given to Ministers; [170085]

(2) how many penalty notices for disorder have been issued to 10 to 15-year-olds in the six pilot police force areas, broken down by (a) police force area and (b) offences committed; and how many such penalty notices were (i) paid in full within the 21 day suspended enforcement period, (ii) paid in full outside the 21 day suspended enforcement period, (iii) registered as fines, (iv) contested in court and (v) cancelled; [170086]

(3) what plans he has to extend the use of penalty notices for disorder to persons under the age of 16 years. [170087]

Mr. Hanson: I refer the hon. Member to my reply of 26 November 2007, Official Report, column 112W, the evaluation report will be published as soon as possible. The report is going through validation and until that has been completed, it cannot be published. Also, as that process has not been completed, the report has not yet been seen by Ministers. The report will contain details of the number of notices issued and other details such as payment rates but until it is published, I am not in a position to provide that information. No decision has been made about extending the use of penalty notices for under-16s.

Medical Treatment

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice pursuant to the Answer of 20 November 2007, Official Report, column 820W, on consent to medical treatment, when he expects the Public Guardian to produce the first annual report on the implementation of the Mental Capacity Act 2005. [169470]

Bridget Prentice: The Mental Capacity Act 2005 (the MCA) is now fully in force and the new Office of the Public Guardian (OPG) and Court of Protection were formally launched on 1 October 2007.

The MCA gives the Public Guardian statutory functions and requires him to make an annual report to the Lord Chancellor about the discharge of those functions. The first annual report of the Office of the Public Guardian will be published in April 2008 covering the operation of the Agency and the Public Guardian's statutory responsibilities.

The OPG is also responsible for management of policy surrounding Mental Capacity and is planning an initial review of the MCA a year after enactment.

Members: Correspondence

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice when he expects to reply to the letter of 23 July from the hon. Member for Torbay concerning Mr. David Newby. [170142]

Mr. Hanson: I apologise for the delay. I have now written to the hon. Member.

Peterborough Prison

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisoners were held at HM Prison Peterborough as at 31 October 2007; and if he will make a statement. [169583]

Mr. Hanson: At the end of October 2007 there were 967 prisoners in Peterborough prison. This consisted of 621 males and 346 females.

This figure is taken from the October 2007 Population in Custody report which is available at the following website http://www.justice.gov.uk/publications/populationincustody.htm.

These figures have been drawn from administrative IT systems, which, as with any large scale recording system, are subject to possible errors with data entry and processing.

Political Parties: Finance

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will ask the Electoral Commission to report on (a) the suitability of existing safeguards against anonymous donations and (b) the extent to which the Abrahams' case is an isolated incident. [170782]

Mr. Straw: The Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 (PPERA) contains a range of requirements to ensure that the source of donations is declared.

I announced on 25 November that I was seeking advice on the matters raised by The Mail on Sunday report of that date.

The Electoral Commission announced on 26 November that they had launched a formal investigation into whether there has been any failure to comply with the provisions of PPERA in connection with a number of donations made to the Labour party. The Commission has now referred matters to the Metropolitan Police Service. It is not therefore appropriate for the Government to comment on this matter.

Prison Sentences

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what proportion of those convicted of burglary received a custodial sentence in each of the last 10 years in (a) England and Wales and (b) North West Cambridgeshire. [169251]

Mr. Hanson: The following table gives the proportion of offenders that received a custodial sentence for burglary from 1995 to 2005. The figures are given for England and Wales and for Cambridgeshire Criminal Justice Area (CJA) as data for areas within CJAs are not available. They cover burglary in a dwelling and other burglaries.

| | England and Wales | | | Cambridgeshire | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Sentenced | Immediate custody | Proportion (Percentage) | Sentenced | Immediate custody | Proportion (Percentage) |
| 1995 | 35,450 | 13,497 | 38 | 441 | 144 | 33 |
| 1996 | 32,388 | 13,503 | 42 | 318 | 131 | 41 |
| 1997 | 31,656 | 14,338 | 45 | 394 | 167 | 42 |
| 1998 | 31,087 | 14,547 | 47 | 381 | 162 | 43 |
| 1999 | 29,329 | 14,345 | 49 | 406 | 145 | 36 |
| 2000 | 26,694 | 13,677 | 51 | 313 | 160 | 51 |
| 2001 | 24,665 | 12,476 | 51 | 310 | 153 | 49 |
| 2002 | 26,376 | 13,350 | 51 | 335 | 174 | 52 |
| 2003 | 25,360 | 11,820 | 47 | 340 | 189 | 56 |
| 2004 | 24,133 | 10,814 | 45 | 300 | 148 | 49 |
| 2005 | 22,652 | 9,550 | 42 | 238 | 119 | 50 |

Prison Service: Emergencies

Geraldine Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what type of events are classed as operational emergencies in the Prison Service. [169994]

Maria Eagle: An operational emergency may result from a range of scenarios involving the management of prisoners and the prison estate. For specific purposes, the term operational emergency is defined in two documents. Bulletin 8, setting out terms and conditions of employment for prison officers, defines an operational emergency as a protracted emergency attendance involving the majority of available staff—for example, concerted indiscipline or passive demonstration.

Schedule III of the Joint Industrial Relations Procedural Agreement between the Prison Service and the Prison Officers Association defines an operational emergency as an occasion where staff will be required to act contrary to the terms of an agreement whether national or local, when events make such action necessary having been identified as a clear operational emergency.

Prisoners Release

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) how many prisoners recalled from release on end of custody licence (ECL) for reoffending have been convicted of offences committed while on ECL; and what offences have been so committed; [164355]

(2) how many prisoners released on end of custody licence were recalled (a) to each prison and (b) in each prison region for reoffending from (i) 29 June to 5 July, (ii) 6 July to 31 July, (iii) 1 August to 31 August, (iv) 1 September to 30 September and (v) 1 October to 31 October. [164356]

Mr. Hanson: 56 prisoners recalled from the End of Custody Licence scheme for re-offending have been convicted for offences committed while on ECL according to information provided by the Police National Computer on 26 November 2007. Expressed in percentage terms, 0.5 per cent. of offenders released on ECL have been convicted of offences committed while on ECL.

The offenders were convicted of 83 offences, which are listed in the following table:

| | Number |
|---|---|
| Assault | 12 |
| Breach of ASBO | 5 |
| Breach of conditional discharge | 1 |
| Burglary | 6 |
| Criminal damage | 5 |
| Driving offences | 17 |
| Drugs offences | 4 |
| Drunk and disorderly | 6 |
| Failing to surrender to bail | 3 |
| Failing to surrender to custody at appointed time | 1 |
| Harassment | 4 |
| Robbery | 1 |
| Theft | 17 |

Between 29 June and 31 October 120 prisoners were recalled for alleged reoffending during the period they were subject to the end of custody licence scheme. This represents 1 per cent. of the prisoners released onto the scheme. According to data held on the Prison Service Inmate Information System, 110 of these have been returned to custody. Table 1 shows the establishments to which the 110 prisoners were returned to. The figure in brackets denotes the number of offenders returned to that establishment in the specific month. Table 2 shows the breakdown by region.

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisoners have been released from prison early by mistake over the last five years; how early the release was in each case; and of what offences each prisoner had been convicted. [169601]

Mr. Hanson: The available information is as follows:

It is a mandatory requirement that prisons check the correctness of the calculation of a prisoner's release date 14 days and two days before release. At this point a check is also made to ensure that there is no other reason a prisoner should be detained in custody such as if they are remanded to custody on further charges or held on immigration matters. Additionally re-calculations and checks are also carried out during the course of the sentence, should a prisoner be transferred from one establishment to another. Prison Service Order 6650 provides details of the sentence calculation checks required.

The numbers of known releases in error are reported to the National Operations Unit in Her Majesty's Prison Service by establishments. During 2005, there were 32 known releases in error reported to the National Operations Unit; during, 2006 there were 36; and during 2007, up to 28 November, there were 28.

Information on how early the release was in each case and the details of the offences is not available centrally and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Prisoners: Education

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what basic skills education and training courses are (a) available and (b) planned for prisoners at HMP Peterborough; and if he will make a statement. [169564]

Mr. Hanson: Details of basic skills education and training courses currently available at HMP Peterborough are outlined in the table.

The Education Department and workshops at HMP Peterborough are working closely with the Open College Network to deliver new accredited courses in 2008 in such areas as horticulture, beauty therapy, personnel development, catering, construction and hairdressing. The intention is to deliver more of the basic skills training in workshops rather than through classroom delivery. These vocational courses will help to increase the chances of prisoners securing employment on release.

Courses currently available at HMP Peterborough

| Accredited basic skills education courses | Training courses |
|---|---|
| Literacy at Entry Level 1, 2 and 3 is delivered to prisoners that have very low levels of reading and writing and some that are illiterate. Level 1 and Level 2 literacy are delivered to prisoners that have greater ability but may have attended school sporadically or not sat any examinations. | BICS—British Institute of Cleaning Sciences Level 1 and 2 |
| Numeracy at Entry Levels (as above) and Level 1 and 2 are also delivered in the classroom. | CIEH—Manual handling and Basic Food hygiene |
| ESOL is delivered to prisoners where English is not their first language. It is currently not an accredited course but will be accredited with the Open College network in 2008. | Appointed persons first aid |
| Literacy and numeracy are embedded and delivered in workshop areas such as the gym and the Kleaning Academy. | VRQ—Assistant instructors Level 1 |
| Other educational courses include art classes, business studies, pre-release, speaking and listening. | British Safety Council Level 1 Health and Safety |
| | A range of personal and social development courses such as wellbeing for female prisoners, parenting courses, self employment workshops and alcohol awareness. |

Prisons: Manpower

Geraldine Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice in what circumstances a prison governor may call off-duty prison officers back into work. [169995]

Maria Eagle: A prison governor may call off-duty officers back into work in response to an operational emergency, if there is a need to ensure minimum staffing levels are maintained or due to unavoidable or unforeseen operational reasons such as a delay in returning from outside the prison.

Sentencing

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what proportion of offenders sentenced in 2006 to (a) imprisonment for public protection sentences, (b) determinate sentences of over four years and (c) determinate sentences of between one and four years, (i) were first time offenders, (ii) had between one and four previous convictions, (iii) had between five and nine previous offences and (iv) had 10 or more previous offences. [170152]

Mr. Hanson: We currently do not have data on offenders discharged from prison for 2006 by previous offending patterns. The latest data available are from first quarter of 2004.

We also do not have data for the requested data splits of (i) 0, (ii) 1-4, (iii) 5- 9 and (iv) 10 plus, instead we can provide the following data splits: 0, 1-2, 3-6, 7-10 and 11 plus.

The following table show the percentage of offenders discharged from prison in 2004 and the respective number of previous offences:

| Number of previous offences | Percentage sentenced in first quarter of 2004 |
|---|---|
| No previous offences | 7.5 |
| Between 1 and 2 offences | 5.4 |
| Between 3 and 6 offences | 9.1 |
| Between 7 and 10 offences | 7.2 |
| Greater than 10 offences | 70.8 |

Data for 2005 cohort will be available by spring 2008, and data on 2006 will be available by summer 2008.

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many people were sentenced to (a) indeterminate sentences with a tariff of under 24 months and (b) determinate sentences of over four years for (i) rape, (ii) attempted rape, (iii) sexual assault, (iv) other sexual offences, (v) grievous bodily harm and (vi) manslaughter in the last year for which figures are available. [170153]

Mr. Hanson: All the information relates to 2005, the last year for which data were available.

Data for the number of offenders serving an indeterminate sentence with a tariff of under 24 months are not available for 2005.

In 2005 the number of offenders serving a determinate sentence of four years and over for the offences specified is given as follows:

|---|---|
| (i) rape | 582 |
| (ii) attempted rape | 71 |
| (iii) sexual assault | 104 |
| (iv) other sexual offences | 303 |
| (v) grievous bodily harm | 876 |
| (vi) manslaughter | 148 |

These figures include those persons sentenced to life and indeterminate sentences for public protection.

Young Offenders: Drugs

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what estimate he has made of the number of young people supervised under the auspices of the Youth Offending Teams who habitually use cannabis; and if he will make a statement. [169481]

Mr. Hanson: Data are not collected centrally on the number of young people subject to YOT supervision who habitually use cannabis, so no estimate has been made.

The YJB do collect data on the number of young people identified as requiring general substance misuse assessment and accessing early intervention and treatment services. These figures are set out in the following tables and will include young people identified as being users of cannabis.

Table 1: Young offenders reported as 'requiring' assessment, early intervention and treatment across England and Wales for the years 2004-05, 2005-06 and 2006-07

| | Requiring assessment | Requiring early intervention (tier 2) | Requiring specialist treatment (tier 3 and 4) |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2004-05 | 17,524 | 8,224 | 3,327 |
| 2005-06 | 15,414 | 9,141 | 4,293 |
| 2006-07 | 14,448 | 8,230 | 5,029 |

Table 2: Young offenders reported as 'receiving' assessment within 10 days of screening, and receiving an intervention within 20 days of screening

| | Receiving assessment | Receiving early intervention (tier 2) | Receiving specialist treatment (tier 3 and 4) |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2004-05 | 12,885 | 7,672 | 2,973 |
| 2005-06 | 13,150 | 8,786 | 4,088 |
| 2006-07 | 13,375 | 7,915 | 4,823 |

Note:
Tiers 2, 3 and 4 refer to levels of service required for substance misuse issues of low, medium or high severity.

Young Offenders: Injuries

Dr. Vis: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what injuries were incurred by girls held in (a) Brockhill, (b) Bullwood Hall and (c) Cookham Wood Young Offenders Institution following use of control and restraint in each month in (i) 2006 and (ii) 2007. [167801]

Maria Eagle: The Prison Service definition of 'girls' in the context of prisoners is those aged 15-17. Brockhill held no such prisoners during 2006-07. At Bullwood Hall one girl sustained an injury during use of force in January 2006 which was recorded as "small red marks on upper arm". At Cookham Wood one girl sustained an injury in December 2006 and one in March 2007 recorded as "bruised wrist" and "bang to the head", respectively.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Alcohol: Sales

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) how many (a) public houses, (b) restaurants and (c) supermarkets, shops and other licensed retail outlets were caught by trading standards officers selling alcohol to persons under the aged of 18 years in each of the last three years for which figures are available, broken down by local authority; [168700]

(2) how many visits were undertaken by or on behalf of trading standards officers to (a) public houses, (b) restaurants and (c) supermarkets, shops and other licensed outlets to check compliance with the terms of licences in connection with the sale of alcohol. [168701]

Mr. Sutcliffe: I have been asked to reply.

This information is not centrally held, however, records of visits and prosecutions may be kept locally.

Visits by Trading Standards officers to licensed premises will not necessarily be solely in relation to Licensing Act 2003. For example they may also visit on grounds relating to weights and measures legislation or trade descriptions legislation.

Bellwin Scheme

Alistair Burt: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) how many authorities have received 100 per cent. of eligible costs incurred due to the July flooding under the Bellwin scheme; [166228]

(2) what the largest amount of money paid out under the Bellwin scheme to a local authority that incurred costs in the July flooding is; [166227]

(3) how much financial compensation local authorities affected by flooding in July have requested under the Bellwin scheme; [166226]

(4) how much funding she estimates will be provided to local authorities under the Bellwin scheme in 2007; [166223]

(5) how many local authorities affected by flooding in July 2007 have applied for funding through the Bellwin scheme; [166222]

(6) how much funding has been provided to local councils under the Bellwin scheme in response to the effects of the July 2007 floods. [166221]

John Healey: No local authorities have yet applied for funding through the Bellwin scheme for the flooding in July 2007 but 52 authorities have registered an intention to do so. We stand ready to make payments within 15 working days of receiving valid claims which will, exceptionally, be at 100 per cent. of eligible costs above threshold.

I recently wrote to all registered authorities to remind them that we will also pay interim claims of up to 80 per cent. of incurred expenditure straight away. As yet, no claims—interim or final—have been made.

Information is still being collected from local authorities to enable an estimate of the total funding that will be provided under the Bellwin scheme in 2007.

Crime Prevention

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the terms of reference are of the cross-departmental review on how best to engage communities in the fight against crime; and when the findings of this review are expected to be published. [167122]

Edward Miliband: I have been asked to reply.

'Engaging communities in fighting crime' is a policy review that aims to understand how local communities, the police, the local criminal justice agencies and other local partners can best work together to:

reduce crime in their areas, raise community confidence in local agencies, lower the fear of crime.

The full terms of reference are as follows:

A key strand of the review will analyse how to engage individuals, including young people, across the whole range of issues that affect their feelings of safety in the community.

The review will make recommendations on improving local accountability, increasing local engagement (including willingness to support law enforcement through the provision of evidence) and developing new approaches to problem solving.

The review shall take full account of the Ten Year Youth Strategy, the work already under way as part of Sir Ronnie Flanagan's review of policing, the current roll-out of Neighbourhood Policing and work of the National Policing Improvement Agency in this area, and shall examine how best to build on the success of Neighbourhood Policing and transfer good practice across all crime fighting agencies including local authority, the Third Sector etc.

The review team will be drawn from all Departments with an interest and led from the Cabinet Office by Louise Casey.

The review will report by June 2008.

Departmental Catering

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what percentage of (a) beef, (b) lamb, (c) pork and (d) dairy products used in her departmental headquarters were imported products in the most recent period for which figures are available. [166647]

Mr. Dhanda: I refer the hon. Member to the written statement made by my hon. Friend the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (Jonathan Shaw) on 8 November 2007, Official Report, column 19WS.

Departmental Data Protection

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) what reviews have been undertaken of her Department's rules on data protection in the last two years; if she will place in the Library a copy of the report of the last review of her Department's compliance with data protection laws; and if (a) her Department and (b) her Department's agencies will undertake a review of their compliance with data protection laws; [168084]

(2) on how many occasions in (a) her Department and (b) its agencies confidential data have been downloaded on to compact discs (i) without and (ii) with encryption in the last 12 month period for which figures are available; how many of those discs have been posted without using recorded or registered delivery; what procedures her Department has in place for the (A) transport, (B) exchange and (C) delivery of confidential or sensitive data; what records are kept of information held by her Department being sent outside the Department; what changes have been made to her Department's rules and procedures on data protection in the last two years; on how many occasions her Department's procedures and rules on data protection have been breached in the last five years; what those breaches were; what procedures her Department has in place on downloading confidential data on to computer discs before its transfer; what technical protections there are in her Department's computer systems to prevent access to information held on those systems which is not in accordance with departmental procedures; and if she will place in the Library a copy of each of her Department's rules and procedures on the protection of confidential data on individuals, businesses and other organisations; [168250]

(3) how many employees of each grade in her Department (a) have access to confidential or sensitive data and (b) are authorised to download such data to disc; how many of her Department's employees have undergone data protection training in the last 12 months; what the average length of time is that each employee of (i) her Department and (ii) her Department's agencies has spent on data protection training; how many investigations of employees of her Department for improperly accessing confidential information have taken place in the last 12 months; how many such investigations resulted in cases of disciplinary action; and what the circumstances of each of those cases were. [168269]

Mr. Dhanda: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November, Official Report, column 1179 in which he announced a review to be carried out by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts across all Departments and agencies of their procedures for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what procedures are in place in her Department to ensure that personal information relating to members of the public is (a) stored and (b) transported securely. [168480]

Mr. Dhanda: I refer my hon. Friend to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Mr. Walker: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether her Department's information technology and data management systems are BS7799 compliant. [168752]

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many breaches of data protection security there were in her Department or her Department's agencies in each of the last five years; and if she will provide details of each breach. [168843]

Mr. Dhanda: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Departmental Ministerial Policy Advisers

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the office costs for her Department's special advisers for 2007-08 are expected to be, including costs of support staff; and how many full-time equivalent civil servants work in support of such special advisers. [164933]

Mr. Dhanda: Two civil servants support the special advisers in the offices of the Secretary of State and the Minister for Housing. Both civil servants provide support of a non-political nature, in accordance with the Code of Conduct for Special Advisers. They also provide support to the private offices.

Individual civil servants' salary details are not disclosed in order to protect the privacy of the individual concerned.

Departmental Pay

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many people in her Department and its predecessors were paid over £100,000 in each year since 1997. [167188]

Mr. Dhanda: The following table presents the numbers of staff earning an annual salary of more than £100,000 in each complete financial year since the formation of the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister in May 2002. The information is drawn from published departmental annual reports.

| | Department to which figure refers | Number of staff with salary exceeding £100,000 pa |
|---|---|---|
| 2006-07 | Communities and Local Government | 18 |
| 2005-06 | Office of the Deputy Prime Minister | 13 |
| 2004-05 | Office of the Deputy Prime Minister | 11 |

Development Plans

Paul Farrelly: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government which local authorities have (a) submitted area action plans, (b) had area action plans approved and (c) withdrawn area action plans under the new local development framework. [168950]

Enterprise and Workless Fund: Torbay

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment she has made of the likely effect of the Enterprise and Workless Fund on the economy of Torbay and the area's ability to attract grant funding; and if she will make a statement. [166994]

John Healey: Eligibility for the Working Neighbourhoods Fund (WNF) will be determined on the basis of the Index of Multiple Deprivation 2007 (IMD 2007), which is a robust measure of small area deprivation. Areas that will qualify for the WNF are those that have high concentrations deprivation.

We are currently assessing the likely impact of the new fund on eligible areas and will announce the list of authorities and their funding in December alongside the provisional Local Government Finance Settlement.

Fire Services: Consultants

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the total cost has been of all consultants' fees for the FiReControl Project to date, broken down by consultancy. [169489]

Mr. Dhanda: To date spend on consultants for the FiReControl project totals £26 million. Consultants provide a wide range of specialist services and skills to the project. They have provided project managers, lawyers, IT specialists, accountants, architects, building engineers, and experts in the property market and in security and resilience. The following table[1] gives total consultancy costs to date (30 October 2007) by company:

[1] The figures are stated net of reimbursements and exclude costs from within the public sector.

| Company name | Total to date (£) |
|---|---|
| Atkins Transport Planning | 922,875 |
| Cornwell Management Consultants | 838,694 |
| Denton Wilde Sapte | 2,004,364 |
| Donaldsons | 296,963 |
| ECA | 768,949 |
| Hyder Consulting (UK) Ltd | 113,734 |
| Insight Management and Systems Consultants | 128,460 |
| PA Consulting Services Limited | 20,406,734 |
| PKF (UK LLP | 739,534 |
| Systeme Evolutif Ltd | 46,271 |
| Turner and Townsend LLP | 2,651,878 |
| Year end and other adjustment | 192,872 |
| Vat[1] | 500,799 |
| Other | 1,568,156 |
| Sub total | 30,987,411 |
| Receipts including recovery of costs from third parties | 5,033,122 |
| Total | 25,954,289 |

[1] At the end of 2005-06 the Department clarified its policy in relation to VAT and this resulted in a significant charge to expenditure of VAT that had previously been treated as recoverable.

Litter: West Midlands

Lynda Waltho: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what powers are available to local authorities to take action against those caught (a) dropping litter and (b) fly-tipping; and how many (i) prosecutions were brought and (ii) penalty notices were issued under each power in each local authority area in the West Midlands in each of the last five years. [168902]

Joan Ruddock: I have been asked to reply.

Dropping litter is an offence under section 87 of the Environmental Protection Act 1990, punishable by a fixed penalty fine, which can be set locally by a council within a range of £50 to £80, or prosecution (with a fine of up to £2,500 on conviction). Police community support officers, persons accredited under community accreditation schemes, parish councils and local authority authorised officers have enforcement powers, although responsibility rests primarily with the local authority.

Data on the number of fixed penalty notices (FPNs) issued and cases taken to court can be found on the DEFRA website at:

www.defra.gov.uk.

The deposit of waste without a licence, or fly-tipping, is an offence under section 33 of the Environmental Protection Act 1990. The offence carries a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment, an unlimited fine, or both. Due to the serious nature of fly-tipping, there is no FPN available. Local authorities must prosecute offenders through the courts.

Flycapture, the national fly-tipping database, was set up in 2004 and records the number of fly-tipping incidents dealt with by the Environment Agency and local authorities. The database also records enforcement actions taken, including prosecutions.

Data are available from April 2004 onwards and are as follows:

| | Fly-tipping prosecutions taken | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Local authority | 2004-05 | 2005-06 | 2006-07 |

Members: Correspondence

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when the Minister of State will respond to the letter from the hon. Member for West Worcestershire of 30 October on home information packs. [170088]

Yvette Cooper: I have now replied to the hon. Member's correspondence.

Migration Impacts Forum

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when she next expects the Migration Impact Forum to report; and if she will make a statement. [168768]

John Healey: The next meeting of the Migration Impacts Forum (MIF) is on 16 January 2008.

A presentation on the impacts of migration on housing will be made in this meeting. All papers presented to the MIF are put onto the websites of Communities and Local Government and the Home Office after each meeting.

Non-Domestic Rates: Telecommunications

Peter Luff: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment she has made of the implications for her policy on the rating of telephone networks of the establishment by Coventry city council of a fibre optic network upgrade; how many such fibre optic communications networks (a) owned and (b) controlled by (i) local authorities and (ii) other public sector organisations there are; how many of these have been assessed for business rates; and what factors are taken into account when assessing (A) public and (B) private sector networks for rates. [166905]

John Healey: There has been no change in the policy of rating telephone networks. Where fibre optic networks are known to the Valuation Office Agency they are assessed for rating. At present there are four fibre optic telecommunications networks in assessment that are known to be in the rateable occupation of local authorities and 18 fibre optic networks in assessment that are known to be in rateable occupation of other public sector organisations. All fibre optic networks, whether occupied by public or private sector ratepayers, are valued in the usual way on the basis of their annual rent if they were available to let on the open market at a fixed valuation date.

Parish Councils: Harassment

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment she has made of the incidence of harassment of town and parish council clerks by councillors. [166968]

John Healey: The Department has no monitoring role in relation to breaches of the code of conduct for local authority members, including cases of harassment of town and parish council clerks by councillors, and therefore has no information about the numbers of such cases.

Planning: Renewable Energy

Gregory Barker: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government who the Chairman is of the Renewable Advisory Board's subgroup on microgeneration; who appointed him or her to the Renewable Advisory Board; on what date the Chair of the Renewable Advisory Board subgroup on microgeneration was invited to join the 2016 Task Force; on what date the membership of the 2016 Zero Carbon Task Force was first established; how many meetings of the 2016 Task Force (a) have been held since it was established and (b) were held prior to the appointment of the Chair of the Renewables Advisory Board subgroup on microgeneration; and which part of the renewables and microgeneration industry the Chair of the Renewables Advisory Board subgroup on microgeneration represents, as referred to in the answer of 29 October 2007, Official Report, column 674W, on planning: renewable energy. [167172]

Yvette Cooper: Matthew Spencer is the Chairman of the Renewable Advisory Board's subgroup on microgeneration and was appointed by the Energy Minister, following the Office of the Commissioner for Public Appointments' regulated recruitment process in December 2005 for a three year term.

Matthew Spencer was invited to join the 2016 Taskforce on 26 October 2007 and the Taskforce itself was first established in January 2007.

The Taskforce has met five times since it was established and no Taskforce meetings have been held since the appointment of the Chair of the Renewables Advisory Board subgroup on microgeneration.

Matthew Spencer has been invited to join the 2016 Task Force in his capacity as Chair of the RAB Microgeneration sub-group which is made up of representatives from across the microrenewables sector.

Transport: Finance

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what discussions the Minister for Yorkshire and the Humber has had with the (a) Secretary of State for Transport and (b) Chancellor of the Exchequer on funding for transport infrastructure in Yorkshire and the Humber since her appointment; and if she will make a statement. [162754]

Caroline Flint: I have been asked to reply.

Although I have not held any formal meetings to date with the Secretary of State for Transport and the Chancellor of the Exchequer on funding for transport infrastructure, I have engaged with key stakeholders in the region on a wide range of issues, including transport infrastructure.

Unitary Councils: Applications

Mr. Willis: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what criteria applications for unitary status from district councils in England are required to meet. [168296]

John Healey: We have assessed all the unitary proposals received against the five criteria set out in our "Invitation to Councils", issued on 26 October 2006. On 25 July we announced that we were minded to implement those proposals which we judged as reasonably likely to achieve the outcomes specified by each of the five criteria.

We intend shortly, having regard to the five criteria, to take our final decisions under the Local Government and Public Involvement in Health Act 2007 as to which unitary proposals are to be implemented.

Urban Areas: Sustainable Development

Peter Luff: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what progress has been made on the eco-towns initiative; and if she will make a statement. [166914]

Yvette Cooper: As my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister told the House on 6 November we have received over 50 expressions of interest in respect of eco-towns. These have come from both local authorities and developers, and will be considered in a cross-Government strategic review. The intention is then to announce the selected schemes in February 2008.

Peter Luff: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many applications for eco-towns she has received from (a) local authorities and (b) private developers. [166915]

Yvette Cooper: As my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister told the House on 6 November we have received over 50 expressions of interest in respect of eco-towns. These have come from both local authorities and private developers and in some cases a public-private partnership. In a number of cases private developers are in ongoing discussion with local authorities about their involvement in proposals, so it is not possible to give a breakdown at this stage. The intention is to announce the selected schemes in February 2008.

Peter Luff: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether new dwellings approved as part of an eco-town development by her Department will contribute to performance against the house building requirements of the revised regional spatial strategies. [166917]

Yvette Cooper: The Housing Green Paper sets out that we expect eco-towns to help contribute to achieving the 240,000 national target. As set out in the Eco-Towns Prospectus we would expect new schemes to be additional to existing plans.

Peter Luff: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what methodologies will be used to assess the carbon dioxide emissions of eco-towns, with particular reference to transport issues and the need for commuting to and from such towns. [166919]

Yvette Cooper: We will look to those making proposals for development of eco-towns to set out how they expect to achieve the Government's criteria for sustainability, including transport, as set out in the Eco-towns Prospectus, launched on 23 July 2007. Eco-towns should be planned in a way that supports low carbon living, and minimises carbon emissions from transport. One of the key issues for eco-towns is the 'consideration of the impact on roads and congestion when siting the eco-town, and the planning of infrastructure requirements'. We will want to see design that promotes sustainable transport usage and the reduction in car dependency.

We will produce an assessment methodology for those proposals that, following a strategic review across Government, are considered to have the potential to go forward as candidate eco-towns.

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) when she plans to announce the chosen eco-town development sites; [169410]

(2) what bids have been made for eco-town developments. [169413]

Yvette Cooper [holding answer 29 November 2007]: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to the hon. Member for Blaenau Gwent (Mr. Davies) on 13 November 2007, Official Report, column 116W.

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the criteria are for selection of eco-town sites. [169411]

Yvette Cooper [holding answer 29 November 2007]: The criteria and assessment approach for the selection of eco-town sites are set out in the Eco-towns Prospectus. This was published on 23 July 2007 as part of the Housing Green Paper and copies have been placed in the Library of the House.

Young People: Public Participation

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what steps the Government have taken to increase the involvement of young people in local government decisions since 1997. [167513]

John Healey [holding answer 26 November 2007]: Under the provisions of the Children Act 2004, local authorities are required to consult children and young people as part of their strategic planning for children's services. More recently, empowering young people to shape their local services became a key theme in CLG's 'An Action Plan for Community Empowerment: Building on Success' (October 2007) and DCSF's 'Aiming High for Young People: a Ten Year Strategy for Positive Activities' (July 2007). Examples of current initiatives include the Young Advisers scheme which trains young people aged 15 to 21 to act as consultants to ensure the views of young people are considered in local authority decisions affecting them and the Youth Capital Fund (YCF) and Youth Opportunity Fund (YOF) where in 2006-07 over 8,000 teenagers participated in youth panels deciding on funding allocations for youth activities and facilities.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Bereavement Benefits: Forms

Mark Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will take steps to (a) increase the availability of and (b) improve the distribution of bereavement benefit claim forms; and if he will make a statement. [169291]

Mr. Plaskitt: We are not aware of any problems with the availability and distribution of bereavement benefit claim forms.

Crisis Loans and Community Care Grants

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what average time was taken for Jobcentre Plus to process crisis loans in each year since 2002; [163500]

(2) what average time was taken for Jobcentre Plus to process community care grants in each year since 2002. [163501]

Mr. Plaskitt: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus, Lesley Strathie. I have asked her to provide the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Lesley Strathie, dated 3 December 2007:

The Secretary of State has asked me to reply to your questions asking what was the average time taken for Jobcentre Plus to process Crisis Loans and Community Care Grants in each year since 2002. This is something that falls within the responsibilities delegated to me as Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus.

The information requested is in the table.

Average actual clearance time—Great Britain

Days

| | Social fund crisis loans clearance times | Social fund community care grants clearance times |
|---|---|---|
| 2002-03 | 1.2 | 7.5 |
| 2003-04 | 1.3 | 8.4 |
| 2004-05 | 1.3 | 8.0 |
| 2005-06 | 1.4 | 7.8 |
| 2006-07 | 1.5 | 9.2 |

Note:
1. Numbers are based on applications cleared in each financial year, not on applications received during that year.
2. Numbers have been rounded to one decimal place.

Source:
DWP Social Fund Policy, Budget and Management Information System.

The clearance time for an individual application is measured in whole working days from the date of receipt of the application until the date of decision, plus if a loan offer is made, the number of whole working days between receiving the applicant's reply to the offer and the recording of that reply. The minimum clearance time recorded for an individual application is one working day, even if the application is cleared immediately.

Our standard for the average actual clearance time for Crisis Loans is 2 working days and for Community Care Grants it is 9 working days. We have kept within the standard average actual clearance time for Crisis Loans in every year from 2002-03 and for Community Care Grants in every year except 2006-07.

As we have modernised Crisis Loan delivery by making our service more accessible to our customers, the number of Crisis Loan applications has risen to an unprecedented level. Jobcentre Plus received 202,000 applications in October this year compared to 132,000 in October 2006.

In order to deal with this rise and continue to keep within our 2 day standard for Crisis Loans we have temporarily diverted resources from Community Care Grants, and have been putting in extra resources. By taking this action we have kept within our 2 day standard for Crisis Loans, this has resulted in a knock on effect on time taken to clear applications for Community Care Grants. As the extra resources come on stream we expect to see improvements and move back to our usual standards.

Departmental Health Insurance

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many officials in (a) his Department and (b) each of its agencies have private health insurance provided as part of their employment package. [167922]

Mrs. McGuire: Private health insurance is not part of the normal employment package provided by the Department for Work and Pensions or its agencies. However four employees who transferred to the employment of DWP under the Transfer of Undertakings Protection of Employment Regulations (TUPE) elected to retain the term of their previous employment that provided them with private health insurance.

Departmental Land

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what land surplus to his Department's requirements it is (a) selling, (b) leasing and (c) intending to (i) sell and (ii) lease; and what the size and name of each relevant site is. [168850]

Mrs. McGuire: The Department for Work and Pensions (DWP) does not own any land as DWP has outsourced estate via a private finance initiative (PFI) contract known as Prime whereby the entire DWP estate was sold (freehold, feuhold and long lease interests) or transferred (short leasehold interests) to Land Securities Trillium. The proceeds were released to HM Treasury in April 1998 (for the original DSS estate) and further in December 2003 when Prime was expanded to include the former Employment Service estate.

Departmental Manpower

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many reports have been made to his Department's nominated officers under paragraph 16 of the revised Civil Service Code since its publication on 6 June 2006. [162462]

Mrs. McGuire: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 19 November 2007, Official Report, columns 596-97W.

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many allegations of victimisation for whistleblowing have been reported to his Department by departmental staff since 6 June 2006. [162463]

Mrs. McGuire: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 19 November 2007, Official Report, columns 596-97W.

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions when his Departments whistleblowing procedures were reviewed to reflect the provisions in the revised Civil Service Code. [162464]

Mrs. McGuire: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 19 November 2007, Official Report, columns 596-97W.

Departmental Ministerial Policy Advisers

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the office costs for his Department's special advisers for 2007-08 are expected to be, including costs of support staff; and how many full-time equivalent civil servants work in support of such special advisers. [164921]

Mrs. McGuire: The Code of Conduct for Special Advisers states that

"In order to enable special advisers to work effectively, Departments may allocate permanent civil servants to provide support of a non-political nature".

Two civil servants support the Department's special advisors. Both provide administrative support of a non-political nature in accordance with the Code of Conduct for Special Advisers.

Individual civil servants' salary details are not disclosed in order to protect the privacy of the individual concerned.

Departmental Standards

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions when he expects to publish his Department's autumn performance report. [164867]

Mrs. McGuire: The Department for Work and Pensions has not yet set a date for publication of its autumn performance report for 2007, however it is our intention to publish this before the House rises for the Christmas recess.

Disability Aids: Communication

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what estimate he has made of the number of people who require alternative and augmentative communication equipment; and if he will make a statement; [168776]

(2) what guidance his Department has issued to local authorities on the provision of alternative and augmentative communication equipment for disabled people; [168777]

(3) what assessment he has made of the potential demand for alternative and augmentative communication aids among people aged (a) under 24, (b) between 24 and 65 and (c) over 65 years old; and if he will make a statement. [168779]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: I have been asked to reply.

The Department has not made any such estimates or assessments and has not issued guidance.

It is the responsibility of local health and social care organisations to prioritise and allocate funding for communication aids based on their assessment of the needs of their local populations. To support this process the Government recently announced, through the Comprehensive Spending Review that local authority funding will increase by £2.6 billion by 2010-11.

Recommendation 5.6 of the Prime Ministers' Strategy Unit report "Improving the Life Chances of Disabled people", focuses on the provision of community equipment, communication aids and wheelchairs for children. As part of the process of addressing this recommendation the Department launched the Transforming Community Equipment and Wheelchair Services programme in June 2006.

In addition, the department, is working closely with the Department for Children, Schools and Families to support the Bercow Review. The Bercow Review is currently reviewing services for children and young people with speech, language and communication needs with the aim of producing a report in the summer of 2008.

Disability Living Allowance: Immigrants

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what checks are made on the immigration status of applicants for disability living allowance; and if he will make a statement. [168343]

Mrs. McGuire: The administration of disability living allowance is a matter for the Acting Chief Executive of the Disability and Carers Service, Mrs Vivien Hopkins. She will write to the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Vivien Hopkins, dated 3 December 2007:

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, what checks are made on the immigration status of applicants for disability living allowance; and if he will make a statement.

The Minister for Disabled People, Anne McGuire MP, promised you a substantive reply from the Acting Chief Executive of the Disability and Carers Service.

I can confirm that a customer applying for Disability Living Allowance (DLA) is asked to provide their Nationality on the claim form.

If the customer does not answer this question or their answer indicates that they may be subject to Immigration control then further enquiries are made. These enquiries may include a request for sight of the passport, travel documents and any letters from the Home Office.

If the customer fails to respond to a request for evidence of this type, or if the decision maker is unable to confirm the immigration status of the customer from the available evidence, then enquiries may be made direct to the Home Office.

These issues need to be resolved before any award of DLA can be made.

I hope this reply is helpful.

Disability Living Allowance: Marfan Syndrome

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what provisions are in place for people with Marfan syndrome to access disability living allowance. [169343]

Mrs. McGuire: Entitlement to disability living allowance is not linked to particular disabling conditions, but on the extent to which a severely disabled person has personal care needs and/or walking difficulties as a result of their disability. People with Marfan syndrome can claim disability living allowance in the same way as anyone else.

There is a range of help available to customers who may experience difficulty in completing the claim form. People can call the freephone Benefit Enquiry Line, where an operator will offer advice and answer individual questions as well as arranging for someone to call back to complete a copy of the claim form over the phone. The completed form will then be sent to the customer for checking, signing and return.

In cases where the customer does not want to fill in the self-reporting form, or cannot make use of the other help available, the Disability and Carers Service may be able to send out a visiting officer to help with the form. Customers can also go to their local Jobcentre Plus office or Citizens Advice Bureau for advice.

Disabled

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many companies have been awarded the two ticks symbol in recognition of action taken to meet commitments in relation to people with disabilities; and how many were withdrawn in each of the last five years. [168781]

Mrs. McGuire: The available information is in the following table.

Disability symbol: Agreements awarded and withdrawn each calendar year

| | New company agreements awarded | Companies withdrawn[1] |
|---|---|---|
| 2003 | 328 | 17 |
| 2004 | 340 | 11 |
| 2005 | 269 | 15 |
| 2006 | 245 | 12 |
| 2007[2] | 220 | 24 |

[1] This figure denotes the companies that have either chosen to terminate the agreement themselves or who have had their agreement terminated by Jobcentre Plus for non-compliance.
[2] To date.

Incapacity Benefit: Overseas Residence

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many incapacity benefit recipients live outside the UK in a country where they can receive (a) index-linked benefit entitlement and (b) non-index-linked benefit entitlement. [163426]

Mrs. McGuire: Incapacity benefit is a contribution-based benefit. It is only payable to people who have paid sufficient relevant UK national insurance contributions.

At 31 October 2007, the number of incapacity benefit recipients living outside the UK and in receipt of an index-linked benefit entitlement was 10,992.

There are no incapacity benefit recipients living outside the UK receiving a non-index linked benefit.

Income Support

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the number of people there are on income support benefit who are working (a) part-time and (b) full-time. [168772]

Mr. Plaskitt: Income support is not payable to people who work full-time.

The number of people in receipt of income support who declare part-time earnings is 49,300, as at quarter ending May 2007.

Note: Figures are uprated to Work and Pension Longitudinal Study totals, rounded to the nearest 100.

Jobcentre Plus

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what steps are being taken to ensure that contact between people with mental health and learning difficulties and Jobcentre Plus is appropriately managed; [163584]

(2) what steps he is taking to make Jobcentre Plus more accessible to people who do not speak English as a first language; [163585]

(3) what progress has been made in improving the accessibility of Jobcentre Plus to elderly people; and if he will make a statement. [163586]

Caroline Flint: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the chief executive of Jobcentre Plus, Lesley Strathie. I have asked her to provide the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Lesley Strathie, dated 3 December 2007:

The Secretary of State has asked me to reply to your questions about improving access to Jobcentre Plus services for people who are elderly or for whom English is not a first language and managing appropriately contact with people who have mental health or learning difficulties. These are things that fall within the responsibilities delegated to me as Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus.

Our services are delivered over the telephone, face to face, in writing and through the internet. We recognise that some people have particular needs linked to age, disability and language and strive to meet these in the delivery of our services.

The steps we take are tailored to meet individual circumstances and include:

working with customer advocates and intermediary organisations such as Citizens Advice;

providing interpreter services to support interviews and telephone calls;

using alternative interview venues; and producing a range of materials in other languages and alternative formats.

Additionally, we provide targeted help for customers with particular needs. For example, our Disability Employment Advisers are experts at helping people with health conditions and disabilities into work, including people with mental health conditions or learning disabilities.

Whilst some benefits end at State Pension Age, many of the services available through Jobcentre Plus to help people return to work have no upper age limit. This includes the use of Jobpoints to search for job and learning opportunities. Programmes like New Deal 50 plus, and Work Trials are among those available on a voluntary basis to people who have been in receipt of certain benefits for six months or more, including the Pension Credit which is a qualifying benefit for all currently available back to work programmes and services.

Our staff receive training to ensure they understand equality legislation. We also work closely with the voluntary sector, including organisations that represent customer interests. This helps us to understand better our customers' needs and to make appropriate referrals to external support in local communities.

I hope this is helpful.

New Deal for Disabled People

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) how many people registered for new deal for disabled people in each month since the programme began for the (a) second and (b) third time; [162623]

(2) how many people have registered for new deal for disabled people in each month since the programme began. [162624]

New Deal for Disabled People: Employment

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people registered for New Deal for Disabled People found employment lasting (a) less than 13 weeks, (b) at least 13 weeks, (c) at least 26 weeks and (d) at least 52 weeks in each year since the programme began. [162578]

Caroline Flint: Up to the end of May 2007, New Deal for Disabled People (NDDP) had helped 151,970 people into work.

Information on job sustainability through NDDP is only available up to March 2006, and only available for jobs gained through an NDDP Job Broker.

Of the 77,820 people who gained a job through an NDDP Job Broker to March 2006, 56,510 (73 per cent.) gained a sustained job. Information on the definition of a sustained job through NDDP is provided in the notes to the following table.

Information is not available for jobs gained through NDDP lasting at least 52 weeks. The available information on the number of people finding employment through NDDP lasting less than 13 weeks, at least 13 weeks, and at least 26 weeks in each year since the programme began, is in the following table.

| Period | Less than 13 weeks | At least 13 weeks | Less than 26 weeks | At least 26 weeks |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| July to December 2001 | — | — | 180 | 720 |
| January to December 2002 | — | — | 1,630 | 5,110 |
| January to September 2003 | — | — | 2,020 | 6,710 |
| October to December 2003 | 860 | 3,020 | — | — |
| January-December 2004 | 4,850 | 17,780 | — | — |
| January-December 2005 | 7,720 | 20,170 | — | — |

Notes:
1. Since October 2003, a job has been regarded as sustained through New Deal for Disabled People (NDDP) when a person, placed into work through an NDDP Job Broker, remains in work for 13 out of 39 weeks.
2. Prior to October 2003, an NDDP job was regarded as sustained when a person, placed into work through an NDDP Job Broker, remained in work for 26 out of 39 weeks.
3. Up to September 2003, information is available on whether a job lasted at least 26 weeks, or less than 26 weeks, but no differentiation is available on whether it lasted less than or more than 13 weeks.
4. From October 2003, information is available on whether a job lasted at least 13 weeks, or less than 13 weeks, but not on whether it lasted at least 26 weeks.
5. Separate data on job sustainability through NDDP has not been collected centrally since April 2006. As information is requested for each year, complete year data is provided to December 2005.
6. New Deal for Disabled People started in July 2001.
7. Data is rounded to the nearest 10.

New Deal For Young People: Peterborough

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what percentage of participants in the new deal for young people in the Peterborough city council unitary authority area were repeat participants in the last year for which figures are available. [163176]

Caroline Flint: New deal for young people (NDYP) has helped 2,230 people in the Peterborough city council local authority area into work since it started in January 1998. Between June 2006 and May 2007, there were 960 participants on NDYP in the Peterborough city council local authority area, of which 290 (30 per cent.) were repeat participants.

Notes:
1. Latest available data are to May 2007.
2. Figures are rounded to the nearest 10.
3. Percentages are rounded to the nearest number.

New Deal for Young People: Suffolk

Mr. Spring: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what percentage of participants in the New Deal for Young People in (a) the East of England and (b) Suffolk returned to receive jobseeker's allowance (i) immediately and (ii) within one year of leaving the New Deal in the last year for which figures are available. [162594]

Caroline Flint: The available information is in the following table.

Percentage of new deal for young people (NDYP) participants returning to receive jobseeker's allowance (JSA) after leaving new deal

| | East of England | Suffolk |
|---|---|---|
| Immediately | 17 | 25 |
| Within one year | 36 | 41 |

Notes:
1. Latest available data are to the end of May 2007, but to enable data to be provided for those leaving NDYP and returning to JSA within one year of leaving the programme, information is from June 2005-May 2006.
2. To provide comparative data, information for those returning to JSA immediately after leaving NDYP is also calculated from data between June 2005-May 2006.
3. All percentages are rounded to the nearest whole number.

Occupational Pensions

Mr. Waterson: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what assessment he has made of the effect on occupational pension funds of the increase in longevity assumptions by the Pension Protection Fund. [165825]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: It is not the PPF's role to set a standard for other pension schemes. The PPF has recently announced its intention to maintain a stable levy estimate (allowing for indexation) for the next three years, subject to there being no significant change in long-term risk exposure.

Transformation of the Personal Capability Assessment Report

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions at what time on 19 November 2007 he placed the Transformation of the Personal Capability Assessment report in the Library. [168356]

Mr. Hain [holding answer 26 November 2007]: It was my understanding at the time I made the statement that the report had been placed in the Library. In fact two copies of the report were delivered to the Statistical Resource Unit in the House of Commons Library at approximately 11 am and 50 copies were available to hon. Members from the Vote Office at the same time. However copies of the report were not available to hon. Members from the Libraries until later in the afternoon. I apologise to the hon. Member if I inadvertently caused any confusion.

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

Berkeley Nuclear Laboratories

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what timetable the Nuclear Decommissioning Authority has set for the disposal of the nuclear laboratory site at Berkeley. [168175]

Malcolm Wicks: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer I gave him today to his question 167885.

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform whether the Nuclear Decommissioning Authority plans to dispose of the Berkeley Nuclear Laboratory site. [167885]

Malcolm Wicks: The NDA is preparing an overarching property asset strategy for its estate. As part of the consultation process, the Berkeley Site Stakeholder Group was informed in October that there were no current plans to sell the freehold of the Berkeley Centre. During 2008-09 the NDA will seek the Berkeley Site Stakeholder Group's views on the scope for working in partnership with local development agencies and the private sector to develop the site.

Business: Renewable Energy

Mr. Andrew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what plans he has to provide incentives for the establishment of small and medium-sized enterprises in the field of renewable energy technology manufacture in the UK. [164041]

Malcolm Wicks [holding answer 15 November 2007]: The Renewables Obligation (RO) is the Government's main support mechanism for the expansion of renewable electricity in the UK. The RO has driven forward a dramatic growth in the deployment of renewables in the UK. As a result many companies both large and small have taken advantage of the economic benefit and new employment that has resulted.

More than £500 million is being spent between 2002-08 supporting R and D on emerging technologies. Many of the companies supported have been SMEs.

Claimants Pilot: South Yorkshire

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment he has made of the claimants pilot in Rother Valley; and what criteria he used to make that assessment. [169174]

Malcolm Wicks: The Department received a copy of the report on the Rother Valley pilot project from the Legal Complaints Service on 19 November 2007. We are now considering the outcomes and plan to discuss these further with the Legal Complaints Service and others to agree the best way of taking this work forward in the light of the pilot and other relevant initiatives.

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many individuals responded to the claimants pilot in Rother Valley. [R] [169175]

Malcolm Wicks: Based on information provided by the Legal Complaints Service (LCS) I understand there were 364 individual responses who accepted an invitation to attend an Information Session facilitated by them. Of these, 327 people actually attended the Information Sessions, generating 261 complaints. A further 69 claimants who were unable to attend a Session either rang or wrote to the LCS to make a complaint. Taken overall the pilot has generated 330 complaints to be followed up for further investigation by the LCS.

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the reasons are for the time taken to give names of claimants to the Legal Complaints Service to advise on solicitors' charges following the Rother Valley pilot. [169191]

Malcolm Wicks: In reaching agreement to take forward the Rother Valley pilot project with the Legal Complaints Service the Department was concerned to make sure our obligations under the Data Protection Act and other considerations in using claimant data were taken fully into account. We are now considering the outcomes from the pilot and discussing with the Legal Complaints Services and others the best way of taking this work forward in the light of the practical experience and other relevant initiatives.

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform on what date he is expecting to give names of claimants to the Legal Complaints Service to advise on solicitors' charges following the Rother Valley pilot. [169192]

Malcolm Wicks: The Legal Complaints Service was given some claimant data for the Rother Valley pilot project. We are now considering the outcomes from the Rother Valley pilot project and discussing with the Legal Complaints Services and others the best way of taking this work forward in the light of the experience gained from the project and other relevant initiatives.

Companies House: ICT

Mr. Djanogly: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform whether he has any plans to review the IT systems of Companies House. [166698]

Mr. Timms [holding answer 21 November 2007]: No.

Departmental Carbon Emissions

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform whether his Department has adopted the Carbon Trust's carbon management programme. [165935]

Malcolm Wicks: BERR are not currently working with the Carbon Trust, however the Department for Trade and Industry engaged with the Carbon Trust from 2003-04 to 2006-07 through its carbon management (energy efficiency) programme, which delivers technical assessment and energy efficiency advice, detailed in a customer specific action plan.

Energy

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how much electricity was generated in the UK from (a) coal, (b) gas, (c) nuclear, (d) renewable and (e) other sources in the most recent year for which figures are available. [170643]

Malcolm Wicks: Electricity generated in the UK in 2006 (the last year for which data are available) is summarised as follows:

| Source | Electricity generated (GWh) |
|---|---|
| Coal | 150,283 |
| Gas | 141,342 |
| Nuclear | 75,451 |
| Renewables | 18,784 |
| Other[1] | 12,466 |
| Total | 398,327 |

[1] Other sources include oil, hydro pumped storage, coke oven gas, blast furnace gas and waste products from chemical processes.

Digest of UK Energy Statistics 2007

Energy: Fees and Charges

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will take steps to ensure that all customers of an energy supplier have access to the cheapest tariff provided by that supplier. [169419]

Malcolm Wicks: In respect of gas and electricity, each supplier has a range of tariffs which are generally related to payment method. While these will be available to all customers, there will be circumstances where a customer cannot access a particular tariff, for instance, an internet-based tariff or, where a customer is repaying debt through a prepayment meter. Most suppliers now offer social tariffs to their fuel poor customers, while others offer a range of measures designed to assist these customers. Among other things, these activities help low-income households reduce their energy costs. I am in continued discussion with suppliers to encourage them to maintain and build on these activities.

Ofgem and Energywatch have undertaken activities to inform consumers about the range of tariffs available and the benefits of switching. A number of intermediaries now also exist to inform customers about different tariffs and provide an easy means of switching. In respect of the cheaper tariffs that are available through direct debit, the key is access to a bank account. The Government are tackling this through their work on financial inclusion and specifically work with the banking sector to improve access to bank accounts.

Energy: Ministers

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will list the Ministers in his Department, and its predecessor, who have had held the post of Energy Minister since 1 May 1997, giving the start and end date of their tenure in each case. [169887]

Malcolm Wicks: I am the current Minister for Energy, having been appointed on 29 June 2007. I was also Minister for Energy between 12 May 2005 and 9 November 2006.

Other Ministers for Energy, since May 1997, were:

John Battle: 6 May 1997 to 28th July 1999

Helen Liddell: 29 July 1999 to 10 January 2001

Brian Wilson: 11 January 2001 to 14 May 2001 and 13 June 2001 to 13 June 2003

Stephen Timms: 14 June 2003 to 8 September 2004

Mike O'Brien: 9 September 2004 to 11 April 2005

Lord Truscott: 10 November 2006 to 28 June 2007

Energy: Wastes

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how much electricity was generated from municipal waste in the UK as a percentage of total electricity produced in the latest period for which figures are available; what plans he has to increase this amount; and if he will make a statement. [170603]

Malcolm Wicks: In 2006 (the last year for which data are available) 0.3 per cent. of electricity in the UK was generated from municipal solid waste (biodegradable part only) combustion (source: Digest of UK Energy Statistics 2007).

Government plans on energy from waste are set out in the "Waste Strategy for England 2007" and the Government's energy policy was set out in the "Energy White Paper", both of which are available from the House of Commons Library.

Fuel Poverty

Anne Main: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many households in (a) St. Albans constituency, (b) each borough in Hertfordshire and (c) England (i) are classified as living in fuel poverty and (ii) have been classified as living in fuel poverty in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [168001]

Malcolm Wicks: Constituency level estimates of fuel poverty are available only for 2003 from the Fuel Poverty Indicator dataset (available online at http://www.fuelpovertyindicator.org.uk/). This estimates that there were approximately 2,700 households in fuel poverty in St. Albans. The following table shows fuel poverty levels also taken from the fuel poverty indicator website for all the local authorities in Hertfordshire;

| Local authority name | Total |
|---|---|
| Broxbourne | 1,800 |
| Dacorum | 3,000 |
| East Hertfordshire | 2,800 |
| Hertsmere | 1,900 |
| North Hertfordshire | 2,700 |
| St. Albans | 2,700 |
| Stevenage | 1,900 |
| Three Rivers | 1,700 |
| Watford | 1,600 |
| Welwyn Hatfield | 2,100 |

The most up-to-date national fuel poverty rates were published in "The UK Fuel Poverty Strategy 4th Annual Progress Report 2006" (available online at http://www.berr.gov.uk/files/file29688.pdf) holds the following table on page 8:

Number of households in fuel poverty in England, 1996—2004

| | Total fuel poor | million Vulnerable |
|---|---|---|
| 1996 | 5.1 | 4.0 |
| 1998 | 3.4 | 2.8 |
| 2001 | 1.7 | 1.4 |
| 2002 | 1.4 | 1.2 |
| 2003 | 1.2 | 1.0 |
| 2004 | 1.25 | 0.95 |

Fuel Poverty: Greater London

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many (a) people and (b) households in each London borough (i) are classified as living in fuel poverty and (ii) were classified as living in fuel poverty in each year since 1997. [169245]

Malcolm Wicks: London borough level estimates of fuel poverty are available only for 2003. The following table shows fuel poverty levels taken from the Fuel Poverty Indicator dataset (available online at http://www.fuelpovertyindicator.org.uk/) for all the London boroughs.

| London borough | Estimate of number of fuel poor households |
|---|---|
| Barking and Dagenham | 3,900 |
| Barnet | 6,700 |
| Bexley | 5,000 |
| Brent | 5,300 |
| Bromley | 6,700 |
| Camden | 4,800 |
| City of London | 200 |
| Croydon | 7,700 |
| Ealing | 6,100 |
| Enfield | 6,000 |
| Greenwich | 5,300 |
| Hackney | 4,600 |
| Hammersmith and Fulham | 3,800 |
| Haringey | 5,200 |
| Harrow | 4,000 |
| Havering | 5,000 |
| Hillingdon | 4,800 |
| Hounslow | 4,300 |
| Islington | 4,200 |
| Kensington and Chelsea | 4,100 |
| Kingston upon Thames | 3,200 |
| Lambeth | 6,100 |
| Lewisham | 5,900 |
| Merton | 4,200 |
| Newham | 5,800 |
| Redbridge | 5,200 |
| Richmond upon Thames | 4,100 |
| Southwark | 5,400 |
| Sutton | 3,900 |
| Tower Hamlets | 3,800 |

| London borough | Estimate of number of fuel poor households |
|---|---|
| Waltham Forest | 5,300 |
| Wandsworth | 5,900 |
| Westminster | 5,600 |

Heating: Carbon Emissions

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what recent discussions his Department has had on reducing carbon dioxide emissions; and what consideration he has made of the potential effect of electric heating on carbon dioxide emissions. [168058]

Malcolm Wicks: The Department plays a key role in delivering the Government's public sector agreement of leading the global effort to avoid dangerous climate change, particularly in relation to promoting carbon trading, encouraging the adoption of renewable and low carbon technologies, and addressing the removal of barriers to behavioural change in order to improve energy efficiency. As such, Ministers and officials have regular discussions both in and outside Government on these issues. For example, I took part in the zero carbon homes taskforce meeting on 26 October which is looking at addressing the barriers to implementation of the 2016 zero carbon homes target. Officials have been in discussion with industry on the competition for a commercial-scale carbon capture and storage demonstration project launched on 19 November. Ministers and officials have been discussing with a number of stakeholders ways of encouraging more renewable electricity generation. As announced in the Energy White Paper we are also considering a number of policy options to reduce the carbon impact of heat, including low-carbon electric heating in order to determine a strategy for heat.

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will have discussions with ministerial colleagues in the Department for Communities and Local Government on the potential environmental effects of use of electric heating. [168128]

Malcolm Wicks: I have held regular discussions with the Department of Communities and Local Government on a range of strategic energy issues and I am also a member of the 2016 zero carbon taskforce, established to identify the barriers to implementation of the 2016 zero carbon target and put in place measures to address these. I took part in the meeting of the taskforce on 26 October alongside the Minister for Housing.

The Government are committed to addressing both the causes and consequences of climate change. As announced in the Energy White Paper we are considering a number of policy options to reduce the carbon impact of heat in order to determine a strategy for heat.

Gregory Barker: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform which (a) Department and (b) Minister has lead responsibility for reducing heat emissions. [169847]

Malcolm Wicks: Tackling climate change is a matter for Ministers in all Departments. Responsibility for action to reduce heat emissions involves the work of many Departments and Ministers including Business Enterprise and Regulatory Reform, the Department for Environment Food and Rural Affairs, Communities and Local Government and the Department for Transport.

Heating: Conservation

Gregory Barker: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform when he expects to develop a strategy on heat as indicated in the Energy White Paper; and what the timetable is for its production. [169729]

Malcolm Wicks: As announced by the Prime Minister on 19 November, a call for evidence on heat will be published in January 2008. Following this, Ministers will look at options and a timetable for developing a heat strategy.

Gregory Barker: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will publish in full the Office of Climate Change report on sustainable heat. [169943]

Malcolm Wicks: The Office of Climate Change heat project has been running since January 2007 looking at how $CO_2$ emissions from heat could be reduced. As announced by the Prime Minister on 19 November, a call for evidence on heat will be published in January 2008.

Industrial Diseases: Compensation

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the reasons were for the decision to delay giving names of claimants to the Legal Complaints Services to advise on solicitors' charges following the Rother Valley pilot; and which Ministers took that decision. [170557]

Malcolm Wicks: In reaching agreement to take forward the Rother Valley pilot project with the Legal Complaints Service the Department was concerned to make sure our obligations under the Data Protection Act and other considerations in using claimant data were taken fully into account. My officials are now considering the outcomes from the pilot and discussing with the Legal Complaints Services and others the best way of taking this work forward in the light of the practical experience and other relevant initiatives. I will be meeting the Legal Complaints Service and key stakeholders in the new year to determine next steps.

Mining: Coal

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many meetings with ex-coalminers his Ministers have had in coalfield communities in each of the last two years. [169193]

Malcolm Wicks: I met former miners and their representatives in Cardiff in March 2007. I also meet the NUM and representatives of coalfield communities through the Coal Health Ministerial Monitoring Group. My officials also meet with representatives of the coalfield communities at the English, Scottish and Welsh Monitoring Committees.

Mining: Death

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what estimate he has made of the likely number of deaths of miners pursuing compensation claims in the next 12 months. [170556]

Malcolm Wicks: The Department is unable to make such a prediction with any certainty. However, from the information provided by the claimants' legal representatives we are aware of 135 claimants with a life expectancy of less than two years.

Since 1 January 2007, 528 claimants passed away before their claims were settled.

Nuclear Power Stations

Alan Duncan: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what funding his Department has allocated to the Environment Agency to carry out the process of pre-authorisation for new nuclear power stations. [167720]

Malcolm Wicks: The Department has not allocated any funding to the Environment Agency to carry out generic design assessments.

The regulators, including the Environment Agency, have developed resource plans to allow them to implement generic design assessments.

Industry will meet the costs of generic design assessment, as they currently meet the costs of licensing any nuclear plant. This will allow the regulators to resource the process.

Alan Duncan: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform by what date he expects the first pre-authorisation consent for new nuclear power stations to be granted by the Environment Agency. [167722]

Malcolm Wicks: Following a request from the Government, the regulators published their guidance on the Generic Design Assessment process in January 2007.

The regulators, including the Environment Agency, estimate that performing generic design assessments for a competitive number of reactor designs could take around three and a half years. Greater clarity on the time needed for the generic design assessment process should become available as the process unfolds. The time needed will also depend on the number of designs that are assessed concurrently.

Nuclear Power Stations: Design

Alan Duncan: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what budget his Department has allocated to the (a) Health and Safety Executive and (b) Nuclear Installations Inspectorate to carry out the process of generic design assessment for new nuclear power stations. [167721]

Malcolm Wicks: The Department has not allocated any funding to the Health and Safety Executive or the Nuclear Installations Inspectorate to carry out generic design assessments.

The regulators, including the Health and Safety Executive and the Nuclear Installations Inspectorate, have developed resource plans to allow them to implement generic design assessments.

Industry will meet the costs of generic design assessment, as they currently meet the costs of licensing any nuclear plant. This will allow the regulators to resource the process.

Alan Duncan: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform by what date he expects the first design consent to be granted following the process of generic design assessment for new nuclear power stations. [167823]

Malcolm Wicks: Following a request from the Government, the regulators (the Health and Safety Executive and the Environment Agency) developed a process for generic design assessment of new nuclear reactor designs, which they are carrying out on a contingent basis pending the outcome of the consultation on the future of nuclear power. The regulators published their guidance on the Generic Design Assessment process in January 2007.

The regulators estimate that performing generic design assessments for a competitive number of reactor designs could take around three and a half years, running until around 2010-11. Greater clarity on the time needed for the generic design assessment process should become available as the process unfolds. The time needed will also depend on the number of designs that are assessed concurrently.

Nuclear Power Stations: Uranium

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform from where the uranium for the UK's nuclear power stations is sourced; and what percentage came from each country in the latest period for which figures are available. [169225]

Malcolm Wicks: Uranium imports come from a diverse range of countries—uranium is currently mined in 19 different countries and resources of economic interest have been identified in at least 25 other countries.

Our Nuclear Consultation document shows the latest percentage figures of countries supplying the most uranium to EU15 utilities in 2005 as follows:

| | Percentage |
|---|---|
| Canada | 28 |
| Australia | 17 |
| Niger | 14 |
| Russia | 10 |

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform when he expects global supplies of uranium to be exhausted; and if he will make a statement. [169226]

Malcolm Wicks: The International Energy Agency (IEA) estimates that world uranium resources are more than adequate to supply the expected global expansion of nuclear power.

The IEA's 2006 World Energy Outlook concluded that identified conventional uranium resources are sufficient for several decades of operation at current usage rates. All demand to 2030 can be met from reasonably assured resources at a production cost below $80/kg. Beyond 2030 the additional demand can still be met on the basis of current estimates of total reasonably assured, inferred and undiscovered uranium resources.

Phoenix Venture Holdings

Richard Burden: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform when he expects to receive the report of the inspectors appointed by Ministers under section 432 of the Companies Act 1985 to investigate and report on the affairs of Phoenix Venture Holdings Ltd, MG Rover Limited and related companies; what progress has been made with the inquiry; and if he will make a statement. [169519]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 29 November 2007]: The investigation is ongoing. The inspectors, who are independent of BERR, are seeking to complete the report as quickly as possible, with due regard for the fairness of the process and the thoroughness of the task. It would not otherwise be appropriate to comment on the details of a current investigation or to speculate on when it might be completed.

Post Offices: Closures

Charles Hendry: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many responses have been received to the six-week consultation over proposed post office closures in the Hampshire and the Isle of Wight Area Plan. [169476]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 29 November 2007]: This is an operational matter for Post Office Ltd. (POL), to reply direct to the hon. Member.

Post Offices: Standards

Mr. Francois: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many anonymous visits have been made to post offices to monitor the delivery of network change programme checks of key messages to customers. [164911]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 15 November 2007]: This is an operational matter for Post Office Ltd. (POL). I have therefore asked Alan Cook, Managing Director of POL, to reply direct to the hon. Member.

Postal Services: Standards

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the Government's policy is on requiring postmen to maintain a pace of four miles per hour across their route as determined by the Pegasus 2 programme; and if he will make a statement. [169332]

Mr. McFadden: This is an operational matter for which Royal Mail has direct responsibility. I have therefore asked the Chief Executive of Royal Mail, Adam Crozier, to provide a direct reply to the hon. Member.

Productivity

Mr. Lancaster: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what productivity per worker is in the UK; what information his Department holds on equivalent figures for (a) the USA, (b) Germany, (c) France, (d) China and (e) India; and if he will make a statement. [163875]

Mr. Timms: The Government have a long running PSA objective to raise productivity growth over the cycle and in comparison to our main international competitors (the US, France and Germany).

Latest international comparisons of productivity per worker produced by the ONS for 2006 show the gap with France currently stands at around 9 per cent. down from 23 per cent. in 1995. The data also show that productivity in the UK is 4 per cent. higher than in Germany from being 10 per cent. lower in 1995. The gap with the US stands at around 23 per cent. down from 29 per cent. in 1995.

ONS does not produce data on the productivity performance of India and China. However, GDP per capita data suggest that productivity performance is significantly below that in the UK.

Radioactive Materials: Transport

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform who is responsible for the security of trains carrying nuclear waste through London; and if he will make a statement. [169389]

Malcolm Wicks: The transportation of spent nuclear fuel is carried out in accordance with stringent security regulations—the Nuclear Industries Security Regulations 2003 (NISR 03). These regulations are administered and enforced by the Office for Civil Nuclear Security (OCNS), part of the Health and Safety Executive, who regulate the security of such movements.

A key requirement of the NISR 03 is that all carriers of civil nuclear material submit a Transport Security Statement (TSS), which is legally binding, detailing the security policies and procedures implemented in order to prevent the theft or sabotage of civil nuclear material in transit. Before a carrier can commence the transport of civil nuclear material, the TSS has to be approved by OCNS who must be assured that the standards detailed are sufficiently robust.

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what steps his Department has taken to (a) review and (b) improve the security arrangements for (i) nuclear facilities and (ii) the transportation of nuclear materials including (A) MOX plutonium and (B) nuclear waste; and if he will make a statement. [169399]

Malcolm Wicks: Security measures for the transportation of nuclear material and of licensed nuclear sites are kept under continuing review in light of the prevailing threat and we are satisfied that existing procedures are robust and effective.

The Office for Civil Nuclear Security (OCNS), part of the Health and Safety Executive, is the Government's regulator for security in the civil nuclear industry and is responsible for ensuring, inter alia, that the industry complies with the requirements of the Nuclear Industries Security Regulations 2003 (NISR 03).

The NISR 03 makes provision for the protection of nuclear material, both on sites and in transit, against the risks of theft and sabotage, and for the protection of sensitive nuclear information, such as site security arrangements.

Regional Development Agency: Finance

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what criteria were used to allocate funding referred to in the answer of 23 October 2007, Official Report, column 195W, on regional development agency: finance, to each regional development agency. [165500]

Mr. Timms: The regional development agencies' budgets for 2007-08 were allocated to the RDAs following spending review 2004. Grant in aid was divided between the RDAs using a funding formula which takes into account the needs of the region (including skills, worklessness and productivity).

Once the RDAs' overall budgets were set, each of the RDAs produced corporate plans in which they set out their requirements for pay and non-pay administration costs. Those plans were approved by Ministers.

Renewable Energy

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what proposals he has to improve the development and uptake of renewable and low carbon energy technologies through targeted sectoral deployment support measures. [167913]

Malcolm Wicks: The 2007 Energy White Paper sets out the Government's policy to promote energy innovation in renewable and low carbon technologies. The Government are supporting a wide range of technology push measures to stimulate research and development through the Research Councils, Technology Strategy Board, Energy Technologies Institute (all DIUS funded) and the Environmental Transformation Fund (DEFRA and BERR funded). The ETF will be the key mechanism for supporting demonstration and early phase deployment for low carbon energy and energy efficiency technologies and will be operational from April 2008. It will include BERR's existing sector specific demonstration programmes such as; Hydrogen Fuel Cell and Carbon Abatement Demonstration Programme, Marine Renewables Deployment Fund Programme, Low Carbon Buildings Programmes, Bioenergy Capital Grants Programme, Offshore Wind Capital Grants Programme.

In addition market pull comes by providing the market mechanisms and incentives such as the renewables obligation (RO) and the renewable transport fuel obligation (RTFO). The RO will provide by 2010 some £1 billion support for renewable deployment. We are introducing measures to allow banding of the RO, this will provide the generation industry with greater incentive to develop and deploy those technologies which are currently further from commercial deployment. The UK has shown its commitment to a responsible biofuel strategy through the development of the RTFO, which would require the totality of road transport fuel to include a minimum proportion of biofuel, reaching 5 per cent. by volume by 2010-11.

In terms of the heat sector, we have been carrying out further work this year into renewable technologies, policy options and support measures that could further reduce the carbon impact of heat and its use.

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what steps his Department is taking to implement options for utilising a lower carbon grid policy arising from the Prime Minister's commitment to treble the amount of electricity produced from renewable sources by 2015. [168129]

Malcolm Wicks: The Energy White Paper announced the reform of the renewables obligation which it is estimated will see a trebling in the amount of electricity produced from renewable sources from 4.6 per cent. in 2006 to around 15 per cent. in 2015.

Investment in electricity networks to support these, and other developments, is made by the transmission owners and distribution network operators under the regulatory supervision of Ofgem. Ofgem have agreed £560 million of investment in the transmission network specifically to connect new renewable generation in Scotland and the North of England. In the transmission price control, which covers the five year period from 1 April 2007, a further £3.8 billion of investment in the transmission network was agreed. This figure includes both refurbishment and the costs of connecting new generators of all types and may increase if warranted by generator demand.

We also announced in the Energy White Paper a review of the framework for grid access for renewable generation (the transmission access review). This review will consider ways to better support the connection of renewable generation to the grid.

In addition, my Department has supported innovation in the integration of renewable and other low carbon generating technologies into the electricity networks, through the technology programme, now operated by DIUS through the Technology Strategy Board. The Department has also supported the work of the Electricity Networks Strategy Group, and its predecessor the Distributed Generation Working Group, in successfully addressing a range of grid-related barriers to small renewable generators and other low carbon technologies. The Centre for Distributed Generation and Sustainable Energy, has also been supported by the Department to the tune of some £2.5 million over five years, in addressing a range of issues relating to the integration of renewable generation.

Since taking powers in the Energy Act 2004 for the Secretary of State to make changes for purposes connected with offshore electricity transmission to codes, licences and agreements, the Department has also been working jointly with Ofgem to establish the details of the new regulatory framework that will deliver grid connections for offshore renewable energy projects. We are continuing to develop the details of the new regime in consultation with industry, and aim to issue final proposals for consultation in June 2008.

Renewable Energy: National Grid

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what steps he is taking to increase the National Grid's infrastructure capacity to facilitate offshore energy projects; and if he will make a statement. [166972]

Malcolm Wicks: Since taking powers in the Energy Act 2004 for the Secretary of State to make changes for purposes connected with offshore electricity transmission to codes, licences and agreements, BERR has been working jointly with Ofgem to establish the details of the new regulatory framework that will deliver the grid connections for offshore energy projects.

We have already concluded that allowing companies to compete for the right to build the offshore grid infrastructure should lead to the most economic and efficient solution for both consumers and generators. We are continuing to develop the details of the new regime in consultation with industry, and aim to issue final proposals for consultation in June 2008.

In terms of investment in the onshore grid over the next few years, Ofgem have agreed £560 million of investment in the transmission network specifically to connect new renewable generation in Scotland and the North of England. In the Transmission Price Control, which covers the five year period from 1st April 2007, a further £3.8 billion of investment in the transmission network was agreed. This figure includes both refurbishment and the costs of connecting new generators of all types and may increase if warranted by generator demand.

Retail Trade: Mobile Phones

Mr. Godsiff: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what estimate he has made of the number of former customers of retail mobile phone companies now in administration who have (a) been given notice of legal action and (b) been taken to court by the network providers. [169294]

Mr. McFadden: The information requested is not held centrally in a readily available format. Any attempt to estimate such numbers would incur disproportionate cost, as it would require information to be sought from a variety of sources and the details of each administration case identified then scrutinised individually.

Mr. Godsiff: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what estimate he has made of the number of former customers of retail mobile phone companies now in administration who have been given a negative credit reference as a result of action taken by the network providers. [169295]

Mr. McFadden: The information requested is not held centrally in a readily available format. Any attempt to estimate such numbers would incur disproportionate cost, as it would require information to be sought from a variety of sources and the details of each administration case identified then scrutinised individually.

Mr. Godsiff: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what estimate he has made of the number of former customers of retail mobile phone companies now in administration who have been referred to debt collection agencies by the network providers. [169296]

Mr. McFadden: The information requested is not held centrally in a readily available format. Any attempt to estimate such numbers would incur disproportionate cost, as it would require information to be sought from a variety of sources and the details of each administration case identified then scrutinised individually.

Severn Barrage

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the terms of reference are for the feasibility study on the prospects for a Severn Barrage; and if he will make a statement. [167518]

Malcolm Wicks: The detailed remit and cost of the feasibility study is now being scoped. My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State will make a statement on this early in the new year.

Small Businesses: Greater London

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many registered small businesses in London there were in each of the last 10 years; and if he will make a statement. [169273]

Mr. Timms: The stock of VAT-registered businesses in London at the start of each year between 1998 and 2007 is shown in the following table. Although only data for businesses of all sizes registered for VAT is published by BERR, it is estimated that the majority (98 per cent.) of these will have fewer than 50 employees.

VAT-registered businesses in London, at the start of year, 1998-2007

| | Number |
|---|---|
| 1998 | 251,585 |
| 1999 | 262,280 |
| 2000 | 270,875 |
| 2001 | 277,595 |
| 2002 | 281,225 |

| | Number |
|---|---|
| 2003 | 282,920 |
| 2004 | 289,130 |
| 2005 | 294,815 |
| 2006 | 301,975 |
| 2007 | 309,225 |

At the start of 1998, there were 252,000 VAT-registered businesses in London. This rose each year to reach 309,000 at the start of 2007, an increase of 23 per cent.

However, VAT registrations do not capture all business activity. Businesses are unlikely to be registered if they fall below the compulsory VAT threshold, which was £60,000 at the start of 2006. Only 1.9 million out of 4.5 million UK enterprises (43 per cent.) were registered for VAT at the start of 2006.

Small Businesses: Non-Domestic Rates

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the average value of unmade claims for the Small Business Rate Relief Scheme was in (a) Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland constituency, (b) Teesside and (c) the North East in the last period for which figures are available. [166602]

John Healey: I have been asked to reply.

The information requested is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the take-up of the Small Business Rate Relief Scheme was in (a) Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland constituency, (b) Teesside and (c) the North East in the most recent period for which figures are available. [166603]

John Healey: I have been asked to reply.

The information requested is not held centrally. However, as at 31 December 2006, the number of businesses in the areas in question that were in receipt of small business rate relief are shown as follows.

| | Number of businesses |
|---|---|
| Middlesbrough | 709 |
| Redcar and Cleveland | 778 |
| Teesside[1] | 3,156 |
| North East | 18,344 |

[1] Teesside consists of the unitary authorities of Hartlepool, Middlesbrough, Redcar and Cleveland and Stockton-on Tees.

South West Regional Development Agency: Public Appointments

Jo Swinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform whether the decision to appoint Christine Channon to the South West Regional Development Agency in November 2004 was made following open competition in accordance with the guidelines set down in the Commissioner for Public Appointments' code of practice. [169189]

Mr. Timms: Ministers make appointments to RDA bards following procedures in the code of practice issued by the Commissioner for Public Appointments and also with all relevant legislation.

This particular case followed normal practice of an open competition. The selection panel advised Ministers that several candidates fully satisfied the criteria and made a specific recommendation as to which of these candidates should be appointed.

On the basis of a key paragraph in the code of practice 3.36, however, departmental officials advised Ministers that it was open to them to appoint one of the other candidates judged by the panel as having fully satisfied established criteria if they so chose. On the basis of that advice Ministers appointed the other candidate.

The Department subsequently found that the advice given to Ministers (that they had freedom to choose among the candidates) was wrong. That advice was based on a misunderstanding of a key paragraph in the Code of Practice on Public Appointments, which at that time explicitly stated that "Ministers will wish to balance boards in terms of diversity as well as skills and experience; consequently Departments may recommend that Ministers appoint any candidate who has fully met the selection criteria in order to assist in achieving a desired balance on a board's membership".

The Commissioner for Public Appointments subsequently revised the relevant paragraph in the code of practice to clarify this issue, it was changed to

"Ministers will wish to balance boards in terms of diversity of skills and experience as set out in the role description and person specification at the commencement of the process."

The Department subsequently revised its processes accordingly to minimise the risk of any further breaches happening of this kind.

Jo Swinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what processes were put in place in his Department following the appointment of Christine Channon in 2004 to prevent future such cases arising. [169190]

Mr. Timms: As a result of this case, the relevant paragraph in the code of practice 3.36 was changed by the Commissioner for Public Appointments. At the time of the decision, it read

"Ministers will wish to balance boards in terms of diversity as well as skills and experience; consequently Departments may recommend that Ministers appoint any candidate who has fully met the selection criteria in order to assist in achieving a desired balance on a board's membership".

In August 2005 this was changed to read

"Ministers will wish to balance boards in terms of diversity of skills and experience as set out in the role description and person specification at the commencement of the process."

The Department subsequently revised its processes accordingly to minimise the risk of any further breaches happening of this kind.

Water: Meters

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will take steps to improve the ability of customers to make an informed choice on the merits of installing a water meter. [169478]

Mr. Woolas: I have been asked to reply.

Ofwat requires companies to publicise the options available to household customers for the installation of a free water meter.

The recently announced Green Homes Service will give practical advice to customers on water efficiency, which could include information on the benefits of installing a water meter.

Wind Power

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform whether his Department plans to revise ETSU R-97 as it relates to existing and planned wind turbine installations. [169212]

Malcolm Wicks: The Government have published two independent studies on noise from wind turbines in 2006 and in 2007, both available on the BERR website at http://www.berr.gov.uk/energy/sources/renewables/explained/wind/onshore/page31267.html

http://www.berr.gov.uk/files/file40570.pdf.

Based on the findings of these studies, the Government will not carry out any further research into noise from wind turbines at this time, however we will continue to keep the issue under review. We continue to support the approach set out in Planning Policy Statement (PPS) 22- -Renewable Energy. This approach is for local planning authorities to "ensure that renewable energy developments have been located and designed in such a way to minimise increases in ambient noise levels", through the use of the 1997 report by ETSU to assess and rate noise from wind energy developments.

Actis

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development if he will publish (a) the equity holdings in Actis of those members of staff who purchased a 60 per cent. stake from his Department and (b) any subsequent changes in equity holdings. [168725]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: The equity ownership of the individual members is a matter protected by individual confidentiality.

Actis: Africa

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what proportion of Actis funds investment capital is invested in the poorest quartile of African countries; and if he will list such investments. [168782]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: Actis has approximately US$3.5 billion of funds under management across the emerging markets of which it manages US$1.3 billion in Africa. The proportion of this invested in the poorest quartile[1] is 9 per cent. and includes the following investments:

DFCU Limited, Uganda;

Banro Corporation, Democratic Republic of Congo;

Banque Commerciale du Rwanda, Rwanda.

[1] Data correct at 30 September 2007

Actis: Pay

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how much Actis's Paul Fletcher earned in the last 12 months including expenses, bonuses and pension entitlement. [168783]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: The Remuneration Committee of Actis's Supervisory Board is responsible for determining the firm's policy on remuneration. Information about remuneration (salaries and bonus payment) for the partners is detailed in the Report of the Members and Consolidated Financial Statements published with Companies House.

Actis: Pensions

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what residual pension liabilities his Department has for employees of Actis formerly employed by CDC. [168724]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: DFID has no liabilities for pension payments to CDC or ex-CDC employees; pensions are provided through a funded pension scheme as described in the CDC annual accounts.

Bond Latin America and the Caribbean Group

Mr. Lancaster: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development if he or his ministerial colleagues will meet representatives of the Bond Latin America and the Caribbean Group. [170331]

Mr. Malik: We have been in correspondence with the BOND Latin America and Caribbean Group, and they will meet the head of DFID's Latin America and Caribbean Department.

Departmental Computers

Mr. Gauke: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many of his Department's (a) computers and (b) laptops have been stolen in 2007; and what the value of those items was.[1] [168597]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: 13 laptops have been stolen from the Department for International Development in 2007, all of which had encrypted hard disks. The estimated value of these laptops was £9,087. No other computers have been stolen from DFID in 2007.

1. [Official Report, 27 February 2008, Vol. 472, c. 18MC.]

Departmental Foreign Workers

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many (a) EU foreign nationals and (b) non-EU foreign nationals are employed by his Department. [168104]

Mr. Malik: Nationality information is provided by staff on an entirely voluntary basis. Of the 1,721 home civil servants employed by the Department for International Development (DFID), 37 have declared themselves to be EU foreign nationals and a further 35 as non-EU foreign nationals.

DFID also employs 858 staff who were recruited locally to work in our network of offices overseas on local terms and conditions of service. Comprehensive nationality information is not readily available for this group, but it can be assumed that the majority will be nationals of the country in which they were recruited, and would therefore be non-EU foreign nationals.

Departmental Land

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what land surplus to his Department's requirements it is (a) selling, (b) leasing and (c) intending to (i) sell and (ii) lease; and what the size and name of each relevant site is. [168851]

Mr. Malik: The only land owned by DFID in the UK is our East Kilbride office site with surrounding grounds. There are no plans to sell or lease this property at the moment.

Departmental Publicity

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how much has been spent by his Department on advertising in the last 12 months. [167953]

Mr. Malik: DFID has spent nothing on promotional advertising in the 12 months since November 2006. In the same period £339,745.70 has been spent on advertising for recruitment and procurement procedures.

Chris Ruane: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what assessment he has made of the quality of his Department's literature aimed at (a) infant, (b) junior, (c) secondary and (d) sixth form pupils; and if he will make a statement. [170684]

Mr. Malik: DFID provides funding to organisations that do produce resources for school children and these are evaluated on an individual project basis. We are currently reviewing what more we can do in this area.

Developing Countries: HIV Infection

Mr. Kevan Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what support his Department has provided for (a) care and (b) palliative care for those with HIV/AIDS in developing countries under the G8 commitment to universal access to treatment. [168243]

Mr. Malik: The UK is the second largest bilateral donor on HIV and AIDS and has pledged to spend £1.5 billion on AIDS programmes over the three years up to 2008. While our statistical system tracks broad areas of expenditure such as HIV and AIDS it does not codify specific subsets such as care and palliative care.

However, care and palliative care are an essential part of a comprehensive response to AIDS. Where DFID is providing significant support to country programmes on HIV and AIDS, this includes components to increase capacity of health systems to provide treatment and care, or to develop home and community-based projects. Examples include DFID's support to develop integrated, community-based, HIV and AIDS home-based care in Zambia, and the Kenyan government's HIV and AIDS prevention and care project which includes a package of community-based care and support.

In addition to our bilateral support to developing countries we also provide support for care and palliative care through our multilateral partners. For example we recently made an unprecedented long-term commitment to the Global Fund to fight AIDS, TB and Malaria of up to £1 billion by 2015. The Global Fund is providing significant funds for care and palliative care including support for the roll-out of palliative care in South Africa and Uganda.

Gaza: Water Supply

Mr. Andy Reed: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what assessment his Department has made of the adequacy of provision of water supplies for the population of Gaza City. [168655]

Mr. Malik: The UN monitors the humanitarian situation in the Occupied Palestinian Territories. 15 per cent. of the population of the Gaza Strip do not currently have access to an adequate supply of drinking water. The UN's data are not broken down by city.

Health Insurance

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many officials in (a) his Department and (b) each of its agencies have private health insurance provided as part of their employment package. [167929]

Mr. Malik: DFID does not provide private health insurance for its civil servants working in the UK or overseas. We do, however, provide such insurance for some of our locally engaged staff overseas where there is no equivalent to the national health service and it is normal practice for comparator employers to include private health insurance as part of the employment package.

DFID has one agency, the Commonwealth Scholarships Commission, and this does not employ any staff.

Iraq: Asylum

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what estimate he has made of the number of Iraqi refugees in Syria; what discussions he had with the Syrian authorities about the safe and early return of these refugees; whether the Government are providing financial support to Syria to assist them in housing, feeding and schooling these refugees; and what discussions he has had with (a) his European counterparts and (b) his American counterpart about this situation. [168624]

Mr. Malik: The UN estimates there are between 1.2 and 1.4 million Iraqi refugees in Syria. The UK Government are very concerned about the humanitarian situation for these refugees. Our engagement and support has been through the UN Refugee Agency (UNHCR), which has an internationally recognised mandate to lead the international response to refugee situations. Their operations are closely co-ordinated with the Syrian Government. Activities include rehabilitation of vacant buildings for housing, food distribution and education initiatives. UNHCR is also investigating reports of increased refugee returns from Syria and the reasons behind such returns. We await the outcome of this work.

Since January, DFID has committed £3 million to UNHCR for their work with Iraqi refugees. This takes our overall Iraq humanitarian response to £15 million this year and to over £130 million since 2003. DFID officials are working closely with American and European aid agencies, such as the European Community Humanitarian Aid Department (ECHO), as well as with other partners to co-ordinate programmes and share information.

Iraq: Reconstruction

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what research has been conducted by his Department on UK-funded reconstruction initiatives in Iraq. [168483]

Mr. Malik: The Department for International Development monitors all of its programmes rigorously, including its reconstruction projects in Iraq. In addition to ongoing evaluation and monitoring, we conduct annual reviews—known as "output to purpose reports". At the end of the project's life, we conduct project completion reports. These reviews are designed to evaluate the extent to which the projects have achieved their purpose, and they include recommendations for future changes in our programmes. Every programme is given a score from one to four to indicate how successful it has been in meeting its objectives.

In addition to our bilateral programmes, we have channelled a significant share of DFID reconstruction funds for Iraq through multilateral agencies such as the United Nations and the World Bank. These agencies have their own internal evaluation processes. For example, DFID has channelled £70 million to the international reconstruction fund facility for Iraq (IRFFI), a multi-donor trust fund which supports projects of the World Bank and UN agencies. We have argued for increased attention to be paid to monitoring and evaluation of IRFFI-funded programmes on Iraq and as a result an independent review of its work is now under way. This is being co-ordinated by the United Nations Office Project Services (UNOPS).

KPMG

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development (1) how much his Department has paid to KPMG in each of the last five years; [168151]

(2) what contracts his Department has awarded to KPMG in (a) 2007-08 and (b) each of the previous five years. [168157]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: The payments made by DFID to KPMG through our central finance system in each of the last five financial years are listed as follows.

| Financial year | Total payments (£) |
|---|---|
| 2006-07 | 2,341,093 |
| 2005-06 | 2,469,284 |
| 2004-05 | 3,118,634 |
| 2003-04 | 1,059,955 |
| 2002-03 | 2,486,660 |

There may be some small value payments made overseas through local payment systems that we are unable to identify through our central system or able to quantify without incurring disproportionate costs.

All contracts awarded to KPMG and their network of affiliated independent firms, have been detailed in the table for each of the years requested. This does not include lower-value contracts issued by DFID's overseas offices, which could be obtained only by incurring disproportionate cost.

Non-Governmental Organisations: Finance

Chris Ruane: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how much funding his Department provided to each non-governmental organisation (NGO) in each of the last 10 years; and what proportion that funding represented of each NGO's budget in each of those years. [170682]

Mr. Malik: Tables showing the Department for International Development's expenditure to UK civil society organisations for the last 10 years have been placed in the Library of the House. Central systems are currently only able to extract information on support provided to UK civil society organisations. Since we do not hold information on the budgets of these organisations, we cannot provide detailed information on DFID funding as a proportion of each NGO's budget.

Overseas Aid

Chris Ruane: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development if he will bring forward proposals to ensure that aid supplied in kind by the UK is branded as British. [170683]

Mr. Malik: Procedures for branding UK emergency humanitarian aid were put in place earlier this year. These have been deployed for the first time as part of the current operation in respect of Cyclone Sidr, though the first tranche of UK aid provided to Bangladesh was channelled through the United Nations Development Programme to local non-governmental organisations and so was not subject to the new branding.

The branding of non-emergency aid in kind is subject to local flexibility to allow for the management of security risk or other operational factors. We do plan to review our approach to branding of overseas development assistance.

Chris Ruane: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how much his Department has provided in aid to each recipient country in each of the last 10 years, expressed in 2007 prices. [170685]

Mr. Malik: I have placed a table in the Library showing DFID's total bilateral expenditure, in constant 2006-07 prices, by recipient country, in each year since 1997-98.

Palestine: EU Aid

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development with reference to the answer of 12 June 2007, Official Report, column 1017W, on Palestine: EC aid, what the main conclusions of the European Commission and World Bank report into the effectiveness of the temporary international mechanism were; what changes have been made to the mechanism or its administration in light of the report; and if he will place in the Library a copy of the report. [168388]

Mr. Malik: The European Commission (EC) released the interim evaluation of the temporary international mechanism (TIM) in October. This concluded that the TIM had successfully maintained basic services; acted rapidly and efficiently and addressed the most urgent priorities.

It concluded that no changes were needed to improve its efficiency or effectiveness, but that future support to the Palestinian Authority (PA) should build the capacity of institutions, through greater integration with PA systems. We are working with the EC to ensure that future funding incorporates the lessons from the TIM Review.

A copy of the report will be placed in the Library.

Somalia: Overseas Aid

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what his assessment is of the security of humanitarian assistance to Somalia by the World Food Programme with reference to the increase of piracy incidents in the area. [165990]

Mr. Thomas: Security is one of the major challenges in delivering humanitarian assistance to Somalia. Relief agencies are unable to work effectively to assist the most needy people, especially in Mogadishu and the surrounding area, and the threat of piracy makes the delivery of humanitarian assistance more difficult. Transporters demand higher rates because of the risks, and delays are caused when willing transporters cannot be found or cargoes are seized. Three ships have been attacked in 2007. All were returning empty from Somalia to Kenya, and so there was no loss of humanitarian cargo.

The overland route via Kenya does not, however, provide a suitable alternative since it is less efficient and more expensive, with the exception of a few delivery locations adjacent to the Kenya border. There are many incidents of militia groups setting up checkpoints along roads inside Somalia and demanding payments for passage. This happens to such an extent that the World Food Programme (WFP) still prefers to send the bulk of its humanitarian cargo by ship. At present, approximately 80 per cent. of deliveries of WFP food aid to Somalia are by sea.

Zimbabwe: Human Rights

Mr. MacDougall: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development if he will make a statement on the humanitarian situation in Zimbabwe. [168544]

Mr. Thomas: The humanitarian situation in Zimbabwe continues to deteriorate as a result of economic mismanagement made worse by the effects of a severe drought during the last growing season. An estimated 4.1 million people will need international food aid by the end of the year. Malnutrition has reached concerning levels in a number of districts. The collapse of urban water and sanitation systems in Zimbabwe's main cities has increased numbers of life-threatening diarrhoea outbreaks. HIV/AIDS remains a major problem with 1.8 million affected.

DFID's aid programme is providing substantial direct assistance to protect the livelihoods of more than 1.5 million poor people in Zimbabwe, tackle HIV/AIDS and help meet humanitarian needs. This year we have made an additional contribution of £8 million to the World Food Programme to ensure that food aid reaches those who need it most and £1 million to UNICEF to prepare for and respond to emergency disease outbreaks.

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Academies: Manchester

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families who will appoint the board of governors of each of the seven new academies to be established in Manchester; who will (a) appoint the head teacher and (b) set the schools' goals in each case; what the role of the local authority will be in each case; and if he will make a statement. [168192]

Jim Knight: The individual academy trusts will be responsible for appointing the governing bodies of the academies. We have yet to receive detailed governance proposals for all seven academies. However, we anticipate that the lead sponsors will appoint the majority of governors in each case, and that Manchester city council, as one of the co-sponsors, will appoint two governors. Initially, the academy trusts will be responsible for setting the academy goals and appointing the principal, with the governing bodies assuming these responsibilities once they are in place.

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families who the co-sponsors are of the seven academy projects planned for Manchester; and if he will make a statement. [168193]

Jim Knight: The lead and co-sponsors of the Manchester academies programme are as follows:

| Provisional name | Lead sponsor(s) | Co-sponsor(s) | Specialism |
|---|---|---|---|
| Business and Enterprise Academy | Manchester Airport | Willow Park Housing Trust, Manchester College of Arts and Technology (MANCAT) Manchester City Council (MCC) | Business and Enterprise |

Building Schools for the Future Programme

Mr. Purchase: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families which local authorities included in the Building Schools for the Future programme have made submissions which have not included a proposal to open an academy. [168290]

Jim Knight: The following list shows the local authorities in waves 1 to 4 of Building Schools for the Future, of which six do not have an open Academy, or one in the pipeline. These are Gateshead, Knowsley, South Tyneside, Tower Hamlets, Cambridgeshire and Somerset. The BSF submissions made by the other authorities may not have included proposals to open an academy, because either they already had an academy open or in the pipeline, or because open or planned academies are outside of the geographical area covered by their BSF projects.

Bullying: Internet

Ann Coffey: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what recent estimate he has made of the incidence of bullying of children (a) via the internet and (b) by mobile phone text messaging. [168947]

Kevin Brennan [holding answer 27 November 2007]: We are unable to provide definitive figures for numbers of bullying incidents at school as we do not collect these data centrally. However our recent guidance on cyberbullying, incorporated as part of our comprehensive anti-bullying guidance "Safe to Learn: embedding anti-bullying work in schools", included a range of survey evidence on the extent of cyberbullying. This is summarised as follows:

Research carried out for the Anti-Bullying Alliance by Goldsmiths College found that 22 per cent. of 11 to 16-year-olds had been a victim of cyberbullying;

The MSN cyberbullying report (2006) found that 11 per cent. of UK teens had experienced cyberbullying;

Noret and River's four year study on bullying (2007) found that 15 per cent. of the 11,227 children surveyed had received nasty or aggressive texts and e-mails, and demonstrated a year on year increase in the number of children who are bullied using new technology;

Research conducted as part of the DCSF cyberbullying information campaign found that 34 per cent. of 12 to 15-year-olds reported having been cyberbullied.

Children in Care: Boarding Schools

Annette Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what recent assessment he has made of the implementation by local authorities of the policy of offering boarding school education where appropriate to looked-after children. [169626]

Kevin Brennan [holding answer 29 November 2007]: The Thomas Coram Research Unit of the Institute of Education is evaluating the work of the 12 local authorities that are part of pathfinder arrangements for placing vulnerable children in boarding schools. Regular reports are made to the project's steering group and the full evaluation report will be published in October 2008.

Children in Care: Pupil Exclusions

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how many children in the care of each local authority were excluded from school in each of the last three years; [167599]

(2) how many children in the care of a local authority placed outside that authority area were excluded from school in each of the last three years, broken down by authority. [167600]

Kevin Brennan [holding answer 26 November 2007]: The information requested could be provided only at disproportionate costs.

The first year for which an in-care indicator was directly collected for permanently excluded pupils was 2005/06, collected in January 2007 via the School Census. The Department holds this information at individual level but this is not readily available at either local authority or national level.

Exclusions data for the 2006/07 school year are expected to be available in June 2008.

Children: Abuse

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how many children who were referred for an initial assessment from social services were suspected to be in danger of (a) abuse and (b) neglect in the latest period for which figures are available; [170799]

(2) how many children (a) received a core assessment from social services and (b) had further contact with social services as a result of their core assessment in the latest period for which figures are available; [170800]

(3) how many children were (a) referred for an initial assessment from social services and (b) received an initial assessment from social services in each of the last five years; [170801]

(4) what proportion of core assessments for children referred to children's social care were completed within the target timescale of 35 working days from the day of the initial assessment in the latest period for which figures are available. [170802]

Kevin Brennan: The available information can be found in SFR28/2007, Referrals, Assessments and Children and Young People who are the subject of a Child Protection Plan or are on Child Protection Registers, at http://www.dfes.gov.uk/rsgateway/DB/SFR/s000742/index.shtml on the Department's website. The answer to question 170799 can be found in table E, the other available answers are in table A. The department does not hold information on the number of children who had further contact with social services as a result of their core assessment (PQ170800 part b).

Children: Databases

Annette Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what estimate he has made of the number of people who will be able to access information from eCaf. [167444]

Kevin Brennan [holding answer 22 November 2007]: We are to commission a detailed survey of the number of practitioners who will need to have access to the eCAF system.

However, it should be noted that security arrangements within the eCAF system will ensure that practitioners will only be allowed access to the entries for children with whom they are, legitimately, working and even then, only with the informed, explicit consent of the child or young person (or their parent/carer where appropriate).

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many officials in (a) his Department and (b) other Departments and Government agencies are eligible to have access to the entire content of the ContactPoint database. [167971]

Kevin Brennan: No officials from the Department will have access to records held on ContactPoint. Once ContactPoint is deployed, local authority data controllers will have responsibility for the accuracy of records of children and young people ordinarily resident in their areas. Government Departments, local authorities and agencies—for example the NHS, the Child Exploitation and Online Protection centre (CEOP), and the Children and Family Court Advisory and Support Service (CAFCASS)—whose staff are responsible for safeguarding children and ensuring their well-being, and who need to use ContactPoint as part of their job, will be able to access and amend child records for children with whom they are working. The significant majority of users will be children's services practitioners, not government officials.

We have contracted with Capgemini for the purposes of operating the national system, maintaining data quality and technical system support. The computer system will be in a secure location, physically removed from the Department.

There are a number of tests that must be carried out prior to the deployment of ContactPoint in respect of data management, user acceptance, and security which will involve a small number of local authority data managers and data specialists from within the ContactPoint project.

Everyone involved in the tests will be subject to an enhanced Criminal Records Bureau check before they access any live data. The majority of these tests will be carried out using 'synthetic' test data. Where live data are used, the tests will be carried out in a physically isolated, secure test environment.

Access to ContactPoint will be strictly limited to those who need it to do their job. The number of users is estimated to be around 330,000 and will include small teams of data administrators in each local authority area and practitioners from education, Connexions, health, social care, youth offending services, police and the voluntary sector. These persons are clearly specified in regulation 9 and schedule 3 of the Children Act 2004 Information Database (England) Regulations 2007, and will be able to access individual records after providing a legitimate reason to do so, but will not be able to view or download the entire database.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) what account he plans to take of the findings of the Making ContactPoint Work initiative conducted by the Children's Rights Director for England in the development of ContactPoint; [168727]

(2) if he will review the number of people to whom his Department will make the details stored on ContactPoint available with a view to reducing risks of deliberate and inadvertent misuse of personal data; [168728]

(3) if he will reduce the number of children on whom ContactPoint will store information; [168922]

(4) what discussions his Department has had on access to ContactPoint since 15 November 2007. [168923]

Kevin Brennan: We welcome the report 'Making ContactPoint Work', published last week by the Children's Rights Director for England, Roger Morgan. In fact, my Department specifically requested Roger Morgan to ask children what they thought of the proposals set out in draft Government guidance about ContactPoint. We acknowledge fully and understand that children and young people quite reasonably want reassurances about security and access.

The views of children and young people are central to the development of ContactPoint. In fact, 'Making ContactPoint Work', representing the views of 62 children, is a small part of the overall consultation DCSF has undertaken with children and young people. More than 1,000 children have already been consulted about ContactPoint and overall findings have shown that, once young people understand what ContactPoint is, they usually agree it is a positive thing. The views and issues they raise have played, and continue to play, an important role in the development of ContactPoint. Further consultation with young people and parents and carers is planned.

Access to ContactPoint will be limited strictly to those who need it to do their job (currently estimated at around 330,000 practitioners). All users will be subject to stringent security controls and, before being granted access, must have completed mandatory face-to-face training, have obtained security clearance (including enhanced Criminal Records Bureau clearance) and have a user name, a password, a PIN and a security token to control their access to ContactPoint. Mandatory face-to-face training will include the safe and secure use of ContactPoint and the importance of compliance with the Data Protection Act 1998 and Human Rights Act 1998.

To gain access to a child's record, all users will have to state clear reasons why they are accessing ContactPoint. All use of the system will be monitored and audited and every access to a child's record will be detailed in the ContactPoint audit trail. This will be regularly monitored by local authorities, using online User Activity Reports, to ensure that any misuse is detected and that appropriate action is taken.

ContactPoint will include all children in England because it is not possible to predict accurately, in advance, which children will need additional services. Any child or young person could require the support of additional services at any time in their childhood. We want to support early intervention for children to help prevent situations becoming critical.

Officials at the DCSF were briefed, on 20 November, by Treasury colleagues about the loss of the data at the HMRC. DCSF Ministers have been kept closely informed about how the issue is being dealt with at HMRC and the other agencies involved.

As soon as we were aware of the issue, we made contact with the Serious Organised Crime Agency, the Child Exploitation and Online Protection Centre and HM Treasury to identify any potential children's welfare issues. As child safety and welfare issues are an absolute priority for us, we are maintaining close contact with the agencies involved to ensure that we all remain vigilant to any child welfare issues that may arise.

On Tuesday 20 November, my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families, asked the Department's Permanent Secretary to conduct an immediate assessment of how personal data are stored and protected in the Department. The Permanent Secretary reported back within 24 hours to confirm the Department is confident that we have very robust procedures in place. In light of the security breach at the HMRC, we are continuing to check our procedures to ensure standards are as high as they can be. On Wednesday 21 November, the Prime Minister confirmed this approach when he asked all Departments to check their procedures for the storage and use of data. Given the obvious importance of ensuring that ContactPoint has extremely robust security measures in place, the Secretary of State, also on Tuesday 20 November, asked for an independent assessment of its security procedures, which will be conducted by Deloitte.

Children: Day Care

Ms Abbott: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what child care provisions are available for refugee and asylum-seeking women who are taking English for speakers of other languages classes; and if he will make a statement. [162226]

Caroline Flint: I have been asked to reply.

It is up to local authorities to ensure there are sufficient child care places available to meet local demand. They receive funding from the Department for Children, Schools and Families which can be used to secure sufficient child care in line with local needs.

Subject to their individual circumstances, refugees have access to the full range of benefits and services provided by the Department for Work and Pensions. This includes Jobcentre Plus customers on New Deal for Lone Parents or New Deal for Partners, who can access child care to allow them to participate in the provision. This includes English for speakers of other languages (ESOL) training.

More generally, ESOL classes are provided by the Learning and Skills Council. Attendance for ESOL training is voluntary and while attending such courses, there are a number of ways that learners can access child care provision. DWP's Employability Skills Programme learners in receipt of jobseeker's allowance and undertaking a programme of a minimum of 20 hours per week are eligible for help with child care costs. The discretionary Learner Support Fund allocated to providers by the Learning and Skills Council can be used to support child care costs for learners aged 20 and above. Some local European Social Funding allocations can also be used to support child care costs. This varies from project to project depending on the scope and purpose of the project. In addition to this, learning undertaken by parents through Family Literacy, Language and Numeracy can also offer child care provision in some places. This support is not mandatory but informal arrangements are made by a number of providers.

None of the funding available from Department for Work and Pensions or the Learning and Skills Council is available to asylum seekers; The Border and Immigration Agency (BIA) provide support to asylum seekers, and their dependants, who are destitute or likely to become destitute in the immediate future. No specific child care provision for asylum-seeking women who are taking English for speakers of other languages classes is given.

Helen Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what data his Department collects on the take-up of child care by families on low incomes. [169309]

Beverley Hughes: The Parents' Childcare Survey collects information on take-up of child care by household income. The 2004 survey showed that higher income families were more likely to have used child care in the last week than lower income families; 73 per cent. of families with a yearly income over £32,000 had used any child care in the last week, compared with 56 per cent. of families with a yearly income of under £10,000[1].

[1] Childcare and Early Years Provision: A Study of Parents' Use, Views and Experiences, Research Report 723; DfES. Bryson, C., Kazimirski, A. and Southwood, H. (2006). This report is available at: http://www.dfes.gov.uk/research/data/uploadfiles/RR723.pdf

| | Under £10,000 | £10,000 to £19,999 | £20,000 to £31,999 | £32,000+ |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Used any child care | 56 | 60 | 68 | 73 |
| Used formal care | 31 | 36 | 43 | 52 |
| Used informal care | 38 | 41 | 45 | 45 |

By 2008, the Department aims to increase the number of children in lower-income working families using formal child care by 120,000 children from the 2004-05 baseline of 614,000 children. This baseline is estimated from the 2004 Parents' Childcare Survey data.

This forms part of the PSA target to 'Safeguard children and young people, improve their life outcomes and general well-being, and break cycles of deprivation' and will contribute to achieving this target by helping to reduce the proportion of children living in households where no-one is working.

The figures showing progress towards this target will be available in February 2008 when the results of the 2007 Parents' Childcare Survey will be published.

Children: Disability Aids

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what discussions he has had with Ministerial colleagues on the provision of alternative and augmentative communication equipment aids for children with disabilities. [168778]

Jim Knight: The Government recently launched the Bercow Review, which is an independent review of speech and language provision, led by John Bercow MP and supported by officials from the Department for Children, Schools and Families (DCSF) and the Department of Health (DH). One of the specific issues to be considered by the review will be the effective provision of assistive and augmentative communication (AAC) technology.

The review is currently seeking evidence from all interested groups and individuals, including through a focus group facilitated by Scope which will consider the provision of alternative and augmentative communication equipment aids. The Government will respond to the Review's findings and recommendations following publication of the final report in July 2008.

Also, the Department of Health are leading on a review on community equipment, launched together with the wheelchair services review in June 2006. On completion of the review, the Government plan to deliver a radical reform of community equipment, with full consideration of and provision for the needs of children. On completion of the community equipment review, my Department will work closely with the Department of Health to assist in the implementation of the recommendations.

Children: Sexual Offences

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps have been taken by his Department to tackle child sexual exploitation. [167547]

Kevin Brennan: The Department has taken a number of steps to tackle child sexual exploitation, including publication in April 2006 of the updated 'Working Together to Safeguard Children', the main inter-agency guide to working together to safeguard and promote the welfare of children. 'Working Together' stresses the need to treat children involved in prostitution and other forms of sexual exploitation primarily as the victims of abuse and advises that agencies should work together to develop local protocols. It also includes guidance for practitioners on sharing information with children's social care and the police about underage sexual activity, in response to recommendation 13 of the Bichard Inquiry Report, and sets out a number of considerations that practitioners should take into account in assessing when and how to share information about underage sexual activity. These include indicators of possible sexual exploitation. We have also established Local Safeguarding Children Boards, which have a role in co-ordinating work to safeguard children from sexual exploitation in each local area; and have published draft guidance to help agencies safeguard children who may have been trafficked. We are currently updating 'Safeguarding Children involved in prostitution', which was originally published in 2000 as supplementary guidance to the 1999 edition of 'Working Together'. The revised guidance will have a wider scope and cover safeguarding children from sexual exploitation more generally.

Departmental Correspondence

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what percentage of inquiries received by his Department from the public were responded to within (a) one week, (b) 14 days, (c) 28 days, (d) two months and (e) three months in the last period for which figures are available; and in what percentage of cases it took (i) over three months and (ii) over one year to respond. [167379]

Kevin Brennan: This Department does not hold the information in the format required. Our performance for correspondence from MPs and Peers is published annually by way of a written ministerial statement. The Department for Children, Schools and Families has only been in existence since June 2007; performance figures for the Department for Education and Skills for 2006 were published on 28 March 2007, Official Report, column 101WS. Information for DfES and DCSF for 2007 will be published as soon as it is ready after the end of the calendar year.

Overall performance for all correspondence (MPs, Peers and the public) is given in the Department's annual report. The DfES Annual Report for 2007 was published in May this year and is available on the Department's website:

www.dcsf.gsi.gov.uk

Departmental Manpower

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many people aged (a) 30 to 39, (b) 40 to 49, (c) 50 to 59 and (d) 60 to 69 years have (i) applied for jobs, (ii) received interviews and (iii) gained (A) temporary and (B) permanent jobs in his Department in 2007. [165103]

Kevin Brennan: The Department was formed as part of the Machinery of Government changes on 28 June 2007. Numbers of staff recruited to the new Department since then have been small. The figures are set out by the relevant age bands in the following table:

| Age range | Permanent | Temporary |
|---|---|---|
| under 30 | 40 | 11 |
| 30-39 | 33 | 3 |
| 40-49 | 18 | 1 |
| 50-59 | 8 | 0 |
| 60-69 | 0 | 0 |

Detailed information on applicants and interviews is held by individual teams and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Ministerial Policy Advisors

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the office costs for his Department's special advisers for 2007-08 are expected to be, including costs of support staff; and how many full-time equivalent civil servants work in support of such special advisers. [164934]

Kevin Brennan: Three civil servants support the special advisers in the Department. They provide administrative support of a non-political nature in accordance with the Code of Conduct for Special Advisers.

Office costs will be accounted for in the 2007/08 departmental annual report and accounts.

Departmental Orders and Regulations

Alan Duncan: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many regulations his Department and its predecessors (a) made and (b) revoked in the last 12 months. [167080]

Kevin Brennan: The Department for Children, Schools and Families (DCSF) and its predecessor, the Department for Education and Skills (DfES), in as much as DfES covered areas of work now covered by DCSF, made 97 regulations and revoked 55 in the 12 months which ended on 27 November 2007.

Departmental Property

David T.C. Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much was spent by his Department and its predecessor on renovation and refurbishment of its properties in each of the last five years. [164378]

Kevin Brennan: The information is as follows:

| | Amount (£) |
|---|---|
| 2002-03 | 1,300,503.00 |
| 2003-04 | 378,638.00 |
| 2004-05 | 764,021.00 |
| 2005-06 | 745,000.00 |
| 2006-07 | 2,175,000.00 |

Departmental Public Participation

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families if he will place in the Library copies of each document prepared for each of his Department's citizens' juries. [164857]

Jim Knight: The Department for Children, Schools and Families has conducted five citizens' juries, one in Bristol on 6 September and four other deliberative debates in London, Leeds, Portsmouth and Birmingham all held on 29 September. Copies of the programmes, including questions debated and other relevant material from these juries have been placed in the House Library as requested.

Departmental Secondment

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many secondments of staff were made (a) to and (b) from his Department in each year since 1997; which organisations staff were seconded (i) to and (ii) from; how many staff were seconded in each year; for how long each secondment lasted; and what the cost was of each secondment in each year. [167280]

Kevin Brennan: The Department came into being as part of the Machinery of Government changes on 28 June 2007. The following tables therefore apply to the current year only. A total of (a) 81 staff are seconded to the Department and (b) 38 from the Department, with the specific numbers and organisations listed in the following tables.

Secondments are normally for a period of between three months and three years. The Department normally meets the costs of inward secondees, with the host organisations meeting outward secondee costs. Details of specific individual placement costs could be provided only at disproportionate cost, but as a guideline all of the secondments listed are at standard civil service grades from administrative assistant to Grade 6.

Education: Assessments

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) what the costs of administering national tests at (a) Key Stage 1, (b) Key Stage 2, (c) Key Stage 3, (d) Key Stage 4 and (e) AS level were in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement; [163447]

(2) what the cost of the national examination and national testing systems in England was for all maintained schools in each year since 1997-98; and if he will make a statement. [163448]

Jim Knight: The Qualifications and Curriculum Authority's estimate of the costs of delivering the national curriculum tests for Key Stage 1, Key Stage 2 and Key Stage 3 are as follows:

| | Total cost of NCT |
|---|---|
| | £000 |
| 2007-08 | 50,570 |
| 2006-07 | 51,559 |
| 2005-06 | 51,743 |
| 2004-05 | 43,828 |
| 2003-04 | 40,231 |
| 2002-03 | 38,944 |
| 2001-02 | 28,074 |
| 2000-01 | 28,014 |
| 1999-2000 | 25,693 |
| 1998-99 | 19,672 |

QCA's records do not support the split of this information between the various key stages.

Public examinations at Key Stage 4 and GCE AS level are administered by independent awarding bodies. Information on their costs is not collected centrally in the form requested. There are no fees for national curriculum tests for maintained schools. The information in the following table covers the costs incurred by all local authority maintained primary, secondary and special schools, for test administration and examination entry fees and any accreditation costs related to pupils taking GCSEs, GNVQs, AS and A2 qualifications.

| Academic year[1] | £ millionAmount spent on examination entries |
|---|---|
| 2002-03 | 156 |
| 2003-04 | 174 |
| 2004-05 | 198 |
| 2005-06 | 220 |

[1] It was only in 2002-03 that the Department began collecting information in sufficient detail to answer this question.

These costs, essential for recognising individual achievement and monitoring the performance of the system, represent a small fraction of the total annual public investment in education.

Education: Cost Efficiency

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much of the planned efficiency savings under the Spending Review 2004 are expected to be generated by (a) Using Cover Supervisors, listed as element A1(b) on page 7, (b) Pay Restructuring, listed as element A1(c) on page 7 and (c) Modernisation of the Teachers Pension Scheme, listed as element A1(d) on page 8 of the departmental Efficiency Technical Note of April 2006. [167725]

Jim Knight: I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer given on 26 November 2007, Official Report, column 267W, to the hon. Member for Twickenham (Dr. Cable). Details of DCSF's progress towards our Gershon target will be reported in the Department's Autumn Performance Report. This will be published on 7 December 2007.

Education: Disabled

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what studies his Department has made of the effectiveness of assistive technologies to assist with the learning of visually impaired and dyslexic children in primary and secondary schools. [165767]

Kevin Brennan: The Department has not carried out formal studies into the effectiveness of assistive technologies. The Special Educational Needs Code of Practice which provides advice on carrying out statutory duties to identify, assess and make provision for pupils' special educational needs says that schools should explore the possible benefits of, and where practicable, secure access for a pupil to appropriate technology. The code also makes it clear that local authorities and schools must make decisions about which actions and provision are appropriate for which pupils on an individual basis.

The Department is currently working with RNIB and a number of other organisations including the British Dyslexia Association to improve the provision of educational materials in accessible formats in schools.

Education: Immigrants

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment he has made of the effect of migration from A8 countries on education spending per capita in each Government Office of the region. [167646]

Jim Knight: The Government have made no specific assessment of the effect of migration from A8 countries on education spending per capita in each Government Office region. School funding is based on overall pupil projections, using ONS population projections, which take account of migration and birth rate. School funding for individual local authorities is allocated on actual pupil numbers based on the January school census.

The Department for Children, Schools and Families has recently announced an additional exceptional circumstances grant to local authorities with significant extra pressures on their schools budgets from new arrivals, between January and the start of the school-year. This will be on a case by case basis when there is a significant increase in pupil numbers in a local authority; or where the proportion of EAL pupils significantly increases in a local authority.

Educational Institutions: Crime

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many students in Romford have been charged with a criminal offence by the police for incidents that took place (a) in educational institutions or (b) on school property in each of the last five years. [168423]

Jim Knight: The information requested is not collected centrally.

Free School Meals

Ms Buck: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what estimate he has made of the change in the proportion of children entitled to free school dinners at (a) denominational primary schools, (b) denominational secondary schools, (c) maintained primary schools, (d) maintained secondary schools, (e) grammar schools and (f) academies in each year since 1990. [167575]

Jim Knight: The available information for 1997, 2002 and 2007 is given in the table:

Maintained primary and secondary schools [1]: School meal arrangements by denomination of school Position in January each year: 1997, 2002 and 2007—England

Geronimo Communications

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what tendering arrangements were used to select Geronimo Communications for departmental contracts since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [166342]

Kevin Brennan: Geronimo Communications have had a contractual relationship with the Department since 1999. The first two contracts were as a result of competitive domestic tenders. Contractual arrangements since 2000 have been won by EU tenders advertised in the OJEU (Official Journal of the European Union). Projects since 2000 have been placed with Geronimo Communications via the subsequent framework agreements set up as a result of the EU tenders.

The breakdown is as follows:

| Contract Number | Dates | Tender method | Services covered |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1840 | 2007-2010-11 | OJEU 2006 | Writing and Editorial |
| 1665 | 2004-2009 | OJEU 2003 | PR |
| 1490 | 2000-2004 | OJEU 2000 | PR |
| 1427 | 2000-2001 | Domestic tender 99 | PR |

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families pursuant to the answer of 13 November 2007, Official Report, column 158W, what services were provided to his Department and its predecessors by Geronimo Communications in each year since 1999-2000; and if he will make a statement. [166506]

Kevin Brennan: Geronimo has provided media relations support within departmental information campaigns (often concentrating on local and regional media and specialist media outlets). While in some campaigns their contribution has worked alongside advertising, in many others it is the main plank of the campaign strategy.

The campaigns in which Geronimo has worked are:

Gifted Children: Romford

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what proportion of students in Romford is on the Gifted and Talented programme. [168336]

Jim Knight: There are currently 1,559 children and young people identified as gifted and talented by their maintained primary and secondary schools in Romford which is 14 per cent. of the total maintained school population in the local authority. All these students are eligible to join the new Young Gifted and Talented Learner Academy (YG and T).

Headteachers

Mr. Paterson: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families pursuant to the Statement of the Prime Minister of 14 November 2007, Official Report, columns 667-72, on national security, when he plans to convene the new forum of head teachers referred to by the Prime Minister; who he expects its members to be; what he expects the costs to be; and if he will make a statement. [168439]

Jim Knight: We are in discussion with head teachers on how to convene the forum and what its role will be. We expect the costs to be minimal.

Higher Education

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what proportion of 16-year olds went on to (a) A levels, (b) further education, (c) other vocational training and (d) higher education in (i) Southend and (ii) each local authority in Essex in each of the last two years for which figures are available. [167391]

Jim Knight: The following tables show the proportion of all academic age 16-year-olds participating in maintained schools, independent schools, sixth form colleges, other further education institutions and work based learning. The figures are provided for Southend-on-Sea, Essex and Thurrock for 2004 and 2005, the last two years for which figures are available. Participation by local authority is not broken down by the qualifications being studied.

Participation of 16-year-olds in education and training is published in the Statistical First Release, Participation in Education, Training and Employment by 16-18 Year Olds in England: 2005 and 2006 and Participation in Education and Training by 16 and 17 Year Olds in each Local Area in England: 2004 and 2005. ## Mathematics: GCE A-level

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what plans he has to increase the number of students taking mathematics to A-level; and if he will make a statement. [163771]

Jim Knight: This year there were 53,416 entries for A-level mathematics (an increase of 3,611 since 2006) and 7,241 entries for A-level further mathematics (an increase of 725). The Government are committed to increasing the number of young people entered for A-level mathematics to 56,000 by 2014. They have put in place a strong programme of work to help achieve this which includes:

Developing innovative key stage 3 lesson materials to engage young people with mathematics, along with appropriate teacher support. The materials will be available to schools in April 2008 for use in classrooms from September;

Slimming down the national curriculum statutory programmes of study by expressing content in more general terms without losing breadth, depth, and challenge. This provides greater flexibility for schools and enables them to focus on key concepts. The new mathematics curriculum at key stages 3 and 4 will be introduced for first teaching from September 2008;

Developing through the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority a second mathematics GCSE aimed at students who wish to gain a deeper appreciation of mathematics. It will be additional to the existing mathematics GCSE and will be introduced for first teaching from 2010;

Producing a range of case studies which evidence school level factors associated with high levels of progression to post-16 mathematics;

Commissioning a programme of support and guidance aimed at increasing the number of young people continuing their study of STEM (science, technology, engineering and mathematics) subjects post-16 by showing the wide range of careers available to those who study STEM subjects;

Commissioning a STEM communications campaign to inform pupils, parents and others of the wide ranging and existing opportunities that are open to students when they choose to study STEM subjects and qualifications up to and post-16;

Introducing new mathematics specifications for first teaching in September 2004. They make AS and A-level mathematics more flexible and manageable;

Funding a network of further mathematics centres to increase the number of young people taking further mathematics A-level;

Putting in place a number of measures to step up the recruitment, retention and retraining of mathematics teachers.

Mathematics: General Certificate of Secondary Education

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) if he will place in the Library sample course materials for the proposed new functional mathematics GCSE module involving note and coin recognition; [167648]

(2) how much the Government have incurred in developing the proposed new functional mathematics GCSE module involving note and coin recognition. [167649]

Jim Knight: The Qualifications and Curriculum Authority is piloting new functional mathematics assessments at Entry Level to Level 2 for use both by young people and adults. These are being developed by awarding bodies to the functional skills standards, which have also been reflected in the new national Curriculum programmes of study at Key Stage 3 and Key Stage 4. I shall place copies of the latest version of the functional mathematics standards in the House Library. The standards include financial literacy skills, which are vital to equipping people with the skills they need to operate in life and at work. The functional skills standards at Entry Level 1 include note and coin recognition. Entry Level 1 is of comparable standard to National Curriculum Level 1—the study done during Key Stage 1—and is being designed to be suitable for those needing to develop very basic mathematics skills.

Music: Finance

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families pursuant to the answer of 15 November 2007, Official Report, column 420W, on music: finance, how many local education authorities supplemented their music standards fund grants with additional spending in the last 12 months. [1] Includes planned expenditure (not standards fund supported) on the provision of music tuition or other activities which provide opportunities for pupils to enhance their experience of music. This is drawn from local authorities' 2007-08 section 52 Budget Statements (Table 1 line 2.4.11) submitted to the DCSF (formally DfES).
[2] 2007-08 figures are subject to change by the local authority.
[3] Figures are rounded to the nearest £1,000 and may not sum due to rounding.
Note:
Cash term figures as reported by local authorities as at 26 November 2007.

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much of the annual budget for the music standards fund was allocated for (a) instrumental and (b) voice tuition in each of the last five years. [169016]

Jim Knight: This information is not collected centrally.

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much of the annual budget for the music standards fund was (a) devolved to schools and (b) given to local authority music services in the latest period for which figures are available. [169017]

Jim Knight: Since 2006 the Music Standards Fund has comprised two elements. First the baseline grant to local authorities of £59 million to enhance opportunities for pupils to access high quality music education, with a priority on instrumental and vocal opportunities at Key Stage 2. Second local authorities received a new allocation through the Music Standards Fund grant, of £3million in 2006-07 and £23 million in 2007-08, to be devolved to schools serving Key Stage 2 pupils. This allocation allows primary and special schools themselves to begin buying in instrumental and vocal tuition at Key Stage 2, either from the Local Authority Music Service or from other local providers. We understand that in many local authorities schools have decided to buy in support from their local music service. In each of the years from 2008-09 to 2010-11 the whole £82 million available will go to local authorities to support the new music education ambitions set out on 21 November. However, they will be expected to secure the agreement of the School Forums as to its precise use.

National Evaluation of Children's Trusts

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families if he will publish the National Evaluation of Children's Trusts commissioned by his Department. [169156]

Beverley Hughes: The "National Evaluation of Children's Trust Pathfinders Final Report"; was published in March 2007 and can be found at:
http://www.everychildmatters.gov.uk/strategy/nect/

Ofsted

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families whether Ofsted is up-to-date with its planned cycle of inspections; and if he will make a statement. [163189]

Jim Knight: This is a matter for Ofsted. HM Chief inspector, Christine Gilbert, has written to the hon. Member and a copy of her reply has been placed in the Library.

Letter from Christine Gilbert, dated 20 November 2007:

Your recent parliamentary question has been passed to me, as Her Majesty's Chief Inspector, for a response. I shall cover each area of Ofsted's remit in turn.

1. Early Years

Current regulations for the inspection of childcare and funded nursery education were introduced in October 2005 and stipulate that the present prescribed cycle will run until 31 August 2009. However, Ofsted has given a commitment that these inspections will be carried out by the end of March 2008. Of the 101,614 providers, 21,081 remain to be inspected. It will be a significant challenge for Ofsted to complete all of these by the end of March 2008, but we are optimistic that we can do this. This will be over a year ahead of the prescribed cycle and will enable us to start inspecting the new Early Years Foundation Stage from its inception in September 2008, on a new prescribed cycle agreed with Government.

2. Maintained schools

Under the current inspection framework for maintained schools, the Education (School Inspection) (England) Regulations 2005 stipulate that all maintained schools should be inspected between 1 September 2005 and 1 August 2009; and thereafter, they should be inspected within three school years from the end of the school year in which the last inspection took place. There are nearly 23,000 maintained schools in England. In 2005-06, 6,128 schools were inspected and in 2006-07 8,323 schools were inspected. Ofsted is therefore on target to complete inspections within the time limit prescribed by the regulations.

3. Colleges of further education

Ofsted commenced a second four-year cycle of inspections of further education colleges in September 2005. Ofsted is on course to complete this cycle of inspections by August 2009.

4. Non-association independent schools

Ofsted is up to date with its inspections of non-association independent schools. By April 2008 it will have completed the first cycle of inspections in these schools and will have completed 455 inspections during this financial year.

5. Joint area reviews of local services for children

Under the Framework for the inspection of children's services, a joint area review of each local authority area will be carried out between September 2005 and December 2008. The scope of joint area reviews includes services for children and young people aged 0-19 years inclusive, whether provided by statutory, voluntary or private providers. There are 150 local authority areas in England. In 2005-06 fieldwork for 28 joint area reviews was completed; in 2006-07 fieldwork for 49 was completed; in 2007-08 fieldwork for 41 joint area reviews is scheduled to take place; and in 2008-09 fieldwork for 32 is scheduled. Ofsted is therefore on target to complete all joint area reviews within the time limit specified in the framework

6. Secure settings for young people

The 2007-08 programme for the inspection of secure children's homes and secure training centres is on schedule to be completed as planned.

Young offender institutions and immigration removal centres are inspected by Ofsted in partnership with Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Prisons (HMIP). Ofsted works in partnership with HMIP and inspects in line with their schedule. The 2007-08 programme is on schedule to be completed as planned.

7. Initial teacher education

The current initial teacher training inspection (primary and secondary provision) framework and the three year formal service agreement between Ofsted and the Training and Development Agency for Schools (TDA) stipulate that all providers of initial teacher training should be inspected at least once between 1 September 2005 and 31 July 2008. There are 192 providers of initial teacher training in England. In 2005-06, 54 were inspected; in 2006-07, 73 were inspected; in 2007-08 Ofsted is scheduled to inspect the remaining 70 providers. Ofsted is therefore on target (192 scheduled inspections, three re-inspections, one early inspection on behalf of the TDA and one inspection spread over two years) to complete the inspection of initial teacher training within the agreed time limit for the current initial teacher training Framework.

The current framework for the inspection of further education teacher training stipulates that all providers of further education teacher training should be inspected at least once between 1 September 2004 and 31 July 2008. There are 58 higher education institutions providing further education teacher training in England; in 2004-05 13 were inspected; in 2005-06 12 were inspected; in 2006-07 12 were inspected; in 2007-08 Ofsted is scheduled to inspect 17. Four higher education institutions providing initial teacher training had their inspections deferred according to the agreed deferral criteria and will be inspected early in the next inspection cycle. Ofsted is therefore on target to complete the inspection of further education teacher training within the agreed time limit for the current Framework.

8. Children's social care

Her Majesty's Chief Inspector of Education, Children's Services and Skills (Fees and Frequency of Inspections) (Children's Homes etc) Regulations 2007 set out the required frequency of inspection for each type of social care. The variety in the frequency of inspection stipulated makes reporting upon progress complex. However, as at 30 September 2007, Ofsted has 3,707 active institutions to inspect. (Registered children's home must have two inspections during every 12 month period). Since April 1,673 inspections have been completed. We are confident that, although the timescale is demanding, Ofsted remains on target to complete each inspection cycle.

9. Children and Family Court Advisory and Support Service (CAFCASS)

There is no cycle of inspections of CAFCASS. Instead, there is an annual programme of inspection of CAFCASS which focuses on issues of priority and risk. The 2007-08 programme is on schedule to be completed as planned.

10. Adult learning

Ofsted is up to date with its cycles of inspection of adult learning and on course to complete them on time. The four-year cycle of work based learning should be complete by summer 2009; that for step provision by April 2009; that for adult and community learning by summer 2010 and that for learndirect by November 2010. Ofsted is also on course to complete the various cycles of inspections of Department of Work and Pensions training providers within the planned timescales.

A copy of this reply has been sent to Jim Knight MP, Minister of State for Schools and Learners and will be placed in the Library of both Houses.

Parents: Information Services

Annette Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment he has made of local authorities' progress in preparing for the new duty under the Childcare Act 2006 of providing a comprehensive information service for all parents; and if he will make a statement. [164031]

Beverley Hughes: It is for local authorities to review performance and development of current and future delivery arrangements for information services in their area, under the strategic lead of their Children's Trusts. Although no formal assessment of progress has been carried out by the Department. I am aware that many local information services have responded positively to the prospect of the broadened duty and are already providing more information than is currently required. We undertook a formal consultation with all authorities and CISs last year, and have had ongoing feedback through regular official level contact with information services and others.

Pupil Exclusions: Special Educational Needs

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what proportion of fixed period exclusions were given to pupils (a) with special educational needs and (b) entitled to free school meals in (i) secondary schools and (ii) primary schools in each year since 1997. [167779]

Kevin Brennan: Information on fixed period exclusions was collected for the first time for the academic year 2003/04. The available information relating to the number of fixed period exclusions by special educational needs is given in the table.

A free school meal indicator is not directly collected for excluded pupils. The requested information could be produced by linking with other data sources, but this could be done only at disproportionate costs.

Qualifications and Curriculum Authority: Expenditure

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what total expenditure has been incurred by the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority in each (a) month and (b) quarter since April 2007; and if he will make a statement. [163538]

Jim Knight: The information requested is set out in the following table:

| | £ million |
|---|---|
| April | 7.7 |
| May | 11.6 |
| June | 14.6 |
| Quarter 1 | 33.9 |
| July | 11.8 |
| August | 19.7 |
| September | 17.9 |
| Quarter 2 | 49.4 |
| October | 9.4 |

School Meals

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) what guidance has been provided to schools on implementing school nutrient analysis; [169572]

(2) what assessment his Department has made of the achievability of the school nutrition standards iron target. [169573]

Kevin Brennan: The School Food Trust (SFT) will shortly be publishing 'A guide to introducing the Government's food-based and nutrient-based standards for school lunches'. It will be available on the SFT website in early December, and hard copies will be distributed to stakeholders including schools, local authorities and catering providers. The guide will explain the standards and give advice on implementing and monitoring them.

The SFT has also published independent reviews of menu planning and nutrient analysis software to help providers consider how to demonstrate compliance with the nutrient-based standards. This information is available on their website at:

http://www.schoolfoodtrust.org.uk/content.asp?Contentid=487

The SFT has assessed the achievability of all the nutrient-based standards including the iron target in primary schools by conducting three pilot studies in March. All achieved the standards including the iron target with slight modifications to lunchtime provision. Details of these pilots will be published in the guide. Similar pilots in 12 secondary schools are currently being run; the results will be published next year.

School: Sports

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what plans he has to raise awareness among teachers of the effects of Marfan syndrome on performance in sports. [169341]

Kevin Brennan: Any identified need to raise teachers' awareness of sporting provision for pupils with Marfan syndrome is met by the physical education and school sport professional development programme. The programme is part of the national school sports strategy and is free for teachers in all local authority areas.

Schools

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many (a) secondary schools and (b) primary schools there are in each local authority in England. [167870]

Jim Knight: The information requested is shown in the following tables. This table can also be found as additional information to Statistical First Release 30/2007 'Schools and Pupils in England: January 2007 (Final)', which is available via the following link:

Schools: Absenteeism

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what estimate he has made of the pupil absence rate during the second half of the summer term 2007; when the decision was taken not to collect school absence data for the second half of the summer term; and if he will make a statement. [168197]

Kevin Brennan: The Department has collected pupil attendance data up to the first half of the summer term since 1993-94. That arrangement continues through the termly school census. Data in the second half of this term are unrepresentative of the year as a whole, given the study leave of many Year 11 pupils (and further absences following their exams).

To estimate the pupil absence rate during this period would require an extension to the scope of the school census.

Schools: Admissions

Peter Luff: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what financial provision is made for schools which accept new pupils outside the normal admissions timetable and after budget allocations have been made; and what (a) financial and (b) other assistance is provided to schools for such pupils whose first language is not English. [166913]

Jim Knight: At the beginning of the financial year, local authorities are required to provide to the Governors of a school a budget based upon the number of pupils on roll at the School Census in the previous January. In order to provide stability to schools, that budget may not be amended after the start of the financial year and schools are therefore required to organise within that budget for the whole year, taking into consideration admission numbers. No adjustments may be made, regardless of whether a pupil leaves or joins and there may be turnover in both directions. Local authorities may, however, choose to include within their formula a factor for schools with significantly rising rolls. This is likely to be based upon an estimate of numbers where it is anticipated there will be a significant influx of pupils arriving after the School Census is taken the previous January, or a factor which provides additional funds in the following financial year.

The Ethnic Minority Achievement Grant (EMAG) gives ring-fenced funding for minority ethnic pupils and pupils with English as an Additional Language (EAL). The grant is approx £179 million in 2007-08, rising to £206 million in 2011. Longstanding guidance and funding is in place to support schools in teaching English as an additional language. Furthermore, the New Arrivals Excellence Programme (NAEP), launched in July 2007 gives support, advice, guidance and training to schools in offering the best provision for learning EAL. Selected local authorities with schools that have little experience of integrating children who are new arrivals will have access to outreach support from a dedicated Regional Adviser. This will ensure they can access the curriculum as quickly as possible.

The Department for Children, Schools and Families has recently announced an additional Exceptional Circumstances Grant to local authorities with significant extra pressures on their schools budgets from new arrivals, between January and the start of the school-year. This will be on a case-by-case basis when there is a significant increase in pupil numbers in a local authority; or where the proportion of EAL pupils significantly increases in a local authority.

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment he has made of the effect of inward migration on schools in Peterborough constituency over the last 10 years. [167563]

Jim Knight: Local authorities are responsible for balancing the demand and supply of school places in their area. They have a duty to ensure there are sufficient school places, the needs of the local community are served and good quality education is provided in a cost-effective way.

The Department collects information from each local authority on the number of school places and the number of pupils on roll via an annual survey. Local authorities also provide area-wide forecasts of pupil numbers at primary and secondary levels. The earliest data available are for 2003 and the most recent are for 2007.

The following table shows the number of school places, pupil numbers and the level of surplus places in Peterborough for the past five years. The local authority's forecasts of pupil numbers for the next five years (primary) and seven years (secondary) do not show a significant increase in pupil numbers.

| | 2003 | 2004 | 2005 | 2006 | 2007 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Primary | | | | | |
| Capacity[1] | 18,014 | 17,553 | 17,248 | 17,267 | 17,374 |
| NOR[2] | 15,339 | 15,295 | 15,176 | 15,064 | 15,065 |

| Surplus[3] | 1,898 | 2,037 | 1,958 | 2,210 | 2,285 |

[1] Capacity is the number of school places as at January.
[2] NOR relates to the number of pupils on role as at January.
[3] Surplus relates to the difference between the capacity of a school and the number of pupils on roll.

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what proportion of schools in England have admissions criteria based on (a) ability, (b) aptitude and (c) faith; and if he will make a statement. [168198]

Jim Knight: There are 164 schools designated as grammar schools under section 104 of the School Standards and Framework Act 1998 which select substantially all of their pupils by ability, representing 4.9 per cent. of all secondary schools. In addition, some 40 schools which did so before 1997 select a proportion of their pupils by ability, or 1.25 per cent. of secondary schools.

The Department does not collect data on selection by aptitude.

Schools designated as having a religious character under section 69 of the School Standards and Framework Act 1998 may give priority, when oversubscribed, to children on the basis that they are members of or practise their faith. This use of oversubscription criteria is tightly regulated by the Admission Code. We know that practices vary widely and that a number of schools with a religious character do not give priority on the basis of faith and others offer a proportion of places to children without reference to faith. We do not collect this information centrally and have no plans to do so.

Schools: Arson

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what estimate he has made of the cost of arson in schools in each of the last five years, broken down by (a) region and (b) local education authority. [169046]

Mr. Dhanda: I have been asked to reply.

The latest data available from my Department are for the year 2005. The following tables shows the cost of arson in schools by English region and by fire and rescue authority using my Department's most recent economic costs of fire model (2004) to estimate the costs of fire in schools for the period 2001-05. My Department does not collect data on arson by local education authority.

Schools: Biometrics

Ms Buck: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many schools are making use of biometric identification systems for pupils, broken down by local education authority. [167479]

Jim Knight: We have no information on the number of schools making use of biometric identification systems for pupils. There is no requirement for schools to inform their local authority or the Department when they introduce such systems.

Ms Buck: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what use schools are making of biometric identification systems for pupils. [167620]

Jim Knight: We are aware of schools using biometric identification systems for three sets of administrative functions; to assist in cashless catering for lunches; to help manage lending in the school library; and to record attendance at classes.

Schools: Co-operation

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families pursuant to the statement by the Prime Minister on 14 November 2007, Official Report, columns 667-72, on national security, which schools will be twinned under the proposals announced; what he expects the costs of this programme to be; how he plans to measure the effectiveness of this programme; and if he will make a statement. [168347]

Jim Knight: All schools have the opportunity to find a partner school through the newly established school linking gateway www.schoolslinkingnetwork.org.uk, supported by the Schools Linking Network.

The DCSF has provided the Schools Linking Network (established with £1 million funding from the Pears Foundation) with £125,000 in this financial year and earmarked £2 million over the next three financial years to provide support to schools and local authorities to develop links between schools.

The programme's impact will be measured through an independent evaluation.

Schools: Expenditure

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how much has been allocated per child in (a) primary and (b) secondary schools in the (i) Romford, (ii) Hornchurch and (iii) Upminster constituencies in each of the last five years; [168433]

(2) what the average Government spending per child in (a) primary and (b) secondary schools is (i) in Romford and (ii) in London; [168387]

Jim Knight: The Department allocates education funding to local authorities so the requested information for Romford, Hornchurch and Upminster constituencies is not available. The per pupil revenue funding figures for years 2003-04 to 2005-06 for Havering local authority are as follows:

| | 2003-04 | 2004-05 | 2005-06 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Primary (pupils aged 3-10) | 3,541 | 3,645 | 3,828 |
| Secondary (pupils aged 11-15) | 4,509 | 4,715 | 4,875 |
| Total (pupils aged 3-19) | 4,033 | 4,192 | 4,370 |

Notes:
1. Price Base: Real terms at 2006-07 prices, based on GDP deflators as at 26 September 2007.
2. Figures reflect relevant sub-blocks of education formula spending (EFS) settlements and include the pensions transfer to EFS.
3. Total funding also includes all revenue grants in DFES departmental expenditure limits relevant to pupils aged 3-19 and exclude education maintenance allowances (EMAs) and grants not allocated at LEA level.
4. The pupil numbers used to convert £ million figures to £ per pupil are those underlying the EFS settlement calculations.
5. Status: Some of the grant allocations have not been finalised. If these do change, the effect on the funding figures is expected to be minimal.

The revenue per pupil figures shown in the table below are taken from the Dedicated Schools Grant (DSG) which was introduced in April 2006. They are not comparable with those for the years 2003-04 to 2005-06 because the introduction of the DSG in 2006-07 fundamentally changed how local authorities are funded.

The 2003-04 to 2005-06 figures are based on education formula spending (EFS) which formed the education part of the Local Government Finance Settlement, plus various grants. The DSG is based on planned spend. In addition, the DSG has a different coverage to EFS, which comprises a schools block and an LEA block (to cover LEA central functions) whereas DSG only covers the school block. LEA block items are still funded through DCLG's Local Government Finance Settlement but education items cannot be separately identified. Consequently, there is a break in the Department's time series as the two sets of data are not comparable.

As the DSG is a mechanism for distributing funding, a split between primary and secondary schools is not available.

The per pupil revenue funding figures for years 2006-07 to 2007-08 for Havering local authority and the London averages are as follows:

| | DSG plus grants | |
|---|---|---|
| | 2006-07 | 2007-08 |
| Havering | 4,224 | 4,374 |
| London | 5,067 | 5,253 |

Notes:
1. The revenue funding per pupil figures only run to 2005-06 because we cannot provide a consistent time series beyond that year as the introduction of the Dedicated Schools Grant (DSG) in 2006-07 fundamentally changed how local authorities are funded. The 2003-04 to 2005-06 figures are based on education formula spending (EFS) which formed the education part of the Local Government Finance Settlement, plus various grants. This was an assessment of what local authorities needed to fund education rather than what they spent. In 2006-07 funding for schools changed with the introduction of the DSG which is based largely on an authority's previous spending.
2. In addition, DSG has a different coverage to EFS: EFS comprised a schools block and an LEA block (to cover LEA central functions) whereas DSG only covers the school block. LEA block items are still funded through DCLG's Local Government Finance Settlement but education items cannot be separately identified. This means we have a break in our time series as the two sets of data are not comparable, an alternative time series is currently under development.
3. Price Base: Real terms at 2006-07 prices, based on GDP deflators as at 26 September 2007.
4. Some of the grant allocations have not been finalised. If these do change, the effect on the funding figures is expected to be minimal.

Schools: Finance

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what estimate he has made of the number of schools which will receive no more than the minimum annual funding guarantee in 2008-09; and if he will make a statement. [167781]

Jim Knight: It is not possible to estimate the number of schools receiving only the guaranteed level of funding provided for by the Minimum Funding Guarantee for 2008-09. To do this would require known pupil numbers for the financial year (which are not counted until January 2008), and the individual formulae of each authority along with any changes to those factors proposed for 2008-09.

Schools: Governing Bodies

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how many interim executive boards authorised by him have been required to include officers from the local authority; [162143]

(2) whether it is his policy that interim executive boards must include officers from the local authority. [162144]

Jim Knight: Members of an interim executive board (IEB) are chosen and appointed in individual school cases by the appropriate authority, which may be either the local authority (LA) or the Secretary of State. When the Secretary of State considers an LA's application for an IEB to replace a governing body, he will give particular attention to whether the membership of the Board represents the right mix of skills and experience to meet the school's needs. In the majority of cases, the LA's proposals contain one or more officers from that authority, and where this is not proposed the Secretary of State sometimes invites the LA to consider such membership. In other cases, the Secretary of State has invited extra membership from experienced professionals ouside the LA, to secure an independent view on the Board.

In the case of the IEB for Alderman Blaxhill School, in the hon. Gentleman's constituency, Essex county council had already proposed an LA officer, but the Secretary of State invited them to nominate a second, though he did not require them to do so.

In summary, there is no prescriptive policy in this area: each case is considered on its merits, based on the needs of the school.

Schools: Intimidation

Mr. Jamie Reed: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) in which 20 (a) local education authorities and (b) schools the most incidences of bullying occurred in the latest period for which figures are available; [169492]

(2) how many reported cases of bullying there were in schools in the last year for which records are available; [169616]

(3) what steps his Department is taking to eradicate bullying in schools; [169613]

(4) what assessment his Department has made of the effect of bullying upon educational attainment in schools; [169493]

(5) what assessment he has made of the correlation between incidence of bullying and levels of school performance; [169494]

(6) what steps his Department plans to take to involve trades unions and employers in anti-bullying initiatives. [169482]

Kevin Brennan: The information is as follows:

169492 and 169616

We are unable to provide definitive figures for numbers of bullying incidents at school as we do not collect these data centrally.

However, tables showing the number of permanent and fixed period exclusions in each local authority area by reason for exclusion have been placed in the Library. This includes a category relating to bullying.

The Government are spending around £1.8 million this year supporting schools to meet their legal obligations to prevent all forms of bullying among pupils. Earlier this year we issued comprehensive new guidance to schools on how to prevent and tackle bullying called 'Safe to Learn: Embedding anti-bullying work in schools'. It includes practical advice for schools on how to develop robust anti-bullying policies and embed effective practice, and specific advice on tackling cyberbullying and homophobic bullying. This suite of guidance links to the guidance we produced last year for schools on 'Bullying Around Race Religion and Culture', and we will publish further guidance in the spring on how tackle the bullying of children with special educational needs and disabilities.

In the Education and Inspections Act 2006, we introduced new powers for head teachers and school staff to ensure proper discipline both inside and outside schools. The Act empowers school staff to impose disciplinary penalties for bad behaviour, and to regulate the behaviour of pupils when they are off the school site.

We fund a number of voluntary organisations including: the Anti-Bullying Alliance who provide support and training for local authorities and schools on anti-bullying work; ChildLine in Partnership with Schools (CHIPS) who run peer mentoring schemes on behalf of the Department; and ParentLine Plus who provide advice and support for the parents of children and young people who are being bullied. We are working with the Cyberbullying Taskforce to take forward a comprehensive programme of work to tackle cyberbullying and have launched an online digital campaign targeted at children and young people. We are working with the national strategies' regional advisers to embed effective anti-bullying practice on the ground, and to work with identified schools to support and challenge them in improving their anti-bullying policies and strategies.

In anti-bullying week we announced that we would be providing £3 million over the next two years to run peer mentoring pilots. We have also commissioned Childnet International to produce a resource pack to provide school staff with practical information and advice on how to tackle cyberbullying, and how best to introduce the topic in the classroom.

The Department has not commissioned any research which compares incidents of bullying with levels of school performance or educational attainment. However, we are aware that there is research evidence to suggest bullying impacts on educational attainment and attendance. We have made clear in our published guidance that providing a safe and happy learning environment is integral to achieving the wider objectives of school improvement, raising achievement and attendance, promoting equality and diversity as well as ensuring the welfare of all members of the school community.

The Department consulted with all the major school staff unions in drawing up the Safe to Learn comprehensive anti-bullying guidance for schools, and its constituent elements covering cyberbullying and homophobic bullying. The school staff unions are also represented on the Department's Cyberbullying Taskforce, which brings together representatives of school staff, children's charities and the new technology providers to discuss strategies for addressing and preventing cyberbullying. There are no plans at this stage to involve employers in such discussions.

Schools: Minibuses

Mr. Swayne: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) what estimate he has made of the impact of new minibus driving licence regulations on school budgets; and if he will make a statement; [167994]

(2) what advice his Department has issued to local authorities on the interpretation of new minibus driving licence regulations. [167995]

Jim Knight [holding answer 26 November 2007]: The Department has made no estimate of the impact of these regulations on school budgets.

The Department has issued guidance "Licensing of Incidental Drivers of the School Minibus" which states that school staff are in general exempt from the D1 PCV requirement since they receive no consideration for such driving. It also states: "In the medium term, when a school replaces its minibus, it is likely to lose exemption because newer minibuses tend to weigh more than 3.5 tonnes, and the Government has no plans to change the weight limit on the exemption. Therefore we advise schools to consider investing in D1 PCV training over the next few years, since the law will require it in the longer term, if or when they move to a heavier minibus."

Schools: Standards

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many (a) academies, (b) schools in special measures and (c) schools given notice to improve there were in each region in the latest period for which figures are available. [167366]

Jim Knight [holding answer 22 November 2007]: The information is set out in the following tables. Table 1 shows the number of open academies in each Government office region on 1 September 2007. Table 2 shows the number of schools requiring significant improvement (notice to improve) and special measures in each region on 31 August 2007. It is based on the most recent information published by Ofsted in September this year.

Schools: Teaching Methods

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what guidance his Department has issued on the use of setting in schools; and when such guidance was issued. [168514]

Jim Knight: In September 2006 we published 'Grouping Pupils for Success' (publication reference DfES03945-2006DWO-EN). This is a suite of guidance documents for primary and secondary school leaders and subject leaders/coordinators, designed to encourage effective strategies for grouping and setting. The guidance was published and promoted through the National Strategies and is available to all schools from: www.standards.dcsf.gov.uk.

This guidance is based on independent research, commissioned by the Department and published in two phases. In September 2007 we published 'Effective Teaching and Learning for Pupils in Low Attaining Groups' (reference DCSF-RR011/DCSF-RB011), a fieldwork report. This built on research published in September 2006 entitled 'Pupil Grouping Strategies and Practices at Key Stage 2 and 3' (reference RR796/RB796). These reports are available from our research gateway at:

www.dcsf.gov.uk/research.

Schools: Translation Services

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much schools in each London borough spent on translation services in each of the past five years. [168117]

Jim Knight: My Department does not collect this information.

Science: GCE A-Level

Mr. Willis: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many students were entered for examination at A2 level in (a) biology, (b) physics, (c) chemistry, (d) engineering and (e) computer science in each year since 1997. [168299]

Jim Knight: The information requested is as follows.

Number of 16 to 18-year-old pupils entered for selected GCE/VCE A-level subjects from 1996/97 to 2006/07 in England

| | 1996/97 | 1997/98 | 1998/99 | 1999/2000 | 2000/01 |

[1] Figures for VCE examinations only available from 2001/02 onwards. The figure relating to 2006/07 includes both GCE and VCE applied examinations.
[2] 2006/07 data are provisional. Schools will get the chance to amend their results as part of the data checking process before the revised figures are published in mid January 2008.

Secondary Education: Truancy

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what proportion of schools have adopted secondary school behaviour and truancy partnerships. [167538]

Jim Knight: Nearly all secondary schools are now working together in partnerships to improve behaviour and tackle persistent absence and we are supporting and encouraging those schools that have yet to join a partnership.

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what percentage of secondary school sessions were missed through unauthorised absences in the last 12 months. [167539]

Kevin Brennan: The available information is shown in the tables.

Absence rates for secondary schools in 2006/07 are expected to be published in February 2008.

Maintained Secondary Schools, City Technology Colleges and Academies[1]: Pupil Absence by Type of School, England, 2005/06

| | Number of day pupils of compulsory school age[3] | Number of pupil enrolments[4, 5] | Percentage of half days missed[2] Authorised absence | Unauthorised absence | Overall absence |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Maintained Secondary Schools, City Technology Colleges and Academies | 2,983,040 | 3,056,330 | 6.82 | 1.42 | 8.24 |

[1] Includes middle schools as deemed.
[2] The number of sessions missed due to authorised/unauthorised/overall absence expressed as a percentage of the total number of possible sessions.
[3] Pupil numbers are as at January 2006. Includes pupils aged five to 15 with sole and dual (main) registration. Excludes boarders.
[4] Number of pupil enrolments in schools between 1 September 2005 and 27 May 2006. Includes pupils on the school roll for at least one session who are aged between five and 15, excluding boarders. Some pupils may be counted more than once (if they moved schools during the school year or are registered in more than one school). See Notes to Editors 11, 12 and 13.
[5] There were some 7,240 cases from maintained secondary schools; 20 cases from CTCs and 370 cases from academies for whom absence data were missing. These cases have been excluded from the total number of pupil enrolments. See Notes to Editors 12.
Note: Totals may not appear to equal the sum of the component parts because numbers have been rounded to the nearest 10.

Sports: Children

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families pursuant to the answer of 20 November 2007, Official Report, column 661W, on sports: children, whether there are any targets set for the Early Years Foundation Stage (EYFS) physical development of babies and young children; how progress in this area will be assessed; and how much funding has been allocated to the EYFS. [168988]

Beverley Hughes: The EYFS defines milestones in the form of Early Learning Goals which provide the basis for assessing children's development at the end of the EYFS—normally at the end of reception class. Children's progress during, and at the end of the EYFS (age five) when the Early Years Foundation Stage Profile will be completed, are based on observational assessment of them in everyday activities, by practitioners using their professional judgement. One of the 13 scales used to assess young children's development at age five relates to physical development. Targets both at national level and local authority level relate to overall achievement across the Foundation Stage Profile, rather than specific targets relating to the physical development.

Government invest some £3 billion each year in the delivery of the free entitlement to nursery education for three and four-year-olds. Funding is provided to local authorities through the Dedicated Schools Grant (DSG) and covers provision delivered in accordance with the Foundation Stage Curriculum and the National Daycare Standards by providers in the maintained, private, voluntary and independent sectors (PVI). In addition, we announced in the summer over £4 billion Revenue and £893 million Capital three year (2008-11) allocations for local authorities of Sure Start, Early Years and Childcare Grant (SSEYCG) (formerly General Sure Start Grant). The Department has provided specific funding of an additional £7 million in each of 2007-08 and 2008-09 to LAs through the Standards Funds and the SSEYCG to support EYFS training of practitioners in schools and PVI settings.

Students: Transport

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what transport support provision is available for home to school or college for students in further education in the London Borough of Havering. [168419]

Jim Knight: From 1 September 2006, Transport for London introduced a free travel concession on buses and trams for young people under the age of 18 who are attending a full-time education course. The concession expires at the end of the academic year in which the student turns 18.

Teachers: Recruitment

Mr. Willis: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the recruitment target for all forms of secondary teacher training in (a) biology, (b) chemistry, (c) physics, (d) mathematics, (e) engineering and (f) computer science was in each of the last 10 years. [168297]

Jim Knight: The Department sets targets for recruitment to mainstream initial teacher training and the targets for science, mathematics, design and technology, and information and communications technology (ICT) between 1998/99 and 2007/8 are shown in the following table.

Mainstream initial teacher training places[1]: academic year 1998/99 to 2007/08

| Secondary subject | 1998/99 | 1999/2000 | 2000/01 | 2001/02 | 2002/03 | 2003/04 | 2004/05 | 2005/06 | 2006/07 | 2007/08 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Science | 3,050 | 2,390 | 2,690 | 2,810 | 2,850 | 3,225 | 3,225 | 3,225 | 3,225 | 3,225 |
| Mathematics | 2,150 | 1,680 | 1,850 | 1,940 | 1,940 | 2,315 | 2,350 | 2,350 | 2,350 | 2,350 |
| Design and Technology[2] | — | — | — | — | — | — | 1,085 | 1,060 | 1,010 | 930 |
| Information and communications technology[2] | — | — | — | — | — | — | 1,050 | 1,100 | 1,040 | 985 |

[1] Includes school centred ITT but excludes employment based routes (EBR).
[2] Number of places for design and technology and information and communications technology are not available before 2004/05 as these were grouped as a total technology target in these years.
Note:
Places for vocational subjects in 2006/07 and 2007/08 are included with the allocation for related academic subject: Science includes places for applied science, design and technology includes both manufacturing and engineering and ICT includes applied ICT. In 2004/05, places for vocational subjects were shown separately. In 2003/04, the margin of flexibility included places for a vocational subjects pilot.

DCSF.

The Department does not currently set targets for employment based routes initial teacher training courses. However, recruitment data for EBR ITT courses is taken into account in projecting the future required number of recruits and successful completers on each type of programme and by subject which assists in determining the targets required for mainstream ITT recruitment.

Teachers: Romford

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many (a) teachers and (b) learning assistants there were in Romford secondary schools on the latest date for which figures are available. [168428]

Jim Knight: The following table provides the full-time equivalent number of teachers and teaching assistants employed in local authority maintained secondary schools in Romford constituency in January 2007.

Full-time equivalent teachers and support staff in local authority maintained secondary schools[1] in Romford constituency, January 2007

| | Number |
|---|---|
| Qualified teachers | 270 |
| Other teaching staff | 20 |
| Total teaching staff | 290 |

Full-time equivalent teachers and support staff in local authority maintained secondary schools[1] in Romford constituency, January 2007

| | Number |
|---|---|
| Teaching assistants | 50 |
| Other support staff | 160 |
| Total support staff | 210 |

[1] Local authority maintained secondary schools excludes academies and city technology colleges.
Note:
Figures are rounded to the nearest 10.

Teachers: Training

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what proportion of those enrolled as teacher trainees in each year since 1997 were teachers three years after enrolment. [166623]

Jim Knight: Information tracking those who enrol as teacher trainees through to them starting teaching is not held centrally.

The following table shows the number of final year Initial Teacher Training (ITT) trainees for each academic year between 1998/99 and 2005/06 who gained Qualified Teacher Status (QTS) in their final year of training and of these the number who were known to be in a teaching post six months after gaining QTS for Mainstream Initial Teacher Training (ITT) trainees. Information is not available for 1997/98 in a consistent format.

Mainstream final year ITT trainees[1]

| Academic year | Total number of mainstream trainees in their final year | Number of mainstream final year trainees gaining QTS[2] | Number of final year trainees who gained QTS and are known to be in a teaching post 6 months after gaining QTS[3, 4] | Proportion of mainstream final year trainees who gain QTS | Proportion of mainstream final year trainees gaining QTS who are known to be in a teaching post six months after gaining QTS |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1998/99 | 27,200 | 24,070 | 19,240 | 88 | 80 |
| 1999/2000 | 24,650 | 21,690 | 17,800 | 88 | 82 |
| 2000/01 | 25,720 | 22,640 | 18,940 | 88 | 84 |
| 2001/02 | 26,350 | 23,280 | 19,660 | 88 | 84 |
| 2002/03 | 28,570 | 25,430 | 20,150 | 89 | 79 |
| 2003/04 | 30,970 | 27,340 | 21,820 | 88 | 80 |
| 2004/05 | 31,360 | 27,150 | 21,960 | 87 | 81 |
| 2005/06 | 31,310 | 27,100 | 22,040 | 87 | 81 |

[1] Includes trainees from Universities and other Higher Education (HE) institutions, School Centred Initial Teacher Training (SCITT) and Open Universities (OU), but excludes Employment Based Routes (EBR).
[2] Those who failed to gain QTS include those who are yet to complete their course, those who left before the end of their course, those who had their QTS withheld, those who have not taken the skills test and those with an unknown outcome.
[3] Those in a teaching post six months after gaining QTS include those in maintained schools, non-maintained schools and where the sector is unknown.
[4] Those who are not in a teaching post six months after gaining QTS include those who are seeking a teaching post, those who are not seeking a teaching post and those with an unknown destination.

The following tables show the number of final year Initial Teacher Training (ITT) trainees for each academic year between 2001/02 and 2005/06 who gained Qualified Teacher Status (QTS) in their final year of training for Employment Based Routes (EBR) trainees. Information relating to the number of trainees gaining QTS through employment based routes was only collected from 2001/02 onwards and the employment status of trainees through EBR is not collected.

Employment Based Routes (EBR) final year ITT trainees[1]

| Academic year | Total number of EBR trainees in their final year | Number of EBR final year trainees gaining QTS[2] | Proportion of EBR final year trainees who gain QTS |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2001/02 | 2,440 | 2,210 | 91 |
| 2002/03 | 4,030 | 3,670 | 91 |
| 2003/04 | 4,950 | 4,470 | 90 |
| 2004/05 | 7,220 | 6,600 | 91 |
| 2005/06 | 6,970 | 6,090 | 87 |

[1] Includes trainees through Employment Based Routes (EBR) only.
[2] Those who failed to gain QTS include those who are yet to complete their course, those who left before the end of their course, those who had their QTS withheld, those who have not taken the skills test and those with an unknown outcome.

The following table shows the proportion of full and part-time teachers in maintained schools who were still teaching in the maintained sector three years after gaining QTS, by the year which they gained QTS.

Percentage of full and part-time[1] teachers that qualified in a particular year and were still in service in the maintained sector in England three years later

| Year qualified[2] | First year in service[3] | Percentage in full or part-time service three years later |
|---|---|---|
| 1997 | 1997-98 | 79 |
| 1998 | 1998-99 | 79 |
| 1999 | 1999-200 | 79 |

| 2001 | 2001-02 | 81 |
| 2002 | 2002-03 | 82 |

[1] Teachers in part-time service are under-recorded on the DTR by between 10 and 20 per cent. and therefore these figures may be slightly underestimated.

Telephone Services

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what information his Department collects and monitors in relation to the telephone contact centres for which his Department is responsible. [166536]

Kevin Brennan: In line with the Government's response to Sir David Varney's report on Service Transformation, the Department for Children, Schools and Families collects information against the 26 performance management indicators published by The Citizen and Business Contact Centre Council (CBCCC). The Department submitted its first return on performance against these indicators in October this year. The 26 indicators are published on the Cabinet Office website:

http://www.cabinetoffice.gov.uk/public_service_reform/contact_council/workplan.aspx

The Department also uses feedback received by the contact centre to inform its policy making process.

In addition to the Department's own contact centre, DCSF also contracts with suppliers to provide telephone helpline services to the public, usually in support of information campaigns. These contracts cover the provision of data by the suppliers to enable the Department to ensure that the supplier is meeting the Key Performance Indicators set out in the contract. Additionally, the Department may run mystery shopping or user survey research to further monitor the performance of the contact centres.

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much each telephone contact centre for which his Department is responsible has (a) cost and (b) generated in income in each financial year since their establishment. [166537]

Kevin Brennan: This Department does not operate a telephone contact centre as such; rather, there is a central Public Communications Unit that deals with telephone inquiries, e-mails, written correspondence and public consultations. To extract the cost of telephone handling alone would incur disproportionate cost.

None of the activities of the Public Communications Unit generates income for the Department.

The Department also contracts with suppliers to provide helpline services to the public, usually in support of information campaigns. The cost of all of these in each financial year since they were set up could be given only at disproportionate cost. None of these contact centres generate income for the Department.

Truancy: Custodial Treatment

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many parents were imprisoned following a child's absence from school in each of the last three years. [167784]

Jim Knight: The Ministry of Justice collects data for England and Wales on prosecutions brought against parents under the Education Act 1996 for the offence under s444(1) for failing to secure their child's regular attendance at school; or prosecutions under s444(1A), the aggravated offence of knowing that their child is failing to attend school regularly; and for various offences under the Education Act 1996—these are likely to include some prosecutions under s444 and s444(1A) for England and Wales. The information on the number of people given immediate custodial sentences is detailed in the following table:

England and Wales

| | Education Act 1996 | Education Act 96, s444 | Education Act 96, S444(1A |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2003 | 7 | 4 | 3 |
| 2004 | 10 | 8 | 14 |
| 2005 | 9 | 5 | 15 |

World War II: Education

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families if he will ensure that teaching of the historical fact of the Holocaust is mandatory in the school curriculum. [165966]

Jim Knight [holding answer 22 November 2007]: The National Curriculum requires pupils aged between 11 and 14 to study the Holocaust and this has not changed following the recent KS3 review where the Holocaust remains one of the very few compulsory elements of the History Curriculum. Its study is supported by funding from the Holocaust Education Trust to offer a visit to Auschwitz to two 15 to 17-year-olds from every English secondary school.

Young People: Alcoholic Drinks

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps his Department is taking to reduce alcohol abuse amongst teenagers. [167864]

Kevin Brennan [holding answer 29 November 2007]: The Government are committed to reducing substance misuse among young people, including that relating to alcohol. In June of this year, the Government published the updated Alcohol Strategy for England, "Safe. Sensible. Social." For the first time, it identifies under-18s as a priority group for Government action on alcohol and sets out the reduction of drinking by young people as a Government objective. As part of this strategy, this Department has committed to:

Establishing a panel of experts who will produce authoritative, accessible guidance about what is and what is not safe and sensible in the light of the latest available evidence from the UK and abroad, to help young people and their parents make informed decisions about alcohol; and

Raising awareness of young people's alcohol use and—through a social marketing campaign—to work to create a culture where it is socially acceptable for young people to choose not to drink and, if they do, to do so later and more safely.

Alcohol education continues to be a vital element of our approach. The Department's guidance, "Drugs: Guidance for Schools (DfES 2004)" is clear that pupils' education about alcohol and its effects should start in primary school, before drinking patterns become established and should be revisited as pupils' understanding and experience increases.

HEALTH

AIDS: Medical Treatments

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what funding was committed for the treatment of (a) HIV and (b) AIDS in each health authority in England in each of the last five years. [169998]

Dawn Primarolo: Funding for HIV/AIDS treatment and HIV prevention was included in main national health service allocations from April 2002, and is therefore not separately identified.

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the cost was of treatment for (a) HIV and (b) AIDS in each health authority in England in each of the last five years. [169999]

Dawn Primarolo: This information is not collected centrally.

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many patients received treatment for (a) HIV and (b) AIDS in each health authority in England in each of the last five years. [170000]

Dawn Primarolo: The information, by strategic health authority (SHA) is in the following tables.

Number of HIV-infected persons reported to be receiving antiretroviral therapy (total number of HIV-infected persons accessing NHS care

Alcoholic Drinks: Newcastle upon Tyne

Mr. Henderson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what progress has been made on tackling misuse of alcohol in the Newcastle-upon-Tyne Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust area since the introduction of the Alcohol Harm Reduction Strategy for England. [168301]

Dawn Primarolo: The Renewed Alcohol Strategy, "Safe, Sensible, Social-Next Steps in the National Alcohol Strategy", was published on 5 June 2007. The strategy aims to:

focus future action on reducing the types of harm that are of most concern to the public;

reduce the crime and ill health caused by alcohol; and increase the public's awareness of the risks associated with excessive consumption, and how to get help.

The North East Regional Alcohol Advisory Group is responsible for bringing together agencies and individuals from across the region with an interest in the alcohol agenda. It has so far examined the potentially harmful impact of alcohol misuse upon local communities and is taking steps to tackle key issues around the treatment, prevention and control of alcohol-related problems.

The "North East Alcohol Misuse Statement of Priorities", which was published in February 2007, will support and complement initiatives carried out at a local level and add value, and influence events, at a regional level.

Alcoholic Drinks: Young People

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people under the age of 18 years experienced serious injury as a consequence of excessive alcohol consumption in the latest period for which figures are available. [167987]

Dawn Primarolo: The information requested is not held centrally.

Autism: Health Services

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will draw up national guidelines on the provision of services for people with autism. [169830]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: "Better services for people with an autistic spectrum disorder: A note clarifying current Government policy and describing good practice" was published on 16 November 2006. It clarifies the nature and intent of existing Government policy as it relates to adults with an autistic spectrum disorder (ASD). A copy is available in the Library.

It is for local authorities to manage their priorities and decide how resources should be attributed, taking into consideration locally identified needs and assessments of individuals.

Autism: Job Centre Plus

Annette Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what guidance he issues to local authorities to work with their local Job Centre Plus in order to meet the needs of adults with an autism spectrum disorder. [170768]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: "Better services for people with an autistic spectrum disorder: A note clarifying current Government policy and describing good practice" was published on 16 November 2006. It clarifies the nature and intent of existing Government policy as it relates to adults with an autistic spectrum disorder, and refers to community integration and employment support.

A copy of this is available in the Library.

Bone Diseases: Medical Treatments

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he expects anti-TNF treatments to be available to patients with ankylosing spondylitis. [170145]

Ann Keen: The National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) are currently producing a technology appraisal on the use of adalimumab, etanercept and infliximab for the treatment of ankylosing spondylitis. This appraisal is expected to be published in December 2007. Primary care trusts have a legal obligation to provide funding for treatments recommended by NICE within three months of the guidance being issued.

Funding for licensed treatments should not be withheld because of lack of guidance from NICE. In December 2006, we issued good practice guidance which asks national health service bodies to continue with local arrangements for the managed introduction of new technologies where guidance from NICE is not available at the time the treatment or technology first became available.

Chronic Fatigue Syndrome

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will ask the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence to review its guidance on the (a) clinical assessment, (b) diagnosis and (c) management of myalgic encephalopathy, chronic fatigue syndrome. [170260]

Dawn Primarolo: The National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) published its clinical guideline on the treatment of chronic fatigue syndrome/myalgic encephalomyelitis in August 2007. We have no plans to ask NICE to review that guidance at this time.

Community Hospitals: Contracts

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when the announcement on the second round of bidders for the Community Hospitals Fund will be made. [170288]

Mr. Bradshaw: We announced a second wave of community hospitals and services on 11 April 2007. We are currently considering a third round of schemes and announcements will be made in due course.

Connecting for Health Programme: Finance

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the cash value of changes in the timetable for the delivery of the Connecting for Health programme in each financial year to date has been, broken down into (a) resource and (b) capital spending. [165707]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department's NHS Connecting for Health Agency is responsible both for ensuring delivery of the IT systems for the National Programme for Information Technology and for maintaining the critical business systems previously provided to the national health service by the former NHS Information Authority. Budgets and outturn expenditure for all the agency's responsibilities are in the following table.

|---|---|---|---|
| Revenue | | | |
| Initial budget | 380.0 | 623.0 | 540.0 |
| Outturn | 260.0 | 539.0 | 528.0 |
| Underspend | 120.0 | 84.0 | 12.0 |
| Capital | | | |
| Initial budget | 400.0 | 535.0 | 1055.0 |
| Outturn | 360.0 | 429.0 | 589.0 |
| Underspend | 40.0 | 106.0 | 466.0 |

Departmental Alcoholic Drinks

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will take steps to ensure that English wine is served exclusively or at the request of guests at meals, parties and receptions hosted by his Department; and if he will make a statement. [164291]

Mr. Bradshaw: All public procurement procedures must comply with the EC Treaty. The key principles of the Treaty, from a public procurement point of view, are the free movement of goods and services, and non-discrimination on the grounds of nationality. This legislation is designed to ensure that all public procurement across the European Union is fair, transparent and non-discriminatory.

Regulation 30 of the Public Contracts Regulations 2006 lists the criteria that can be used to evaluate a tender where the main evaluation criterion is Most Economically Advantageous Tender (as opposed to price alone).

This means that the Department of Health cannot specify that it will only buy goods (e.g. wine) from a particular country or locality, as that would discriminate against producers from other EU member states.

However, the Government are committed to increase opportunities for small and local suppliers to tender for contracts, thus increasing competition and securing better value for money.

Departmental Correspondence

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what percentage of inquiries received by his Department from the public were responded to within (a) one week, (b) 14 days, (c) 28 days, (d) two months and (e) three months in the last period for which figures are available; and in what percentage of cases it took (i) over three months and (ii) over one year to respond. [167385]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Cabinet Office, on an annual basis, publishes a report to Parliament on the performance of Departments in replying to Members and Peers correspondence. The report for 2005 was published on 28 March 2007, Official Report, column 101WS. Information relating to 2007 will be published as soon as it is ready at the end of the calendar year.

Performance of the Department in replying to correspondence from members of the public can be found in its 2006 annual report.

Departmental Cost-effectiveness

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment his Department has made of the value for money of his Department's turnaround programme in 2006-07. [167832]

Mr. Bradshaw: The National Programme Office for Turnaround was established in February 2006 to provide expert and independent assistance in the development of robust and credible financial recovery plans for those organisations in particular financial difficulties.

The programme also provided specific methodologies to support the delivery of the plans, and to assist in the delivery and monitoring of progress against the plans.

In total, there were 104 organisations in the Turnaround Programme, who in 2005-06 posted a total aggregated deficit of £1,121 million.

By the end of the 2006-07 financial year when the Turnaround Programme came to a formal end, this aggregate deficit within the 104 organisations had reduced to £637 million.

This aggregate position is continuing to show improvements with the quarter 1 forecast outturn for the 104 organisations improving by a further £635 million to an aggregated £1.7 million deficit.

Departmental Expenditure

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the titles are of all internal guidance documents produced within his Department on procedures relating to the 2007 Comprehensive Spending Review. [162245]

Mr. Bradshaw: As usual during a spending review, the finance Directorate provided written and oral guidance to colleagues in the Department throughout the 2007 Comprehensive Spending Review. The process for CSR07 was also outlined to the Department's senior leadership team in a note entitled "Financial Planning and CSR2007".

Departmental Foreign Workers

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) EU foreign nationals and (b) non EU foreign nationals are employed by his Department. [168107]

Mr. Bradshaw: A full identity and nationality check is carried out using documentary evidence prior to all appointments to the Department. A record of nationality is kept on individuals' hard-copy personnel files. The level of detail recorded on our Central Human Resources information system is not sufficient to answer this question and it would involve disproportionate costs to examine all relevant individual files.

Departmental ICT

Gordon Banks: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which manufacturers' software is used in his Department. [167228]

Mr. Bradshaw: The manufacturers whose software is in use across the Department are:

Adobe;
Computer Associates;
IBM;
Microsoft;
Oracle;
Pointsec Mobile Technologies;
Winzip.

Other manufacturers whose software is used by subsections of the Department in support of key operation and business functions are:

Bluecoat;
BMC Software;
Citrix;
Compuware;
Designer Appliances;
Intergralis;
ISI;
MASS Information Systems;
Mercury UK;
Mindjet;
MSRA;
Nessoft LLC;
Nuance;
Quark;
Quest Software (UK);
Real Asset Management; RIM;
SAS Sostware;
Sirsi;
Software Spectrum UK;
SPSS (UK);
Sun Microsystems;
Symantec;
Team Studio Europe;
VeriSign UK;
Veritas;
Vmware;
Webabacus;
Webtrends.

Departmental Ministerial Policy Advisers

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health who the special advisers in his Department are; what expertise each has; and what the cost of employing them was in the latest year for which figures are available. [163407]

Mr. Bradshaw: I refer the hon. Member to the written ministerial statement, given on 22 November 2007, Official Report, column 147 WS.

Departmental Procurement

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will list all private finance initiative deals under which his Department or the NHS has incurred additional costs as a result of the need to make changes to the service specifications in the contract after the contract had been signed; and what the (a) date of the change, (b) nature of the change and (c) additional costs incurred were in each case. [162234]

Mr. Bradshaw: I refer the hon. Member to the reports of the House of Commons Health Select Committee "Public Expenditure on Health and Personal Social Services", HC26-i, where detailed information on increases in payments for private finance initiative schemes after contract signature is reported. These reports are available in the Library.

Departmental Public Expenditure

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will provide a breakdown of his Department's plans for the allocation of the resources granted in the 2007 comprehensive spending review according to the categories in Figures A2 and A3 of his Department's 2007 departmental annual report for each financial year covered by the settlement. [165714]

Mr. Bradshaw: Although high level figures for the 2007 spending review settlement have been agreed with HM Treasury, detailed allocations are still under discussion.

The information requested is due to be published in the spring of 2008.

Departmental Publicity

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many full-time equivalent staff are responsible for brand management and marketing in his Department and its agencies; [165239]

(2) how much his Department and its agencies spent on staff working on (a) marketing and (b) branding in the last 12 month period for which figures are available. [167305]

Mr. Bradshaw: In November 2007, there were 13.3 marketing staff and 2.25 branding staff in the Department's Communications Directorate.

Between November 2006 and October 2007 the total expenditure on Departmental staff working on marketing was £778.4 thousand and on branding £144.1 thousand.

Agencies receive their funding from the Department, however the specifics of how they discharge those funds within general public sector parameters is an operational matter for the agencies concerned. We therefore do not hold detail of agencies' spend of staff on these issues or numbers of full-time equivalents.

Departmental Secondment

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many secondments of staff were made (a) to and (b) from his Department in each year since 1997; which organisations staff were seconded (i) to and (ii) from; how many staff were seconded in each year; for how long each secondment lasted; and what the cost was of each secondment in each year. [167273]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department's Human Resources (HR) system has only recently begun to record people on secondment into the Department. Also the system only records the number of people on secondment at a particular time rather than the total number of different people over the course of a year.

As of 30 September 2007 there were 57.7 full-time equivalent staff seconded into the Department.

As of 30 September 2007 there were 93.9 full-time equivalent staff seconded out of the Department to other organisations.

Anecdotally, most secondments out of the Department are to national health service trusts, other health-related organisations or other Government Departments.

Work carried out to answer a previous Freedom of Information request suggested that virtually all secondees into the Department are from public sector organisations. Anecdotally, most of these are from NHS trusts or other health-related organisations.

The Departments HR System does not hold information on the length of secondments but these are typically for a period of up to two years.

Given the Department does not hold information on the duration of secondments it cannot provide information on their costs.

Diseases: Eastern Region

Mr. Spring: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many cases of (a) HIV, (b) tuberculosis, (c) malaria and (d) hepatitis B were diagnosed in (i) the east of England and (ii) Suffolk in each of the last five years; and how many of these were in people not born in the UK. [167905]

Dawn Primarolo: The information requested is shown in the following tables.

Doctors: Housing

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether NHS trusts have a statutory responsibility to provide accommodation for rent to junior doctors. [164579]

Ann Keen: No, the requirement for a junior doctor to reside in "accommodation supplied by the hospital approved for his general clinical training" came to an end from August 2007.

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the effect of removing free hospital-owned accommodation for junior doctors on meeting the requirements of the EU working time directive. [164580]

Ann Keen: We have no information to indicate that removing free hospital-owned accommodation for doctors in training affects meeting the European working time directive (EWTD) requirements. Modern working patterns no longer require doctors in training to be resident on-call.

Local national health service trusts are responsible for assessing the impact of the EWTD as part of their health and safety obligations. The Department of Health in England continues to work with the NHS and health professions to support local EWTD implementation, including sharing learning from pilot projects.

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what guidance he has issued to NHS trusts on (a) contractual and (b) other obligations on junior doctors renting hospital-owned accommodation. [164581]

Ann Keen: NHS Employers communicated on "Accommodation for first year foundation trainees" in their NHS Workforce Bulletin issued to the NHS on 30 July 2007. This advised that maintenance of existing accommodation arrangements for Foundation House Officer Year 1 Doctors can continue until 1 August 2008 given that most will already have made a contractual commitment to that effect. This information has also been on NHS Employers' website since July at: www.nhsemployers.org/pay-conditions/pay-conditions-357.cfm.

It was not considered necessary to issue further guidance for doctors already covered by existing contractual provisions as the change to the Medical Act did not alter their situation in respect of tax or rental charges.

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the level of rent charged by NHS trusts to junior doctors for hospital-owned accommodation. [164584]

Ann Keen: Accommodation charges are a matter for local determination and details of such are not collected or held centrally.

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which NHS trusts provide accommodation (a) free of charge and (b) on a rental basis for junior doctors. [164586]

Ann Keen: The Department does not collect this information. Most trusts will have some accommodation stock for which they will charge, and it is unlikely that they will provide it at no cost to the doctor unless there is a contractual, statutory or service need. In such cases, arrangements to provide free accommodation will inevitably be subject to scrutiny to assess any tax liability on the benefit.

Genetically Modified Food

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what controls the Government have put in place to prevent genetically modified food from entering the food chain through the use of animal feed that has been GM derived; and if he will make a statement; [169227]

(2) if he will take steps to investigate supermarkets' food labelling claims to ensure that GM-derived food is not marketed as GM free. [169228]

Dawn Primarolo: We are advised by the Food Standards Agency (FSA) that genetically modified (GM) crops may be used in animal feed in the European Union provided they have been authorised and that a safety assessment forms a key part of the authorisation process. GM food is subject to a similar, rigorous, safety assessment before being permitted to enter the food chain.

The labelling requirements for GM food are set out in the directly applicable Regulations (EC) Nos. 1829/2003 (GM Food and Feed) and 1830/2003 (Traceability and Labelling of GM Organisms), the intention of which is to facilitate consumer choice. There is no requirement for food produced from animals fed on GM feed to be labelled as such, nor is there any provision for 'non-GM' and 'GM free' labelling. We are advised by the FSA that such labelling may, however, be used on a voluntary basis, as appropriate to the product concerned. The FSA has expressed the view that the use of the terms 'non-GM' and 'GM free' should mean that food labelled in this way is completely free from the use of GM technology.

Local authorities are responsible for enforcement of the legislation at retail level and checks for the presence of GM material in foods on the basis of sampling form part of their enforcement activities. Local authorities also carry out checks on documentation to ensure that the traceability requirements are being met. These enforcement activities play an important role in consumer protection.

Health Centres: Finance

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much has been allocated to provide health centres which open seven days a week in each year between 2007-08 and 2010-11; and what the proposed locations of these centres are. [165715]

Mr. Bradshaw: On 10 October, the Secretary of State (Alan Johnson) announced a £250 million access fund to deliver 100 new general practitioner (GP) practices in the 25 per cent. of primary care trusts (PCT) with poorest provision and 150 GP-led health centres across the country. The Department is now working with the national health service to determine the distribution of funds to support delivery of these new services. As set out in the "Our NHS, Our Future" Next Stage Review interim report we expect the health centres to be easily accessible to all members of the local population, though the precise locations will be determined by PCTs based on their local needs assessment.

Health Education: Expenditure

Mark Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much was allocated to public health awareness campaigns in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [164034]

Dawn Primarolo [holding answer 13 November 2007]: The grid below outlines cost of departmental public health awareness campaign advertising in each year since 1997.

Health Services: Public Participation

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what further steps he proposes to take to ensure that the views of public and patient groups are taken into account in the conclusions of the Enhancing Confidence in Professional Healthcare Regulation sub-group; and if he will make a statement. [170083]

Mr. Bradshaw: The report will be made available on the Department of Health's website, which includes mechanisms for people to directly feed in their views to the working groups.

Wider feedback will be invited as part of the National Advisory Group Meeting planned for spring 2008.

We are proposing to hold an event specifically for patient and public representatives in new year 2008. The purpose of this event would be to ensure that the views of patient and public representatives are invited across the range of issues raised in the programme set out in the White Paper, "Trust, Assurance and Safety".

Health Services: Regulation

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what account will be taken of the report from the Enhancing Confidence in Professional Healthcare Regulation sub-group during the drafting of (a) existing and (b) future section 60 orders under the Health Act 1999. [170082]

Mr. Bradshaw: The report of the Enhancing Confidence in the Professional Regulators Working Group will be taken into account when preparing Section 60 Orders planned for the second half of 2008. We will also consider the implications of the report alongside other responses to the consultation on the Health Care and Associated Professions (Miscellaneous Amendments) Order 2008, and to the forthcoming consultation on a further, similar Order covering professions where the regulation is devolved.

Hospitals: Construction

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many new hospital schemes have been (a) given the go-ahead by his Department, (b) opened and (c) cancelled in each financial year since 1997-98 for which figures are available. [162236]

Mr. Bradshaw: The information has been placed in the Library.

In preparing the answer to this parliamentary question, officials have discovered that the answer given on 9 March 2007, Official Report, column 2288W, contained an error. The £250 million private finance initiative scheme at East Kent Hospitals NHS Trust which was cancelled in 2003 was mistakenly omitted from the answer.

Human Embryo Experiments

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many human embryos were created specifically for the purposes of research in each year since the passage of the Human Fertilisation and Embryology Act 1990. [169603]

Dawn Primarolo: The Human Fertilisation and Embryology Authority (HFEA) has informed me that data on the number of embryos created specifically for research purposes were not collected before 1999. Since then, the HFEA's register indicates that only two embryos were created specifically for research purposes.

Human Papilloma Virus: Vaccination

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what plans he has to include women between the ages of 18 and 26 years in the human papilloma virus vaccination programme; and if he will make a statement. [169364]

Dawn Primarolo: We are currently considering the advice received from the Joint Committee on Vaccination and Immunisation on the effectiveness of a national vaccination programme for all women over the age of 18. However women not covered by the vaccination programme will still be invited to be screened routinely as part of the national cervical screening programme.

Labelling: Alcoholic Drinks

Mr. Hands: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what recent discussions he has had with the brewery industry on alcohol warning labels required by different European Union states; and if he will make a statement; [166023]

(2) what plans his Department has to seek uniformity in alcohol warning labels across the European Union. [166021]

Dawn Primarolo: I have been asked to reply.

We do not exclude the possibility of greater commonality of approach in future. It is unlikely that a consensus exists at present across the European Union (EU) on the content of consumer information related to health on alcohol labels. The United Kingdom prefers an approach which provides information to consumers on alcohol unit content and sensible daily consumption.

The Department's officials have discussed with the Wine and Spirits Trade Association formal notifications by Finland and Poland to the European Commission seeking to introduce legislation in each country requiring alcohol warning labels. The UK has proposed that common approaches to providing consumer information should be explored through the EU Alcohol and Health Forum, since that is part of the Forum's agreed remit.

Liver Diseases: Alcoholic Drinks

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many diagnoses there were of alcohol-related cirrhosis of the liver in those of (a) 18 to 25, (b) 26 to 35, (c) 36 to 45 and (d) over 45 years of age in (i) England and (ii) Devon Primary Care Trust area in each of the last five years. [168294]

Dawn Primarolo: The information requested is shown in the following table:

Count of Finished Consultant Episodes (FCEs) with a diagnosis of alcoholic cirrhosis of the liver in primary or secondary fields for England and Devon primary care trusts (PCTs) by age at start of episode, data for NHS hospitals England for 2001-02 to 2005-06

| 2001-02 | — | — | 7 | 95 |

Notes:
Low Numbers
Due to reasons of confidentiality, figures between 1 and 5 have been suppressed and replaced with "*" (an asterisk). "—" represents zero.
All Diagnoses count of episodes
These figures represent a count of all FCE's where the diagnosis was mentioned in any of the 14(7 prior to 2002-03) diagnosis fields in a Hospital Episode Statistics (HES) record.
Diagnosis code used: K70.3 Alcoholic Cirrhosis of Liver.
Assessing growth through time
HES figures are available from 1989-90 onwards. During the years that these records have been collected the NHS there have been ongoing improvements in quality and coverage. These improvements in information submitted by the NHS have been particularly marked in the earlier years and need to be borne in mind when analysing time series.
Changes in NHS practice also need to be borne in mind when analysing time series. For example a number of procedures may now be undertaken in outpatient settings and may no longer be accounted in the HES data. This may account for any reductions in activity over time.
Data Quality
HES are compiled from data sent by over 300 NHS trusts and PCTs in England. The Information Centre for Health and Social Care liaises closely with these organisations to encourage submission of complete and valid data and seeks to minimise inaccuracies and the effect of missing and invalid data via HES processes. Whilst this brings about improvement over time, some shortcomings remain.
FCE
A FCE is defined as a period of admitted patient care under one consultant within one healthcare provider. Please note that the figures do not represent the number of patients, as a person may have more than one episode of care within the year.
Ungrossed Data
Figures have not been adjusted for shortfalls in data (i.e. the data are ungrossed).

Lung Cancer: Tarceva

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the effects of different entitlements to Tarceva of patients in different parts of the UK on levels of care of patients in England and costs associated with that care; and if he will make a statement. [169521]

Ann Keen [holding answer 29 November 2007]: Tarceva is licensed for the treatment of patients with locally advanced or metastatic non-small cell lung cancer whose cancer has continued to grow despite having chemotherapy. The National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence is currently appraising Tarceva for the treatment of non-small cell lung cancer. Final guidance is expected to be published April 2008. In the meantime, it will be for primary care trusts to decide whether to fund Tarceva for individual patients, taking into account the available evidence.

No assessment has been made of the effects of different entitlements to Tarceva of patients in different parts of the United Kingdom on levels of care of patients in England and costs associated with that care.

Maternity Services

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 20 November 2007, Official Report, column 830W, on maternity services, how many midwife-led units were (a) situated alongside consultant-led units and (b) stand-alone units. [170002]

Ann Keen: The information requested is as follows:

| SHA | Number midwife-led units situated alongside consultant-led units | Number of stand-alone midwife-led units |
|---|---|---|
| East Midlands | 0 | 3 |
| East of England | 3 | 6 |
| London | 11 | 2 |
| North East | 1 | 5 |
| North West | 2 | 7 |
| South Central | 4 | 12 |
| South East Coast | 3 | 3 |
| South West | 4 | 17 |
| West Midlands | 3 | 7 |
| Yorkshire and the Humber | 2 | 6 |
| Total | 33 | 68 |

I regret that the information given in my answer on 20 November 2007, Official Report, column 830W, was incorrect. The correct information is in the following table.

| Region | Number of consultant-led units | Number of midwife-led units |
|---|---|---|
| East Midlands | 11 | 3 |
| East of England | 19 | 9 |
| London | 30 | 13 |
| North East | 12 | 6 |
| North West | 28 | 9 |
| South Central | 11 | 16 |
| South East Coastal | 16 | 6 |

| Region | Number of consultant-led units | Number of midwife-led units |
|---|---|---|
| South West | 16 | 21 |
| West Midlands | 19 | 10 |
| Yorkshire and Humber | 19 | 8 |
| England | 181 | 101 |

National statistics for maternity units are collected by trust, instead of by individual unit Therefore there are no regular data collections of the number of units. The information in the table is from an amalgamated list kept by the Department from the Dr. Foster Birth Guide questionnaire (conducted between July and September 2006), BirthChoiceUK and National Perinatal Epidemiology Unit The data in this list are known to be out of date, coming mainly from 2005-06. More up to date data will be available when the Healthcare Commission report on maternity services is released in January.

Medical Treatments: Lasers

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when his Department will begin its proposed consultation on deregulating of laser treatment. [170289]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department continues to keep the regulation of independent health care services under review. It is currently considering regulatory changes to some of these services, and expects to publish a formal consultation shortly.

Midwives: Peterborough District Hospital

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will take steps to ensure that pregnant women's options to choose to use the midwife-led unit at Peterborough district hospital are maintained and enhanced; and if he will make a statement. [169782]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: It is the responsibility of primary care trusts to ensure that the services they commission meet the needs of the populations that they serve, including maternity services.

The Department has developed a framework document, "Maternity matters: Choice, access and continuity of care in a safe service" which was published in April 2007. It describes a comprehensive programme of improving choice, access and continuity of care in maternity services.

NHS Institute for Innovation and Improvement

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 14 November 2007, Official Report, column 288WA, on the NHS Institute for Innovation and Improvement, if he will list all the citizen and patient representatives who have sat on the board of the Institute and, previously, the NHS Modernisation Agency, stating for each the (a) start date and (b) end date of their period for service. [169873]

Dawn Primarolo: Professor Tony Butterworth was appointed chair of the NHS Institute's Involvement Think Tank in June 2007 and at that point, assumed the role of citizen and patient representative on the board of the NHS Institute.

The Think Tank met for the first time in October of this year and meets again in February 2008.

The Modernisation Agency did not have a patient representative on its board during its existence.

NHS: Finance

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will quantify the level of commitment required over the next Comprehensive Spending Review period in order to implement (a) the European Working Time Directive and (b) the NHS Connecting for Health programme as stated on page 17 of his Department's NHS Pay Review Body: Review for 2008, published on his Department's website on 2nd November 2007. [166451]

Mr. Bradshaw: The level of commitment required to implement the European Working Time Directive will depend on local service needs and the nature of the solutions utilised to ensure continued high quality patient care.

The NHS Connecting for Heath Programme include both central funding and local expenditure to deliver better, safer care to patients, via new computer systems and services.

A total cost of £12.4 billon (at 2004-05 prices) was identified in the National Audit Office report (June 2006) for total spending on the programme over its lifetime. This includes the comprehensive spending review period 2008-09 to 2010-11.

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he plans to announce his response to the review commissioned by his Department of the market forces factor; and if he will make a statement. [166582]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Advisory Committee on Resource Allocation (ACRA) has been reviewing the current allocation formula. ACRA has requested additional time to finalise its work. Given the importance of getting the revenue allocation formula right, ACRA has been granted this extra time. Therefore, allocations for 2008-09, which will be published shortly, will not include the review of the market forces factor.

Once ACRA's work is complete, ACRA will make recommendations on proposed changes to the formula. Ministers will need to give due consideration to any proposed changes to the formula, as recommended by ACRA.

An announcement on ACRA's work and the revenue allocations to primary care trusts will be made as soon as is practically possible on completion of ACRA's work programme.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to Table 5 in his Department's memorandum to the Health Select Committee on Public Expenditure on Health and Personal Social Services 2006, for what reason his Department underspent its hospital, community and family health services (a) non-cash and (b) near-cash budget in 2006-07; and if he will provide a break down of the underspend in each budget. [167837]

Mr. Bradshaw: The figures provided to the Health Select Committee were based on in-year forecasts, and consistent with the figures published in the 2007 departmental report. The outturn position was published in the 2007 Public Expenditure Outturn White Paper.

The Department's financial plans for 2006-07 included an £800 million Department Unallocated Provision (DUP) for non-cash items—funds set aside for exceptional and unplanned items. The figures in the departmental report were based on a forecast hospital, community and family health services underspend of £681 million and a £6 million underspend on centrally held and managed services, leaving £687 million of the DUP unused.

The near-cash underspend of £180 million was the combined forecast underspend by the national health service and the central programme.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to Table 57a in his Department's memorandum to the Health Select Committee on Public Expenditure on Health and Personal Social Services 2006, for what reason allocations in the Centrally Funded Initiatives and Special Services Allocation programme fell in 2006-07. [167838]

Mr. Bradshaw: The 2004-05 and 2005-06 Centrally Funded Initiatives and Special Services Allocation (CFISSA) allocation figures reported in Table 57a of the Department's memorandum include substantial sums that were added to primary care trust baselines in 2006-07. These resources were therefore no longer included in the CFISSA programme for that year.

NHS: Foreign Nationals

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many foreign nationals received NHS treatment in each of the last three years; and what mechanisms his Department has in place to ensure that those that are required to pay for the treatment do so. [170307]

Dawn Primarolo: It is not possible to provide the information requested. Successive Governments have not required the national health service to provide statistics on the number of foreign nationals seen, treated or charged under the provisions of the NHS (Charges to Overseas Visitors) Regulations 1989, as amended, nor any costs involved.

The charging regulations place a legal obligation on providers of NHS hospital services to establish whether patients are ordinarily resident in the United Kingdom and, if not, whether they are exempt from charges under the provisions of the regulations or liable to pay for any treatment provided. The Department has provided comprehensive guidance on implementation of the charging regulations to help NHS trusts and NHS foundation trusts to discharge their obligations under these regulations.

NHS: PFI

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much the NHS has paid in private finance initiative (PFI) charges in each of the last 10 years; and what estimated PFI charges the NHS is liable for in each of the next 10 years. [162865]

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much has been spent from his Department's resource budget on unitary charges under the private finance initiative for each financial year since 1997-98 for which figures are available. [162235]

Mr. Bradshaw: Information has been placed in the Library, which gives details of private finance initiative schemes which have reached financial close.

Palliative Care: Finance

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when the Government expects to publish its comprehensive end-of-life care strategy; and what the timescale is for the doubling of funding for palliative care. [170205]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: End of life care is one of the eight pathways that strategic health authorities are examining as part of the NHS Next Stage Review. The review is being led by local clinical pathway groups and has the potential to inform and strengthen the national strategy. Publication of the strategy will happen in parallel with publication of the Next Stage Review final report scheduled for summer 2008.

The manifesto commitment to double the investment in palliative care is being taken forward as part of the work to develop the End of Life Care Strategy.

Pandemic Influenza

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to his statement of 22 November 2007, Official Report, column 1350, on pandemic influenza, how many (a) poultry workers, (b) farm labourers and (c) related staff have been vaccinated for H5N1 since the outbreak of the virus was first discovered in Suffolk on 11 November. [169996]

Dawn Primarolo: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 28 November 2007, Official Report, column 558W.

Patient Choice Schemes

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much has been spent on Choose and Book to date; and to which companies payments have been made in respect of Choose and Book. [164598]

Mr. Bradshaw: Total payments to date to Atos Origin relating to the development, delivery and maintenance of choose and book total £85.1 million. This includes £39 million for the development and deployment of the core system by the supplier under the original core contract worth £64.5 million over five years. It also includes a further £46.1 million for approved additional services and functionality identified in the contract, the costs of which are within the budget for the original choose and book business case.

Choose and book is now being used for over 45 per cent. of referral activity from general practitioners to first out-patient appointments. Some 6.2 million bookings have been made to date.

Pharmacy

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what consultation procedures are followed for applications to open pharmacies within a primary care trust area; [167798]

(2) what guidance is given to primary care trusts on who they should consult when considering applications to open new pharmacies in an area; [167799]

(3) whether the NHS Review Panel consults (a) local residents, (b) local councillors and (c) hon. Members when considering appeals relating to applications for pharmacies to be opened in an area. [167816]

Dawn Primarolo: There are no consultation procedures when a pharmacy wishes to open premises. However, if a pharmacy wishes to provide national health service services, there are procedures under the NHS (Pharmaceutical Services) Regulations (SI 2005/641) for notifying details of pharmaceutical applications, which vary according to the type of application received. Some, such as a minor relocation of existing premises, are decided administratively by the primary care trust (PCT) without prior notification while others are subject to quite extensive notification. The PCT therefore has quite a wide discretion as to which local interests it notifies. Those notified usually have 45 days to respond.

The Department has published extensive guidance for primary care trusts to support implementation of these regulations. The guidance is available on the Department's website at:

www.dh.gov.uk/en/Publicationsandstatistics/Publications/PublicationsPolicyAndGuidance/DH_4107573

Chapters 3 and 4 give information on notifying the details of pharmacy applications.

The Family Health Services Appeal Unit of the NHS Litigation Authority has been directed to deal with appeals against decisions of primary care trusts relating to pharmaceutical applications on behalf of the Secretary of State (Alan Johnson). The unit will notify appeal details concerning a new pharmacy to the applicant and to relevant primary care professionals and local representative groups who were originally notified of the application by the PCT and who made representations within the stipulated time. However, the unit is not required to notify local individuals who made representation.

Prescriptions

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health on what dates since January 2007 his Department has had discussions with the Prescription Pricing Division of the NHS Business Services Authority; and what the content was of such discussions. [170072]

Dawn Primarolo: The Department meets with the prescription pricing division of the Business Services Authority on a regular basis at which a range of operational issues are discussed.

Prescriptions: Information and Communications Technology

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what progress has been made towards determining how the different IT systems in use in England, Scotland and Wales will manage cross-border electronic prescriptions. [167783]

Mr. Bradshaw: The devolved Administrations in Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland have chosen different approaches to the development of information technology support in their respective health services from those being delivered to the national health service in England. These reflect their own functional requirements and assessment of priorities to meet their own needs.

Paper prescriptions will continue to be available to patients in England who wish to have their prescriptions dispensed in one of the other home countries.

Rehabilitation Centres

Philip Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many residential drug treatment and rehabilitation centres there are in England and Wales; and how many have been closed in the last five years. [167635]

Dawn Primarolo: 118 residential drug treatment and rehabilitation centres are currently registered on the National Treatment Agency's online directory of residential rehabilitation services for England and Wales.

Although this is not a comprehensive list of residential rehabilitation services, it represents the vast majority of services commissioned by drug action teams and local authorities for substance misuse treatment.

Information on the number of residential drug treatment and rehabilitation centres that have been closed in the last five years is not collated centrally.

Sex: Health Education

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much his Department has spent of the £50 million allocated to the sexual health advertising campaigns programme announced in 2004, broken down by campaign; and what plans his Department has made for further sexual health advertising campaigns. [163164]

Dawn Primarolo: This information is contained in the following table[1].

[1] The figures relate to the Condom Essential Wear campaign. They exclude HIV prevention work, public and contraception awareness work and the sexual health helpline.

| | Campaign name | £ million |
|---|---|---|
| 2006-07 | Condom Essential Wear | 7.3 |
| 2007-08 | Condom Essential Wear | [1]4.7 |

[1] Identified spend so far this financial year.

We have also contributed an average of £2 million per annum in 2006-07 and 2007-08 to the Department for Children, Schools and Families for joint work on teenage pregnancy campaigns.

Plans for the continuation of the campaign in 2008-09 and beyond are currently being drawn up.

Sexually Transmitted Diseases

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many cases of sexually transmitted diseases were diagnosed in each of the last five years, broken down by (a) primary care trust and (b) type of disease. [169282]

Dawn Primarolo: Information on the diagnoses of sexually transmitted infections (STIs) in genitourinary clinics (GUM) is currently only available at strategic health authority (SHA) level. The total number of the five main STIs (gonorrhoea, chlamydia, syphilis, anogenital herpes and warts) by SHA for the last five years will be placed in the Library.

In addition to the figures for those diagnosed with chlamydia in GUM clinics the total number of people who have been diagnosed with chlamydia within the National Chlamydia Screening Programme by primary care trust since 2003-04 when the programme was launched, has been placed in the Library.

Sexually Transmitted Diseases: Health Education

Mr. Jamie Reed: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much his Department has spent on information campaigns about sexually transmitted infections over the last five years. [163018]

Dawn Primarolo: Expenditure on sexual health information campaigns in England for the last five years is contained in the following table[1]:

[1] This includes funding for HIV prevention work (contracted out to the Terence Higgins Trust and the African HIV Policy Network), public education and contraception awareness (contracted out to the family planning association), the Sex Lottery and Condom Essential Wear campaigns and sexual health[1] helpline.[2] Contract for the Sexual Health Information Line, (formerly the National AIDS Helpline) is delivered as part of a contract which also includes Drinkline and Frank (substance misuse prevention).

| | £ million |
|---|---|
| 2002-03 | 6.600 |
| 2003-04 | 6.600 |
| 2004-05 | 6.600 |
| 2005-06 | 5.120 |
| 2006-07 | 11.25 |
| 2007-08 | [1]10.25 |

[1] Identified spend so far this financial year.

We have also contributed an average of £2 million per annum in 2005-06, 2006-07 and 2007-08 to the Department for Children, Schools and Families for joint work on Teenage Pregnancy campaigns.

Speech Impaired: Disability Aids

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what discussions his Department has had with (a) the Department for Communities and Local Government and (b) the Department for Work and Pensions on (i) funding for and (ii) provision of alternative and augmentative communication aids; and what (1) response he has made and (2) steps he has taken in response to the Prime Minister's Strategy Unit report on the life chances of disabled people in relation to the provision of such aids. [168780]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The Department has not made any such estimates or assessments and has not issued guidance.

It is the responsibility of local health and social care organisations to prioritise and allocate funding for communication aids based on their assessment of the needs of their local populations. To support this process the Government recently announced, through the comprehensive spending review, that local authority funding will increase by £2.6 billion by 2010-11.

Recommendation 5.6 of the Prime Minister's Strategy Unit report "Improving the Life Chances of Disabled People", focuses on the provision of community equipment, communication aids and wheelchairs for children. As part of the process of addressing this recommendation the Department launched the Transforming Community Equipment and Wheelchair Services programme in June 2006.

In addition, the Department, is working closely with the Department for Children, Schools and Families to support the Bercow Review. The Bercow Review is currently reviewing services for children and young people with speech, language and communication needs with the aim of producing a report in the summer of 2008.

TREASURY

Alcoholic Drinks: Death

Mr. Vara: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many deaths attributable to (a) alcohol and (b) illegal drugs there were in the UK in each of the last five years, broken down by primary care trust. [169360]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 3 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking how many deaths attributable to (a) alcohol and (b) illegal drugs there were in the UK in each of the last five years, broken down by primary care trust. (169360)

The attached table provides the number of (a) deaths with an alcohol-related underlying cause and (b) drug misuse deaths, in the United Kingdom, from 2001 to 2005 (the latest year available), and in English primary care organisations, from 2001 to 2006 and 2005 (the latest years available for alcohol-related and drug misuse deaths, respectively). A copy has been placed in the House of Commons Library.

Capital Gains Tax

Dr. Cable: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will estimate what the cost to the Exchequer would be of exempting from capital gains tax business owners who sell their businesses upon retirement up to the value of (a) £100,000, (b) £200,000, (c) £300,000, (d) £400,000, (e) £500,000 and (f) £1,000,000 in 2008-09. [166350]

Jane Kennedy: The cost would depend on the scope of the relief and on taxpayer behaviour. Broad estimates are provided in the table as follows:

| Exemption limit (£) | Annual reduction in CGT accruals (£ million) |
|---|---|
| 100,000 | 100 |
| 200,000 | 150 |
| 300,000 | 200 |
| 400,000 | 250 |
| 500,000 | 250 |
| 1,000,000 | 300 |

The initial impact on receipts would occur in the year after the introduction of the measure.

Daniel Kawczynski: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) if he will make an assessment of the likely effects of increasing the capital gains tax rate to 18 per cent. from April 2008 in relation to business assets held for at least two years on (a) long-term investment, (b) entrepreneurial risk-taking and (c) numbers of small businesses being established in England; [169097]

(2) what assessment he has made of the likely effects of equalising the capital gains tax rates of long-term business assets and personal investments in shares and property on (a) propensity to invest and (b) business optimism within the small business sector; and if he will make a statement; [169098]

(3) if he will reconsider his decision to increase the capital gains tax rate on business assets held for at least two years from 10 per cent. to 18 per cent. from April 2008; [169099]

(4) if he will retain the 10 per cent. taper relief on business assets held for at least two years. [169100]

Jane Kennedy: The Government consider a range of factors when formulating tax policy and keep all aspects of tax policy under review.

The Government believe that it is right to simplify the capital gains tax rules and are working with interested groups to listen to their views on a number of issues. The Chancellor will report to Parliament on his final proposals in due course.

Child Benefit

Dr. Murrison: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what guidance is provided to local benefit offices on the provision of the name of alternative claimants for child benefit to parents of the child concerned; and if he will make a statement. [164713]

Jane Kennedy: HM Revenue and Customs is responsible for the administration of child benefit. All information held or obtained by HMRC is treated as confidential under the terms of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs Act 2005. As such child benefit office staff are not permitted to comment on or divulge any aspect of a child benefit claim with any person other than the claimant.

Dr. Murrison: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer in how many cases in each of the last 12 months the Commissioners for HM Revenue and Customs have made decisions concerning which claimant should receive child benefit, where there are multiple applicants; and if he will make a statement. [164715]

Jane Kennedy: The number of decisions made by the child benefit office in the last year concerning which claimant should receive child benefit where there have been applications made by more than one claimant (shared cases) in respect of the same child or children are shown in the table as follows:

| Month and year | Number of decision made |
|---|---|
| 2006 | |
| November | 220 |
| December | 187 |
| 2007 | |
| January | 222 |
| February | 198 |
| March | 212 |
| April | 235 |
| May | 249 |
| June | 238 |
| July | 255 |
| August | 164 |
| September | 164 |
| October | 235 |

Child Benefit: EC Nationals

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) how much the Government have paid in child benefit to A8 nationals in respect of children living abroad in the last 12 months; [167645]

(2) how many claims for guardian's allowance from migrants in respect of children living abroad were made in each of the last 12 months; and how much was paid against such claims in each of those months; [167653]

(3) how many claims for child benefit by nationals of EEA countries were made in respect of children living abroad in the last 12 months; [167732]

(4) how many claims for child benefit have been made by A8 nationals of each country of origin in respect of children living abroad in the last 12 months; [167733]

(5) what projections his Department has made of future trends in the numbers of child benefit claims made by A8 nationals in respect of children living abroad. [167736]

Jane Kennedy: At the end of September 2007, there were 17,794 A8 nationals receiving child benefit for a child or children living in another EEA member state, broken down by nationality as follows.

| Country | Number of awards |
|---|---|
| Czech Republic | 84 |
| Estonia | 7 |
| Hungary | 30 |
| Latvia | 167 |
| Lithuania | 397 |
| Poland | 16,286 |
| Slovakia | 821 |
| Slovenia | 2 |
| Total | 17,794 |

The other information requested is not available.

Child Benefit: Personal Records

Sarah Teather: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will notify all those who may have been directly affected by the loss of personal data from the Child Benefit database. [168120]

Jane Kennedy: Dave Hartnett, HMRC's acting chairman, is writing to all affected customers, to reassure them that their child benefit payments will continue and to advise them of security precautions they may wish to take.

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether the HM Revenue and Customs official who posted two compact discs containing confidential child benefit information was authorised to access and download such information to disc. [168207]

Jane Kennedy: It would be inappropriate to comment on this issue as there is an ongoing Metropolitan Police Service investigation and an independent review of HMRC's security processes and procedures for data handling led by Kieran Poynter, the Chair of PricewaterhouseCoopers.

The full terms of reference for that review are available on the HM Treasury website at:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/newsroom_and_speeches/press/2007_133_07.cfm and a copy has been placed in the Library of the House.

Tom Brake: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many child benefit claimants in each London borough are affected by the loss of bank details by HM Revenue and Customs; and if he will make a statement. [169313]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 29 November 2007]: The missing information contains details of all child benefit recipients, including those in London boroughs.

The Acting Chairman of HM Revenue and Customs is writing to all customers affected by the loss of child benefit data.

Information on families receiving child benefit at 31 August 2006 by local authority and parliamentary constituency are published as part of National Statistics and can be found in Table 2 of Child Benefit Statistics Geographical Analysis which are available on HMRC's website at http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/child_benefit/geog-aug06.pdf

Tom Brake: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many (a) children and (b) adults in each (i) London borough and (ii) Government region have had their personal details lost in the recent security breach at HM Revenue and Customs. [169316]

Jane Kennedy: The missing information contains details of all child benefit recipients, including the London boroughs and Government regions.

Information on families receiving child benefit at 31 August 2006 by local authority and Government regions are published as part of National Statistics and can be found in Tables 1 a and 2 of Child Benefit Statistics Geographical Analysis which are available on HMRC's website at http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/child_benefit/geog-aug06.pdf

Child Tax Credit: EU Nationals

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what steps he plans to take to measure the amount of child tax credit paid to A8 nationals in respect of children living abroad. [169505]

Jane Kennedy: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave him on 8 October 2007, Official Report, column 210W.

Child Trust Fund: North East Region

Mr. MacShane: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the percentage of eligible parents who have opened a child trust fund in (a) Rotherham, (b) Sheffield, (c) Doncaster, (d) Barnsley, (e) Richmond-upon-Thames, (f) York and (g) Harrogate. [169709]

Kitty Ussher: Constituency and regional data on Child Trust Fund accounts, including for account-opening rates, was published on 24 October 2007 and can be viewed on the HM Revenue and Customs' website at:

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/ctf/stats.htm.

Council of Economic Advisers

Mrs. May: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what changes have been made to the remit and membership of the Council of Economic Advisers since June 2007; who the members of the Council are; and to which pay band each is allocated. [169591]

Angela Eagle: I refer the hon. Member to the answers I gave on 29 October 2007, Official Report, column 893W, 24 July 2007, column 1000W, and 16 July 2007, column 72W.

Departmental Catering

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what percentage of (a) beef, (b) lamb, (c) pork and (d) dairy products used in his departmental headquarters were imported products in the most recent period for which figures are available. [166642]

Angela Eagle: The report deposited in the House of Commons Library on 8 November 2007 gives the proportion of UK produce supplied to HM Treasury.

Based on this date, the relevant figures for imported products are:

| | Percentage |
|---|---|
| Beef | 60 |
| Pork | 60 |
| Lamb | 60 |
| Dairy products | [1] 20 |

[1] eggs, milk and cheese

Departmental Complaints

Dr. Cable: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many complaints about (a) his Department and (b) HM Revenue and Customs were received from members of the public by his Department in 2006-07; and if he will make a statement. [164164]

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what records his Department holds of complaints received on services provided to the public by (a) his Department and (b) HM Revenue and Customs. [164773]

Angela Eagle: The number of complaints received by HM Revenue and Customs in 2006-07 is published in the Department's 2007 Annual Report. Information on complaints made to the Treasury is not held centrally.

Departmental Cost Effectiveness

Justine Greening: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) pursuant to his Department's annual efficiency savings targets, what savings were made by his Department in (a) salary and (b) administrative costs in each year since 2003-04; and if he will make a statement; [170346]

(2) what estimate his Department has made of core Treasury's delivered efficiency savings in relation to (a) policy, funding and regulation—directorate baseline budgets, (b) policy, funding and regulation—strategic reserve and (c) programme for each year since 2003-04; and if he will make a statement. [170351]

Angela Eagle: HM Treasury Group publishes the progress against its efficiency targets in its spring annual report and accounts and autumn performance report. The 2007 autumn performance report will be published shortly.

Departmental Data Protection

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer on how many occasions packages containing confidential data have been sent from his Department and its agencies without using registered or recorded delivery services in the last 12 months for which figures are available. [168212]

Jane Kennedy: The information requested is not available.

Departmental Labour Turnover

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the percentage turnover of staff was in (a) his Department and (b) his Department's agencies in (i) the last 12-month period and (ii) the last 24-month period for which figures are available. [169043]

Angela Eagle: The percentage of turnover of staff in HM Treasury and its agencies is as follows:

| Department | Year | Percentage Turnover |
|---|---|---|
| HM Treasury | 2006-07 | 14 |
| | 2005-06 | 14 |
| OGC Buying Solutions | 2006-07 | 7 |
| | 2005-06 | 14 |
| Debt Management Office | 1 October 2006 to 30 September 2007 | 14 |
| | 1 October 2005 to 30 September 2006 | 13 |

Departmental Recruitment

Danny Alexander: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many people aged (a) 30 to 39, (b) 40 to 49, (c) 50 to 59 and (d) 60 to 69 years have (i) applied for jobs, (ii) received interviews and (iii) gained (A) temporary and (B) permanent jobs in his Department in 2007. [165104]

Angela Eagle: Following the Age Discrimination Act, 2006, and in line with best practice, we do not ask applicants to disclose their age. We are therefore unable to provide information on the ages of people applying for jobs or who received interviews.

The following table provides the information requested from those applicants who were offered both permanent and temporary posts at HM Treasury in 2007.

| Age of applicant | Applicants offered permanent job | Applicants offered temporary job |
|---|---|---|
| 30-39 | 6 | 41 |
| 40-49 | 3 | 25 |
| 50-59 | 3 | 5 |
| 60-69 | 0 | 0 |

Departments: Complaints

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 30 October 2007, Official Report, column 1183W to the hon. Member for Fareham on Departments: complaints, if he will require HM Revenue and Customs to maintain records of complaints about them which they receive from members of the public. [168586]

Angela Eagle: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I have today given the hon. Members for Twickenham (Dr. Cable) and Fareham (Mr. Hoban) (UINs 164164 and 164773).

Diesel Fuel: Prosecutions

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many people have been prosecuted for illegal use or sale of red diesel in the last 12 months. [167569]

Angela Eagle: In the UK 11 people were prosecuted in the last year in relation to the laundering of red diesel and its onward sale to retail sites.

A further three people have been prosecuted in cases solely involving the detection of red diesel laundering plants.

These figures include persons charged, dealt with by information and summons and awaiting trial.

Criminal investigation and prosecution for hydrocarbon oils offences form only one part of HMRC's overall approach to tackling oils fraud, together with the investigation/prosecution of wider oils excise offences, combined with a strong regulatory control system and the civil penalties regime.

In the UK, for the period 1 January 2007 to 31 October 2007, 3,224 vehicles were detected running on rebated fuel. The majority involved red diesel. These cases are dealt with by seizure of the vehicle which can be restored on payment of a fee. This approach is consistent with HMRC's Oils Strategy, progress against which is detailed in the Annual Reports. Copies of the Annual Reports are available in the Library of the House.

Elderly: Greater London

Tom Brake: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many people resident in each London borough over the age of 65 years died during the winter months in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [169244]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 3 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking how many people resident in each London borough over the age of 65 years died during the winter months in each year since 1997. (169244)

Figures for winter deaths are calculated using a definition of winter as a four-month period from December of one year to March of the next year. The table below provides the number of winter deaths of people resident in each London borough over the age of 65, for the years 1996/97 to 2005/06 (the latest available).

Employment

Mr. Byers: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what percentage of (a) men and (b) women of working age are in (i) full-time and (ii) part-time employment in each local authority area. [170686]

Kitty Ussher: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 3 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question on full-time and part-time employment. (170686).

The Office for National Statistics compiles employment statistics for local areas from the Annual Population Survey (APS) following International Labour Organisation definitions.

Table 1, attached, shows the numbers of men of working age, working full-time and working part-time in each local authority in Great Britain. The table also shows these numbers as percentages of all men of working age in employment in the areas. Tables 2 and 3, show the same information, for women and all people respectively. A copy of the tables have been placed in the House of Commons Library.

As these estimates are for a subset of the population in small geographical areas, they are based on small sample sizes, and are therefore subject to large margins of uncertainty.

Excise Duties: Fuels

Susan Kramer: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the cost to the public purse was of not keeping fuel duty in line with inflation in each year since 2000. [168981]

Angela Eagle: The cost to the Exchequer of all changes in fuel duty compared to increases in line with inflation can be found in the Financial Statement and Budget and pre-Budget reports for each year since 2000.

First Solution Money Transfer

Mr. Godsiff: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what steps are being taken to (a) compensate former customers of the money transfer company First Solution and (b) establish a new regulatory framework for the operation of such companies. [169269]

Kitty Ussher: The Government sympathize with those affected by the closure of First Solution. The Companies Investigation Branch, within the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform, is carrying out an examination of the facts. An agreement has been reached on the sale of the company's assets which, in the opinion of the official receiver, will provide the best possible outcome for its creditors. In the context of the agreement reached on the Payment Services Directive (PSD) in April 2007, the Government have committed to bring money transfer companies into regulation from November 2009. The Treasury will launch a consultation on the implementation of the PSD before the end of the year.

Fuel: Excise Duties

Mr. Amess: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what fuel duty was payable on a litre of petrol in (a) January 1996, (b) January 1999, (c) January 2001, (d) January 2003, (e) January 2005 and (f) January 2007; [169587]

(2) what research has been (a) commissioned and (b) evaluated by his Department on the effect of an (i) increase and (ii) decrease in fuel duty on (A) food prices and (B) the cost of living; what recent representations he has received the cost of fuel; and if he will make a statement. [169588]

Angela Eagle: Details of the fuel duty payable on leaded, unleaded and ultra low sulphur petrol are published at:

www.uktradeinfo.com/index.cfm?task=bulloil.

In taking taxation decisions as part of the Budget process the Government consider a range of factors including the impact on prices and any representations received. The increases in fuel duty announced in Budget 2007 were announced for environmental reasons, to fund public services and provide certainty alongside the other tax reforms in that Budget. They have been fully taken account of in Treasury inflation forecasts.

Immigration: East of England

Mr. Vara: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the effect of inward migration on (a) economic activity and (b) the labour market in (i) North West Cambridgeshire, (ii) Cambridgeshire and (iii) the East of England over the last 10 years. [169391]

Kitty Ussher: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 3 December 2007:

As National Statistician I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question asking what assessment has been made of the effect of inward migration on (a) economic activity and (b) the labour market in (i) North West Cambridgeshire, (ii) Cambridgeshire and (hi) the East of England over the last 10 years. (169391)

Gross Domestic Product (GDP) is the main summary indicator of economic activity in the UK. Because data collection, estimation and reporting are not structured according to demographic groups, the national accounts framework does not however make it possible to identity the direct contribution of immigrants to the measured levels of economic activity.

The Office for National Statistics compiles statistics for labour supply indicators for local areas from the annual Labour Force Survey (LFS) and the Annual Population Survey (APS) following International Labour Organisation definitions.

The data for analysing migrants also come from the above surveys. The National Statistics method for estimating the number of migrant workers employed in the UK is routinely based on the number of people at a given time who were born abroad, are of working age (16-64 for men, 16-59 for women). This question has been answered on this basis. It means, for example, that some people who are UK nationals will be included in the total of "foreign born" and that people who are working but are above state pension age are not included.

When interpreting these figures, it is important also to bear in mind that the LFS and APS are not designed to cover everyone who is present in the UK. The survey may undercount the numbers of people who were born overseas. The reasons are set out in the table footnote.

The annual LFS and APS estimates at this detailed level are only available consistent with the UK population estimates published in February and March 2003 and are not comparable with the estimates published in the Labour Market Statistics First Release on 14 November 2007, which are based on latest population estimates.

Insurance: Cancer

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many complaints have been received by the Financial Ombudsman Service on the sale of (a) critical illness insurance for all types of breast cancer and (b) critical illness insurance for ductal carcinoma in situ. [169169]

Kitty Ussher: The Financial Ombudsman Service (FOS) records complaint numbers in relation to product type. The FOS does not record data showing the breakdown of complaints received by both the product type and the type of illness that has given rise to the claim (and in turn the complaint) under the policy. The requested data are therefore unavailable.

In the last five years the FOS has received the following number of total complaints relating to critical illness insurance:

| | [1]Number |
|---|---|
| March 2007 | 680 |
| March 2006 | 799 |

Intergovernmental Conference

Mr. Jenkin: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the Prime Minister's statement of 22 October 2007, Official Report, columns 19-24, on the intergovernmental conference, and with reference to the answer of 15 December 2003, Official Report, column 674W, that three million British jobs are linked to trade with the EU, what estimate he has made of (a) the volume of goods and services exported to the UK by other EU states and (b) the returns received by other EU states on investments in the UK in each of the last two years; what proportion of gross domestic product each represented for each EU state; and what estimate he has made of the number of jobs in each state which were linked directly or indirectly to trade with the UK. [168706]

Angela Eagle [holding answer 27 November 2007]: Annual UK goods import volumes from the EU27 have grown by 13 per cent. on average over the last two years. Comparable import volumes of services figures are not available. A country specific breakdown is not available for import volumes to the UK. Using current price imports, the two biggest EU27 countries exporting to the UK in 2005 were Germany and France exporting €71.5 billion and €44.2 billion respectively, the country that exported the least to the UK is Estonia (€0.4 billion). The returns received by the EU27 on investments in the UK in 2006 were £89.8 billion. This was 1.4 per cent. of total EU27 (excluding the UK) GDP. This was up from £70.2 billion, 1.1 per cent. of EU27 GDP, in 2005. The estimate of jobs linked to trade with the EU is not available on a country-by-country basis.

Maternal Mortality: Suffolk

Mr. Spring: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many maternity deaths there were in Suffolk in each of the last five years. [169569]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 3 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking how many maternity deaths there were in Suffolk in each of the last five years. (169569)

There was only one death where pregnancy or childbirth was the underlying cause[1], in Suffolk county[2], in the years 2002 to 20063 (the latest year available). This was in 2004.

[1] Cause of death was defined using the International Classification of Diseases, Tenth Revision (ICD-10) codes 000-099 (pregnancy, childbirth and the puerperium). Deaths were included where one of these causes was the underlying cause of death.

[2] Based on boundaries as of 2007.

[3] Figures are for deaths registered in each calendar year.

Migrant Workers: East of England

Mr. Vara: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the number of migrant workers in (a) North West Cambridgeshire, (b) Cambridgeshire, (c) the East of England and (d) the UK in each of the last five years. [169392]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 3 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question asking what estimate has been made of the number of migrant workers there were in (a) North West Cambridgeshire, (b) Cambridgeshire, (c) the East of England and (d) the UK in each of the last five years. (169392)

The Office for National Statistics compiles statistics on employment for local areas from the annual Labour Force Survey (LFS) and the Annual Population Survey (APS) following International Labour Organisation definitions.

The data for analysing migrant workers also come from the above surveys. The National Statistics method for estimating the number of migrant workers employed in the UK is routinely based on the number of people at a given time who were born abroad, are of working age (16-64 for men, 16-59 for women), and in employment. This question has been answered on this basis. It means, for example, that some people who are UK nationals will be included in the total of "foreign born" and that people who are working but are above state pension age are not included.

The National Statistics method for estimating the number of migrant workers employed in the UK is based on the number of people at a given time who were born abroad, are of working age (16-64 for men, 16-59 for women), and in employment. This is the basis on which this PQ has been answered.

When interpreting these figures, it is important to bear in mind that the APS is not designed to cover everyone who is present in the UK. The survey may undercount the numbers of people who were born overseas. The reasons are set out in the table footnote.

The LFS and APS estimates at this detailed level are only available consistent with population estimates published in February and March 2003 and are not comparable with the estimates published in the Labour Market Statistics First Release on 14 November 2007, which are based on latest population estimates.

Table 1, attached, shows the numbers of working age in employment who were not born in the UK and were resident in the North West Cambridgeshire constituency, for the twelve month periods ending in February 2003 and February 2004, from the annual LFS, and for the twelve month periods ending in March 2005, March 2006 and December 2006 from the APS (the January to December 2006 APS dataset is the most recent for which information on country of birth is currently available). The table also shows the numbers of non-UK born persons in employment as percentages of all persons of working age in employment, in the area. Tables 2, 3 and 4 show the same information for Cambridgeshire, the East of England Government Office Region, and the UK, respectively.

As these estimates are from a sample survey they are subject to margins of uncertainty. In particular the estimates for North West Cambridgeshire, and Cambridgeshire will be based on small sample sizes. Changes over time should be treated with particular caution.

It should also be noted that the country of birth question in the LFS gives an undercount because:
it excludes certain people who have not been resident in the UK for 6 months.
it excludes students in halls who do not have a UK resident parent.
it excludes people in most other types of communal establishments (eg hotels, boarding houses, hostels, mobile home sites, etc).
it is grossed to population estimates which exclude migrants staying for less than 12 months.
microdata are grossed to population estimates consistent with those published in spring 2003 which are significantly lower than the latest population estimates.

Minimum Wage: Greater London

Tom Brake: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many people in each London borough were paid less than the minimum wage in the latest period for which figures are available. [169241]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 3 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question asking how many people in each London borough were paid less than the minimum wage in the latest period for which figures are available. (169241)

Estimates for the number of jobs paid below the national minimum wage by London borough are not available. However, I attach a table showing the number of jobs earning less than the national minimum wage by Government Office Region.

A guide to measuring low pay and associated articles can be found on the National Statistics website at:

National Insurance Contributions: Females

Steve Webb: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many women have paid national insurance at the reduced rate for married women in each of the last 10 years. [170003]

Jane Kennedy: The number of women who paid reduced rate contributions since 1997-98 can be found from the Lifetime Labour Market Data Tabulation Tool available at the Department for Work and Pension's website at the following link.

http://www.dwp.gov.uk/asd/tabtool.asp

Information for earlier years can be found in table CQY 90 "Number of women who paid any Class 1 National Insurance Contributions at the Reduced Rate during the tax year by type of contribution paid". This table can be found at

Peterborough District Hospital: Childbirth

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many live births there were at Peterborough District Hospital in each month since May 2004; and if he will make a statement. [169527]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Colin Mowl, dated 3 December 2007:

The National Statistician has been asked to reply to your question about how many births there were in Peterborough District Hospital in each month since May 2004. I am replying in her absence. (169527)

Figures on live births in hospitals are available from birth registration information. The attached table shows the figures requested for 2004 and 2005, for Peterborough District Hospital Maternity Unit. Data for 2006 will be available after the release of Birth Statistics, Series FM1 on 13th December.

Political Parties: Finance

Mr. Swire: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what tax is paid by a (a) recipient of money then donated to a political party and (b) donor of money to employees which is then spent as a political donation. [169417]

Jane Kennedy: As with all financial transactions, the tax treatment depends upon the facts of the particular case.

Population

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the population densities are expected to be of (a) the UK, (b) England, (c) Scotland, (d) Wales and (e) Northern Ireland on the basis of the change in population forecast by the Government Actuary Department and the Office for National Statistics in 2031; what the respective population densities are currently; and if he will rank the UK in terms of the 2007 population density of each EU member state, giving the population density for each member state. [169303]

Angela Eagle [holding answer 29 November 2007]: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 3 December 2007:

As National Statistician I have been asked to reply to your question regarding what the population densities are expected to be of (a) the UK, (b) England, (c) Scotland, (d) Wales and (e) Northern Ireland on the basis of the change in population forecast by the Office for National Statistics in 2031; what the respective population densities are currently; and the rank of the UK in terms of the 2007 population density of each EU member state, giving the population density for each member state. (169303)

The latest comparable information on population densities for EU member states relates to 2005. It is provided in Table A.

Actual and projected densities for the four countries of the UK are provided in Table B. The latest actual data relates to 2006. Figures are also given for 2005 to provide comparability with Table A.

Population: Immigrants

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what proportion of the Office of National Statistics UK population forecast of 71 million by the year 2031 is attributable to a net inward flow of migrants. [169089]

Kitty Ussher: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Professions: Greater London

Tom Brake: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what percentage of people in each London borough were classified as (a) professionals and (b) skilled workers in the latest period for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [169243]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 3 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question asking what percentage of people in each London borough are classified as (a) professionals and (b) skilled workers. (169243)

The Office for National Statistics compiles employment statistics for local areas from the Annual Population Survey (APS) following International Labour Organisation definitions.

The table attached shows the percentage of people resident in each London borough who are employed in professional and skilled trades occupations for the 12-month period ending March 2007.

Professional and skilled workers are classified using the Standard Occupational Classification (SOC) 2000 for Professional Occupations and Skilled Trades Occupations respectively.

As these estimates are for a subset of the population in a small geographical area, they are based on small sample sizes, and are therefore subject to large margins of uncertainty.

Revenue and Customs: Personal Records

Mr. Heathcoat-Amory: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer which organisations and agencies have access to personal tax or benefit data held by HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC); and which organisations and agencies were provided with such information by HMRC in each of the last five years. [167624]

Jane Kennedy: HMRC may only disclose information which it holds in accordance with the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs Act 2005. Most transfers of data take place under statutory gateways which specify circumstances in which HMRC may disclose such information. All disclosures must be compliant with the Data Protection Act 1998 and the Human Rights Act 1998.

On 20 November the Chancellor announced a review of HMRC's data handling procedures to be conducted by Kieran Poynter, the chair of PricewaterhouseCoopers.

Service Industries: Greater London

Tom Brake: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what percentage of people in each London borough are employed in (a) service industries and (b) manufacturing industries. [169242]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 3 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your parliamentary question asking what percentage of people in each London borough are employed in (a) service industries and (b) manufacturing industries. (169242).

The estimated percentages of employee jobs in service industries and manufacturing industries for each London borough in 2005 are shown in the following table. These estimates are from the annual business inquiry (ABI). They do not include self-employment jobs. As with any sample survey, estimates from the ABI are subject to a margin of uncertainty.

Alternative estimates are available in terms of employed residents, from the annual population survey, a survey of households. However the breakdown by industry suffers from reporting error caused by individuals giving inaccurate information about the organisations for which they work.

Social Security Benefits: EU Nationals

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether the health in pregnancy grant will be payable in respect of A8 nationals living outside the UK. [169507]

Jane Kennedy: The Government are introducing from April 2009 a one-off payment to expectant mothers, known as the Health in Pregnancy Grant, to help them during the important last weeks of pregnancy. Only women ordinarily resident in the UK will be able to claim the payment.

State Retirement Pensions

Chris Grayling: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether the Government plan to ring-fence the additional revenue his Department will receive as a consequence of bringing forward the introduction of an Upper Accruals Point for the State Second Pension for future pensions spending; and if he will make a statement. [169499]

Kitty Ussher: The announcement made in the 2007 pre-Budget report to bring forward the introduction of Upper Accruals Point for the State Second Pension (S2P) will lead to a reduction in the rebates paid in respect of employees earning above the 2007-08 value of the Upper Earnings Limit (UEL) who are contracted out of S2P. Those employees would have otherwise seen anomalous gains in their contracted out rebates and S2P benefits following the announcement at Budget 2007 to align the UEL for national insurance contributions with the higher rate threshold for income tax from 2009-10.

The reductions in the rebates result in an increase in national insurance contributions paid into the National Insurance Fund. The National Insurance Fund (NIF) is maintained under the control and management of Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs. It is run on a "pay-as-you-go" basis; current income, mainly from national insurance contributions, pays for current expenditure mostly on contributory benefits. The uses to which the NIF can be put are clearly specified in legislation, with the majority spent on state pensions.

Taxation: Domicil

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many British citizens with the right of abode in the UK but domiciled overseas moved their tax affairs on shore and became UK residents for tax purposes in each year since 2000. [168615]

Jane Kennedy: The information requested is not available.

Unclaimed Savings and Insurance Policies

Harry Cohen: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will bring forward proposals to require insurance companies and banks to establish effective arrangements for the tracing of unclaimed savings and insurance policies. [170217]

Kitty Ussher: The Dormant Bank and Building Society Accounts Bill was introduced in the House of Lords on 7 November. As part of these proposals, the Government are clear that account holders retain the ongoing right to claim their money. Additionally, the Government believe that effective reuniting efforts should precede the introduction of any scheme. As such, the Government welcome the joint co-operation of the British Bankers' Association, Building Societies Association and National Savings and Investments in developing a one-stop shop for customers seeking to trace lost accounts across all three sectors. The BBA announcement of 8 November set out the details of these initiatives, including the launch of the new facility in January 2008. The Government also welcome the commitment of individual banks and building societies to undertake proactive search activity throughout 2008.

In terms of insurance policies, insurers attempt to locate policyholders individually. Missing individuals' identities are also posted on the Unclaimed Assets Register so that they can be traced. Where it has not been possible to trace the holder, a policy remains live for an individual's expected lifetime.

Video Games: Research

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 926W, on video games: research, which companies received funding through research and development units allocated by HM Revenue and Customs; and how much each company received. [168986]

Angela Eagle: The names of companies making research and development tax relief claims and the amount of relief they receive are confidential. There is a well established principle that such information may not be disclosed and I am therefore unable to provide the information requested.

Welfare Tax Credits: EC Nationals

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) how many EU A8 nationals registered on the worker registration scheme and in receipt of (a) working tax credit and (b) child tax credit (i) gave notice of a change of circumstances and (ii) gave notice of their departure from the UK within one year of being granted these credits in each year since the inception of the worker registration scheme; [169302]

(2) how many EU A8 nationals have received (a) working tax credit and (b) child tax credit in each year since the inception of the worker registration scheme; and what (i) the total expenditure on these credits for EU A8 nationals and (ii) the average amount of each credit received by successful EU A8 applicants was; [169304]

(3) how many EU A8 nationals registered on the worker registration scheme who have been granted (a) working tax credit and (b) child tax credit did not renew their application for these credits at the end of their first year of receipt of them in each year since the inception of the worker registration scheme. [169305]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 29 November 2007]: The information requested is not available.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

Afghanistan: Politics and Government

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what changes the UK has proposed to international support for political reform in Afghanistan, as referred to in the Prime Minister's Mansion House speech of 12 November. [166131]

David Miliband: Our embassy in Kabul will be building on its work to support Afghan central Government institutions by helping to develop local government administration. The newly-established Independent Directorate of Local Governance in the Office of the President has an ambitious agenda to rationalise structures and authorities of local governance and to support the roll-out of key reforms at the sub-national level.

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether the UK is proposing changes to the mandate of the UN Special Representative for Afghanistan. [166133]

David Miliband: The contract of the current Special Representative of the UN Secretary-General, Tom Koenigs, runs until February 2008. He has announced his intention to step down. Any change to the mandate of his successor is a decision for the UN Secretary-General. We and other partners are regularly in discussion with the UN about the role played in Afghanistan by the UN Assistance Mission in Afghanistan and the UN Secretary-General's Special Representative.

Bosnia: Nuclear Medicine Department Storage

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what reports he has received on the theft of radiation generators from a nuclear medicine department storage in Banja Luka in the Entity of Republica Srpska in Bosnia-Herzegovina. [168446]

David Miliband: The police in the Republika Srpska have made it clear that there has been no theft of radiation generators in Bosnia and Herzegovina (BiH). Instead there has been a theft of 60 lead containers from the Banja Luka Institute for Nuclear Medicine. The police in the Republika Srpska have stated that this theft poses no danger to the public. The police believe that the lead was stolen for resale. The police in BiH, and Interpol, are investigating the theft.

Bosnia: Peacekeeping Operations

Mr. Francois: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what arrangements are in place to allow EUFOR to draw on the shared EU/NATO Operational Reserve Force in the event of deterioration of the security situation in Bosnia-Herzegovina. [170414]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The EU forces in Bosnia and Herzegovina Operation Plan agreed by EU member states makes provision for pre-identified contributing nations to maintain reserve units in their home locations in readiness for rapid deployment in the event of deterioration of the security situation in Bosnia and Herzegovina. As the Operational Reserve Force is also designated to reinforce the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation (NATO) Kosovo Force (KFOR), close co-ordination is maintained at all times between the EU, NATO and contributing nations.

Mr. Francois: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of whether the current presence of 2,500 EU troops in Bosnia-Herzegovina is sufficient to deal with any threats to the country's stability in the period prior to and after the end of the Kosovo final status talks. [170795]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The military advice is clear that the security situation in Bosnia and Herzegovina means current EU Forces in Bosnia and Herzegovina troop levels are sufficient. The North Atlantic Treaty Organisation has an operational reserve force consisting of three battalions for the Balkan theatre, should military commanders judge that reinforcements are necessary.

Chad: Frontiers

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what proposals the Government have put forward for strengthening borders between Chad, the Central African Republic and Sudan. [168732]

Meg Munn: In response to the continuing security and humanitarian crisis in Chad, in September the UK co-sponsored UN Security Council Resolution 1778, which authorises the deployment of an EU force (EUFOR) and a UN multidimensional mission (MINURCAT) to Chad. The force aims to contribute to the stabilisation of the regions in eastern Chad and north eastern Central African Republic which border Sudan. Improved security will facilitate the delivery of humanitarian aid and help create the conditions necessary for voluntary, secure and sustainable return of refugees and internally displaced persons. EUFOR and MINURCAT support the larger African Union/UN mission to Darfur, which is mandated to protect civilians and is in the process of being deployed.

Long-term peace and security in the region needs to be underpinned by a lasting political solution. The UK supports the agreement reached between President Deby and Chadian rebel groups on 25 October in Sirte, Libya and urges all parties to implement the ceasefire. The EU is also sponsoring a process of dialogue between President Deby and the political opposition forces in Chad, which should contribute to creating a more stable political environment in which to promote peace. The UK takes every opportunity to call on the governments of Chad and Sudan to fulfil their obligations under the Tripoli agreement, which calls for a ceasefire between Chad and Sudan, and an end to support for armed movements, which destabilise the region.

Chad: Peacekeeping Operations

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (1) what (a) equipment and (b) personnel non-EU countries have pledged to the EU peacekeeping mission to Chad and the Central African Republic; [168731]

(2) what representations the Government have (a) made and (b) received on numbers of helicopters available for the EU peacekeeping mission to Chad and the Central African Republic; and if he will make a statement; [168734]

(3) what assessment he has made of whether the EU peacekeeping mission to Chad and the Central African Republic will be deployed by December; and if he will make a statement. [168735]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The Government strongly support the EU peacekeeping mission and are actively engaged in finding an effective and lasting solution to the wider problems faced in the Chad/Darfur region. The 'force generation' process for the EU military force (EUFOR) is currently under way. We have made clear to the EU and to partners bilaterally that, due to other operational commitments, the UK contribution to the force will not include helicopters. A number of non-EU member states have shown strong interest in participation, but there have been no formal offers of assistance to date. Progressive deployment will begin once force generation and other necessary preparations are complete—EUFOR is currently expected to reach its initial operating capacity in early 2008.

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent discussions the Government have had with their European counterparts on the deployment of the EU peacekeeping mission to Chad and the Central African Republic; and if he will make a statement. [168733]

Meg Munn: On 15 October my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary attended the EU General Affairs and External Relations Council (GAERC) which agreed the joint action on the deployment of the EU military operation in Chad and the Central African Republic (EUFOR) in support of a multidimensional UN presence. The UK strongly endorsed this proposed deployment. At the GAERC of 19 November, my right hon. Friend the Defence Secretary and my hon. Friend the Minister for Europe (Mr. Jim Murphy) continued discussions with their counterparts on the planning and deployment of EUFOR.

The UK has continued to give strong support in the EU to ongoing planning and preparation for EUFOR, which will play a significant role in the international community's efforts to bring relief and stability to the region.

China: Capital Punishment

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent representations he has made to the Chinese Government on its use of the death penalty. [168906]

Meg Munn: We regularly raise the death penalty with the Chinese government. We welcome the return of authority to the Supreme People's Court to review all death penalty sentences from 1 January 2008. We continue to urge China to adopt transparency on death penalty statistics and to reduce the scope of the death penalty in order to comply with Article 6 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (ICCPR). During his visit to China in August my noble Friend the Minister for Africa, Asia and the UN, the right hon. Lord Malloch-Brown, urged China to ratify the ICCPR as soon as possible. The Director of Public Prosecutions also raised ICCPR and China's criminal justice system when he visited Beijing in September. The death penalty was discussed at the most recent round of the EU-China Human Rights Dialogue, held in Beijing on 17 October 2007, and also at the last round of the UK-China Human Rights Dialogue, held in London on 5 February 2007.

China: Human Rights

Mr. David Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations his Department has made to the authorities of the People's Republic of China on the (a) continued detention and (b) nationality of Yoo Sang-joon. [166854]

Meg Munn: We are aware that Yoo Sang-joon is facing a criminal trial in Inner Mongolia for actions which appear to have been motivated by humanitarian concerns. We have not raised this case with the Chinese authorities. Mr. Yoo is a naturalised South Korean, whose nationality is recognised by the Chinese. He has received South Korean consular visits and we understand a South Korean consul will attend his trial, scheduled for 26 November. We will continue to monitor this case.

CIC Material

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the Answer of 26 November 2007, Official Report, column 214W, on CIC material, for what reason his Department wished to protect the process used by John Williams; and what the public interest was in releasing the information. [169881]

Dr. Howells: It is important, as a matter of principle that the space in which all officials draft is protected. However, on further consideration we concluded that this principle would not be undermined in this case if the information in the redaction were released.

Cyprus

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what progress is being made towards demining in Cyprus by (a) the Republic of Cyprus, (b) Turkey and (c) Turkish Cypriots; and if he will make a statement. [163627]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The latest report of the UN Secretary-General in June 2006 indicated that Nicosia had been declared landmine-free. The UN Peacekeeping Force in Cyprus (UNFICYP), on behalf of the Mine Action Centre, has been continuing discussions to identify additional mined areas and to agree on terms for their clearance. From the inception of the programme in October 2004, over 2.2 million square metres of land have been released, with 25 minefields cleared and 2,816 mines destroyed (1,320 anti-personnel and 1,496 anti-tank). 323,153 square metres of land have been released through survey activities since the last UNFICYP report. In December 2006, the EU confirmed, that an additional €4 million would be made available for Mine Action, bringing the total amount of EU funding to €9 million.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has made to (a) Turkey and (b) Turkish Cypriots on the return of Famagusta/Varosha; and if he will make a statement. [163796]

Mr. Jim Murphy: Over the years, Famagusta and the port of Famagusta have been the subject of a series of proposals for confidence building measures. A 2004 proposal from the Government of Cyprus linked preferential Turkish Cypriot trade with the EU through the port of Famagusta with the return of the closed city of Varosha. Although it has not been possible to agree a confidence building measure involving Varosha, we continue to encourage the parties to think creatively about all such symbolic aspects of the Cyprus problem. If it does not prove possible to address Varosha in isolation, it will undoubtedly have to be addressed as part of a comprehensive settlement.

Ministers and officials from the Foreign and Commonwealth Office hold discussions with their Turkish counterparts and Turkish Cypriot community leaders on a range of issues relating to the current situation in Cyprus, including the issues relating to the return of Famagusta/Varosha. Ultimately, we believe that the ongoing division of the island, and the issues attached to it, can only be resolved through a comprehensive settlement brokered by the UN. We continue to urge both sides to show the political will and flexibility to bridge the gap between words and deeds, and to engage constructively with the UN's efforts to broker a comprehensive and durable settlement.

Ms Abbott: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the effects of the Strategic Partnership Agreement between the UK and Turkey on existing processes aimed at resolving the current situation in Cyprus; and whether he has received representations from other EU member states on the matter. [165933]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The UK/Turkey Strategic Partnership (formerly UK/ Turkey Action Plan) is a formalised dialogue that has existed between the UK and Turkey since 2004.

The UK/Turkey Agreement reflects our longstanding commitment to helping secure a lasting settlement of the Cyprus problem. We continue to support wholeheartedly the 8 July 2006 agreement between the two leaders. In support, the UK/Turkey Strategic Partnership includes a section reiterating longstanding commitments to bring the Turkish Cypriot community closer to Europe, which we believe will facilitate any future Cypriot settlement agreement by reducing economic disparities and putting market forces at the service of a settlement.

Both Greece and the Republic of Cyprus have made representations over the Agreement. Dialogue with both the Republic of Cyprus and Greece show that, while we share the same strategic objective of reunifying Cyprus, there are honestly held differences of opinion on how to achieve this. We continue to discuss all such differences of opinion, with the ultimate objective of achieving a Cyprus settlement acceptable to all Cypriots. The UK shares many vital interests with both countries, and its bilateral relations with both countries remain, as ever, very important.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the factors affecting the use of telecommunications across the green line in Cyprus. [163220]

Mr. Jim Murphy: It is clear that the separate telecommunications systems that exist on either side of the green line inhibit cost-effective communication between north and south. The Government would welcome any initiatives that would enhance communication between the two communities.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent assessment he has made of (a) the scale of cross-green line trade and (b) obstacles to growth of cross-green line trade in Cyprus; and if he will make a statement. [163221]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The European Commission's 2007 report on the green line regulation (GLR), available at:

http://eur-lex.europa.eu/LexUriServ/site/en/com/2007/com2007_0553en01.pdf

sets out in detail the scale of green line trade, and existing obstacles. In the period May 2006 to April 2007 the value of goods traded across the green line was €3,380,805, compared to a figure of €1,734,770 in the previous reporting period.

Some of the obstacles cited in the report include the limited type and value of goods permitted under the GLR and political pressure to prevent the development of trade. We would support measures to expand the GLR, thereby putting market forces at the service of a comprehensive settlement.

Dalits: Human Rights

Rob Marris: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will urge the European Union to raise the human rights situation of Dalits during the next round of the ad hoc EU-India human rights dialogue; and if he will make a statement. [164695]

Meg Munn [holding answer 29 November 2007]: We continue to play an active role in the regular EU-India human rights dialogue.

Under the UK presidency of the EU in 2005, the EU held a first human rights dialogue with India. The discussions covered a range of issues relating to minorities, including the Dalits, and minority rights. We continued discussions in last year's human rights dialogue. Discussions among EU partners are currently under way on what human rights issues should feature on the agenda for the next human rights dialogue, although a date for the dialogue has not yet been agreed. The UK will continue to work with the EU on a range of issues relating to minorities and their rights, including the Dalits.

Departmental Computers

Mr. Gauke: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many of his Department's (a) computers and (b) laptops have been stolen in 2007; and what the value of those items was. [168600]

Meg Munn: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Departmental Data Protection

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what reviews have been undertaken of his Department's rules on data protection in the last two years; if he will place in the Library a copy of the report of the last review of his Department's compliance with data protection laws; and if (a) his Department and (b) his Department's agencies will undertake a review of their compliance with data protection laws. [168088]

Meg Munn: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs on how many occasions in (a) his Department and (b) its agencies confidential data have been downloaded on to compact discs (i) without and (ii) with encryption in the last 12 month period for which figures are available; how many of those discs have been posted without using recorded or registered delivery; what procedures his Department has in place for the (A) transport, (B) exchange and (C) delivery of confidential or sensitive data; what records are kept of information held by his Department being sent outside the Department; what changes have been made to his Department's rules and procedures on data protection in the last two years; on how many occasions his Department's procedures and rules on data protection have been breached in the last five years; what those breaches were; what procedures his Department has in place on downloading confidential data on to computer discs before its transfer; what technical protections there are in his Department's computer systems to prevent access to information held on those systems which is not in accordance with departmental procedures; and if he will place in the Library a copy of each of his Department's rules and procedures on the protection of confidential data on individuals, businesses and other organisations. [168254]

Meg Munn: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many employees of each grade in his Department (a) have access to confidential or sensitive data and (b) are authorised to download such data to disk; how many of his Department's employees have undergone data protection training in the last 12 months; what the average length of time is that each employee of (i) his Department and (ii) his Department's agencies has spent on data protection training; how many investigations of employees of his Department for improperly accessing confidential information have taken place in the last 12 months; how many such investigations resulted in cases of disciplinary action; and what the circumstances of each of those cases were. [168274]

Meg Munn: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what procedures are in place in his Department to ensure that personal information relating to members of the public is (a) stored and (b) transported securely. [168476]

Meg Munn: I refer my right hon. Friend to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs on how many occasions the Information Commissioner was contacted by his Department to report breaches of data protection security in each of the last five years. [168814]

Meg Munn: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many breaches of data protection security there were in his Department or his Department's Agencies in each of the last five years; and if he will provide details of each breach. [168840]

Meg Munn: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Departmental ICT

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many attempted hacking or suspected cyber attacks or other malicious computer security breaches were committed against his Department's computer systems in each of the last three years for which information is available; and if he will make a statement. [167984]

Meg Munn: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Mr. Walker: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether his Department's information technology and data management systems are BS7799 compliant. [168748]

Meg Munn: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Departmental Land

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what land surplus to his Department's requirements it is (a) selling, (b) leasing and (c) intending to (i) sell and (ii) lease; and what the size and name of each relevant site is. [168856]

Meg Munn: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office is in the process of selling 0.9 acres of land in Tallinn, Estonia. We keep the estate under constant review and are preparing to sell 1.7 acres of land in Yaounde, Cameroon and 1.8 acres of land in Skopje, Macedonia. We are not currently offering any land to lease, and have no plans to do so.

Diplomatic Services: Children

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how much was spent on (a) travel, (b) school fees and (c) other costs in respect of the education in the UK of children of his Department's staff in overseas posts in each of the last five years, broken down by school; what the criteria are for eligibility for this facility; how many (i) children and (ii) members of staff it applied to in each such year; and if he will make a statement. [168451]

Meg Munn: It is a condition of their employment that members of the diplomatic service must be prepared to serve anywhere in the world at any time during their career, sometimes at very short notice. Those with children also have a legal obligation as parents to ensure that their children receive a full-time education from the age of five years. The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) helps staff meet these potentially conflicting obligations by providing financial support for their children's education in the UK (or overseas, where free state schooling in English is not available locally).

With staff and families having to move at regular intervals, sometimes at times which may disrupt schooling for their children, and education facilities at posts overseas varying, continuity of education can prove problematic particularly during the important exam years. The FCO addresses this problem by providing a continuity of education allowance to enable children to board at schools in the UK, while their parents remain subject to the world-wide mobility obligation.

The amounts we have spent each year on financial support for the costs of private education in the UK and travel for visits by children to their parents during school holidays are set out in the following table. We have also listed the number of staff in receipt of the allowance (where known) and the number of children who have benefited.

Children covered by the allowance currently attend 180 different schools in the UK. We are not able to break the figures down by individual school without incurring disproportionate cost.

| | [1]Continuity of education allowance (£ million) | Travel by children at boarding schools (£) | Number of children covered | Number of staff |

Entry Clearances: Foreign Workers

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he plans to review the efficacy of the outsourcing of visa applications to commercial organisations on a regular basis over the next 12 months; and if he will make a statement. [168767]

Dr. Howells: The contract to outsource the visa application process to Commercial Partners, which was signed on 27 February 2007, is regularly reviewed at various levels of detail.

Our Commercial Partners—Computer Sciences Corporation and VFS Global are reviewed on a monthly basis against a core set of service levels which monitor performance against key service delivery criteria. There is an annual review of Commercial Partner performance and a governance structure which monitors performance. Issues and risks are escalated at a local, country, regional and central level to a number of formal review mechanisms. There are also formal review bodies attended by senior representatives from the Commercial Partner organisations and UKvisas. The Project Executive Committee meets on a monthly basis and focuses on monitoring key performance indicators. The Partnership Board meets on a quarterly basis and is responsible for taking key strategic decisions and managing the business relationship.

EU Reform: Treaties

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has (a) made and (b) received on the normal period of office of the President of the European Council envisaged in the draft EU Reform Treaty; and if he will make a statement. [166987]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The Government support a full-time President of the European Council to replace the current system where the President of the European Council changes every six months. The President of the European Council will take office for a term of two and a half years, renewable once. He or she will be chosen by heads of state and government and will be accountable to them. Having a full-time chair of the European Council will bring greater coherence and consistency to the EU's action, and will give member states greater capacity to give direction and momentum to the EU's agenda.

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has (a) made and (b) received on the proposed responsibilities, duties and powers of the President of the European Council envisaged in the draft EU Reform Treaty; and if he will make a statement. [166988]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The Government support a full-time President of the European Council to replace the current system where the President of the European Council changes every six months. Having a full-time chair of the European Council will bring greater coherence and consistency to the EU's actions; and will give member states greater capacity to give direction and momentum to the EU's agenda.

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has (a) made and (b) received on the procedure for nomination of the President of the European Council envisaged in the draft EU Reform Treaty; and if he will make a statement. [166989]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The Government support a full-time President of the European Council, who will replace the current President of the European Council, who changes every six months. He or she will be chosen by Heads of State and Government by qualified majority, and will be accountable to them. Having a full-time chair of the European Council will bring greater coherence and consistency to the EU's actions; and will give member states greater capacity to give direction and momentum to the EU's agenda.

Group of Eight: HIV Infection

Mark Pritchard: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will hold discussions with his counterpart in Japan to ensure that HIV/AIDS is included on the Japanese agenda for the forthcoming G8 Summit. [166845]

Meg Munn: The agenda for the G8 is the prerogative of the presidency and Japan has already indicated that development, including health, will be one of their priorities for next year's summit. In a recent telephone call, my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary and the Japanese Foreign Minister discussed the G8 agenda. The UK will continue to work closely with Japan on the G8 agenda in the run up to the Toyako summit in 2008.

Haider Samad

Mr. Holloway: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (1) what representations he has received on the case of Haider Samad; and if he will make a statement. [164480]

(2) what discussions officials in his Department have had with officials in the Ministry of Defence on the case of Haider Samad. [164481]

Meg Munn: The hon. Member has received a briefing on this issue from a Foreign and Commonwealth Office official.

Iran: Nuclear Weapons

Mr. Andrew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations the Government have made to the (a) United Nations and (b) United States in support of a diplomatic resolution of tensions with Iran over its nuclear programme. [169584]

Meg Munn: The Government have played a leading role in securing three United Nations Security Council Resolutions which make clear that the international community is seeking a negotiated solution to the Iranian nuclear issue. My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary discusses this issue regularly with the US Secretary of State, and the US is also part of the E3+3 group of countries that meets regularly to co-ordinate our approach. We, the US and the other members of the E3+3 are fully committed to a diplomatic resolution to this matter.

Mr. Andrew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent diplomatic steps the Government have taken to resolve the question of Iran's nuclear programme. [169585]

Dr. Howells: The UK continues to play a leading role in the international effort to address strong concerns about the Iranian nuclear programme. When my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary met the Foreign Ministers of the other E3+3 countries (France, Germany, US, Russia, China) and Javier Solana in New York on 28 September they agreed that they would seek a vote on a UN Security Council sanctions resolution, unless both Javier Solana and Mohammad El Baradei reported "positive outcomes" from their contacts with the Iranians in November. Dr. El Baradei's report on 15 November noted that the International Atomic Energy Agency's visibility of Iran's nuclear programme was 'diminishing'—this cannot be considered a positive report. Javier Solana also reported negatively—he said that his meeting with Saeed Jalili was 'disappointing'. E3+3 Political Directors met in Paris on 1 December. They agreed to work up a new UN Security Council sanctions resolution. Beyond the UN process, my right hon. Friend also discussed the matter with EU Foreign Ministers at the General Affairs and External Relations Council in Luxembourg on 15 October and they agreed to examine further measures the EU could take. Consideration of this issue continues.

Iraq Neighbours Conference

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs on how many occasions the working groups on (a) energy, (b) security and (c) refugees have met since their establishment under the Iraq Neighbours Conference; and what progress has been achieved by each. [168555]

David Miliband: Each of the working groups has met once.

The Energy Working Group met in Istanbul on 28-29 June and agreed to exchanges of information on energy issues and to provide technical assistance and support for the oil, gas and electricity sectors.

The Refugee and Displaced Persons Working Group met in Amman on 26 July and agreed to support the efforts of the Government of Iraq to improve the humanitarian and security situation to accelerate the return of displaced Iraqis. There was also discussion of health care provisions in the host countries.

The Security Working Group met in Damascus on 8-9 August and agreed to continue efforts to combat terrorist groups and those supporting them, in particular by cutting off financing and activating existing bilateral security agreements.

We hope that the ministerial meeting held in Istanbul on 2-3 November, together with the decision to establish a permanent support mechanism for the Neighbours process, will add further impetus to the process and allow the working groups to build on their welcome initial progress.

Japan: Whales

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent representations he has made to the Government of Japan about (a) the hunting of endangered whales and (b) whaling claimed to be scientific; and if he will make a statement. [168508]

Meg Munn: The Government are deeply concerned at the latest Japanese proposals which include plans to take 50 of the endangered species of Humpback whales. In response, we are considering a high level diplomatic protest to the Japanese Government, following consultation with like-minded anti-whaling countries. In the meantime, the Foreign and Commonwealth Office has conveyed the UK's concerns at an official level in both London and Tokyo.

Kosovo

Mr. Francois: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the effect on the stability of the Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia of a declaration of Kosovan independence. [170415]

Mr. Jim Murphy: Macedonia's political stability is underpinned by the Ohrid Framework Agreement which provides for far-reaching and comprehensive rights and safeguards for the country's minority communities.

Macedonia is making good progress towards eventual EU and North Atlantic Treaty Organisation membership. We are confident this will be maintained.

The Government of Macedonia has consistently made clear its view that its interests—and those of the region as a whole—are best served by swift resolution of the Kosovo status issue.

Mr. Francois: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of whether any settlement on the final status of Kosovo will secure the backing of the UN Security Council. [170779]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The UN Secretary-General and the Contact Group as a whole agree that the status quo in Kosovo is unsustainable and that a solution has to be found without further delay. In keeping with this spirit, we hope all members of the UN Security Council will engage constructively in international efforts to bring the process through to successful completion.

Kosovo: Peace Negotiations

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what reports he has received on the Prime Minister of Serbia's comments on the Dayton peace agreement and UN Security Council Resolution 1244 on Kosovo. [168383]

David Miliband: We do not agree with Prime Minister Kostunica's recent statements on Bosnia and Herzegovina which called on the High Representative to withdraw his recent measures or resign, drew parallels with the situation in Kosovo and suggested efforts were being made to undermine the Dayton Peace Accords in Bosnia and Security Council Resolution 1244 in Kosovo. We have made our concerns clear to the Serb Government.

We hope Serbia will work to help ease recent tensions in Bosnia and Herzegovina. The UK fully supports High Representative Lajcak, whose authority derives from Dayton. We call on all parties to comply with the High Representative's decisions as they are obliged to do under the Dayton Accords.

Middle East: Peace Negotiations

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 15 November 2007, Official Report, column 392W, on Middle East: peace negotiations, what rank or grade is held by the seconded civil servants to Mr. Blair's office; what their combined salary and expenses costs have been; from what budget these costs are being drawn; what financial and logistical contributions have been made by (a) the United States of America, (b) Russia and (c) the European Union to the United Nations Development Programme Trust Fund to support the work of Mr. Blair and his office; and if he will make a statement. [168454]

David Miliband [holding answer 3 December 2007]: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) has seconded: one executive officer equivalent; one higher executive officer equivalent; and one senior civil servant equivalent to work in the right hon. Tony Blair's office. The FCO is funding their salaries. It would not be appropriate to give salary details as to do so could reveal individuals' salaries.

We do not have figures available for each member of the quartet's (US, EU, UN and Russia) contribution to the work of the right hon. Tony Blair as quartet representative.

We strongly support the work of the right hon. Tony Blair. He is exceptionally well placed to take on this role. His work will be key in delivering a future Palestinian state with strong institutions and a robust economy.

National Technical Assistance Centre: Children

Sir Paul Beresford: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (1) how many cases referred to the National Technical Assistance Centre since its inception have been child protection inquiries, broken down by the referring police force; [168800]

(2) pursuant to the Answer of 12 November 2007, Official Report, columns 759-61W, on National Technical Assistance Centre, how many cases referred to the National Technical Assistance Centre, since its inception, have related to child protection. [168806]

David Miliband [holding answer 27 November 2007]: The National Technical Assistance Centre was formally transferred from the Home Office to Government Communications Headquarters in April 2006. It is the long-standing policy of the Government not to comment on intelligence matters, including the work of the Intelligence Agencies.

Northern Cyprus: Economic Situation

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what action he is taking to ensure that economic development in the north of Cyprus proceeds with a view to integration and convergence with the economy in the south; and if he will make a statement. [163797]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The UK fully supports the efforts to place market forces at the service of a settlement. We continue to support the efforts of the Commission and successive presidencies to promote the economic integration of the Turkish Cypriot community with the Greek Cypriot community and the rest of the EU. We are disappointed by the lack of progress in this area.

Northern Cyprus: Electrification

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the account taken by Turkish Cypriots of the EC environmental assessment on the Karpas electrification project; and if he will make a statement. [163795]

Mr. Jim Murphy: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer I gave him today (UIN 163793).

Northern Cyprus: Industrial Development

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has made to the Turkish Cypriots on the development of the Karpas region with particular reference to (a) the electrification project and (b) the hotel and tourism building programme; and if he will make a statement. [163793]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The UK has supported the European Commission's recommendations regarding the protection of the Karpas region, including through the establishment of a properly regulated conservation area. We have urged the Turkish Cypriot leadership to take steps to ensure that the fragile environment of the Karpas is protected from uncontrolled development.

Northern Cyprus: Islam

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the implications of the dismissal in 2006 of imans in northern Cyprus and their replacement with imans from Turkey; and if he will make a statement. [163798]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The Government have not made any assessment. We understand that the Turkish Cypriot decision to appoint imams from Turkey was taken in order to cover shortfalls in northern Cyprus.

Northern Cyprus: Smuggling

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the risk of smuggling (a) people and (b) narcotics from Syria to Northern Cyprus and into the EU through the green line, with particular reference to the new ferry service from Syria to Famagusta; and if he will make a statement. [163794]

Mr. Jim Murphy: In the Green Line Regulation report, October 2007, the EU Commission reported that there are large numbers of illegal immigrants who enter into the EU via the Green Line every year.

The UK is concerned about the risk of people and narcotics smuggling to north Cyprus, and through the Green Line. We have sought to build the capacity of the Turkish Cypriot community to counter these threats to Cyprus and the EU, by whatever route they arrive.

Nuclear Disarmament

Mark Lazarowicz: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what progress has been made towards the achievement of the 13 practical steps towards nuclear disarmament agreed at the NPT Review Conference in 2000; and if he will make a statement. [168609]

Dr. Howells: The UK is fulfilling all its obligations under the treaty on the non-proliferation of nuclear weapons (NPT), including those on disarmament under article VI of the treaty. We continue to support the relevant disarmament measures contained in the Final Document from the NPT Review Conference in 2000, including the 13 practical steps towards disarmament, and we have a good record on meeting the priorities they set out. Not all the 13 steps are relevant to the UK, such as those relating to bilateral measures between the US and Russia. However, we have made progress on the majority of those that are. The 2006 White Paper on the future of the UK nuclear deterrent committed us to a further 20 per cent. reduction in our stockpile of operationally available warheads and my right hon. Friend the then Foreign Secretary (Margaret Beckett) announced on 25 June, at the Carnegie Institute, further work on the development of expertise in methods and techniques to verify the reduction and elimination of nuclear weapons. We continue to call for the entry into force of the comprehensive test ban treaty as soon as possible and, pending its entry into force, maintain a moratorium on nuclear weapons test explosions and any other nuclear explosions. The UK is also pressing for the immediate commencement of negotiations on a fissile material cut-off treaty, without pre-conditions, at the Conference on Disarmament in Geneva.

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs for what reason the UK voted against the resolution on reducing nuclear danger in the United Nations First Committee on Disarmament on 17 October 2003. [170784]

Meg Munn: The resolution on "Reducing Nuclear Danger" at the United Nations First Committee on Disarmament on 17 October 2007 contains a number of elements that the United Kingdom does not support. These include assertions on the alert status of nuclear weapons that we do not accept. Our reasoning is explained in an 'Explanation of Vote' (EoV) on the resolution at the same Committee on "Nuclear De-Alerting". A copy of the EoV will be placed in the Library of the House.

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether the Government supports proposals to de-alert nuclear weapons world-wide. [170785]

Dr. Howells: The United Kingdom has already taken steps to reduce the alert status of our nuclear deterrent. We also note the statements made by nuclear weapon states regarding the de-targeting and de-alerting of their nuclear forces. As we made clear in our Explanation of Vote on the Resolution on "nuclear de-alerting" in the United Nations First Committee on Disarmament on 17 October 2007, we do not accept that the world is at risk due to large numbers of nuclear weapons at dangerously high levels of alert.

Nuclear Weapons

Mark Lazarowicz: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps the Government plan to take in the next six months to encourage the governments of Russia and the USA to remove their nuclear missiles from hair-trigger-alert. [168608]

Mr. Jim Murphy: There is no internationally agreed definition of the term 'hair-trigger-alert', and it is not a term the UK uses. The Permanent Representative of the United States to the Conference on Disarmament recently stated that:

"US nuclear forces are not and have never been on 'hair-trigger-alert'".

We have no indication that Russia considers any of its nuclear forces to be on 'hair-trigger-alert'.

Pakistan: Blasphemy

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has made to the Government of Pakistan on the blasphemy trial of Qamar David in Karachi. [168069]

Dr. Howells: We are aware of the case of Qamar David, but we do not raise every individual blasphemy case and we have not made any representations on this case to the Government of Pakistan. However, we regularly raise our concerns about blasphemy legislation and its effects on minority groups with the Government of Pakistan, both bilaterally and with our EU partners, and will continue to do so.

Peacekeeping Operations: Private Sector

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what mechanisms his Department has in place to assess the costs and benefits of the services provided to the Government by private military security companies; and if he will make a statement. [168455]

David Miliband [holding answer 3 December 2007]: Costs and benefits of Private Military and Security Company (PMSC) services, as with all contractor services, are assessed during the tendering process of a contract, during the contract's lifetime and on completion of that contract.

The Government ensure that all contracts are subject to a rigorous selection process so that we obtain best value for money. Any company engaged by the Government needs to pass through a stringent and transparent procurement process in line with public procurement guidelines and best practice.

All PMSC contracts are subject to ongoing performance monitoring and contract management by the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) and other Government Departments concerned, both in country on-the-ground and from the UK, in respect of all aspects of the delivery and operation of these contracts. FCO monitors performance by a mixture of key performance indicators, regular visits by overseas security advisors to FCO posts who review and report on the PMSCs' performance, regular review meetings in London with PMSCs, and monitoring expenditure against a fully profiled budget.

In addition, the FCO reviews requirements on completion of the contract and prior to re-tendering in order to highlight any improvements that could be made as a result of experience or lessons learned.

Somalia: Armed Conflict

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what proposals the UK has put forward for protecting civilians caught in the fighting between insurgents and the allied Ethiopian and government troops in Somalia. [167205]

Meg Munn: The Government attach great importance to the protection of civilians. In Somalia, the current insurgency attacks tend to be indiscriminate and therefore unfortunately do sometimes involve civilian casualties. We urge the Transitional Federal government of Somalia and the government of Ethiopia to ensure their response to counter this threat is always proportionate and seeks to minimise civilian casualties.

The UK strategy for handling Somalia in the long-term aims to bring peace and stability to the country. This includes supporting the transitional political process, supporting the African Union Mission in Somalia and contributing to the UN Rule of Law programme, which provides training for a civilian police force.

Somalia: Politics and Government

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent assessment the Government have made of the potential effects on the Transitional Federal Government of Somalia of insurgency activity in the country. [167159]

Meg Munn: The Government assess that insurgent attacks in Somalia continue to damage the hopes and prospects of ordinary Somalis. Along with our international partners, we are committed to assisting the Transitional Federal Government and institutions to rebuild Somalia through the process envisaged in the Transitional Federal Charter. We hope that the insurgents will see that an inclusive political process is the only way that a successful transition can be delivered and cease to use violence in pursuit of their aims.

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps the Government are taking along with their EU partners to assist the Transitional Federal Government of Somalia to tackle insurgent activity. [167180]

Meg Munn: The Government are supporting the efforts of the Transitional Federal Government (TFG) to tackle the insurgency. The UK, with our EU partners, provides a range of security assistance programmes to the TFG to give it a greater capacity to tackle insurgency in the long term.

This includes support for the African Union Mission to Somalia deployment. The UK and EU partners have provided more than €30 million to support the mission. The UK and EU partners also support the UN Rule of Law programme that trains Somalian civilian police officers.

Sudan: Armed Conflict

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs with reference to the answer to the right hon. Member for Richmond of 21 June 2007, Official Report, column 2214W, on Sudan: armed conflict, what progress has been made in considering the measures to improve air monitoring in Darfur; and what further steps the Government are taking with its international partners on this matter. [168730]

Meg Munn: We are working with the Department of Peacekeeping Operations, the African Union (AU), the government of Sudan and international partners for the prompt deployment of an effective UN-AU Mission in Darfur (UNAMID) force to improve stability and security in Darfur. This has been the priority since UN Security Council Resolution 1769 was passed on 31 July mandating the UNAMID force. Among other activities, we hope that UNAMID will improve monitoring of military activity in the region.

We welcome the recent cessation of hostilities that the government of Sudan announced at the start of peace talks on 27 October. We are pressing all parties to sign up to a cessation of hostilities with immediate effect and to engage on the peace process.

Sudan: Blasphemy

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has made to the Government of Sudan following the arrest of the British primary school teacher Gillian Gibbons in Sudan on 26 November. [169633]

Meg Munn: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary summoned the Sudanese ambassador twice on 29 November to express our concerns in Ms Gibbons' case. He also spoke to the Sudanese Deputy Foreign Minister on 29 November and 1 December.

Sudan: Peace Negotiations

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what contributions the Government are making to the Darfur-Darfur Dialogue and Consultation. [168167]

Meg Munn: The UK is filling five key posts in the Darfur-Darfur Dialogue and Consultation (DDDC) which will be the main mechanism for civil society engagement in the African Union/United Nations-led Darfur Political Process and in longer-term reconciliation and rehabilitation in Darfur. These posts, which consist of a Chief of Operations, a Communication Officer and three Field Co-ordinators, will strengthen existing capacity and ensure that the DDDC can deliver a comprehensive and scaled-up plan for taking forward civil society engagement.

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps his Department is taking to ensure that Arab communities are represented in the African Union-UN led Darfur peace process. [168168]

Meg Munn: The UK has committed £1 million to support the Darfur Political Process, led by the African Union (AU) and UN. We have made clear to the AU and UN that effective consultation with Arab communities is essential for an inclusive process.

The UK has committed over £2 million since July 2006, to support the AU in communicating the benefits of the Darfur Peace Agreement and the current political process to the people of Darfur. As part of this support, the AU will work with the Darfur-Darfur Dialogue and Consultation (DDDC) to hold a conference for Darfurian Arabs in early December. This will address concerns of the Arab tribes and further their engagement in the political process through the DDDC, which will be the main mechanism for civil society engagement in the political process and in longer-term reconciliation and rehabilitation in Darfur.

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the likelihood of substantial progress being made in the December peace process talks for Darfur. [168729]

Meg Munn: The start of the Darfur political talks in Libya on 27 October and the announcement of a cessation of hostilities by the government of Sudan were welcome steps towards ending the conflict in Darfur. The UK is currently supporting the African Union and United Nations in encouraging the rebel movements to unify further and agree on common platforms. Good progress has already been made, particularly among the rebel groups based in Juba. We hope to see further, significant progress in rebel preparedness for negotiations during December. Only a political process can provide a sustainable solution to the Darfur conflict.

Sudan: Peacekeeping Operations

Mr. Andrew Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assistance the Government (a) have offered and (b) plan to offer to the UN-African Union force in Darfur, Sudan. [169199]

Meg Munn [holding answer 29 November 2007]: We are providing advice and support through a Brigadier who has deployed as Chief of Staff for the UN-African Union (AU) force in Darfur (UNAMID) and through UK military staff in the Department of Peacekeeping Operations in New York. We are supporting the Department of Peacekeeping Operations in calling on countries to provide helicopters and ground transportation for UNAMID. We continue to contribute towards troop rotations for the AU Mission in Sudan, which will become part of the UNAMID force. Financial support to the UNAMID mission will be through assessed contributions to the UN.

Mr. Andrew Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions he has had with the Secretary General of the UN on the situation in Darfur. [169200]

Meg Munn [holding answer 29 November 2007]: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary has discussed Darfur several times with the UN Secretary-General, including by telephone on 11 September and at the UN General Assembly in New York on 28 September.

Mr. Andrew Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has made to the Government of Sudan on the establishment, funding, staffing and equipping of the UN-African Union force in Darfur, Sudan. [169205]

Meg Munn [holding answer 29 November 2007]: We have repeatedly pressed the Government of Sudan not to obstruct a prompt and effective deployment of the UN-African Union (AU) hybrid peacekeeping force in Darfur (UNAMID) and to accept the force composition agreed by the UN and the AU.

Responsibility for the generation, staffing and equipping of the force lies with the UN Department for Peacekeeping Operations, in consultation with the AU. We are working closely with the Department for Peacekeeping Operations in calling on countries to provide helicopters and ground transportation for UNAMID.

Funding for UNAMID will be through assessed contributions to the UN.

Torture

Dr. Starkey: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what safeguards have been included in (a) UK and (b) EU agreements on sharing intelligence with countries that permit torture and corporal punishment within domestic law to exclude any information obtained by torture as defined in international law. [168623]

David Miliband: Torture is one of the most abhorrent violations of human rights and human dignity, and its use is absolutely prohibited under international law. We unreservedly condemn the use of torture and have made it an important part of our foreign policy to pursue its eradication world-wide. Where we are helping other countries to develop their own counter-terrorism capability, we ensure our training or other assistance promotes human rights compliance.

The Government, including the Intelligence and Security Agencies, never use torture for any purpose, nor would we instigate others to do so. Our rejection of the use of torture is well known by our partners and our intelligence agencies routinely seek assurances from foreign liaison services on humane treatment of detainees.

Turkey: EU Enlargement

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of levels of support for EU accession among (a) the people of Turkey and (b) of Turkish Cypriots; and if he will make a statement. [163284]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The UK believes that strong popular support is key to the success of enlargement and fully supports initiatives ensuring that citizens better understand the process of enlargement. The UK notes that the most recent Eurobarometer Report (April to May 2007), found that 57 per cent. of Turks polled replied that EU membership would be a good thing. The UK has not conducted an independent assessment of levels of support for EU accession among Turkish Cypriots. However, our contacts with a range of Turkish Cypriot interlocutors and recent polls indicate that support for EU accession is waning. This underlines the need for the speedy implementation of the UN's 8 July 2006 Agreement leading to a just, comprehensive and durable settlement of benefit to all Cypriots, as well as the implementation of the EU Commission's projects which will improve the quality of life of ordinary Turkish Cypriots and bring them closer to the EU.

Uganda: Peace Negotiations

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent assessment he has made of the (a) position adopted by the leadership of the Lord's Resistance Army and (b) effect of this position on the peace talks being held with the Government of Uganda in Juba. [168068]

Meg Munn: The leadership of the Lord's Resistance Army (LRA) remains publicly supportive of the Juba peace talks. The Government welcome the current consultations being carried out in northern Uganda between the victims of the conflict and the LRA negotiating team. We are hopeful that a deal can be concluded early in 2008, but recognise that several difficult issues still need to be resolved.

We have seen recent reports of a split in the LRA leadership, but these have yet to be confirmed. This has not had a negative impact on the peace process so far.

Whales: Conservation

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his strategy is for (a) increasing the UK's anti-whaling efforts, (b) recruiting more pro-conservation countries to the International Whaling Commission (IWC) and (c) encouraging IWC members who have voted with Japan in the past to use their votes for whale conservation. [168497]

Meg Munn: The UK plays a prominent role in building and maintaining the coalition of anti-whaling countries within the International Whaling Commission (IWC). In advance of the 2007 annual meeting in Anchorage, the UK and its like-minded allies recruited a further six countries into the IWC, with the net result that the pro-whaling majority in that organisation was overturned. In a further response to UK lobbying efforts, several other countries have indicated willingness to support our opposition to Japanese whaling and to join the IWC in time for next year's annual meeting.

British embassies and missions will shortly deliver to certain governments an updated version of the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs publication "Protecting Whales—A Global Responsibility" as part of a lobbying campaign to encourage more countries to join the IWC, to strengthen further the global opposition to commercial whaling.

UK diplomatic posts in all the relevant capitals are briefed, and engage in discussion with their counterparts on whaling at every appropriate opportunity. The UK, together with its like-minded allies, lobbies the governments of the countries that vote with Japan at the International Whaling Convention to ensure that they are in no doubt as to the importance we attach to whale conservation.

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his definition of scientific whaling is; what definition the Japanese Government uses of scientific whaling; and if he will make a statement. [168503]

Meg Munn: The UK believes that any scientific whaling should be confined to non-lethal research, and should be undertaken only if relevant proposals have been approved by the Scientific Committee of the International Whaling Commission (IWC).

The right of member states to issue permits for the killing of whales for scientific purposes is enshrined in article VIII of the 1946 International Convention for the Regulation of Whaling, the IWC's parent treaty. However, 'Scientific purposes' are not defined by the Convention. Furthermore, we doubt that the authors of the Convention anticipated that parties would undertake research on the scale now practised by Japan.

Contrary to Japan's claims, its research programmes have not met with universal support or acclaim from the IWC Scientific Committee. That committee has not endorsed this research and has expressed many reservations.

Japan says its scientific whaling programmes are essential to understand better whale populations and the ecosystems in which they reside. They state that a range of information is needed for the management and conservation of whales, such as population, age structure, growth rates, reproductive rates, feeding—and that this can only be obtained through lethal research.

The UK has consistently voiced its opposition to Japanese scientific whaling. Like most IWC members, the UK does not believe that scientific research can justify the large-scale killing of whales. In our view, Japan's research programmes are deeply flawed.

Yoo Sang-joon

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make representations to the Government of China in the case of Yoo Sang-joon, a North Korean on trial in China; with particular reference to the potential repatriation of Yoo Sang-joon to North Korea. [168715]

Meg Munn: I refer my hon. Friend to the reply I gave to the hon. Member for Clwyd, West (Mr. Jones) today (UIN 166854).

Tuesday 4 December 2007

TRANSPORT

Bus Services

11. Stephen Hesford: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what plans she has to improve local bus services. [170394]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Local and central Government are now providing £2.5 billion annually to support local bus services, double the level of support of 10 years ago. In addition, proposals in the Local Transport Bill will give local authorities increased flexibility and powers to work with bus operators to improve local bus services.

Crossrail

13. Mr. Slaughter: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment she has made of the implications of Crossrail for London's rail passengers. [170396]

Mr. Tom Harris: Crossrail will carry nearly 200 million passengers a year, increasing peak east-west capacity by 40 per cent. The project will relieve overcrowding and congestion on the existing National Rail and London Underground lines, helping to meet expected growth in demand for public transport and improving accessibility. Many east-west journey times will be significantly improved.

Railway Overcrowding

14. Mark Hunter: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent assessment she has made of levels of overcrowding on the rail network. [170397]

Mr. Tom Harris: Existing and future demand for rail travel was assessed in preparing the rail White Paper. It was that assessment, and the associated need to tackle existing and potential overcrowding, that led to the capacity enhancements specified in the White Paper.

Heathrow Airport

15. Mr. Robathan: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will make a statement on the future of Heathrow Airport. [170398]

Jim Fitzpatrick: My right hon. Friend announced the launch of the Government's consultation "Adding Capacity at Heathrow Airport" in her statement of 22 November. The consultation will run until 27 February. We expect to make final policy decisions later in 2008, taking account of all the available evidence, including the responses to the consultation.

23. Mr. Randall: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent representations she has received on the future of Heathrow Airport; and if she will make a statement. [170406]

Jim Fitzpatrick: We have received representations from a wide range of interests including environmental and business groups, local councillors and local residents' associations and expect to receive many more in response to the "Adding Capacity at Heathrow Airport" consultation launched by my right hon. Friend on 22 November.

Road Safety

16. Sarah McCarthy-Fry: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what plans she has to improve road safety in urban areas. [170399]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Road Casualties Great Britain 2006 shows a 33 per cent. reduction in the number of people killed and seriously injured in built-up areas from the 1994-98 baseline average. The Government's road safety strategy contains a range of initiatives to further reduce the number of accidents in both urban and rural areas.

Railways: Passenger Satisfaction

17. Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent assessment she has made of levels of passenger satisfaction with the railways; and if she will make a statement. [170400]

Mr. Tom Harris: The latest national survey shows that in spring 2007 around four out of five rail passengers were satisfied with the service they received.

Freight Transport

18. Kelvin Hopkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps she plans to take to implement her policy of seeking a substantial shift of freight traffic from road to rail. [170401]

Mr. Tom Harris: The Government provide grant funding for modal shift from road to rail and water through the Sustainable Distribution Fund. In addition: the rail White Paper announced £200 million of Network Rail investment until 2014 to assist in the creation of a Strategic Freight Network; and the Department is providing over £150 million of funding for specific rail freight projects through the Transport Innovation Fund.

Street Works

19. Mr. Spellar: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what progress is being made on reducing disruption and congestion caused by street works. [170402]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Department has made regulations for Permit Schemes under the Traffic Management Act 2004 and revised those for Registers, Notices, Directions and Designations. These come into force on 1 April 2008. Associated codes of practice have also been issued. "A Good Practice Guide to Managing Works in the Street" was launched in May 2007.

Railways: Accessibility

21. Martin Linton: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what progress her Department has made in improving the accessibility of the rail network for passengers with disabilities and those with reduced mobility. [170404]

Mr. Tom Harris: Under the Railways for All Programme we have so far announced 100 stations at which we expect Network Rail to provide a step-free route. We expect 25 of these to be substantially complete by 31 March 2008. Further stations will be included in the programme shortly.

Access improvements at more than 500 other stations have also been approved up to March 2008 under the Access for All Small Schemes programme with the results of the latest round of bids to be announced early next year.

Concessionary Bus Travel

22. Mr. Martlew: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many passengers she estimates will use the concessionary bus fares scheme. [170405]

Ms Rosie Winterton: From April next year around 11 million older and eligible disabled people resident in England will be entitled to at least free off-peak bus travel anywhere in England. In calculating the extra funding of £212 million we assumed an 85 per cent. uptake of passes, which we believe is a generous assumption.

Durham Tees Valley-Heathrow Route

24. Phil Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will make the air travel route between Durham Tees Valley Airport and Heathrow a public service obligation route. [170407]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Secretary of State will consider on its merits any application to impose a public service obligation on the Durham Tees Valley to Heathrow route. The Government's guidance on the protection of regional air access to London published in December 2005 sets out how we will interpret the criteria for imposing PSOs set out in European Regulations. It is for regional bodies in the north-east to apply for and make the economic case for a PSO.

Thameslink and Crossrail

25. Simon Hughes: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the projected timetable is for work in London to deliver Government commitments on Thameslink 2000 and Crossrail. [170408]

Mr. Tom Harris: The Thameslink Programme has already started on site and is scheduled to deliver substantial benefits to rail passengers by the end of 2015. In addition, some services will benefit from longer trains from the end of 2011.

Assuming Royal Assent to the Crossrail Bill in summer 2008, enabling works for Crossrail are scheduled to commence in 2009, with main construction works commencing in 2010. Operational trials will begin towards the end of 2016, in time for services to commence in 2017.

A14: Kettering

Mr. Hollobone: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport for what reasons the Highways Agency is seeking to restrict the access of local traffic to the A14 around Kettering. [171068]

Mr. Tom Harris: The Highways Agency is working with other parts of Government to secure the delivery of a substantial amount of housing in Northamptonshire in general and Kettering in particular. The A14 running just to the south of Kettering serves both long distance and local traffic and is currently operating under considerable stress.

A major improvement scheme is under consideration, but this will take time to deliver. In the meantime, the Highways Agency is looking into measures that could allow the new housing to get under way while maintaining the functionality of the important A14 route. This includes the prospect of ramp metering which is a technique where the amount of traffic joining the A14 is managed through the use of signals, accompanied by sensors, to regulate the system and prevent the build-up of traffic on the adjacent local road network.

The Highways Agency will continue to work closely with partners, in particular Northamptonshire county council, to develop proposals which balance the needs of the strategic and local highway network. However the overall strategy is not simply about concrete infrastructure. There are many measures, including those designed to secure modal shift that could be put in place to reduce to a minimum the amount of traffic generated by the new development. Northamptonshire county council's Transport Strategy for Growth provides a strong guide to what can be achieved.

Airports

Mr. Prisk: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether it is Government policy that development of a second runway at Stansted Airport should precede the development of a third runway at Heathrow Airport. [170299]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The 2003 "Future of Air Transport" White Paper supported two new runways in the South East by 2030, the first at Stansted. The Government's current consultation "Adding Capacity at Heathrow Airport" is consistent with that policy. Stansted Airport Limited expects to be in a position to submit a planning application around the turn of the year.

M1: Motorway Service Areas

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport for what reason the services adjacent to junction 22 of the M1 motorway are not signposted on the motorway; and if she will arrange for signage to be erected. [170514]

Mr. Tom Harris: All signing on motorways is carefully controlled. The Highways Agency does not generally provide signs for a service development less than 15 miles from an established motorway service area (MSA). There is a long-established, purpose built MSA at Leicester Forest East seven miles to the south, where access is directly from the motorway.

Motorways

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps her Department is taking to improve rainwater run-off on motorways; and if she will make a statement. [170515]

Mr. Tom Harris: The Highways Agency (HA) has recently published a number of new drainage standards aimed at reducing the risk of flooding of the strategic road network. This includes the provision of better control measures for road runoff in order to minimise the impact on receiving waters. The HA has also implemented a programme of work in partnership with the Environment Agency to meet the more stringent quality requirements of the Water Framework Directive 2000/60/EC by 2015. Research is ongoing in these areas and further additional guidance is anticipated in the future.

PRIME MINISTER

Departmental Data Protection

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Prime Minister (1) what reviews have been undertaken of No. 10 Downing street's rules on data protection in the last two years; if he will place in the Library a copy of the report of the last review of No. 10 Downing street's compliance with data protection laws; and if he will undertake a review of No. 10 Downing street's compliance with data protection laws; [168076]

(2) how many employees of each grade in his Office (a) have access to confidential or sensitive data and (b) are authorised to download such data to disk; how many of his Office's employees have undergone data protection training in the last 12 months; what the average length of time is that each employee of his Office has spent on data protection training; how many investigations of employees of his Office for improperly accessing confidential information have taken place in the last 12 months; how many such investigations resulted in cases of disciplinary action; and what the circumstances of each of those cases was; [168281]

(3) on how many occasions in his Office confidential data have been downloaded on to compact discs (a) without and (b) with encryption in the last 12 month period for which figures are available; how many of those discs have been posted without using recorded or registered delivery; what procedures his Office has in place for the (i) transport, (ii) exchange and (iii) delivery of confidential or sensitive data; what records are kept of information held by his Office being sent outside his Office; what changes have been made to his Office's rules and procedures on data protection in the last two years; on how many occasions his Office's procedures and rules on data protection have been breached in the last five years; what those breaches were; what procedures his Office has in place on downloading confidential data on to computer discs before its transfer; what technical protections there are in his Office's computer systems to prevent access to information held on those systems which is not in accordance with his Office's procedures; and if he will place in the Library a copy of each of his Office's rules and procedures on the protection of confidential data on individuals, businesses and other organisations. [168261]

Tom Brake: To ask the Prime Minister whether he proposes to review how his Office transports data; and whether his Office uses TNT to transport data. [169229]

The Prime Minister: I refer the hon. Members to the answer given by my right hon. Friend the Minister for the Cabinet Office (Edward Miliband) on 3 December 2007, Official Report, columns 847-48W.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Departmental Secondment

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many secondments of staff were made (a) to and (b) from his Department in each year since 1997; which organisations staff were seconded (i) to and (ii) from; how many staff were seconded in each year; for how long each secondment lasted; and what the cost was of each secondment in each year. [167283]

Mr. Woodward: The following tables detail the number of secondments of staff (a) to and (b) from the Northern Ireland Office in each year since 1997; which organisations staff were seconded (i) to and (ii) from. The cost of each secondment is not collated and the cost of gathering this information would be disproportionate.

Police Service of Northern Ireland: Belfast

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what proportion of the police establishment in North Belfast consisted of (a) full-time reserve officers and (b) part-time reserve officers at 31 October. [170492]

Paul Goggins: The police establishment figures for North Belfast on 31 October 2007 are provided in the following table.

| | Number | Proportion (percentage) |
|---|---|---|
| Regular | 300 | 73.71 |
| Full-time reserve | 36 | 8.85 |
| Part-time reserve | 71 | 17.44 |
| Total | 407 | 100 |

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Alcoholic Drinks: Licensing

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many (a) on licences and (b) off licences to sell alcohol under the Licensing Act 2003 were subject to (i) review and (ii) revocation as a result of (A) selling alcohol to persons under the age of 18 and (B) disorderly conduct, broken down by (1) police force area and (2) local authority area in the latest period for which figures are available. [167977]

Mr. Sutcliffe: This information is not held centrally.

Past and future statistical bulletins on licences to sell alcohol include the number of licences revoked, but do not indicate why. Licences may be revoked on review for one or more reasons relating to the four licensing objectives or breaches of licensing law including sales to children, disorderly conduct and breach of licensing conditions.

Although the DCMS Statistical Bulletin on Alcohol, Entertainment and Late Night Refreshment, which was published on 8 November, does not show numbers reviewed as a result of sales to under-18s it did show that 44 reviews were completed in the 12 months to March 2007 following closure under section 161 (closure orders for identified premises) which covers noise disturbance and disorder. The bulletin also showed that between April 2006 and March 2007, there were 693 reviews, which resulted in:

| | Number |
|---|---|
| Licences revoked | 92 |
| Licences suspended for up to three months[1] | 91 |
| Premises made to change their opening hours[1] | 110 |
| Premises had other conditions placed on their licences[1] | 400 |

[1] Not possible under old laws.

Departmental Contracts

Mr. Walker: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what contracts his Department has with external consultants; what the total value, including all VAT and disbursements, of these contracts are for the current financial year; how long each contract lasts; and what the forecast total value is of each contract. [163803]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Department currently has the following ongoing contracts with external consultants for the current financial year 2007-08:

| Contract | Total value paid this year (£) | Length | Forecast value (£) |
|---|---|---|---|
| Engaging Places Evaluation | 0 | 2 months | 24,828 |
| Impact of the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic games | 0 | 4 months | 96,350 |
| ICT Strategy Compliance/Review | [1]49,751 | 1 year | 120,000 |
| Specialist Advice to Government Olympic Executive on 2012 | [1]30,364 | 1 year | 75,000 |
| Speech-writing | [1]5,875 | Ad hoc | [2] |
| Ceremonial Consultancy | 34,991.15 | 5 years | 275,000 |

[1] Including VAT and disbursements.
[2] Unknown.

Departmental Labour Turnover

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what the percentage turnover of staff was in (a) his Department and (b) his Department's agencies in (i) the last 12-month period and (ii) the last 24-month period for which figures are available. [169032]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The information is in the table.

| | Turnover | |
|---|---|---|
| | 2005-06 | Percentage 2006-07 |
| Department for Culture Media and Sport | 21.3 | 14.8 |
| Royal Parks | 23 | 20 |

Notes:
1. All leavers have been used to calculate turnover. This includes staff on loan returning to their parent departments.
2. DCMS encourages staff interchange with other departments. At any one time 23 per cent. to 25 per cent. of staff are on loan.
3. The Royal Parks Constabulary (RPC) have been excluded from the figures relating to the Royal Parks Agency as these staff were transferred to the Metropolitan Police Service on 31 March 2006.

DEFENCE

Armed Forces: Northern Ireland

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many armed forces personnel he plans to be stationed in Northern Ireland as of the end of 2008, broken down by location. [170306]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth [holding answer 3 December 2007]: On current plans, there will be some 4,900 armed forces personnel stationed in Northern Ireland at 31 December 2008, with the principal regular units situated at the following locations:

| Location | Unit |
|---|---|
| Lisburn | HQNI and 38 (Irish) Bde |
| | HQ 19 Lt Bde and Sig Sqn |
| | NI Sp Bn |
| | 40 Regt RA |
| | 233 Sig Sqn |
| Aldergrove | 5 Regt AAC |
| | 230 Sqn RAF |
| Holywood | 2 MERCIAN |

| Location | Unit |
|---|---|
| Kinnegar | 19 CSS Bn |
| Ballykinler | 2 Rifles |
| Antrim | 38 Engr Regt |
| Duke of Connaught Unit | Belfast Military Hospital |

As I said in my written ministerial statement of 25 July 2007, the military footprint in Northern Ireland is now broadly comparable to that in the rest of the UK with the majority of forces training and preparing for operations worldwide. Although this is the planned number of armed forces personnel with a home base in Northern Ireland, the actual number of personnel present will be less as some of the units will be deployed on rest of the world operations.

Colombia: Armed Forces

Colin Burgon: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence which units of the Colombian security forces UK military assistance is not provided to; and for what reasons. [171070]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The UK's Defence engagement is aimed at personnel from across Colombia's large armed forces, and not individual units. Current military assistance to Colombia is primarily concerned with education; there are strong emphases on training regarding human rights and the disposal of explosive devices in order to reduce the numbers of deaths, both civilian and military, from them. However, there are some aspects of military assistance which we do not give specific details as to do so could endanger not only the effectiveness of the support but also the lives of the British and Colombian personnel involved. The Parliamentary Ombudsman has upheld this decision.

Hydrographic Office

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence from which Government Departments officials have met with the team carrying out the review of the UK Hydrographic Office; and how many such meetings have taken place. [170841]

Derek Twigg: The UK Hydrographic Office (UKHO) is a trading fund within the Ministry of Defence. Departments routinely carry out reviews of trading funds from time to time as part of the ownership role. In February 2007, I announced that we would carry out a review of the structural and ownership options for the United Kingdom Hydrographic Office (UKHO). This is due to report at the end of the year.

During the course of the study, the study team met with officials from the following UK Government Departments:

Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs;

Department for Transport (including the Maritime and Coastguard Agency);

Her Majesty's Treasury;

Office of Fair Trading; and Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform.

These Departments were engaged at numerous points throughout the study but we do not hold records of the precise number of meetings held.

HOUSE OF COMMONS COMMISSION

Energy Efficiency

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the hon. Member for North Devon, representing the House of Commons Commission what the policy is on the temperature at which each working area of each building on the parliamentary estate for which the House of Commons Commission is responsible is maintained. [170257]

Nick Harvey: General practice is to maintain a temperature of around 21 degrees Celsius in all office areas. The temperature in non-office areas may vary depending on the activity in that room. The statutory minimum temperature as given under the Workplace (Health, Safety and Welfare) Regulations 1992 is 16 degrees Celsius after the first hour of working; unless the work involves strenuous physical exertion. Where possible, individuals' comfort preferences are taken into consideration. This however is subject to the limitations of the control available by each building's management control system and the need to provide thermal balance between areas.

Portcullis House: Fire Alarms

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the hon. Member for North Devon, representing the House of Commons Commission on how many occasions the fire alarm in Portcullis House has been set off since May 2005; and how many times there was a fire. [171462]

Nick Harvey: During the period May 2005 to end November 2007 there were 28 fire alarm incidents in Portcullis House. Of these:

three were actual fires;

five were accidental actuations, e.g. damage to call points;

11 resulted from system faults;

four were caused by engineers while working on the system;

five were caused by contractors or as a result of maintenance work.

WALES

Departmental Consultations

Mrs. Gilian: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales pursuant to the answer of 14 November 2007, Official Report, column 312W, on departmental consultations, when he plans to place copies of the 18 responses in the Library. [169579]

Mr. Hain: We are currently checking with participants to ensure they are content for their responses to be published. I hope for this to be completed as soon as possible, at which stage I will place a copy in the Library.

Departmental Labour Turnover

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales what the percentage turnover of staff was in his Department in (a) the last 12-month period and (b) the last 24-month period for which figures are available. [169044]

Mr. Hain: The turnover of Wales Office staff in the 2006-07 financial year was 32 per cent. Figures for earlier years are not available and could be achieved only at disproportionate cost.

The number reflects the fact that the Wales Office is a small organisation. Around half of the staff at any time are on loan, and they will often move after two years. It also includes internal movements of staff, not just numbers 'in' and 'out'.

DUCHY OF LANCASTER

10 Downing Street: Publicity

David Simpson: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how much has been spent by No. 10 Downing Street on advertising in the last 12 months. [167950]

Edward Miliband: For these purposes the Prime Minister's Office forms part of the Cabinet Office. The answer given therefore is for the whole of the Cabinet Office. The Department's expenditure on campaign advertising for 2006-07 was £22,148.

INNOVATION, UNIVERSITIES AND SKILLS

Departmental Data Protection

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what reviews have been undertaken of his Department's rules on data protection in the last two years; if he will place in the Library a copy of the report of the last review of his Department's compliance with data protection laws; and if (a) his Department and (b) his Department's agencies will undertake a review of their compliance with data protection laws. [168091]

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what procedures are in place in his Department to ensure that personal information relating to members of the public is (a) stored and (b) transported securely. [168472]

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills (1) on how many occasions the Information Commissioner was contacted by his Department to report breaches of data protection security in each of the last five years; [168824]

(2) how many breaches of data protection security there were in (a) his Department and (b) his Department's agencies in each of the last five years; and if he will provide details of each breach. [168841]

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills (1) how many times databases held by his Department containing personal information on members of the general public were accessed in each month of the last five years; [168959]

(2) how many staff in his Department have access to electronic databases which contain personal information on members of the general public, broken down by grade of staff member; [168960]

(3) how many electronic databases containing (a) names, (b) addresses, (c) bank details and (d) other personal information of members of the general public his Department holds; [168979]

(4) how many requests his Department received from the National Audit Office for access to databases containing personal information on members of the general public in each year since 1997; [168963]

(5) how many security breaches regarding access to personal data occurred in his Department in each year since 1997; [168958]

(6) what mechanisms his Department has in place to ensure that databases held by his Department containing personal information on members of the general public are not accessed (a) by unauthorised staff and (b) by authorised staff for unauthorised purposes; [168978]

(7) when each electronic database containing personal information on members of the general public held by his Department was first created. [168957]

Mr. Rob Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many breaches of the Data Protection Act 1998 requiring investigation there have been in the last five years in his Department; what the nature of such breaches were; and what the results of the investigations were in each case. [169255]

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills whether he proposes to review how his Department transports data; and whether his Department uses TNT to transport data. [169221]

Mr. Lammy: I refer the hon. Members to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

General Certificate of Secondary Education: Young Offenders

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what proportion of 16-year-olds who had been in custody for more than one year was entered for GCSE examinations in each year since 2001; and what proportion of 16-year-olds in custody gained five A* to Cs at GCSE in each of those years. [168195]

Jim Knight: I have been asked to reply.

I refer the hon. Member to the reply given on 19 November 2007, Official Report, column 632W.

Sector Skills Council: Licensing

Mr. Boswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills pursuant to the answer of 19 November 2007, Official Report, column 573W, on sector skills council: licensing, whether the Commission for Employment and Skills will be taking over from the Sector Skills Development Agency all its licensing functions; and whether the relicensing programme for sector skills councils will be a rolling process. [169426]

Mr. Lammy: The Commission for Employment and Skills will be responsible for providing advice to the relevant Secretaries of State across the UK about which Sector Skills Councils (SSCs) should receive a new license. The new licences will be issued by the Government.

The re-licensing of SSCs will be an early priority for the Commission. The intention is that the re-licensing of SSCs will be completed by the end of 2009. No decisions have been made about the review of licenses beyond 2009.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

ACP Countries: Economic Agreements

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what meetings have occurred between his Department and officials from the African, Caribbean and Pacific countries about economic partnership agreements; and what the outcomes were. [R] [169172]

Mr. Thomas: Between the Department for International Development, the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform and the Foreign and Commonwealth Office there has been close and constant contact with representatives from all the ACP negotiating regions at both ministerial and official level.

The outcome of this close contact is that we are in a position to know what the ACP countries want from these negotiations and represent their views to the European Commission and other member states. We are also able to provide them with support.

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how economic partnership agreements will be ratified if signed; and what the role of Parliament will be in the ratification process. [R] [169173]

Mr. Thomas: Each completed Economic Partnership Agreement (EPA) will need to be agreed by the European Union (EU) Council of Ministers. If the EPA is a goods only agreement and no more, it will fall within exclusive Community competence and would not require any national ratification, however if the EPA contains any elements other than trade in goods, it will have to be agreed at national level by each member state. In the UK, we must consult Parliament and each EPA must be debated and approved in both the House of Commons and the House of Lords. We will do this by means of a statutory instrument.

We will however submit all EPA texts to Parliament for scrutiny, regardless of the formal ratification procedure.

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what steps his Department is taking to ensure that any African, Caribbean or Pacific country unable to sign an economic partnership agreement by the end of 2007 does not experience more restricted market access into the EU from 1 January 2008. [169621]

Mr. Thomas: I am concerned about what happens to countries that are unable to sign an Economic Partnership Agreement (EPA) by the end of year deadline. In September I wrote to other European Union Trade Ministers to press the European Commission to ensure that African, Caribbean and Pacific (ACP) countries are no worse off after the end of 2007 once the Cotonou agreement lapses.

On 20 November at the General Affairs and External Relations Council (GAERC) my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for International Development, along with other European Union member states, asked the Commission to come forward with suggestions of what will be offered to countries that are engaged with the process but not ready to sign an EPA by the end of the year. It was agreed that recommendations from the Commission will be discussed at the December GAERC to ensure that these countries do not end up facing Generalised System of Preferences tariffs.

Afghanistan: Reconstruction

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how much the UK spent on provincial reconstruction teams in Afghanistan in each of the last five years; and what projects such funding has supported. [167251]

David Miliband: I have been asked to reply.

The Government spent £1.4 million through the Mazar-e Sharif Provincial Reconstruction Team (PRT) on police training and mentoring. Since opening in May 2006, the Helmand PRT has implemented 199 Quick Impact Projects valued at £11.6 million. This has supported a number of building projects (including schools, parks and police stations), police training and women's rights projects. A further £4.5 million has been spent on longer-term projects in support of governance in the province.

I will write to the right hon. Member with a list of projects and will arrange for copies to be placed in the Library of the House.

Bangladesh: Overseas Aid

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what proportion of funding for the (a) first and (b) second phase of the humanitarian response to the cyclone in Bangladesh was paid directly to non-governmental organisations. [169772]

Mr. Malik: The UK Government have provided £7 million for Cyclone Sidr relief in Bangladesh. At least 90 per cent. of this will be channelled to non-governmental organisations (NGOs) for immediate and short to medium-term needs, with the remainder for disaster management coordination and operations.

The first tranche of £2.5 million was allocated through United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) to local non-governmental organisations (NGOs) to provide immediate assistance in the form of food, clean and safe water, medical treatment, and housing repairs.

An additional £2.5 million was announced by the Secretary of State on 23 November. This will be programmed through three international NGOs: Save the Children UK, Oxfam GB, and CARE, to focus on short to medium-term needs such as water, sanitation and hygiene promotion. A further £2 million announced by the Secretary of State on 28 November, will also be allocated to support the short to medium-term response by improving access, provision of non-food items such as blankets, disaster management coordination, and the restoration of livelihoods. A significant proportion of this money will be programmed through NGOs, such as Oxfam GB for the provision of non-food items and BRAC (Bangladesh Rural Advancement Committee) for livelihoods.

Burma: Human Rights

Mr. MacDougall: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development if he will make a statement on the humanitarian situation of the Karen people in Burma. [171063]

Mr. Malik: Like many others in Burma, Karen people are suffering from the repressive rule of the Burmese military government—including restrictions on movement, arbitrary taxation and forced labour. Severe economic mismanagement has deprived Burma of the economic growth enjoyed by its South East Asian neighbours, and investment in public services has been minimal. A third of the population lives below the poverty line. Those in conflict areas, of which Karen State is one, face further human rights abuses by the Burmese military, and on occasion by the ethnic armed groups. As a consequence of the conflict, there are 500,000 internally displaced people (IDPs) in Eastern Burma, the majority of whom are Karen—and their humanitarian plight is particularly severe. DFID provides assistance to IDPs using community-based groups from inside Eastern Burma, and cross-border to the most vulnerable. DFID also provides support to Burmese refugees, mostly Karen, in Thailand.

China: Bears

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what support his Department has provided to (a) Animals Aid Foundation and (b) China Wildlife Conservation Association in relation to bear bile farming in China. [169363]

Mr. Malik: We have not provided any support to either organisation.

Colombia: Overseas Aid

Colin Burgon: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what proportion of UK assistance to Colombia is provided for projects which are not related to the Colombian security forces in 2007-08. [171071]

Mr. Malik: The parliamentary ombudsman has upheld the UK Government's decision not to make public precise details of our counter narcotics assistance, as to do so would jeopardise the effectiveness of that dangerous work and the safety of the British and Colombian personnel involved. As such, it is not possible to say what proportion of UK assistance to Colombia for projects was not related to the security forces.

DFID channels most of its development assistance to Colombia through the World Bank, the EU, Inter-American Development Bank (IADB) and the UN. DFID trust funds with IADB specifically support six current projects in Colombia: citizen monitoring in urban governments, presidential town meetings, strengthening the auditor general, supporting community councils, job promotion in cities, and supporting indigenous small miners. In addition DFID funds a number of UK NGOs, and work on the Poverty reduction strategy.

Direct UK project assistance in Colombia is mainly funded by the FCO's Global Opportunities Fund and the Global Conflict Prevention Pool. It reflects the UK's key priorities of tackling the illegal drugs trade and improving the human rights situation. The FCO has recently placed on its website a schedule of UK human rights-related project activity:

http://www.fco.gov.uk.

Departmental Data Protection

Mr. Walker: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development whether his Department's information technology and data management systems are BS7799 compliant. [168744]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Departmental Labour Turnover

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what the percentage turnover of staff was in his Department in (a) the last 12-month period and (b) the last 24-month period for which figures are available. [169039]

Mr. Malik: The Department for International Development employs both home civil servants and locally engaged staff, who work in our network of overseas offices on local terms and conditions of service. Comprehensive data on the turnover of staff in this latter group is not held centrally.

The turnover of home civil servants in the 2006-07 financial year was 9.5 per cent.; and over the two-year period covering the 2005-06 and 2006-07 financial years was 20 per cent. Turnover has been calculated as the number of leavers in the period, expressed as a percentage of the total number of staff in post at the beginning of that period.

Health

Lyn Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what recent discussions his Department has had with the Department of Health on the Government's strategy on global health. [166986]

Mr. Malik: Officials at DFID are in regular contact with the Department of Health as work to develop the Global Health Strategy proceeds.

My colleague Baroness Vadera sits on the Inter-Ministerial Group on Strengthening Health in Developing Countries which oversees this important agenda and will complement and reinforce DFID's existing health strategy—including the recent initiative that launched the International Health Partnership (IHP).

In addition to discussions about the IHP, we are considering the role that access to medicines might play in the light of the issues raised at the recent meeting of the Intergovernmental Working Group on Public Health, Innovation and Intellectual Property in Geneva.

Latin America: Overseas Aid

Mr. Lancaster: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development when he expects to (a) finalise and (b) publish his Department's regional assistance plan for Latin America for 2008-2011. [171551]

Mr. Malik: Spending on Latin America, as on all DFID's programmes, will be decided by January as part of the Resource Allocation Round. DFID's Latin America strategy will be finalised after those decisions.

Mr. Lancaster: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what financial assistance his Department will allocate to each Latin American country in 2008-09. [171552]

Mr. Malik: DFID is currently developing detailed plans for allocating its budget over the three year period 2008-09 to 2010-11 following the outcome of the comprehensive spending review announced in October. Individual country programme allocations will not be finalised until early in 2008.

Somalia: Politics and Government

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what recent reports he has received about the humanitarian situation in Somalia; what the response of his Department has been; and if he will make a statement. [166991]

Mr. Malik: UN agencies and international NGOs active in Somalia report that up to 500,000 people, almost exclusively civilians, have been displaced as a result of the conflict in the south—197,000 since the beginning of October. They are mostly accommodated in temporary encampments close to the capital Mogadishu, and face shortages of shelter, food, water and, especially but not exclusively for those injured in the fighting, healthcare. A further 50,000 have been displaced by the border conflict between Somaliland and Puntland in the north. Total displacement of the Somali population, including those affected by earlier conflict and natural disasters, is estimated by the UN to be 1 million. Agencies delivering relief supplies face regular harassment, extortion and bureaucratic obstruction, and the International Community, including the UK, has made strong representations to the Somali authorities to enable relief work to flow freely.

So far in 2007 DFID has committed £8.6 million to help those worst affected by the fighting and the ongoing humanitarian needs, including £1 million since mid-October. We keep in close contact with UN agencies and our partners on the ground to ensure that DFID's humanitarian response fits the immediate needs of the most vulnerable. Our humanitarian adviser visited part of the affected area last week, to assess the situation. He will make another visit to the worst affected area during the next week, after which we will consider what further urgent support we might provide.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Agriculture: Disease Control

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many farmers were prosecuted for breaches of biosecurity in each of the last five years. [168720]

Jonathan Shaw: Local authorities are responsible for the enforcement of animal health legislation, including any resulting prosecutions, and report annually to DEFRA. A consolidated report is laid before Parliament each year.

Prosecutions relating to biosecurity may arise from breaches under a range of legislation including; the Animal Gatherings (England) Order 2006, the Disease Control (England) Order 2003, the Transport of Animals (Cleansing and Disinfection) (England) (No. 3) Order 2003, emergency animal health measures such as those to control outbreaks of foot and mouth disease and avian influenza, and the equivalent Welsh legislation.

The number of prosecutions resulting from biosecurity breaches reported in 2005 and 2006 are as follows:

| | Prosecutions arising from breaches of biosecurity |
|---|---|
| 2006 | 16 |
| 2005 | 9 |

The reports provided by local authorities prior to 2005 do not identify which prosecutions relate to biosecurity offences specifically. The following table lists the number of prosecutions brought each year under the aforementioned legislation:

| | Number of prosecutions under relevant Orders | Prosecutions arising from 1981 Animal Health Act but not defined further |
|---|---|---|
| 2004 | 36 | 70 |
| 2003 | 75 | 0 |
| 2002 | 82 | 77 |

The figures given in the aforementioned tables are for all prosecutions; they cannot be broken down to farmers alone.

Agriculture: Lancashire

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many claimants there are under the single payment scheme in Ribble Valley constituency; and how many farms this represents. [170001]

Jonathan Shaw [holding answer 3 December 2007]: Detailed analysis of the number of claimants there are under the Single Payment Scheme in Ribble Valley constituency and the number of farms this represents is not available. Once the remaining scheme payments have been completed, a decision will be taken on the level of detail that will be published.

Agriculture: Subsidies

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps he is taking to ensure full payment of the single farm payment to farmers in England in December 2007. [168190]

Jonathan Shaw: The Rural Payments Agency (RPA) has a formal target to pay 75 per cent. by value of valid 2007 single payment scheme (SPS) claims by 31 March 2008 and 90 per cent. by 31 May 2008.

The Government's primary concern remains that the SPS system should be robust and stable, so that RPA can deliver an improved, reliable service to the farming industry. A range of measures are being undertaken to that end and we are determined that the timing of 2007 SPS payments neither undermines those efforts nor introduces unacceptable disallowance risks. However, Ministers have agreed that RPA will aim to make more full payments to more farmers earlier than last year.

Animal Welfare: Codes of Practice

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the Answer of 26 November 2007, Official Report, column 28W, on animal welfare: codes of practice, what the membership is of the working group on gamebirds; and what the areas of expertise of each member are. [170137]

Jonathan Shaw: Members of the working group include representatives of the game bird industry, welfare groups and the Game and Wildlife Conservation Trust. They were chosen because of their expertise in the various husbandry and management techniques involved in the breeding and rearing of game birds, so ensuring that all welfare-related issues were fully debated.

Animal Welfare: EU Action

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the Agriculture and Fisheries Council held in Luxembourg on 22 to 23 October 2007, when he expects a legislative framework to implement the animal health strategy to be implemented; and if he will make a statement. [170948]

Jonathan Shaw: The Commission is currently consulting the Council of Ministers and the European Parliament on its Communication on "A new Animal Health strategy for the European Union". During 2008, the Commission is expected to produce an action plan setting out specific proposals to implement the strategy in the period up to 2013.

Arable Farming: East of England

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent assessment he has made of the financial state of arable crop farming in the Eastern region. [168764]

Jonathan Shaw: The following table shows Farm Business Income[1] for arable farms between 2003-04 and 2006-07 in the eastern region. Income forecasts for 2007-08, to be published at the end of January 2008, will reflect the value of the 2007 harvest.

[1] For non corporate businesses, Farm Business Income represents the financial return to all unpaid labour (farmers and spouses, non-principal partners and their spouses and family workers) and on all their capital invested in the farm business, including land and buildings. For corporate businesses it represents the financial return on the shareholders' capital invested in the farm business.

Farm business income for cereal and general cropping[1] farms in the eastern region

| March/ February | Cereals | General cropping | All farm types |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2003-04 | 80,900 | 90,100 | 67,100 |
| 2004-05 | 47,800 | 72,900 | 51,400 |
| 2005-06 | 48,900 | 48,600 | 51,200 |
| 2006-07 | 78,000 | 74,400 | 66,100 |

Avian Influenza: Suffolk

Mr. Spring: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much was spent on accommodation for his Department's officials at Ickworth Hotel, per room, during the recent visit in connection with the avian influenza outbreak in Suffolk; for how long officials stayed in the hotel; and how many officials stayed there. [169409]

Jonathan Shaw [holding answer 29 November 2007]: Animal health staff stayed at the Ickworth Hotel at the agreed Government rate of between £95 and £110 per room. Thirty officials stayed at the hotel for a total of 90 nights' accommodation between 13 and 23 November. Altogether, 1,653 nights' accommodation were booked in the area from 13 November at more than 20 hotels.

In an emergency, a large number of staff from around the UK need to be found hotel rooms near to the local disease control centre at very short notice which can be less than a day. DEFRA employs the services of an external provider to ensure that the most appropriate accommodation is secured and provides the best value for money for the taxpayer as these costs are met under current arrangements passed on to the industry.

Centre for Environment Fisheries and Aquaculture: Finance

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what level of funding he plans to provide to the Centre for Environment, Fisheries and Aquaculture Science in each of the next five years; and if he will make a statement. [170896]

Jonathan Shaw: The Department has committed the following minimum levels of funding to CEFAS over the next five years:

| | Minimum funding (£ million) |
|---|---|
| 2008-09 | 30.9 |
| 2009-10 | 30.9 |
| 2010-11 | 29.8 |
| 2011-12 | 28.8 |
| 2012-13 | 28.8 |

An additional £1.1 million has also been committed to support CEFAS's ongoing transformation.

Construction: Carbon Emissions

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps the Government has taken to encourage the building and construction industry to cut carbon emissions in its activities. [168791]

Mr. Timms [holding answer 27 November 2007]: I have been asked to reply.

We are currently developing, with the building and construction industry, a joint industry/government strategy for sustainable construction. A draft strategy was published in July and is currently available online at:

http://www.berr.gov.uk/consultations/page40642.html

Public consultation on this strategy closed on 30 November and the government response will be published by the end of February 2008.

Departmental Assets

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what Departmental assets are planned to be sold in each financial year from 2007-08 to 2010-11; what the (a) description and (b) book value of each such asset is; and what the expected revenue from each such sale is. [164494]

Jonathan Shaw: For reasons of commercial sensitivity it is not possible to itemise the net book value and expected sale revenue of each asset currently planned for disposal. However the Department is taking professional advice to ensure value for money and to maximise the return on these disposals.

The Department currently anticipates total receipts from the sale of assets of approximately £9 million in 2007-08; £36 million in 2008-09; £10 million in 2009-10 and £5 million in 2010-11. The disposals planned for the latter three years will form part of the Department's Asset Management Strategy to be published in December this year.

Estimates of sale proceeds are subject to fluctuations in the property market and cannot be guaranteed, nor can it be stated with certainty exactly when these sales will take place.

It should also be noted that the figures apply to the wider DEFRA network, not just to the core Department. The assets in question are surplus or under-utilised land and property. The largest anticipated sale is that of DEFRA-owned land and buildings at Guildford, and we expect this to account for approximately one third of the income from asset disposals over the period 2007-08 to 2010-11.

Departmental Consultants

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much has been spent by his Department on management consultants working on projects in the West Country since 2002. [168627]

Jonathan Shaw [holding answer 27 November 2007]: This information is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost. I refer the hon. Member to Tables 7, 8, and 9 (pp190-195) of the Department's departmental report 2007 (Cm 7103), presented to Parliament by the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs in May 2007.

Departmental Cost Effectiveness

Dr. Cable: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what efficiency savings projects his Department put in place under the spending review 2004 targets; on what date each was initiated; how much each was expected to contribute to the target; how much was saved by each; and if he will make a statement. [164151]

Jonathan Shaw: The projects that comprised DEFRA's efficiency portfolio are set out in our efficiency technical note. Each project has a baseline year against which savings are measured. This was published on the H M Treasury website in December 2005 at http://www.defra.gov.uk/corporate/busplan/spending-review/pdf/efficiencynote-0511.pdf.

Progress against our SR04 targets is reported in our departmental report . The most recent (published in June 2007) is at http://www.defra.gov.uk/corporate/deprep/2007/2007-deptrepport.pdf.

An update on progress will be included in the DEFRA autumn performance report due to be published on 13 December.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will make a statement on the progress his Department is making towards meeting the Gershon efficiency savings targets. [166463]

Jonathan Shaw: Progress against our SR04 targets is reported in our departmental report. The most recent (published in June 2007) is at:

http://www.defra.gov.uk/corporate/deprep/2007/2007-deptreport.pdf.

An update on progress will be included in the DEFRA autumn performance report due to be published on 13 December.

Departmental Expenditure

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the considerable budgetary problems as a result of unfunded pressures in the 2006-07 financial year referred to in the Government's response to the Environment, Food and Rural Affairs Select Committee's Seventh Report of Session 2006-07, page 2, were; and if he will make a statement. [165483]

Jonathan Shaw: As with other large organisations, DEFRA faces new financial pressures each year which require constant review and re-adjustment to spending plans. The last financial year (2006-07) brought several such pressures that meant the Department had to reduce its original resource budgets by around £200 million. These pressures stemmed from:

RPA's running costs (about 11 per cent.), including administration of the single payment scheme for both 2005 and 2006;

Avian influenza (about 5 per cent.);

surplus capital charge budget no longer being available to fund programme expenditure due to new tighter rules governing public expenditure (around 30 per cent.);

costs deferred from 2005-06, not as a result of underspending, but arising from pressure on the budget that year (around 45 per cent.);

other miscellaneous pressures (about 9 per cent.).

Departmental ICT

Gordon Banks: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs which manufacturers' software is used in his Department. [167230]

Jonathan Shaw: A list that provides the names of all manufacturers of software used by DEFRA, as collected and recorded by IBM (the Department's strategic IT supplier since its IT services were outsourced in October 2004), has been placed in the Library of the House of Commons.

Departmental Labour Turnover

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the percentage turnover of staff was in (a) his Department and (b) his Department's agencies in (i) the last 12-month period and (ii) the last 24-month period for which figures are available. [169034]

Jonathan Shaw: The turnover rates for DEFRA and each of the agencies for all leavers and for voluntary resignations (including transfers to other Government Departments) only is shown in the following table:

Percentage

| | 1 November 2006 to 31 October 2007 | | 1 November 2005 to 31 October 2007 | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | All leavers | Resignations | All leavers | Resignations |
| DEFRA | 19.8 | 4.7 | 14.5 | 4.3 |
| Animal Health | 11.1 | 4.3 | 11.2 | 4.0 |
| Centre for Environment Fisheries and Aquaculture Science[1] | 8.9 | n/a | 8.6 | n/a |
| Central Science Laboratories | 17.2 | 7.1 | 17.6 | 7.8 |
| Government Decontamination Service | 4.8 | 4.8 | 11.9 | 9.5 |
| Marine Fisheries Agency | 14.4 | 4.4 | 11.7 | 4.6 |
| Pesticides Safety Directorate | 4.6 | 2.6 | 6.3 | 3.6 |
| Rural Payments Agency | 18.8 | 11.0 | 20.5 | 10.9 |
| Veterinary Laboratories Agency | 10.6 | 5.8 | 10.9 | 6.3 |
| Veterinary Medicines Directorate | 4.2 | 3.5 | 3.8 | 2.3 |

[1] CEFAS turnover rates cover the periods 1 April 2006 to 31 March 2007 and 1 April 2005 to 31 March 2007.

Departmental Standards

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he expects to publish his Department's autumn performance report. [164873]

Jonathan Shaw: DEFRA's 2007 autumn performance report will be published electronically on 13 December 2007 and made available at:

http://www.defra.gov.uk/corporate/deprep/default.htm.

Copies will also be available in the House Library on that day.

Departmental Telephone Services

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs which telephone contact centres are the responsibility of his Department; what mechanisms are in place to monitor their effectiveness; and how many people have been employed in each of those centres in each year since they were established. [166544]

Jonathan Shaw: My Department is directly responsible for the main DEFRA helpline only, which is available for general telephone and e-mail enquiries. Some of DEFRA's Executive agencies and non-departmental public bodies also have operational responsibility for more specific customer contact services.

The present arrangements for running the DEFRA helpline, mean that the number of telephone advisers varies to reflect the level of customer demand. Before these arrangements were implemented, earlier this year, the DEFRA helpline routinely employed eight advisers.

The DEFRA helpline generates both daily and weekly statistics, which enable my officials to monitor its performance. Regular meetings are held to review day-to-day operational issues. My officials also have access to live call-traffic information.

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what information his Department collects and monitors in relation to the telephone contact centres for which his Department is responsible. [166545]

Jonathan Shaw: My Department routinely collects and monitors the following management information from the DEFRA helpline:

(i) data on call volumes, including the number of calls received, answered and abandoned;

(ii) information on call "types", organised by subject; and

(iii) information on the duration of calls.

Other information may be gathered for specific purposes. For example, if people use the helpline to report dead wild gulls, waders, ducks, geese or swans, or groups of dead birds in connection with avian influenza, their telephone contact details and the location of the dead bird(s) will also be collected.

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much each telephone contact centre for which his Department is responsible has (a) cost and (b) generated in income in each financial year since their establishment. [166546]

Jonathan Shaw: The annual running costs of the DEFRA helpline since 2003-04 are set out in the following table:

| Financial year | Total cost of running the DEFRA helpline (£) |
|---|---|
| 2003-04 | 247,123 |
| 2004-05 | 247,862 |
| 2005-06 | 230,344 |
| 2006-07 | 295,638 |

Prior to 2003-04, the costs of the DEFRA helpline were embedded within the overall costs of the Department's Library and Translation Services. Disaggregated costs are not available for that period.

My Department receives no income from the DEFRA helpline. Call charges are shared between the service providers of the helpline and the caller.

Fisheries: Subsidies

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will set out the Government's proposals for the application of the European Fisheries Fund in the United Kingdom for the period 2007 to 2013; and when he intends to submit such proposals to the European Commission. [171234]

Jonathan Shaw: The Government's proposals for the application of the European Fisheries Fund in the United Kingdom for the period 2007 to 2013 will be set out in the draft UK operational programme as required by Article 17 of Council Regulation (EC) No. 1198/2006.

I intend to submit the UK operational programme to the Commission following a public consultation on the draft. This will be a 12 week consultation which I expect to commence early in 2008.

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether the Government support Eyemouth and the Berwickshire coast being designated as a fisheries dependent area eligible for assistance from the European Fisheries Fund. [171235]

Jonathan Shaw: This is a matter for the Scottish Executive.

Institute for Animal Health: Pirbright

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs who signed the most recent licence authorising the holding or working with restricted pathogens in respect of (a) the Institute for Animal Health, Pirbright and (b) the Merial site, Pirbright. [168165]

Jonathan Shaw: The licences were signed by a DEFRA official experienced in laboratory inspections. Merial's licence was restored following detailed DEFRA and Health and Safety Executive inspections that confirmed the terms of the licence (including operating procedures and installation of security measures) had been fully met, and that it was safe for vaccine production to recommence.

Following an incident announced by DEFRA on 22 November, Merial's Special Animal Pathogens Order (SAPO) licence was suspended. The incident was contained in the closed, re-lined drainage system, and there was no release of virus to the environment. An inspection team is producing a full report for the Acting Chief Veterinary Officer, and further action will then be considered.

Irish Sea: Fisheries

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he expects the Irish Discard Project to be completed; and if he will make a statement. [170912]

Jonathan Shaw: I will again be seeking additional days at sea for vessels participating in the Irish Sea data enhancement pilot. We expect the pilot to produce results by the end of next year and will review progress in the spring.

Marine and Fisheries Directorate

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the long-term objectives are of the Marine and Fisheries Directorate; and if he will make a statement. [170928]

Jonathan Shaw: The purpose of DEFRA's Marine and Fisheries Directorate is to support the Government's work to achieve its marine vision of clean, healthy, safe, productive and biologically diverse oceans and seas.

Marine Fisheries Science Group

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs which stakeholders form the membership of the Marine Fisheries Science Group; and if he will make a statement. [170887]

Jonathan Shaw: The DEFRA Marine Fisheries Science Advisory Group was set up in 2006 to advise DEFRA on its marine fisheries science programme. The Group is chaired by John Shepherd, Professor of Oceanography at Southampton university, and its membership is made up of individuals invited in a personal capacity, on the basis of their expertise and previous contributions to discussions of relevant issues.

Group members come from a wide range of sectors, including: DEFRA and other devolved administrations, Government laboratories such as the Centre for Environment, Fisheries and Aquaculture Science and Fisheries Research Services, academic universities, Sea Fisheries Committees, fisher's organisations, fish producers organisations, individual fishers, The Sea Fish Industry Authority, The Food and Drink Federation, The Sea Anglers Conservation Network, and conservation groups such as the Royal Society for the Protection of Birds, the Joint Nature Conservation Committee and the Marine Conservation Society.

Organic Farming: East of England

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many organic farmers there were in each county in the East of England in each year since 1997. [169968]

Jonathan Shaw: Information on the number of organic farms is given in the following table. This shows the number of organic farms in the eastern England Government office region between 2004 and 2007 (based on data collected at January of each year). Prior to 2004 data are unavailable.

Number of organic farms in the eastern region of England

Science Advisory Council: Biofuels

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when the Science Advisory Council last met to discuss (a) biofuels and (b) bovine tuberculosis; and if he will make a statement. [168716]

Jonathan Shaw: The DEFRA Science Advisory Council (SAC) last discussed biofuels for transport on 17 October 2007. Minutes of the meeting will be published on the SAC website by mid-December.

The new DEFRA Chief Scientific Advisor (CSA) agreed to report to Council on his progress in identifying priorities for future SAC advice, to assist with SAC's long-term work planning. The CSA will prepare a strategy paper outlining these priorities, which will be considered in light of DEFRA's long-term research strategy, for SAC's next meeting on 29 January 2008. The paper will include comment on whether SAC advice may be required on biofuels, and if so in what capacity.

SAC last formally discussed bovine tuberculosis (bTB) on 19 July 2007. Minutes of the meeting are available on the DEFRA website.

During the last month, SAC has been asked for further comment on the science of this issue.

In October 2007 following the publication of the report "Bovine Tuberculosis in Cattle and Badgers" the DEFRA CSA requested advice via the SAC Chair, on the science issues raised by this report.

All current SAC members have been asked to consider whether any new information, not previously available or considered by SAC since their last formal advice on this issue, impacts on the advice they had already given. This advice will be published on the DEFRA SAC website in due course.

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what advice he (a) has sought and (b) has been provided with by the Science Advisory Council on (i) biofuels and (ii) bovine tuberculosis; and if he will make a statement. [168717]

Jonathan Shaw: The Secretary of State has not directly requested or sought advice on biofuels or bovine tuberculosis (bTB) from the DEFRA Science Advisory Council (SAC).

In 2005, a small sub-group of the Council (SAC-bTB), was asked by the DEFRA Chief Science Adviser (CSA) to "Consider the Literature Review of research on bovine tuberculosis (bTB) and the comments from the peer review thereof, and provide an overview assessment for the CSA on the quality of the available scientific evidence".

This included an assessment of the extent to which the research was fit for purpose, robust and could be trusted by stakeholders, This also included a wider strategic consideration of any scientific issues, including uncertainties or unknowns, that might not have been considered by the reviews, and that may be relevant in preparing advice to Ministers.

Sea Fisheries Committees

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) what his plans are to modernise sea fisheries committees (SFCs); whether they include proposals to change the composition of the membership of SFCs; and if he will make a statement; [170892]

(2) what reforms he is planning to change the composition of the membership of Sea Fisheries Committees; and if he will make a statement. [170924]

Jonathan Shaw: The Marine Bill White Paper sets out proposals to reform Sea Fisheries Committees (SFCs) in England. The proposals include a clear purpose and duties, strengthened byelaw-making and enforcement powers and enhanced funding arrangements. Under these proposals, the composition and membership of reformed SFCs will be:

i. local authority members (one third);

ii. Marine Management Organisation (one seat);

iii. Environment Agency (one seat); and

iv. Natural England (one seat).

The balance will be made up of persons acquainted with the needs and opinions of the fishing community and persons with knowledge of or expertise in marine environmental matters. The maximum number of members shall be 21.

SFCs in Wales are the responsibiiity of Welsh Assembly Government.

Seas and Oceans: Biodiversity

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what funding his Department provided for marine biodiversity science in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [170934]

Jonathan Shaw: The Department directly funds marine biodiversity science through its research and development programme for biodiversity. Since 1997, expenditure on marine science has grown from around £180,000 to well over £800,000 per year. A summary of approximate expenditure per year is outlined as follows:

| | Expenditure (£) |
|---|---|
| 2007-08 | 847,000 |
| 2006-07 | 870,000 |
| 2005-06 | 831,000 |
| 2004-05 | 692,000 |
| 2003-04 | 449,000 |
| 2002-03 | 774,000 |
| 2001-02 | 479,000 |
| 2000-01 | 415,000 |
| 1999-2000 | 207,000 |
| 1998-99 | 189,000 |
| 1997-98 | 184,000 |

A significant amount of the funding has been spent on cetacean research, in particular, the UK Standings Scheme and work to determine the abundance and distribution of cetaceans in UK waters. Funds have also been used to assist in expanding our knowledge of the range of habitats found in our seas. This has included the funding of marine surveys in areas beyond 12 nautical miles to identify Special Areas of Conservation (SACs), and the development of UK Seamap; a series of marine landscape maps which are based on a modelling exercise to predict marine landscape types likely to be found in UK marine waters. Such research outputs will be useful in marine spatial planning.

In addition, marine biodiversity science is undertaken indirectly via other programmes within the Department. It is, however, harder to separate out the exact proportion of the spend which could be regarded as biodiversity research back to 1997. It is estimated that, this year alone, a further £400,000 could be regarded as marine biodiversity science research from the Marine Environment research and development programme.

The figures in the table do not include marine biodiversity science expenditure by the Conservation Agencies, Joint Nature Conservation Committee (JNCC) and Natural England. These two bodies are responsible for the implementation of marine biodiversity policy in UK offshore waters and territorial waters of England respectively. DEFRA provides funds to these agencies for the delivery of marine nature conservation policy. Both of these organisations fund relevant science to ensure the effective delivery of policy. For instance, in 2007-08, the JNCC were provided with £1 million to complete offshore survey work, and a considerable proportion of this budget will be spent on commissioning offshore survey of areas believed to be important for conservation purposes.

Sugar Beet

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions he or his Ministers have had with the EU Commissioner or her officials on the possible use of sugar beet compensation funding for growers who were forced to cease production as a result of the closure of York and Alscott factories. [170141]

Jonathan Shaw [holding answer 3 December 2007]: Amendments to Council Regulations on sugar were discussed and agreed at the Agriculture Council in September. Subsequent to this, my noble Friend, the Minister of State for Sustainable Food and Farming and Animal Health (Lord Rooker), wrote to the Commissioner about the implementing regulation, which was being discussed at the Management Committee.

British Sugar have made an application for restructuring aid, which includes a proposal based on consultation with the National Farmers' Union for the distribution of any aid due to growers and previous growers. The application is being considered.

Tortoises: Imports

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate he has made of the number of wild tortoises imported from Slovenia in the latest period for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [169545]

Joan Ruddock: No estimate has been made. Since Slovenia joined the European Union in May 2004, figures for the movement of tortoises from Slovenia to the UK ceased to exist. Tortoises can be moved freely within the Community. However, if the tortoises are being used for commercial purposes and are of a species controlled at the highest level within the EU (Annex A) then they will require certificates that have been issued under Article 10 of the European Wildlife Trade Regulations, granted by the member state where the specimen is located.

The UK has issued 8,700 such certificates for Annex A tortoises originating in Slovenia since May 2004. All of these have been for captive bred tortoises. No certificates have been issued since May 2004 for wild taken tortoises.

UK Marine Monitoring and Assessment Strategy

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he expects a UK Marine Monitoring and Assessment Strategy to be implemented; and if he will make a statement. [170933]

Jonathan Shaw: The UK Marine Monitoring and Assessment Strategy (UKMMAS) will reach the end of its 'transition phase' in January 2008. By then, the underlying concepts of the UKMMAS will have been embedded across the Government, devolved administrations, agencies, and other organisations responsible for the collection of marine monitoring data.

As we enter the 'business as usual' phase of the UKMMAS, post January 2008, work will continue in ensuring its requirements can be met by all in the marine monitoring community. It is during this phase of the UKMMAS where the real benefits of improved co-ordination of marine monitoring activities will become apparent.

Instigating such a fundamental step-change in our approach to marine monitoring has, at times, been challenging. Support for the process has always been excellent and benefits are already becoming apparent by way of improved efficiencies and community building.

White Fish: Conservation

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of the cod recovery plan; and if he will make a statement. [170911]

Jonathan Shaw: The UK has recently provided the Commission with its views on the future of the cod recovery mechanism, copies of which I have arranged to be placed in the Libraries of the House. In the meantime, we are exploring with them and the UK industry, possible changes to the scheme for 2008, designed to reduce cod mortality in the short-term, which does not simply involve blunt cuts in days at sea. We will return to the longer term position next year in the context of the ongoing review.

White Fish: Fishing Catches

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he decided to keep the minimum landing size for bass at 36cm; and if he will make a statement. [170885]

Jonathan Shaw: I announced my decision to retain the minimum landing size for bass at 36 centimetres on 25 October 2007. My decision was made following the meeting I convened on 1 October 2007 to discuss this issue with representatives from the sea angling and commercial fishing sectors. Details of my announcement are set out in the autumn 2007 edition of 'Fishing Focus', available in the Library of the House.

Wildlife: Trade

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps the Government are taking to tackle the trade in wildlife on the internet in (a) the United Kingdom and (b) globally. [169546]

Joan Ruddock: In the UK, the Government are working with various organisations such as the Partnership for Action Against Wildlife Crime (PAW), HM Revenue and Customs and the police to establish the extent of trade taking place over the internet that is illegal, and to find effective ways to tackle this. We are also working with the trade, website owners, enforcement experts and other stakeholders to establish codes of practice for internet providers and users.

Globally, we are working with other parties to the convention on international trade in endangered species (CITES) to carry forward the internet trade proposal agreed at the CITES 14th conference of parties (CoP14). This proposal will gauge the scale and nature of illegal internet trade in wildlife globally and then consider ways to tackle illegal internet trade.

We are working closely with enforcement agencies, NGOs, internet providers and website owners to contribute to the review from a UK perspective and the UK Government have already provided the CITES Secretariat with £15,000 to take this work forward.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Alcoholic Drinks: Public Order Offences

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent representations she has received from (a) the Association of Chief Police Officers and (b) the Police Federation on the proposed introduction and implementation of alcohol disorder zones. [170424]

Mr. Coaker: There have been no representations received from the Association of Chief Police Officers and the Police Federation on the proposed introduction and implementation of alcohol disorder zones since the consultation detailed in the Explanatory Memorandum laid with the associated Statutory Instrument in Parliament on 21 November 2007.

Arrests: Drugs

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people under the age of 18 years were (a) arrested and (b) charged with possession of Class (i) A, (ii) B and (iii) C drugs in each police force area in each year since 1997. [167016]

Mr. Coaker: The arrests collection undertaken by the Office for Criminal Justice Reform provides data on persons arrested for recorded crime (notifiable offences) only, by age group, gender, ethnicity, and main offence group, i.e. violence against the person, sexual offences, robbery, burglary, drugs offences etc. More detailed data about specific offences do not form part of this collection.

Cambridgeshire Alcohol Project

Mr. Djanogly: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment she has made of the applicability of the methods utilised in the Cambridgeshire Alcohol Project on a national scale. [171231]

Mr. Coaker: We recognise and greatly welcome the success of Cambridgeshire's award winning "Think 21" alcohol project in driving down the sale of alcohol to under age customers and have begun to assess the best ways in which to promote this scheme nationally.

This work is being taking forward in conjunction with recent national confiscation of alcohol and tackling under-age sales of alcohol campaigns as well as the ongoing responsible alcohol sales campaigns which clamp down on irresponsible retailers who break the law by selling alcohol to children while highlighting the law on under age drinking in public places.

Commissioner of the Police for the Metropolis: Complaints

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent representatives she has received from (a) hon. Members and (b) members of the public calling for the (i) removal and (ii) resignation of the Commissioner of Police for the Metropolis; and if she will make a statement. [167398]

Mr. McNulty: Home Office Ministers have received seven letters from right hon. and hon. Members about this matter. These enclosed or referred to three letters from members of the public. Home Office Ministers have received seven further letters direct from members of the public. My right hon. Friend the Home Secretary's letter of 6 November to the right hon. Member for Haltemprice and Howden (David Davis) made it clear that Sir Ian Blair has her full support.

Crime: Firearms

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when she expects to receive the report she has commissioned from the President of the Association of Chief Police Officers, on gun and gang crime. [169484]

Mr. Coaker: We have received this report from the President of the Association of Chief Police Officers, and it is currently being considered by the ministerial taskforce for the tackling gangs action programme.

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which community projects have been identified to receive the £1 million of additional funding announced on 9 September to help combat gun and gang crime. [169486]

Mr. Coaker: The initial funding has been allocated to: (a) police led partnership initiatives in Liverpool, Manchester, Birmingham and London, including mediation and mentoring services; and (b) agencies involved in a day of action focused on operations to disrupt gang activity and the supply of illegal firearms and ammunition. Decisions on the allocation of the remaining funds should be made by Christmas, and this will include providing some funding to build the capacity of community groups to deliver effective interventions.

Departmental Correspondence

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what percentage of inquiries received by her Department from the public were responded to within (a) one week, (b) 14 days, (c) 28 days, (d) two months and (e) three months in the last period for which figures are available; and in what percentage of cases it took (i) over three months and (ii) over one year to respond. [167369]

Mr. Byrne: The Home Office reports its ministerial correspondence performance annually to the Cabinet Office. The report publishes details for the Home Office and its agencies separately. Details for the calendar year 2006 were published by way of a written ministerial statement on 28 March 2007, Official Report, column 101WS, as follows:

Ministerial correspondence 2006

| | Target for reply (working days) | Number of letters received | Percentage of replies within target |
|---|---|---|---|
| Home Office (non BIA correspondence) | 15 | 9,583 | 93 |

In the same year, performance on public letters in the Home Office was 94 per cent. replied to within the 20 working day target, while 93 per cent. of e-mails were similarly replied to.

Performance in 2006 across the periods requested is provided in the following table.

| | Number of cases received | Within 1 week | Within 14 days | Within 28 days | Within 2 months | Within 3 months | Over 3 months | Percentage Over 1 year |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Home Office (excluding BIA) | | | | | | | | |

CRB records are not held in such a way as to be able to provide the information requested on correspondence dealt with within longer periods. Manual records would have to be checked and disproportionate costs would be incurred.

Driving Offences: Mobile Phones

Susan Kramer: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many prosecutions there have been for using a handheld mobile telephone while driving since the offence was introduced, broken down by (a) year and (b) police authority. [169321]

Mr. Coaker: Driving while using a hand held mobile phone became a specific offence from 1 December 2003.

Available information on prosecutions from 2003 to 2005 is provided in the table. 2006 data will be available next year.

Offences are also dealt with by the offer of a fixed penalty. In 2003, there were 1,888 tickets paid, in 2004 there were 73,976 tickets paid and 126,768 tickets were paid in 2005.

1. 0 = nil.
2. It is known that for some police force areas, the reporting of court proceedings in particular those relating to summary motoring offences, may be less than complete.
3. Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by the courts and police forces. As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when those data are used.

Drug Seizures

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many seizures of (a) methamphetamine, (b) cannabis, (c) cocaine and (d) heroin were made by police forces in England and Wales in each year since 1997; and what the total quantity of each substance was seized. [166842]

Mr. Coaker: Available data for each year between 1997 and 2005 have been published in area tables of the annual 'Seizures of Drugs in England and Wales' series and are shown in the following tables. Seizures of methamphetamine cannot be separately identified from the total for amphetamines.

Drugs are seized in a variety of forms but in table 2 quantities are shown as weights (kg), apart from quantity of cannabis plants which is shown as number of plants.

Conversion factors are applied to estimate the overall quantity for each drug. From 2005 these conversion factors have been revised and quantities data for 2005 are not directly comparable to those for previous years.

Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by police forces and other agencies. As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when those data are used.

Table 1: Number of seizures[1] of controlled drugs by selected drug type: England and Wales 1997 to 2005

| Drug type | 1997 | 1998 | 1999 | 2000 | 2001 | 2002 | 2003 | 2004 | 2005 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Amphetamines[2] | 16,187 | 16,290 | 11,510 | 6,032 | 5,924 | 5,785 | 5,790 | 6,108 | 7,360 |
| Cannabis:[3] | | | | | | | | | |
| Herbal | 24,814 | 27,987 | 23,605 | 24,437 | 28,532 | 36,911 | 32,858 | 38,595 | 69,766 |

| Plants | 3,568 | 2,696 | 2,157 | 1,893 | 1,711 | 2,199 | 2,680 | 2,780 | 4,098 |
| Total[4] | 73,450 | 86,540 | 92,210 | 78,350 | 73,220 | 74,250 | 79,600 | 74,613 | 111,212 |
| Cocaine | 2,930 | 4,114 | 4,619 | 4,254 | 4,806 | 4,515 | 5,750 | 6,787 | 10,711 |
| Heroin | 10,444 | 12,593 | 12,644 | 12,971 | 14,517 | 12,543 | 10,460 | 10,980 | 13,243 |

[1] As a seizure can involve more than one drug, figures for individual drugs cannot be added together to produce totals.
[2] Methamphetamine seizures cannot be separately identified from total number of amphetamine seizures.
[3] With effect from 1 April 2004 the Home Office issued guidance that gave an additional disposal option of a formal warning for cannabis possession. The widespread and growing use of this new disposal is thought to have been a likely contributory factor in the increase in the number of police seizures for cannabis in 2005.
[4] As a seizure can involve more than one form of cannabis, the 'cannabis total' figure is not the sum of its different forms.

n/a = not applicable
[1] All quantities are in kilograms except for ecstasy-type (doses) and cannabis plants (numbers).
[2] Drugs are seized in a variety of forms but, where possible, amounts have been converted to weights (kg) and, for cannabis plants, number of plants. Conversion factors have been revised for 2005 data. 2005 quantity data should not be directly compared to those for previous years.
[3] Quantity of methamphetamine cannot be separately identified from total amount of amphetamines seized.
[4] It is not possible to combine cannabis weights (kg) and amount (plants) to give a 'cannabis total quantity'

Drugs: Telephone Services

Dr. Iddon: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will give a breakdown of callers to the FRANK helpline by category of relevant drug in the latest period for which figures are available. [168907]

Dawn Primarolo: I have been asked to reply.

Data for the breakdown of calls to the FRANK Helpline by category of relevant drug taken from call dates between 1 April 2007 to 1 November 2007, are outlined in the following table:

[1] All figures are full-time equivalents (FTE) rounded to the nearest whole number.
[2] The London totals comprise officer totals for Metropolitan police and City of London police. They are 'not' totals of the London boroughs because they also include Heathrow and Central Services. Excludes officers on career breaks and maternity/paternity leave.

Prostitution

Mr. MacShane: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many men were (a) arrested and (b) prosecuted for crimes arising from them paying for sex in each of the last five years. [165133]

Mr. Coaker: The arrests collection undertaken by the Office for Criminal Justice Reform only provides data on persons arrested for recorded crime (notifiable offences) by age group, gender, ethnicity, and main offence group, i.e. violence against the person, sexual offences, robbery, burglary, etc. More detailed data about specific offences do not form part of this collection.

The following table sets out the number of men proceeded against at magistrates courts and found guilty at all courts in England and Wales between 2001 and 2005 for offences related to paying for sex.

Number of male persons proceeded against at magistrates courts and found guilty at all courts for selected sexual offences, England and Wales 2001-05[1, 2]

[1] These data are provided on the principal offence basis

[2] Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by the courts and police forces. As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when those data are used.

[3] Data not applicable (2003 Sexual Offences Act did not come into force until 2004).

Rape: Drugs

Mr. Boris Johnson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) reports of, (b) arrests for and (c) convictions for drug rape were made in London in each of the last 10 years. [169813]

Mr. Coaker: The information requested is not collected centrally. Data on offences of rape recorded by the police are collected by the Home Office. Data on arrests and those convicted are collected by the Office for Criminal Justice Reform. However, it is not possible to separately identify drug rapes in either statistical series.

Special Constables

Mr. Boris Johnson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many special constables there were in (a) England and (b) each London borough in each year since 1997. [166929]

Mr. McNulty: The available information is in the following tables. Police officer figures for London boroughs were collected centrally from 2003.

Swords and Daggers

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when she will introduce regulations to restrict the sale, re-sale and importation of samurai swords; and if she will make a statement. [170026]

Mr. Coaker: The Government issued a consultation paper in March 2007 seeking views on proposals to ban samurai swords and other offensive weapons. We expect to publish a summary of responses to the consultation paper before the end of the year, which will set out the Government's intentions on introducing regulations to restrict the sale, re-sale and importation of samurai swords.

HEALTH

Brent Teaching Primary Care Trust

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he plans to publish the findings of the Taylor Review into the financial management of Brent Primary Care Trust. [167561]

Mr. Bradshaw: We have no plans to publish the findings of this review as this is a matter for the local national health service. However, we are informed by NHS London that the report has not yet been finalised and is going through due process.

I have asked the chair of Brent Teaching Primary Care Trust to write to the hon. Member regarding this matter.

Dental Services

Daniel Kawczynski: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether he plans to make adjustments to the distribution of units of dental activity across different dental functions in light of the experience of the April 2006 dental contracts. [169262]

Ann Keen: Units of dental activity are essentially banded courses of treatment, weighted according to the relative average complexity of the three dental charge bands. The current weightings are derived from the previous general dental services fee-scale. Each fee included an element which reflected the relative time taken for the procedure and the expenses incurred. The weighted averaging inherent in the new system means some courses of treatment will involve more time and expense than the average for that band, others less. There are no plans to change the distribution of the existing weighted courses of treatment. However dentists' working patterns under the new system are kept under review.

Daniel Kawczynski: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the effect of the April 2006 dental contract on the provision of maintenance dental activities, including screening for oral cancer, preventing decay and monitoring children's dental growth and need for orthodontics. [169263]

Ann Keen: Preventive as well as diagnostic treatments are included in a Band 1 course of treatment as set out in Schedule 1 to the NHS (Dental Charges) Regulations 2005 (SI. 2005/3477 as amended). Under a Band 1 course of treatment dentists are required to undertake a clinical examination and diagnosis. Diagnosis includes checking for signs of oral diseases such as oral cancer and any issues with developing teeth and face including any need for orthodontic correction. A Band 1 course of treatment also provides for instruction in the prevention of dental and oral disease including dietary advice and dental hygiene instruction, surface application as primary preventive measures of sealants and topical fluoride preparations where clinically indicated. Epidemiological surveys of child dental health are generally undertaken by salaried dentists employed by primary care trusts.

Daniel Kawczynski: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the effect of the April 2006 dental contract on (a) existing and (b) newly-established dental practices. [169264]

Ann Keen: Dentists providing general dental services (GDS) at 31 March 2006 were entitled to a contract under the new arrangements and a contract value based on historic GDS gross earnings. This was designed to protect those income levels for a three year transitional period. The Department is not aware of significant differences in experience between existing and newly established providers of primary care dental services under the new dental system.

Daniel Kawczynski: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what the total shortfall of units of dental activity (UDAs) was among NHS dentists in England who did not undertake the contracted number of UDAs in the financial year 2006-07; [169265]

(2) what average number of units of dental activity (UDAs) undertaken was as a percentage of the contracted number of UDAs for NHS dentists in England in the financial year 2006-07. [169266]

Ann Keen: Data released by the Dental Services Division of the Business Service Authority show that the total shortfall for national health service dental contracts delivering less than 100 per cent. of contracted activity in 2006-07 was 5.3 million units of dental activity. 94.8 per cent. of total contracted units of dental activity were delivered in 2006-07.

Notes:

1. The data are available by NHS dental contract. A contract may cover one dentist or a number of dentists.

2. The data provided relate to contracts open for the whole of 2006-07.

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) dentists and (b) orthodontists provided services to the NHS in each of the last five years, broken down by primary care trust. [169284]

Ann Keen: Numbers of national health service dentists at primary care trust (PCT) and strategic health authority (SHA) level as at 31 March 1997 to 2006 are available in Annex E of the "NHS Dental Activity and Workforce Report England: 31 March 2006". Information at parliamentary constituency level is available in Annex G.

This information is based on the old contractual arrangements. This report is available in the Library and is available at:

www.ic.nhs.uk/statistics-and-data-collections/primary-care/dentistry/nhs-dental-activity-and-worforce-report-england-31-march-2006

The numbers of NHS dentists at PCT and SHA level as at 30 June, 30 September, 31 December 2006 and 31 March 2007 are available in Table E1 of Annex 3 of the NHS "Dental Statistics for England: 2006-07" report. This information is based on the new dental contractual arrangements, introduced on 1 April 2006.

This report is available in the Library and is available at:

www.ic.nhs.uk/pubs/dental0607

The inclusion of dentists on trust led contracts in the data collection following the 2006 reforms means that data collected since April 2006 cannot be directly compared with data collected under the previous system.

The numbers quoted in the above reports are headcounts and do not differentiate between full- and part-time dentists, nor do they account for the fact that some dentists may do more NHS work than others.

In both of these reports, it is not possible to separately identify dentists undertaking orthodontic work.

Orthodontist information is only separately identifiable within the Hospital and Community Health Service (HCHS) of which PCTs are not a part. The following table shows HCHS data for England and SHA areas.

The Information Centre for health and social care Medical and Dental Workforce Census

The methodology and frequency for reporting workforce information are being reviewed. The purpose of the review is to ensure that, following experience of the first year of the new dental contract, figures provide an appropriate measure of the workforce, given the way that the workforce reporting system is being used by PCTs. An update on the review will be provided in the "NHS Dentals Statistics for England, Quarter 2, 30 September 2007" publication, which is due to be published in February 2008.

Mr. Randall: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what percentage of people were registered with an NHS dentist in each year since 1997. [169677]

Ann Keen: The proportion of the population registered with an NHS dentist, in England, as at 31 March 1997 to 2006 is available in Annex B of the "NHS Dental Activity and Workforce Report, England: 31 March 2006".

This information is based on the old contractual arrangements. This report was published on 23 August 2006 and has been placed in the Library and is also available at:

www.ic.nhs.uk/statistics-and-data-collections/primary-care/dentistry/nhs-dental-activity-and-workforce-report-england-31-march-2006

Under the new contractual arrangements, introduced on 1 April 2006, patients do not have to be registered with a dentist to receive national health service care. The closest equivalent measure to 'registration' is the number of patients receiving NHS dental services ('patients seen') in a given area over a 24-month period, for that area. However, this is not directly comparable to the registration data for earlier years.

The number of patients seen in the previous 24 months as a percentage of the population are available in Table C2 of Annex 3 of the "NHS Dental Statistics for England 2007-08 Quarter 1 30 June 2007" report. Information is available for the 24-month periods ending 31 March 2006, 31 March 2007 and 30 June 2007.

This report, published on 28 November 2007, is available in the Library and is available at:

www.ic.nhs.uk/pubs/dentstatsq10708

Both reports have been published by The Information Centre for health and social care.

Dental Services: Finances

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what account is taken in primary dental care service funding allocations of unmet demand for NHS dentistry provision. [166581]

Ann Keen: Primary care trusts (PCTs) were awarded devolved primary dental service funding allocations from 1 April 2006, based on the level of dental activity and costs observed in each area in the 12-month period October 2004 to September 2005, with appropriate additions to absorb subsequent annual contract value upratings, previously agreed service developments, and expected changes associated with the new ways of working fostered by the new dental contract. These initial allocations allowed PCTs to sustain national health service provision in each area and honour the commitment to offer all serving dentists replacement contracts. These historical levels of expenditure reflected where dentists had previously chosen to set up in practice and how much NHS work they chose to do.

The new dental service reforms cannot correct historical imbalances in provision overnight, but by granting the NHS greater control they provide a stable base from which PCTs can plan further developments and use the flexibilities offered by the new contract to make the most effective use of dental resources. PCTs are best placed to assess factors such as the levels of unmet demand for NHS services in each locality, and can supplement provision for dentistry from within their total NHS resources if they consider this an appropriate local priority.

Based on PCTs' initial devolved dental allocations, NHS net expenditure on primary care dental services in 2006-07, after taking account of the contribution from patient charges, was over £400 million higher than in 2003-04, an increase over three years of 30 per cent. which has helped the NHS expand services in some areas that had previously struggled to attract NHS dentists. The Department is reviewing the basis of PCT dental allocations after the initial three-year transitional period for the new service arrangements ends in March 2009.

Dental Services: Greater London

Mr. Randall: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) 18 to 65-year-olds and (b) under 18-year-olds were registered for NHS dental treatment in (i) Uxbridge constituency, (ii) Hillingdon primary care trust and (iii) Greater London in each year since 1997. [169678]

Ann Keen: The numbers of patients registered with an NHS dentist at primary care trust and strategic health authority area are available in Annex A of the "NHS Dental Activity and Workforce Report, England: 31 March 2006". Information is available annually as at 31 March 1997 to 2006 and is broken down by children (aged 17 and under) and adults (aged 18 and over). Information is available at parliamentary constituency area in Annex C of this report.

This report, published on 23 August 2006, is available in the Library and is available at:

www.ic.nhs.uk/statistics-and-data-collections/primary-care/dentistry/nhs-dental-activity-and-workforce-report-england-31-march-2006

Departmental Public Expenditure

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how his Department absorbed its full near-cash overspend in 2005-06 from within its central budget; [165688]

(2) how his Department's near-cash overspend in 2005-06 was incurred, broken down by main budget heading. [165689]

Mr. Bradshaw: The national health service net deficit was the main reason for additional near-cash expenditure in 2005-06. The Department of Health's Departmental Report 2007 provides a breakdown of 2005-06 NHS resource expenditure across programme budgets.

As set out in the Budget 2006, there has been a re-profiling of the Department's budgets across the 2004 spending review years.

Disabled: Social Security Benefits

Mr. Gale: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will meet ministerial colleagues in the Department for Work and Pensions to discuss the relationship between benefits paid to people with disabilities and the fuel costs incurred by such people because of their disability. [165437]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: Fuel poverty is recognised by the Department as an important factor in contributing to excess winter deaths and poor health. It is recognised that disabled people are at high risk of the effects of fuel poverty, with potential negative impacts upon their health and well being. The increased costs of fuel over the last few years, makes it more difficult for people on disability benefits to pay for adequate heating. Therefore we will meet with ministerial colleagues in the Department for Work and Pensions to discuss the relationship between benefits paid to people with disabilities and the fuel costs incurred by such people because of their disability.

Doctors: Loans

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what representations he has received on the ability of Foundation Year (a) 1 and (b) 2 doctors to make interest payments on their student loans. [164574]

Ann Keen: We have received no such representations. Student debt falls outside the remit of the Department.

Doctors: Training

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many training places were provided for registrar group doctors in 2007, broken down by region and specialty. [165686]

Ann Keen: The requested information has been placed in the Library.

Eye Care Services Steering Group

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the membership is of the Eye Care Services Steering Group; and how many times it has met. [166374]

Ann Keen: The Eye Care Services Steering Group has met nine times since its inception in 2002. The membership consists of representatives from the national health service, eye care professional bodies and trade associations, social services, voluntary sector and a representative from the General Optical Council.

Heart Diseases: Medical Treatments

Dr. Desmond Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what proportion of patients undergoing percutaneous coronary interventions received (a) a drug-eluting stent and (b) a bare metal stent in each year since 2003 in (i) England, (ii) each strategic health authority and (iii) each NHS trust. [165844]

Ann Keen: This information has been placed in the Library.

Dr. Desmond Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the average number of bed days spent in hospital by patients receiving (a) coronary artery bypass operations and (b) percutaneous coronary interventions was in each year since guidance on the use of coronary artery stents was issued by the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence in 2003 in (i) England, (ii) each strategic health authority and (iii) each NHS trust. [165856]

Ann Keen: This information has been placed in the Library.

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many cardiac rehabilitation programmes there are, broken down by NHS trust. [166375]

Ann Keen: The Department does not collect this information centrally. However, the British Heart Foundation and the British Association of Cardiac Rehabilitation maintain a voluntary register of cardiac rehabilitation programmes which holds details of around 340 programmes. Further details can be found on their website at:

www.cardiac-rehabilitation.net/

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if his Department will provide funding to the National Heart and Lung Institute for a study of gender bias in cardiac treatment. [166600]

Ann Keen: Implementation of the Government's research strategy Best Research for Best Health is resulting in an expansion of the Department's research programmes and in significant new funding opportunities for health research. These National Institute for Health Research (NIHR) programmes support high quality research of relevance and in areas of high priority to patients and the national health service. Any academic organisation can apply to be considered for funding. Details, including the scope of the programmes and the arrangements for making applications, are available on the NIHR website at: www.nihr.ac.uk. Funding awards are in all cases made after open, competitive, peer review.

Heart Diseases: Transplant Surgery

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the cost of using beating heart transplant technology in transplant units for one year; and if he will make a statement. [168317]

Ann Keen: We have made no estimate of the cost of using beating heart transplant technology in transplant units. It is for commissioners of heart transplant services to consider the clinical and cost effectiveness of any technology.

Heart Diseases: Waiting Times

Dr. Desmond Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment his Department has made of the likely effect on waiting times for cardiology treatment if the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence's decision not to recommend treatment with drug-eluting stents in the NHS is upheld. [165845]

Ann Keen: The National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) is reviewing its October 2003 guidance on the use of drug-eluting stents for the treatment of coronary artery disease. NICE is currently considering the responses it has received from stakeholders during the recent consultation on its draft recommendations.

NICE expects to publish final guidance in March 2008. Waiting times for cardiology treatment are not expected to be affected by this publication next year, regardless of NICE's recommendations.

Dr. Desmond Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what proportion of patients waiting for (a) coronary artery bypass operations and (b) percutaneous coronary intervention were treated within the target 18 week working time from referral to treatment in (i) England, (ii) each strategic health authority and (iii) each NHS trust in the latest period for which figures are available. [165846]

Ann Keen: The Department does not collect this information centrally.

Dr. Desmond Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the average waiting time for patients waiting for (a) coronary artery bypass operations and (b) percutaneous coronary interventions was in each year since guidance on the use of coronary artery stents was issued by the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence in 2003 in (i) England, (ii) each strategic health authority and (iii) each NHS trust. [165855]

Ann Keen: This information has been placed in the Library.

Hospitals: Admissions

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the mean age of patients admitted via accident and emergency was in 2005-06 in (a) England and (b) each primary care trust area. [162863]

Mr. Bradshaw: The information has been placed in the Library.

Hospitals: Cleaning Services

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps his Department is planning to take to enable (a) matrons and (b) ward sisters to report concerns about hospital cleanliness. [165719]

Ann Keen: The Chief Nursing Officer and the Director General of National Health Service Finance, Performance and Operations wrote to the Chief Executives of strategic health authorities, NHS trusts and Foundation Trusts on 1 November setting out the requirements for local systems to ensure regular reporting to trust boards and for an escalation system to allow for nursing staff to raise their concerns.

Hospitals: Food

Anne Main: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the average daily cost to the public purse was of food provided to each hospital patient in the most recent period for which figures are available. [168202]

Ann Keen: Information is not collected in the precise format requested. However, in 2006-07 the average amount spent per patient meal was £2.83. This amount includes the cost of provisions and staff costs. Patients are expected to receive three main meals a day and the average total daily cost of providing food for hospital patients can therefore be estimated to be £8.49.

Hospitals: Infectious Diseases

Mr. Waterson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps his Department is taking to reduce the rates of antibiotic resistant infections in hospitals. [165311]

Ann Keen: We are continuing to build on the UK Antimicrobial Resistance Strategy and Action Plan which has three key interrelated elements: surveillance, prudent antimicrobial use and infection control. A copy has been placed in the Library. A number of our main activities are described as follows.

Our programme to tackle health care associated infections has produced three annual decreases in reported Methicillin resistant Staphylococcus aureus blood stream infections. However, we are continuing to develop our surveillance system, and publish the results to support local actions. We have introduced, The Health Act 2006—Code of Practice for the Prevention and Control of Healthcare Associated Infections and developed the Saving Lives programme to help trusts improve infection control and prescribing. The latest version of Saving Lives includes a summary of best practice for antimicrobial prescribing which is available in the Library.

We also run a national campaign to increase awareness of antibiotic resistance and have a scientific advisory committee, the Advisory Committee on Antimicrobial Resistance and Healthcare Associated Infection, to cover these issues.

Macular Degeneration: Drugs

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what advice is given by the National Institute for Clinical Excellence to primary care trusts on the prescribing of the drug Lucentis to treat Macular Disease; and if he will make a statement. [171174]

Dawn Primarolo: The National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence is currently appraising Lucentis (ranibizumab) and Macugen (pegaptanib) for the treatment of age-related macular degeneration. Final guidance to the national health service is expected in early 2008.

Marfan Syndrome

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he plans to take to raise awareness of Marfan syndrome among medical professionals. [169340]

Ann Keen: The Clinical Knowledge Summaries database which is available at www.cks.library.nhs.uk/ specifically set-up to provide clinical information for health professionals and patients, contains information on the diagnosis and treatment of Marfan syndrome.

Maternity Services: Finance

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make it his policy periodically to review the funding of maternity services in those areas with live birth rates significantly above the national average; and if he will make a statement. [170721]

Ann Keen: Payment by Results is transforming the way key national health service services are funded by paying hospitals according to the number and complexity of cases treated. The tariff payment for births is therefore based on activity in a given area.

Maternity Services: Standards

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the quality of (a) birth conditions and (b) training opportunities provided by each type of childbirth unit. [168189]

Ann Keen: It would be for primary care trusts (PCTs) to make such assessments when deciding how best to commission maternity services for their resident populations. However, our policy, as laid out in 'Maternity Matters', published in April this year, is to encourage PCTs to allow mothers as much choice as possible as to where they wish to give birth.

Maternity Matters also sets out clearly details about responsibilities for ensuring an adequate trained work force to provide maternity services while allowing mothers as much choice as possible.

NHS: Reorganisation

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) who has been invited to sit on the four national review groups contributing to Lord Darzi's review of the NHS; [166162]

(2) which patient groups will be involved in Lord Darzi's review of the NHS, including on the four national review groups on (a) constitution, (b) leadership, (c) workforce/education and (d) quality. [166163]

Ann Keen: Membership of the national working groups will be finalised shortly and details published. A wide range of stakeholder groups including patient groups will be involved in the groups and in other elements of the National Health Service Next Stage Review.

NHS: Waiting Lists

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the effect on NHS staff numbers in (a) 2007 and (b) 2008 of meeting the target that patients should not have to wait longer than 18 weeks for treatment. [165701]

Ann Keen: Service transformation, supported by the significant increase in the workforce since 1997, new ways of working and productivity gains, will enable 18 weeks to be delivered and sustained.

Nurses: Schools

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many primary care trusts (PCTs) have at least one full-time year round qualified school nurse for each cluster or group of primary schools and related secondary schools; which PCTs do not have such provision; and if he will make a statement. [165790]

Ann Keen: The following table shows the number of primary care trusts (PCTs) and trusts who employ qualified school nurses who hold the Nursing and Midwifery Council Specialist Practice Qualification with an outcome in school nursing.

School nurses are generally employed by PCTs although some school nurses will be directly employed by both state and independent schools. The national health service workforce census does not capture these. A number of qualified school nurses will also work conterminously across PCTs boundaries but be directly employed by one single PCT.

In 2006 there were 1,129 school nurses with a school nurse qualification. This is an increase of 31.9 per cent since 2004.

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much has been made centrally available to meet the target of having a school nurse in each primary care trust by 2010; and how many school nurses and school health assistants were employed by each primary care trust in England in each of the last five years. [165791]

Ann Keen: Central funding of £20 million was made available in 2006-07 and £22 million 2007-08.

Tables showing the number of school nurses and school health assistants have been placed in the Library. School health assistants are included in levels one and two in the tables.

Organs: Donors

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people are on the Register of Organ Donors. [168320]

Ann Keen: As of 27 November 2007, 14,875,956 people were registered on the Organ Donor Register. This represents around 24 per cent. of the population. Work continues to increase the number of individuals on the Organ Donor Register. with the aim of having 16 million people registered by 2010.

Ritalin: Children

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 20 November 2007, Official Report, columns 837-8W to the hon. Member for Yeovil, on ritalin: children, if he will break down the number of children prescribed ritalin in each year since 1999 by primary care trust. [169168]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: Information is not available in the format requested.

Specialist Nurses

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether he plans to reimburse private employers for the cost of specialist nurse visits. [165561]

Ann Keen: The Department has no plans to reimburse private employers with the cost of specialist nurse visits. Local trusts are free to determine how these visits are funded.

Spinal Injuries

Mr. Gale: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the domestic heating needs of persons suffering from high lesion spinal cord injuries; and if he will make a statement. [165438]

Ann Keen: We have made no assessment of the domestic heating needs of those living with high lesion spinal cord injuries.

Suffolk NHS Trust: Manpower

Mr. Spring: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) doctors, (b) nurses, (c) dentists and (d) non-medical staff were employed in Suffolk NHS Trust in each of the last five years. [166150]

Ann Keen: The information requested can be found in the following table.

National health service staff in the West Suffolk hospitals NHS trust by main staff group as at 30 September each specified year

[1] More accurate validation processes in 2006 have resulted in the identification and removal of 9,858 duplicate non-medical staff records out of the total workforce figure of 1.3 million in 2006. Earlier years figures could not be accurately validated in this way and so will be slightly inflated. The level of inflation in earlier years figures is estimated to be less than one per cent. of total across all non-medical staff groups for headcount figures (and negligible for full time equivalents). This should be taken into consideration when analysing trends over time.

Note:

The numbers of healthcare scientists were not collected until 2004. Prior to this they were collected with other ST and T.

Transplant Surgery: Waiting Lists

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people are on a waiting list for a transplant of each type of organ in each primary care trust area. [167644]

Ann Keen: This information has been placed in the Library.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

Afghanistan Compact

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether an assessment has been made of the effectiveness of existing arrangements for the strategic co-ordination of the implementation of the Afghanistan Compact; and if he will make a statement. [167422]

David Miliband: The UN and Afghan government co-chair the Joint Co-ordination and Monitoring Board (JCMB), which includes all the major donors. The JCMB was established to ensure benchmarks set in the Compact are met. We continue to support UN efforts to provide the necessary impetus to ensure the board remains responsive, effective and committed. The JCMB last met in Kabul on 3 October 2007 and will next meet in February 2008.

Ballistic Missile Defence

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when the Government were contacted by the United States to request use of Menwith Hill as part of its missile defence system; and if he will make a statement. [166066]

David Miliband: The request from the US to use RAF Menwith Hill as part of the US missile defence system was made in a letter to my right hon. Friend the Defence Secretary on 29 June 2007.

Beijing: Olympic Games

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the freedoms that journalists are likely to have at the Beijing Olympics next year; what assessment he has made of whether such freedoms are likely to be in line with (a) international norms and (b) commitments made by China in the bidding process for the Olympic games; and if he will make a statement. [166065]

David Miliband: We welcome the regulations implemented by the Chinese Government on 1 January, which lift restrictions on foreign correspondents in China up to and including the Olympics. We continue to urge China to make the regulations permanent, and to ensure greater media freedom, including for domestic journalists in line with international standards. My right hon. Friend the Minister for the Olympics and for London did so during her visit to Beijing from 11 to 15 November. The commitments made by Olympic hosts are a matter for the International Olympic Committee.

Bombs

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if the Government will call for a definition of cluster munitions to be banned under the Oslo process encompassing both dumb and smart cluster munitions. [169784]

Dr. Howells [holding answer 3 December 2007]: There is no internationally agreed definition of a cluster munition, or of a distinction between "dumb" and "smart". A definition will be the key element to negotiate in any future instrument, both in the Oslo process and in the framework of the Convention on Certain Conventional Weapons. We believe the focus should be on banning those cluster munitions that pose the greatest risk to civilians: those without target discrimination or an in-built self-destruct/self-deactivation mechanism.

Burma: Human Rights

Mr. MacDougall: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make a statement on the political situation of the Karen people in Burma. [171064]

Meg Munn: We remain concerned about the situation in Karen State. Attacks carried out by the Burmese army on civilians in northern and western Karen State have been particularly intense over the past two years and have resulted in a significant increase in the number of internally displaced people and refugees on the Thai/Burmese border.

We have repeatedly called for a halt to such offensives and have urged both the military regime and the Karen National Union to intensify their efforts to find a peaceful settlement that will bring about a permanent end to the conflict. We support Aung San Suu Kyi's statement of 8 November, released through the UN Secretary-General's special envoy, Professor Ibrahim Gambari, calling for a genuine national dialogue between the Government, Opposition parties and ethnic groups in Burma.

Burma: Sanctions

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 14 November 2007, Official Report, column 313W, on Burma: sanctions, when he expects the report by EU heads of missions in Rangoon requested by the presidency into sanctions on Burma to be complete. [167249]

David Miliband: We have asked the EU Presidency to expedite the report so it can be considered before the next EU General Affairs and External Relations Council due to take place on 10 December.

Christmas

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how much his Department and its agencies have spent on Christmas (a) cards, (b) parties and (c) decorations in each of the last five years. [171439]

Meg Munn: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office does not hold dedicated accounts for official expenditure of this nature and the information requested by the hon. Member could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Colombia: Drugs

Colin Burgon: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assistance his Department provided to the Colombian authorities for counter-narcotics operations in each year from 2004 to 2007; and what such assistance will be provided for 2008. [171069]

Dr. Howells: Preventing the importation of cocaine into the UK from Colombia is a top priority for the UK's international counter-narcotics efforts. The UK works closely with the Colombian authorities to disrupt trafficking and to interdict consignments of illicit drugs.

In the period 2004 to 2007, the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) has invested in various counter-narcotics projects in Colombia through its Global Opportunities Fund's Drugs and Crime Programme of some £1.5million. These projects have helped to build capacity among Colombian law enforcement agencies and the judiciary. Projects have covered subjects such as best practice in forensics, anti-money laundering and financial investigation techniques, judicial process and the provision of chemical analysis equipment at Colombian airports.

The FCO has also supported drugs awareness campaigns in Colombian schools. In addition, Colombia has benefited from the UN Office on Drugs and Crime's Latin American projects that the UK has co-funded to improve institutional capacity across the region.

No decision has yet been made on what assistance might be provided for 2008.

The UK does not work with Colombia in isolation. We take a broad regional approach to tackling the trade in illicit drugs, through a mixture of political engagement, capacity building and law enforcement support in producer, transit and consumer countries. This includes working with Governments of other producer and transit countries in Latin America, as well as with Governments in countries along the main trafficking routes for drugs from Latin America (especially via the Caribbean and West Africa).

Democratic Republic of Congo: Sanctions

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his assessment is of the implementation of European Union sanctions on

Democratic Republic of Congo, with particular reference to the UK's compliance; what the total amount of assets frozen is by (a) EU member states and (b) the United Kingdom in line with these sanctions; and if he will make a statement. [166069]

David Miliband: The UK is firmly committed to the full implementation of all EU sanctions, along with our EU partners.

EU member states do not systematically share detailed information concerning the value of funds they have identified and frozen. However, they are legally obliged to freeze all funds and economic resources belonging to persons and entities listed under the sanctions regime. It is prohibited to make funds or economic resources available, directly or indirectly, to these persons and entities.

The reported balance of UK frozen funds in relation to UN and EU sanctions on the Democratic Republic of Congo amounts to £4,721.00.

Departmental Labour Turnover

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the percentage turnover of staff was in (a) his Department and (b) his Department's agencies in (i) the last 12-month period and (ii) the last 24-month period for which figures are available. [169035]

Meg Munn: Over the 12 months to 1 November 2007, the number of UK-based civil servants employed by the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) fell from 6,135 to 6,104. During this period 475 staff left the FCO. This represents 7.8 per cent. of the average work force over the period.

Over the 24 months to 1 November 2007, the number of UK-based civil servants fell from 6,108 to 6,104. During this period 980 staff left the FCO. This represents 16 per cent. of the average work force over the period.

All these figures include staff working in FCO Services and Wilton Park, the two executive agencies of the FCO. We are not able to calculate staff turnover for these two agencies separately from the FCO totals.

Departmental Ministerial Policy Advisors

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the office costs for his Department's special advisers for 2007-08 are expected to be, including costs of support staff; and how many full-time equivalent civil servants work in support of such special advisers. [164927]

David Miliband: The code of conduct for special advisers states that

> "In order to enable special advisers to work effectively, Departments may allocate permanent civil servants to provide support of a non-political nature".

Two civil servants provide full-time support to the special advisers. Office costs will be accounted for in the 2007-08 departmental annual report and accounts.

Departmental Public Expenditure

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the Winter Supplementary Estimates (HC 29), if he will break down his Department's (a) main estimate and (b) winter supplementary estimate provision by subhead in (i) near cash and (ii) non-cash terms. [166849]

David Miliband: In the Foreign and Commonwealth Office's (FCO) Main Estimate 2007-08, all subheads are near cash with the exception of A1 and F2. The subhead A1 consists of £798,280,000 near cash and £156,719,000 non-cash. The subhead F2 of £50,000,000 is completely non-cash. The total non-cash element is £206,719,000. The total non-cash figure can be found in the Part II: Resource to cash reconciliation table in the main estimate, it is the figure shown as "Total accruals to cash adjustments" (£206,719,000).

Similarly, in the FCO's winter supplementary estimate 2007-08, all subheads are near cash with the exception of A1 and F2. The subhead A1 consists of £815,302,000 near cash and £156,719,000 non-cash. The subhead F2 of £50,000,000 is completely non-cash. Total non-cash expenditure is unchanged from the main estimate at £206,719,000.

Please note that data taken from supply estimates or resource accounts are not necessarily readily compatible with a near-cash/non-cash split, which is used only within the departmental expenditure limit budgetary controls applied by HM Treasury.

Iran: Sanctions

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Stroud of 14 November 2007, Official Report, column 318W, on Iran: sanctions, which EU working groups will be considering further sanctions measures against Iran before the December General Affairs and External Relations Council meeting; and if he will make a statement. [167248]

David Miliband: Discussions on further EU measures against Iran would be carried out in the Political and Security Committee and the working group covering the Middle East, the Committee on the Middle East and Gulf (COMEM) reinforced by non-proliferation experts from the Committee on Non-Proliferation (CONOP).

Iraq: Resettlement

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many Iraqi civilians have worked for the British Government since the invasion of Iraq in 2003; how many of these were contracted for a period of (a) less than six months, (b) six to 12 months and (c) 12 months or more; and if he will make a statement. [163413]

David Miliband: Many thousands of Iraqis have worked for the Government since 2003. They have worked for the Government either directly or via contractors. Information on the length of service of the employees is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Papua: Human Rights

Mr. Andrew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (1) what recent representations he has made to the Government of Indonesia on the situation in West Papua; [170719]

(2) if he will make representations to the government of Indonesia on upholding the right to freedom of expression and assembly in West Papua. [170720]

Meg Munn: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary has not discussed Papua with the Indonesian Government. However, I met the governor of Papua, Barnabus Suebo, when he visited London on 25 October. We discussed the situation in Papua, including human rights and the implementation of the Special Autonomy Law. Our embassy in Jakarta regularly discusses human rights issues, including in Papua, with the Indonesian Government. The human rights situation in Indonesia has improved considerably in recent years, and President Yudhoyono is continuing efforts to push through reforms, including to the security sector. We will continue to raise these issues with the Indonesian Government.

MI6

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make a statement about the work and function of the IOps section of MI6. [169549]

David Miliband: I refer the hon. Member to the reply my right hon. Friend the Member for Derby, South (Margaret Beckett), the then Foreign Secretary gave to him on 14 July 2006, Official Report, column 2138W.

Nuclear Disarmament

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs for what reason the Government voted against the resolution on decreasing the operational readiness of nuclear weapons in the United Nations First Committee on Disarmament. [171324]

Dr. Howells: The United Kingdom provided an 'Explanation of Vote' (EoV) in a statement to the United Nations First Committee. This noted that we do not subscribe to the basic premise of the resolution that the world is at risk due to large numbers of nuclear weapons at dangerously high levels of alert. A copy of the EoV will be placed in the Library of the House.

Occupied Territories: Armed Conflict

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent discussions (a) he, (b) Ministers in his Department and (c) officials in his Department have had with the Government of Israel on rocket attacks on Israel from Gaza; and if he will make a statement. [169600]

Meg Munn: The Government have discussed the continued firing of rockets by Palestinian militants from Gaza into Israel with the Israeli Government on numerous occasions, and most recently during the visit of my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary to Israel and the Occupied Palestinian Territories on 17-19 November.

Over 1,000 Qassam rockets and mortar shells have been fired at Israeli targets since Hamas seized control of Gaza on 14 June 2007, wounding a number of Israelis. It has also caused damage to infrastructure. We continue to call for an immediate halt to these attacks, which target civilians and only escalate an already tense situation. While acknowledging Israel's right to defend itself, we call on Israel to show restraint in the face of these attacks and make clear that any response must be in accordance with international law.

Pakistan: Politics and Government

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he plans to discuss the situation in Pakistan with his ASEAN counterparts; and if he will make a statement. [164100]

David Miliband: We continue to engage in on-going dialogue with our Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) partners, most recently with the attendance of my hon. Friend the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs at the EU-ASEAN summit on 22 November.

I have discussed the situation with EU colleagues and other international partners, including most recently Commonwealth partners on 22 November. We continue to urge the Pakistani Government to implement the necessary conditions to guarantee free and fair elections on schedule in January 2008, release all political prisoners and lift all remaining media restrictions.

Russia: Elections

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make a statement on the forthcoming parliamentary elections in Russia with reference to (a) the recent changes to the electoral system and (b) the number of election monitors from the Organisation for Security and Co-operation in Europe and the Council of Europe. [170448]

Mr. Jim Murphy [holding answer 3 December 2007]: Russia introduced substantial changes to the electoral system, including increases to both the minimum vote threshold from 5 to 7 per cent. and the minimum size of parties, claiming that changes are necessary to increase parties' authority and develop stronger multi-party governance. But we are concerned that such changes may in fact hinder such developments.

At the recent EU-Russia Human Rights Consultations the EU expressed concerns regarding the amendment to the election law regarding the registration of candidates and parties and domestic observation of elections.

There were no election monitors from the Organisation for Security and Co-operation in Europe's (OSCE) specialist election monitoring agency, the Office for Democratic Institutions and Human Rights, present during the parliamentary elections. Members of the OSCE Parliamentary Assembly did observe the election, but no British parliamentarians were among them. 51 members of the Parliamentary Assembly of the Council of Europe, including three British parliamentarians, also observed the election.

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent (a) discussions he has had with and (b) representations he has made to the Russian Government on (i) independent monitoring of the forthcoming parliamentary elections in Russia and (ii) the treatment of Opposition parties in Russia. [170449]

Mr. Jim Murphy [holding answer 3 December 2007]: The Government have made no direct approaches to the Russian Government on either issue, instead supporting fully the EU presidency statements on independent monitoring of parliamentary elections and the treatment of Opposition parties, which urged Russia to allow its citizens freedom of expression and demanding that the elections be free and fair. I discussed this with partners in the Organisation for Security and Co-operation in Europe at the Ministerial Council in Madrid on 29 November and separately with the Director of the Office for Democratic Institutions and Human Rights (ODIHR), Ambassador Strohal. We fully support ODIHR's decision to withdraw from election monitoring in the face of significant obstruction from the Russian Government.

Russia: Nuclear Forces Treaty

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether it is his policy to seek the widening of the intermediate-range nuclear forces treaty to include countries other than the US and Russia; and if he will make a statement. [168395]

David Miliband: The Government welcome the US and Russian statements on their confirmed commitment to the intermediate-range nuclear forces treaty. We also note with interest the proposal that the regime be widened, and look forward to more detailed proposals from Russia.

Serbia: Sanctions

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his assessment is of the implementation of European Union sanctions on (a) Serbia and (b) Montenegro, with particular reference to the UK's compliance; what the total amount of assets frozen is by (i) EU member states and (ii) the United Kingdom in line with these sanctions; and if he will make a statement. [166052]

David Miliband: The UK is firmly committed to the full implementation of all EU sanctions, along with our EU partners.

There are no EU financial sanctions imposed on Serbia or Montenegro. EU Common Positions 2000/696/Common Foreign and Security Policy and 2004/6947 Common Foreign and Security Policy and imposed an asset freeze on former President Milosevic and natural persons associated with him and individuals indicted by the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia. To date no funds have been identified in the UK.

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

East of England Brussels Office: Expenditure

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the expenditure of the East of England Brussels Office was in the last year for which figures are available. [171632]

Mr. Timms: The expenditure of the East of England Brussels office, in the last year for which figures are readily available, was £321,740. This relates to the financial year 2003-04.

EU Trade: Huddersfield

Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many jobs in Huddersfield he estimates are dependent on (a) exports and (b) investment from other EU member states. [162542]

Mr. Timms: No such estimates have been made.

In the year ended March 2007, HM Revenue and Customs recorded exports from Yorkshire and The Humber to the EU totalling £7.2 billion out of a total export figure of £12.3 billion for the region. Exports to the EU, therefore, accounted for 59 per cent. of the total. This excludes exports of services and lower value exports, which are not recorded by HM Revenue and Customs.

The number of companies in the region exporting to the EU in the year 2006 has been recorded by HM Revenue and Customs as 1,717. Since the Intrastat survey covers only the largest traders, the total actually exporting is likely to be much higher. The number of companies in the region exporting anywhere in the same period was recorded as 5,589, though as it included the 1,717 exporting to the EU it, too, is likely to be an underestimate of the true position.

On foreign direct investment, there are 595 EU-owned companies in Yorkshire and The Humber, of which 62 are based in Huddersfield. Over 1,700 new or safeguarded jobs were generated by new companies investing in Yorkshire and The Humber during 2006-07. Of this figure, investment by companies based in other EU states contributed 202 jobs.

Flexible Working

Ms Hewitt: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (1) what steps his Department is taking to encourage fathers of young children to take advantage of the right to request flexible working; [169921]

(2) how many (a) women and (b) men have exercised their right to request flexible working on the grounds of being a carer; [169923]

(3) how many (a) women and (b) men have taken advantage of the right to request flexible working on the basis of having a young child. [169924]

Mr. McFadden: The Government encourage all types of flexible working for both fathers and mothers by providing detailed guidance, promoting the benefits and encouraging the sharing of best practice. Employees and employers can also access advice from the ACAS website and telephone helpline.

The right to request flexible working was extended to carers of adults in April this year. The Department's estimate was that the right would be additionally available to about 2.65 million employees with caring responsibilities but, given the very recent introduction of the right, no research has yet been carried out into the take-up. The Department does, however, have in place a strategy for monitoring the law and the impact of the extension of it to carers. In 2008, for example, an employee omnibus survey is planned which will identify adults with caring responsibilities and look at what impact the law has had on them.

The Third Work Life Balance survey of employees (report available at: http://www.berr.gov.uk/files/file38388.pdf) provides the most up-to-date data on employee take-up of flexible working. It shows that, over the two-year period of the survey, 38 per cent. of mothers and 11 per cent. of fathers of children below the age of six had made a request to change how they regularly worked.

Parental Leave

Ms Hewitt: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what steps his Department is taking to encourage fathers of young children to exercise their right to parental leave. [169920]

Mr. McFadden: The Government encourage awareness of all leave entitlements—including parental leave—by providing detailed guidance to employees and employers through a variety of channels, including DBERR, Direct.gov.uk and BusinessLink.gov.uk websites, as well as via the ACAS helpline. The Department's guidance on rights to paternity leave and pay also includes a summary of other entitlements for which fathers may be eligible, including parental leave.

Ms Hewitt: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many men have exercised their right to take paid paternity leave in the last three years; and what proportion of eligible men this figure represented in each year. [169922]

Mr. McFadden: The most recent estimates of take-up of paternity leave are based on the Maternity and Paternity Rights and Benefits in Britain: Survey of Parents, conducted in 2005. The survey is based on a random sample of mothers who had a baby in December 2003 and their partners.

93 per cent. of fathers surveyed took some time off around the time of the birth. Of these, 79 per cent. took at least some statutory paternity leave. The Government estimate that around 400,000 fathers are eligible for the entitlement.

Post Offices: Closures

Charles Hendry: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform for what reasons he has instructed Post Office Ltd. not to make announcements on proposed post office closures during the period 2 April to 1 May 2008 in areas which have no local elections on 1 May 2008. [169475]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 29 November 2007]: Due to the application of normal purdah procedures which apply during election periods, no public consultations will take place and no network change announcements will be made between 7 April and 2 May next year.

The spread of local authority elections to be held on 1 May 2008 in England and Wales means that all area plans for England and Wales cover at least one local authority holding elections on 1 May 2008. It would not be practical to try to subdivide area plans between local authorities with and without local elections due next May and work to separate timetables. Where no local elections are scheduled for next May, as in Scotland and Northern Ireland, the timing of local consultations and announcements of final decisions will not be affected.

Mr. Spring: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform when the findings of the consultation on proposed post office closures in west Suffolk will be published. [171618]

Mr. McFadden: I understand that Post Office Ltd. expects to announce final decisions on its area plan proposals for post office closures and new outreach services in Norfolk and west Suffolk in late June 2008.

Post Offices: Opening Hours

Dan Rogerson: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what representations he has made to Post Office Limited in respect of (a) sub and (b) Crown Post Office branches' opening hours during the period 27 December to 31 December 2007. [169788]

Mr. McFadden: This is an operational matter for Post Office Ltd. (POL). I have therefore asked Alan Cook, Managing Director of POL, to reply direct to the hon. Member.

Royal Mail: EU Law

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment his Department has made of European Court of Justice case C-357/07, 2007/C 247/15, with particular reference to the implications for the future of the Royal Mail's scope of operations. [170649]

Mr. McFadden: VAT is a matter for HM Treasury though I can confirm that the Government believe that the current VAT treatment of postal services is fully consistent with European VAT law.

Royal Mail no longer has a statutory monopoly in the UK postal services sector. The UK's mail market has been fully opened up to competition since 1 January 2006.

Small Businesses: Carbon Emissions

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment he has made of the likely effect of the London low emission zone on small and medium-sized businesses; and what discussions he has had with the Mayor of London on that effect. [168685]

Mr. Timms: The powers to implement a Low Emission Zone in London rest with the Mayor and the London boroughs, rather than central Government. An economic and business impact assessment has been published by Transport for London. My Department has not prepared its own impact assessment nor have I met the Mayor to discuss this issue.

Trade Unions: Regional Development Agencies

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what procedures his Department uses to select trade union representatives appointed to regional development agencies. [171391]

Mr. Timms: All RDA board members are appointed by the Secretary of State following a recruitment process which meets the Office of the Commissioner for Public Appointment's (OCPA) code. Initially, a detailed specification for each role is drawn up and agreed with the Minister of State for Competitiveness and the OCPA-appointed independent assessor, following a wide consultation process both nationally and regionally with stakeholders, including TUC.

Applications are sifted against the essential criteria set out in the specification and those satisfying the criteria are considered by a panel consisting of the Government Office Regional Director, the RDA Chair and an OCPA independent assessor for interview. Once interviewed, details of candidates who are found suitable for appointment are forwarded to regional Ministers for advice and then forwarded to the Minister of State for Competitiveness to decide whom to appoint.

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Care Homes: Children

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how often (a) local authority children's homes and (b) privately run children's homes are required to be inspected. [170109]

Kevin Brennan: Local authority children's homes and privately run children's homes are currently required to be inspected no less than twice in every 12-month period, in line with the provisions of Her Majesty's Chief Inspector of Education, Children's Services and Skills (Fees and Frequency of Inspections) (Children's Homes etc.) Regulations 2007.

Children: Databases

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps are being taken to ensure the security of the Contact Point database. [169444]

Kevin Brennan: As soon as we were made aware of the loss of data from HMRC, we made contact with the Serious Organised Crime Agency and the Child Exploitation and Online Protection Centre to identify any potential children's welfare issues. As child safety and welfare issues are an absolute priority for us, we are maintaining close contact with the agencies involved to ensure that we all remain vigilant to any child welfare issues that may arise.

On Tuesday 20 November my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State asked the Department's Permanent Secretary to conduct an immediate assessment of how personal data is stored and protected in the Department. The Permanent Secretary reported back within 24 hours to confirm the Department is confident that we have very robust procedures in place. In light of the security breach at the HMRC, we are continuing to check our procedures to ensure standards are as high as they can be. On Wednesday 21 November, the Prime Minister confirmed this approach when he asked all Departments to check their procedures for the storage and use of data. Given the obvious importance of ensuring that ContactPoint has extremely robust security measures in place, on Tuesday 20 November, the Secretary of State also asked for an independent assessment of ContactPoint's security procedures. This will be conducted by Deloitte.

Security is, and always has been, of paramount importance to the ContactPoint project and we are mindful that the Data Protection Act 1998 requires that the level of technical and organisational security must be appropriate.

In line with best practice, ContactPoint will be routinely backed up. This will be done only by specifically identified system operators within Capgemini, with whom we have contracted for the build and initial host of ContactPoint. Two Capgemini staff will have to be present when back-ups take place. This dual control is considered best practice. The backup tapes will be encrypted, protected with a strong (complex) password and stored in a fire-proof safe in a secure room. The limited number of Capgemini staff who do have access to this data must have enhanced CRB clearance.

There is no facility that would allow users to copy personal identifiable information to a file, other than when files need to be backed up as indicated in the last paragraph. The vast majority of users will only be able to view child data on the screen—they will not be able to extract files in a personally identifiable form. A very limited number of people will be able to extract identifiable data, one record at a time, from ContactPoint in order to meet legal requirements as set out in The Children Act 2004 Information Database (England) Regulations 2007, including responding to subject access requests. There is a clear right under the Data Protection Act 1998 for children and young people (or their parents or carers when acting appropriately on their behalf) to have access to their information on ContactPoint and for it to be corrected if it is found to be inaccurate.

A very limited number of people in local authorities and the national ContactPoint team will be able to run reports to, for example, produce aggregated data or support data quality checks. These reports will be in an anonymised form and will not contain personally identifiable data. The only exception to this is a report produced to support local authorities in their duty to identify children who are missing education. The information provided in this report is restricted by regulations and can only contain child name, address, date of birth, unique identifying number, parent/carer contact details and the details of start and end dates for educational institutions attended by the child or young person.

Access to ContactPoint will be strictly limited to those who need it to do their job and who will be subject to stringent security controls. Before being granted access, all users will have completed mandatory face-to-face training, have security clearance (including enhanced Criminal Records Bureau clearance) and have a user name, a password, a PIN and a security token to access ContactPoint. Mandatory face-to-face training will include the safe and secure use of ContactPoint and the importance of compliance with the Data Protection Act 1998 and Human Rights Act 1998.

To gain access to a child's record, all users will have to state clear reasons why they are accessing ContactPoint, and all use of the system will be monitored and audited. Every access to a child's record will be detailed in the ContactPoint audit trail. This will be regularly monitored by local authorities, using on-line user activity reports, to ensure that any misuse is detected.

Departmental Computers

Mr. Gauke: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many of his Department's (a) computers and (b) laptops have been stolen in 2007; and what the value of those items was. [168595]

Kevin Brennan: The information is as follows.

(a) No computers have been stolen from DCSF in the year 2007.

(b) Four departmental laptops have been stolen from home premises in the year 2007, none from DCSF premises.

The value of the items stolen amounts to £3,560.00 (the value for each of these is £890 (cost price for last purchase in January 2007).

Departmental Data Protection

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what reviews have been undertaken of his Department's rules on data protection in the last two years; if he will place in the Library a copy of the report of the last review of his Department's compliance with data protection laws; and if (a) his Department and (b) his Department's agencies will undertake a review of their compliance with data protection laws. [168082]

Kevin Brennan: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many employees of each grade in his Department (a) have access to confidential or sensitive data and (b) are authorised to download such data to disk; how many of his Department's employees have undergone data protection training in the last 12 months; what the average length of time is that each employee of his Department has spent on data protection training; how many investigations of employees of his Department for improperly accessing confidential information have taken place in the last 12 months; how many such investigations resulted in cases of disciplinary action; and what the circumstances of each of those cases were. [168270]

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how many requests his Department received from the National Audit Office for access to databases containing personal information on members of the general public in each year since 1997; [169276]

(2) what mechanisms his Department has in place to ensure that databases containing personal information on members of the general public are not accessed (a) by unauthorised staff and (b) by authorised staff for unauthorised purposes; [169277]

(3) how many electronic databases held by his Department contain (a) names, (b) addresses, (c) bank details and (d) other personal information on members of the general public. [169278]

(4) how many times databases held by his Department and containing personal information on members of the general public were accessed in each month of the last five years. [169275]

Kevin Brennan: I refer the hon. Members to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179, The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Departmental Foreign Workers

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many (a) EU foreign nationals and (b) non-EU foreign nationals are employed by his Department. [168113]

Kevin Brennan: The information about EU and non EU foreign nationals could be obtained only in the form requested at disproportionate cost. All potential new appointments to the Department for Children, Schools and Families are subject to nationality, passport, proof of identity and reference checks before contracts of employment are issued.

Departmental Pay

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what changes were made to his Department's upper pay spine as part of the Spending Review 2004 efficiency programme. [167760]

Kevin Brennan: The pay of senior civil servants is centrally controlled by Cabinet Office. For departmental staff, we operate a pay system with a pay minima and maxima for each grade and progression to the maxima based on performance. The 2004 pay band maxima were agreed as part of a multi year pay deal covering 2003 to 2005 with the payband maxima increasing by 2 per cent. in each year.

Free School Meals

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what proportion of pupils were entitled to free school meals in each school in each year since 2003; and if he will make a statement. [168760]

Jim Knight: I refer the hon. Member to my reply given on 19 November 2007, Official Report, column 632W.

GCSE

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families whether it is his policy to retain (a) GCSE and (b) A-level qualifications. [163532]

Jim Knight: GGSEs and A-levels are long-established and valued qualifications. The Government believe that their future should be decided by the demands of young people, schools and colleges. The review which we have announced for 2013 will consider the evidence and experience following the introduction of Diplomas and the implementation of changes to A-level and GCSE, with a view to reaching conclusions about how in practice the overall offer meets the needs of young people in progressing to further study and employment.

Gifted and Talented Programme

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what proportion of students in each London borough were on the gifted and talented programme in the latest period for which figures are available. [169240]

Jim Knight: The following table shows the proportion of students identified as gifted and talented by maintained primary and secondary schools for each London borough as at January 2007.

| London borough | Percentage |
|---|---|
| City of London | 0.0 |
| Camden | 8.7 |
| Greenwich | 8.3 |
| Hackney | 10.8 |
| Hammersmith and Fulham | 10.6 |
| Islington | 8.5 |
| Kensington and Chelsea | 14.1 |
| Lambeth | 9.1 |
| Lewisham | 5.2 |
| Southwark | 6.9 |
| Tower Hamlets | 8.6 |
| Wandsworth | 11.7 |
| Westminster | 10.6 |
| Barking and Dagenham | 4.7 |
| Barnet | 5.6 |
| Bexley | 12.3 |
| Brent | 7.8 |
| Bromley | 11.2 |
| Croydon | 4.9 |
| Ealing | 8.3 |
| Enfield | 11.1 |
| Haringey | 8.2 |
| Harrow | 7.6 |
| Havering | 14.3 |
| Hillingdon | 8.8 |
| Hounslow | 10.9 |
| Kingston upon Thames | 9.5 |
| Merton | 6.4 |
| Newham | 8.3 |
| Redbridge | 10.4 |
| Richmond upon Thames | 9.4 |
| Sutton | 9.3 |
| Waltham Forest | 10.9 |

Languages: GCSE

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what progress has been made in reviewing the standards of GCSE modern language examinations and their level of difficulty in comparison with other GCSE examinations; and if he will make a statement. [163295]

Jim Knight: Lord Dearing's 'Languages Review, published in March 2007, identified the need to resolve the widely held perception that languages GCSEs are harder than other subjects. This is a matter for the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority (QCA) which, as qualifications regulator, has responsibility for ensuring consistent standards in GCSE. Following the Languages Review, the Secretary of State asked QCA to investigate this matter and report back to him. We expect to receive QCA's report in the near future.

Pupil Exclusions

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how many pupils who were given a permanent exclusion were sent to another mainstream school in each year since 1997; [169134]

(2) how many pupils who were given a permanent exclusion were sent to a Pupil Referral Unit in each year since 1997. [169129]

Kevin Brennan: Information on the number of permanently excluded pupils who are sent to a maintained school can be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Information on the number of permanently excluded pupils who are sent to a Pupil Referral Unit is not available.

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how many children readmitted to school by an independent appeals panel after expulsion were expelled again within (a) one year, (b) two years and (c) five years in each relevant period since 1997; [169151]

(2) how many children who won their independent appeals panel hearing against exclusion were readmitted to the school from which they had been excluded in the latest period for which figures are available; [169152]

(3) how many children who won their independent appeals panel hearing against exclusion and were readmitted to the same school were subsequently permanently excluded in the latest period for which figures are available; [169153]

(4) how many children who won their independent appeals panel hearing against exclusion and were readmitted to the same school were subsequently given a fixed period exclusion in the latest period for which figures are available; [169154]

(5) how many children readmitted to school after permanent exclusion were permanently excluded again within (a) one year, (b) two years and (c) five years in each year since 1997. [169182]

Kevin Brennan: Information on pupils who have successfully appealed their exclusion and then go on to be excluded (either permanently or for a fixed period) is not available centrally.

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many pupils received more than one fixed term exclusion in the latest period for which figures are available, broken down by reason of exclusion. [169184]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested can be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Pupils: Transport

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what transport support provision is available for journeys from home to school or college for students in further education in each London borough; and if he will make a statement. [169234]

Jim Knight: From 1 September 2006 Transport for London introduced free travel concession on buses and trams for under 18s who are attending a full-time education course. The concession expires at the end of the academic year in which the student turns 18.

Religion: Curriculum

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps his Department has taken to improve the way that faith and culture are addressed through the national curriculum as recommended in the Preventing Extremism Together report. [169610]

Jim Knight: As recommended by Sir Keith Ajegbo a new strand of citizenship education entitled 'Identity and Diversity: Living Together in the UK' has been made part of the national curriculum which will be rolled out in secondary schools from September 2008 onwards. Identity and diversity also is a cross-cutting theme across the whole revised curriculum and provides schools with the opportunity to teach pupils about the connections between the diverse cultures and communities in the UK.

In addition, the national framework for religious education has been incorporated into the revised secondary curriculum. The framework places inclusion, tolerance, diversity and interfaith dialogue at the heart of children's learning. A regional training programme to support schools in delivering the new curriculum is being rolled out from January 2008.

School Leaving

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families if he will publish the review commissioned by his Department of existing evidence on the merits of raising the education participation age to 18 years. [169155]

Jim Knight: The National Foundation for Educational Research (NFER) were commissioned, by the Department, in May 2007 to undertake an independent external review of existing national and international evidence to explore the likely impact, benefits and challenges associated with raising the education and training participation age to 18. The report from this review of evidence is being published on 29 November 2007.

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what changes will be made to the eligibility criteria for education maintenance allowances when the raising of the participation age is implemented. [169159]

Jim Knight: We made clear in the document "Raising Expectations; staying in education and training post-16—from policy to legislation", that financial constraints should not be a barrier to participation and that we will look at the structure of financial support to make sure it continues to be as effective as possible. This will include looking at a variety of options to ensure that financial support for learning is restructured in the most effective way to ensure young people are enabled to participate. In doing this we will build on the foundation of the educational maintenance allowance, and the views we gathered in the public consultation on 'supporting young people to achieve'.

Schools: Admissions

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many children living in each local education authority area attended a maintained school in a different local authority area in the latest period for which figures are available. [167719]

Jim Knight: The requested information was published on 27 September 2007 in the Statistical First Release "Schools and Pupils in England: January 2007 (Final)".

The SFR is available at:

www dfes.gov.uk/rsgateway/DB/SFR/s000744/index.shtml

Copies of the relevant tables have been placed in the House of Commons Library.

Teachers

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families if he will publish research his Department has completed into teachers' workload in the last five years. [169157]

Jim Knight: All external research commissioned by the Department for Children, Schools and Families is published as a matter of course. The Department has not completed any research that specifically looks at teacher workload in the last five years as the Office of Manpower Economics (OME) conduct and publish a survey on teacher workload to inform the work of the School Teachers' Review Body. Over last five years OME have conducted their survey in 2003, 2004, 2005, 2006 and 2007, the results from the 2004 survey onwards can be found at:

http://www.ome.uk.com/review.cfm?body=7

Departmental Staff

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many staff of the former Department for Education and Skills are employed by the Department for Children, Schools and Families. [169164]

Kevin Brennan: The Department came into being with the Machinery of Government changes of 28 June 2007 with 2,890 staff from the former Department for Education and Skills now employed at the Department for Children, Schools and Families.

Teenage Pregnancy: Housing

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many pregnant teenagers under the age of 18 were being housed in (a) bed and breakfast accommodation and (b) hostels for single homeless adults in each local authority area, in the latest period for which figures are available. [167127]

Mr. Iain Wright: I have been asked to reply.

The information requested is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Bristol International Airport

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when her Department plans to carry out an area action plan on Bristol International Airport. [169447]

Mr. Iain Wright: It is for North Somerset council to carry out an area action plan on Bristol International Airport as part of their local development framework.

North Somerset council intend to timetable work on such a plan to coincide with the review of Bristol International Airport's own airport masterplan, which is likely to be reviewed in 2011.

Departmental Data Protection

Andrew Stunell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) what mechanisms her Department has in place to ensure that databases containing personal information on members of the general public are not accessed (a) by unauthorised staff and (b) by authorised staff for unauthorised purposes; [168962]

(2) how many requests her Department received from the National Audit Office for access to databases containing personal information on members of the general public in each year since 1997; [168964]

(3) how many times her Department's databases containing personal information on members of the general public were accessed in each month of the last five years; [168965]

(4) how many staff of each grade in her Department have access to electronic databases which contain personal information on members of the general public; [168966]

(5) how many security breaches regarding access to personal data occurred within her Department in each year since 1997; [168967]

(6) when each electronic database held by her Department containing personal information on members of the general public was first created; [168968]

(7) how many electronic databases containing (a) names, (b) addresses, (c) bank details and (d) other personal information of members of the general public are held by her Department; [168969]

(8) how many times electronic data containing personal information on members of the public have been transferred (a) physically and (b) electronically between her Department and another body in each year since 1997. [169777]

Mr. Rob Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many breaches of the Data Protection Act 1998 requiring investigation there have been in the last five years in her Department; what the nature such breaches were; and what the results of the investigations were in each case. [169254]

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government on how many occasions the Information Commissioner was contacted by her Department to report breaches of data protection security in each of the last five years. [169333]

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether she plans to review how her Department transports data; and whether her Department uses TNT to transport data. [169380]

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many confirmed data security breaches there have been in her Department in the last 36 months; and what action was taken after each occurrence. [169895]

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) how many items of post sent by her Department and its predecessors were reported missing by the intended recipient in each year since 1997; [171294]

(2) what steps her Department has taken to protect the personal data on members of the public which it holds. [171424]

Mr. Dhanda: I refer the hon. Members to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Departmental Labour Turnover

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the percentage turnover of staff was in (a) her Department and (b) her Department's agencies in (i) the last 12-month period and (ii) the last 24-month period for which figures are available. [169031]

Mr. Dhanda: In the 12 months to 31 March 2007, the percentage staff turnover in Communities and Local Government was 22 per cent. In the 24 months to 31 March 2007, staff turnover was 36 per cent.

Turnover has been calculated on a headcount basis as the number of leavers over the period expressed as a proportion of the staff in post at the start of the period. The figures include Communities staff working in the Government Office network. Information for Executive agencies is not held centrally.

Departmental Publications

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will place in the Library copies of the in-house staff magazine of her Department from the last 12 months. [171555]

Mr. Dhanda: The Department for Communities and Local Government was created on 5 May 2006. Copies of every issue of the Department's staff magazine have been placed in the Library of the House.

Empty Property

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when she will announce her conclusions and intentions in response to the consultation on modernising empty property relief. [168903]

Mr. Iain Wright: Following consideration of responses to the consultation document "Modernising Empty Property Relief", we intend to announce our decisions on the future exemptions from reformed empty property rates and on proposed new anti-avoidance regulations later in the year.

Energy: Conservation

Mr. Kidney: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many (a) enforcement notices have been served and (b) prosecutions have been brought as a result of non-compliance with the energy efficiency requirements in Part L of the Building Regulations in each year since 2002. [169934]

Mr. Iain Wright: Enforcement of compliance with the Building Regulations is undertaken by local authorities. There is no central register of enforcement notices served or prosecutions brought. In the main, local authorities aim to resolve issues that arise through inspection of and advice to those undertaking work. Enforcement notices and prosecution are only used as a last resort.

EU Grants and Loans

Alistair Burt: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) if she will set out her response to the concerns of the European Commission which have led to the suspension of European Regional Development Fund funding in (a) the west midlands, (b) London and (c) the north West; and what steps she is taking to tackle the concerns; [163956]

(2) how much European Regional Development Fund funding is suspended by the European Union in relation to (a) the west midlands, (b) the north west and (c) London; [163957]

(3) when she expects the suspension of European Regional Development Fund funding in (a) the west midlands, (b) the north west and (c) London to be lifted. [163958]

John Healey [holding answer 13 November 2007]: The suspension of ERDF payments, stems from specific concerns identified by the Commission in the level of on-site project monitoring. The Government have carried out intensive work to increase the level of checks and strengthen reporting. Each affected region is being assessed individually by the Commission and as a result the suspensions have now been lifted in the west midlands, northeast, Yorkshire and The Humber, northwest objective 1, and Peterborough. A total of £243 million in ERDF payments was held back for those regions by the Commission, and payments have now been fully resumed. We are waiting to hear about the lifting of the suspensions of payments for London. In the case of the northwest objective 2 programme we are carrying out urgent further work to re-assure the Commission before a final decision is taken.

The European Commission is currently holding back around £7 million in relation to the London objective 2 and Stockwell urban programmes and around £19 million in relation to the north-west objective 2 and Burnley urban programmes.

Fire Services: Consultants

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much has been spent on consultants' fees for the Firelink project to date, broken down by consultancy. [169606]

Mr. Dhanda: For the period August 2002 to October 2007 the individual costs of consultancies used by the Firelink project are:

| Consultancy | Costs (£000) |
|---|---|
| Mott MacDonald Ltd. | 19,500 |
| BOS consulting Ltd. | 6 |
| Bourton Group Ltd. | 27 |
| Denton Wilde Sapte | 882 |
| Ernst and Young LLP | 1,044 |
| Gardiner and Theobald | 20 |
| Hedra plc | 75 |
| Hudson Global Resources | 632 |
| INOVEM Ltd. | 8 |
| Keymedia Design Ltd. | 7 |
| Malcolm Hutchinson Associates Ltd. | 6 |
| Mouchel Parkman Services Ltd. | 274 |
| Office of Government Commerce | 147 |
| PA Consulting | 19 |
| PKF | 2 |
| QuinetiQ | 15 |
| SERCO | 137 |
| Willis Ltd. | 18 |

Fire Services: Finance

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the total cost of the FiReControl project team has been to date including (a) staffing costs, (b) secondment costs, (c) payments made by fire authorities under the new burdens principle and (d) travel costs. [169491]

Mr. Dhanda: To the end of October 2007 the cost (net of receipts) for the National FiReControl Team was £42,011,903. This figure includes (a) £5,767,265 staffing (including civil servants, interim and agency staff), (b) secondments at £4,394,071 and (c) travel costs at £813,603.

In addition, we have made payments to local authorities under the new burdens principles of £19,054,757.

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much has been spent on the (a) staffing costs, (b) secondment costs, (c) payments made to fire consultancies under the new burdens principle, (d) travel costs and (e) other costs of the FireLink project team. [169607]

Mr. Dhanda: The following table sets out the Firelink project costs under the requested headings for the period August 2002 to October 2007. Project management costs are met in part by the Scottish Executive and the Welsh Assembly Government.

| | £ million |
|---|---|
| (a) Staffing costs | 3.44 |
| (b) Secondment costs | 2.6 |
| (c) Payments made to fire consultancies under the new burdens principles, presuming this is meant to indicate payments to Fire and Rescue Authorities | 0 |
| (d) Travel costs | 0.71 |
| (e) Other costs of the Fire Link National Project Team | 6.26 |

Haven Gateway Partnership

Mr. Carswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what meetings (a) she and (b) her officials have had with (i) Haven Gateway Partnership and (ii) lobbyists engaged by Haven Gateway Partnership in the last 12 months. [166911]

Mr. Iain Wright: My right hon. Friend has not had any meetings with the Haven Gateway Partnership or their lobbyists in the last 12 months. Communities and Local Government officials have met with members of the Haven Gateway Partnership and some of their stakeholders in January 2007 and with representatives from Colchester borough council in July 2007. In addition, officials from the Government Office for the east of England meet with the Haven Gateway Partnership on a regular basis in support of their growth ambitions, as they do with all New Growth Point areas in their region. There have been no meetings between officials and lobbyists.

Housing: Construction

Mr. Randall: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what percentage of new builds in (a) Uxbridge constituency, (b) each London borough and (c) England were built on (i) previously developed land and (ii) back gardens in the last five years. [169828]

Mr. Iain Wright: The following table shows statistics on the percentage of dwellings built on previously-developed ("brownfield") land and on previously-residential land.

There is no direct indicator which can be used to determine how many dwellings have been built on back gardens. The Land Use Change Statistics dataset contains information on changes in land use in England and is used to answer questions on this topic. In this dataset, land use is divided into 24 categories. However, gardens, patios, garages and other cartilage as well as dwellings themselves are all classified as 'Residential'. It is therefore not directly possible to determine whether or not dwellings have been built on a garden. This has not changed since the Land Use Change Statistics were introduced in 1989.

As a proxy, we use data on previously-residential land instead of back gardens, but this includes conversions, sites where dwellings are demolished and replaced as well as building on back gardens and other types of development.

Over the period 2002 to 2006 (the most recent years for which data are available) 94 per cent. of dwellings in the Uxbridge constituency were built on previously-developed land. This compares to 95 per cent. across the whole of London and 70 per cent. across England. Over the same period 33 per cent. of dwellings in the Uxbridge constituency were built on previously-residential land. This compares to 20 per cent. across the whole of London and 18 per cent. across England.

Proportion of dwellings built on previously-developed and previously residential land 2002-06

| | Proportion of dwellings built on previously-developed land | Percentage Proportion of dwellings built on previously-residential land |

| Richmond upon Thames | 98 | 36 |
| Sutton | 100 | 40 |
| Waltham Forest | 95 | 28 |
| England total | 70 | 18 |

Notes:
1. There is an inevitable time-lag between land use change occurring and it being recorded, therefore data are constantly being updated.
2. The data in the table are based on records received from Ordnance Survey up to June 2007, consistent with the Land Use Change Statistics publication published on 31 October 2007.

Housing: Low Incomes

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will take steps to ensure that provision of new affordable housing matches housing needs analysis in relation to the need for affordable family homes in (a) Warrington and (b) other Northwest housing hotspots. [170272]

Mr. Iain Wright [holding answer 3 December 2007]: Funding for housing is distributed between the regions on the basis of an analysis of relative need which takes account of local authority need. North-west housing hotspots would be reflected in this analysis. Announcements as to the levels of funding to be made available in the north-west over the next three years for affordable housing will be made shortly.

The funding is being made available to bids from both housing associations, developers and local authorities through the Housing Corporation's bidding round for the National Affordable Housing Programme. Investment in 2008-11 and completions in particular locations will depend on the bids received by the Housing Corporation.

Housing: Overcrowding

Mr. Lancaster: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what criteria her Department uses to determine whether a (a) one, (b) two and (c) three bedroom property is overcrowded. [171553]

Mr. Iain Wright: The existing statutory overcrowding standards are set out in Part 1 of the Housing Act 1985—a dwelling is overcrowded when the number of people sleeping in the dwelling contravenes either the room standard or the space standard:

The room standard is breached if the number of people sleeping in a dwelling, and the number of rooms available as sleeping accommodation, are such that two people of opposite sexes who are not living together as husband and wife must sleep in the same room. Children under 10 do not count.

The space standard specifies the maximum number of people who may sleep in a dwelling, and in the available rooms within it, having regard to (i) the number of available rooms of 50 square feet or more and (ii) the floor area in each room. Two calculations are required and the lower number applies. Babies under one year old do not count, and children between one and 10 count as half.

For the purposes of these standards, a room is considered to be "available as sleeping accommodation" if it is "of a type normally used in the locality either as a bedroom or a living room".

Hutchinson

Mr. Carswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what meetings (a) she and (b) her officials have had with (i) Hutchinson Ports and (ii) lobbyists engaged by Hutchinson Ports in the last 12 months. [166983]

Mr. Iain Wright: My right hon. Friend has held no meetings with Hutchinson Ports UK Ltd. or their lobbyists in the last 12 months, nor have officials from Communities and Local Government and Government Office East of England. However, representatives from Hutchinson Ports UK Ltd. have been present at some routine meetings between officials and the Haven Gateway Partnership.

Independent Infrastructure Planning Commission

Mark Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many members the proposed independent Infrastructure Planning Commission will have; and how many of them will be appointed by (a) the Welsh Assembly Government and (b) the Scottish Executive. [169534]

John Healey: The White Paper "Planning for a Sustainable Future" (CM7120) outlined that the number of Commissioners would depend on the Commission's workload, but that we expect that the Commission might require between 20-30 Commissioners. All of the Commissioners would be appointed by the Secretary of State. The Secretary of State will ask Welsh Ministers for nominations for 2-3 of these posts, reflecting the role of the Commission in determining nationally significant energy infrastructure projects in Wales. The Infrastructure Planning Commission will have no role in determining projects in Scotland, and so no nominations will be sought from Scottish Ministers.

Licensing Laws

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what representations have been made to her Department on the use of temporary events notices; what assessment her Department has made of the use of temporary events notices instead of regular licensing; and how many temporary event notices have been (a) applied for and (b) granted in each London borough in each of the last three years. [163749]

Mr. Sutcliffe: I have been asked to reply.

We have received a number of representations on the use of temporary event notices (TENs). These have included some calls for an increase to the number that can be given in one year, with others calling for a decrease. My right hon. Friend the Member for St. Helens, South (Mr. Woodward) made a ministerial written statement on 5 July 2006, Official Report, column 39WS, which stated that the Government had no plans to change limits. The Government also stated in their Memorandum on Re-licensing, sent to the Select Committee on Communities and Local Government on 10 January 2007, that while there had been some representations about licensed premises using TENs to operate additional hours or activities which have not been included on the full licence, the Government believed that the existing limit was sufficient. In the Report of the Independent Fees Review Panel, chaired by Sir Les Elton, the Panel recommended that the TENs limit be increased from 12 to 15 each year. The Government will respond to the Panel's report in due course.

It is not possible to provide the information in the format requested as TENs did not exist until 24 November 2005, when the Licensing Act 2003 came into force, and there is no data held centrally that shows figures prior to 1 April 2006. The following table shows how many TENs were given during the 12 month period to 31 March 2007 across the licensing authorities in London which cover London borough areas.

Note:
Where there are blank cells in the table, information was not provided by the licensing authority. Valid temporary event notices given includes notices which were subsequently withdrawn.

Members: Correspondence

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when she expects the Minister for Housing to reply to the letter of 1 August 2007 from the right hon. Member for West Chelmsford; what the reasons are for the time taken to reply; and if she will make a statement [169789]

Mr. Iain Wright: I replied to the hon. Gentleman on 28 November 2007. I apologise for the delay in responding.

Office for Tenants and Social Landlords

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether the proposed Office for Tenants and Social Landlords will (a) set and (b) monitor performance targets for (i) local authorities and (ii) housing associations. [171527]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Housing and Regeneration Bill before Parliament permits the proposed Office for Tenants and Social Landlords (OFTENANT) to set standards covering a range of functions relating to social housing owned by providers registered with it and to collect information from registered providers.

It will be for OFTENANT to determine which standards are set and how they are monitored, subject to its own objectives, which include ensuring protection of tenants and minimising regulatory interference. Professor Martin Cave's review of social housing regulation, published in June 2007, envisaged that registered bodies might develop own codes of conduct which they would monitor themselves, with the regulator collecting basic performance information.

These provisions will apply to all housing associations which are currently registered with the Housing Corporation. They do not apply to local authorities, but the Government have announced their intention to extend the scope of the regulator to local authority landlords and Arms Length Management Organisations within two years of OFTENANT's creation.

Planning

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to her answer of 26 November 2007, Official Report, column 139, on planning, if she will place in the Library copies of all correspondence and documentation relating to the Durham Green Business Park planning application and development, held by (a) her Department and (b) the Government Office for the North East. [170760]

Hazel Blears [holding answer 3 December 2007]: My Department and the Government Office North East hold no such correspondence or documentation.

The Durham Green Business Park planning proposal was nominated by the local authority (Durham city council) for inclusion in the pilot for Planning Delivery Agreements (PDAs, which have since been renamed to Planning Performance Agreements) and all nominations were accepted. This pilot was run jointly by the Planning Advisory Service (part of the Improvement and Development Agency), and the Advisory Team on Large Applications (part of English Partnerships). Neither of these bodies have any role in determining the outcome of planning applications. PDAs are not about determining applications but about ensuring efficient working processes on a local level when dealing with large or complex projects. Ministers were not involved in the selection of proposals for the pilot. All documentation relating to the Durham Green Business Park held by the Planning Advisory Service has been placed in the Library today.

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what representations her Department has received from (a) representatives of Durham Green Developments Ltd. and (b) Mr. David Abrahams in relation to planning in the last 36 months. [170730]

Hazel Blears [holding answer 3 December 2007]: Officials in my Department have checked our records and have found no such representations.

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether the development of the Durham Green Business Park, near south Durham, entails development on green belt land according to the records held by (a) her Department and (b) the Government Office for the North East. [170731]

Hazel Blears [holding answer 3 December 2007]: The City of Durham Local Plan shows that the Durham Green Business Park is outside the green belt.

Planning Permission: Public Participation

Ms Hewitt: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) when her Department last reviewed the guidelines or regulations on how local councils communicate with residents about planning applications affecting their neighbourhood; [169926]

(2) if she will encourage local authorities to make full use of the internet to enable interested local residents to be informed by e-mail of any planning application made within their neighbourhood; [169927]

(3) if she will review the guidance given to local authorities on informing local residents of planning applications in their neighbourhood; [169928]

(4) what statutory requirements her Department imposes upon local authorities in relation to informing local residents of planning applications that affect their neighbourhood; [169929]

(5) what advice her Department provides to local authorities on how to inform local residents of a planning application in their neighbourhood. [169930]

Mr. Iain Wright: Article 8 of the Town and Country Planning (General Development Procedure) Order (the GDPO) 1995 sets out the duties of local planning authorities to publicise the planning applications they receive in order to invite comments on development proposals from third parties. Guidance on those duties is provided by Department of the Environment Circular 15/92, "Publicity for Planning Applications".

The GDPO requires the local planning authority to publicise planning applications, either by a site notice or by notification to neighbours. In addition, local advertisement in a newspaper is required for applications for planning permission for 'major' applications which is defined as minerals applications, waste development, the provision of dwellings (where more than 10 provided or site is 0.5 ha or over), a building with floor space of 1,000 $m^2$ or over, development on a site of 1 ha or over, and also listed building consent and conservation area consent. Local planning authorities may also use their websites to publicise planning applications.

In June 2004, the then Office of the Deputy Prime Minister published the report "Review of the Publicity Requirements for Planning Applications" evaluating the effectiveness of publicity requirements.

In the 2007 Planning White Paper "Planning for a Sustainable Future", the Government proposed a review and simplification of the GDPO.

We are encouraging local planning authorities to use the internet to notify residents of planning applications by constructing an 'e-Consultation Hub' to be run by the Planning Portal. It is envisaged that citizens will be able to register their interest and be notified of any applications in their area, and then respond (if they wish to) online direct to the local planning authority.

We have also given a commitment in the Planning White Paper that the hub will be constructed and come into operation by April 2008. However, in the first instance, the service will link statutory consultees and local planning authorities, with citizen services being implemented soon after.

Regional Planning and Development: Government Office for the South East

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what plans the Government Office for the South East has to (a) review and (b) designate Areas of Great Landscape Value in local development frameworks; and what guidance her Department has provided on this. [171622]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Government Office for the South-East has no plans to review or designate Areas of Great Landscape Value in local development frameworks. These are local rather than national designations which have been created by local planning authorities. Government guidance on local landscape designations is provided in Planning Policy Statement 7 (PPS7): Sustainable Development in Rural Areas. This advises that local landscape designations should be maintained only or, exceptionally, extended where it can be clearly shown that criteria-based planning policies cannot provide the necessary protection. PPS7 also states that, when reviewing their local area-wide development plans and local development documents, planning authorities should rigorously consider the justification for retaining existing local landscape designations. They should ensure that such designations are based on a formal and robust assessment of the qualities of the landscape concerned.

Regional Planning and Development: Green belt

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will make it her policy that no regional spatial strategy approved by her will entail (a) developments on the green belt and (b) reviews of the green belt with a view to development. [171495]

Mr. Dhanda: National policy on green belt is set out in Planning Policy Guidance Note 2: Green Belts. One of the principles of the policy is that, where necessary, green belt boundaries are strategically reviewed. Boundaries can be changed only in exceptional circumstances and after public consultation and examination through the plan process. The Regional Spatial Strategy is the appropriate setting for strategic green belt reviews to be considered, with detailed boundaries being a matter for local authorities.

The Government have set a target that overall there should be > "no net change, or an increase, in the area of designated Green Belt land in each region."

Since 1997, excluding the re-designation of the New Forest from green belt to National Park, the green belt in England has grown by 25,900 hectares.

Religious Buildings: Islam

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate she has made of the number of mosques in the UK which are funded by groups or organisations in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. [169698]

Mr. Dhanda: The Government do not hold information on the number of mosques in the UK funded by groups or organisations in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. The Government are working with a range of partners to further develop their understanding of Muslim communities in the UK and their infrastructure.

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate she has made of the number of mosques in the UK which promote Wahhabism. [169700]

Mr. Dhanda: The Government do not hold information on the number of mosques in the UK or their denominations. The Government are working with a range of partners to further develop their understanding of Muslim communities in the UK and their infrastructure.

Religious Persons: Saudi Arabia

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate she has made of the number of imams in the UK who were (a) born in Saudi Arabia and (b) educated or trained in Saudi Arabia. [169699]

Mr. Dhanda: The Government do not hold information on the number of imams in the UK who were born in Saudi Arabia or educated/trained in Saudi Arabia. The Government are working with a range of partners to further develop their understanding of Muslim communities in the UK and their infrastructure.

Right to Buy Scheme: Finance

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much Right to Buy capital was set aside in each year since the scheme started; and to what extent each local authority has used set-aside capital to repay historical debt. [164960]

Mr. Iain Wright: Under the 'set-aside' regime, which ran until 1 April 2004, with-debt local authorities were required to set aside a proportion of the capital receipt generated by the disposal of a Housing Revenue Account (HRA) asset, upon disposal of that asset, for repayment of housing debt. Debt-free authorities were free to use their receipts for any capital purpose they saw fit.

The Department recorded the value of capital receipts set-aside and continues to record the value of Right to Buy (RTB) sales. However, these are separate exercises. The manner in which the data are collected means that no differentiation is made between RTB sales and other disposals of housing assets resulting in a capital receipt that goes to make up that set-aside total for a local authority.

The following table shows the value of capital receipts set-aside from 1995-96 to 2003-04 (the last year in which the set-aside regime existed). When set-aside exceeds RTB capital receipts it is because set-aside includes a proportion of receipts from not only RTB but also whole-stock transfers, non-RTB dwelling sales and sales of other HRA assets such as housing land.

| | Set-aside | £ million Right to buy receipts |
|---|---|---|
| 1995-96 | 860 | [1]— |
| 1996-97 | 637 | [1]— |
| 1997-98 | 943 | 890 |
| 1998-99 | 1,085 | 911 |
| 1999-2000 | 1,477 | 1,374 |
| 2000-01 | 1,626 | 1,426 |
| 2001-02 | 1,382 | 1,566 |
| 2002-03 | 1,857 | 2,210 |
| 2003-04 | [1]— | 2,936 |

[1] No data.

Pre 1997-98 data are available only at disproportionate cost.

The Department does not collect data on whether local authorities actually used the set-aside generated by disposals to repay housing debt. For the purposes of HRA subsidy it was assumed that the set-aside was used to repay housing debt.

Sustainable Development: Leicester

Ms Hewitt: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment her Department has made of the proposals from Leicester city council for a sustainable community at Ashton Green; what support her Department will make available to Leicester city council in respect of this development; and what steps it will take to help Leicester city council secure an element of affordable housing within the development. [170139]

Mr. Iain Wright: Proposals for housing development at Ashton Green first came before the Secretary of State as an allocation in the 1991 to 2001 Leicester Local Plan, and subsequently in the 1996 to 2016 Replacement Leicester Local Plan. The Secretary of State enabled that proposal to emerge through the statutory planning process, culminating in the adoption of the current City of Leicester Local Plan in January 2006.

Ashton Green formed part of the evidence supporting the 6Cs (formerly three cities) Growth Point Bid submitted to my right hon. Friend the Minister for Housing and Planning early in 2006. The viability of those proposals, supported by the adopted status of the Ashton Green allocation, was confirmed in October 2006 with the award of Growth Point status to the 6Cs partnership, which includes Leicester city council.

Further details of the Ashton Green sustainable community were submitted to the Department as evidence supporting the 6Cs program of development in October 2007. That document made the case for Growth Point funding for the 6Cs that is currently under consideration by the Department: an announcement on funding to all Growth Points will be made in the near future. Growth Point funding is to be awarded as a block grant, so it will be a matter for local partners, including Leicester city council, to determine how to use any funds to support their growth aspirations at Ashton Green and elsewhere.

I met with the Deputy Leader of Leicester city council on 13 November 2007 to discuss affordable housing issues, including the city council's aspirations for Ashton Green. I invited Leicester city to discuss the potential of forming a local housing company as proposed in the July 2007 Housing White Paper "Homes for the Future; more affordable, more sustainable", with my officials. As the owner of the land at Ashton Green, Leicester city council is well placed to secure a high proportion of affordable housing on this site through such a delivery vehicle.

The Department's agency English Partnerships also met with Leicester city council in November to discuss the potential of Ashton Green to act as a demonstration site for eco-homes, with the benefit of technical support from English Partnerships and their acknowledged expertise in this area.

Translation Services

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when she plans to issue guidance on translation services for local authorities, Departments and their agencies; and if she will make a statement. [169778]

Mr. Dhanda: Guidance for local authorities on the translation of publications will be issued shortly.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Community Care Grants

Mr. Rooney: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what percentage of community care grant applications were granted (a) in total and (b) at each benefit delivery centre in 2006-07; [166417]

(2) what the average time was to process a community care grant application (a) in total and (b) at each benefit delivery centre in 2006-07; [166418]

(3) how many outstanding community care grant applications there were at each benefit delivery centre in each month since March; [166419]

(4) what assessment he has made of levels of financial hardship resulting from the time taken in processing community care grants. [166420]

Mr. Plaskitt [holding answer 21 November 2007]: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus, Lesley Strathie. I have asked her to provide my hon. Friend with the information requested.

Letter from Lesley Strathie, dated 4 December 2007:

The Secretary of State has asked me to reply to your questions asking what percentage of Community Care Grant applications were granted in total and at each benefit delivery centre in 2006-07; what the average time was to process a Community Care Grant application in total and at each benefit delivery centre in 2006-07; how many outstanding Community Care Grant applications there were at each benefit delivery centre in each month since March and what assessment has been made of levels of financial hardship resulting from the time taken in processing Community Care Grants. This is something which falls within the responsibilities delegated to me as Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus.

The percentage of Community Care Grant applications processed which were granted in total and at each Social Fund operating unit in 2006-07 is in table 1. This does not include applications which were initially refused but later granted on review. The average time taken to process a Community Care Grant application and at each Social Fund operating unit in 2006-07 is in table 2.

The processing time for an individual application is measured in whole working days from the date of receipt of the application to the date of the decision, inclusive. The minimum processing time recorded for an individual application is one day, even if the application is processed immediately.

The number of outstanding Community Care Grant applications at each benefit delivery centre at the end of each month from March to October 2007 is in table 3.

Copies of the tables have been placed in the House of Commons Library.

No assessment has been made of levels of financial hardship resulting from the time taken in processing Community Care Grants. However, we have plans in place to improve our performance on Community Care Grant clearance times.

I hope this is helpful.

Departmental ICT

Gordon Banks: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions which manufacturers' software is used in his Department. [167218]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The Department for Work and Pensions has a requirement for a wide variety of software from a large number of manufacturers due to the complexity of its business operations and supporting IT systems.

For this reason the names of the top 10 manufacturers identified by consideration of cost whose software the Department uses are given:

Microsoft
IBM
Oracle
BEA Software Ltd.
QAS Systems
TIBCO
WRQ Ltd.
Stellant
Codestream
Integralis Ltd.

The Department's software is obtained either by direct procurement via a contracted software reseller or as part of a service via its IT service providers (some at corporate level and some at operational level).

Departmental Publicity

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much his Department and its agencies spent on staff working on (a) marketing and (b) branding in the last 12 month period for which figures are available. [167294]

Mrs. McGuire: The figures noted in the following table represent the costs for staff working in Branding and Marketing in the Department and its agencies. Figures used are for the last financial year (2006-07). It is not possible to separate branding and marketing without obtaining disproportionate cost.

| Agency | Cost (£000) |
|---|---|
| Child Support Agency | 125 |
| DWP Corporate | 1,197 |
| Disability and Carers Service | 32 |
| Health and Safety Executive | 84 |
| Jobcentre Plus | 3,900 |
| The Pension Service | 304 |
| The Rent Service | 155 |
| Total | 5,797 |

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much his Department and its agencies spent on managing their corporate identities in the last 12 month period for which figures are available. [167339]

Mrs. McGuire: The information requested is not held centrally by the Department and its agencies, and to obtain it would incur disproportionate cost.

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much has been spent by his Department on advertising in the last 12 months. [167944]

Mrs. McGuire: The Department runs a number of promotional campaigns aimed at increasing awareness of rights and responsibilities. The table details spend on advertising campaigns run by the Department in financial year 2006-07 for which figures are available.

Government policies and programmes affect the lives of millions of people and in order for them to work they must be communicated effectively. But that also has to be done with cost efficiency in mind and there are strict rules to ensure value for money on Government advertising.

Departmental advertising costs 2006-07[1]

| | Amount (£000) |
|---|---|
| Age Partnership Group | 9 |
| Age Positive | 40 |
| Targeting benefit fraud | 5,418 |
| Reducing customer error | 45 |
| The Pension Service core benefit take up | 881 |
| Winter fuel payments | 343 |
| Child maintenance enforcement | 107 |
| Jobcentre Plus promotion to Black and Minority Ethnic audience | 687 |
| Job Done | 765 |
| Jobseeker's Allowance 50+ Pilot | 83 |
| Lone parent | 171 |
| Total | 8,549 |

1 The table does not include the following as the information is not held centrally and to obtain it would incur disproportionate cost:
spend by non-departmental bodies for which the Department is responsible details of highly localised publicity activity by the Department's customer-facing Businesses
recruitment or procurement advertising

The information in the table relates to media buying expenditure only, which forms the bulk of departmental publicity expenditure, but excludes direct mail, public relations, production and other costs. All figures are exclusive of VAT.

Disability Living Allowance: Forms

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what assessment he has made of the ease of completing disability living allowance application forms; and if he will (a) bring forward proposals to review the format of the forms and (b) consult the National Autistic Society on their recommendations for changes to the application process. [167603]

Mrs. McGuire [holding answer 26 November 2007]: The administration of disability living allowance is a matter for the Acting Chief Executive of the Disability and Carers Service, Mrs. Vivien Hopkins. She will write to the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Vivien Hopkins, dated 4 December 2007:

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, what assessment he has made of the ease of completing disability living allowance application forms; and if he will (a) bring forward proposals to review the format of the forms and (b) consult the National Autistic Society on their recommendations for changes to the application process.

The Minister for Disabled People, Anne McGuire MP, promised you a substantive reply from the Acting Chief Executive of the Disability and Carers Service.

We have a long standing commitment to improving our service to our customers, including identifying and implementing improvements to claim forms for Disability Living Allowance (DLA).

By way of background the claim form has to cater for the fact that disabling conditions affect different people in different ways, varying enormously from individual to individual, and may also change over time in a way that is not always easy to predict.

For these reasons it is vital that each person has the opportunity to explain, on the claim form, exactly how their disability affects their personal care and mobility needs. In addition, over 70% of DLA working age customers have more than one medical condition and forms must therefore allow customers to explain the needs arising from physical, mental or sensory impairments, or any combination of these.

Since September 2005, we have aimed to better balance the needs of both our customers and our decision makers by changing the format of our claim forms to a tick box format with more specific questions. This enables the customer to focus more easily on the information required and simplifies completion by the customer, carer or representative. At the same time, it provides the level of detail that DCS decision makers need to understand the impact of the customer's medical condition on their daily life, when considering the legislative criteria for entitlement. The forms allow the customer to provide additional detail in free text, if necessary.

In developing a new claim form for DLA customers of working age, customer research was conducted using qualitative methods, and extensive consultation with the DCS Advisory Forum (DCS AF) was undertaken. The first version of a new DLA claim form was introduced in September 2005 and used for 6 months in the Bootle and Manchester areas. An amended version was introduced in April 2006 following further consultation with the DCS AF and this version was fully evaluated.

The evaluation undertaken found that customers were significantly more satisfied with the new claim form than had been the case in the 2005/2006 MORI survey of DCS customers about the national claim forms. Staff and decision makers in particular, were also generally positve about the new form compared to the previous version, particularly the inclusion of tick boxes.

Further revisions were made to the form as a result of ongoing evaluation and feedback, resulting in the new DLA 1 Adult claim form that was rolled out for national use in April 2007.

I now turn to part (b) of your question asking if DCS will consult with the National Autistic Society on their recommendations for changes to the application process. I can confirm that we are currently working with key stakeholders, including parents and representatives of children's welfare organisations, to consider the issues around the application process for children, including possible revisions to the DLA Child claim form. The National Autistic Society is one of the groups represented and they are therefore aware of the potential changes to the DLA Child claim form.

This work is at an early stage and development of a revised version of a DLA Child claim form for testing and evaluation is planned during 2008.

Please let me know if I can help further.

Disabled: Access

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much funding has been (a) made available and (b) spent to make the buildings occupied by his Department fully accessible to disabled people. [166827]

Mrs. McGuire: The vast majority of the Department's estate is occupied under the terms of the PRIME PFI contract. DWP pays a unitary charge in return for fully serviced accommodation. Under the terms of the PRIME contract, Land Securities Trillium (LST) are responsible for funding works associated with legislative requirements. This includes works to improve accessibility.

Housing Benefit: Greater London

Ms Buck: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the median housing benefit payment made to claimants was in the private rented sector in each London local authority in 2006. [167580]

Mr. Plaskitt: The median amount for housing benefit cannot be given as the data held are aggregate data. A mean amount has been provided instead in the following table

Average weekly amount of housing benefit paid to private rented sector tenants by London local authorities: February, May, August and November 2006

| | Average weekly amount[1] (£) |

Ms Buck: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many claims were made for discretionary housing payments in each London local authority in 2006; how many such claims were accepted; and what the median payment was in each area. [167581]

Mr. Plaskitt: The information for 2006 is not available.

Incapacity Benefit: Vale of York

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many incapacity benefit payments were made in each of the last three years in the Vale of York; and if he will make a statement. [165048]

Mrs. McGuire: Information about the number of incapacity benefit payments is not collated centrally and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost. Information about the number of beneficiaries in the Vale of York is in the following table.

Number of incapacity benefit/severe disablement allowance beneficiaries in Vale of York parliamentary constituency

| Quarter ending | Beneficiaries receiving payment |

In-work Premium Payments

Ms Buck: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what proportion of all recipients of in-work premium payments remained in work for the full year for which the payment applied; and what assessment he has made of how this compares to the job retention rates for groups not entitled to such payments; [167577]

(2) what assessment his Department has made of the effectiveness of in-work premium payments in respect of (a) job retention and (b) in-work poverty. [167578]

Caroline Flint: 59 per cent. of in-work credit claims were for the full year. This is the best indication we have of the proportion of recipients who sustained employment for at least one year.

DWP has recently published an initial impact assessment of lone parent pilots, including in-work credit, after 12 to 24 months of the pilots' operation. Although it was not possible for the initial report to examine job retention rates, the next report, due to be published summer 2008, will examine the longer term impacts of the pilot, including retention. Forthcoming qualitative research will also examine the effects of in-work credit on job retention, to provide context for the findings from the impact assessment.

Recent qualitative research with lone parents and Jobcentre Plus staff supports the view that in-work credit aids employment retention.

In-work poverty is not part of the planned evaluation of in-work credit.

Ms Buck: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people received an in-work premium payment in each quarter since its inception. [167576]

Caroline Flint: The available information is shown in the following table.

| Quarters | Number of in-work credit starts |
|---|---|
| 2004 | |
| April to June | 360 |
| July to September | 460 |
| October to December | 1,780 |

Jobcentre Plus: Dismissal

Mr. Leech: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many staff in Jobcentre Plus have been dismissed in the last 12 months due to their attendance record. [168445]

Caroline Flint: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus, Lesley Strathie. I have asked her to provide the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Lesley Strathie, dated 4 December 2007:

The Secretary of State has asked me to reply to your question about the number of staff in Jobcentre Plus who have been dismissed in the last 12 months due to their attendance record. This is something which falls within the responsibilities delegated to me as Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus.

The latest available information is that 497 people were dismissed due to unsatisfactory attendance between October 2006 and September 2007.

The attendance management procedures operated by Jobcentre Plus are within the framework set in the Department for Work and Pensions attendance management policy.

I hope this is helpful.

Jobcentre Plus: Manpower

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people there are on each grading of Jobcentre Plus's customer assessment tool. [168770]

Caroline Flint: The information requested is not routinely collected and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Jobcentre Plus: Standards

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions pursuant to the 56th Report of the Public Accounts Committee, Session 2006-07 HC 312, if he will monitor the performance of Jobcentre Plus by the exit to employment successes of individual personal advisers. [167688]

Caroline Flint: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus, Lesley Strathie. I have asked her to provide my right hon. Friend with the information requested.

Letter from Lesley Strathie, dated 4 December 2007:

The Secretary of State has asked me to reply to your question asking if he will monitor the performance of Jobcentre Plus by the exit to employment successes of individual personal advisers. This is something which falls within the responsibilities delegated to me as Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus.

We have no plans to monitor the performance of Jobcentre Plus by the exit to employment successes of individual personal advisers. However, we will continue to monitor our success in helping people into work at national and district level through the Job Outcome Target.

Jobseeker's Allowance

Mr. Rooney: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions whether a claimant may be refused jobseeker's allowance on the grounds of having voluntarily left employment where they have done so following (a) domestic violence, (b) bereavement and (c) dismissal because of inability to meet the conditions of employment due to child care responsibilities. [171488]

Mr. Plaskitt: The Jobseekers Act 1995 states to receive jobseeker's allowance a claimant's unemployment must be involuntary. An independent decision maker will consider why a claimant's employment has ended and whether they had just cause. All the factors in which the claimant's employment ended will be considered as a whole, including personal or domestic life aspects. Where domestic violence, bereavement or child care responsibilities are factors they will be taken into account.

Mr. Rooney: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions in what circumstances the jobseeker's allowance regime permits claimants to participate in (a) full or (b) part-time education or training. [171489]

Mr. Plaskitt: To receive and continue to receive jobseeker's allowance, claimants must be available and actively seeking work. Generally claimants who are in full-time education are not regarded as available for employment during the period of study. Similarly those in full-time training are not regarded as available and are not entitled to jobseeker's allowance.

Jobseeker's allowance claimants can however, undertake part-time skills training provided it does not conflict with the work search requirements of their benefit.

However, obtaining skills can be an important factor in finding and retaining work. Therefore claimants will be treated as available if they are participating in an employment related course of up to two weeks approved in advance by DWP, or aged 25 or over and on an approved employment related course including one under the new deal for up to nine months.

Intensive training for longer than two weeks can only be accessed by moving an individual from jobseeker's allowance onto a training allowance, which protects eligibility to passported benefits including housing benefit and council tax benefit. Training allowances have to date, only been offered to a limited number. In "Opportunity, Employment and Progression: making skills work", published on 26 November, we announced our intention to increase access to such training allowances.

Subject to adviser discretion, customers who have been claiming jobseeker's allowance for six months or more will be moved to a training allowance and will be able to undertake training full-time, employability focussed training designed to meet employer needs for up to eight weeks.

Further, in recognition of the importance of obtaining skills in increasing the employment prospects for some Jobcentre Plus customers, we have also announced that we will be piloting mandatory training where the adviser thinks this is appropriate, to test if this increases job outcome rates and employment sustainability and progression.

Local Employment Partnerships

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many companies are participating in local employment partnerships. [168771]

Caroline Flint: So far, 225 employers have agreed to participate in local employment partnerships. 85 of these have already started to implement their partnerships.

Peel Park House

Mr. Jack: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the designed staff capacity is for his Department's offices at Peel Park House near Blackpool. [167265]

Mrs. McGuire: Peel Park is capable of supporting between 1,300 and 2,400 staff, depending on the configuration of the space required, for example the number of meeting rooms and other space to support business operations and whether non-territorial working is in operation. Based on current estimates for future headcounts, DWP is planning to house 920 staff in Peel Park in 2008. Plans are being considered for further estate rationalisation during 2008-09, which could increase the overall staff numbers at Peel Park by as many as 200.

Pension Protection Fund

Mr. Waterson: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what information was used to calculate invoices for the Pension Protection Fund in 2006-07; [165390]

(2) what information was used to calculate the levies for the Pension Protection Fund in 2006-07; and if he will make a statement. [165392]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The Pension Protection Fund (PPF) is partly funded by a Pension Protection Levy and an Administration Levy on all eligible defined-benefit occupational pension schemes. The PPF is also funded by the assets of schemes that transfer into the PPF and the investment returns of these assets.

The Administration Levy is set by the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions under section 117 of the Pensions Act 2004 and is calculated and payable based on the number of members in an eligible scheme. The Administration Levy is imposed in respect of eligible schemes for the purpose of meeting the running costs of the PPF and the Fraud Compensation Fund.

Section 175 of the Pensions Act 2004 provides that the board of the PPF must impose a Pension Protection Levy which is comprised of a scheme-based element (20 per cent.) and a risk-based element (80 per cent.). The Pension Protection Levy is invested to pay compensation to members of eligible defined-benefit occupational pension schemes, when there is a qualifying insolvency event in relation to an employer and where there are insufficient assets in a pension scheme to cover PPF levels of compensation. Section 181 of the Pensions Act 2004 provides that the calculation of the Pension Protection Levy in respect of eligible schemes is a matter for the board of the PPF.

A guide to the Pension Protection Levy 2006-07 is available on the Pension Protection Fund's website at: http://www.pensionprotectionfund.org.uk/levy_guide_0607.pdf

The calculation of invoices is also a matter for the PPF board and I have asked the chief executive of the PPF, Partha Dasgupta, to write to the hon. Gentleman on these matters.

Mr. Waterson: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many service calls on invoicing issues were recorded by the Pension Protection Fund in each month since the fund began operating. [165393]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The PPF receives a range of inquiries in respect of the levy including questions, queries and remittance advice. The broad split was 1,237 (19 per cent.) in respect of levy policy and 5,238 (81 per cent.) in respect of data used for the levy.

I have asked Partha Dasgupta, the Chief Executive of the PPF to write to the hon. Gentleman on this matter.

Pension Credit

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many (a) pensioners and (b) pensioner households (i) were eligible and (ii) took up pension credit in each of the last five years. [166833]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Estimates of the number of pensioner households eligible for pension credit and the number and proportion that take up pension credit for 2003-04 to 2005-06 can be obtained from the last two "Income Related Benefits Estimates of Take-Up' reports. Copies are available in the Library.

The 2005-06 report is the latest available, therefore eligibility and take-up figures are not available for 2007.

The number of households receiving pension credit as at May 2007 was 2.73 million and the number of individual beneficiaries as at May 2007 was 3.34 million.

Notes:

1. The number of households in receipt are rounded to the nearest 10.

2. Household recipients are those people who claim pension credit either for themselves only or on behalf of a household.

Social Security Benefits: Christmas

Dan Rogerson: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what provision he has made for claimants to collect their benefit for the week commencing 24 December in the week commencing 17 December. [169787]

Mr. Plaskitt: We have settled processes in place to advance payments for the Christmas and new year periods which have worked well for the last few years. Customers having their payments paid into bank accounts will be able to access their money from cash machines throughout the whole of the holiday period. Those customers using post office branches will be able to collect their cash earlier than normal when their post office branch is open.

Social Security Benefits: Wrexham

Ian Lucas: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what percentage of children lived in families claiming benefits in each ward in Wrexham in each year since 1997; [168137]

(2) what percentage of children lived in families in receipt of disability benefits in each ward in Wrexham in each year since 1997. [168138]

[1] 'Workless benefits' data represent children dependent on a parent/guardian who is claiming one or more of incapacity benefit (IB), severe disablement allowance (SDA), jobseeker's allowance (JSA), income support (IS) or pension credit (PC).
[2] 'Disability benefits' data represent children dependent on a parent/guardian who is claiming disability living allowance or attendance allowance. Information on these benefits is not available from this source prior to April 2006 as they were not required in the original specifications.
Notes:
1. All data represent a single snapshot in time of claimants on the computer system, and will therefore exclude a very small number of cases that are held clerically. The data are produced once a year.
2. Geo-referencing tools, obtained from the Office of National Statistics, have been used to assign claimants to geographies.
3. Due to the introduction of child tax credits in April 2003, information on child dependents is not reliably completed on the benefit computer system, therefore data from child benefit records have been merged onto IS/JSA/IB/SDA/PC claims with the permission of HMRC. The total number of children on child benefit has been used as the denominator for the percentages given.
4. The data on workless benefits are only available from April 2004, and from April 2006 for disability benefits.
5. It is possible that there will be some overlap of the figures as children could be in families that are in receipt of both workless and disability benefits.

JUSTICE

Bailiffs

Mr. Mullin: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what representations he has received on the conduct of the bailiffs, Phillips Ltd.; and if he will make a statement. [169810]

Maria Eagle: I have received two pieces of correspondence about the bailiff company Phillips. The first from my right hon. Friend the Member for Walsall, South (Mr. George) which was seeking clarification of their role in enforcing court imposed fines, the second from the hon. Member for Ludlow (Mr. Dunne), in connection with an incorrectly addressed letter sent by Phillips.

Phillips is contracted by Her Majesty's Courts Service (HMCS) in the Midlands and North East Regions, to execute distress and financial arrest warrants and clamping orders on behalf of HMCS, where the defendant has failed to respond to communications and attempts from the court to enforce the fine.

My hon. Friend may be aware of an article in the Civil Enforcement News magazine which raised the concerns of Washington Citizens Advice Bureau (CAB) about the conduct of Phillips when enforcing fines. Officials from HMCS have recently met with the Washington CAB to explain the enforcement process carried out by HMCS and the role of Phillips once a distress warrant has been issued to them. A joint meeting between HMCS, CAB and Phillips is due to take place in early January 2008.

Cemeteries

Janet Anderson: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice which local authorities cover the cost of reinstatement of gravestones after they are deemed to be unsafe through topple testing. [170636]

Bridget Prentice: Responsibility for the maintenance of gravestones lies with their owners, or as otherwise agreed with the local authority. However, I understand that a number of local authorities have decided, at their discretion, to incur the cost of making the gravestones safe.

Courts

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many Crown courts there are; where each is located; and how many judges are attached to each court. [170098]

Maria Eagle: The Crown court is a single court, which currently sits at 91 locations (listed in table A). Under the provisions of section 8 of the Supreme Court Act 1981 all High Court judges, Circuit judges, Recorders, and District judges (magistrates courts) are judges of the Crown court, as are magistrates sitting in the Crown court on appeal from magistrates courts.

Under section 9 of the Supreme Court Act 1981 the Lord Chief Justice can also ask Lords Justices, retired Lords Justices, and retired High Court judges to sit as judges of the Crown court. All judges of the Crown court have the full jurisdiction of the court. Judicial resources are allocated according to the number and types of cases to be heard. The number of judges attached to each court is not held centrally and could be obtained only by contacting each court. The total number of judges is shown in table B.

Data Protection

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the Government's response was to the European Commission's infringement letter indicating that the UK's data protection law was deficient and that data protection Directive 95/46/EC had not been implemented; and if he will make a statement. [170207]

Mr. Wills: The European Commission, as part of its review of the implementation of the 1995 Data Protection Directive by each member state, is in discussion with the UK Government on a number of issues. Disclosing the details of those discussions at this stage would prejudice negotiations between the UK and the Commission and so prejudice UK interests. We believe that the UK has properly implemented the Data Protection Directive via the Data Protection Act 1998 and other relevant provisions of UK law.

Departmental Reorganisation

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what his most recent estimate is of the total cost of creating his Department. [169696]

Maria Eagle: The estimate of costs incurred to create the new Ministry was estimated at £1.5 million. These costs represented mainly IT and estate activity incurred at the time the new Ministry was created in May 2007 to ensure the new Ministry could operate effectively.

Post initial set-up, the new Ministry is taking forward many initiatives which represent normal activity required to run a large delivery Department and maintain and develop its systems. Specific work is under way, for example, to develop the organisational structure and operating model in use across the Ministry.

Much of this activity would have been necessary within either the previous Department for Constitutional Affairs or the Home Office. It is therefore not possible to identify any specific incremental costs arising as a result of the creation of the Ministry.

All costs are being absorbed within the Ministry's budget.

Driving Offences: Gloucestershire

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many (a) speeding and (b) dangerous driving offences were recorded in Gloucestershire in each year since 1979. [170097]

Maria Eagle: Available information held by my Department for the Gloucestershire police force area, from 1980 to 2005 (latest available) is provided in the following table.

[4] Will include fixed penalty notices issued but not paid and referred to court.
[5] From 1980-1997 findings of guilt at all courts, numbers of court proceedings are not available. From 1998 onwards covers total proceedings at magistrates courts.
[6] Not applicable.

Notes:
1. It is known that for some police force areas the reporting of court proceedings, in particular those relating to summary motoring offences, may be less than complete.
2. Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by police forces and the courts. As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when these data are used.

Fixed Penalties: Drunkenness

John Hemming: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what estimate he has made of revenue likely to arise from fixed penalty fines levied on people found drunk in public houses in the next 12 months. [170315]

Mr. Hanson: No estimate has been made. Under the Penalty Notice for Disorder (PND) Scheme, police can issue fixed penalties of £50 to persons found drunk in a public place. However, data on the exact location where the offence took place are not collected.

Office of the Information Commissioner: Finance

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice pursuant to the answer of 27 November 2007, Official Report, columns 303-4W, on the Office of the Information Commissioner: finance, if he will review the appropriateness of the funding arrangements for the information responsibilities of the Information Commissioner's Office. [170422]

Mr. Wills: The Information Commissioner's data protection work is funded by the retention of notification fees paid by data controllers under section 26 of the Data Protection Act 1998. My Department continues to engage constructively with him on the resource implications of the additional inspection powers announced by the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. My Department provides a yearly grant in aid for his freedom of information work, and there are no plans to review this arrangement.

Police Custody: Chelmsford

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many (a) police cells and (b) custody suites in West Chelmsford constituency were occupied by prisoners remanded in custody by the courts in the latest period for which figures are available. [169768]

Mr. Hanson: Between 12 October 2006 and 30 November 2007 prisoners were held in police cells under Operation Safeguard in West Chelmsford on the nights of 22 January, 23 April and 21 May. On these dates, the number of prisoners held were one, two and one respectively.

Prison Service: Public Appointments

Mr. Bellingham: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what information is used by the Deputy Director General of HM Prison Service in authorising managed moves; who is responsible for providing that information; how he establishes whether there are exceptional circumstances to warrant a managed move; and if he will make a statement. [170797]

Maria Eagle: Appointments within the operational senior manager grade are authorised by the Deputy Director General in his position as Chair of the Succession Planning Committee. Managed appointments are made on the basis of information and knowledge from a number of sources, including line managers and the Resourcing and Talent Management teams within the HR Directorate.

The policy on managed appointments is published in Prison Service Order 8110. There is no requirement for the circumstances to be exceptional to warrant a managed appointment.

Prison Service: Racism

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the policy is of HM Prison Service on the employment of members of organisations it classes as racist. [169986]

Maria Eagle: HM Prison Service has a policy of prohibiting people who work for it from being members of groups or organisations considered to have racist philosophies, principles, aims or policies.

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice which organisations HM Prison Service classes as racist. [169987]

Maria Eagle: HM Prison Service has a policy of prohibiting people who work for it from being members of groups or organisations considered to have racist philosophies, principles, aims or policies. In particular, no one working for HMPS can be a member of the British National party (BNP), the National Front, Combat 18 or any other group or organisation promoting racism. It is important to note that these groups are cited as examples and are not an exhaustive or definitive list.

Prisoners

Mr. Bellingham: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the prisoner to officer ratio was at each prison establishment at the latest date for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [170796]

Maria Eagle: The prisoner to officer ratio for each prison at the end of October is shown in the table. The data are provisional and subject to in year validation.

The following table shows the prisoner to officer ratio at the end of October 2007.

Prisoners: Foreigners

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many foreign national prisoners are being held (a) on indeterminate sentence for public protection after the expiry of their tariff, (b) on life sentences after expiry of their tariff, (c) on determinate sentences beyond the date at which they would be eligible for release or parole and (d) beyond the expiry of their sentence. [170140]

Mr. Hanson: Regarding (a), and (b), information on the numbers of prisoners held beyond their tariff is not available centrally as tariff is not recorded as part of the standard datasets. Determining the number of such prisoners who are foreign nationals would require examination of individual case files and could not be obtained without disproportionate cost. Regarding (c), I refer the hon. and learned Gentleman to the answer given on 15 October 2007, Official Report, columns 754-5W, to the hon. Member for Weston-super-Mare (John Penrose).

In regard to (d) about time-served prisoners, information is not held centrally. It would also require the examination of case files and could not be obtained without disproportionate cost. I also refer the hon. and learned Member to my answer on 29 October 2007, Official Report, column 809W.

Prisons: Pay

Mr. Bellingham: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice with reference to the answer of 16 May 2007, Official Report, column 787W, on Prison Service: pay, for what reason the information on breaches of the regulations is not collected by HM Prison Service Professional Standards Unit Investigations Support Unit; and if he will make a statement. [170635]

Maria Eagle: The role of Investigation Support Section (ISS) is to record and track formal investigations when terms of reference are submitted by the Commissioning Manager.

ISS allocates each investigation registered to a category and one such category is fraud. However, data are not stored in the format requested in the previous question and to provide it would incur disproportionate cost.

Sexual Offences: Sentencing

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many people serving indeterminate sentences with a tariff of under 24 months were convicted of sexual offences against children. [170154]

Mr. Hanson: A research study into prisoners received into prisons in England and Wales under Indeterminate Sentences for Public Protection (IPP) between April 2005 and March 2006, showed that 26 offenders were given an IPP with tariff of less than 24 months for sexual offences against children.

This figure has been drawn from administrative IT systems and data returns from prison establishments. It is possible that this total does not include all relevant offences because the offence details held within the prison IT system do not always include the victim's age.

Victims: Compensation

Mr. Dunne: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) how much has been raised from victims surcharge on fines payable in magistrates courts since its introduction on 1 April; [169730]

(2) who is responsible for (a) distributing and (b) administering the proceeds of the victims surcharge; [169731]

(3) to whom in each parliamentary constituency the proceeds from victims surcharge has been distributed since 1 April. [169732]

Maria Eagle: As at 31 October 2007, £1,078,621 had been raised from the collection of the victims surcharge since its introduction on 1 April.

The Home and Justice Secretaries and the Attorney-General are jointly responsible for deciding how revenue raised by the surcharge should be allocated. Distribution and administration in accordance with Ministers' wishes is effected by officials in the relevant Departments.

Receipts from the surcharge have been appropriated in aid as part of the Ministry of Justice Estimates for 2007-08. The Ministry of Justice makes allocations from the estimates to recipient organisations or other Departments as appropriate. Full details of how surcharge revenue is being used were given in my answer of 26 November 2007, Official Report, column 96W, to the hon. Member for Shipley (Philip Davies).

Young Offender Institutions: Restraint Techniques

Dr. Vis: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many injuries were incurred by boys held in (a) Feltham, (b) Foston Hall, (c) Hindley and (d) Huntercombe Young Offender Institution as a result of control and restraint in each month in (i) 2006 and (ii) 2007; and if he will give details of each injury sustained. [169808]

Maria Eagle: At Feltham one boy sustained an injury during use of force in September 2006 and one in July 2007 recorded as "bang to the head" and "swelling to left wrist" respectively. Foston Hall held no male young offenders during 2006-07. Information on Hindley for 2006 and January 2007 was not recorded in a central database and would require disproportionate resource to collate the information. However, the following information on serious injuries obtained as a result of use of force was reported and managed through the child protection procedures:

| Month | Injury |
|---|---|
| March 2006 | Broken wrist |
| September 2006 | Broken wrist |
| September 2006 | Bruising |

In February 2007, new reporting systems were implemented which provide the following information.

| 2007 | Minor injury (no treatment required) | Minor injury (medical treatment required) | Serious injury requiring hospital treatment |
|---|---|---|---|
| February | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| March | 7 | 0 | 0 |
| April | 9 | 0 | 0 |
| May | 4 | 2 | 0 |
| June | 6 | 1 | 0 |
| July | 18 | 2 | 0 |
| August | 8 | 0 | 0 |
| September | 10 | 3 | 0 |
| October | 5 | 0 | 0 |

Information for Huntercombe is set out in the following table.

|---|---|---|
| Discomfort/Swelling (Muscles and Tendons) | 1 | 6 |
| Bruising | 8 | 4 |
| Grazes and Scratches | 5 | 3 |
| Cuts | 1 | 1 |
| Total | 15 | 14 |

Dr. Vis: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many injuries were incurred by girls held in (a) Down View Young Offender Institution and (b) Eastwood Park Young Offender Institution as a result of control and restraint in each month in (i) 2006 and (ii) 2007; and if he will give details of each injury sustained. [169809]

Maria Eagle: The Prison Service definition of 'girls' in the context of prisoners is those aged 15-17. The information for Downview and Eastwood Park is set out in the following tables.

Downview

Young Offenders

Mr. Boris Johnson: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many (a) receptions to and (b) releases from young offender institutions located (i) nationally and (ii) in London took place in each of the last five years. [169814]

Mr. Hanson: Young Offender Institutions accommodate sentenced prisoners aged from 15 to 21. The following table shows the number of sentenced young offenders received into prison establishments in England and Wales in each year from 2002 to 2005, broken down into those sentenced by courts in London and those sentenced by courts outside of London.

| | All | London | Outside London |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2002 | 20,239 | 2,903 | 17,336 |
| 2003 | 18,181 | 2,494 | 15,687 |
| 2004 | 18,264 | 2,493 | 15,771 |
| 2005 | 17,819 | 2,466 | 15,353 |
| 2006 | 17,985 | 2,631 | 15,354 |

We do not currently have consistent data to compare releases with receptions but expect to have reliable data for 2007 in early 2008.

These figures have been drawn from administrative IT systems, which, as with any large scale recording system, are subject to possible errors with data entry and processing.

TREASURY

Academies

Mr. Laws: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what role his Department is playing in the review of the academies programme; and if he will make a statement. [169836]

Andy Burnham: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave him on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 916W. Treasury officials are working closely with PMDU and DCSF officials, both in carrying out the review and overseeing the review.

Child Benefit Agency: Expenditure

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much the Child Benefit Office has spent on (a) potted plants, (b) taxis and (c) staff parties in the last five years for which figures are available. [168939]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 27 November]: The information is as follows.

(a) Child Benefit Office has spent nothing on potted plants;

(b) Information is only available at disproportionate cost; and

(c) I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave him on 22 October 2007, Official Report, column 29W.

Child Benefit Agency: Visits Abroad

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much the Child Benefit Agency spent on staff travel overseas in the last 12 month period for which figures are available; and which destinations were travelled to. [168937]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 27 November 2007]: It has been necessary for one child benefit official to travel overseas on official business, to Belgium, in the 12 month period ending 30 November 2007. The cost of air travel and hotel accommodation was reimbursed by the European Commission and the net cost to the Department for other travel and subsistence costs necessarily incurred on those trips was £104.06.

Child Benefit: Databases

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer for what reasons the helpline number 0845 302 1444 for enquiring about child benefit database concerns is a premium rate line; if he will ensure that people are able to call the helpline at local tariff rates; and if he will make a statement. [169726]

Jane Kennedy: This is not a premium rate line. HMRC policy is to operate customer facing helplines using an 0845 prefix rather than premium rate lines. The cost of calls to 0845 and other non geographic numbers is dependent on several factors. Calls are charged to the customer based on the tariff arrangements they have with their service provider, the device they use for the call and the location from which they call.

Child Benefit: Northamptonshire

Mr. Hollobone: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many child benefit claimants there are in (a) Northamptonshire and (b) Kettering constituency. [171067]

Jane Kennedy: Figures showing the number of families receiving child benefit at regional and parliamentary constituency level for the UK are published on the HMRC website:

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/child benefit/geographical.htm

Child Benefit: Personal Records

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what information the National Audit Office (NAO) is entitled to request from HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC) on child benefit claims; and by what mechanisms such information is provided to the NAO by HMRC. [167557]

Jane Kennedy: The NAO derive their authority from four main Acts of Parliament; these are the Exchequer and Audit Department Acts 1866 and 1921, the National Audit (NAO) Act 1983 and the Government Resources and Accounts Act 2000. They have a right of access at all reasonable times to all official documents that they reasonably require for the purposes of their audit. The mechanisms by which such information is provided to the NAO vary according to the request.

On 13 November HMRC initiated immediate increased security with a new process:

transfers will now only take place if they are absolutely necessary;

written authorisation for the transfer has to be given by senior HMRC manager; and a clear instruction has been given regarding the appropriate standard of protection for the transfer.

Where directors decide that a data transfer by disc is unavoidable such media must, in every case, be securely encrypted at the appropriate level.

On 20 November the Chancellor announced an independent review of HMRC's data handling procedures to be conducted by Kieran Poynter, the chair of PricewaterhouseCoopers.

Mr. Chope: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what information from the child benefit database was requested by the National Audit Office from HM Revenue and Customs in October; and in what respect the information sent in response was more extensive that that requested. [167701]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 26 November 2007]: There is an ongoing Metropolitan Police investigation into the matter, and the Chancellor has appointed Kieran Poynter, chair of PricewaterhouseCoopers, to investigate HMRC's security processes and procedures for data handling. As part of his review Kieran Poynter has been asked to produce an interim report by 14 December.

Mr. Gauke: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of the measures HM Revenue and Customs have taken to (a) prevent, (b) detect and (c) prosecute identity theft related to tax credit awards. [168056]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 26 November 2007]: HM Revenue and Customs have robust strategies in place for tackling fraud including a range of checks throughout the life of each claim. They continually refine and develop their processes to ensure they stay one step ahead of those who seek to de-fraud the system and respond quickly when new threats are identified.

HMRC have embedded compliance specialists in contact centres to provide additional support and specialist knowledge and raise fraud awareness.

If fraud is suspected, payments are stopped. HMRC always investigate allegations of fraud and can and do prosecute.

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the grade was of the HM Revenue and Customs official who downloaded and posted discs containing confidential child benefit information. [168211]

Jane Kennedy: I refer the hon. Member to the statement given in the House by my right hon. Friend the Chancellor of the Exchequer on 20 November 2007, Official Report, columns 1101-04. It would be inappropriate to provide further information relating to this issue as there is an ongoing Metropolitan Police Service investigation.

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what assessment he has made of the role of TNT in the loss of two discs containing personal details of families claiming tax credits; and if he will make a statement; [168222]

(2) what steps he is taking to search for the missing discs containing information about families claiming tax credits. [168223]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 26 November 2007]: No tax credit data was lost on the two discs in question.

There is an ongoing police investigation in relation to the loss of discs containing child benefit data. The police are conducting searches and the priority remains to find the missing data.

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many calls there were to HM Revenue and Custom's Child Benefit Helpline on each day since 19 September 2007. [168366]

Child Benefit Helpline

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 26 November 2007]: The following table provides HMRC's best current estimate of all calls handled by the child benefit helpline on each day from 19 September 2007 until 21 November 2007 inclusive.

| Date | Calls handled |
|---|---|

Child Benefit: Pregnant Women

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to his announcement of child benefits in pregnancy in his 2006 pre-Budget Speech, if he will place in the Library copies of (a) representations he has received and (b) minutes of meetings he has held on that policy since that date. [170574]

Jane Kennedy: Representations received on the Health in Pregnancy Grant since the 2006 pre-Budget report are contained in the Treasury's 14 November 2007 press notice on the grant, on the HM Treasury website. Treasury Ministers and officials have meetings with a wide variety of organisations in the public and private sectors as part of the process of policy development and delivery. As was the case with previous Administrations, it is not the Government's practice to provide details of all such meetings.

Child Care Tax Credit

Ms Buck: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many households were in receipt of childcare tax credit in each local authority in England in April 2007. [170670]

Jane Kennedy: The information requested is not available at this date.

The latest information available on the average number of families benefiting from the childcare element of working tax credit, by local authority, is published in the HMRC statistical publication "Child and Working Tax Credit Statistics. Finalised Awards 2005-06. Geographical analyses", which is available on the HMRC website at:

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/personal-tax-credits/cwtc-geog-stats.htm

The same information for 2006-07 is due to be published in May 2008.

Departmental Computers

Mr. Gauke: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many of his Department's (a) computers and (b) laptops have been stolen in 2007; and what the value of those items was. [168594]

Jane Kennedy: HMRC records show that seven computer base units and 45 laptop computers were reported stolen between 1 January 2007 and 28 November 2007, 16 of them during a break in at one of HMRC's offices. The cost of replacement is approximately £43,000.

HMT records show that six laptop computers were reported stolen in 2007. The cost of replacement is approximately £4,000. No other computers were recorded as stolen.

Departmental Data Protection

Mr. Evans: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the cost of encrypting all sensitive e-mails sent from his Department. [168866]

Jane Kennedy: The costs of encrypting e-mails sent from HM Treasury and HM Revenue and Customs is not available. These costs are included in the overall costs of the services provided.

Departmental Databases

Dr. Cable: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when each electronic database in his Department containing personal information on members of the public was first created. [169711]

Jane Kennedy: The information requested is available only at disproportionate cost.

EU Budget

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what his Department's most recent estimate is of the levels of (a) fraud and (b) waste in expenditure under the EU budget in 2007. [170445]

Kitty Ussher: Table 1 (page 5) of the European Anti Fraud Office's (OLAF) fight against fraud report in respect of 2006 estimated the levels of fraud in that year. The Government's EU expenditure reform priorities include the phasing out of CAP direct payments by 2020, and Structural and Cohesion Funds, of which in 2007 60 per cent. of spending is still going to richer member states.

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much underspend there was on the European Communities annual budget in each year since 1997; and how much of that underspend was (a) carried over into the following year's budget, (b) returned to member states and (c) returned to the United Kingdom. [170446]

Kitty Ussher: All EC budget surpluses are returned to member states in the following year.

The surpluses and the GNI-shares on which they are returned to member states are detailed annually in Amending Budgets published in the Official Journal of the European Union—the most recent of which is Amending Budget 3/2007 (Official Journal of the European Union[1]/203 Budget 3/2007).

EU Law: Insurance

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what steps he plans to take to ensure that European Union legislation on the regulation of the commercial insurance brokerage industry is not gold-plated in its implementation by the Financial Services Authority. [168620]

Kitty Ussher: The regulation of commercial insurance brokerage is ultimately a matter for the Financial Services Authority (FSA). The FSA is independent from the Government although subject to the provisions of the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000 (FSMA).

The FSA has an obligation under FSMA to undertake cost-benefit analysis of any proposed new rule. The FSA has committed to go beyond the minimum standards necessary when implementing EU law on financial services only where a demonstrably convincing case can be made.

The FSA is currently looking at its general insurance regime through a review of its Insurance: Conduct of Business (ICOB) rules. In particular it is looking at those ICOB rules that require firms to go beyond the minimum necessary to comply with the relevant EU Directives.

Foreigners: Greater London

Mr. Boris Johnson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many non-UK domiciled persons became resident in London in each of the last 10 years for (a) fewer than 12 months and (b) more than 12 months. [169673]

Jane Kennedy: The information requested is not available.

HM Revenue and Customs

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to his statement of 20 November 2007, Official Report, columns 1101-2, on HM Revenue and Customs, how many of the individuals' records missing in the transfer of information from HM Revenue and Customs are (a) current and (b) former claimants of child benefit. [168561]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 29 November 2007]: I refer the hon. Member to the statement given in the House by my right hon. Friend the Chancellor of the Exchequer on 20 November 2007, Official Report, columns 1101-04.

Income Tax

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the percentage of income tax payable which was collected in (a) Scotland and (b) the UK in 2007. [171194]

Jane Kennedy: Information on income tax liabilities in Scotland and the UK can be found in table 3.11 "Income and tax by gender, region and country" on the HM Revenue and Customs website.

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/income_distribution/menu.htm

The information is based on the Survey of Personal Incomes, of which 2004-05 is the latest available.

The Scottish Executive produce estimates of tax revenues attributable to Scotland in their publication "Government Expenditure and Revenue in Scotland". These are published at:

http://www.scottishexecutive.gov.uk/Resource/Doc/159996/0043602.pdf

Inheritance Tax

Dr. Iddon: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what his most recent estimate is of the cost of raising the inheritance tax threshold to £1 million while maintaining the married couples transferable allowance over the comprehensive spending review period. [163259]

Jane Kennedy: Raising the inheritance tax nil rate band to £1,000,000 with effect from 2008-09 would have the following impact on forecast revenue receipts:

Estimated reduction in revenue arising from raising the nil rate band to £1,000,000

| | £ billion |
|---|---|
| | Retaining transferable allowances |
| 2008-09 | 1 |
| 2010-11 | 2 |

Mr. Spring: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the estimated cost to the Exchequer would be of raising the individual inheritance tax allowance to £1,000,000 if (a) allowances were transferable between spouses and civil partners as announced in the 2007 pre-Budget report and (b) the system operated as it did prior to the changes announced in the 2007 pre-Budget report in (i) 2008-09 and (ii) 2009-10. [162581]

Jane Kennedy: Raising the inheritance tax nil rate band to £1,000,000 with effect from 2008-09 would have the following impact on forecast revenue receipts:

Estimated reduction in revenue arising from raising the nil rate band to £1,000,000

| | | £ billion |
|---|---|---|
| | (a) Retaining transferable allowances | (b) Removing transferable allowances |
| 2008-09 | 1.0 | 0.5 |
| 2009-10 | 2.0 | 1.5 |
| 2010-11 | 2.0 | 1.5 |

Members: Correspondence

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he expects to reply to the letters from the right hon. Member for North-East Hampshire of 23 June 2006, 1 September 2006, 29 November 2006 and 20 June 2007 on the tax credit problems of the right hon. Member's constituent Mrs. Adair. [164103]

Jane Kennedy: The chairman of HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC) wrote to the right hon. Member about his constituent's case on 27 November.

National Insurance Contributions: Females

Steve Webb: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer for what reason women who had stopped receiving deficiency notices prior to 1996-97 and who did not receive a letter in 2004-05 as part of the deficiency notice recovery programme were allowed to pay class 3 national insurance contributions on favourable terms in respect of the years from 1996-97 to 2001-02 inclusive. [169198]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 29 November 2007]: When deficiency notices were re-instated, legislation (SI 2004/1362) was introduced, allowing for Class 3 contributions for tax years 1996-97 to 2001-02 to be paid until 5 April 2009 (or 5 April 2010 if the contributor reached pensionable age before 24 October 2004) and allowing them to be paid at the rate in force for the tax year concerned.

Contributors are entitled to pay contributions on these terms for reasons of practicality and to reduce the administrative burden.

National Insurance Contributions: Holiday Pay

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) on what basis he decided to abolish the national insurance contributions exemption for holiday pay schemes outside the construction industry from 30 October 2007; [162295]

(2) what estimate he has made of the likely annual saving in National Insurance contributions for an employee with 20 days' annual leave earning (a) £10,000, (b) £15,000, (c) £20,000 and (d) £25,000 per annum who is a member of a holiday pay scheme and does not pay Class 1 National Insurance contributions on his holiday pay; [162322]

(3) how many employees are members of holiday pay schemes, broken down by employment sector; [162323]

(4) what proportion of the savings identified in the 2007 pre-Budget report/comprehensive spending review, Table B4, from the removal of the National Insurance contributions exemption for holiday pay schemes are attributable to (a) employee and (b) employer contributions; [162324]

(5) how many employees earning (a) less than £10,000, (b) £10,000 to £15,000, (c) £15,000 to £20,000, (d) £20,000 to £25,000 and (e) more than £25,000 per annum are members of holiday pay schemes and not paying National Insurance contributions on their holiday pay; [162325]

(6) if he will place in the Library projections of the estimated change in Government revenue which will arise from the abolition of the National Insurance contributions exemption for holiday pay schemes in each year to 2015; [162326]

(7) what organisations his Department consulted prior to the announcement in the 2007 pre-Budget report/comprehensive spending review of the removal of the National Insurance contributions exemption for holiday pay schemes; [162327]

(8) what consideration he gave to abolishing the national insurance contributions exemption for holiday pay schemes on a phased basis; and what the reasons were for deciding not to proceed on that basis; [165522]

(9) what estimate he has made of the cost to employers outside the construction sector of ending holiday pay schemes by 30 October 2007. [165523]

Jane Kennedy: The NICs exemption was designed for the construction industry and dates back to the 1960s. This pre-dated the right to four weeks paid leave per year provided by the Working Time Regulation in 1998. The rationale for changes to the NICs exemption is set out in chapter five of the 2007 pre-Budget report and comprehensive spending review, PBR note 02 and impact assessment which can be found at:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/media/B/9/pbr_csr07_chapters_244.pdf

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/media/5/3/pbr_csr07_notes520.pdf

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/pbr2007/ia-nics.pdf

The following table shows estimated annual savings in 2008-09 in employee NICs for an employee with 20 days annual leave earning at various annual rates, who is a member of a holiday pay scheme.

| Annual pay | Annual saving employee NICs (£) |
|---|---|
| £10,000 | 40 |
| £15,000 | 80 |
| £20,000 | 125 |
| £25,000 | 165 |

HMRC does not hold information on the number of employees within holiday pay schemes broken down by employment sector.

The following table shows how the savings identified in 2007 pre-Budget report Table 4, from the removal of the NICs exemption for holiday pay, are attributable to employee and employer contributions.

£ million

| | 2007-08 | 2008-09 | 2009-10 | 2010-11 |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Employer' NICs | 50 | 110 | 110 | 110 |
| Employee' NICs | 50 | 90 | 90 | 90 |
| Total | 100 | 200 | 200 | 200 |

HMRC does not hold information on the income of employees within holiday pay schemes.

Definitive projections to 2015 are not available. An estimate of the revenue from the measure beyond that outlined in the pre-Budget Report is stated in the Impact Assessment.

HMRC held a number of meetings with representatives of the construction sector holiday pay funds and their professional advisers.

Northern Rock

Peter Viggers: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what arrangements are in place for Northern Rock to pay interest on monies advanced to it by the Bank of England; what interest rate applies; and when it will be payable. [168358]

Kitty Ussher [holding answer 26 November 2007]: I refer the right hon. Gentlemen to the letters the Chancellor sent to the chairs of the Public Accounts Committee and the Treasury Select Committee on 11 October 2007, which are available in the House Library.

Northern Rock: Pensions

Mr. Henderson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will make representations to the pensions regulator to ensure that existing and future liabilities of the pension schemes of those employed by Northern Rock are fully funded. [169849]

Kitty Ussher: I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer I gave the hon. Member for Eastbourne (Mr. Waterson) on 30 October 2007, Official Report, column 1187W.

Personation

Martin Horwood: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what steps his Department is taking to reduce the vulnerability of tax correspondence to identify theft. [165217]

Jane Kennedy: HMRC initiated immediate increases in security with a new process:

transfers will now only take place if they are absolutely necessary;

written authorisation for the transfer has to be given by senior HMRC manager; and a clear instruction has been given regarding the appropriate standard of protection for the transfer.

Where directors decide that a data transfer by disc is unavoidable such media must, in every case, be securely encrypted at the appropriate level.

On 20 November the Chancellor announced an independent review of HMRC's data handling procedures to be conducted by Kieran Poynter, the chair of PricewaterhouseCoopers.

Public Expenditure: Wales

Adam Price: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 26 November 2007, Official Report, column 57W, on public expenditure: Wales, what elements of spending in relation to subscriptions to international organisations are devolved; what transport programmes Cycling England spending is now subsumed within; and what the comparability factor of that programme is for Wales. [170222]

Andy Burnham: UK Departments pay subscriptions to international organisations on behalf of the United Kingdom as a whole. In some circumstances, the devolved Administrations may make a contribution towards a UK Department's expenditure on international subscriptions. Information relating to individual contributions could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Expenditure previous recorded under the Cycling England programme is now carried within the Local Transport group of programmes. Annex C of the October 2007 edition of "Funding the Scottish Parliament, National Assembly for Wales and Northern Ireland Assembly: Statement of Funding Policy" shows this area of spending to be comparable in Wales. The SFP gives details of all comparability factors.

Revenue and Customs: Data Protection

Keith Vaz: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what training procedures are in place for staff at HM Revenue and Customs on security of information. [168467]

Jane Kennedy: It would be inappropriate to comment on this issue as there is an ongoing Metropolitan Police Service investigation and an independent review of HMRC's security processes and procedures for data handling led by Kieran Poynter, the Chair of PricewaterhouseCoopers.

On 20 November the Chancellor announced an independent review of HMRC's data handling procedures to be conducted by Kieran Poynter, the Chair of PricewaterhouseCoopers.

The full terms of reference for that review are available on the HM Treasury website at: http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/newsroom_and_speeches/press/2007_133_07.cfm and a copy has been placed in the Library of the House.

Revenue and Customs: Stroud

Mr. Drew: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many full-time equivalent staff there are at the Stroud tax office; and how many there were in each year since 1997. [171015]

Jane Kennedy: The number of full-time equivalent staff employed by HM Revenue and Customs (the Inland Revenue and HM Customs and Excise before April 2005) in Stroud was:

| | Number |
|---|---|
| 1 October 2007 | 71 |
| 1 April 2007 | 83 |
| 1 April 2006 | 44 |
| 1 April 2005 | 49 |
| 1 April 2004 | 51 |
| 1 April 2003 | 51 |
| 1 April 2002 | 51 |
| 1 April 2001 | 47 |
| 1 April 2000 | 52 |
| 1 April 1999 | 51 |
| 1 April 1998 | 50 |
| 1 April 1997 | 51 |

Smuggling: Convictions

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many and what percentage of HM Revenue and Customs investigations into the smuggling of (a) drugs, (b) people, (c) tobacco, (d) alcohol and (e) firearms resulted in a conviction in each of the last 10 years. [168639]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 28 November 2007]: High level data on investigations and convictions are published in HM Revenue and Customs Annual Reports. Copies of the Annual Reports are available in the Library of the House. HM Revenue and Customs is not responsible for the investigation and prosecution of people smuggling offences.

Wealth: Peterborough

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the number of millionaires resident in the Peterborough city council area. [169826]

Jane Kennedy: Estimates are not available at local level.

Welfare Tax Credits

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many tax credit (a) maladministration payments and (b) consolatory payments were made in each of the last 12 months. [167656]

Jane Kennedy: The circumstances in which HM Revenue and Customs will make compensation payments to its customers are explained in the Department's fact sheet, 'Complaints and Putting Things Right', which is available at:

www.hmrc.gov.uk

For the number of compensation payments made each month from October 2006 to May 2007, I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave the hon. Member for Yeovil (Mr. Laws) on 5 July 2007, Official Report, columns 1186-87W. Information for the period June 2007 to October 2007 is shown in the following table:

| 2007 | Number of compensatory payments |
|---|---|
| June | 1,190 |
| July | 674 |
| August | 215 |
| September | 463 |
| October | 1,197 |

The lower number of compensatory payments made over the summer reflects the fact that HMRC have been actively sifting cases to identify those affected by the administrative problem that I referred to in my written statement of 25 July. HMRC have since cleared the backlog.

Welfare Tax Credits: Correspondence

Mr. Laws: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many letters on tax credits from hon. and right hon. Members to (a) Ministers and (b) the Tax Credit Office were not sent a substantive reply within (i) one month, (ii) two months, (iii) three months and (iv) six months in the period 2005 to 2007. [165166]

Jane Kennedy: (a) The information is not collated in the format requested and is available only at disproportionate cost.

(b) Between 1 January 2005 and 30 September 2007 Tax Credit Office received around 26,500 letters from hon. and right hon. Members. The information is provided in the following table:

| Time taken to reply | Number of letters | Percentage of letters answered |
|---|---|---|
| Less than 30 days | 20,600 | 78 |
| 30 to 59 days | 3,300 | 12 |
| 60 to 89 days | 900 | 3 |
| 90 to 119 days | 300 | 1 |
| 180+ days | 70 | less than 1 |

Welfare Tax Credits: Overpayments

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many letters were written by HM Revenue and Customs requesting the recovery of overpaid tax credits in each of the last 12 months; and if he will make a statement. [167657]

Jane Kennedy: The number of requests to pay back overpaid tax credits (forms TC610) issued by HM Revenue and Customs in the last 12 months was:

| Month | Forms TC610 Issued (Thousand) |
|---|---|
| 2006 | |
| November | 281 |
| December | 26 |
| 2007 | |
| January | 45 |
| February | 72 |
| March | 54 |
| April | 42 |
| May | 77 |
| June | 71 |
| July | 91 |
| August | 272 |
| September | 684 |
| October | 151 |

Notices to pay are issued where there is no continuing tax credits entitlement and can be generated by a number of things, including changes to family circumstances or a failure to renew applications for tax credits.

The numbers in the table reflect the number of forms issued and not the number of households they were issued to. In joint claimant cases, each claimant is sent a notice to pay so one household might receive two notices.

INNOVATION, UNIVERSITIES AND SKILLS

Adult Education: Finance

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what Government funding for adult education courses there has been in each year since 1997 for which records are available, broken down by local authority in the East of England. [169966]

Bill Rammell: The total funding allocated to providers for adult learners in the East of England region is set out in the following table. It includes funding for further education, work-based learning and adult community learning for all years, with train to gain funding included for 2006/07 and 2007/08.

It is not possible to breakdown funding by local authority as the data are not recorded on this basis. However information on adult funding by local Learning and Skills Council (LSC) for the period 2002/03 to 2005/06 is available in the LSC's published accounts.

| | Funding totals (£) |
|---|---|
| 2002/03 | 146,697,284 |
| 2003/04 | 179,728,472 |
| 2004/05 | 189,506,465 |
| 2005/06 | 179,843,435 |
| 2006/07 | 191,905,491 |
| 2007/08[1] | 191,950,721 |
| Totals | 1,079,631,868 |

[1] Train to gain funding included in the total for this year is based on contract values; providers will only secure the funding if they are successful in delivering to the expected number of learners.

The LSC Statement of Priorities 2008-11 published on 16 November sets out the Government's funding strategy for 2008-09 to 2010-11.

Total investment through the Learning and Skills Council will increase from £11.2 billion in 2007-08 to £12.4 billion in 2010-11. Funding for adult participation will increase to £3.6 billion by 2010-11, an increase of 17 per cent. compared with 2007-08.

We will also be substantially increasing investment for adult learning through train to gain from £440 million in 2007-08 to over £1 billion by 2010-11. Taking into account both FE allocations and train to gain funding, 90 per cent. of all colleges will have the opportunity to increase their funding in 2007/08 compared with 2006/07, with 57 per cent. earning 5 per cent. or more (some of these colleges will be leading consortia).

Our priority is to make sure that adult learners have access to a full range of courses including progression and first steps learning through the foundation learning tier, learning for its own intrinsic value (personal and community development learning) as well as courses which lead to full qualifications necessary for employment. That is why we are investing around £1.5 billion per year on learning below level 2 over the next three years. The recently published "Adult Learning and Skills: Investing in the First Steps" sets the story of our investment in this area and our vision for adult learners who have not yet obtained basic skills.

Islam: Education

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what steps the Higher Education Funding Council for England (HEFCE) and universities are taking to address the gaps in Islamic studies teaching and research highlighted in the report Islam at Universities in England—meeting the needs and investing in the future; and how the HEFCE intends to spend the £1 million the Government committed to this work in June 2007. [169611]

Bill Rammell: Following the report "Islam at Universities in England", we designated Islamic studies as a strategically important subject in Higher Education. This was on the grounds of its contribution to the UK's political and cultural capital through its role in promoting understanding of Islam in the context of the world today. HEFCE are looking at longer term proposals to address the problem identified by Dr. Siddiqui that currently Islamic studies teaching and research do not address the dominant Muslim experience of the faith and its culture in Britain and are too focused on a Middle Eastern perspective and do not address the experience of living as a minority faith in a multi-cultural society.

HEFCE have set aside £1 million for 2007-08 to undertake development and research work and produce longer term proposals for addressing the gaps in Islamic studies teaching and research highlighted in the report. This development phase is well under way and we expect detailed proposals from HEFCE in summer 2008.

National Security

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills pursuant to the Statement of the Prime Minister of 14 November 2007, Official Report, columns 667-72, on national security, when he expects the investigation of the Higher Education Funding Council into setting up a European centre of excellence for Islamic students to be complete; what he expects its cost to be; and if he will make a statement. [168441]

Bill Rammell: I expect the Higher Education Funding Council for England (HEFCE) to report on the feasibility of establishing a European centre of excellence for Islamic studies in summer 2008. That report would include an estimate of the costs of such a centre.

In April this year, we responded to the report by Dr Siddiqui on Islam in Universities by defining Islamic studies as a strategically important subject in Higher Education. This was on the grounds of its contribution to the UK's political and cultural capital through its role in promoting understanding of Islam in the context of the world today. HEFCE are looking at longer term proposals to address the problem identified by Dr Siddiqui that currently Islamic studies teaching and research do not address the dominant Muslim experience of the faith and its culture in Britain and are too focused on a Middle Eastern perspective and do not address the experience of living as a minority faith in a multi-cultural society.

The investigation of the idea of European centre of excellence will form part of HEFCE's work to develop a long term response, in partnership with Government and the university sector to the shortcomings in Islamic studies identified in Dr Siddiqui's report. We aim to establish the UK as an international benchmark for Islamic studies outside the Islamic world.

Students: Loans

Mr. Rob Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what the cost of writing off unpaid student loans was in each year since their introduction. [161931]

Bill Rammell: Loans are cancelled due to the borrower's death; being disabled and permanently unable to work; or, for loans issued before 2006/07, on age grounds. New students from 2006 will have any remaining balance cancelled after 25 years. Student loans are not written off simply because they are unpaid.

The available data are given in the table.

Value of student loans cancelled—borrowers domiciled in the UK to 2001-02, England from 2002-03—financial year loan cancelled

| Financial year | Cost (£ million) |

Student Loans Company

Separate England data are not available before 2002-03.

The increase in the value of loans cancelled is related to the increase in the loans portfolio, which has been growing since student loans were introduced in 1990. For English domiciled students the value of the portfolio has increased from £8.8 billion in March 2003 to £18.1 billion (provisional) in March 2007.

Student loans from the Government are not like commercial loans: interest is paid at the rate of inflation, so in real terms students only pay back what they borrowed. For income-contingent loans available since 1998, repayment is linked to earnings and borrowers only repay if their earnings are over £15,000; from April 2012 they will be able to take up to five years' 'Repayment Holiday' and those taking out a student loan from 2006 have their debt cancelled after 25 years.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Delivery Services

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland which companies are under contract to his Department to provide mail services. [170172]

Mr. Woodward: The following companies are under contract to my Department:

Captain Courier,
Crown Executive Cars,
DHL,
Hayes DX,
Royal Mail,
TNT.

Departmental Data Protection

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland whether he proposes to review how his Department transports data; and whether his Department uses TNT to transport data. [169224]

Paul Goggins: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Departmental Pay

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much his Department and its agencies spent on end-of-year bonus payments in each of the last five years. [171535]

Mr. Woodward: The information requested is shown in the following table.

| | End-of-year bonus payments (£) |
|---|---|
| 2003 | 132,300 |
| 2004 | 365,930 |
| 2005 | 476,299 |
| 2006 | 502,667 |
| 2007 | 557,000 |

Missing Persons

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what steps are being taken to improve the speed and methods by which missing persons in Northern Ireland are traced. [168541]

Paul Goggins: PSNI appreciates the impact on families when loved ones are reported missing, and is committed to tracing such persons. Training is given at student officer level, in detective training, and in critical incident training for senior officers. The PSNI website includes pictures and details of those missing and links to support organisations. PSNI also works with the 'Missing Kids' initiative—a partnership between police services, the Police National Missing Persons Bureau and an international charity.

New initiatives are enhancing the police service's approach to missing persons. A review of service procedures is nearly complete and includes tailored guidance on children and young persons absconding from residential care homes. PSNI has completed a pilot involving three care homes, working closely with social services.

District command units will introduce public protection units early in 2008. The units include expertise to identify trends and patterns to help ensure a corporate and effective approach on missing persons.

Northern Ireland Human Rights Commission: Expenditure

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much was spent by the Northern Ireland Human Rights Commission on (a) salaries, (b) travel and (c) subsistence in each financial year since 2003-04. [168533]

Mr. Woodward: The information requested is as follows:

| | £ |
|---|---|
| 2003-04 | |
| Salaries | 587,801 |
| Travel | 11,079 |
| Subsistence | 1,301 |
| 2004-05 | |
| Salaries | 602,553 |
| Travel | 10,165 |
| Subsistence | 778 |
| 2005-06 | |
| Salaries | 685,377 |
| Travel | 28,690 |
| Subsistence | 1,372 |
| 2006-07 | |
| Salaries | 780,747 |
| Travel | 23,767 |
| Subsistence | 2,074 |

Police Service of Northern Ireland

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many people have been (a) questioned and (b) charged in connection with the recent attempted murders of Police Service of Northern Ireland officers in Londonderry and Dungannon. [168485]

Paul Goggins: The PSNI has confirmed that two people were formally questioned in connection with the attempted murder of the PSNI officer in Dungannon but later released without charge. Three people have been formally questioned in connection with the attempted murder of the PSNI officer in Londonderry. PSNI investigations are continuing into both incidents.

Police Service of Northern Ireland: Graduates

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many Police Service of Northern Ireland regular officers are university graduates, broken down by (a) rank, (b) age, (c) sex and (d) community background. [170487]

Paul Goggins: I am advised that since the PSNI was established in 2001 and recruiting was outsourced, educational qualifications have not been routinely requested or supplied. This is consistent with national recruitment policy. It is, therefore, not possible to accurately state how many officers are in possession of a primary degree or equivalent as this information could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Police Service of Northern Ireland: Part-time Employment

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many regular officers in the Police Service of Northern Ireland worked on a part-time basis in the last period for which figures are available, broken down by (a) age, (b) sex and (c) community background. [170493]

Paul Goggins: I am advised by PSNI that, as of 30 November 2007, the breakdown of regular officers working on a part-time basis is as follows:

| Number of officers working part-time basis | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| | Female | Male | Total |
| Protestant | | | |
| Age band | | | |
| 26-29 | 2 | — | 2 |

|---|---|---|---|
| | Female | Male | Total |
| Protestant | | | |
| Age band | | | |
| Overall total | | | |
| Community background | | | |
| Protestant | 60 | 1 | 61 |
| Roman Catholic | 5 | 0 | 5 |
| Undetermined | 1 | 1 | 2 |
| Overall Total | 66 | 2 | 68 |

Police Service of Northern Ireland: Secondment

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many Police Service of Northern Ireland officers were seconded to police forces in Great Britain in each year since 2005, broken down by (a) rank and (b) sex. [170491]

Paul Goggins: I am advised by PSNI that there have been no PSNI officers seconded to police forces in Great Britain since 2005. A number of officers have been seconded to a variety of policing agencies including Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Constabulary (HMIC) and National Policing Improvement Agency (NPIA). A breakdown by rank and gender is outlined in the following table.

| Rank | Female | Male | Total |
|---|---|---|---|
| Constable | 1 | 2 | 3 |
| Sergeant | — | 6 | 6 |
| Inspector | 2 | 6 | 8 |
| Chief/Inspector | 1 | 3 | 4 |
| Superintendent | — | 3 | 3 |
| Chief/ Superintendent | — | 3 | 3 |
| ACC | 1 | — | 1 |
| Total | 5 | 23 | 28 |

Police Service of Northern Ireland: Sick Leave

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many Police Service of Northern Ireland (a) regular and (b) full-time reserve officers were on paid sick leave caused by stress in each financial year from 2002-03. [168536]

Paul Goggins: The number of (a) regular and (b) full-time reserve officers who were absent on grounds of stress (work related and non work related) during the years for which figures are requested is detailed in the following table.

| | Regular officers | Full-time reserve officers |
|---|---|---|
| 2002-03 | 377 | 156 |
| 2003-04 | 337 | 138 |
| 2004-05 | 322 | 91 |
| 2005-06 | 268 | 33 |
| 2006-07 | 282 | 22 |

The figures include all officers who took paid and unpaid sick leave at any time in each year. The number of officers absent and unpaid varies over the course of a year.

Police Service of Northern Ireland: Training

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will break down the numbers of Police Service of Northern Ireland trainees by (a) age, (b) sex and (c) community background. [170486]

Paul Goggins: I am advised by PSNI that, as of 28 November 2007, the breakdown of the 206 police trainees is as follows:

| Age bands | Number |
|---|---|
| 18 to 20 | 14 |
| 21 to 25 | 69 |
| 26 to 30 | 63 |
| 31 to 35 | 33 |
| 36 to 40 | 19 |
| 41 to 45 | 6 |
| 46 to 47 | 2 |
| Gender | |
| Male | 136 |
| Female | 70 |
| Community background | |
| Protestant | 97 |
| Catholic | 107 |
| Not determined | 2 |

Prisoners Transfers

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many Northern Ireland prisoners were transferred to prisons in England and Wales in each of the last 12 months. [170458]

Paul Goggins: There have been no Northern Ireland prisoners transferred to prisons in England and Wales in the last 12 months.

Prisons: Mobile Phones

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many mobile telephones were seized in prisons in Northern Ireland in each of the last 12 months. [170456]

Paul Goggins: The following table sets out the number of mobile phones found in Northern Ireland prisons in each of the last 12 months.

| | Maghaberry | Magilligan | Hydebank |
|---|---|---|---|
| December 2006 | 4 | 3 | 0 |
| January 2007 | 1 | 1 | 0 |

Terrorism

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many persons have been (a) questioned about and (b) charged with the bomb scare in Enniskillen and the planting of a device which ignited a canon at Newry War Memorial on Remembrance Sunday, 11 November; and if he will make a statement. [170497]

Paul Goggins: PSNI has advised that 18 people have been interviewed as witnesses in connection with the bomb scare in Enniskillen. PSNI investigations are continuing but to date no arrests or charges have been made in connection with either incident.

These mindless and despicable acts have no place in our society and those responsible need to know that they will not deter us from achieving long-term political stability.

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Children in Care

Graham Stringer: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many children are in care outside their home local authority area. [169790]

Kevin Brennan: The number of children looked after by local authorities in England, who were placed outside the area of their local authority was 20,200 at 31 March 2006. This represented 33 per cent. (60,300) of all children looked after at 31 March 2006. Table 22 of the statistical volume entitled Children Looked After by Local Authorities Year Ending 31 March 2006 is accessible at:

http://www.dfes.gov.uk/rsgateway/DBA/OL/v000721/Addition1.xls

Children in Care: Standards

Ann Coffey: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many (a) private and (b) local authority children's homes have been deregistered in each of the last 10 years; and what percentage of the total number of children's homes such deregistrations represented in each year. [171554]

Kevin Brennan: Information on the number of private children's homes that have been deregistered in each of the last 10 years is not held centrally by the Department for Children, Schools and Families (DCSF).

Information on the number of local authority children's homes that have been deregistered in each of the last 10 years can be provided only at a disproportionate cost.

WOMEN AND EQUALITY

Equal Pay

Jo Swinson: To ask the Minister for Women and Equality whether an equal pay audit (a) has been conducted and (b) is planned for the Government Equalities Office. [170586]

Barbara Follett [holding answer 3 December 2007]: No equal pay audit has been conducted since the Government Equalities Office was announced by the Prime Minister on 26 July 2007 and set up as a stand alone Department on 12 October 2007. As a matter of good practice, the Office would plan to conduct an equal pay audit, but no timetable has been set for this as yet.

SCOTLAND

Departmental Ministerial Policy Advisers

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what the office costs for his Department's special advisers for 2007-08 are expected to be, including costs of support staff; and how many full-time equivalent civil servants work in support of such special advisers. [164919]

David Cairns: No staff in the Scotland Office are directly employed to support special advisers. The office costs of special advisers are not separately recorded.

Departmental Secondment

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland how many secondments of staff were made (a) to and (b) from his Office in each year since 1997; which organisations staff were seconded (i) to and (ii) from; how many staff were seconded in each year; for how long each secondment lasted; and what the cost was of each secondment in each year. [168695]

David Cairns: The Scotland Office was established on 1 July 1999. The Office does not directly employ staff and does not second staff to other organisations. All staff in the Office are on loan from other Government Departments, such as the Scottish Executive and Ministry of Justice. Information on staff numbers is published in the Office's Annual Report, a copy of which is in the House Library. The Office does not keep central records in a form that would allow the cost of each loan to be identified.

Departmental Visits Abroad

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland how much his Department spent on overnight accommodation for Ministers overseas in the last year. [171327]

David Cairns: Details of the cost of overseas travel, including the cost of travel and accommodation, are contained in the Overseas Travel by Cabinet Ministers list. The latest list for the period 1 April 2006 to 31 March 2007 was published on 25 July 2007. Details for the 2007-08 financial year will be published as soon as possible after the end of the financial year. All travel is made in accordance with the Ministerial Code.

LEADER OF THE HOUSE

Corporate Hospitality

David Simpson: To ask the Leader of the House on how many occasions she has accepted corporate hospitality in the last 12 months. [171304]

Ms Harman: In the last 12 months, neither my right hon. Friend the then Leader of the House until 28 June 2007 (Mr. Straw) nor I (Leader of the House of Commons since then) have received corporate hospitality that has not already been declared in the Register of Members' Interests.

Departmental Public Participation

Mr. Maude: To ask the Leader of the House how many responses were received to the Government's consultation on the Draft Legislative Programme for 2007-08; and from whom. [171452]

Helen Goodman: The consultation on the draft legislative programme was made up of a number of events and activities which included the publication of the Draft Legislative Programme on the Cabinet Office and Leader of the House of Commons' website. 106 responses were received in writing or by email. We are currently checking with these respondents that they are happy for their responses and names to be released into the public domain. Once this process has completed we will place a copy in the Library.

The Leader of the House of Commons published "The Government's Legislative Programme—Taking a wider view" on 14 November 2007 which summarised the activity that had taken place this year.

Ministerial Duties

Jo Swinson: To ask the Leader of the House what proportion of her average working week is allocated to her role as (a) Leader of the House, (b) Minister for Women and Equalities and (c) Lord Privy Seal; what responsibilities she has as Minister for Women and Equalities; and what mechanisms are in place for liaison with the Minister for Disabled People. [171355]

Ms Harman: There is no such thing as an average working week.

As with any Minister who has a broad portfolio I prioritise my work accordingly.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Asylum: Christianity

Mr. Clegg: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what methods are used to verify claims by asylum seekers that they are Christian. [167025]

Jacqui Smith: All asylum applications, including those which are based either in part or wholly on the applicant being a Christian, are considered very carefully on their individual merits and with regard to objective country specific information. The primary method of gathering and testing the information which forms the basis of a person's asylum application is the asylum interview conducted by a case owner. Case owners, who also take initial asylum decisions, receive detailed training and instructions on all aspects of the asylum process including interviewing and assessing claims which are based on religious or other grounds. Refused applicants have access to an independent appeal process.

Crime: Foreigners

Mr. Clegg: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) foreign nationals and (b) asylum seekers jailed for major criminal offences are in immigration and removal centres (IRCs); how long each has been in an IRC; and if she will make a statement. [167027]

Jacqui Smith: The information requested can be obtained through the detailed examination of individual case files only at a disproportionate cost. The Chief Executive of the Border and Immigration Agency wrote a letter to the Home Affairs Committee on 20 November in which she gave the most accurate and robust information available on foreign national prisoners. A copy of this letter is available in the House Library.

Crimes of Violence

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what discussions (a) Ministers and (b) officials in her Department have had with the Metropolitan police on proposals for police officers to meet identified gang members to discuss levels of gang-related violence; and if she will make a statement. [169483]

Mr. Coaker: The Home Office is working closely with the Metropolitan police and local partners in the Five Borough Alliance who are taking forward a range of action as part of the Tackling Gangs Action Programme.

This work may include a pilot informed, among other elements, by an operating model established in Boston, under which members of a local community, supported by the police and local authorities, are given the opportunity to make it clear to gang members that violence will not be tolerated. This is then backed up by support for those wishing to exit gangs, and robust enforcement should any further violence occur. In Boston the model took some 18 months to put together, and it is considered critical that all the relevant elements are fully in place before the London model is launched, in order to ensure its effectiveness.

The London Guns, Gangs and Weapons Reduction Board will be developing this model in partnership with the community.

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps her Department is taking to support parents in challenging the behaviour of their children who are gang members or at risk of becoming gang members; and how much her Department has committed to such initiatives in the last 12 months. [169487]

Mr. Coaker: We are working closely with the Department for Children, Schools and Families (DCSF) on the roll-out of the accelerated extended schools programme, which includes work on supporting parents in a number of areas, including schools in London, Birmingham, Manchester and Liverpool, where the Tackling Gangs Action Programme is operating.

We are also developing guidance for parents and young people to provide advice on gang-related issues, and we are working with DCSF on guidance for schools.

In addition, through the Connected Fund, we support community groups which work with young people at risk of involvement in gangs and criminal activity. The fund was set up in May 2004 and provides small grants to local community groups working on tackling gun and knife crime and gangs issues. A number of the projects supported by the fund provide support to parents and young people who are at risk of gang membership. Under round six of the Connected Fund we awarded £500,000 to 100 community groups.

Deportation: Iran

Mr. Clegg: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will reconsider her policy of returning individuals to Iran. [167030]

Jacqui Smith: The Border and Immigration Agency only enforces the return of Iranian nationals where we are satisfied they are not in need of protection in accordance with our obligations under the 1951 United Nations Refugee Convention and the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR).

Domestic Violence

Adam Afriyie: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) how many community domestic violence programmes there are for the treatment of violent women; [170578]

(2) how many community domestic violence programmes have been implemented nationally; [170579]

(3) how many integrated domestic violence abuse programmes there are for the treatment of violent women; [170580]

(4) how many integrated domestic violence abuse programmes have been implemented nationally. [170581]

Mr. Hanson: I have been asked to reply.

There are two domestic violence programmes that have been accredited for use with offenders in the community: the Community Domestic Violence programme (CDVP) (available in eight probation areas) and the Integrated Domestic Abuse programme (IDAP) (available in 34 probation areas). Both programmes are for male offenders only. Women may attend the accredited community programme aggression replacement training (ART), which is a mixed gender programme aimed at violent offenders or they may take part in individual work.

Domestic Violence: Counselling

Adam Afriyie: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many accredited independent domestic violence advisers are male. [170582]

Mr. Coaker: The organisation Coordinated Action Against Domestic Abuse (CAADA) has developed and delivers the accredited training for Independent Domestic Violence Advisers (IDVAs). CAADA have informed the Home Office that three men have received the accredited training.

Adam Afriyie: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many independent domestic violence advisers have been trained and accredited; and who trained them. [170583]

Mr. Coaker: Accredited advocacy training for Independent Domestic Violence Advisors (IDVAs) is carried out by the organisation Coordinated Action Against Domestic Abuse (CAADA). The Home Office has funded places on this training course for IDVAs working in services supporting the 64 Specialist Domestic Violence Courts.

Up until August 2007, CAADA had trained a total of 111 Home Office-funded advocates (both IDVAs and Independent Sexual Violence Advisors), with a further 94 places funded for the remainder of 2007-08.

Human Trafficking

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will list each legislative measure the UK needs to take to ensure it is ready to ratify the European Convention on Action against trafficking in Human Beings; and how many of those measures are contained in the Bills scheduled for the 2007-08 Session. [169283]

Mr. Coaker: We judge that domestic legislation is already largely compliant with the Convention. Victims of trafficking can already be identified, supported and where appropriate, may be issued with limited or indefinite leave to remain in the UK. But to ratify the Convention some legislative changes will be necessary. The detail of these is still subject to discussion within government but we will ratify the Convention as soon as we can.

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which requirements of the European Convention against Trafficking in Human Beings require amendments to UK (a) primary and (b) secondary legislation; when the Government plans to bring forward such amendments; and if she will make a statement. [169562]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 29 November 2007]: We consider existing domestic legislation to be largely compliant with the Convention. Victims of trafficking are already being identified, supported and where appropriate may be issued with limited or indefinite leave to remain in the UK. However, we have identified a need for limited amendments to legislation and procedures, including the mechanisms for the support of victims of trafficking. The detail of the legislative changes required is still subject to discussion within government but we will ratify the Convention as soon as we can.

Sexual Offences: Children

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps have been taken by her Department to tackle child sexual exploitation. [167548]

Mr. Coaker: On 13 June 2007 we published the Review of the Protection of Children from Sex Offenders. This contains a number of actions which will enhance child protection, including by improving the management of sex offenders in the community.

On 27 November 2006 we signed a Memorandum of Understanding with the Republic of Ireland on the exchange of information on convicted sex offenders travelling between the two countries.

We established the Child Exploitation and Online Protection Centre in April last year, and provided it with a budget of over £4 million this year. We have introduced a range of new offences under the Sexual Offences Act 2003, which protect children from sexual exploitation. These include: paying for the sexual services of a child; causing or inciting child prostitution or pornography; arranging or facilitating child prostitution or pornography; and controlling a child prostitute. All of these offences have a maximum penalty of 14 years' imprisonment.

In January 2006 we published a Co-ordinated Prostitution Strategy, which includes specific measures to prevent child sexual exploitation, and to support and protect those who have been sexually exploited. The strategy includes a commitment to update guidance on safeguarding children who have been sexually exploited, which will also encourage effective investigation and prosecution of criminal activities by those who coerce or abuse children in this way.

In October 2006 the United Kingdom Human Trafficking Centre was established. Its role is to co-ordinate and provide expertise in developing a multi-agency response to human trafficking, including the trafficking of children for the purpose of sexual exploitation.

On 23 March 2007 the Home Office published the UK Action Plan on Tackling Human Trafficking, which includes a chapter specifically addressing the trafficking of children. On the same day the Home Secretary signed the Council of Europe Convention on Action Against Trafficking in Human Beings.

On 3 October 2007 the Home Secretary launched Operation Pentameter 2. This is a UK-wide police operation which aims to rescue and protect victims of human trafficking for sexual exploitation, and to identify, disrupt, arrest and bring to justice those involved in criminal activity.

Tackling Gangs Action Programme

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the membership of the Tackling Gangs Action Programme is; and what terms of reference have been given to the unit. [169485]

Mr. Coaker: Deputy chief constable Jon Murphy (seconded from the Association of Chief Police Officers) leads the Tackling Gangs Action Programme team.

There are full-time members of the team from the following organisations:

Home Office (nine people),

Serious Organised Crime Agency,

HM Revenue and Customs (two people),

Merseyside Police,

Government Office for London,

Department for Communities and Local Government.

There are part-time members from the following organisations:

Liverpool City Council,

Manchester City Council,

Birmingham City Council,

Government Office for London

Government Office for the North West,

Department for Children, Schools and Families,

Office for Criminal Justice Reform,

Prime Minister's Strategy Unit.

The terms of reference for the programme are as follows:

1. The Tackling Gangs Action Programme (TGAP) has been set up to build on existing work to reduce serious violence, particularly the use of firearms, perpetrated by young people as part of gang-related activity;

£1 million funding for short-term operations and initiatives in the four cities chosen as a focus (Liverpool, Manchester and Birmingham and London);

Build a coherent picture of the wide range of activity in this field and use this to:

produce a best practice guide to inform local delivery, and inform national policy making across Government;

Produce an agreed action plan that will improve multi-agency work to address the supply and importation of illegal firearms; and

Put in place arrangements to ensure that momentum and cross-Government oversight are maintained following the dissolution of the team, through the implementation and monitoring of national strategies.

2. The programme's scope is primarily the use of firearms to commit violent crime by young people as part of gang-related activity, specifically within the four cities. Knife and other violent crime will not be considered other than where it involves gang activities in the four areas. Gangs in this context should be interpreted as street gangs, not peer groups or organised crime networks.

3. The programme will be delivered in partnership with colleagues in the Home Office Violent Crime Unit and a range of stakeholders. The programme will not address issues outside of its scope. However, it may flag up important issues outside its remit to the sponsoring board member, Moira Wallace (Director General, Crime Reduction and Community Safety), who may then ask the relevant business area to consider them.

4. The programme will report to the sponsoring board member, Moira Wallace, and the senior responsible officer, Vanessa Nicholls (Director, Crime and Drugs Strategy), weekly.

5. The Home Secretary will report to the Prime Minister on the progress of the programme, copied to members of the ministerial task force.

6. Decisions on the direction of the programme will be taken by the Home Secretary, Permanent Secretary and sponsoring board member (in that order). Contributions from interested parties will be treated as advice/recommendations.

7. The programme leader, DCC Jon Murphy, is responsible for the day-to-day delivery of the programme's objectives.

8. The sponsoring board member, Moira Wallace, has overall responsibility for programme delivery.

9. The violent crime unit, led by Simon King, has responsibility for ensuring that the programme team is aware of relevant ongoing activity on violent crime, and will work in close partnership with the programme team to ensure that the outcome of the programme's work is jointly owned. The violent crime unit remains responsible for the policy in this area.

10. The programme leader, DCC Jon Murphy, and the head of violent crime unit, Simon King, will be jointly responsible for ensuring the integration of the team's work into the violent crime unit's ongoing work when the programme team is dissolved.

11. The sponsoring board member is responsible for ensuring: that resources (including staff) are available for the programme team; that information is accessible; and that decisions are made when necessary.

12. The Permanent Secretary has authorised the deployment of the priority support team (PST) to work on the programme. The PST's role should be jointly agreed by the programme leader and the head of the delivery unit.

DEFENCE

Armed Forces: Deployment

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many UK personnel were deployed on operations at the most recent date for which figures are available, broken down by location. [169457]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The number of UK personnel deployed on operations by location at 19 November 2007 is shown in the following table. The number of UK service personnel deployed on operations fluctuates on a daily basis for a number of reasons including: leave (rest and recuperation); temporary absence from theatre for training; evacuation from theatre for medical reasons; or the roulement of forces.

Number of personnel deployed by location[1]

| Location | Number |
|---|---|
| Of which: | |
| Afghanistan | 7,470 |
| Iraq | 4,910 |
| At sea | 790 |
| Qatar | 410 |
| Cyprus | 290 |
| Kuwait | 270 |
| Oman | 250 |
| Kosovo | 140 |
| Bahrain | 60 |
| Bosnia | 20 |
| Other | 50 |
| Total | 14,670 |

[1] Countries with 10 or more personnel are shown separately. Other countries with fewer than 10 personnel per country include Georgia, Nepal, Sudan, Sierra Leone, Democratic Republic of Congo and Liberia.

Australia: Peacekeeping Operations

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment he has made of the effect on the UK's defence policy of the Australian Prime Minister's stated intention to withdraw Australian troops from Iraq. [169931]

Des Browne: The Australian Government gave an election commitment to withdraw combat forces from Iraq and to consult with the Iraqi, US, and UK Governments. There is no reason why withdrawal of such forces will have an effect on the UK's defence policy.

Departmental Cost Effectiveness

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will place in the Library a copy of his Department's head office streamlining consultation document. [169354]

Des Browne: Yes. A copy of the head office streamlining consultation document has been placed in the Library of the House.

Iraq

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the Prime Minister's statement of 8 October 2007, Official Report, columns 21-25, on Iraq, what progress has been made in relocating the 500 logistics personnel; and if he will make a statement. [169575]

Des Browne: Although the exact number of personnel in the regional support facility will fluctuate daily, there are now around 500 posts established. The vast majority of these are logistics posts, with the rest a combination of helicopter crew and support, medics and permanent staff. Work continues to develop the facility to meet our operational requirements.

Iraq: Detainees

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether any individuals captured by British forces during the conflicts in Iraq and Afghanistan have at any subsequent time been held at the United States detention facility at Guantánamo Bay. [169051]

Des Browne [holding answer 28 November 2007]: When we transfer captured individuals into the custody of the United States and the Iraqi authorities in Iraq, and into the custody of the Afghan authorities in Afghanistan, we have an understanding with the relevant Government that the transferred individual cannot be removed from the country without our agreement. We have at no time given our consent for any individual to be transferred to the detention facility at Guantanamo Bay.

Military Aircraft: Helicopters

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the (a) in-service and (b) out-of-service dates are of all helicopters in service with the (i) Army, (ii) Navy and (iii) Royal Air Force. [168905]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The current in-service dates (ISDs) and the current planning assumptions for out-of-service dates (OSDs) for all military helicopters are listed as follows:

| | ISDs | Current planned OSDs |
|---|---|---|
| Army | | |
| Agusta 109A | 1983 | 2009 |
| Agusta 109AM | 1984 | 2009 |
| Apache AH Mkl | 2001 | 2030 |
| Gazelle AH1 | 1973 | 2018 |
| Lynx Mk 7 | 1988 | 2013 |
| Lynx Mk 9 | 1991 | 2013 |
| Royal Navy | | |
| Lynx Mk3 | 1986 | 2013 |
| Lynx Mk8 | 1994 | 2015 |
| Merlin Mkl | 1999 | 2029 |
| Sea King Mk4 | 1979 | 2012 |
| Sea King Mk5 | 1980 | 2017 |
| Sea King Mk6(CR) | 2004 | 2008 |
| Sea King Mk7 | 2002 | 2018 |
| Royal Air Force | | |
| Chinook Mk2 | 1993 | 2015 |
| Chinook Mk2a | 1999 | 2025 |
| Merlin Mk3 | 2000 | 2030 |
| Puma HCl | 1971 | 2012 |
| Sea King Mk3 | 1978 | 2017 |
| Sea King Mk3a | 1996 | 2017 |

The table does not include the commercially owned helicopters that the Department leases on contract.

Territorial Army: Manpower

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 901W, on Territorial Army: manpower, what records of the components of the Territorial Army liability figures are maintained by his Department, with particular reference to the numbers of liable former (a) lieutenants and (b) second lieutenants; and how many of the strength figure are (i) officer training corps and (ii) privates. [170256]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: On discharge or retirement there is no reserve liability for members of the Territorial Army, but a Territorial Army officer may volunteer to become a member of the Regular Reserve. The reserve liability for volunteers is recorded on their individual service record which is held on the Joint Personnel Administration system.

Pursuant to my answer of 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 901W; the strengths of the Officer Training Corps and Territorial Army private soldiers as at 1 March 2007 were 5,060 and 19,060 respectively.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Departmental Data Protection

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport (1) what mechanisms his Department has in place to ensure that databases containing personal information on members of the general public are not accessed (a) by unauthorised staff and (b) by authorised staff for unauthorised purposes; [168970]

(2) how many staff of each grade in his Department have access to electronic databases which contain personal information on members of the general public; [168974]

(3) what steps his Department has taken to protect the personal data on members of the public which it holds. [171426]

Mr. Sutcliffe: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Departmental Pay

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much his Department and its agencies spent on end-of-year bonus payments in each of the last five years. [171545]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Department for Culture, Media and Sport pays end of year bonus payments as part of our performance pay system. Information relating to bonus payments in the last five years is contained in the table. The final figures for 2006-07 are not yet available. Our agency, the Royal Parks does not pay end of year bonus payments.

Total value of performance bonuses

| | £ |
|---|---|
| 2001-02 | 50,576 |
| 2002-03 | 106,128 |
| 2003-04 | 164,603 |
| 2004-05 | 177,104 |
| 2005-06 | 239,805 |

Football: Teachers

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many qualified football coaches are active in (a) boys and (b) girls football in each UK region. [170105]

Mr. Sutcliffe: We do not hold this information. However, I can confirm that DCMS and Sport England are currently funding nearly 250 football Community Sports Coach (CSC) posts, broken down by region as follows:

| Region | Number of football CSCs |
|---|---|
| East | 35 |
| East Midlands | 4 |
| London | 80 |
| North East | 7 |
| North West | 23 |
| South East | 19 |
| South West | 33 |
| West Midlands | 28 |
| Yorkshire | 9 |
| Total | 238 |

The Football Association are responsible for the training and development of their coaches. They advise that almost 147,000 people have passed coach education courses in levels 1, 2 and 3 since 2004, many of whom will be active either as paid or volunteer coaches.

Leisure

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what recent estimate his Department has made of the number of people who regularly undertook (a) recreational walking, (b) recreational cycling and (c) yoga in each of the last five years. [171675]

Mr. Sutcliffe: This level of detail on participation in these sports is not available. However, the following data are available.

The General Household Survey collected sport and physical activity participation data in 2002 for adults aged 16 and over. The survey measured "activity in at least one sport, game or physical activity in the four weeks before interview".

| | Percentage | Population (number) |
|---|---|---|
| Recreational Walking | 34.9 | 13,690,431 |
| Recreational Cycling | 9.0 | 3,530,484 |

There was no equivalent figure for yoga in 2002 as it was combined with other keep fit activities.

Since 2005, the DCMS Taking Part survey has collected sport and physical activity participation data for adults aged 16 and over.

The definition of 'regularly' in this case is at least one occasion in the four weeks before interview. The data relate to all adults in 2005-06. Population figures have been rounded to the nearest thousand. The Taking Part survey did not disaggregate recreational cycling from other forms of cycling. Therefore the following figures are for all forms of cycling.

| | Percentage | Population (number) |
|---|---|---|
| Walking (health, recreation or rambling) | 52.4 | 20,792,000 |
| Cycling (health, recreation, training or competition) | 9.7 | 3,861,000 |
| Yoga | 2.5 | 1,006,000 |

Newspaper Press: Complaints

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if he will bring forward proposals to establish a body to investigate complaints about the press with the power (a) of subpoena and (b) to make a binding ruling where facts are in dispute; and if he will make a statement. [171102]

Margaret Hodge: The Government strongly support freedom of speech and a free press. It is therefore appropriate that there should be a system of self-regulation. We are generally satisfied that the Press Complaints Commission's code of practice is both adequate and appropriate for its purpose. We therefore have no intention of bringing forward any new proposals.

Overseas Visitors

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many visitors came to the UK from (a) China, (b) India, (c) America, (d) Australia and (e) Europe in each of the last five years. [171674]

Margaret Hodge: The information requested is contained in the table.

Number of visits to the UK by overseas residents 2002-06

Visits (Thousand)

| | 2002 | 2003 | 2004 | 2005 | 2006 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| China (incl. Hong Kong) | 261 | 237 | 284 | 277 | 296 |
| India | 205 | 199 | 255 | 272 | 367 |
| America | 4,511 | 4,244 | 4,585 | 4,491 | 5,061 |
| Of which: | | | | | |
| Canada | 660 | 652 | 740 | 796 | 868 |
| USA | 3,611 | 3,346 | 3,616 | 3,438 | 3,896 |

Postal Services

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many items of post sent by his Department were reported missing by the intended recipient in each year since 1997. [171296]

Mr. Sutcliffe: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Sports: School Leavers

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport pursuant to the answer of 19 November 2007, Official Report, columns 550-1W, on sports: school leavers, what percentage of people aged (a) 11 to 15, (b) 16, (c) 17 to 18 and (d) 19 years and over participated in sport in each year since 1997. [168989]

Mr. Sutcliffe: This level of detail on sports participation is not available.

Before 2005, the general household survey collected sport participation data in 2002 for adults aged 16 and over.

The survey measured "activity in at least one sport, game or physical activity in the four weeks before interview".

|---|---|
| 16-19 | 72 |
| All adults (16+) | 43 |

Since 2005, the DCMS Taking Part survey has collected sport participation data broken down by age, from 11 and over.

The previous answer of 19 November 2007, Official Report, columns 550-51W, contains participation data for the age groups in question, collected in 2005-6.

Union Flag

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport pursuant to the comments of the Minister of State on 26 November 2007, Official Report, column 121, on the Union Flag, when the Government plan to make a decision on the re-design of the Union Flag under consideration. [171727]

Margaret Hodge: The Government are currently reviewing the rules on flying the Union Flag on Government buildings. As part of that review, a public consultation has been carried out and there have been some comments on the design of the flag along with a number of other points that were outside the scope of the consultation.

All views will be considered as part of the consultation although there are no plans to change the design at present.

Visits Abroad

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much his Department spent on overnight accommodation for Ministers overseas in the last year. [171338]

Margaret Hodge: Details of the cost of overseas travel, including the cost of travel and accommodation are contained in the Overseas Travel by Cabinet Ministers list. The latest list for the period 1 April 2006 to 31 March 2007 was published on 25 July 2007. Details for the 2007-08 financial year will be published as soon as possible after the end of the financial year. All travel is made in accordance with the Ministerial Code.

Young People

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many staff aged between 16 and 18 were employed by his Department (a) directly and (b) through an employment agency in each of the last 10 years; what proportion of these were given time off work to undertake some form of training; and what proportion were provided with some form of training (i) wholly and (ii) partially funded by his Department. [171281]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Department for Culture, Media and Sport has employed only one person aged between 16 and 18 years of age during the last 10 years. During that person's employment they received 8.5 days training which was fully funded by the Department. No information is held on the age of staff employed through employment agencies.

TRANSPORT

Chiltern Railways: Greater London

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether (a) Transport for London and (b) the Mayor of London's office made any approach to her to take responsibility for the routes into Marylebone operated by Chiltern Railways; and if she will make a statement. [170337]

Mr. Tom Harris: There are no records of an approach by either (a) Transport for London or (b) the Mayor of London's office requesting a change in responsibilities for Chiltern Railways routes into London Marylebone.

Crossrail Line: Finance

Mr. Boris Johnson: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport which businesses she expects to contribute more than (a) £1 million, (b) £2 million, (c) £5 million, (d) £10 million, (e) £50 million and (f) £100 million towards Crossrail, broken down by (i) direct contributions and (ii) contributions through the supplementary business rate. [165491]

Mr. Tom Harris: I refer the hon. Member to the written statement made by the Secretary of State on 26 November 2007, Official Report, columns 4-5WS. Contributions raised from any Crossrail-related supplementary business rate are a matter for the Mayor of London.

Mr. Boris Johnson: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what financial contribution BAA is making to Crossrail. [165493]

Mr. Tom Harris: I refer the hon. Member to the written statement made by the Secretary of State on 26 November 2007, Official Report, columns 4-5WS. Discussions with BAA on the size of its contribution to Crossrail are ongoing.

Departmental Sick Leave

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many staff in her Department (a) were disciplined and (b) had their employment terminated as a result of a poor sickness record in each of the last five years. [163695]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The number of staff in the Department who were disciplined or dismissed for poor sick record is shown in the following table. However, the number disciplined excludes GCDA and DfT(C) because the Department does not routinely collate disciplinary information in the format requested and this could be provided only at a disproportionate cost.

Number

| | Staff disciplined for sick record | Staff dismissed for poor sick record |
|---|---|---|
| 2003 | 108 | 10 |
| 2004 | 153 | 7 |
| 2005 | 156 | 45 |
| 2006 | 176 | 70 |
| 2007 | 111 | 40 |

East Coast Railway Line: Repairs and Maintenance

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what timetable for improvements to the East Coast mainline has been agreed as part of the new franchise. [171044]

Mr. Tom Harris: The new franchise, awarded to National Express Group, will commence on 9 December this year. The timetable that it will inherit from that date will be the same as that currently operating with two additional Sunday services.

Provision has been made within the franchise for National Express East Coast to run additional services to reflect the emerging recommendations from Network Rail's East Coast Main Line Route Utilisation Strategy (RUS). The anticipated date for implementing the RUS recommendations is expected to be December 2010.

M6

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport pursuant to the Written Statement of 25 October 2007, Official Report, column 20WS, on active traffic management, what factors determine the length of time for completion of the improvement of the M6 around Birmingham and the M6 Toll; and if she will make an assessment of the feasibility of completing the scheme before summer 2011. [170631]

Mr. Tom Harris: The main construction phase of the scheme announced on 25 October to implement the Active Traffic Management (ATM) techniques on the motorway box around Birmingham (parts of the M6, M40 and M42) is due to start next summer and complete in summer 2011. An invitation for expressions of interest from contractors was published shortly after the announcement of the scheme, allowing for tenders in the spring. The anticipated schedule to completion reflects knowledge and experience gained from the delivery of the M42 ATM scheme, including the identification of potential efficiencies. Appropriate contractual incentives will be put in place to support effective delivery.

Motor Vehicles: Licensing

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much revenue was raised through fines issued by the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency due to the failure of registered keepers of cars to notify them of changes in car ownership in each of the last three years. [169402]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Revenue collected through fines issued for failure to notify disposal or acquisition of a vehicle is as follows:

£ million

|---|---|
| 2004-05 | 1.1 |
| 2005-06 | 1.1 |
| 2006-07 | 0.9 |

Revenue collected includes fine income, court costs recovered and out of court settlements.

Public Transport: Innovation

Mr. Goodwill: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will make an assessment of the use of upright electric personal transporters in other countries. [171114]

Jim Fitzpatrick: No. The Department has however invited the company marketing such machines to share with us any research carried out into the use of these vehicles.

Railway Network: Greater London

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether she plans to transfer the running of any of the current rail franchises to Transport for London or the Mayor of London; and if she will make a statement. [170338]

Mr. Tom Harris: The Secretary of State has no plans to transfer the running of current franchises to Transport for London (TfL). The Department for Transport has been in discussion with TfL regarding issues that they would like to see addressed in the London part of the South Central franchise replacement process.

Railways: Tickets

Dan Rogerson: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) what charges were levied on outlets currently acting as retailers for rail tickets, excluding online and telesales services and those located on railway station premises in each year since 1997; [170525]

(2) how many outlets act as retailers for rail tickets, excluding online and telesales services and those located on railway station premises. [170798]

Mr. Tom Harris: The Department for Transport does not hold this information as the retailers in question operate under licence issued by the Association of Train Operating Companies.

Renewable Transport Fuels

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what percentage of the Government's renewable transport fuels obligation will come from exported sources by 2010; and what estimate she has made of the percentage of these fuels which will come from sustainable sources. [169937]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The renewable transport fuel obligation (RTFO) will create a demand for some 2.5 billion litres per annum of biofuel by 2010-11. This demand is likely to be met through a mixture of domestically produced and imported biofuels. The Government do not have a precise estimate of the likely split between the two. In theory, and provided a number of large UK biofuel production plants which are currently at the planning stage come on stream by 2010, UK farmers and producers could produce enough biofuel to meet this demand in full. Whether or not they do depends on a wide range of factors including the relative costs of UK-produced and imported biofuels.

From day one of the RTFO in April 2008, transport fuel suppliers will be required to report on the sustainability of their biofuels in order to earn any certificates in respect of them. This will create an incentive for suppliers to source only those biofuels which deliver genuine environmental benefits.

Roads: Accidents

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many road traffic (a) accidents and (b) fatalities there have been on the A14 in Suffolk in each year since 1997. [170135]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The information requested is given in the following table:

Number of reported personal injury road accidents and fatalities on the A14 in Suffolk, 1997 to 2006

| | (a) Accidents | (b) Fatalities |
|---|---|---|
| 1997 | 128 | 7 |
| 1998 | 123 | 2 |
| 1999 | 122 | 8 |
| 2000 | 138 | 8 |
| 2001 | 138 | 10 |
| 2002 | 157 | 5 |
| 2003 | 128 | 3 |
| 2004 | 143 | 5 |
| 2005 | 150 | 4 |
| 2006 | 119 | 6 |

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many road traffic (a) accidents and (b) fatalities there have been on the A143 in (i) Suffolk and (ii) Great Barton; and how many involved drivers under the age of 21 years in each category since 1997. [170136]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The information requested is given in the following tables:

Number of reported personal injury road accidents and resulting fatalities on the A143 in Suffolk, 1997 to 2006

| | All accidents | | Accidents involving drivers/riders aged under 21 years | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Number of accidents | Resulting fatalities | Number of accidents | Resulting fatalities |
| 1997 | 71 | 3 | 21 | 1 |
| 1998 | 62 | 1 | 16 | 0 |
| 1999 | 71 | 6 | 16 | 2 |
| 2000 | 59 | 1 | 15 | 0 |
| 2001 | 61 | 2 | 22 | 0 |
| 2002 | 83 | 0 | 18 | 0 |
| 2003 | 72 | 1 | 15 | 0 |
| 2004 | 70 | 0 | 14 | 0 |
| 2005 | 82 | 1 | 16 | 0 |
| 2006 | 68 | 1 | 14 | 0 |

Number of reported personal injury road accidents and resulting fatalities on the A143 in Great Barton[1], 1997 to 2006

Transport: Finance

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) how much was spent on transport in each of the UK regions in each of the last five years; [163241]

(2) how much was budgeted for transport in each of the UK regions in each of the last five years; [163242]

(3) how much was budgeted for major transport developments in each of the UK regions in each of the last five years. [163471]

Ms Rosie Winterton: An analysis of identifiable UK current and capital expenditure on transport by country and region from 2001-02 to 2006-07 is published in Public Expenditure Statistical Analyses 2007, Cm 7091, in tables 9.5a to 9.10b. The information is also available electronically on the Treasury website at www.hm-treasury.gov.uk

The Department's planned and outturn identifiable expenditure on services by country and region (excluding spending by local government) is shown in the Department's successive annual reports, analysed according to the country or region for whose benefit the expenditure has been, or is expected to be, incurred. The most recent is in table A7 of the annual report 2007, Cm 7095. The information is also available electronically on the Department's website at www.dft.gov.uk

Travel

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what estimate she has made of the likely change in the number of journeys made by (a) car, (b) train, (c) bus and (d) aircraft in each of the next 10 years. [169250]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Recent road traffic forecasts by the Department are available at:

http://www.dft.gov.uk/pgr/roads/roadpricing/research trafficongestion

Rail forecasts were published alongside the White Paper, Delivering a Sustainable Railway, at:

http://www.dft.gov.uk/about/strategy/whitepapers/white papercm7176/

A range of documents are available specifically about the forecasts at:

http://www.dft.gov.uk/about/strategy/whitepapers/white papercm7176/railwhitepaperresearch

The latest departmental aviation forecasts are available at:

http://www.dft.gov.uk/pgr/aviation/environmentalissues/ukair demandandco2forecasts

Travel: Concessions

Annette Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) what recent discussions she has had with the Department for Communities and Local Government on the funding of the nationwide pensioner travel concessionary scheme in 2008; and if she will make a statement; [169513]

(2) what estimate she has made of the cost to local authorities of introducing the nationwide pensioner concessionary travel scheme in 2008. [169514]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 29 November 2007]: From 1 April 2008, people aged 60 and over and eligible disabled people in England will be entitled to free off-peak local bus travel anywhere in England, not just within their local area as at present.

There have been various discussions between Department for Communities and Local Government and the Department for Transport, both at official and ministerial level. The Government are providing local authorities in England an extra £212 million/£217 million/£223 million for the next three years. This extra funding is based on generous assumptions about the probable cost impact of the new concession, including visitor 'hot spots'. We are confident this funding will be sufficient in aggregate.

The existing funding for concessionary fares is, and will continue to be, distributed by the Department for Communities and Local Government via the formula grant system. There was no significant support among local government to extract the existing funding for statutory concessions from the formula grant system.

The extra funding for the national bus concession will be distributed by the Department for Transport via a special grant. The decision to use a special grant reflects both the views of local government and the challenges of deriving a formula distribution that matches the probable cost impact of the new concession, taking into account popular tourist resorts and large transport hubs. We anticipate transferring this additional funding into the formula grant process at the beginning of the next three-year settlement period (2011-12).

The Department for Transport's consultation on the formula basis for the distribution of the special grant closed on 23 November. A provisional view on the distribution will be made in due course and will be finalised by a parliamentary debate in the new year.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Council Tax Benefit

Dan Rogerson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what steps she is taking to increase the take-up rate of council tax benefit. [168034]

Mr. Plaskitt: I been asked to reply.

Council tax benefit (CTB) take-up is lowest among pensioners and they are therefore our priority. One phone call to the Pension Service can give customers access to four benefits—pension credit, state retirement pension, CTB and housing benefit (HB). A simple claim form for HB/CTB is completed for the customer. All they need to do is check it, sign it and send it back.

We are taking other measures to promote the take-up of CTB. There are annual awareness campaigns. We have provided local authorities with best practice guidance that contains information about barriers to claiming, ways of overcoming them, and case study examples of good practice to improve take-up. We have supported the simple claim form arrangements with computer scans run by the Pension Service to discover people getting pension credit but not CTB and this information is passed to local authorities. We encourage local authorities to do take-up activity through our performance standards and have awarded £2.2 million to 38 authorities to increase CTB take-up.

In the longer term, we want to deliver CTB as accessibly, simply and securely as possible. We want to research the feasibility of using data held "across Government" to build profiles of people likely to be entitled. We also want to develop the concept of a "single point of contact" for pensioners, coupled with alignment of application processes that will provide greater efficiency and a better public service.

Anti-Semitism

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will bring forward proposals to treat anti-Semitic crimes as distinct from other crimes of racial hatred; what recent representations she has received on this matter; and if she will make a statement. [165736]

Mr. Coaker: I have been asked to reply.

The Government's work on hate crime seeks to address all forms of hate crime, whether it be on anti-Semitic grounds, on other racial or religious grounds, or on the grounds of sexual orientation, disability or gender identity. However, one of our priorities is to understand better the nature and extent of all hate crimes, and to this end we are currently in the process of changing the way we collect data on hate crime: from April 2007 we have asked the police to flag information about hate crimes, which should help us develop a more detailed picture.

We have also set up a cross-Government working group to develop our response to the All Party Parliamentary Inquiry Into Anti-Semitism.

Business Premises: Fire Extinguishers

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what consideration her Department has given to the merits of making sprinkler systems compulsory in new large business premises. [171564]

Mr. Dhanda: The recent review of the fire safety aspects in Part B of the Building Regulations considered fire safety in all types of premises and the important role that sprinklers and other types of fire protection measures may have. A number of changes were made, following extensive research and full public consultation. These changes came into force in April this year and were supported by a Regulatory Impact Assessment setting out the costs and benefits of the changes.

For a number of years, sprinklers have been asked for in a range of situations under the Building Regulations, such as the majority of tall (30 m+) buildings and buildings with large compartments (e.g. shops with a compartment over 2,000 $m^2$). The amended Part B gives greater recognition to the role of sprinklers for life safety and the accompanying guidance has been expanded, where justified, to include their use in a wider range of situations. These include in tall (30 m+) blocks of flats, certain care homes and in large single-storey storage buildings.

In addition, the Regulatory Reform (Fire Safety) Order 2005, which applies to both new and existing non-domestic buildings, requires that the responsible person for a premises carry out a risk assessment and take necessary fire precautions to ensure the safety of the occupants of the building. This could include the provision of sprinklers, where it is justified by the risk. It is also open for property owners and their insurers to consider the benefits of sprinklers for property protection and business continuity.

Community Development

Greg Clark: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the Government's timetable is for implementing the recommendations of the Quirk Review. [170149]

John Healey [holding answer 29 November 2007]: In May 2007, the Government accepted the recommendations of the Quirk Review and published "Opening the Transfer window: the Government's response to the Quirk Review of community management and ownership of public assets". This details specific actions to be taken with partners to take forward the implementation of the Review, and specifies a timetable to 2009. It also commits Communities and Local Government to a review in 2008, to consider what further action should be taken in the light of progress made.

Contracts

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many invitations to tender her Department has issued in the last 12 months; and for what purpose in each case. [171684]

Mr. Dhanda: This information is not held centrally and could be provided only at a disproportionate cost.

Council Housing: Waiting Lists

Andrew Stunell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many people were on council housing waiting lists in each (a) district/unitary housing authority and (b) region in England in each of the last five years. [170358]

Mr. Iain Wright: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 13 November 2007, Official Report, column 116W, to my right hon. Friend the Member for Oldham, West and Royton (Mr. Meacher).

Delivery Services

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government which companies are under contract to her Department to provide mail services. [170162]

Mr. Dhanda: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to the hon. Member for South-West Norfolk (Mr. Fraser), on 21 March 2007, Official Report, column 986W.

Departmental Computers

Mr. Gauke: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many of her Department's (a) computers and (b) laptops have been stolen in 2007; and what the value of those items was. [168598]

Mr. Dhanda: 11 laptops, valued at approximately £800 each, were recorded as stolen in separate incidents in 2007. All laptop hard disks were encrypted to CESG standards, access to which would require extremely sophisticated and expensive equipment not available to the general public. Two desktop computers were recovered after being taken off site without permission in 2007. This was not a malicious act; it was not classed as theft.

Departmental Land

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what land surplus to her Department's requirements it is (a) selling, (b) leasing and (c) intending to (i) sell and (ii) lease; and what the size and name of each relevant site is. [168846]

Mr. Dhanda: Communities and Local Government does not have any surplus land it is selling or leasing and neither does it have any surplus land it is intending to sell or lease.

This response does not include land held by Government offices, who carry out functions on behalf of 10 Government Departments or other sponsored bodies.

Departmental Official Hospitality

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what entertainment or hospitality members of the Department's management board received in each of the last three financial years; and if she will make a statement. [164748]

Mr. Dhanda: Paragraph 4.3.5 of the Civil Service Management Code sets out the rules on the registration of hospitality. The Government are committed to publishing an annual list of hospitality received by members of departmental boards. The first list for 2007 will be published as soon as it is ready after the end of the current calendar year.

Departmental Publicity

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much has been spent by her Department on advertising in the last 12 months. [167961]

Mr. Dhanda: Figures for advertising and marketing campaigns in the financial year 2006-07 were published in the Department's Annual Report on 17 May 2007, which is available in the Libraries of the House.

Departmental Sick Leave

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many staff in her Department (a) were disciplined and (b) had their employment terminated as a result of a poor sickness record in each of the last five years. [163708]

Mr. Dhanda: The central part of the Department for Communities and Local Government took no formal disciplinary action nor dismissed anyone as a result of poor sick records in the last five years to March 2007. Most sickness absence cases are managed informally by managers. This reply does not cover the Government offices or the Department's agencies.

Departmental Sustainable Development

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether her Department is on course to meet the commitment in the sustainable operations on the Government estate targets (a) to source at least 10 per cent. of its electricity from renewables by 31 March 2008 and (b) to increase recycling figures to 40 per cent. of waste by 2010. [171058]

Mr. Dhanda [holding answer 4 December 2007]: Communities and Local Government has already exceeded both of these targets.

In 2006-07, the Department's HQ estate and its Executive agencies sourced 92 per cent. and 52 per cent. of their electricity from renewables respectively. This target is met by procuring renewable 'green tariff' electricity.

In the same year, the Department's HQ estate and Executive agencies recycled 57 per cent. and 56 per cent. of their waste, respectively.

Note:

These figures do not include the regional Government offices or the selected non-departmental public bodies that contribute to the Department's performance against these targets.

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether her Department has adopted the Carbon Trust's Carbon Management programme. [171059]

Mr. Dhanda [holding answer 4 December 2007]: Communities and Local Government signed up to the Carbon Trust's Carbon Management Programme in May 2006. The Department and its Executive agencies are in the process of implementing various recommendations identified through the programme.

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether her Department met the target in the sustainable operations on the Government estate review to reverse the then upward trend in carbon dioxide emissions by April 2007. [171060]

Mr. Dhanda [holding answer 4 December 2007]: Communities and Local Government's HQ estate has not met the target to reverse the upward trend in reported carbon emissions from offices by April 2007. Our office-based Executive agencies have met the target.

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether her Department is working towards an accredited certified environmental management system for its whole estate or some of its buildings. [171061]

Mr. Dhanda [holding answer 4 December 2007]: Communities and Local Government already has an ISO14001 accredited certified environmental management system which covers its main headquarter buildings, one of its Executive agencies and Government office for London's building. The remaining organisations that contribute to the Department's sustainable operations performance are working towards accredited certified systems.

Development Plans: Public Participation

Paul Farrelly: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government which local authorities' area action plans have been deemed (a) sound and (b) unsound by planning inspectors after public examination. [168952]

Mr. Iain Wright [holding answer 29 November 2007]: The following local authorities have:

(a) Had Area Action Plans found Sound (Approved)

| Local authority | Title |
|---|---|
| South Cambridgeshire DC | Cambridge Southern Fringe AAP |
| South Cambridgeshire DC | Northstowe AAP |
| Newcastle Upon Tyne Council | Walker Riverside Area Action Plan DPD |
| Portsmouth Council | Southsea Town Centre Area Action Plan |
| Plymouth Council | Millbay/Stonehouse Area Action Plan |
| Plymouth Council | North Plymstock (including Minerals) AAP |
| Plymouth Council | Devonport Area Action Plan |
| South Hams DC | Sherford New Community Area Action Plan |
| Staffordshire Moorlands DC | AAP Biddulph Town Centre |
| Total | 9 |

(b) Had Area Action Plans found Unsound (Refused)

| Local authority | Title |
|---|---|
| Restormel BC | Newquay AAP |
| Total | 1 |

Emergency Calls: Suffolk

Mr. Spring: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the average time taken to respond to an emergency telephone call by the fire brigade was in Suffolk for each of the past five years. [171614]

Mr. Dhanda: The following table shows the average response times taken by the fire and rescue services in Suffolk between 2001 and 2005, the most recent calendar year for which data are available. The table shows the time from the initial call to attendance, and the time from mobilisation to attendance (i.e. the actual driving time).

Average response time (in minutes) to fires by brigade area and year of call, Suffolk, 2001-05[1, 2, 3]

| | First call to attendance | Mobilisation to attendance |
|---|---|---|
| 2001 | 8.8 | 7.7 |
| 2002 | 9.0 | 7.8 |
| 2003 | 9.3 | 8.2 |
| 2004 | 9.0 | 8.0 |
| 2005 | 9.5 | 8.3 |

[1] Excluding late call and heat and smoke damage only incidents.
[2] Excluding incidents not recorded during periods of industrial action in 2002 and 2003.
[3] A small number of incidents with response time greater than an hour have been excluded so that results are not skewed by likely reporting errors.

Fires: Warwickshire

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will make a statement on the (a) investigations carried out and (b) lessons learned on the recent Warwickshire factory fire tragedy. [171565]

Mr. Dhanda: As a result of the tragic events of 2 November at Atherstone on Stour in Warwickshire, three key investigations have been initiated. Firstly, the police are conducting an investigation in conjunction with the Health and Safety Executive (HSE). Secondly, the fire and rescue service are examining the origin, causes and spread of the fire. Thirdly, there is currently a fire and rescue service accident investigation into the implications of the fire. The chief fire and rescue adviser, Sir Ken Knight, is in close contact with the ongoing investigations and is keeping me informed at all times. In addition to these investigations, there will be a coroner's inquest which, as part of its investigation, will examine the evidence submitted by the investigation teams. However, until the exact details are known, it would be inappropriate to comment further on the investigations in progress.

Green Belt

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what plans the existing versions of the regional spatial strategies have to review the green belt designations in each Government office region. [171525]

Mr. Iain Wright: The following summarises the proposals in the existing versions of the regional spatial strategies regarding the green belt in each Government office region:

North East—proposed changes stage

Policy 6.5 ensures that the green belt continues to safeguard the countryside from encroachment and check the unrestricted sprawl of Tyne and Wear.

North West—currently preparing proposed changes

Policy RDF5, no need for any exceptional change to the Greater Manchester, Merseyside, Cheshire and Lancashire green belts until 2011 and the Warrington green belt until 2021.

Yorkshire and Humber—proposed changes published for consultation

Policy YH9 confirms that the extent of the green belt in Yorkshire and Humber should not be changed, but that localised boundary reviews may be needed in order to deliver development in the most sustainable locations. Specific mention is made to defining the green belt around York and the potential need for strategic reviews in parts of West Yorkshire.

East Midlands—currently preparing proposed changes

The EIP into the East Midlands Draft RSS closed on 19 July 2007 and the EIP Chair's Panel Report was published 28 November 2007. The Independent Panel Chair recommended a strategic review of the boundaries of the existing green belt to the north, east and south of Nottingham. Any future review of the green belt will be conducted in line with the process set out in PPG2.

West Midlands Phase 1—proposed changes published and Phase 2 is due to be submitted in December 2007

Phase 1 proposes no change to the extent of the existing green belt in the Black Country and Phase 2 is still being developed, so policies on the extent of the existing green belt have not yet been defined.

East of England—proposed changes published for consultation

Policy SS7, the broad extent of green belts in the East of England is appropriate, and will be maintained. However, strategic reviews of green belt boundaries are needed in the following areas to meet regional development needs at the most sustainable locations:

Stevenage, involving land in Stevenage and North Hertfordshire;

Kernel Hempstead, involving land in Dacorum and probably St. Albans district;

Harlow, involving land in Harlow, East Hertfordshire and Epping Forest district; and Welwyn/Hatfield, involving land in Welwyn Hatfield district and potentially St. Albans district;

Broxbourne.

South East—currently preparing proposed changes

Policy CC10a, the existing green belts in the region will be retained and supported and the opportunity should be taken to improve their land-use management and access as part of initiatives to improve the urban rural fringe. If there are any cases for small scale local review, these can be pursued through the LDF process.

South West—awaiting panel report before beginning proposed changes process

Policy 3.35, the extent of the green belt, is revised in policies SR3, SR11 and SR27 (Section 4), based on a strategic green belt review, to accommodate urban extensions required in the West of England in Cheltenham/Gloucester and South Dorset.

London

There are currently no green belt reviews planned in the London region.

Housing Benefit: Peterborough

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much was spent on housing benefit in (a) Peterborough constituency and (b) Peterborough City Council area in each of the last 10 years. [168124]

Mr. Plaskitt: I have been asked to reply

Information on housing benefit expenditure is not available at constituency level.

The available information is in the following table.

Housing benefit expenditure for Peterborough local authority district

| | £ million |
|---|---|
| 1997-98 | 31.7 |
| 1998-99 | 31.0 |
| 1999-2000 | 31.2 |
| 2000-01 | 31.6 |
| 2001-02 | 32.0 |
| 2002-03 | 33.3 |
| 2003-04 | 32.7 |
| 2004-05 | 32.3 |
| 2005-06 | 36.7 |
| 2006-07 | 40.0 |

Notes:
1. Information sourced from local authority claims for housing revenue account subsidy and housing benefit subsidy.
2. Figures are rounded to the nearest £100,000.
3. Figures prior to 2006-07 are audited, but may change in future if local authorities' audited accounts are amended after a decision or appeal. Figures for recent years are more likely to be amended than older data.
4. 2006-07 figures are initial final (pre-audited) and are subject to change.
5. From 1999-2000 onwards, housing benefit expenditure on asylum seekers was funded by the National Asylum Support Service, and is therefore excluded from the figures presented at Great Britain. However, local authority level information includes all expenditure on these benefits relating to asylum seekers, as it is not possible to isolate at this level that part which applies to asylum seekers.
6. Figures relate to what local authorities spend on claimants, and include discretionary expenditure (mainly disregards of war pensions), and overpayments except where benefit has been granted in advance (where the benefit is paid in the form of a rebate).

Housing: Expenditure

Mr. Meacher: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much was spent on housing (a) in 2007 prices and (b) as a percentage of gross national product in each year since 1980; and what percentage of each year's total was spent on (i) owner-occupied housing, (ii) registered social landlord/housing corporation housing and (iii) council housing. [164667]

Angela Eagle [holding answer 15 November 2007]: I have been asked to reply.

The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question, directed at the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government. You requested the amount spent on housing (a) in 2007 prices and (b) as a percentage of gross national product in each year since 1980, and what percentage of each year's total was spent on (i) owned-occupied housing, (ii) registered social landlord/housing corporation housing and (iii) council housing.

Table A shows investment in housing, defined by total dwellings (excluding land) as a percentage of total gross national income (formerly called gloss national product).

Table B gives the percentage breakdown of total dwellings by the following three sectors:

i) households and NPISH (Non Profit Institutions Serving Households)—investment on dwellings by the household sector and non profit institutions serving households (or the charity sector);

ii) central government—investment on dwellings by the central government sector; and

iii) public non-financial corporations—broadly representing investment on dwellings by local authorities via the Housing Revenue Account.

These provide the nearest definitions available to the breakdown requested. Information is not available for registered social landlord/housing corporation housing.

Note that all the data shown is in current prices, although constant price data at 2003 prices is available on request.

Housing: Floods

Mr. Peter Ainsworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many people remain displaced from their homes due to the floods in June and July in England. [171241]

John Healey [holding answer 4 December 2007]: With our encouragement, local authorities have improved their collection of data about displaced households in recent weeks and we are currently working with Government offices and local authorities to compile an updated estimate of the number of households that remain displaced as a result of the floods in June and

July. Once we have the result of this exercise we will place a copy in the Library of the House.

Mr. Peter Ainsworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what steps she is taking to facilitate the return of displaced families to their homes following the summer 2007 floods. [171364]

John Healey [holding answer 4 December 2007]: We expect all local authorities to have plans and procedures in place to tackle emergency repairs and homelessness, and indications are that these have worked well in the aftermath of the summer floods. Government officials and homelessness specialist advisors have been in contact with some of the affected areas, to offer support for local authorities as they help their local communities.

At a national level, the Government are making sure that local authorities and other agencies are supported to help householders, business and communities get back to normal as far as possible without unnecessary delays. To date we have made available a comprehensive package of up to £63 million to assist the affected regions, including up to £20 million in flood recovery grant from Communities and Local Government to support the recovery work of local authorities, and particularly their work with those in greatest and most immediate need. Local authorities have the flexibility to decide how to best to use the grant based on their own local circumstances. In practice, this has covered a wide range of action, including support payments to flood-affected households, and provision of temporary caravans to allow people to remain within their communities while houses are repaired.

Flood-affected local authorities have also been able apply to Communities and Local Government for help through the Bellwin scheme which provides financial assistance to local authorities dealing with emergencies. Exceptionally, the terms of the present schemes have been made more generous because of the circumstances of the recent floods. 50 local authorities have registered for assistance for the June scheme and 52 have registered for the July scheme. 20 local authorities have registered for both schemes. Authorities have six months to spend under this scheme and two have now submitted interim claims.

The Government continue to work closely with the Association of British Insurers (ABI) to establish how the insurance industry is dealing with policy holders who have been hit by the floods. The ABI has made clear the insurance industry's commitment to maintaining momentum over the coming months in dealing with outstanding claims. However, it will still take time for some properties to dry out before the necessary repairs can be carried out, and this means that some people will not be back in their homes until next year.

Mr. Peter Ainsworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what recent meetings she has held with the local authorities affected by the summer 2007 floods where households are still displaced. [171365]

John Healey [holding answer 4 December 2007]: CLG Ministers, including the Secretary of State, have made a series of visits to those areas worst affected by the summer floods, including those areas where people remain displaced from their homes. As flood recovery Minister I have visited the city of Kingston upon Hull a number of times since the floods in June, with the most recent visit taking place on 14 November.

I and other CLG Ministers have also made various visits to other affected local authorities in the Yorkshire and Humber region, Nottinghamshire, and the South West. The Prime Minister visited several of the worst affected areas in the immediate aftermath of the floods, including Gloucester and Hull.

These visits have been useful opportunities for Ministers to meet local authority staff and members who are leading recovery efforts, and visits to affected areas will continue.

Housing: Low Incomes

Ms Buck: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the (a) lowest, (b) highest and (c) median salary was of shared ownership property purchasers in each London borough in 2006. [167579]

Mr. Iain Wright: We do not centrally hold data on the lowest, highest and median salary of shared ownership property purchasers in each London borough in 2006. This could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Housing: Overcrowding

Ms Buck: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when she plans to update the housing standard on overcrowding. [167572]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Government are committed to addressing overcrowding and we are considering updating the standards. However, we do not believe this in itself will solve overcrowding without having the means in place to help overcrowded families and we are considering how we can most effectively address the problem. We have already announced an increase in the provision of new social housing. We have also invested over £35 million in London pilot schemes in the period 2006-08 to provide innovative solutions to some of the worst cases of overcrowding and will be looking carefully at the lessons learned from these.

Housing: Repairs and Maintenance

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what level of private sector housing renewal grant is planned (a) for older people and (b) for people with disabilities in 2007-08; and what the level was in each of the last five years. [168178]

Mr. Iain Wright: Details of private sector renewal assistance since 2002 can be found in the 2006 Housing Strategy Statistical Appendix K which is published on the Department's website at:

http://www.communities.gov.uk/documents/housing/xls/153005.

The information has also been deposited in the Library of the House.

An element of this goes towards assisting people with disabilities but the figures are not broken down in to specific categories.

Local Authorities: Citizenship

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when she plans to publish guidance for local authorities on how to run effective citizenship activities. [169615]

Mr. Dhanda: Guidance on how to run a citizens' day was published jointly with the Citizenship Foundation on 29 November.

Planning Permission: Quarrying

Paul Rowen: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many dormant quarries have planning permission for mineral extraction in (a) the North West and (b) England. [169972]

Mr. Iain Wright: Legislation introduced in 1991 for the review of old mining consents, and in 1995 for the review of old mineral permissions, defines mineral sites as 'dormant' if no mineral development has been carried out to any substantial extent in, respectively, the period 1 May 1989 to 30 April 1991 and the period 22 February 1982 to 6 June 1995. British Geological Survey data record 487 dormant mineral sites in England in 2006, of which 88 are in the North West.

Regional Development Agencies

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) when she expects regional assemblies to transfer responsibility for regional housing and planning matters to regional development agencies; [171623]

(2) what the procedure will be for designating regional development agencies as regional planning bodies. [171658]

Mr. Iain Wright: The transfer of regional planning body designation to regional development agencies will require primary legislation.

The Government will be consulting on the detailed implementation of the transfer early in 2008.

The Government aim to put new arrangements in place by 2010.

Regional Planning and Development: Green Belt

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many dwellings were built within the 1997 designated green belt in each year in (a) England and (b) each Government office region between 1997 and 2006. [171499]

Mr. Iain Wright: The 1997 designated green belt covered 1,652,300 hectares of land. Between 1997 and 2005 45,240 homes were built within the 1997 designated green belt, 4 per cent. of all dwellings built within that time. The figures for each region and year over this time can be seen in the following table. Robust data are not yet available for 2006.

Number of dwellings built on the 1997 designated green belt

| | 1997 | 1998 | 1999 | 2000 | 2001 | 2002 | 2003 | 2004 | 2005 | 1997-2005 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| North East | 50 | 150 | 30 | 20 | 10 | 30 | 60 | 60 | 100 | 520 |
| North West | 1,320 | 1,080 | 1,250 | 1,590 | 710 | 1,090 | 1,230 | 700 | 1,060 | 10,030 |
| Yorkshire and the Humber | 770 | 670 | 810 | 580 | 800 | 960 | 750 | 590 | 510 | 6,440 |
| East Midlands | 190 | 150 | 50 | 300 | 240 | 110 | 100 | 180 | 100 | 1,410 |
| West Midlands | 620 | 540 | 760 | 830 | 770 | 930 | 660 | 650 | 800 | 6,570 |
| East of England | 580 | 940 | 970 | 960 | 1,030 | 450 | 730 | 710 | 620 | 6,990 |
| London | 160 | 450 | 200 | 380 | 280 | 480 | 280 | 240 | 230 | 2,690 |
| South East | 940 | 800 | 1,290 | 1,200 | 1,030 | 790 | 920 | 1,080 | 660 | 8,710 |
| South West | 170 | 310 | 190 | 250 | 250 | 190 | 120 | 100 | 150 | 1,730 |
| England | 4,710 | 5,080 | 5,630 | 6,030 | 5,240 | 4,920 | 4,870 | 4,390 | 4,370 | 45,240 |

Notes:
1. There is an inevitable time-lag between land use change occurring and it being recorded, therefore data are constantly being updated.
2. The data in the table are based on records received from Ordnance Survey up to June 2007, published in October 2007.

Religious Buildings

Mr. MacShane: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 20 November 2007, Official Report, column 786W, on religious buildings, if she will contact local authorities in (a) London, (b) Birmingham and (c) Manchester with a view to establishing the names and addresses of mosques in those cities. [170366]

Mr. Dhanda: The Government currently have no plans to contact local authorities in London, Birmingham or Manchester in order to establish the names and addresses of mosques.

Social Rented Housing: Rents

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much additional rental income will arise from rent restructuring if continued in each year to 2011. [164939]

Mr. Iain Wright: The forecast of additional rental income arising from rent restructuring continuing in each year to 2011-12 would require the projection of dwelling stock totals to that date, which the Department does not have. Even with these data local authorities are free to set their own rents and so, although they will be mindful of the guideline rent in the Housing Revenue Account subsidy system, we would be unable to forecast what rent levels might be.

For housing associations, the Housing Corporation does have stock projections extending to 2012, but not in a format that would allow the calculation of additional rental income as asked. To answer the question would require a detailed breakdown of stock and the rental income associated with that stock.

Waste Disposal

Gregory Barker: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what steps are being taken to improve access to civic amenity sites. [165295]

Joan Ruddock: I have been asked to reply.

Section 51(1)(b) of the Environmental Protection Act 1990 requires waste disposal authorities to provide places where residents can deposit their household waste free of charge. Section 51(2) specifies that these sites shall be reasonably accessible to residents, open at all reasonable times including a period on Saturdays and free of charge.

As a general rule, the Government believe local authorities are best placed to make decisions on the waste management strategy for their communities and therefore DEFRA does not intervene in these matters.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Climate Change

6. Christine Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what steps his Department is taking to assist the world's poorest countries address the adverse impacts of climate change. [171079]

Mr. Thomas: DFID is helping developing countries prepare for climate change by, for example:

contributing to UN funds for developing adaptation strategies; carrying out climate risk assessment of our own programmes in a number of countries and funding further climate adaptation research.

9. Dr. Blackman-Woods: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what steps his Department is taking to help the world's poorest countries address the effects of climate change. [171082]

Mr. Thomas: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer I gave my hon. Friend the Member for City of Chester (Christine Russell) today (UIN 171079).

HIV/AIDS: Sub-Saharan Africa

7. Ms Keeble: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what steps he is taking to increase UK assistance allocated to children orphaned by HIV/AIDS in Sub-Saharan Africa. [171080]

Mr. Thomas: The UK HIV/AIDS strategy "Taking Action" commits the UK to spending £1.5 billion on HIV/AIDS between 2005 and 2008. Of this, at least £150 million will be spent on orphans and vulnerable children, most of which will go to sub-Saharan Africa.

Somaliland

8. Alun Michael: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what assistance his Department is providing for the development of democratic processes in the Republic of Somaliland. [171081]

Mr. Malik: DFID is contributing over £1 million to a democratisation programme in Somaliland.

The programme, implemented by Interpeace, currently supports the National Electoral Commission to:

develop its capacity;

produce a credible voter registration system and deliver free and fair elections.

It also supports civil society to engage in the democratic process.

HIV/AIDS

10. Ms Katy Clark: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what discussions he has had with his international counterparts on global efforts to address HIV/AIDS. [171083]

Mr. Thomas: DFID Ministers over the last few months have had discussions with a wide range of international counterparts including the President's Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief (PEPFAR). Ministers of Health signed up to the International Health Partnership, the International Aids Vaccine Initiative (IAVI), the Clinton Foundation, the Global Fund for AIDS, TB and Malaria, UNAIDS, UNFPA, WHO and others.

Discussions have concentrated on international commitments to HIV and AIDS, including the commitment to universal access to comprehensive prevention programmes, treatment, care and support by 2010.

Elections

11. Mr. Scott: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what steps his Department has taken to support free and fair elections in developing countries over the last 12 months. [171084]

Mr. Malik: DFID provided over £8 million to support the elections in Sierra Leone that were widely perceived as free and fair and resulted in a peaceful transition of power to the opposition. The Department also provided £6 million to support the last election in Nigeria. We are already providing support for forthcoming elections in Kenya, Pakistan, Bangladesh, Sudan and Malawi. In a process ending in early 2007, we provided £25 million to the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC) election—our largest contribution to date to a national election.

Burma

12. Mrs. Caroline Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development if he will make a statement on the humanitarian situation in Burma. [171085]

Mr. Malik: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave the hon. Members for Bexleyheath and Crayford (Mr. Evennett) and North West Cambridgeshire (Mr. Vara) toady (UIN 171074 and 171076)

IT: Africa

13. Mr. Peter Bone: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what projects his Department has to provide children in Africa with access to information technology. [171086]

Mr. Thomas: The majority of DFID's bilaterial aid to education in Africa is provided through sector and budget support. Decisions on investment priorities are made locally by the recipient Government. DFID funds are used to support IT in schools through teaching training; through our multilateral funding of organisations like the Commonwealth of Learning, who provide expertise on both software and hardware; and through our policy dialogue with Governments and the new partnership for Africa's development (NEPAD) on the role of IT in schools

Bangladesh

14. Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what steps the Government have taken to provide aid and assistance to Bangladesh to deal with the damage caused by cyclone Sidr. [171087]

Mr. Malik: The UK Government has provided £7 million for cyclone Sidr relief in Bangladesh. The first tranche of £2.5 million went through the Bangladesh United Nations development programme (UNDP).

An additional £2.5 million was announced by the Secretary of State on 23 November to be programmed through three international NGOs.

A further £2 million announced by the Secretary of State on 28 November to support the short to medium-term response.

Djibouti

15. Mr. Brian Binley: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what support his Department plans to offer to assist the operation of the forthcoming elections in Djibouti. [171088]

Mr. Malik: We have no plans to offer bilateral assistance for the forthcoming elections in Djibouti. The United Kingdom does not have a bilateral aid programme in Djibouti. Any UK support would be channelled through our core contributions to multilateral agencies such as the World Bank, United Nations and European Commission.

Asylum: Overseas Aid

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how much his Department allocated to support work with refugees from (a) Iraq, (b) Afghanistan, (c) Sudan and (d) Somalia in each of the last 10 years. [169440]

Mr. Malik: It is not possible to determine the level of DFID support for refugees from the above countries from central systems.

The following table shows DFID bilateral humanitarian assistance in total and in each country over the last ten years. This assistance supports a range of activities including work supporting refugees and internally displaced people.

DFID bilateral humanitarian assistance, 1997-98 to 2006-07

£000

| | DFID bilateral humanitarian assistance, of which: | Iraq | Afghanistan | Sudan | Somalia |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1997-98 | 94,680 | 3,351 | 6,685 | 4,337 | 1,047 |
| 1998-99 | 113,711 | 5,749 | 2,579 | 23,497 | 1,079 |
| 1999-2000 | 224,700 | 6,585 | 4,917 | 2,774 | 372 |
| 2000-01 | 222,431 | 9,545 | 6,563 | 4,491 | 1,235 |
| 2001-02, | 192,446 | 7,760 | 49,943 | 5,164 | 1,638 |
| 2002-03 | 294,891 | 18,853 | 44,253 | 16,338 | 2,920 |
| 2003-04 | 310,602 | 110,052 | 10,457 | 21,872 | 3,172 |
| 2004-05 | 332,318 | 21,383 | 7,067 | 77,904 | 3,543 |
| 2005-06 | 405,978 | 4,770 | 3,390 | 97,792 | 15,589 |
| 2006-07 | 336,473 | 10,085 | 1,613 | 83,614 | 7,975 |

DFID also provides funds to a range of civil society organisations and multilateral institutions that support refugees and internally displaced people across the world.

Burma: Overseas Investment

Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how much British companies have invested in Burma in each of the last five years; and which companies have made such investments. [162548]

Mr. Thomas: I have been asked to reply. The UK Government discourage trade and investment with Burma. The Office for National Statistics (ONS) figures for the UK's foreign direct investment in Burma for the period 2001-04 are protected by commercial confidentiality. The ONS recorded a nil investment return in 2005. Data for 2006 will be published in February 2008.

Delivery Services

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development which companies are under contract to his Department to provide mail services. [170170]

Mr. Malik: DFID is party to a Government contract in respect of an overnight internal mail service between our two UK offices. This contract is currently let to TNT Express (UK) Ltd. No other private companies are contracted to provide mail services.

Departmental Marketing

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development if he will place in the Library a copy of the guidelines issued to staff maintaining his Department's corporate identity; and what the estimated annual cost is of (a) producing and (b) complying with such guidelines. [170230]

Mr. Malik: I have placed a copy of DFID's Identity Standards in the Library of the House.

The Identity Standards booklet was produced in financial year 2005-06 and cost £21,504.50 to produce. There are no ongoing production costs, as the booklet has not to date been reprinted.

The booklet was a refinement of existing guidance into one easy-to-use package for staff to refer to, so there were no initial compliance costs. This has led to substantial time savings for staff in having consistent, easily accessible guidance across all applications. The only ongoing compliance cost is a small amount of Communications Division staff time for guidance and monitoring compliance. This is a routine function of the Communications Division and it is not possible to disaggregate the precise time or cost involved.

Departmental Pay

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many people in his Department earned over £100,000 in each year since 1997. [167197]

Mr. Malik: The numbers of DFID staff who received salaries of over £100,000, including performance pay, in each year since 1997 (for which data are available) are shown in the following table:

| | Number of staff |
|---|---|
| 1997-98 | n/a |
| 1998-99 | 1 |
| 1999-2000 | 1 |
| 2000-01 | 1 |
| 2001-02 | 3 |
| 2002-03 | 3 |
| 2003-04 | 3 |
| 2004-05 | 3 |
| 2005-06 | 6 |

Departmental Secondment

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many secondments of staff were made (a) to and (b) from his Department in each year since 1997; which organisations staff were seconded (i) to and (ii) from; how many staff were seconded in each year; for how long each secondment lasted; and what the cost was of each secondment in each year. [167275]

Mr. Malik: DFID is unable to respond to all parts of this question as our central records do not go back to 1997 and the cost of each secondment is not maintained. We have held central secondment records since 2003, details of which have been placed in the Library of the House.

Developing Countries: Overseas Aid

Mr. Godsiff: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what proportion of the Environmental Transformation Fund has been earmarked for adaptation in developing countries. [169297]

Mr. Thomas: Apart from the £50 million earmarked for the Congo Basin, which was announced in the Budget, we have yet to take a decision on how the Environmental Transformation Fund will be allocated. Decisions about any resource allocations (including an allocation to adaptation) will be agreed by relevant Ministers and an HMG governance board in consultation with key stakeholders over the coming months.

Food and Agriculture Organisation

Mr. Hands: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what discussions his Department has had with the Food and Agriculture Organisation of the United Nations in the last 12 months; and if he will make a statement. [169496]

Mr. Thomas: I met the Director General of the Food and Agriculture Organisation, Dr. Jacques Diouf, on 24 October in London and addressed the FAO General Conference in Rome on 19 November. These were part of the frequent discussions which DFID has with the FAO at all levels. The main focus of discussions has been on reform of the FAO following a recently concluded independent external evaluation, which recommended that significant changes were needed. We have made clear the importance we attach to implementing the independent evaluation's recommendations.

Officials have also had technical discussions with FAO including on climate change, forestry, fisheries, livestock, avian influenza, food standards, agricultural trade and communications.

Occupied Territories: Poverty

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what his most recent estimate is of the percentage of Palestinians (a) in the West Bank and (b) in the Gaza Strip (i) living below the poverty line and (ii) unemployed; and what assessment he has made of the impact of his policies on their situation. [170017]

Mr. Malik: According to the UN Development programme, 56 per cent. of households in the West Bank, and 70 per cent. in Gaza were living below the income poverty line in early 2007. According to the Palestinian Central Bureau of Statistics, unemployment in the second quarter of 2007 was 23 per cent. in the West Bank, and 32 per cent. in Gaza. More recent data reflecting the deteriorating situation in Gaza since June 2007 are not available. While poverty and unemployment levels have both increased, the situation would be far worse without international assistance. During 2006, aid from DFID and other donors helped to slow the decline in gross domestic product from a predicted fall of 27 per cent. to 10 per cent.

The UN Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs (OCHA) provides humanitarian updates at www.ochaopt.org. DFID plans to conduct a humanitarian assessment in Gaza in coordination with the UN.

Sudan: Peace Negotiations

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what recent assessment he has made of the effectiveness of the Comprehensive Peace Agreement in Sudan; and if he will make a statement. [169107]

Meg Munn: I have been asked to reply.

The Comprehensive Peace Agreement (CPA) has ensured nearly three years of largely peaceful relations between North and South Sudan after over two decades of civil war. Many provisions of the CPA have been implemented, allowing several important power and wealth sharing measures to be put in place.

The withdrawal of the Sudan People's Liberation Movement (SPLM) from the Government of National Unity on 11 October was partly due to the SPLM's concern that some aspects of the CPA needed to be addressed, including full re-deployment of troops, resolution of the Abyei boundary and greater transparency in distribution of oil wealth. We are urging both sides to enter dialogue on these issues and allow full implementation of the CPA.

Sudan: Peacekeeping Operations

Mr. Andrew Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what representations the Government have made to NATO on logistical support for the UN-African Union force in Darfur, Sudan. [169112]

Meg Munn: I have been asked to reply.

The UN Department for Peacekeeping Operations (DPKO), in consultation with the African Union, is generating the UN-African Union hybrid peacekeeping force in Darfur (UNAMID) through negotiations with individual countries rather than multilateral institutions. We have not made representations to the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation (NATO) on logistical support for UNAMID.

In 2005 the African Union requested NATO's assistance for the African Union peacekeeping mission (AMIS) in Darfur. Since July 2005, NATO has coordinated strategic airlift for AMIS. NATO will continue this support until the transition from AMIS to UNAMID on 31 December 2007. Working with NATO, we continue to fund specific AMIS troop rotation airlifts.

Mr. Andrew Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what assessment he has made of the likelihood that the UN-African Union force will be able to deploy in full strength in Darfur, Sudan by January 2008. [169114]

Meg Munn: I have been asked to reply.

Under the terms of UN Security Council Resolution 1769, the UN-African Union hybrid peacekeeping force in Darfur (UNAMID) is due to assume authority from the current African Union Mission in Sudan, no later than 31 December 2007

"... with a view to achieving full operational capability and force strength as soon as possible thereafter".

The UN Under-Secretary-General for Peacekeeping Operations, Jean-Marie Guéhenno, told the UN Security Council on 27 November that there are continuing shortfalls in ground transport and helicopter contributions for UNAMID. We are working closely with the UN Department of Peacekeeping Operations (DPKO) to fill the shortfalls. Deployment will also depend on co-operation by the Government of Sudan. We continue to press the DPKO, the African Union and the Government of Sudan, for a prompt and effective deployment of the UNAMID force.

Mr. Andrew Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what air and ground transport capacity the Government (a) have provided and (b) plan to provide to the UN-African Union force in Darfur, Sudan. [169115]

Meg Munn: I have been asked to reply.

We have paid for troop rotation airlifts for the African Union (AU) Mission in Sudan which will become part of the UN-AU force in Darfur (UNAMID). We support the UN Department of Peacekeeping Operations' efforts to provide helicopters and ground transportation for UNAMID.

UN Convention on the Law of Non-Navigational Uses of International Watercourses

Mr. Godsiff: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development when the UK is to ratify the UN Convention on the Law of Non-Navigational Uses of International Watercourses. [169298]

Mr. Thomas: As the United Kingdom (UK) never signed the Convention, and since the time for signing the Convention is closed, the process now would be for accession rather than ratification.

The UK has no immediate plans to accede to the 1997 United Nations (UN) Convention on the Law of Non-Navigational Uses of International Watercourses. Only 16 countries have ratified the Convention, whereas 35 countries are required for the Convention to enter into force. The Department for International Development (DFID) is currently reviewing the international development benefits of accession, and as part of this is seeking views from foreign Governments, NGOs and academics.

DFID is supporting transboundary water processes in the Middle East, and in Africa through the Nile Basin Initiative. These demonstrate the value of practical approaches to transboundary cooperation on water that yield significant benefits. In neither case is accession to the Convention considered necessary for our support of these processes.

JUSTICE

Departmental Illegal Immigrants

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many illegal immigrants were discovered working for his Department and its agencies in the last year for which figures are available. [170508]

Maria Eagle: One member of staff within HM Courts Service (HMCS) was dismissed with immediate effect on the grounds of being an illegal immigrant. The individual concerned provided the Department with false documentation including a false passport.

The Prison Service does not hold a central record of any such individuals. To provide this information, all establishments and sections would be required to check their records and to do so would incur a disproportionate cost.

Neither the Office for Criminal Justice Reform (OCJR), the National Offender Management Service (NOMS) nor other agencies within my Department have discovered any illegal immigrants working for them.

Departmental Publicity

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how much has been spent by his Department on advertising in the last 12 months. [167952]

Maria Eagle: Since 23 November 2006 my Department has spent the following on advertising;

Ministry of Justice HQ: £103,000

A magistrates recruitment campaign to promote recruitment to the lay magistracy.

Her Majesty's Courts Service: £20,837

'Operation payback' to target court fine defaulters.

Since 23 November 2006: My Department has also spent the following on recruitment advertising.

Ministry of Justice HQ: £528,650

Office for Criminal Justice Reform: £50,000

National Offender Management Service including HM Probation Service: £264,000

HM Prisons Service: £238,000

General recruitment is not centrally managed in HM Prisons Service. To obtain figures would be disproportionate to cost. Current recruitment advertising is taking place in the South Central region to recruit 500 prison officers. The advertising spend is as shown.

End of Custody Licence Scheme

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisoners transferred from a Northern Ireland prison to a prison in England and Wales have qualified for early release under the End of Custody Licence scheme. [170459]

Mr. Hanson: Of the 11 prisoners transferred from Northern Ireland to England and Wales since 2000 to serve their sentences under the provisions of the Crime and Disorder Act 1997, none has been released under the End of Custody Licence (ECL) scheme.

Eight of the 11 prisoners were released from custody before the ECL scheme was introduced and three remain in custody.

Prisoners transferred from Northern Ireland to serve their sentences in England and Wales may be released on ECL provided they meet the eligibility criteria.

Legal Services Commission: Internet

Mr. Bellingham: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) for what reasons the Legal Services Commission Online was suspended indefinitely on 17 November 2007; and if he will make a statement; [170509]

(2) when he expects Legal Services Commission Online to become operational again; [170511]

(3) how much has been spent on Legal Services Commission Online; and how much has been allocated to the service for each of the next three years. [170513]

Maria Eagle: The new LSC Online service is part of an e-business application, which will enable the Legal Services Commission and its providers to achieve efficiencies through increased electronic working. Although the system was tested prior to implementation, it was only when it was loaded with live data that extensive problems became apparent. As a consequence, on 19 November the LSC took the decision to close LSC Online until further notice.

The LSC is working hard with its technical partners Oracle and Steria to resolve these problems as soon as possible. In the meantime, alternative arrangements have been put in place to ensure that December's payments to suppliers are unaffected.

LSC Online is part of the Commission's new supplier management system, a fundamental overhaul of the way its IT systems operate. The cost of this overhaul is £2.2 million in 2006-07, and £2.7million in 2007-08, the end of the implementation process. The expected costs for ongoing maintenance and support of the whole supplier management system is £860,000 in each of the next three years.

Office of the Information Commissioner: Finance

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice pursuant to the answer of 27 November 2007 from the Secretary of State for Justice, Official Report, columns 303-4W, on the Office of the Information Commissioner: finance, how much his Department agreed for the Information Commissioner to retain under section 26 of the Data Protection Act 1998 in each of the last three years. [170428]

Mr. Wills: With the approval of HM Treasury, the Information Commissioner has retained all the notification fees collected from data controllers since 2005-06. The figures retained in this period have been as follows:

| | £ million |
|---|---|
| 2005-06: | 9.6 |
| 2006-07: | 10.2 |
| 2007-08: | [1]10.6 |

[1] Forecast

Prior to this date, his responsibilities for data protection and freedom of information were both funded by a grant in aid.

Police Custody

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice on how many occasions prisoners were housed in police stations in each of the last six months due to prison overcrowding; and what additional funding has been provided to the police forces providing prison services. [170465]

Mr. Hanson: The following table shows the occasions prisoners have been held under Operation Safeguard in England and Wales in each of the last six months.[1]

| 2007 | Occasions[1] |
|---|---|
| June | 9,121 |
| July | 747 |
| August | 4,575 |
| September | 6,820 |
| October | 8,598 |
| November | 6,830 |

[1] One occasion means one prisoner night in a police cell.

The police forces involved charge NOMS for the cost of making police cells available to accommodate prisoners.

Prisons: Mobile Phones

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many mobile telephones were seized in prisons in England and Wales in each of the last 12 months. [170463]

Maria Eagle: Prison establishments are required to send all seized mobile telephones to HMPS Security Group for interrogation. The following table contains the number of mobile phones (which includes handsets, handsets containing SIM cards, and individual SIM cards) seized and sent for interrogation in each month from 1 October 2006 to 30 September 2007.

| Month | Total number submitted for interrogation |
|---|---|
| October 2006 | 230 |
| November 2006 | 249 |
| December 2006 | 178 |
| January 2007 | 310 |
| February 2007 | 330 |
| March 2007 | 240 |
| April 2007 | 272 |
| May 2007 | 400 |
| June 2007 | 302 |
| July 2007 | 334 |
| August 2007 | 333 |
| September 2007 | 295 |
| Total | 3,473 |

Wymott Prison: Occupational Health

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice for what reasons a staff notice was issued to prison officers at HMP Wymott on the wearing of tie pins. [170862]

Maria Eagle: The notice to staff at HMP Wymott, reminding staff of existing Prison Service policy on wearing tie pins with uniform, was issued in response to the circulation of a new tie pin by the POA which commemorated the unlawful strike action taken by prison officers on 29 August 2007. Prison Service policy is that wearing a tie pin of this political nature on uniform would be incompatible with the Service's role.

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice for what reasons prison staff from HMP Wymott have been sent for Atos occupational health appointments; how many have been sent to such appointments in the last six months; and what the cost of these appointments has been. [170863]

Maria Eagle: In the last six months since 1 June 2007, 109 members of staff have been referred to the OH provider (Atos Healthcare) in accordance with PSO 8403, Management of Attendance Procedures. 31 members of staff have been referred to the occupational health nurse (Atos) for supportive reasons—where it has been felt after discussion between the staff member and the manager that referral to occupational health may be of benefit and support to the individual for a variety of reasons. 308 members of staff have been through the immunisation programme (provided by Atos) since April 2007.

The costs of referrals are commercial in confidence.

Young Offenders: Injuries

Dr. Vis: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what injuries were incurred by boys held in (a) Ashford, (b) Brinsford and (c) Castington Young Offenders Institution following use of control and restraint in each month in (i) 2006 and (ii) 2007. [167802]

Maria Eagle: The information for Ashfield, Brinsford and Castington is set out in the following table and relates to the period until the end of October 2007. The collation of this statistical data commenced at Brinsford in January 2007 and is not available prior to this date. It should be noted that Castington record the incidents in some detail and that the incidents marked with an asterisks were subsequent to fights between young people, and that it is likely that the injuries were sustained in the fights rather than during restraint. The incidents are recorded nonetheless.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Carbon Sequestration: Licensing

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions he has had with Cabinet colleagues on the licensing for future offshore carbon capture and storage facilities; and if he will make a statement. [170893]

Mr. Woolas: The Government will bring forward proposals relating to the licensing of offshore carbon capture and storage facilities as part of the Energy Bill, which will be introduced in this parliamentary session.

Coastal Areas

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he expects to publish the Integrated Coastal Zone Management Strategy; and if he will make a statement. [170894]

Jonathan Shaw: DEFRA undertook a public consultation in 2006 seeking views on how to promote an integrated approach to coastal zone management in England. We published a summary of responses to that consultation in June 2007.

Responses to that consultation, and also that on the Marine Bill White Paper, emphasised the important contribution that new legislation could make to improving integration in coastal areas. DEFRA is, therefore, currently focusing on developing effective Marine Bill proposals as a key element of our strategy, and we are working to publish a draft Bill in the spring of 2008.

I intend to publish a statement in the summer of 2008 about how the Marine Bill and other work across Government Departments will contribute to our strategy on integrated coastal zone management, and will then consider what further action may need to be taken after that time.

Each of the devolved Administrations are taking forward their own approaches, although we are working closely together to share ideas.

Coral: Lyme Bay

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) when he plans to introduce measures to protect the pink sea fan colonies of Lyme Bay; and if he will make a statement; [170914]

(2) when he expects to make a long term decision on protecting the biodiversity of Lyme Bay; and if he will make a statement. [170946]

Jonathan Shaw: Voluntary measures to protect the pink sea fan colonies at Lyme Bay were agreed on 24 August 2006 and these are still in place. Public consultation is under way (until 21 December 2007) to consider whether further measures are necessary to protect biodiversity at Lyme Bay more generally. Following this consultation a decision will be made in the new year as to the protection measures necessary at Lyme Bay.

Crabs: Conservation

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will make a statement on brown crab conservation. [170916]

Jonathan Shaw: Conservation of brown crab stocks is achieved currently through a restrictive national shellfish licensing scheme which limits the number of vessels allowed to participate in the fishery, through EU and national minimum landing sizes (which vary from region to region) and through strict limits on the quantities of crab claws that may be landed. There are also a range of measures applied by different Sea Fisheries Committees such as permit schemes, a prohibition on the landing of egg-bearing female crabs, seasonal closures and the incorporation of escape gaps in crab pots to allow undersized crabs to escape.

In response to industry concerns about increasing levels of effort in brown crab fisheries, DEFRA circulated a discussion paper on a range of potential management measures in late 2006. DEFRA is considering the way forward in the light of responses to the discussion paper, which revealed no consensus on possible additional measures but tended towards support for an EU or regional solution.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate he has made of brown crab stocks in the UK; and if he will make a statement. [170917]

Jonathan Shaw: Assessments of brown crab stocks are made by Government scientists at the Centre for Environment, Fisheries and Aquaculture Science. Stocks are managed at both national and Sea Fisheries Committee level. Stocks appear to be stable at the moment but most brown crab grounds available to fisheries are known and fully utilised. The stocks are assessed in six "stock management units" defined as sea areas in England and Wales. Major crab fisheries exist in the Central North Sea, Southern North Sea, and Western Channel, while smaller crab fisheries exist in the Eastern Channel, Celtic Sea, and Irish Sea. Most crab fisheries tend to be heavily exploited and it would be inadvisable for fishing effort to increase beyond current levels. Females predominate in landings but there is no evidence of reduced levels of recruitment.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions he has had with (a) the devolved administrations and (b) the EU on brown crab conservation; and if he will make a statement. [170918]

Jonathan Shaw: DEFRA has regular contact with devolved Administrations on shellfish conservation in the course of general exchanges, and formally include them in consultations where the conservation of brown crabs is concerned. Should strategic developments in brown crab conservation measures be considered by any of the Administrations there are open channels in which reciprocal impacts on neighbour's fisheries can be considered. No recent discussions have taken place with the EU on this issue.

Departmental Sustainable Development

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether his Department expects to meet the commitment in the Sustainable Operations on the Government Estate targets (a) to source at least 10 per cent. of its electricity from renewables by 31 March 2008 and (b) to increase recycling figures to 40 per cent. of waste by 2010. [167808]

Joan Ruddock: The Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs has already met the commitment in the Sustainable Operations on the Government Estate targets to (a) source 10 per cent. of its electricity from renewables by 31 March 2008 and (b) to increase recycling figures to 40 per cent. of waste by 2010.

Currently, 63 per cent. of electricity is sourced from renewables and 55 per cent. of waste is recycled.

European Fisheries Fund

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) when the consultation on the UK Operational Programme for the European Union Fisheries Fund will begin; and if he will make a statement; [170762]

(2) what consideration he has given to using the dispute resolution procedures set out in the devolution agreements to finalise the UK Operational Programme for fisheries; for what reasons he has not already used them; whether he plans to use them; whether he has set a deadline for the devolved administrations for reaching an agreement before using them; and if he will make a statement; [170763]

(3) whether he is required to hold a consultation on the UK Operational Programme for the European Fisheries Fund before he submits the Programme to the European Commission for approval; and if he will make a statement. [170765]

Jonathan Shaw: We aim to consult with fishermen, the aquaculture sector and other key stakeholders on the draft UK Operational Programme in early 2008. This will be a 12 week consultation.

Agreement has now been reached between all UK Fisheries Ministers regarding the division of the UK European Fisheries Fund budget and, as such, there is no dispute for which it would be necessary to use the dispute resolution procedures set out in the devolution agreements. DEFRA officials are working with their counterparts in the devolved Administrations to complete the UK Operational Programme, in order to enable the consultation to take place.

Under the terms of the relevant EC Regulation (1198/2006), it is a requirement that a member state shall draw up its Operational Programme in close consultation with the regional, local, economic and social partners in the fisheries sector and all other appropriate bodies.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) pursuant to the answer of 21 November 2007, Official Report, columns 864-65W, on the European Fisheries Fund, up to what percentage the European Commission can propose a cut in the UK's European Fisheries Fund budget; and if he will make a statement; [170764]

(2) what discussions he has had with the European Commission on the penalties that could be imposed by the European Commission for late submission and approval of the UK Operational Programme on Fisheries; [170777]

(3) pursuant to the answer of 21 November 2007, Official Report, columns 863-64W, on the European Fisheries Fund, what assessment he has made of the effect that a reduction in the European Fisheries Fund budget for the UK would have on his Department; and if he will make a statement. [170778]

Jonathan Shaw: The European Commission has made projections for how much each member state will spend under each year of the European Fisheries Fund (EFF) programme. For the UK this is as follows:

| | Current prices in euros |
|---|---|
| 2007 | 18,825,212 |
| 2008 | 19,107,072 |
| 2009 | 19,392,676 |
| 2010 | 19,682,062 |
| 2011 | 19,975,266 |
| 2012 | 20,272,325 |
| 2013 | 20,573,276 |

In the event that Operational Programmes (OPs) are not approved by the Commission by the end of 2007, the Commission could, in principle:

(a) propose to the European Council and Parliament that funds (that is, the amount of projected spend for 2007) be transferred to later years of the programme; or

(b) propose a cut in the EFF budget, in effect reducing the UK budget (by the amount of projected spend for 2007).

All member states have experienced delays in implementing the programme. Until the UK OP has been approved, the UK cannot spend EFF funds and therefore spending will not match the Commission's projections. The Commission may therefore propose either of the aforementioned courses of action. I will support any Commission proposal and seek the necessary EU Council and Parliament agreement which would result in the 2007 allocation being carried forward.

No assessment has be made of the effect that a reduction in the EFF budget for the UK would have on the Department, because it is not yet clear that any reduction will be imposed.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the answer of 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 864W, on the European Fisheries Fund, which EU member states (a) have and (b) have not submitted their Operational Programmes on fisheries to the European Commission for approval; which have had their Operational Programmes approved; and if he will make a statement. [170766]

Jonathan Shaw: Information regarding which EU member states have and have not submitted their European Fisheries Fund (EFF) Operational Programmes to the European Commission for approval, is not available.

Of those programmes already submitted to the Commission, I understand the Commission is aiming to have the majority approved by the end of the year. I understand that Finland is the only EU member state to have had their EFF Operational Programme approved by the Commission to date.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether the UK National Strategic Plan for Fisheries in relation to the European Fisheries Fund for the period January 2007 to December 2013 has been submitted to the European Commission; what the deadline was for (a) submitting it to the Commission and (b) Commission approval; what penalties could be imposed for submission being made after the deadline has passed; and if he will make a statement. [170776]

Jonathan Shaw: The UK National Strategic Plan (NSP) for Fisheries, in relation to the European Fisheries Fund (2007-13), has not yet been submitted to the European Commission. DEFRA officials are working closely with those from the devolved administrations to finalise the NSP and I plan to submit it to the Commission by the end of the year.

The relevant EC Regulation (1198/2006) states that the NSP shall be submitted to the Commission, at the latest, when submitting the Operational Programme. The NSP does not require approval by the Commission but shall be the subject of a dialogue between the member state and the Commission. Failure to submit an NSP results in the Commission being unable to approve an Operational Programme.

Eutrophication

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what research he has commissioned on the eutrophication of UK waters; and if he will make a statement. [170935]

Jonathan Shaw: The eutrophication status of UK waters is reviewed at four year intervals by the Environment Agency (England and Wales), the Scottish Environment Protection Agency (Scotland) and the Environment and Heritage Service (Northern Ireland) as required by the Nitrate and Urban Waste Water Treatment Directives.

UK coastal and marine waters are also reviewed by the Centre for Environment, Fisheries and Aquaculture Science (CEFAS), the Scottish Environment Protection Agency and the Environment and Heritage Service for the Convention on the Prevention of Pollution of the Environment of the North East Atlantic (OSPAR Convention).

The last of these was conducted in 2002, with a further OSPAR review being completed this spring. Information on DEFRA sponsored eutrophication research is available on the DEFRA website.

Fisheries

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he plans to establish a fisheries marine protected area; and if he will make a statement. [170915]

Jonathan Shaw: Provided that the science clearly justifies them, DEFRA supports the concept of Marine Protected Areas (MPAs) closed to fishing, both for sustainable management of fish stocks and for ecological reasons relating to species and habitats. The usefulness of protected areas as a fisheries conservation measure has to be evaluated in each individual case taking into account factors such as the biology of the stocks, character of the fishery, and other fisheries management measures already in place. It is recognised that there may be displacement of fishing effort from protected areas and these effects must also be managed.

DEFRA commissioned a number of reports in order to help clarify the potential role of MPAs when applied to fisheries management. These are available on the DEFRA website.

DEFRA intends to develop criteria for the selection of Marine Protected areas and then use those criteria to contribute to the development of an integrated approach to their designation and management, including the examination of the potential for fisheries conservation.

Fisheries: Enforcement

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will make a statement on the effectiveness of aerial surveillance in support of fisheries enforcement. [170904]

Jonathan Shaw: Aerial surveillance supports fisheries enforcement, in that aircraft are tasked for some 1,000 hours (2006-07) to undertake monitoring of fisheries activity in English and Welsh waters. Tasking and monthly profiling of the aircraft patrols are directed from the operations room at the Marine and Fisheries Agency headquarters in London.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much was spent by the Government on aerial surveillance in relation to fisheries protection in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [170905]

Jonathan Shaw: Aerial surveillance in relation to marine fisheries protection in the waters around England and Wales is undertaken by private contractors hired by the Marine and Fisheries Agency. The cost to the Marine and Fisheries Agency (Sea Fisheries Inspectorate prior to 1 October 2005) of these activities is given in the table as follows.

| Financial year | Cost (£000) |
|---|---|
| 1999-2000 | 2,128 |
| 2000-01 | 2,343 |
| 2001-02 | 2,378 |
| 2002-03 | 2,460 |
| 2003-04 | 2,331 |
| 2004-05 | 2,639 |
| 2005-06 | 2,056 |
| 2006-07 | 1,910 |

Figures for the periods before 1999-2000 are no longer readily available in the Department's accounting records.

Aerial surveillance in respect of the waters around Scotland is undertaken by the Scottish Fisheries Protection Agency, on behalf of the Scottish Executive, and is not funded by the Department.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will make a statement on the arrangements with Direct Flight Ltd. to provide aerial surveillance in relation to fisheries protection. [170906]

Jonathan Shaw: Marine and Fisheries Agency staff provide advance operational tasking and are then in daily operational contact with the pilot and ground staff when aircraft are tasked. DirectFlight are contracted to provide this coverage until March 2009. No decisions as to future coverage have yet been made.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many miles of aerial surveillance were provided in relation to fisheries enforcement in each month since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [170907]

Jonathan Shaw: Aircraft do not provide mileage of either distance flown or actual sea covered as often they have to over-fly targets to confirm identification or ascertain vessel activity. I have arranged for copies of a table, containing information on the number of on-task hours provided each month since 1997, to be placed in the Libraries of the House. It can be assumed that the aircraft fly at approximately 150 knots when on task.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many on-board inspections of (a) UK and (b) foreign fishing vessels were undertaken in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [170932]

Jonathan Shaw: A table which includes all relevant detail recorded by the Marine and Fisheries Agency from 1997, indicating vessel nationalities and inspected at sea, has been placed in the Libraries of the House.

Fisheries: Quotas

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions he has had with the Inshore Fisheries Working Group on quota management; and if he will make a statement. [170902]

Jonathan Shaw: I have not had any discussions with the Inshore Fisheries Working Group on quota management. However, I have had several meetings with inshore fishermen, both in London and around the coast, and quota management was a key topic of discussion at these meetings.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) when he expects to put forward proposals on reforming quota management that are agreed with the devolved administrations; and if he will make a statement; [170903]

(2) if he will make a statement on the Quota Management Change Programme; [170936]

(3) when he expects the Quota Management Change Programme to present proposals to improve the amount of quota available to the inshore fleet; and if he will make a statement; [170937]

(4) what discussions he has had with his counterparts in the devolved administrations about the Quota Management Change Programme; and if he will make a statement. [170938]

Jonathan Shaw: With regard to the current position on the Quota Management Change Programme (QMCP) and quota management reform, I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 865W.

The issue was briefly discussed at a meeting of Fisheries Ministers from DEFRA and the devolved Administrations which was held in Peterhead on 5 October. No decisions were reached on the question of separate quota management arrangements for Scotland, and no formal proposals have yet been put to DEFRA.

In the light of the Scottish Executive's withdrawal from the QMCP, DEFRA officials are currently developing options to improve the current management arrangements for the under 10 m fleet. I expect to make an announcement on this matter soon.

Fishing Vessels: Decommissioning

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) how many vessels he expects to be decommissioned under the provisions of the Decommissioning of Fishing Vessels Scheme 2007, S.I., 2007, No. 312; and if he will make a statement; [170941]

(2) how much he expects to be spent on decommissioning vessels with reference to the Decommissioning of Fishing Vessels Scheme 2007, S.I., 2007, No. 312; what will happen to the remaining monies; and if he will make a statement; [170943]

(3) how many vessels were considered for decommissioning with reference to the Decommissioning of Fishing Vessels Scheme 2007, S.I., 2007, No. 312; and if he will make a statement. [170944]

Jonathan Shaw: Bids were received from 26 vessels eligible under the 2007 decommissioning scheme.

Eight vessels have been decommissioned at a cost of £4,737,500. £5 million was allocated to the scheme. Allocating money to a ninth vessel would have exceeded the £5 million. Remaining monies were available for reallocation under the Financial Instrument for Fisheries Guidance programme.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what total tonnage is being decommissioned with reference to the Decommissioning of Fishing Vessels Scheme 2007, S.I., 2007, No. 312; what proportion this is of (a) the total tonnage of vessels in the South West and (b) the total tonnage of vessels in the South West that have quota for Western Channel sole; and if he will make a statement. [170942]

Jonathan Shaw: The total tonnage decommissioned under the 2007 decommissioning scheme is 1,578 gross tonnes.

The tonnage from South West vessels (that is, those with their port of administration in Brixham, Newlyn or Plymouth) decommissioned under the scheme is 1,275 gross tonnes. This represents (a) 5 per cent. of the total gross tonnage of all registered vessels in the South West and (b) 18 per cent. of the total gross tonnage of all vessels in the South West that have quota for Western Channel sole.

In addition, the tonnage from two Shoreham vessels decommissioned under the scheme is 303 gross tonnes.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment he has made of the effect on jobs that the decommissioning scheme will have with reference to the Decommissioning of Fishing Vessels Scheme 2007, S.I., 2007, No. 312; and if he will make a statement. [170945]

Jonathan Shaw: No assessment was made of the effect that the 2007 decommissioning scheme might have on jobs because it is for individual vessel owners to decide how they conduct their business, and how they address their own situation with regard to their employees.

Flood Control: Finance

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) what plans he has to assess the appropriateness of the points scoring system which determines what areas have priority for funding for flood defence measures; [170418]

(2) what recent discussions he has had with the Environment Agency on the point scoring system for funding of flood defence measures; [170419]

(3) what safeguards are in place to ensure that rural areas receive sufficient funding for flood defence measures under the point scoring system for funding of flood defence measures. [170420]

Mr. Woolas: Following public consultation, new outcome measures for flood and coastal erosion risk management have been developed to set out more clearly what the overall programme should deliver.

The consultation also included a range of approaches to prioritisation for funding for flood defence measures. We are now working with the Environment Agency to develop an effective prioritisation process for the capital programme to deliver outcome measures in future years. We expect the revised prioritisation system to be introduced during the comprehensive spending review period.

As part of the economic assessment for flood risk management projects, the benefits are compared to cost so the crucial measurement is on benefits per unit cost and not on the absolute benefit of proposals. This ensures smaller (perhaps rural) projects are considered on an equal footing to larger (perhaps urban) ones.

While there is no clear bias against rural projects on the availability of funding, projects are more likely to go ahead in higher populated areas as these will tend to protect larger numbers of people or higher asset values for a given cost.

Genetically Modified Organisms

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions he has had with the United States Department of Agriculture on genetically modified organisms. [170364]

Mr. Woolas: We have not had any discussions with the US Department of Agriculture on genetically modified organisms.

Home Energy Efficiency Scheme: Fees and Charges

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many complaints he has received from recipients of warm front vouchers alleging that contractors have asked them to pay administration fees; and if he will make a statement. [169831]

Mr. Woolas: Since the £300 voucher rebate scheme started in 2006, eaga plc has received three complaints.

Inland Waterways: Repairs and Maintenance

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment has been made of the effect of proposed funding reductions for inland waterways on future maintenance and safety of canals. [170520]

Jonathan Shaw: I refer the hon. Member to the reply given on 3 December 2007, Official Report, column 741W.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent representations he has received on an application for provision of additional funding for inland waterways. [170521]

Jonathan Shaw: I receive correspondence from a wide range of stakeholders regarding funding for the inland waterways. DEFRA sponsors the three largest navigation authorities—British Waterways, the Environment Agency and the Broads Authority.

The formal comprehensive spending review settlement for 2008-09 to 2010-11 for Departments has been announced. This will now be followed by DEFRA's own financial allocation process which is based on careful prioritisation across the Department and all its sponsored bodies. We are actively engaging delivery partners in this, but most final allocations, including those for the Environment Agency and British Waterways, will not be known until the new year after further discussions within DEFRA.

Lobsters: Conservation

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will make a statement on lobster conservation. [170919]

Jonathan Shaw: Conservation of lobster stocks is achieved currently through a restrictive national shellfish licensing scheme which limits the number of vessels allowed to participate in the fishery. There are also local Sea Fisheries Committee (SFC) permit schemes, an EU minimum landing size, a national prohibition on the landing of v-notched or mutilated lobsters. A range of measures are also applied through SFCs, such as higher local minimum landing sizes, a prohibition on the landing of egg bearing (berried) female lobsters, the release of hatchery-reared juvenile lobsters into the wild, and escape gaps to allow undersized lobsters a route out of lobster pots.

In response to industry concern about conservation in the major lobster fisheries, DEFRA has consulted on an increase in the minimum landing size, and on the introduction of a maximum landing size. DEFRA is considering a way forward in the light of responses to the consultation which revealed divided views amongst stakeholders.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate he has made of lobster stocks in the UK; and if he will make a statement. [170920]

Jonathan Shaw: Lobster fisheries are assessed by Government scientists at the Centre for Environment, Fisheries and Aquaculture Science and by some Sea Fisheries Committees. The fisheries are predominantly inshore, and known grounds are fully utilised. Assessments show that, while catch rates are stable or increasing and recruitment has recently been good, the stocks are heavily exploited tending towards overfishing. Expansion of the fishery is not recommended, and further conservation measures may be necessary.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions he has had with (a) the devolved administrations and (b) the EU on lobster conservation; and if he will make a statement. [170921]

Jonathan Shaw: DEFRA has regular contact with devolved administrations on shellfish conservation in the course of general exchanges, and formally include them in consultations where conservation of lobsters is concerned. Should strategic developments in lobster conservation measures be considered by any of the administrations there are open channels through which reciprocal impacts on neighbour's fisheries can be considered. No recent discussions have taken place with the EU on this issue.

Marine Animals

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs which marine species in UK waters are in decline; and if he will make a statement. [170888]

Jonathan Shaw: Around 6,000 marine species from UK waters (not including overseas territories) were recently assessed under a scientifically-reviewed process to decide which species should be placed on the Biodiversity Action Plan list for the UK. Criterion 3 of this assessment was for those species with a marked decline; i.e. those which have declined by 50 per cent. or more over the past 25 years. The decline may be in relation to population abundance, range or number of occupied sites. Where insufficient data exist, shorter time series have been extrapolated. 16 species were selected using this criterion:

| | Species |
|---|---|
| Ammodytes marinus | Lesser sandeel |
| Amphianthus dohrnii | Sea-fan anemone |
| Anotrichium barbatum | Red alga |
| Atrina fragilis | Fan mussel |

| | Species |
|---|---|
| Cetorhinus maximus | Basking shark |
| Clavopsella navis | Brackish hydroid |
| Edwardsia timida | Burrowing anemone |
| Haliclystus auricula | Stalked jellyfish |
| Leptopsammia pruvoti | Sunset cup coral |
| Lucernariopsis campanulata | Stalked jellyfish |
| Lucernariopsis cruxmelitensis | Stalked jellyfish |
| Merlangius merlangus | Whiting |
| Merluccius merluccius | European hake |
| Osmerus eperlanus | Smelt |
| Ostrea edulis | Native oyster |
| Scomber scombrus | Atlantic mackerel |

Marine Biodiversity Liaison Group

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what he expects to be the membership composition of the Marine Biodiversity Liaison Group; and if he will make a statement. [170886]

Jonathan Shaw: I am not aware of any group called the Marine Biodiversity Liaison Group. However, DEFRA has set up a Marine Biodiversity Stakeholder Group which provides a forum for discussion between DEFRA and its stakeholders. The group's purpose is to provide governmental and non-governmental stakeholders with periodic updates of progress on marine biodiversity policy; all present are given the opportunity to ask questions and contribute to policy development.

Membership of the group is broad and flexible and includes representatives from: Government, the devolved administrations, Government agencies, non-government organisations (for example, the Wildlife Trusts), academic organisations (for example, the Marine Biological Association), marine industry sectors (such as the British Ports Association) and marine recreational sectors (for example the Royal Yachting Association).

Planning Permission

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many new developments went ahead against Environment Agency advice in 2006-07. [169853]

Mr. Woolas: In 2006-07, 110 planning applications were granted against Environment Agency advice. It is not known how many of these proposals have been implemented, as planning permission remains valid for a period of three years before commencement is required.

In this period, local planning authorities reported back to the Agency on the outcome of its objections in 57 per cent. of cases. Only 4 per cent. of these decisions went against the Agency's advice.

Seas and Oceans: Environment Protection

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs which sites he has designated marine protection areas; and if he will make a statement. [170889]

Jonathan Shaw: A range of current legislative measures provide protection to important marine species and habitats at key sites. We currently have 151 marine protected areas in UK inshore waters (within 12 nautical miles), which include:

72 special protections areas with marine habitats for birds;

76 special areas of conservation with marine habitats or species, and three statutory marine nature reserves.

The following list provides the names of these sites.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he expects to bring forward a Marine Bill. [170927]

Jonathan Shaw: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 868W.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he expects the Marine Strategy Directive to be implemented. [170929]

Jonathan Shaw: The Marine Strategy Directive is currently being negotiated. Implementation will consist of:

(i) transposition

(ii) an initial assessment of the current state of the marine environment

(iii) determination of the characteristics of good environmental status

(iv) the establishment of environmental targets and monitoring programmes, and

(v) the identification and implementation of measures to achieve good environmental status.

The target dates for each of these steps are still being negotiated.

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when the Government intends to extend the protected areas of UK seas with marine reserves, as proposed in the draft Marine Bill. [171202]

Jonathan Shaw: The proposed Marine Bill will provide the necessary mechanisms to complete our network of marine protected areas (adding to our European sites), by allowing Marine Conservation Zones to be designated for features of national importance.

Our nature conservation agencies are developing a scientific rationale for selecting sites and the design principles for a network of marine protected areas. We are keen to complete the network as soon as possible and have received a commitment from Natural England to enable a designated network of sites by 2012.

Trapping

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what his policy is on the use of snares. [171221]

Joan Ruddock: The Government consider that where there is a need for wildlife management then the proper use of snares is one of a range of control methods. Used according to best practice, snares can be an effective and practical means of wildlife management and are needed where other forms of pest control are ineffective or impractical.

The Government are committed to working to improve the legal use of snares. In 2005 DEFRA published its 'Snares Action Plan' and the 'Code of Good Practice on the use of Snares in Fox and Rabbit Control in England'. The DEFRA Code of Good Practice details the legal obligations for people using snares in England and emphasises the importance of weighing the possible risks to the welfare of wildlife against the need to capture pest animals. People choosing to use snares should be aware not only of their responsibilities under the law but also of these guidelines for good practice.

Water

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will rationalise the structure of those bodies responsible for surface water. [169854]

Mr. Woolas: The Government are currently examining approaches to the management of surface water drainage. As part of the upcoming Government Water Strategy, Future Water, due to be published early in 2008, we will review the institutional arrangements for those bodies responsible for surface water. This work will take on board recommendations from Sir Michael Pitt's interim report on the summer's flooding due shortly and the 15 pilot projects we are funding to identify improvements to the management of urban drainage.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Benefits

Mr. Waterson: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) how many people between the ages of (a) 18 to 25, (b) 25 to 45 and (c) 45 to 65 received incapacity benefit by cheque or benefit book in the latest period for which figures are available; [170528]

(2) how many people between the ages of (a) 18 to 25, (b) 25 to 45 and (c) 45 to 65 received jobseeker's allowance payments by cheque or benefit book in the latest period for which figures are available. [170530]

Mr. Plaskitt: The following table shows the number of people between the ages of (a) 18 to 24 (b) 25 to 44 and (c) 45 to 64 who receive incapacity benefit and jobseeker's allowance payments by cheque.

Benefit books were phased out during 2003 to 2005 under the Payment Modernisation Programme. Direct Payment is now the normal method of payment, and 98 per cent. of our customers are paid this way.

| Recipients paid by cheque | Age 18 to 24 | Age 25 to 44 | Age 45 to 64 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Incapacity benefit | 2,690 | 12,480 | 14,230 |
| Jobseeker's allowance | 24,000 | 25,740 | 6,920 |

Notes:
1. Figures are rounded to the nearest 10.
2. Figures are taken from the latest available data at 27 October 2007.
3. Figures only relate to accounts live and in payment in Great Britain on the specified date.
4. Incapacity benefit recipients include those receiving passported incapacity benefit (PIB).

Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission: Public Appointments

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what costs his Department incurred in recruiting the Chair designate of the Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission. [169096]

Mr. Plaskitt: I refer the hon. Member to my written statement of 25 July 2007, Official Report, column 87WS. The breakdown of recruitment costs for individual posts is commercially confidential.

Child Support

Tony Lloyd: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what progress has been made in introducing the new child support system; and when the system will apply to all the Child Support Agency's clients. [168919]

Mr. Plaskitt: The first concrete steps in implementing our reforms have been taken, in the appointment of the Chair designate Janet Paraskeva, and in the announcement at the pre-Budget report of increases to the child maintenance disregard to £20 a week by the end of next year, and to £40 a week from April 2010.

We set out the expected timetable for transition to the new system in the child maintenance White Paper "A new system of child maintenance" box 3.1 on page 54.

The transfer of cases into a single system is expected to start in 2010-11 and take around three years. In 2012-13, all clients will be on a single set of rules managed by a single organisation.

Child Support Agency

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many uncleared applications are outstanding under the Child Support Agency's operational improvement plan. [167259]

Mr. Plaskitt: The administration of the Child Support Agency is a matter for the Chief Executive. He will write to the hon. Member.

Letter from Stephen Geraghty, dated 5 December 2007:

In reply to your recent Parliamentary Question about the Child Support Agency, the Secretary of State promised a substantive reply from the Chief Executive.

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, how many uncleared applications were outstanding under the Operational Improvement Plan.

The Agency has made significant progress in improving its service to clients and particularly in reducing the number of uncleared applications. In March 2005 there were a total of 319,000 uncleared applications, 226,000 of which were new scheme applications. At the end of September, at the halfway point of the Operational Improvement Plan, the Agency had reduced the number of uncleared applications to 162,000 of which 128,000 were new scheme applications.

Further information can be found in Table 2.1 of the Child Support Agency Quarterly Summary of Statistics, a copy of which can be found in the House of Commons library or at the following link:

www.dwp.gov.uk/asd/asd1/child_support/csa_quarterly_sep07.asp

I hope you find this answer helpful

Child Support Agency: Complaints

Mr. Chope: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions when he expects the Child Support Agency (CSA) to implement the request by the Independent Case Examiner that the CSA should forward papers relating to the complaint by Mrs. Burton-Mortimer of Ferndown under ICE Ref No. CSA01227/07; and what the reason is for the time taken to respond to this request. [168218]

Mr. Plaskitt [holding answer 26 November 2007]: The administration of the Child Support Agency is the matter for the Chief Executive. He will write to the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Stephen Geraghty, dated 5 December 2007:

In reply to your recent Parliamentary Question about the Child Support Agency, the Secretary of State promised a substantive reply from the Chief Executive.

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, when the Child Support Agency (CSA) will implement the request by the Independent Case Examiner that the CSA should forward papers relating to the complaint by Mrs. Burton-Mortimer of Ferndown under ICE Ref No. CSA01227/07; and what the reason is for the time taken to respond to this request. [168218]

As details about individual cases are confidential. I have written to you separately about this case.

Child Support Agency: ICT

Mr. Marsden: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what planned expenditure is for new information technology systems and support for the Child Maintenance and Enforcements Commission in the first year of its operation. [166358]

Mr. Plaskitt: The information is not available as the Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission's expenditure on IT is commercially sensitive.

Children: Maintenance

Mr. Marsden: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate his Department has made of the number of people who were being dealt with by the Child Support Agency (CSA) but have made voluntary financial agreements and are no longer being dealt with by the CSA in the last five years. [166353]

Mr. Plaskitt: The administration of the Child Support Agency is a matter for the chief executive. He will write to the hon. Member.

Letter from Stephen Geraghty, dated 5 December 2007:

In reply to your Parliamentary Question about the Child Support Agency, the Secretary of State promised a substantive reply from the Chief Executive.

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, what estimate his Department has made of the number of people who were being dealt with by the Child Support Agency (CSA) but have made voluntary financial agreements and are no longer being dealt with by the CSA in the last five years. [166353]

Information on the number of cases with Maintenance Direct as their preferred method of collection is provided in the attached table. These cases have been initially assessed by the Child Support Agency and both parents have come to an agreement that maintenance payments will be made directly without the further involvement of the Agency. These cases are still recorded by the Agency, and if their arrangement is not successful they may return to the Agency to have money collected via the Agency's Collection Service.

In addition, some child maintenance applications may have been cancelled or withdrawn as a result of both parents coming to their own arrangements. The reason for a case being cancelled or withdrawn is not held on the Agency's management information, and therefore we cannot provide figures on the number of these cases which go on to make their own voluntary financial arrangement.

It is also possible for parents with care who are not receiving benefit to come to their own arrangement without informing the Agency, meaning they are not recorded as Maintenance Direct cases. The most recent estimate is that there are currently around 500,000 voluntary arrangements in place that are made without any involvement of the Child Support Agency.

I hope you find this answer helpful.

Number of cases where maintenance is due and Maintenance Direct is the preferred method of collection

| Month | Maintenance Direct Cases |
|---|---|
| September 2003 | 89,100 |
| September 2004 | 86,800 |
| September 2005 | 101,700 |
| September 2006 | 125,200 |
| September 2007 | 144,600 |

Notes:
[1]Includes all cases where maintenance is due and preferred method of collection is Maintenance Direct.
[2]Figures are rounded to nearest 100.

Credit Unions

Mr. Todd: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions which credit unions received funding from the Growth Fund in the last round of such funding. [166011]

Mr. Plaskitt: The following organisations received funding in the latest Growth Fund procurement exercise. Since the Growth Fund began over 100 organisations have been contracted to deliver the Growth Fund affordable lending service.

| Organisation | Location |
|---|---|
| 1st Alliance Credit Union | Kilwinning, Ayrshire |
| 6 Towns Credit Union | West Bromwich, West Midlands |
| BACUP Credit Union in conjunction with sub contractor: | Bacup Lancashire |
| HHH Credit Union | Rossendale, Lancashire |
| Derby Loans Group Community Development Finance Institution | Rosehill Business Park Derby |
| Derwent & Solway Housing Association (DRAMA) in conjunction with sub contractors: | Workington Cumbria |
| Cleator Moor Credit Union | Cleator Moor |

| Unify Credit Union | Wigan, Greater Manchester |

Departmental Vetting

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions pursuant to the Prime Minister's answer of 14 November 2007, on the immigration status of employees, what steps his Department has taken to establish the immigration status of its employees since the Security Industry Authority wrote to employers in August on security clearance. [166102]

Mrs. McGuire: The Department for Work and Pensions applies baseline security checks, which include a nationality and immigration status check, to all employees on entry to this Department. The checks form part of our standard recruitment process and are applied to all permanent, fixed term and casual employees.

Disability Living Allowance

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) under what circumstances elderly people who have received duplicate payments of disability living allowance and attendance allowance are not required to repay the overpayments; [166819]

(2) what mechanisms will be used to determine whether elderly people who have incorrectly received duplicate payments of disability living allowance and attendance allowance knew they were being overpaid; [166820]

(3) what estimate he has made of the number of elderly people from whom duplicate payments of disability living allowance and attendance allowance will be recovered; and what value of duplicate payments is expected to be recovered; [166821]

(4) what means will be used to recover duplicate payments of disability living allowance and attendance allowance from elderly people. [166822]

Mr. Plaskitt: The details of these overpayments were set out in the statement to the House on 15 November 2007.

Given the circumstances of these overpayments, it is extremely unlikely that people would have clearly known that they were being overpaid. Consequently we do not anticipate that the question of recovery will arise in many cases, if at all.

Mr. Gale: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions further to the answer of 25 June 2007, Official Report, column 505W, what formula is used to calculate each of the levels of disability living allowance. [165978]

Mrs. McGuire: The levels of disability living allowance are not calculated using a formula. Entitlement is determined by reference to the extent to which a severely disabled person requires personal care or supervision and/or has walking difficulties as a result of their disability.

There are two rates of mobility component, lower and higher, and three rates of care component, lowest, middle and highest. Further information about entitlement to disability living allowance can be found on the Directgov website at www.direct.gov.uk/en/DisabledPeople/FinancialSupport/DG_10011731.

Government Equalities Office: Secondment

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many secondments of staff were made (a) to and (b) from the Government Equalities Office in each year since 1997; which organisations' staff were seconded (i) to and (ii) from; how many staff were seconded in each year; for how long each secondment lasted; and what the cost was of each secondment in each year. [168723]

Barbara Follett: The Government Equalities Office (GEO) came into existence on 26 July 2007 and became a stand alone Government Department on the 18 October 2007.

Staff transferred to the GEO from the Department of Communities and Local Government under the terms of the Transfer of Functions Order 12 October 2007. There are currently no secondments into, or out of the GEO.

Incapacity Benefits

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions pursuant to the written ministerial statement of 26 November 2007, Official Report, columns 6-8WS, on next steps to full employment, what his definition is of key out-of-work benefits. [169951]

Mr. Plaskitt: The key out-of-work benefits for people of working age are: jobseekers allowance; incapacity benefit; severe disablement allowance; income support for lone parents; pension credit for men aged 60 to 64; and other income support cases excluding carers allowance cases.

Jobseeker's Allowance

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the number of people on jobseeker's allowance who have been away from home (a) within the United Kingdom and (b) abroad without informing Jobcentre Plus in the last 12 months. [166518]

Mr. Plaskitt: Jobseeker's allowance (JSA) regulations, which govern the payment of JSA, state that to receive JSA the jobseeker must be in Great Britain. Therefore when a jobseeker goes abroad on holiday JSA is not payable, nor credit of national insurance contributions awarded, for the period they are away.

Holidays taken within Great Britain are allowed provided the jobseeker remains available and actively seeking employment for the duration of the holiday. There is however, a concession within the regulations which allows jobseekers to be treated as actively seeking employment for two weeks in a 12 month period. This needs to be agreed in advance with the Jobcentre before the holiday commences. There is no limit to the number of weeks a jobseeker can be away from home but usually if the holiday exceeds four weeks the Jobcentre would advise the jobseeker to make a claim in the area they are staying in.

Information is not available on how many people failed to notify Jobcentre Plus that they were going on holiday, either in GB or abroad.

Mr. Rooney: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) whether jobseeker's allowance regulations allow claimants to refuse a job offer if they are unable to find suitable affordable child care; [170278]

(2) whether jobseeker's allowance claimants are exempt from available and actively seeking work requirements (a) during school holidays, (b) during periods of a child's exclusion from school and (c) when a child is sick and unable to attend school. [170281]

Mr. Plaskitt [holding answer 3 December 2007]: Jobseekers allowance regulations do not allow for the refusal of a job offer by a claimant who is unable to find suitable affordable child care as a prescribed reason.

All jobseekers must be available and actively seeking work to receive jobseeker's allowance. There are easements in regulations that allow for caring responsibilities. These include: changing their pattern of availability during school holidays; limiting availability to a minimum of 16 hours and; being treated as available and actively seeking work if there is a domestic emergency. Each case is judged on its own merit and all the available evidence is considered in reaching a decision.

The impact of these measures and how they can best be tailored to lone parents were considered in our Green Paper "In work, better off: next steps to full employment" and in the subsequent consultation on its proposals. We will be responding to these in our White Paper response.

Jobseeker's Allowance: Industrial Disputes

Mr. Waterson: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the number of people who receive (a) jobseeker's allowance and (b) incapacity benefits who would be affected by proposed strikes within his Department. [170532]

Mr. Plaskitt: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus, Lesley Strathie. I have asked her to provide the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Lesley Strathie, dated 5 December 2007:

The Secretary of State for Work and Pensions has asked me to reply direct to your question on the number of people receiving (a) Jobseekers Allowance (JSA) and (b) Incapacity Benefits (IB) who would be affected by the proposed strikes within his Department. This is something which falls within the responsibilities delegated to me as Chief executive of Jobcentre Plus.

Jobcentre Plus has robust and proven contingency arrangements in place for continued service to our customers, during periods of industrial action.

I hope this is helpful.

National Insurance: Foreign Workers

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will institute procedures so that foreign workers have to register with the worker registration scheme before they are issued with a national insurance number. [164063]

Mr. Plaskitt [holding answer 13 November 2007]: The Workers Registration Scheme (WRS) was introduced to monitor the impact of A8 migration on the UK labour market. It does not extend to people from the A2 nations or other foreign nationals.

We have no plans to institute procedures so that foreign workers have to register with the WRS before they are issued with a national insurance number (NINO).

NINOs are only issued to foreign workers coming to work in the UK who can prove that they have a right to do so. Many NINO applicants with a legitimate right to work choose to apply for a NINO before starting work—and are able to prove their right to do so using Home Office specified documentary evidence. Early provision of a NINO can facilitate the prompt deduction and recording of tax and national insurance contributions and is advantageous to both the employer and employee.

WRS registration can only take place after an A8 worker finds employment. So, whilst some A8 nationals do register on the WRS before applying for a NINO, it is not a pre-condition to the allocation of a NINO.

Older Workers

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what his most recent estimate is of the percentage of economically active people aged between 50 years and state pension age who (a) have a health problem and are educated to degree level or higher, (b) have a health problem and are educated to GCSE or A-Level, (c) have a health problem and have other or no qualifications, (d) do not have a health problem and are educated to degree level or higher, (e) who do not have a health problem and are educated to GCSE or A Level and (f) who do not have a health problem and who have other or no qualifications. [165078]

Mrs. McGuire: The information is in the following table.

Proportion of economically active people, aged 50-state pension age, broken down by education attainment and whether they have a long-term health problem

Percentage

| | Health problem lasting more than 12 months | No health problem lasting more than 12 months |
|---|---|---|
| Degree or higher | 10.0 | 20.3 |
| GCSE or A level | 14.5 | 25.6 |
| Other or no qualification | 11.8 | 17.8 |

The Labour Force Survey is a sample survey covering over 53,000 households in the United Kingdom. As with any sample survey, estimates from the Labour Force Survey are subject to a margin of uncertainty.

Social Security Benefits

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the percentage of people aged between 50 and 69 years who were claiming (a) jobseeker's allowance, (b) new deal 50 plus and (c) new deal 25 plus in (i) spring 2001, (ii) spring 2002, (iii) spring 2003, (iv) spring 2004, (v) spring 2005, (vi) spring 2006 and (vii) spring 2007, broken down by gender. [165079]

Caroline Flint: Jobseeker's allowance can be claimed only up to the age of 65 by men and up to the age of 60 by women.

The available information on the percentage of people claiming jobseeker's allowance (JSA) as a proportion of the working age population aged between 50 and state pension age, broken down by gender, in the requested time series, is in the following table.

Percentage of people aged 50 to state pension age who were jobseeker's allowance (JSA) claimants

| Month ending May: | All | Male | Female |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2001 | 1.8 | 2.3 | 1.1 |
| 2002 | 1.8 | 2.3 | 1.1 |
| 2003 | 1.8 | 2.3 | 1.1 |
| 2004 | 1.6 | 2.1 | 1.0 |

New deal 25 plus and new deal 50 plus are employment programmes to support people into work, not something which people claim.

People aged 25-59 claiming JSA or national insurance credits for 18 out of last 21 months are mandated to all aspects of new deal 25 plus. Men aged between 60 and state pension age who have been claiming JSA or national insurance (NI) credits for 18 out of the last 21 months are only required to attend the Gateway stage of new deal 25 plus but can volunteer for other aspects of the programme.

A woman cannot be mandated to new deal 25 plus beyond the current female state pension age. Prior to the 1 June 2007, people aged 50 plus who had been claiming JSA or NI credits were mandated to the Gateway stage only of new deal 25 plus. Disadvantaged customers may have early entry to new deal 25 plus at the discretion of their new deal adviser.

New deal 50 plus is a voluntary programme for people who have been claiming a qualifying benefit for at least six months. The programme is also open to those whose partner has been claiming an increase in benefit for them for at least six months.

The available information on the percentage of participants on new deal 25 plus and new deal 50 plus as a proportion of the working age population aged between 50 and state pension age, broken down by gender, in the requested time series, is in the following table.

Percentage of people aged 50 to state pensions age who were new deal 25 plus and new deal 50 plus participants

| | New deal 25 plus | | | New deal 50 plus | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|

Dr. Cable: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the rate of increase was of (a) the basic state pension, (b) jobseeker's allowance and (c) incapacity benefit in each year since 1997. [166573]

Mr. Plaskitt: The answer is in the following table.

Rate of increase in the basic state pension, jobseeker's allowance and incapacity benefit 1997-2007

| | Percentage increase over previous rate | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| | Basic state pension | Jobseeker's allowance | Incapacity benefit |

Social Security Benefits: Chronically Sick

Mary Creagh: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will assess the merits of providing financial support to terminally ill people without an estate, next of kin or life insurance to allow them to make personal arrangements for their funerals. [169379]

Mr. Plaskitt: The Department does not provide financial support to people to assist them in making arrangements for their own funerals. The purpose of the funeral payment scheme is to assist the person who has taken responsibility for arranging the funeral where the person who has died has not made provision. Although the scheme is kept under review there are no plans to make fundamental changes to the Funeral Payments scheme to provide financial assistance to people for arranging their own funeral.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

Africa: Peacekeeping Operations

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 22 November 2007, Official Report, column 1035W, on Africa: peacekeeping operations, when the UN Department for Peacekeeping Operations will complete its pre-deployment assessment for the UN-African Union peacekeeping mission to Darfur. [169909]

Meg Munn: The Department of Peacekeeping Operations (DPKO) is carrying out pre-deployment assessment visits in November and December to countries that have offered troops. We understand that the visits will be completed by 5 December and that the DPKO will prepare reports for further consultation with the countries concerned.

Bosnia: Embassies

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what plans there are for the Office of High Representative in Bosnia-Herzegovina to be closed and its responsibilities and authorities, including the Bonn powers, to be fully transferred to the EU and exercised through the EUSR. [170325]

David Miliband: The Peace Implementation Committee (PIC) Steering Board, of which the UK is a member, has stated that the Office of the High Representative (OHR) in Bosnia and Herzegovina (BiH) will remain in place and continue to carry out its mandate under the Dayton Peace Agreement. While the aim of the PIC is OHR closure by 30 June 2008, this will clearly need to be reviewed in light of the situation on the ground and, in particular, whether BiH's political leaders are overcoming ethnic divisions and history to move BiH forward. The PIC will review the situation again at its meeting in February 2008.

Bosnia: Politics and Government

Mr. Francois: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of progress made in (a) (i) police, (ii) military and (iii) judicial reform, (b) disarmament, (c) refugee return, (d) human rights guarantees and (e) protection of cultural and religious monuments in Bosnia-Herzegovina since the Dayton Peace Accords in November 1995. [170774]

Mr. Jim Murphy: Over the last 12 years there has been significant progress in Bosnia and Herzegovina (BiH). There has been a transition from conflict to stability; free elections held across the country on seven occasions; over 1 million returns of refugees and internally displaced persons; membership of the Partnership For Peace; and significant defence reforms. Nonetheless, important challenges remain, including in the areas highlighted in the hon. Member's question.

BiH urgently needs to bring its policing into line with European and international standards. This is essential if the country is to establish and maintain the rule of law. The EU police mission refocused its priorities in early 2006 to concentrate on the process of police reform and building capacity to tackle organised crime. Agreement on police restructuring is a key condition for the conclusion of a Stabilisation and Association Agreement with the EU. The politicisation of the police reform issue has obstructed the work of the Directorate for Police Restructuring and thus far prevented agreement on a way forward. The UK remains closely involved in trying to facilitate cross party political agreement. Progress on judicial reform has been reasonable, but implementation of a National Justice Sector Reform Strategy remains a priority. Defence reform is progressing well.

BiH continues to make mixed progress on human rights. There is still a need to resolve outstanding issues from the 1992-95 conflict and ensure the sustainable return of displaced persons. BiH's co-operation with the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia improved in 2007. The Republika Srpska authorities assisted in the arrest of Zdravko Tolimir (one of the six high-profile indictees who remained at large at the start of 2007, wanted for genocide, war crimes and crimes against humanity) in May 2007. BiH has established a State Commission for the Preservation of National monuments. The UK supported the building of a memorial room near the site of the Srebrenica massacre, which opened in July 2007. We hope this will serve as a moving memorial to the victims.

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the (a) political and (b) security situation in Bosnia-Herzegovina. [171233]

David Miliband [holding answer 4 December 2007]: We have been concerned over the recent deterioration of the political situation in Bosnia and Herzegovina (BiH) and in particular the increased level of ethnic nationalistic political rhetoric. We are urging politicians from all sides to ensure the efficient operation of state institutions and to take forward reforms which are necessary for BiH and its EU perspective. We fully support High Representative Lajcak and have also been urging all parties to uphold their obligations to respect and implement his decisions. Despite recent political tensions the security situation within BiH remains stable.

British Overseas Territories: Nature Conservation

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps the Government intends to take to attempt to increase the number of critically endangered animal species in UK Overseas Territories. [171208]

Meg Munn: The Government recognise the importance of protecting endangered species in the Overseas Territories and is working with the Overseas Territories to achieve this, through funding for programmes and projects and the provision of technical support.

There are a number of Government funded programmes that contribute to the protection of endangered species in the Overseas Territories. Programmes include:

The Overseas Territories Environment Programme (OTEP), a joint Foreign and Commonwealth Office and Department for International Development funded programme, makes available approximately £1 million a year to assist the Overseas Territories with the implementation of their Environment Charters. The Charters include a list of commitments agreed by the Government and individual Overseas Territory governments to support sustainable use of environmental resources in the Overseas Territories. Among these are the protection and restoration of key habitats and species and support for general environmental management including protection of endangered species. OTEP has funded a feasibility study on Tristan da Cunha and Gough Island on the eradication of rodents to safeguard the Albatross and the Gough Bunting. The results of the study are expected in March 2008. Funding has also been provided this year to produce a management plan for Steeple Jason Island in the Falkland Islands aimed at better management and protection of Albatross and Petrels from outside influences including visitors and non-native invasive plants and animals.

The Darwin Initiative is a Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (DEFRA) funded programme that contributes to the conservation and sustainable use of the world's biodiversity, including protection of endangered species. UK experts work with local communities and organisations to help countries rich in biodiversity but who, through lack of resources, are unable to meet their obligations under the UN Convention on Biological Diversity. The Initiative has funded 13 projects totalling around £1.5 million in the Overseas Territories since it was launched in 1992. Projects have included the Montserrat Centre Hills and the Cayman Island "In Ivan's Wake" projects to put in place measures and legislation to protect and safeguard their native flora and fauna and endangered species.

DEFRA also pay an annual subscription of £36,000 to the Agreement for the Conservation of Albatross and Petrels (ACAP) Secretariat. DEFRA has also agreed to co-fund, with OTEP and the Joint Nature Conservation Committee, the establishment of an ACAP Co-ordinator for the Falkland Islands and the South Atlantic Overseas Territories. The co-ordinator will be responsible for ensuring up to date information concerning Albatross and Petrel populations in the South Atlantic Overseas Territories is fed into the ACAP Secretariat for dissemination to other interested parties.

The Flagship Species Fund, administered by Fauna and Flora International, an international conservation charity supported by DEFRA has made approximately £100,000 a year available since 2002 to provide practical support for the conservation of endangered species and their habitats in developing countries, including in the Overseas Territories. The Flagship Species Fund provided £21,800 to support a project to eradicate rodents on Eagle Island in the British Indian Ocean Territory to safeguard native birds and turtles. DEFRA has allocated £75,000 to the Flagship Species Fund for 2008-09.

Cuba: Politics and Government

Mr. Boris Johnson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent assessment his Department has made of the (a) level of corruption, (b) human rights situation and (c) government policy on homosexuality in Cuba. [169818]

Meg Munn: Our assessment reveals that respect for human rights falls far below international standards. Of particular concern to us are the high numbers of political prisoners, violation of civil, political and economic rights and continued government repression of dissidents. Further information on our views of the human rights situation can be found in the Foreign and Commonwealth Office's annual human rights report. A copy of the most recent report can be found in the Library of the House.

Transparency International rated Cuba 10 out of 32 in the Americas in its 2007 corruption survey. The Cuban government is aware of the risks of corruption and take active measures to counter it. The Government supports this aim and indeed a Government representative attended an international anti-corruption conference in Havana in November 2007.

Our assessment of Cuban government policy on homosexuality is positive overall. The Cuban National Center for Sex Education is a government funded body which advocates tolerance of lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender issues on the island and which has recently proposed legislation on some of these issues.

Democratic Republic of Congo: Politics and Government

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions on security and long-term stability took place at the recent meeting in Washington of the Great Lakes Contact Group. [169903]

Meg Munn: The International Contact Group on the Great Lakes met on 16 November. Topics for discussion included: the international community's response to the communiqué signed in Nairobi on 9 November by the Governments of the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC) and Rwanda and support for those countries in fulfilling their commitments; strategies to defeat the armed groups operating in eastern DRC; the renewal of the mandate for the UN peacekeeping force; security sector reform in DRC; and the UN arms embargo on DRC. All of these issues directly affect security and stability in the Great Lakes region.

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps the Government are taking in co-operation with their EU partners to prevent an escalation of conflict in the Great Lakes region of the Democratic Republic of Congo following the ACP-EU joint parliamentary meeting earlier this month. [169904]

Meg Munn: The UK and our partners have regularly urged the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC) and Rwanda to find a political solution to the conflict in eastern DRC. The EU's special representative was involved in the negotiations which led to the joint DRC-Rwandan communiqué signed in Nairobi on 9 November, a potentially important step towards peace in the region. The DRC has agreed to produce a detailed plan of action for both countries to follow on 1 December. We, and our international partners, will encourage them to fulfil the commitments they make.

The African, Caribbean and pacific-EU joint parliamentary meeting resulted in a resolution urging that those guilty of atrocities in eastern DRC be held to account for their actions. EU ambassadors have recently lobbied the DRC Minster for Foreign Affairs to ask for proceedings relating to the death of the human rights defender Serge Maheshe to resume. The EU also leads a project to promote reform of the security sector in DRC. One of its aims is to improve discipline and accountability among members of the armed forces. The UK is active on the issue of sexual violence in DRC, and staff from our Embassy and the Department for International Development office in Kinshasá have lobbied the government and carried out other initiatives targeted at this problem, including work to promote justice and reduce impunity.

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the security situation in the North Kivu

Province of the Democratic Republic of Congo; and if he will make a statement. [169905]

Meg Munn: The Government are gravely concerned at the situation in North Kivu, which has severe humanitarian consequences, hinders development and has the potential to undermine peace and stability in the region. It has led to around 375,000 people being displaced since December 2006 and a widespread problem of brutal sexual violence and other atrocities.

The UK is committed to finding a lasting solution to the violence. My noble Friend the Minister for Africa, Asia and the UN, Lord Malloch-Brown, and other Ministers have spoken with President Kabila recently, urging the Congolese Government to continue to look for a political solution to the problems affecting the east of the country. We are closely engaged with our international partners in efforts to bring the violence to an end.

Departmental Data Protection

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he proposes to review how his Department transports data; and whether his Department uses TNT to transport data. [169215]

Mr. Rob Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many breaches of the Data Protection Act 1998 requiring investigation there have been in the last five years in his Department; what the nature of such breaches were; and what the results of the investigations were in each case. [169258]

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many confirmed data security breaches there have been in his Department in the last 36 months; and what action was taken after each occurrence. [170253]

Meg Munn: I refer the hon. Members to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Departmental Visits Abroad

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how much his Department spent on overnight accommodation for Ministers overseas in the last year. [171341]

Meg Munn: Details of the cost of overseas travel, including the cost of travel and accommodation are contained in the "Overseas Travel by Cabinet Ministers" list. The latest list for the period 1 April 2006 to 31 March 2007 was published on 25 July 2007. Details for the 2007-08 financial year will be published as soon as possible after the end of the financial year. All travel is made in accordance with the Ministerial Code.

Embassies

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether it is his policy that the Office of the High Representative and the related Bonn powers should continue in their present form beyond June 2008. [170328]

David Miliband: The Peace Implementation Committee (PIC) Steering Board, of which the UK is a member, has stated that the Office of the High Representative (OHR) in Bosnia and Herzegovina (BiH) will remain in place and continue to carry out its mandate under the Dayton Peace Agreement. While the aim of the PIC is OHR closure by 30 June 2008, this will clearly need to be reviewed in light of the situation on the ground and, in particular, whether BiH's political leaders are overcoming ethnic divisions and history to move BiH forward. The PIC will review the situation again at its meeting in February 2008.

Entry Clearances

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the effect of removing the requirement for interviews by entry clearance officers of visa applicants on UK security; and if he will make a statement. [169119]

Meg Munn: There has never been a requirement to interview all visa applicants. The entry clearance officer may call an applicant for an interview based on a risk assessment of the case. All applications are subject to rigorous scrutiny based on risk profiling, document verification and the use of information, to give us a robust control.

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many complaints his Department has received about the visa application services provided by Worldbridge Services. [169330]

Meg Munn: The following table displays the total number of complaints recorded by UKvisas, on their Overseas Complaints Register, about the visa application services provided by WorldBridge Services from 1 July to 30 September 2007 (the first Visa Application Centres provided by WorldBridge Services commenced operations on 1 July 2007).

| Visa Application Centres (VACs) | Complaints |
|---|---|
| Algiers | 0 |
| Amman | 0 |
| Belgrade | 0 |
| Cairo (includes a micro VAC in Alexandria) | 1 |
| Dusseldorf (includes micro VACs in Berlin and Munich) | 29 |
| Geneva (includes a micro VAC in Zurich) | 8 |
| Kingston | 3 |
| Paris (includes micro VACs in Bordeaux and Marseille) | 3 |
| Rome | 4 |
| Rio de Janeiro (includes micro VACs in Sao Paulo and Brasilia) | 0 |

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the (a) target time and (b) average time was for the processing of visa applications provided by Worldbridge Services in the latest period for which figures are available. [169331]

Meg Munn: The UKvisas commercial partner, WorldBridge Services, is required to process all visa applications submitted to their visa application centres (VACs) on the day of receipt. WorldBridge Services must then deliver these applications to UK visa sections overnight, between close of play on the day of receipt and the opening for business of the UK visa sections the following working day. WorldBridge Services are meeting this contractual commitment 99 per cent. of the time.

The average time WorldBridge Services takes to collect the required biometrics from an applicant at one of their VACs and to process their application is 48 minutes. The average time taken for the whole visa application process for applicants using a VAC administered by WorldBridge Services is 5.6 days. This starts from the time the applicant books an appointment at the VAC to the return of their documents once their application has been assessed.

European Union: Defence

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his policy is on a defence capabilities charter for the EU. [169466]

Mr. Jim Murphy: As my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary said in the House on 20 November 2007, Official Report, column 1096W our objective is to enhance the separate defence capabilities of European nations. We are therefore encouraging partners to develop the deployable, interoperable and sustainable forces required for current and likely future operations. These capabilities would be available for, and enhance, collective multilateral crisis interventions, including those delivered through the EU, the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation or the UN.

Gabon: Diplomatic Service

Mark Pritchard: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will appoint a UK Honorary Consul to Gabon in order to (a) represent UK interests and (b) provide consular services. [169856]

Meg Munn: The UK's Honorary Consul to Gabon, David Harwood, has been in post since May 1996. (Further details are available on the website for our High Commission in Yaounde: www.briteam.org).

Honorary Consuls are primarily appointed to help provide an accessible and responsive service to British nationals abroad, particularly in difficult to reach locations. They provide information and assistance to British nationals who get into difficulties overseas and can play a commercial role, depending on local circumstances, their expertise and the requirements of the High Commissioner.

Gaza: Airports

Mr. Hands: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions he had on the Yasser Arafat International Airport in the Gaza Strip on his recent visit to the Middle East. [169418]

Meg Munn: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary did not discuss the Yasser Arafat International Airport during his recent visit to Israel, the Occupied Palestinian Territories and Egypt from 17-20 November.

Under the UK presidency, the EU led in negotiations with the parties and US Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice, to agree the Agreement on Movement and Access which was signed by Israel and the Palestinian Authority in November 2005. Discussions on the airport form part of the agreement which has stalled following the election of Hamas in January 2006. The Government continue to call on both the Israelis and the Palestinians to implement the agreement.

At this difficult time in Gaza the urgent priorities are to ensure sufficient and regular supplies to meet the basic needs of Gaza's 1.4 million people and to re-open external trade. However, in the longer term, establishing reliable access to the outside world will be essential for sustainable economic development, poverty reduction and a viable Palestinian state.

Gaza: Overseas Aid

Mr. Andrew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps he plans to take to try to increase the amount of UN humanitarian aid in food and medicines being made available to the people of Gaza. [170723]

Dr. Howells: The Government remain deeply concerned by the humanitarian situation in Gaza. My right hon. Friends the Foreign Secretary and the Secretary of State for International Development made a statement on 30 October detailing our concerns. The full text of the statement can be found at:

http://www.fco.gov.uk/servlet/Front?pagename=OpenMarket/Xcelerate/ShowPage&c=Page&cid=1007029391629&a=KArticle&aid=1193597605085&year=2007&month=2007-10-01

There is a pressing need to overcome the obstacles to re-opening Gaza's crossings, for humanitarian goods, trade and people. The UN Secretary-General is focussed on this issue and we are supporting his efforts. The EU has called

"on all parties to work towards an opening of the crossings in and out of Gaza".

My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary discussed the humanitarian situation in Gaza with the Israeli Foreign Minister, Tzipi Livni, during his 17-20 November visit to the region.

Mr. Andrew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps he has taken to press for more people, food and medicines to be enabled on humanitarian grounds to pass through the crossing points out of and into Gaza. [170724]

Dr. Howells: I refer my right hon. Friend to the answer I gave him today (UIN 170723).

Government Hospitality Advisory Committee for the Purchase of Wine

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the operating costs were of the Government Hospitality Advisory Committee for the Purchase of Wine in 2006-07; and how many full-time equivalent staff support the committee. [171453]

Meg Munn: The operating costs of the Government Hospitality Advisory Committee for the Purchase of Wine amounted to approximately £8,024 for financial year 2006-07. One Foreign and Commonwealth Office official, the Head of Government Hospitality, is Secretary to the Committee, spending approximately 10 to 15 per cent. of their time on support for the Committee and managing the Government cellar.

Illegal Immigrants

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many illegal immigrants have been discovered working for his Department and its agencies in the last year for which figures are available. [170507]

Meg Munn: There are no cases of which we are aware of illegal immigrants who have been discovered working for the Foreign and Commonwealth Office in the last year. There is one individual currently being investigated by the police relating to a previous period.

Indian Subcontinent: Nuclear Disarmament

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs in what forum he expects to discuss a framework for nuclear disarmament with (a) India, (b) Pakistan and (c) Israel; and if he will make a statement. [169362]

Meg Munn: The United Kingdom discusses nuclear disarmament with India, Pakistan and Israel in various fora, including the Conference for Disarmament in Geneva and at the UN. We also attach great importance to the universalisation of the nuclear non-proliferation treaty and continue to call on all three states to join the treaty as non-nuclear weapon states.

Iran: Human Rights

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent assessment he has made of Iran's human rights record, with particular reference to the treatment of lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender people; and if he will hold discussions with his international counterparts to seek an end to persecution on the grounds of sexuality in Iran. [170287]

Dr. Howells: I am deeply concerned by Iran's deteriorating human rights record. On 20 November, in a powerful demonstration of international concern, the UN General Assembly's Third Committee voted in favour of a resolution—co-sponsored by the EU—expressing deep concern at the human rights situation in Iran. We remain concerned about the treatment of all minority groups in Iran, including discrimination on the grounds of sexual orientation. Homosexuality is illegal by law and the death penalty remains on the books for consenting same sex relations, but we are not aware of any executions for this in recent years. However, the situation for transgender individuals is more positive: Iran has the second highest number of sex-change operations in the world and government grants are available for operations and hormone therapy.

Disappointingly, Iran has persistently refused to engage in a human rights dialogue with the EU and has failed to address international concerns about human rights in Iran. But we continue to work hard with international partners to urge Iran to fulfil its human rights commitments and to improve their human rights record.

Iraq: Foreign Workers

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 15 November 2007, Official Report, column 363W, on Iraq: foreign workers, how many third country nationals are eligible to receive a package of financial payment to aid resettlement; and if he will make a statement. [169578]

Dr. Howells: Third country nationals are not eligible for any of the forms of assistance set out in my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary's written ministerial statement of 30 October 2007, Official Report, columns 30-33WS which are offered to Iraqi nationals only.

Israel: Travel Restrictions

Mr. Andrew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has made to the government of Israel on their refusal last month of permission to Raji Sourani, Director of the Palestinian Centre for Human Rights, to travel to meet Tony Blair. [170722]

Dr. Howells: The Government have made no representation to the Government of Israel on this issue. We have repeatedly raised our concerns about movement and access with the Government of Israel. My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary raised this issue on his recent visit to Israel and the Occupied Palestinian Territories on 17 and 19 November.

Kosovo

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent representations he has made to his Serbian counterpart on statements by Prime Minister Kostunica linking a Kosovo settlement to the future of the entity of Republika Sprska. [170326]

David Miliband: I discussed regional security issues, including Kosovo, with my Serbian counterpart in London on 5 December. Our ambassador in Belgrade, together with representatives of the Embassies of the United States, France, Germany and Italy, met with the Serb Foreign Minister Jeremic to register our concern about the statements made by Prime Minister Kostunica linking a Kosovo settlement to the future of the Republika Sprska. We, along with other EU and North Atlantic Treaty Organisation countries, have made it clear to the Serbian authorities that such statements are not conducive to stability in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Sir Malcolm Rifkind: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs which provisions of UN Resolution 1244 on Kosovo permit the formation of an independent Kosovo. [170409]

Meg Munn: UN Security Council Resolution 1244 leaves Kosovo within Serbia pending the outcome of a political process to determine Kosovo's final status. The nature of that outcome is not constrained in any way by Security Council Resolution 1244.

Languages

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many of his staff are receiving language training under the new outsourcing arrangement after the closure of his Department's Diplomatic Service Language Centre on 2 October, broken down by language taught. [170322]

David Miliband: The new outsourcing arrangement came into effect on 6 November. Since then 11 Foreign and Commonwealth Office staff have been trained under the new arrangements. The details are provided as follows:

| Language | Number of staff |
|---|---|
| French | 6 |
| Thai | 1 |
| Mandarin | 2 |
| Korean | 1 |
| Japanese | 1 |

Morocco: Entry Clearances

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the target processing time is for non-straightforward visa applications for Moroccan nationals; and what the average processing time was for such applications in the last 12 months. [169576]

Meg Munn: Non-settlement visa applications are categorised as straightforward or non-straightforward. The UKvisas public service agreement (PSA) target is 90 per cent. of non-settlement applications requiring further inquiries (i.e. non-straightforward applications) to be processed within 15 working days.

The average processing time of these applications for Moroccan nationals in the last 12 months for which figures are available (October 2006 to October 2007) was eight working days.

Settlement visas are not categorised as straightforward or non-straightforward. The PSA target for these applications is assessment or interview within 12 weeks.

Russia: Elections

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many British election monitors will be in Russia to monitor the forthcoming Parliamentary elections representing (a) the Organisation for Security and Co-operation in Europe and (b) the Council of Europe; and if he will make a statement. [170447]

Mr. Jim Murphy [holding answer 3 December 2007]: There were no election monitors from the Organisation for Security and Co-operation in Europe's (OSCE) specialist election monitoring agency, the Office for Democratic Institutions and Human Rights, present during the parliamentary elections. Members of the OSCE Parliamentary Assembly did observe the election, but no British parliamentarians were among them. 51 members of the Parliamentary Assembly of the Council of Europe, including three British parliamentarians, also observed the election.

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the treatment of the opposition parties in Russia in the run up to the Russian Parliamentary elections. [170450]

Mr. Jim Murphy [holding answer 3 December 2007]: In line with the EU presidency's statement on 27 November, which expressed concern at Russia's heavy-handed action towards those taking part in rallies against the Russian Government, the Government consider that the right to peaceful protest and adherence to the rule of law are two vitally important components of any democratic process. We hope that all parties concerned will continue to bear these principles in mind in the run-up to the presidential elections.

Russia: Fascism

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what reports he has received on the prevalence of the neo-Nazi movement in Russia. [169248]

Mr. Jim Murphy: Racism and xenophobia are of growing concern in Russia. Neo-Nazi banners were displayed during the recent nationalist marches on the Day of National Unity. According to the Moscow Human Rights Bureau, more than 170 xenophobia-related attacks and conflicts were registered in the Russian Federation in the first nine months of 2007, resulting in the deaths of 51 people.

The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) supports projects worth more than £120,000, designed to address religious and ethnic discrimination in Russia, including strengthening the capacities of state officials, law enforcement officers, human rights non-governmental organisations, ethnic communities, and mass media to combat xenophobia, extremism and ethnic conflicts.

The most recent FCO annual report on human rights covers our concerns on racism and xenophobia in Russia in detail. We discussed ethnic tension and racism with the Russian Government during the most recent UK-Russia bilateral human rights consultations.

Seychelles: Capital Punishment

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions his Department has had with the Seychelles Government on the recent United Nations General Assembly resolution vote on the death penalty moratorium. [170861]

Meg Munn: In November 2007 we, through our high commission in Victoria, lobbied the Seychelles Government to support the draft resolution and act as a co-sponsor. The resolution was subsequently adopted by the UN General Assembly Third Committee on 15 November. Ultimately, the Seychelles did not act as co-sponsor, or indeed vote, and our high commissioner will take this up with the Seychelles Government.

Somalia: Politics and Government

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent assessment he has made of the political situation in Somalia, with particular regard to the length of time Ethiopian forces are expected to remain there. [170101]

Meg Munn: The appointment of new Prime Minister, Nur Hassan Hussein on 24 November has given new hope and a renewed opportunity for the Somali Government to pursue political reconciliation and a peaceful future for their country by implementing the conclusions of the National Reconciliation Congress and delivering a new constitution and elections, as part of the transitional process.

The UK will work with the Somali President and Prime Minister, the UN special representative of the Secretary-General, the International Contact Group, the European Union and the UN Security Council to help the Transitional Federal Government of Somalia to successfully deliver the transitional period.

The presence of Ethiopian troops in Somalia continues due to ongoing insurgency against the Government. Ethiopia has said that it wants to withdraw from Somalia as soon as it is possible to do so without leaving a security vacuum. The UK believes that progress on political reconciliation will improve the security situation and enable Ethiopian withdrawal to take place.

Sudan: Aviation

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of (a) the feasibility of establishing and (b) the means of enforcing a no-fly zone over Darfur, Sudan; what his policy is on the matter; and if he will make a statement. [169106]

Meg Munn: We are working with the UN Department of Peacekeeping Operations (DPKO), the African Union, the Government of Sudan and international partners for the prompt deployment of an effective UN-African Union Mission in Darfur (UNAMID) to improve stability and security in the region. This has been the priority since UN Security Council Resolution 1769 was passed on 31 July mandating the UNAMID force.

Among other activities, we hope that UNAMID will improve monitoring of military activity in Darfur. Before considering any additional measures, we would need to assess the logistical challenges of implementation and their impact on humanitarian efforts.

We welcome the recent cessation of hostilities that the Government of Sudan announced at the start of peace talks on 27 October. We are pressing all parties to sign up to a cessation of hostilities with immediate effect and to engage on the peace process.

Sudan: Law

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what reports he has received of the application of Sharia law to (a) Christians and (b) foreigners in Sudan. [170102]

Meg Munn: The Comprehensive Peace Agreement (CPA) of January 2005 stipulates that Sharia law does not apply in Southern Sudan. Under the terms of the CPA, a commission has been set up to protect the rights of non-Muslims in the national capital, Khartoum, where there is a concentration of migrants from Southern Sudan.

The UK is monitoring this issue closely because of reports that non-Muslims have been subject to arrest for not complying with Sharia law. The right to religious freedom is enshrined in the Interim National Constitution of Sudan, which came into force in 2005.

Sudan: Peace Negotiations

Mr. Andrew Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps the Government are taking to encourage rebel groups to implement a ceasefire and engage in the negotiation of a political settlement to the conflict in Darfur, Sudan. [169109]

Meg Munn: We have spoken to those rebels who attended the start of Darfur peace talks in Libya on 27 October and the representatives of the key rebel movements based in the UK making clear the importance we attach to rebel unification and participation in the political process. The UK has committed £1 million to support the African Union (AU) and UN Joint Mediation Support Team, which is currently focused on encouraging the rebel movements to unify further and agree on common platforms.

The UK welcomed the government of Sudan's announcement of a cessation of hostilities at the start of the talks, which must be extended now to rebels and honoured by all parties to the conflict. The UK is supporting the AU/UN to ensure that any new cessation of hostilities agreement can be effectively monitored on the ground. Only a political process can provide a sustainable solution to the Darfur conflict.

Sudan: Peacekeeping Operations

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps the Government are taking in co-operation with their international partners to ensure that all rebel group leaders in Darfur attend the next set of peace progress negotiations. [169902]

Meg Munn: The UK is supporting the African Union and UN-led Darfur political process. This mediation effort is currently focused on encouraging the rebel movements to unify further and agree on common platforms ahead of negotiations. Along with our international partners, including the US and France, we have pressed the rebel movements to engage fully in the political process and agree to a cessation of hostilities. We have made clear publicly and directly to the rebel movements that there will be consequences for any party that seeks to obstruct the political process.

Vietnam: Oppression

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations his Department has made to the Vietnamese Government on the arrest of more than 40 democracy activists, opposition party members and union leaders in Vietnam during the last 15 months. [170859]

Meg Munn: We are concerned at the arrest and sentencing of several peaceful human rights defenders in Vietnam who have been charged with 'conducting propaganda' against the state. We, along with our EU partners, have made numerous representations to the Vietnamese authorities on this issue.

On 15 May, the EU issued a statement expressing its concern about the current situation and calling on the Vietnamese Government to release all non-violent political activists who have simply exercised their rights to freedom of expression and association.

I raised our concerns on human rights with the Vietnamese Foreign Minister at the Association of South East Asian Nations summit in Singapore on 23 November and with the Deputy Foreign Minister during his visit to London on 29 November. Additionally, I raised the issue with the Vietnamese ambassador on 9 October and with the chargé d'affaires on 25 July. My right hon. Friend the then Minister for Trade, Investment and Foreign Affairs (Mr. McCartney) raised our concerns with the Vietnamese Vice-Minister Le Cung Phung during the EU/Association of South East Asian Nations Ministerial meeting in Nuremburg on 14-15 March. He also raised the issue with the Vietnamese ambassador on 10 May.

We will continue to raise the question of human rights defenders, along with other human rights issues, with the Vietnamese Government, including during the EU's human rights dialogue with the Vietnamese Government, which will next take place on 19 December.

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent representations his Department has made to the Vietnamese Government on the imprisonment of human rights lawyers Nguyen Van Dai and Le Thi Cong Nhan. [170860]

Meg Munn: We, along with our EU partners, have made numerous representations to the Vietnamese Government on the arrest and sentencing of lawyers Nguyen Van Dai and Le Thi Cong Nhan.

The EU conducted a démarche on the Vietnamese Ministry of Foreign Affairs on 9 March 2007, following the arrest of Nguyen Van Dai and Le Thi Cong Nhan. International representatives, including the UK, attended their trial as observers on 11 May and their appeal trial on 27 November. On 15 May, the EU issued a statement expressing its concern and calling on the Vietnamese Government to release all non-violent political activists, including Nguyen Van Dai and Le Thi Cong Nhan, who have exercised their rights to freedom of expression and association. This issue was also raised during the six-monthly EU/Vietnam human rights dialogue on 28 June.

I raised our concerns on human rights with the Vietnamese Foreign Minister at the Association of South East Asian Nations summit in Singapore on 23 November and with the Deputy Foreign Minister during his visit to London on 29 November. Additionally, I raised the issue with the Vietnamese ambassador on 9 October and with the chargé d'affaires on 25 July.

We will continue to raise the question of human rights defenders, along with other human rights issues, with the Vietnamese Government, including during the EU's human rights dialogue with the Vietnamese Government, which will next take place on 19 December.

HEALTH

Antibiotics: Hospitals

Mr. MacShane: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what benchmarking is used by his Department to establish comparative levels of usage of antibiotics in hospitals across the NHS; and if he will make a statement. [170262]

Dawn Primarolo: The Department does not hold data centrally to benchmark and compare antibiotic usage in national health service hospitals. However, the expert Advisory Committee on Antimicrobial Resistance and Healthcare Associated Infections is investigating the availability and utility of hospital prescribing data for benchmarking and other purposes.

Asthma: Research

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much the Government has allocated to research into asthma since 1997. [170095]

Dawn Primarolo: Over the last 10 years, the main part of the Department's total expenditure on health research has been devolved to and managed by national health service organisations. During this time, the Department has also funded research to support policy and to provide the evidence needed to underpin quality improvement and service development in the NHS. Total reported expenditure on asthma by research active NHS organisations and similar expenditure by the Department's national research programmes, is shown in the following table.

£ million

| | Respiratory disease, including asthma, 2 | Asthma |
|---|---|---|
| 1997-98 | n/a | 0.2 |
| 1998-99 | n/a | 0.2 |
| 1999-2000 | n/a | 0.9 |
| 2000-01 | n/a | 0.1 |
| 2001-02 | n/a | 0.6 |
| 2002-03 | 24.5 | 0.6 |
| 2003-04 | 30.7 | 0.8 |
| 2004-05 | 31.2 | 0.7 |
| 2005-06 | 32.0 | 0.4 |
| 2006-07 | 33.3 | 0.4 |

n/a = Not available

In addition, a national research and development programme on asthma management ran from 1996 to early 2004 and supported a total of 33 projects throughout the United Kingdom at a total cost of £4.9 million.

The Department funds personal award schemes to support the training of promising researchers. Since 1997 some nine awards have been made to individuals working in areas focused on, or related to, asthma at a total cost of £3.2 million.

Implementation of the Department's research strategy Best Research for Best Health has resulted in an expansion of our research programmes and in significant new funding opportunities for health research. The Guy's and St. Thomas'/Kings College London Biomedical Research Centre, formed this year, will for example undertake research on asthma and allergy and has been allocated a budget of £4.75 million over five years for that purpose. The Research for Patient Benefit programme meanwhile will fund four new projects on asthma at a cost of £0.5 million.

The Medical Research Council (MRC) is one of the main agencies through which the Government support medical and clinical research. The MRC is an independent body that receives its grant in aid from the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills.

Available MRC spend figures for research on asthma are as follows:

| | £ million |
|---|---|
| 2000-01 | 2.9 |
| 2001-02 | 3.0 |
| 2002-03 | 2.8 |
| 2003-04 | 2.8 |
| 2004-05 | 2.6 |
| 2005-06 | 2.4 |

[1]. Expenditure data were not collected centrally from NHS research active organisations prior to 2002.

[2] Research active NHS organisations' annual research and development reports identify expenditure in some 16 national priority areas, including respiratory disease. Those reports do not include separate details of expenditure on asthma research.

Note:

Earlier comparable figures are not available.

Bridlington Hospital: Cleaning Services

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he expects Bridlington hospital to receive its deep clean. [165098]

Ann Keen [holding answer 20 November 2007]: As the Prime Minister made clear, deep cleaning will occur in all hospitals, starting this winter, with resources allocated through the strategic health authorities (SHAs). All trusts will submit costed deep clean plans to their lead commissioners who will monitor performance against this plan, as per normal performance management arrangements, and SHAs will take an overview as to progress across their area. Trusts are aiming to complete all deep cleans by the end of March 2008. SHAs will be expected to report on implementation across their regions to the Department.

Childbirth

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many emergency transfers there were from (a) midwife-led maternity units and (b) home births to consultant-led units in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [165446]

Alan Keen: This information is not collected. The Department has commissioned the National Perinatal Epidemiology Unit to undertake a study entitled 'Birthplace'. This study will include data on the intended place of birth at the onset of labour and the actual place of birth. This will provide data on the number of women transferring during labour. Results of this study are expected towards the end of 2009.

Community Hospitals

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which community hospitals closed in 2007; how many are planned to close in 2008; and if he will make a statement. [171175]

Mr. Bradshaw [holding answer 4 December 2007]: Figures are not collected centrally. Decisions about the organisation of local health care services are taken at a local level. Primary care trusts are best placed to make decisions about the make-up of local hospital, community and primary care facilities. In 2006 the Government announced £750 million capital programme for new community hospitals and other community sources.

Deep Clean

Mr. Waterson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when the Eastbourne district general hospital will receive its deep clean. [165336]

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how often Queen's hospital, Romford, will be subject to a deep clean; and when the first such clean will take place. [167286]

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he expects (a) Queen Mary's hospital, Sidcup, (b) Queen Elizabeth hospital, Woolwich, (c) Darenth Valley hospital, Dartford and (d) Princess Royal hospital, Farnborough to receive deep cleans. [167478]

Ann Keen: As the Prime Minister made clear, deep cleaning will occur in all hospitals, starting this winter, with resources allocated through the strategic health authorities (SHAs). All trusts will submit costed deep clean plans to their lead commissioners who will monitor performance against this plan, as per normal performance management arrangements, and SHAs will take an overview as to progress across their area. Trusts are aiming to complete all deep cleans by the end of March 2008. SHAs will be expected to report on implementation across their regions to the Department.

Dementia

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps the Government have taken to assist the families of people with dementia since 1997. [170975]

Mr. Ivan Lewis [holding answer 4 December 2007]: Policy on older people's mental health, which includes dementia, has been developing since 1997. The publication of the "National Service Framework for Older People" in 2001, which contained a service model for dementia care, marked the first key milestone in policy development on older people's mental health. This was followed in 2005, by the publication of our service development guide, "Everybody's Business", the launch of the Let's Respect campaign in 2006, and also, in 2006, the Quality and Outcomes framework incentive which rewards general practitioner practices for maintaining a register of patients diagnosed with dementia.

The Government announced, on 6 August, the development of a new national dementia strategy, which will help to improve services for people with dementia and their families. The strategy will focus on three key themes, which are improving awareness, early diagnosis and intervention as well as improving the quality of care for people with dementia.

The first product of the Strategy work programme, "Strengthening the Involvement of People with Dementia: a resource for implementation" was published on 27 November. This toolkit is designed to support practitioners and commissioners to positively engage with people who have dementia, as well as helping people who have dementia, and their carers, to understand how they can become more involved in the planning and delivery of their care.

Drugs: Misuse

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what response he has made to the European Monitoring Centre for Drugs and Drug Addiction's 2007 Annual Report, "The State of the Drug Problems in Europe"; and if he will make a statement. [168646]

Dawn Primarolo: The Government welcomed the publication of the European Monitoring Centre on Drugs and Drug Addiction (EMCDDA) Annual Report on 22 November 2007.

They also welcome the report as an excellent example of what can be gained by European countries working in partnership in tackling the harms associated with drug misuse.

The report reflects the United Kingdom's success in increasing the numbers of people in drug treatment, with the associated benefits that follow for individuals, their families and the wider community.

In looking forward the report highlights the need for continued vigilance in particular areas, including the transmission of infectious diseases among drug users. This is an issue on which the UK is already undertaking specific programmes of work to improve the position and we are pleased that more recent data than that within the EMCDDA Report, published by the Health Protection Agency in October this year shows progress, particularly in the proportion of injecting drug users contracting HIV.

The report also refers to the outcome studies being undertaken in the UK to ensure that treatment is being delivered on the foundation of an established evidence base so that it can be as effective as possible.

Health Services: Foreigners

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many EU nationals were treated by the NHS in the last 12 months for which figures are available. [170655]

Dawn Primarolo: It is not possible to provide the information requested. Successive Governments have not required the national health service to provide statistics on the number of foreign nationals, including those from European Union member states, seen, treated or charged under the provisions of the NHS (Charges to Overseas Visitors) Regulations 1989, as amended.

Health Services: Regulation

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he proposes to take to take account of the views of the public and patients in the enhancing confidence in professional health care regulation process. [171366]

Mr. Bradshaw [holding answer 4 December 2007]: We are proposing an event specifically for patient and public representatives in new year 2008 once all of the working groups have met. The purpose of the event will be to present the programme as a whole to representatives and to seek their feedback. This is in addition to the continuing involvement of patient and public representatives in the working groups and the National Advisory Group meeting. We are also planning to increase the number of public and patient representatives at the next National Advisory Group meeting.

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the annual budget will be for the new health and social care regulator in its first year of operation. [171668]

Mr. Bradshaw: Subject to parliamentary approval of the Health and Social Care Bill, the exact budget for the new health and social care regulator, the Care Quality Commission, in its first year of operation will be confirmed next year, but will be in the region of £155 million-£160 million.

Healthcare Commission: Commission for Social Care Inspection

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the projected (a) cost and (b) timescale is for carrying out the merger of the Healthcare Commission and the Commission for Social Care Inspection. [171669]

Mr. Bradshaw: Subject to parliamentary approval of the Health and Social Care Bill, the new Care Quality Commission will be established in October 2008. The Commission for Social Care Inspection (CSCI), the Healthcare Commission (HC), and the Mental Health Act Commission will continue to carry out their functions until April 2009 when the new Commission will become operational and replace them.

The Impact Assessment for the Bill includes an estimate of £7 million for the additional cost of running the Care Quality Commission to 2009-10. As the explanatory notes to the Bill make clear there will be more substantial transition costs relating to the cost and activity reduction programme for CSCI and HC, which have been estimated to total up to £140 million and will save £60 million per annum from 2008-09.

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) redundancies and (b) early retirements have been made as a result of the merger of the Healthcare Commission and the Commission for Social Care Inspection; and how many are planned. [171670]

Mr. Bradshaw: We understand from the chairman of the Healthcare Commission that there have been no such redundancies or early retirements. We understand that the Commission for Social Care Inspection has not had any such redundancies or early retirements either. It will not be known how many, if any, reductions in staff will be required at either Commission until the new Commission decides on its staffing requirements.

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which parts of the inspection process will be merged as a result of the merger of the Healthcare Commission and the Commission for Social Care Inspection; and what the intended benefits are for patients. [171671]

Mr. Bradshaw: The detail of how the new Care Quality Commission will operate will be a matter for the new Commission when it is established, subject to passage of the Health and Social Care Bill through Parliament. Nevertheless, through legislation it is our intention to set a single and coherent set of registration requirements.

There will be a coherent approach to assessment, inspection and registration of health and adult social care services to assure people that no matter where they choose to receive the service they need, that service will meet national requirements for safety and quality.

The new Commission will take a proportionate and flexible approach to regulating different services, concentrating more of its resources on services that present the biggest risk or where patients and users are most vulnerable.

The new Commission will also carry out performance reviews of registered providers and publish the results.

Heart Diseases: Medical Treatments

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether his Department has assessed the cost effectiveness of existing technologies and approaches for treatment of end-stage heart failure in the UK; and if he will make a statement. [168316]

Ann Keen: The National Health Service Research and Development Health Technology Assessment Programme has published two independent cost-effectiveness assessments of ventricular assist devices in end-stage heart failure. "The clinical and cost effectiveness of left ventricular device assist devices for end-stage heart failure (2005)" and "The Evaluation of the Ventricular Assist Device Programme in the United Kingdom (2006)". Such devices are in use in the national heart transplant service in England.

Heart Diseases: Transplant Surgery

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what figures his Department holds on international 30-day mortality rates following heart transplants; and if he will make a statement. [168315]

Ann Keen: The Department does not hold information on international 30-day mortality rates following heart transplants. The International Registry for Heart and Lung Transplantation reports international survival data. These are available on the International Society for Heart and Lung Transplantation website at:

www.ishlt.org

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) whether his Department has recommended an upper limit for donor organ allowable ischaemic time to provide a safe time limit prospect for heart transplantation; and if he will make a statement; [168318]

(2) after what period of ischaemic time his Department recommends that a heart is rejected by surgeons for transplantation; and if he will make a statement. [168319]

Ann Keen: The Department has not issued guidance in this area. In all instances, the decision to proceed with transplantation is a clinical one and represents a careful evaluation of the risks versus the potential benefits of the procedure. Although there is no official 'safe' length of ischaemia time for donor hearts, it is generally accepted that ischaemia times should be kept under four hours wherever possible. All transplant teams are aware that longer ischaemic times can increase the risk to transplantation. For adult deceased heartbeating donor hearts offered for transplant 1 April 2004-31 March 2007, 70 per cent. of ischaemia times were four hours or less.

Hillingdon Hospital: Cleaning Services

Mr. Randall: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how often Hillingdon Hospital is expected to receive a deep clean; and when the first such clean will take place. [169692]

Ann Keen: As the Prime Minister made clear, deep cleaning will occur in all hospitals, starting this winter, with resources allocated through the strategic health authorities (SHAs). All trusts will submit costed deep clean plans to their lead commissioners who will monitor performance against this plan, as per normal performance management arrangements, and SHAs will take an overview as to progress across their area. Trusts are aiming to complete all deep cleans by the end of March 2008. SHAs will be expected to report on implementation across their regions to the Department.

Hospitals: Infectious Diseases

Anne Main: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many cases of pseudomonas infection were acquired in hospitals in each health trust in England in each year from 2002 to 2006; and if he will make a statement. [168201]

Ann Keen: The Health Protection Agency (HPA) receives reports from microbiology laboratories of cases of blood stream infections caused by pseudomonas in its voluntary reporting scheme. These bacteria can cause a range of infections from mild skin infections to urinary tract infections. They can also cause a variety of bloodstream infections, particularly in patients with serious burns and those who are severely immunosuppressed such as cancer and AIDS patients. Most infection cases are reported from intensive care, burns, spinal injuries or cancer units.

Information about whether the infection was acquired in hospital is not collected routinely.

Information is not available by acute national health service trust.

Total patient episodes[1] of Pseudomonas spp.[2] blood stream infections (bacteraemia) in England

| | Total patient episode |
|---|---|
| 2002 | 1,762 |
| 2003 | 2,292 |
| 2004 | 2,381 |
| 2005 | 2,615 |
| 2006 | 3,098 |

[1] A patient episode comprises all isolates testing positive to the organism within two weeks of original isolate date.
[2] spp refers to a range of pseudomonas micro-organisms.
Source:
HPA—LabBase 2 (provisional data 21 November 2007)

The increased rate of reporting of cases of pseudomonas is comparable to the increase seen for all blood poisoning via the HPA's voluntary surveillance scheme. The increase is partly due to better reporting, surveillance and testing and may also reflect a changing hospital population, with more patients who are vulnerable to infection through conditions which compromise their immune systems being treated.

Macular Degeneration: Research

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much the Government has allocated to research into macular disease since 1997. [170094]

Dawn Primarolo: Over the last 10 years, the main part of the Department's total expenditure on health research has been devolved to and managed by national health service organisations. Details of individual NHS supported research projects including a large number concerned with macular degeneration are available on the national research register at:

www.nrr.nhs.uk.

The Department's expenditure on relevant national research programme projects during this time has been:

| | £000 |
|---|---|
| 2003-04 | 117 |
| 2004-05 | 266 |
| 2005-06 | 299 |
| 2006-07 | 337 |

Implementation of the Department's research strategy Best Research for Best Health has led to an expansion of our research programmes and in significant new funding opportunities for health research. In particular, the Moorfields Eye Hospital/ University College London Institute of Ophthalmology Biomedical Research Centre, formed this year, is undertaking a research theme on age-related macular degeneration with a total budget of £2.6 million over the five years 2007-12.

The Medical Research Council (MRC) is one of the main agencies through which the Government support medical and clinical research. The MRC is an independent body that receives its grant in aid from the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills.

Since 1997, MRC expenditure on research directly relevant to macular degeneration has been:

| | £000 |
|---|---|
| 1997-98 | 300 |
| 1998-99 | 82 |
| 1999-2000 | 78 |
| 2000-01 | 140 |
| 2001-02 | 205 |
| 2002-03 | 659 |
| 2003-04 | 781 |
| 2004-05 | 625 |
| 2005-06 | 669 |

The MRC's total vision research portfolio amounts to around £6 million a year and in addition to the funding shown above is supporting a major programme on human retinal degenerations at the MRC Human Genetics Unit in Edinburgh.

Maidstone and Tunbridge Wells NHS Trust: Cleaning Services

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) which (a) items and (b) buildings will be deep cleaned at the Maidstone and Tunbridge Wells Hospitals Trust; [162763]

(2) what the expected (a) start and (b) end date of the deep clean at the Maidstone and Tunbridge Wells Hospitals Trusts are; and what other interim deadlines there are for the deep clean programme there; [162764]

(3) from which heading of the South East Coast Strategic Health Authority budget the money for the deep clean at Maidstone and Tunbridge Wells Hospitals Trust will be taken. [162765]

Ann Keen: Deep cleaning will occur in all hospitals, starting this winter, with resources allocated through the strategic health authorities (SHAs). All trusts will submit costed deep clean plans to their lead commissioners who will monitor performance against this plan, as per normal performance management arrangements, and SHAs will take an overview as to progress across their area.

Deep cleaning is already in progress within Maidstone and Tunbridge Wells NHS Trust. The programme began on 1 November 2007 and is scheduled to be completed by 31 March 2008.

The funding for deep cleaning at Maidstone and Tunbridge Wells NHS Trust is coming from primary care trust lodgements held at the South East Coast SHA for strategic purposes.

The items which are being deep cleaned at the Maidstone and Tunbridge Wells NHS Trust are as follows:

floors;
skirtings;
walls;
tiled walls;
sills, ledges;
doors;
shelving;
sanitary-ware;
glassware;
stainless steel;
cupboards;
grilles/vents;
light switches and fittings;
wall protectors;
nurses stations;
trolleys;
soft furnishings, curtains;
patient equipment—drip stands, commodes, wheelchairs, trolleys, hoists, beds, bedside cabinets and any other associated medical equipment.

The buildings that are being deep cleaned at Maidstone and Tunbridge Wells NHS Trust are as follows:

Maidstone Hospital;
Kent and Sussex Hospitals;
Pembury Hospital.

Maidstone and West Kent NHS Trust: Clostridium

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will change the structure of the Maidstone and West Kent NHS Trust to take account of issues arising following the two clostridium difficile outbreaks there. [168633]

Ann Keen [holding answer 27 November 2007]: The Health Care Commission (HCC) made no recommendations for structural changes to Maidstone and Tunbridge Wells Trust following their investigation into the outbreaks of clostridium difficile. The HCC recommended a review of the leadership of the trust which is currently being undertaken urgently.

Maidstone Hospital: Clostridium

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when the strategic health authority (SHA) was first informed of the (a) first and (b) second outbreak of clostridium difficile at Maidstone hospital; and what steps were taken by the SHA. [168636]

Ann Keen [holding answer 27 November 2007]: The Health Care Commission (HCC) report states that the former Kent and Medway Strategic Health Authority (SHA) was informed of the second outbreak on 12 April 2006.

South East Coast SHA has advised officials that its Director of Public Health then held an outbreak meeting on 13 April 2006 and the acting SHA Chief Executive was informed at this point.

During May 2006 outbreak continued to be managed by the trust and Kent health protection unit (HPU), keeping the SHA informed. The HCC report states that the SHA did not take any direct action to follow up the outbreak as the HPU, where the specialist knowledge resided, agreed to keep the SHA fully informed.

At the end of June 2006 the HPU produced a report to the South East Coast SHA and in July 2006 the SHA asked the HCC to conduct an investigation.

Malnutrition

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 20 November 2007, Official Report, column 829W, on malnutrition, if he will break down the figures for 2005-06 by NHS trust. [168070]

Ann Keen [holding answer 28 November 2007]: The information requested has been placed in the Library. The tables show the total number of finished consultant episodes (FCEs) where the primary diagnoses are listed as per the tabled question; the total number of FCEs with the listed primary diagnosis and a secondary diagnosis, which mentions either malnutrition or nutritional anaemia and the proportion that this represents.

Due to there being several low numbers in the tables, low number suppression has been used. Furthermore, due to the use of low number suppression the table for depression contains no readable numbers for cases of the listed primary diagnosis with mentions of the malnutrition secondary diagnosis. This should not be taken as representative of the diagnosis as a whole.

A diagnosis of nutritional anaemia includes but is not limited to anaemias that are caused by an insufficient or poorly balanced diet. Furthermore, nutritional deficiencies without the mention of anaemia such as copper, molybdenum and zinc deficiency have not been included in our analysis.

Mental Health and Employment: Meeting The Challenge

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to his written statement of 27 November 2007, Official Report, columns 29-30WS, on mental health and employment: meeting the challenge, if he will make a statement on his Department's work on expanding the Improving Access to Psychological Therapies programme. [170316]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: On 10 October 2007, the Secretary of State (Alan Johnson) announced additional investment to fund stepped improvements in access to psychological therapies over the next three years. The additional investment will be £173 million by 2010-11. In return for these resources, the national health service is committed to treating 900,000 more people for depression and anxiety disorders who would not otherwise have received a service. Over this period we will also train 3,600 new psychological therapists providing evidence-based treatment.

The Improving Access to Psychological Therapies programme will focus chiefly on supporting the NHS to deliver this policy in line with these commitments. It will also further develop the policy framework in order to improve access to psychological therapies for all sections of the population.

Methadone

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many patients were receiving methadone in each of the last five years, broken down by NHS trust. [166378]

Dawn Primarolo: Data are collected on the basis of those in receipt of substitute prescribing but are not broken down to the level of the type of medication that is being prescribed. Therefore, we are unable to provide any data on the numbers being specifically prescribed methadone.

Methicillin Resistant Staphylococcus Aureus: Yorkshire and Humberside

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people contracted MRSA in Yorkshire and the Humber in each of the last five years, broken down by hospital; and if he will make a statement. [169009]

Ann Keen: The information is not available in the requested format. The available information is from the mandatory surveillance scheme of methicillin resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA) bloodstream infections in acute national health service trusts in England. Data are reported by the trust whose laboratory processes the specimen, but may not necessarily reflect where the infection was acquired

Data for acute NHS Trusts in the Yorkshire and Humber region are provided in the following table.

This information and any further information on Health Protection Agency data for NHS Acute Trusts is also available at:

www.hpa.org.uk/infections/topics_az/hai/Mandatory_Results.htm

As the Prime Minister made clear, deep cleaning will occur in all hospitals, starting this winter, with resources allocated through the strategic health authorities (SHAs). All trusts will submit costed deep clean plans to their lead commissioners who will monitor performance against this plan, as per normal performance management arrangements, and SHAs will take an overview as to progress across their area. Trusts are aiming to complete all deep cleans by the end of March 2008. SHAs will be expected to report on implementation across their regions to the Department.

Milton Keynes Hospital Trust: Cleaning Services

Mr. Lancaster: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) whether Milton Keynes Hospital Trust has submitted its deep cleaning plan to the strategic health authority; [165248]

(2) what the estimated cost of the Milton Keynes deep cleaning plan is; [165249]

(3) whether the cost of the deep clean for Milton Keynes hospital will come out of the hospital's existing budget. [165250]

Ann Keen [holding answer 19 November 2007]: As the Prime Minister made clear, deep cleaning will occur in all hospitals, starting this winter, with resources allocated through the strategic health authorities (SHAs). All trusts will submit costed deep clean plans to their lead commissioners who will monitor performance against this plan, as per normal performance management arrangements, and SHAs will take an overview as to progress across their area. Trusts are aiming to complete all deep cleans by the end of March 2008. SHAs will be expected to report on implementation across their regions to the Department.

NHS: Finance

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what steps his Department has taken to assist NHS trusts that were identified as financially challenged in 2006-07; [162860]

(2) what assessment his Department has made of the reasons for which the 17 trusts that were identified as financially challenged in 2006-07 found themselves in this position. [162861]

Mr. Bradshaw: As a result of the Department introducing the new loans system in 2006-07, there were originally 18 national health service trusts, where the financial challenges are such that the Department either could not give a loan because the trusts could not afford to meet the repayments, or where a loan was agreed, but the amount is very large and could only be repaid over a very extended timescale.

Cash support in the form of public dividend capital (PDC) was provided to 13 NHS trusts over the 2006-07 year end, pending the outcome of a review process in 2007-08. This process will set out the long term financing arrangements for these NHS trusts while maximising the level of cash support repaid to the Department.

The 13 NHS trusts, and details of the amount of PDC that each received, are in the following table.

| Trust name | Value of PDC received (£000) |
|---|---|
| Barking, Havering and Redbridge Hospital NHS Trust | 46,000 |
| Bromley Hospitals NHS Trust | 87,000 |
| Good Hope Hospital NHS Trust[1] | 14,000 |
| Hinchingbrooke Health Care NHS Trust | 27,300 |
| Mid Yorkshire Hospitals NHS Trust | 77,246 |
| Queen Elizabeth Hospital NHS Trust | 65,432 |
| Queen Mary's Sidcup NHS Trust | 15,000 |
| Royal Cornwall Hospitals NHS Trust | 56,400 |
| Royal Wolverhampton Hospital NHS Trust | 21,000 |
| The Lewisham Hospital NHS Trust | 13,000 |
| University Hospitals Coventry and Warwickshire NHS Trust | 29,277 |
| West Middlesex University NHS Trust | 17,000 |
| Weston Area Health NHS Trust | 16,250 |
| Total | 484,905 |

[1] Good Hope Hospital NHS Trust subsequently merged with Heart of England NHS Foundation Trust

The five NHS trusts, and details of the loan each received, are in the following table.

| Trust name | Value of loan received (£000) |
|---|---|
| Whipps Cross University Hospitals NHS Trust | 36,094 |
| Surrey and Sussex Healthcare NHS Trust | 56,000 |
| The Royal West Sussex NHS Trust | 23,000 |
| North Bristol NHS Trust | 52,000 |
| Royal United Hospital Bath NHS Trust | 38,000 |

Graham Stringer: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the estimated NHS underspend is likely to be in 2007-08; and if he will make it his policy not to transfer funds from parts of the NHS in budget surplus to other parts as a means of addressing this underspend. [171673]

Mr. Bradshaw: The latest available financial data for 2007-08, based on the quarter 2 forecast outturn position, shows that the national health service as a whole is forecasting a year end surplus of £1,789 million. Details for each NHS organisation were included in the "Quarter 2 Finance Report", and a copy is available in the Library.

In recent years, the Department has improved the NHS financial regime by introducing a fairer, more transparent, rules-based system, which has included putting an end to the practice of moving money around the NHS, and abolishing both brokerage and planned support.

NHS: Personal Records

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for Health who is able to gain access to the NHS medical records of individuals; what procedures are involved in accessing those records; and how his Department monitors access. [169000]

Mr. Bradshaw [holding answer 28 November 2007]: Local national health service organisations have the responsibility for determining which of their staff may access the detailed care records they hold, and for establishing the working practices that effectively deliver the confidentiality required ethically, and by law. Guidance on required practice for those who work within or under contract to NHS organisations about the safeguarding of confidentiality, and patients' consent to the use of their health records, exists in the form of the "NHS Confidentiality Code of Practice", published in November 2003. Local organisations are and have been responsible for the procedures that are followed, which differ from organisation to organisation and also according to whether the record concerned is held electronically or on paper.

The security measures controlling access to electronic medical records held on the NHS Care Records Service are set at the Cabinet Office standard e-Government interoperability framework level 3, with access further restricted to only those with a legitimate relationship with the patient, and further role-based access restrictions to specific information.

Tools are provided by NHS Connecting for Health to enable organisations to control access to records held in the new information technology systems and services deployed under the national programme for information technology. To access patient records staff will need to:

have been issued with a smartcard following rigorous identity checks;

log on to a system with their card and pass code;

have been assigned a role profile that permits them to use system functions that allow record access and;

have their membership of a team involved in a patient's care confirmed by a check against central records or have special authorisation to satisfy statutory requirements or other exceptional reasons for accessing records.

System audit trails will enable organisations to monitor access and the Department has made it clear that misuse must not be tolerated. The Department will monitor how well NHS organisations adhere to standards rather than the details of access.

North Staffordshire University Hospital: Pay

Joan Walley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will take steps to ensure that University Hospital Birmingham Foundation Trust makes full and accurate payments to staff at the North Staffordshire University Hospital in line with their entitlement to remuneration for hours worked and pay award, within the timescale specified in their contracts. [171189]

Mr. Bradshaw [holding answer 4 December 2007]: This is a matter for the chair of University Hospital Birmingham NHS Foundation Trust. I have written to Sir Albert Bore informing him of the hon. Member's inquiry. He will reply shortly and a copy of the letter will be placed in the Library.

Obesity: Pregnancy

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the impact of growing levels of obesity on pregnancy and childbirth. [163278]

Dawn Primarolo: Two recent Government reports, Foresight 'Tackling Obesities: Future Choices' published in October 2007; and the National Institute of Health and Clinical Excellence 'Guidance on the prevention, identification, assessment and management of overweight and obesity in adults and children' published in December 2006 have made evidence-based assessments of the importance of key life stages in preventing obesity, including pre-pregnancy and pregnancy.

The most recent triennial report 'Saving Mothers Lives', published by CEMACH on 4 December found maternity obesity is a growing risk factor for maternal death and more than half of the women who died were either overweight or obese and more than 15 per cent. were extremely obese.

The Government are developing a comprehensive cross-Government strategy on obesity.

Out-patients: Nutrition

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the level of pre-hospital admission nutritional support offered by the NHS to those patients with a clinical need. [170056]

Dawn Primarolo: No assessment has been made by the Department on the level of pre-hospital nutritional support offered by the national health service to patients with a clinical need. This is a decision made by those providing health care services based on individual circumstances and needs.

Peterborough District Hospital: Cleaning Services

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when (a) Peterborough District Hospital and (b) Edith Cavell Hospital can expect to receive their deep cleans; and if he will make a statement. [168508]

Ann Keen [holding answer 28 November 2007]: As the Prime Minister made clear, deep cleaning will occur in all hospitals, starting this winter, with resources allocated through the strategic health authorities (SHAs). All trusts will submit costed deep clean plans to their lead commissioners who will monitor performance against this plan, as per normal performance management arrangements, and SHAs will take an overview as to progress across their area. Trusts are aiming to complete all deep cleans by the end of March 2008. SHAs will be expected to report on implementation across their regions to the Department.

Prescriptions

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 14 November 2007, Official Report, column 289WA, on nurses: prescriptions, how many prescriptions have been issued by (a) nurse independent prescribers, (b) community practitioner nurse prescribers and (c) doctors in each of the past 12 months for which figures are available. [169874]

Dawn Primarolo: The following table shows the number of prescription items issued by nurse independent prescribers, community practitioner nurse prescribers and doctors and dispensed in the community, in England, for the period October 2006 to September 2007.

Number of prescription items dispensed

Thousand

| | Issued by nurse independent prescribers | Issued by community practitioner nurse prescribers | Issued by doctors |
|---|---|---|---|
| October 2006 | 412 | 218 | 64,053 |
| November 2006 | 447 | 217 | 66,436 |
| December 2006 | 431 | 194 | 63,752 |
| January 2007 | 524 | 228 | 64,331 |
| February 2007 | 489 | 198 | 58,564 |
| March 2007 | 548 | 215 | 65,495 |
| April 2007 | 528 | 200 | 60,648 |
| May 2007 | 568 | 218 | 65,236 |
| June 2007 | 583 | 209 | 64,347 |
| July 2007 | 596 | 216 | 64,411 |
| August 2007 | 580 | 204 | 65,549 |
| September 2007 | 547 | 190 | 61,251 |
| Total | 6,253 | 2,508 | 764,273 |

Processed Food: Labelling

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the percentage of producers of processed foods that are providing consumers with information on (a) ingredients, (b) food values and (c) traffic light indicators for sugar, salt and fat content; and if he will make a statement. [170106]

Dawn Primarolo: Regulation 5 of the Food Labelling Regulations 1996 (as amended) (SI 1996 No 1499) which implements European Union legislation (Council Directive 2000/13/EC) requires pre-packed foods (subject to a few exceptions) to be labelled with a full list of ingredients.

It is estimated that about 80 per cent. of pre-packed food in the United Kingdom provides some form of nutrition labelling. There are currently 28 companies using the traffic light labelling approach in the UK.

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which supermarkets use traffic light indicators as guidance for consumers on the sugar, salt and fat content of processed foods. [170107]

Dawn Primarolo: Currently eight United Kingdom retailers use traffic light front of pack labels: Asda, Budgens/Londis, The Cooperative, Boots, Marks and Spencers, Sainsbury's and Waitrose. This represents more than 40 per cent. by sales of the food retail market in the UK.

Tuberculosis: Foreigners

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many instances of tuberculosis were diagnosed in foreign nationals resident in the UK in the last 12 months for which figures are available. [170653]

Dawn Primarolo: The Health Protection Agency does not collect data on tuberculosis in foreign nationals resident in the United Kingdom.

Waiting Lists

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the average waiting time was for (a) inpatient admissions at the East Kent NHS and Social Care Partnership Trust and (b) inpatient mental health services in England in 2006; and if he will make a statement. [169567]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: This information is not collected centrally. All mental health in-patient admissions are emergencies and not from a waiting list.

Wheelchairs

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) whether he plans to introduce prescription charges for the provision of wheelchairs; [170360]

(2) what the average waiting time was for a wheelchair being provided to a patient following a GP referral for (a) a standard wheelchair and (b) a specialist wheelchair in the latest period for which figures are available; [170362]

(3) what plans he has to ensure the needs of wheelchair users with complex needs will be protected under the current review of wheelchair service provision. [170363]

Ann Keen: The Department has no plans to introduce prescription charges for the provision of wheelchairs.

We do not collect data on the average waiting time for a wheelchair being provided to a patient following a general practitioner referral.

The Transforming Community Equipment and Wheelchair Services Programme team are continuing to have regular meetings with stakeholders to ensure that the needs of wheelchair users with complex needs will be fully considered during the current review of wheelchair provision.

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

Certification Officer: Complaints

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform pursuant to the answer of 19 November 2007, Official Report, column 487W, on certification officer: Complaints, if he will set out what action was taken in relation to each of the orders made. [171028]

Mr. McFadden: Details of the orders made are given in the following table. All of the decisions are available on the certification officer's website:

www.certoffice.org

Where the certification officer makes an order, it may be enforced in the same way as under an order of court. The certification officer is not aware that any such action has been necessary in relation to any of these orders.

| | Enforcement orders |
|---|---|
| 2006-07 | (D/59-60/06) King and King v. TGWU. Order—"The union is ordered to give the claimants access to inspect the accounting records of branch 1/230 in the form of the quarterly returns to the union's region 1 going back to 1 January 2005, or from whenever such returns were first made, whichever is the shorter period. The claimants are to be given access to those records no later than 28 January 2007." |
| 2005-06 | 1. (D3/06) Lee v. NASUWT Order—"The NASUWT is ordered to give the claimant access to inspect those accounting records of the London Benevolent Federation of the union which are in its power, possession or control and which relate to the period of six years ending on 12 April 2005. The claimant is to be given access to inspect those records no later than Tuesday, 31 January 2006. The inspection shall be during the normal office hours of the union and shall be at the union's head office, unless the parties agree otherwise. If such accounts would reveal the names of those who received benefit, those names may be substituted with "Person 1; Person 2 etc". In the event of a dispute as to whether any particular document or category of documents constitutes an accounting record, the claimant is given leave to apply." |
| | 2. (D5/05) Gallagher v. UNISON Order—"I order that UNISON considers any future application by Ms Gallagher to attend any union conferences without regard to the policy of exclusion adopted by the National Executive Council on 22 June 2004." |
| | 3. (D15//05) Scobie v. TGWU Order—"I order that Ms Foyer shall forthwith cease to hold the office, or carry out the functions, of National Secretary of ACTS, unless or until she is appointed in accordance with the rules of the Union." |
| 2004-05 | (D/3/04) Beaumont v. Amicus Order—"I order that Mr. Lyons shall cease forthwith to hold office as joint general secretary of Amicus." |
| 2003-04 | 1. (D24-27/03) Stokes v. GMB Order—"5.1 subject as hereafter, the election to the position of deputy general secretary of the union, the result of which was declared on 15 April 2003 ("the disputed election"), be treated as void and of no effect. The person elected in that election, Ms Coulter, shall cease forthwith to hold office as deputy general secretary. |
| | 5.2 the union shall conduct a further election for the position of deputy general secretary, such election to be conducted so as to be in accordance with the rules of the union and Chapter IV of the 1992 Act. |

| | Enforcement orders |
|---|---|
| | 5.3 the implied rule of the union, referred to in the reasons to this decision as the precursor provision, shall apply to all nominees in the further election as if the term of office of the deputy general secretary were to have begun on 15 April 2003. |
| | 5.4 the further election shall be conducted so that its result is declared no later than 31 March 2004. The union is given liberty to apply in the event of the union being unable to comply with the requirement to declare the result of the election by the specified date. |
| | 5.5 the union shall not be required to proceed with the further election and the result of the disputed election shall stand should the Applicant and any member of the union who would have been excluded from being a candidate in the disputed election by reason only of the impending retirement provision not be nominated in the further election or should all such nominees subsequently either withdraw or be lawfully excluded from standing prior to the date of distribution of the voting papers. |
| | 2. (D19/03) Ecclestone v. NUJ Order—"I order that the persons elected to the National Executive Council of the union for 2003-04 representing disabled members and black members cease to hold office forthwith." |
| 2002-03 | 1. (D1/03) Mortimer v. Amicus Order—"Amicus is ordered to give the applicant access to inspect those accounting records of the union which relate to a termination payment made to Mr Chowcat by the union in or about 1999. The applicant is to be given access to those records no later than Friday 28 March 2003." |
| | 2. (D/31/02) Hill v. Bakers Food and Allied workers Union Order—"The union shall forthwith treat the election of Mr Marino to the position of general secretary held in 2002 as having taken effect on 9 August 2002 and his term of office as having commenced on that date." |
| | 3. (D/23/02) Saunders v. Musicians Union Order—The musicians' union shall treat as void and ineffective the alteration of rules approved by a ballot, the result of which was declared on 31 January 2002. The union shall continue to apply the rules that prevailed prior to that purported alteration, unless and until the rules of the union are altered in accordance with rule XIX.C of its rules." |
| | 4. (D21-22/02) Adams v. Prison Officers Association Order—"I order that a further election be held for the position of National Chair of the Association to be conducted in accordance with the requirements of Chapter IV of the Trade Union and Labour Relations (Consolidation) Act 1992. The result of this election shall be declared no later than Friday 9 August 2002." |

Cyprus

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many officials in his Department visited (a) Cyprus and (b) Bermuda on official business in 2006-07, broken down by grade; and what the equivalent figures for Department of Trade and Industry were in (i) 1983, (ii) 1987 and (iii) each year between 1998 and 2005. [165728]

Mr. Thomas: There are no records of visits to Cyprus by officials prior to 2001. From 2001 onwards, the number of visits by officials has been:

| Grade | Number |
|---|---|
| Director and Range 6 | |
| 2001 | 2 |
| 2002 | 0 |
| Range 9 and Range 6 | |
| 2003 | 2 |
| Director and Range 8 | |
| 2004 | 2 |
| 2005 | 0 |

I am not aware of any visits to Bermuda by officials in 1983, 1987 or between 1998 and 2005.

Defence Export Services Organisation

Mr. Benyon: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform when he was informed of the Prime Minister' decision to close the Defence Export Services Organisation and to move part of its remit to UK Trade and Investment. [162996]

Mr. Thomas: My right hon. Friend, the Secretary of State, was consulted before the Prime Minister's announcement on 25 July 2007 to transfer trade promotion for defence exports to UKTI.

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what discussions he has had with the defence industry on the abolition of the Defence Export Services Organisation. [169658]

Mr. Thomas [holding answer 3 December 2007]: Following my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister's announcement to transfer responsibility for defence export support to UKTI, Ministers and officials have held a number of meetings with the defence industry to help manage the implementation of the change. These meetings have generally been led by UKTI/BERR reflecting future ministerial responsibility for defence exports.

Departmental Carbon Emissions

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform whether his Department is working towards an accredited certified environmental management system for its estate or part thereof. [165937]

Mr. Thomas: BERR's predecessor Department DTI's environmental management system (EMS) which covers its London HQ buildings was certified to ISO 14001 in 1999 with accreditation being maintained since through a UKAS external verification organisation. On the formation of BERR the EMS accreditation was transferred from DTI to BERR.

Departmental Consultants

Dr. Cable: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform which private consultancy firms (a) his Department and (b) agencies which report to his Department engaged in each of the last three years; which programmes or projects each firm worked on; what the approximate cost to the Department or agency concerned was of each engagement; and if he will make a statement. [164237]

Mr. Thomas: Central records indicate that as at 8 October 2007 the Department has spent the following on consultancy services:

| Financial year | £ million |
|---|---|
| 2005-06 | 53.6 |
| 2006-07 | 40.2 |
| 2007-08 | [1]16.3 |

[1] To date

I have placed in the Libraries of the House a list of companies that received payments for consultancy services in each of the last three financial years, together with details of the total amount paid to each.

I have asked chief executives of the executive agencies to respond directly to the hon. Member.

Further information is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Data Protection

Mr. Walker: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform whether his Department's information technology and data management systems are BS7799 compliant. [168756]

Mr. Thomas: The Department's Information Security Management System are compliant and have been independently certified to BS7799 since May 2002. In March 2007 certification was successfully achieved against the new ISO27001 standard. The certificate will be updated to reflect the name change to BERR at the next surveillance audit in 2008.

Departmental Health Insurance

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many officials in (a) his Department and (b) each of its agencies have private health insurance provided as part of their employment package. [167939]

Mr. Thomas: No member of staff either in the Department or its agencies receive private health insurance as part of their terms and conditions of employment.

Departmental Official Hospitality

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what entertainment or hospitality members of his Department's management board received in each of the last three financial years; and if he will make a statement. [164739]

Mr. Thomas: Paragraph 4.3.5 of the Civil Service Management Code sets out the rules on the registration of hospitality. The Government are committed to publishing an annual list of hospitality received by members of departmental boards. The first list for 2007 will be published as soon as it is ready after the end of the current calendar year.

Departmental Parliamentary Questions

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform pursuant to the answer from the Minister of 13 November 2007, Official Report, columns 132-3W, on post offices: York, when he expects the Managing Director of Post Office Limited to reply to the question. [169688]

Mr. McFadden: I understand that the Managing Director of Post Office Limited will reply shortly and a copy will be placed in the Libraries of the House.

Departmental Telephone Services

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (1) which telephone contact centres are the responsibility of his Department; what mechanisms are in place to monitor their effectiveness; and how many people have been employed in each of those centres in each year since they were established; [166531]

(2) how much each telephone contact centre for which his Department is responsible has (a) cost and (b) generated in income in each financial year since their establishment; [166533]

(3) what information his Department collects and monitors in relation to the telephone contact centres for which his Department is responsible. [166532]

Mr. Thomas: The Department's central records do not contain the information to answer these questions. Therefore, the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform could answer these questions only at disproportionate cost.

Departments: Official Hospitality

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will break down the figures referred to in the answer of 25 October 2007, Official Report, column 491W, on Departments: official hospitality, to give the amount spent on each function at which hospitality expenses were incurred. [162152]

Mr. Thomas: The figures shown in the earlier reply of 25 October 2007, Official Report, column 491W, were a summary from a series of events, and a detailed breakdown could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Economic Agreements: ACP Countries

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what transitional agreements will be made with African, Caribbean and Pacific countries that are not ready to sign economic partnership agreements by the end of 2007. [169122]

Mr. Thomas: The European Commission, which is negotiating economic partnership agreements (EPAs) with the African, Caribbean and Pacific (ACP) countries, on behalf of the EU, has made clear that those countries which have not signed an EPA by the 31 December 2007, will revert to the generalised system of preferences (GSP) scheme from 1 January 2008.

The UK and other EU member states made clear to the Commission at the General Affairs and External Relations Council in Brussels in November that we do not want to see ACP countries face higher tariffs on their exports to the EU on 1 January 2008. The best way of avoiding this is by agreeing an EPA. Discussions are ongoing about transitional agreements which could be considered for countries which are not ready to sign a full EPA.

Fire Prevention: Furniture

Mrs. Moon: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what plans he has to meet (a) representatives of the British Furniture Confederation and (b) managers of large UK furniture retailers to discuss (i) raising awareness of the Furniture and Furnishing (Fire) (Safety) Regulations 1988 and (ii) the impact of compliance with those regulations on fire safety. [166732]

Mr. Thomas: Ministers and officials of my Department are in regular communication with representatives of the furniture industry with regard to the Furniture and Furnishings (Fire) (Safety) Regulations 1988. I am currently considering whether further public awareness of the requirements of the regulations is necessary at this stage.

Imports: Toys

Mrs. James: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what legislation governs the importation of toys into the UK; and what estimate he has made of the percentage of toys bought in England that were imported from overseas in each year since 1997. [168325]

Mr. Thomas: The Toys (Safety) Regulations 1995 implement the requirements of the EC toy safety directive in the UK. The regulations apply to all toys supplied in this country, whether they are made here or imported.

The Office for National Statistics publishes data on total UK manufacturer sales, imports, exports and derived data for net supply to the UK market, home sales and home production in its annual publication "PRA 36500 Product Sales and Trade: Games and Toys".

Information: Fees and Charges

Mr. Todd: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will place in the Library a copy of the brief given to Cambridge university when it was commissioned to undertake the study for his Department on information pricing. [166009]

Mr. Thomas: The work that the experts from Cambridge are undertaking is being conducted on an independent basis. We have not listed the bodies that should or should not be included in their meeting plans. We do not possess information on the stakeholders Cambridge has met or plans to meet.

Internet

Mr. Boris Johnson: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what estimate his Department has made of the percentage of (a) people and (b) children from socio-economic groups (i) 1-3 and (ii) 4-7 with access to (A) internet and (B) broadband (1) nationally and (2) in London. [169819]

Mr. Timms: The Department does not maintain figures on this matter.

Latest statistics from the independent regulator, Office of Communications (Ofcom) Consumer Experience report released on 20 November 2007 shows that Broadband penetration has continued to increase significantly over the last 12 months—rising from 45 per cent. of households in 2006 to 55 per cent. in 2007. This increase is at the expense of narrowband as we see a drop in narrowband penetration. In 2007, 86 per cent. of internet owners have a broadband connection compared with 73 per cent. in 2006.

Ofcom socio economic profile of those who use the internet:

| | | | Percentage |
|---|---|---|---|
| | 2005 | 2006 | 2007 |
| 75+ | 10 | 14 | 27 |
| AB | 79 | 83 | 82 |
| C1 | 64 | 67 | 75 |
| C2 | 53 | 59 | 65 |
| DE | 31 | 35 | 40 |

Internet take-up has continued to increase—rising 4 per cent. over the last year; 9 per cent. over the last two years—with over two thirds of the population now stating they have access to the internet at home. Use of the internet anywhere has increased from 66 per cent. in 2005 to 71 per cent. in 2007.

The UK has one of the fastest growing broadband markets in Europe and continues to have the most extensive availability.

With 55 per cent. of households having broadband, the UK is ahead of most of the other large European countries and now has penetration levels which match those in US and Japan. In 2003 the UK was ranked seventh in the number of broadband connections per capita. Since 2003 the UK has moved two places to fifth place, moving ahead of the USA and France.

A copy of the Ofcom consumer experience report can be found at:

http://www.radioauthority.org.uk/research/tce/policy07/policy07.pdf

Israel

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many officials in his Department and its predecessor visited Israel on official business in 2007, broken down by grade; and what the equivalent number was in (a) 1983, (b) 1987 and (c) each year between 1998 and 2005. [165732]

Mr. Thomas: According to records kept by the British embassy in Tel Aviv, six official visits have been made to Israel by BERR staff in 2007 (three at Range 10, one at Range 9 and two at Range 8).

In 2005, seven official visits were made to Israel by BERR staff (one senior civil servant, two at Range 9, three at Range 8 and one at Range 6).

Records have not been kept for visits to Israel prior to 2005.

Overseas Trade: Israel

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what steps he has (a) taken and (b) plans to take to increase trade between the United Kingdom and Israel; how much his Department and its predecessor spent on the promotion of trade between the United Kingdom and Israel in each of the last five years for which information is available; and if he will make a statement. [165730]

Mr. Thomas: UK Trade and Investment (UKTI) provides a range of support services to British companies wishing to trade with or invest in Israel, through commercial teams based in both the UK and the British embassy in Tel Aviv.

UKTI support focuses, in particular, on business opportunities in high technology sectors, including Biotechnology, Healthcare, Aerospace, Information and Communication Technology, the Environmental Industries and Financial and Legal Services. Information on commercial events in Israel is posted on the UKTI website (www.uktradeinvest.gov.uk) along with details of specific business opportunities in the market.

UKTI supports the work of the Israel British Business Council (IBBC) including bi-annual meetings in Tel Aviv and London, and also supports a broad range of activities aimed at boosting bilateral trade and investment, including trade missions to Israel, inward missions by Israeli firms to trade fairs in the UK and promotional events aimed at encouraging Israeli companies to list in London.

Information on annual expenditure on trade promotion is unavailable due to the length of time it would take to research these figures.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many officials in his Department work on the promotion of trade between the United Kingdom and Israel, broken down by grade; and what the equivalent numbers were for the Department of Trade and Industry in (a) 1983, (b) 1987 and (c) in each year between 1998 and 2005. [165731]

Mr. Thomas: The UK Trade and Investment (UKTI) team in the British embassy in Tel Aviv currently comprises one UK based C5 Head of Section and six local Israeli staff. In addition, UKTI employs one Range 8 officer in London, focussed primarily on boosting trade and investment links with Israel, as well as more senior staff who have wider geographical responsibilities, which include Israel.

In 2005, the UKTI team in Tel Aviv was managed by a UK based D6 Head of Section, although the team was the same size. Two UKTI staff were employed in London with responsibilities for trade and investment with Israel, at Range 8 and Range 6 level.

With regard to the other years requested, these records are not held centrally by the Department.

Maternity Services: EC Action

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (1) what assessment he has made of the likely effect on maternity services provided by (a) the NHS and (b) the independent sector of the transposition into UK law of the EU Services Directive; [168235]

(2) what assessment he has made of the likely effect of the transposition into UK law of the EU Services Directive on the ability of providers of maternity services based in another EU member state to offer their services in the UK; and if he will make a statement. [168239]

Mr. Thomas: The directive excludes health care services, regardless of the ways in which they are organised and financed at national level, or whether they are public or private. Health care services, including maternity services, covered by this exclusion will not be affected by the services directive.

Political Levy

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will take steps to introduce an opt-in system for trade union political funds in England. [171390]

Mr. McFadden: Since 1946, the law has provided for trade union members to opt out of contributing to their union's political fund. This aspect of trade union law is well-established, and the Government have no current plans to change it.

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what guidance has been provided under the direct debit guarantee on whether trade unions are required to (a) notify in advance and (b) inform trade union members paying by direct debit should the amount and value of the political levy on their trade union subscription change. [171478]

Mr. McFadden: The direct debit guarantee is a voluntary arrangement which applies to banks and building societies taking part in the direct debit scheme. As far as I am aware, there is no specific guidance relating to the application of the guarantee to the payment of union subscriptions.

Post Offices

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many mobile post office outreach services have been provided since such services were first introduced; and what, on average, the annual cost of such a service is. [170317]

Mr. McFadden: This is an operational matter for Post Office Ltd. (POL). I have therefore asked Alan Cook, Managing Director of POL, to reply direct to the hon. Member.

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many post offices were open in each year since 1997 in (a) Guildford, (b) South West Surrey and (c) England. [170793]

Mr. McFadden: This is an operational matter for Post Office Ltd (POL). I have therefore asked Alan Cook, Managing Director of POL to reply direct to the hon. Member. I will place copies of the letter in the Libraries of the House.

Post Offices: Closures

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform whether the economic impact on local business resulting from the closure of post offices was taken into account when deciding on the policy to close 2,500 post offices. [169685]

Mr. McFadden: The Government's response to the public consultation on the post office network made clear that Post Office Ltd.'s local proposals for, and decisions on, closures will need to reflect consideration of a range of factors including the impact on local economies as well as compliance with the access criteria set by the Government and have taken account of significant local geographic constraints.

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what terms he has laid down for specialist staff to be selected, trained and employed in those post offices which are being moved into WH Smith retail operations. [169971]

Mr. McFadden: This is an operational matter for Post Office Ltd. (POL). I have therefore asked Alan Cook, Managing Director of POL, to reply direct to the hon. Member.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if his Department will provide additional resources for public transport in those areas where post offices are closed. [170124]

Mr. McFadden: The Department does not provide funding for public transport. However, as the Government's response to the public consultation on the post office network made clear that Post Office Ltd.'s local proposals for, and decisions on, closures will need to reflect consideration of a range of factors including the availability of public transport as well as compliance with the access criteria set by the Government.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment his Department has made of the accuracy of the travel times to alternative post offices quoted in the documents supporting the post office's network change programme. [170131]

Mr. McFadden: None. This is an operational matter for Post Office Ltd. (POL). I have therefore asked Alan Cook, Managing Director of POL, to reply direct to the hon. Member.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how the proportion of elderly people in affected communities was reflected in the Government's criteria for post office closures. [170132]

Mr. McFadden: The Government's response to the public consultation on the post office network made clear that Post Office Ltd.'s local proposals for, and decisions on, closures will need to reflect consideration of a range of factors such as local demographics including the age profile of communities in the areas affected as well compliance with he access criteria set by the Government. The age profiles of communities affected by proposals in the Sussex area plan are included in the individual branch access reports prepared and published by Post Office Ltd.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will reconsider the closure of post offices where there is significant public opposition to the closure plans. [170134]

Mr. McFadden: Final decisions on post office closures rest with Post Office Ltd. However Post Office Ltd. has set up with Postwatch, the consumer body representing customers, a three stage review process for contentious cases, with increasing seniority of the respective Post Office Ltd. and Postwatch representatives. Last week, Post Office Ltd. announced an additional stage whereby, for those difficult cases where no agreement could be reached in the earlier review stages, Allan Leighton, chairman of Royal Mail Group, will review the issues and reach a final decision.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what account will be taken of the views of local people when considering which post offices in Sussex should close under the plans announced this month. [170417]

Mr. McFadden: During each public consultation significant volumes of comments and correspondence are received from local people, their representatives and other interested bodies. All information and views received during the consultation period is carefully considered before final decisions are made.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what account the Government plans to take of the proportion of elderly residents in deciding in which areas to close post offices. [170429]

Mr. McFadden: In formulating its area plan proposals for post office closures and new outreach services, Post Office Ltd. is required to consider the age profile of residents in the areas affected. The age profiles of communities affected by proposals in the Sussex area plan are included in the individual branch access reports prepared and published by Post Office Ltd.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment he has made of whether the proposed closures of post offices in East Worthing and Shoreham meet the criteria on the needs of local people in the area. [170516]

Mr. McFadden: It is for Post Office Ltd. to ensure that its area plan proposals for post office closures and new outreach service meet the Government criteria and consider the wider factors set out in the Government's response to the national public consultation on the post office network. In addition, Postwatch will make its own assessment of the proposals in the context of the criteria and the local consultation provides a further opportunity for the needs of local people to be voiced and any new or additional information to be brought to Post Office Ltd.'s attention before final decisions are made.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will ask the Office of Government Commerce to review the consultation process begun by Post Office Ltd. to close post offices in Sussex. [170518]

Mr. McFadden: Post Office Ltd.'s consultation process for area plan proposals for post office closures and new outreach services in Sussex and elsewhere follows the framework set out in the Government response to the national public consultation on the post office network. The memorandum of understanding between Post Office Ltd. and Postwatch sets out more detailed arrangements for the local public consultation process.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what guidelines were followed by Post Office Ltd. in the consultation period on the closure of post offices in Sussex. [170523]

Mr. McFadden: As required by the code, the Government conducted a 12 week consultation on their proposals for the Post Office network which considered the principle of whether there should be post office closures and new outreach services. Post Office Ltd.'s six week local public consultations on its area plans are on how changes are to be implemented at the local level. Before these local public consultations begin, Post Office Ltd. seeks detailed input from Postwatch, local authorities and sub-postmasters in developing its proposals. I understand that Post Office Ltd. takes the view that the combination of the pre-consultation phase and the subsequent six week of local public consultation period enables sufficiently robust consultations to take place at a local area level. I also understand from the company that the level of response to those local consultations which have now closed has been high.

Mr. Jenkin: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform who decided that the consultation period for post office closures would be six weeks; and for what reasons that period was decided on. [170642]

Mr. McFadden: The Government decided that the consultation period for post office closures would be six weeks as set out in their response to the national public consultation on the post office network. The early stages of developing Post Office Ltd.'s area plan proposals post office closures and new outreach service involve detailed plan development discussions with Postwatch and the involvement of local authorities in advance of formal public consultation. When combined with the subsequent six weeks of public consultation, the Government believe that this enables sufficiently robust consultations to take place at a local area level. We are also mindful of the fact that the organisation representing sub-postmasters argued for a speedy local consultation to minimise uncertainty for sub-postmasters and customers.

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment he has made of the effect of local post office closures in Guildford and Waverley on the accessibility of services for local residents. [170791]

Mr. McFadden: The access criteria set out in the Government's response to the public consultation on the post office network are designed to maintain a national network and reasonable access to post office services. In developing its area plan proposals for post office closures and new outreach service, Post Office Ltd must give consideration to a range of factors such as availability of public transport and alternative access to key post office services, local demographics and the impact on local economies as well as any local geographical constraints and must also ensure compliance with the access criteria set by the Government.

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment has been made of the effect of post office closures where the local community has bought the shop which incorporates a post office. [170792]

Mr. McFadden: Post Office Ltd's local decisions on closures will need to reflect consideration of a range of factors such as the impact on local economies as well compliance with the access criteria set by the Government. The effect of the closure of individual post offices on any associated retail business will not be known until the implementation of Post Office Ltd's network change plan for that area is completed.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform for what reasons there will be no consultations on post office closures between April and 2 May 2008; and if he will make a statement. [170970]

Mr. McFadden: The normal purdah arrangements, set out in Cabinet Office guidance which has been observed by successive Administrations of both parties for many years, take effect every year during local elections. The guidance clearly states that consultations, and decisions relating to them, should not be launched in an election period and this will apply from 7 April to 2 May in respect of the local elections to be held in England and Wales on 1 May 2008.

Post Offices: Hampshire

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the timetable is for the Post Office to finalise assessments of all of its sub-post offices in Hampshire; and if he will make a statement. [165865]

Mr. McFadden: This is an operational matter for Post Office Ltd. (POL). I understand that the consultation period for post offices in Hampshire ended on 26 November, and that final decisions on closures are expected to be announced by POL on 4 January 2008.

Post Offices: Sussex

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment he has made of the future viability of businesses currently housing post offices once they are removed under the closure plans in Sussex. [169684]

Mr. McFadden: Post Office Ltd.'s local decisions on closures will need to reflect consideration of a range of factors such as the impact on local economies as well compliance with the access criteria set by the Government. The effect of the closure of individual post offices on any associated retail business will not be known until the implementation of Post Office Ltd.'s network change plan for Sussex is completed.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment he has made of the economic effect on local businesses of the closure of post offices in Sussex. [169686]

Mr. McFadden: In developing its area plan proposals for post office closures in Sussex, Post Office Ltd. is required to consider a range of factors including the impact on local economies as well compliance with the access criteria set by the Government.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what criteria the Government has set out to ensure that people with disabilities have continued access to post office facilities under the proposals to close services in Sussex. [169687]

Mr. McFadden: The access criteria set out in the Government's response to the public consultation on the post office network are designed to maintain a national network and reasonable access to post office services. It is the responsibility of individual post offices to meet the requirements of disability discrimination legislation with regard to access to their premises for disabled customers.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will take steps to ensure that full information on the proposed closure of post offices in Sussex be delivered to every household in affected areas. [170122]

Mr. McFadden: At the start of each local public consultation, Post Office Ltd. publishes full information on its area plan proposals for post office closures and new outreach services on its website and all post office branches in the area display posters for customers. Those offices likely to be affected by the proposals also provide leaflets giving information about the changes proposed for that office.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment he has made of the environmental impact of the proposed closure of post offices in Sussex arising from increased travelling. [170123]

Mr. McFadden: As stated in the Government's response to the public consultation on the post office network, closures will principally affect a combination of branches in areas of overprovision. In taking a strategic overview of service provision in areas of over-provision, Post Office Ltd. will ensure that people will be able to find an alternative branch nearby and the vast majority will still be within walking distance of their nearest office. With the least used offices, the numbers of people affected, will, by the nature of the offices, be low. I understand from Post Office Ltd. that under the area plan proposals for Sussex, 99.6. per cent. of the population will either see no change to the branch they currently use or will be within one mile of an alternative branch.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what pre-consultation preparation (a) the Government required and (b) was undertaken by Royal Mail before the public consultation on post office closures in Sussex was launched. [170126]

Mr. McFadden: In its response to the public consultation on the post office network, the Government made clear that in the early stages of developing its area plan proposals Post Office Ltd. would have detailed discussions with Postwatch and seek input from local authorities. In developing the Sussex area plan, Post Office Ltd. has received input from Postwatch and from local authorities

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will ask Post Office Ltd. to extend the period of consultation on the closure of post offices in Sussex to at least 12 weeks. [170133]

Mr. McFadden: As the Government's response to the national public consultation on the post office network explained the arguments for a longer local consultation period were considered but the Government decided to confirm their decision for a six week local consultation period reflecting the approach followed during the latter stages of the urban reinvention programme. The early stages of developing Post Office Ltd.'s area plan proposals involve detailed plan development discussions with Postwatch and the involvement of local authorities in advance of formal public consultation. When combined with the subsequent six weeks of public consultation, the Government believe that this will enable sufficiently robust consultations to take place at a local area level. We are also mindful of the fact that the organisation representing sub-postmasters argued for a speedy local consultation to minimise uncertainty for sub-postmasters and customers.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will visit East Worthing and Shoreham to discuss the Government's criteria used to determine post office network changes with local residents. [170416]

Mr. McFadden: The Government's criteria for post office network changes were confirmed in their response to the national public consultation on the post office network. The Government's response is available on the Department's website.

Post Offices: West Midlands

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform when the Post Office Network Change Programme consultation will begin for the Herefordshire, Worcestershire and West Midlands area; and if he will make a statement. [170971]

Mr. McFadden: I understand from Post Office Ltd. that the local public consultation on its area plan for Herefordshire, Worcestershire and West Midlands is scheduled to start on 27 August 2008.

Postal Services

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform which companies are under contract to his Department to provide mail services. [170160]

Mr. Thomas: My Department uses the following companies to provide mail services.:

Royal Mail: same day delivery and first and second class mail;

Parcel Force: next day delivery, timed mail and 48-hour delivery;

Lewis Day: international couriers;

Government Mail: internal mail;

Pitney Bowes: mail screening;

FCO: diplomatic bag;

DHL: bulk deliveries of exhibition material.

Retirement

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform whether his Department requires its employees to retire at the latest at 65 years of age; and if he will make a statement. [169617]

Mr. Thomas: The Department's retirement age is 65, although staff can retire at any age between 60 and 65 subject to giving three months notice. As the Department's retirement age was increased from age 60 to 65 in 2002, staff who continued working beyond age 60 are only now reaching 65. Staff are notified eight months before they are 65 of their right to request to work after they are 65 and their line manager considers their request.

The Department has decided to retain the default retirement age of 65 in the short term. This will be reviewed at the beginning of 2008 ahead of the wider review of the default retirement age in 2011.

Severn Barrage

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (1) who will lead the feasibility study on the prospects for a Severn Barrage; which organisations will be contributing to the study; and if he will make a statement. [167517]

(2) what the expected cost is of the feasibility study on the prospects for a Severn Barrage; and if he will make a statement. [167519]

(3) when he expects the feasibility study on the prospects for a Severn Barrage to begin; how long he expects the study to take; and if he will make a statement. [167520]

Malcolm Wicks: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave him on 3 December 2007, Official Report, column 908W.

Tidal Power: Pembrokeshire

Mr. Crabb: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what funds his Department has (a) committed and (b) spent on the development of a tidal power project off the north Pembrokeshire coast. [166213]

Malcolm Wicks: A total of £3,226,449 has been committed through the Technology Strategy Board's technology programme (formerly DTIs technology programme) to assist Lunar Energy Ltd develop the novel tidal turbine technology that would be used for the project.

This type of early commercial scale project can attract support under BERR's £50 million marine renewables deployment fund.

Mr. Crabb: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment he has made of the likely timetable for (a) gaining planning consents and (b) construction of the tidal power scheme proposed by Lunar Energy and E.on. [166214]

Malcolm Wicks: No such assessment has been made as there has been no application made for consent under the Electricity Act 1989 in respect of the tidal power scheme proposed by Lunar Energy Limited and E.on UK plc.

DUCHY OF LANCASTER

Central Sponsor for Information Assurance Unit

Greg Clark: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster (1) what the budget was of the Central Sponsor for Information Assurance Unit in each of the last five years; [168803]

(2) how many people were employed in the Central Sponsor for Information Assurance Unit in each of the last five years. [168804]

Edward Miliband [holding answer 27 November 2007]: The Central Sponsor for Information Assurance forms part of the work of the Intelligence, Security and Resilience Group (ISS). Details for this group are included in the Department's annual report and accounts, copies of which are available in the Library of the House for the reference of Members.

Departmental Staff

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster (1) what the percentage turnover of staff was in (a) his Department and (b) his Department's agencies in (i) the last 12-month period and (ii) the last 24-month period for which figures are available; [169028]

(2) what the percentage turnover of staff was in the Office of the Leader of the House in (a) the last 12-month period and (b) the last 24-month period for which figures are available. [169027]

Gillian Merron: For these purposes the Office of the Leader of the House forms part of the Cabinet Office and is covered in overall figures for the Cabinet Office set out as follows.

The turnover rate for the Cabinet Office for the 2006-07 financial year was 26.9 per cent. and for the 24 months from April 2005 to March 2007 period was 26.5 per cent. The Department has a higher level of turnover compared to other Government Departments, because there are significant numbers of staff on fixed term appointments, on loan from other Government Departments or on secondment from external organisations, bringing in people with relevant skills/ expertise to work on current priorities.

For the Central Office of Information, equivalent figures are 12.9 per cent. and 11.8 per cent.

Turnover figures include all staff who have left the relevant Department in the relevant period, including staff who have moved to other Government Departments, as well as staff who have left the civil service.

Departmental Secondment

Mrs. May: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster (1) how many secondments of staff were made (a) to and (b) from his Department in each year since 1997; which organisations staff were seconded (i) to and (ii) from; how many staff were seconded in each year; for how long each secondment lasted; and what the cost was of each secondment in each year; [167281]

(2) how many secondments of staff were made (a) to and (b) from the Office of the Leader of the House in each year since 1997; which organisations' staff were seconded (i) to and (ii) from; how many staff were seconded in each year; for how long each secondment lasted; and what the cost was of each secondment in each year. [168722]

Gillian Merron: I have placed in the Libraries of the House details of secondments to and from the Cabinet Office since 2002-03, including the Office of the Leader of the House. The Cabinet Office does not hold the information in the detail requested for secondments before April 2002.

Costs of secondments cannot be provided as salary and pension undertakings are split according to the terms of each secondment and are therefore not held centrally. It is, however, usual for the host organisation to bear the cost for a secondee.

Social Exclusion: Co-ordinated Policy

Greg Clark: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what plans the Government have to co-ordinate the co-ordinating role of the Social Exclusion Task Force with the co-ordinating role of the Child Poverty Unit; and where responsibility lies for such co-ordination. [170148]

Edward Miliband [holding answer 3 December 2007]: The Social Exclusion Task Force sits at the centre of Government in order to facilitate collaborative working on social exclusion across Government Departments. It works closely with a number of key units, including the Child Poverty Unit, which concentrates on child poverty issues.

Departmental Health Insurance

Norman Lamb: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many officials in (a) the Cabinet Office and (b) No. 10 Downing Street have private health insurance provided as part of their employment package. [167938]

Gillian Merron: The Cabinet Office, which includes the Prime Minister's Office, does not offer private health insurance as part of its employment package.

The Civil Service Compensation Scheme and the Civil Service Injury Benefits Scheme provide support to qualifying employees who are unable to work through illness or injury.

In addition, two independent societies offer civil servants health insurance cover and treatment at competitive rates.

Public Participation: Incentives

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what the average cash incentive payment or expenses payment given to participants to take part in citizens' juries was in each citizens' jury so far held. [164310]

Edward Miliband: The Cabinet Office held a day long deliberative forum on the draft legislative programme. 76 members of the general public attended this event, with an average payment of £207 for each person who attended, which included the cost of their accommodation and travel.

TREASURY

Average Earnings

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the average national wage was in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [170956]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question asking what the average national wage was in each year since 1997. (170956)

Levels of earnings are estimated from the Annual Survey of Hours and Earnings (ASHE), and are provided for full-time employees on adult rates of pay, whose pay for the survey period was not affected by absence. The ASHE, carried out in April each year, is the most comprehensive source of earnings information in the United Kingdom.

ASHE results can be obtained on the National Statistics website at:

http://www.statistics.gov.uk/ashe

Average Earnings: Eastern Region

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the average wage was for persons aged between 16 and 25 years (a) in total and (b) for those (i) with and (ii) without higher education qualifications in each parliamentary constituency in the Eastern region in each year since 1997. [169827]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your parliamentary question about what the average wage was for persons aged between 16 and 25 years (a) in total and (b) for those (i) with and (ii) without higher education qualifications in each parliamentary constituency in the Eastern region in each year since 1997. (169827)

The attached table gives the average gross weekly earnings of full-time employees aged 16-24, with and without higher education qualifications, resident in the East region and United Kingdom. The figures shown are estimates from the Labour Force Survey (LFS) for the three month period ending June of each year, from 1997 to 2007. The LFS sample is too small to provide estimates for each Eastern parliamentary constituency. The survey does not collect information about the earnings of self-employed people.

The Annual Survey of Hours and Earnings (ASHE) is the principal source of statistics on employee earnings. However, since the ASHE does not collect information about qualification levels, the estimates given in the reply are based on the Labour Force Survey (LFS) microdata.

As with any sample survey, estimates from the LFS are subject to a margin of uncertainty.

Average Earnings: Herefordshire

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the average wage was in Herefordshire in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [170954]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 December 2007:

Child Benefit: Personal Records

Mr. Gauke: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to his oral statement of 20 November 2007, whether the Government will reimburse clearing banks for all or part of the costs of taking measures to prevent identity theft arising as a consequence of the loss of data. [167848]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 26 November 2007]: HMRC is in regular and ongoing contact with the banks on all the issues associated with the loss of the discs.

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what sanctions have been taken against the HM Revenue and Customs official who posted two compact discs containing confidential child benefit information. [168208]

Jane Kennedy: It would be inappropriate to comment on this while there is an ongoing police investigation.

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what measures are in place to compensate individuals for losses arising from fraudulent activity using data released by HM Revenue and Customs inadvertently or by virtue of official error; and if he will make a statement. [168226]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 26 November 2007]: The police continue to have no reason to believe the data have found their way into the wrong hands and are not aware that it has been used for fraudulent purposes or criminal activity.

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer who will bear the cost of the police operation to trace the lost disks containing confidential child benefit information. [168289]

Jane Kennedy: HMRC will bear the incremental direct costs of the police operation to trace the two missing discs containing child benefit data.

Tom Brake: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer who will bear the costs to the banks of the increased customer activity due to the loss of two compact discs containing confidential child benefit information; and if he will make a statement. [169315]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 29 November 2007]: HMRC is in regular and ongoing contact with the banks on all the issues associated with the loss of the discs.

James Brokenshire: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the potential liability HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC) may be under to provide compensation to financial institutions or individuals arising from any financial fraud committed against child benefit recipients whose identity details have been lost by HMRC. [169488]

Jane Kennedy: The police continue to have no reason to believe the data have found their way into the wrong hands and are not aware that they have been used for fraudulent purposes or criminal activity.

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to his statement of 20 November 2007, Official Report, columns 1101-04, on HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC), how much time banks requested after receipt of data files from HMRC to ensure adequate protection of customer accounts before details of the loss of personal information was released to the public; and when he received the request. [169539]

Jane Kennedy: HMRC worked closely with the banks to inform them of the missing data and to ensure the right safeguards are in place to protect individuals. The banks asked for sufficient time to prepare for the announcement.

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many of the individuals' records missing in the transfer of information from HM Revenues and Customs are of (a) adults and (b) children. [168457]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 29 November 2007]: The missing information contains details of child benefit records for 25 million individuals, 9.5 million adult claimants and 15.5 million children and 7.25 million families.

Crossrail Line: Finance

Graham Stringer: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what estimate he has made of the Barnett consequentials arising from Crossrail in each of the next five years; [168130]

(2) what estimate he has made of the Barnett consequentials arising from Thameslink in each of the next five years. [168131]

Andy Burnham [holding answer 26 November 2007]: These projects are being funded from a variety of sources including the Department for Transport. Details of the Department for Transport's funding for the years to 2010-11 are set out in Annex D3 of the 2007 pre-Budget report and comprehensive spending review document (Cm 7227). The Barnett formula is applied to changes in the overall Department for Transport's departmental expenditure limit. Full details of the Barnett formula are available in the Treasury publication 'Funding the Scottish Parliament, National Assembly for Wales and Northern Ireland Assembly: Statement of Funding Policy'.

Death: Weather

Sir Peter Soulsby: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many people in Leicester aged 65 years and over died of cold related illnesses between 1 October and 1 March in each of the last 10 years. [170772]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking how many people in Leicester age 65 years and over died of a cold related illness between 1st October and 1st March in each of the last 10 years. (170772)

Most routine mortality statistics are based on a single cause of death, the underlying cause of death, which is defined by the World Health Organisation as:

(a) the disease which initiated the train of events directly leading to death; or

(b) the circumstances of the accident or violence which produced the fatal injury.

There is no agreed list of cold related illnesses. However, subnormal body temperature, hypothermia, may be mentioned on the death certificate.

There were two deaths where hypothermia was mentioned on the death certificate[1], in Leicester unitary authority[2], between 1st October and the 1st March in the years 1996/97 to 2005/06[3] (the latest year available). These deaths were in the winter of 1999/2000.

[1] Hypothermia was defined using the International Classification of Diseases, Ninth Revision (ICD-9) code 991.6 for the years 1996 to 2000, and the International Classification of Diseases, Tenth Revision (ICD-10) code T68, for the years 2001 to 2006. Deaths were included where hypothermia was mentioned anywhere on the death certificate.

[2] Based on boundaries as of 2007.

[3] Figures are for deaths occurring in each year.

Delivery Unit

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many times officials from the Delivery Unit have met individuals representing (a) rail passengers, (b) the rail industry, (c) bus passengers, (d) bus companies, (e) coach passengers, (f) coach companies and (g) cyclists since 27 June. [170734]

Andy Burnham: Officials from the Prime Minister's Delivery Unit regularly meet with stakeholders relevant to its work. However, in the period since June 2007, officials from the Delivery Unit have not met individuals representing transport uses or providers.

Departmental Data Protection

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what (a) procedures and (b) protocols govern the transfer of personal data between his Department and (i) other Government Departments, (ii) local authorities and (iii) other Government agencies. [167684]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 26 November 2007]: HMRC may only disclose information which it holds in accordance with the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs Act 2005. Most transfers of data take place under statutory gateways which specify circumstances in which HMRC may disclose such information. All disclosures must be compliant with the Data Protection Act 1998 and the Human Rights Act 1998. Memorandums of understanding, partnership agreements and codes of practice set out the relationship between HMRC and the Department or other body receiving the data, including the specific procedures and protocols governing the use of the information.

On 20 November, the Chancellor announced an independent review of HMRC's data handling procedures to be conducted by Kieran Poynter, the chair of PricewaterhouseCoopers.

Departmental Postal Services

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many items of post sent by his Department were reported missing by the intended recipient in each year since 1997. [171284]

Angela Eagle: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Departmental Reviews

Dr. Cable: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what (a) reviews, (b) consultations and (c) taskforces his Department is (i) responsible for and (ii) scheduled to undertake; on what date each (A) started and (B) is expected to be completed; what the purpose is of each; and if he will make a statement. [170367]

Angela Eagle: Information on the independent reviews commissioned by the Treasury is published on the Treasury's website at:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/IndependentReviews/independent_reviews_index.cfm.

Excise Duties: Beer

Sir Nicholas Winterton: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what assessment he has made of the effect of his Department's excise policy on the consumption of beer in public houses and bars; and if he will make a statement; [170310]

(2) if he will freeze beer duty; and if he will make a statement; [170311]

(3) if he will commission a review of the impact of excise policy on the UK brewing industry; and if he will make a statement. [170312]

Angela Eagle: Decisions on the taxation of beer are made by the Chancellor at Budget taking all relevant factors into consideration, including the state of the industry and its contribution to the economy.

Export Controls: ICT

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of the IT system relating to export control at the UK's borders; what the problem with the system identified by the European Court of Auditors is; how many posts use individual ad hoc random checking in lieu of the IT system; what the cost of the IT system was in the last year for which figures are available; and what discussions he has had with the suppliers of the system on these matters. [170517]

Jane Kennedy: A number of interlinked IT systems are used to control exports at the UK border. HMRC regularly reviews these systems with the trade and with IT suppliers to maintain and improve effective controls and ensure that the UK continues to be a good place to do business.

In October 2004 the European Court of Auditors noted a problem involving a customs risk based system (TECS), used to target physical controls on exports claiming refunds under the Common Agricultural Policy.

This problem only affected a small percentage of CAP export declarations. The problem had been identified by customs officers prior to the audit and guidance issued in June 2004 to provide a temporary solution and a technical correction was implemented in October 2005. Routine monitoring continues to ensure the effective performance of TECS.

There are a number of factors that determine which export consignments are checked and HMRC use electronic risk-based assessments to target our resources effectively. We do not use random or ad hoc checks to identify irregularities.

TECS is an in-house developed application, in place since 1999. The application is still supported and maintained by in-house staff in HMRC.

HM Revenue and Customs

Mr. Gauke: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to his statement of 20 November 2007, Official Report, columns 1101-18, on HM Revenue and Customs, what assessment he has made on whether the missing computer discs remain on Government property. [168797]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 27 November 2007]: The police continue to have no reason to believe the data have found their way into the wrong hands and are not aware that they have been used for fraudulent purposes or criminal activity.

Home Responsibilities Protection

Steve Webb: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when his Department will process the CF411 form applying for home responsibilities protection that was submitted by a constituent, Mrs. Donnelly, in September; and if he will make a statement on the length of time being taken to process CF411 forms by his Department. [170571]

Jane Kennedy: We cannot comment on individual cases.

Home responsibilities protection, (HRP), is processed in the national insurance contributions office. Where an application contains all the information required to process the case it can be completed within a month. It can take longer where cases require us to gather additional information and/or for us to contact the applicant or other Government Departments for further information.

Immigrants: Herefordshire

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many immigrants lived in Herefordshire in each year since 1997, broken down by country of origin; and if he will make a statement. [170950]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your question regarding how many immigrants lived in Herefordshire in each year since 1997, broken down by country of origin. (170950)

The data you requested are not available for Local Authorities. Census data on the population of Herefordshire by country of birth are available on the Neighbourhood Statistics website for 2001 only. The movement of individuals from overseas into Local Authorities is published on the National Statistics website. However onwards movements within the UK are not recorded and therefore data are not available for the numbers of immigrants living in a Local Authority at a particular point in time.

Members: Correspondence

Dr. Julian Lewis: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 27 November 2007, Official Report, column 394W, on Members: correspondence, whether Treasury Ministers' written answers which cite earlier replies enclose hard copies of earlier replies, referred to as standard practice in the answer of 26 November 2007, Official Report, column 1133W, on written questions. [170725]

Angela Eagle: Treasury Ministers observe the practice of enclosing earlier answers which are cited in our written answers to parliamentary questions. My answer of 27 November 2007, Official Report, column 394W, referred to a reply which the hon. Gentleman had received the previous day from the Deputy Leader of the House and a copy of that reply was enclosed with my answer.

Migration: London Residents

Mr. Boris Johnson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many and what percentage of London residents (a) with and (b) without British citizenship migrated to (i) other regions of the UK and (ii) outside the UK in each of the last 10 years. [169671]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your question asking how many and what percentage of London residents (a) with British citizenship and (b) without British citizenship migrated to (i) other regions of the UK and (ii) outside the UK in each of the last 10 years. (169671)

The mid-year population estimates of people living in London are not available broken down by citizenship over the last ten years. Also, data are not available that show migration by citizenship within and between the regions of the UK.

However, data are available that show estimates of emigration by British and non-British citizens from Greater London to areas outside the UK in each of the last ten years (Table 1). These estimates are based on the International Passenger Survey (IPS) and are also shown as a percentage of each mid-year population estimate for Greater London.

The IPS is a sample survey and, like all survey sources, is subject to sampling and non-sampling error.

Table 1: population and international migration time series 1997-2006—people emigrating from London[1] by citizenship and as percentage of the mid-year population estimates

| | MYE[2] London | Emigrants[3,4] All citizenships | | British | | Non-British | |

| 2003 | 7,364 | 88 | 1.2 | 27 | 0.4 | 61 | 0.8 |
| 2004 | 7,389 | 79 | 1.1 | 33 | 0.4 | 46 | 0.6 |
| 2005 | 7,456 | 87 | 1.2 | 27 | 0.4 | 60 | 0.8 |
| 2006 | 7,512 | 111 | 1.5 | 31 | 0.4 | 79 | 1.1 |

[1] The Government Office Region of London definition has been used, i.e. Greater London.
[2] MYE are the revised mid year population estimates and are rounded to the nearest thousand. Emigration data are for calendar year, rounded to the nearest thousand.
[3] Emigrants are the International Passenger Survey estimates for calendar year, rounded to the nearest thousand.
[4] The international migration estimates have been revised using a consistent methodology based primarily on the Labour Force Survey (LFS) to allocate migration to the constituent countries of the UK, and to Government Office Regions within England.
Notes:
1. Figures have been rounded independently and may not add to totals.
2. Percentages have been calculated on unrounded data.

Mr. Boris Johnson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many and what percentage of British citizens migrated from other regions of the UK to London in each of the last 10 years, broken down by (a) sex and (b) age. [169672]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your question asking how many and what percentage of British citizens migrated from other regions of the UK to London in each of the last 10 years, broken down by (a) sex and (b) age. (169672)

Estimates of British citizens migrating from other regions of the UK to London are not available because the data sources used by ONS do not differentiate such internal migrants on the basis of their citizenship.

Minimum Wage: Chelmsford

Mr. Burns: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many people in West Chelmsford constituency were paid less than the minimum wage in the latest period for which figures are available. [169769]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question asking how many people in West Chelmsford Parliamentary Constituency were paid less than the minimum wage in the latest period for which figures are available. (169769)

Estimates for the number of jobs paid below the national minimum wage by Parliamentary Constituency are not available. However, I attach a table showing the number of jobs earning less than the national minimum wage by Government Office Region.

A guide to measuring low pay and associated articles can be found on the National Statistics website at:

http://www.statistics.gov.uk/StatBase/Product.asp?vlnk=5837

Office for National Statistics: Data Collection

Greg Clark: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what his policy is on market testing the data collection activities of the Office of National Statistics; and if he will make a statement. [170130]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 December 2007:

As National Statistician I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question concerning the Office for National Statistics' (ONS) policy for market testing data collection activities. (170130)

ONS has a policy of using in house data collection for the majority of its business and household survey data collection activities. We review our overall data collection strategy periodically to identify potential opportunities to outsource or market test activities. There are circumstances where data collection is outsourced where it provides better value for money, subject to the quality of the data being maintained and strict confidentiality requirements being assured.

We tender for Government surveys commissioned by other Government Departments in competition with other survey organisations and have recently been successful in winning contracts.

Examples of data collection activities contracted to private suppliers include retail price levels for the Consumer Prices Index and some aspects of the 2011 Population Census.

Personal Income: Herefordshire

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what the average household income was in Herefordshire in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement; [170955]

(2) what the average household income was in Herefordshire in the latest period for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [170953]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Questions on average household income in Herefordshire. (170953, 170955).

The Office for National Statistics (ONS) publishes estimates of regional gross disposable household income (GDHI)[1] using official statistical geographies known as Nomenclature of Units for Territorial Statistics (NUTS). This is income of the household and non profit institutions serving households (NPISH) sector rather than an average income of households. The County of Herefordshire is in a NUTS3 region and GDHI per head estimates exist up to 2005. A consistent time series exists back to 1995.

These data are at current prices and therefore inflation is not taken into account.

The data table contains estimates of gross disposable household income (GDHI) per head for the NUTS3 region of the County of Herefordshire.

[1] Gross disposable household income (GDHI) is the amount of money that households have available for spending or saving after deductions and expenditure associated with income, e.g. taxes and social contributions and provision for future pension income.

Gross disposable household income £ per head of population[1,2] for the county of Herefordshire 1995-2005

| | £ per head |
|---|---|
| 1995 | 7,783 |
| 1996 | 8,218 |
| 1997 | 8,681 |
| 1998 | 8,989 |
| 1999 | 9,462 |
| 2000 | 9,988 |
| 2001 | 10,697 |
| 2002 | 11,067 |
| 2003 | 11,558 |
| 2004 | 11,902 |
| 2005 | 12,414 |

[1] Population measure is based upon mid-year estimate for total population.

[2] Estimates are consistent with the national accounts series for the combined household and non-profit institutions serving households sectors as published in Blue Book 2006.

Personal Income: Suffolk

Mr. Spring: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the average household income in Suffolk was in (a) each year since 1997 and (b) the latest period for which figures are available. [171616]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 December 2007:

Population: Greater London

Mr. Boris Johnson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many and what percentage of (a) males and (b) females residing in London were (i) under five,

(ii) between five and 15, (iii) between 15 and 20, (iv) between 20 and 44, (v) between 45 and 65 and (vi) over 66 years of age in each of the last 10 years available, broken down by borough. [169674]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your question regarding how many and what percentage of (a) males and (b) females residing in London were (i) under five, (ii) between five and 15 (iii) between 15 and 20 (iv) between 20 and 44:(v) between 45 and 65 and (vi) over 66 years of age in each of the last 10 years available, broken down by borough. (169674)

Table 1 in the attached table shows the male and female population aged 0 to 4, 5 to 14, 15 to19, 20 to 44, 45 to 65 and 66 plus for mid-1997 to mid-2006, for Greater London and its boroughs.

Table 2 in the attached table shows the percentage of the population for males and females aged 0 to 4, 5 to 14, 15 to 19, 20 to 44, 45 to 65 and 66 plus for mid-1997 to mid-2006, for Greater London and its boroughs. A copy of the tables has been placed in the House of Commons Library.

The mid-2006 population estimates are the latest available.

Mr. Boris Johnson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the population turnover rates were of each London borough in each of the last five years, broken down by age group. [169675]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your question regarding what the population turnover rates were of each London borough in each of the last five years, broken down by population age group. (169675)

ONS publish migration indicators at Local Authority level that show the total volume of migration to and from the local authority per 1000 head of population. These data provide a measure of population churn due to migration but they are not available by age. Therefore the population turnover rates by age that you requested cannot be provided.

Population: Herefordshire

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what estimate he has made of the population of Herefordshire in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement; [170951]

(2) what estimate he has made of the population of Herefordshire aged 65 years and over in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [170952]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been; asked to reply to your questions regarding what estimate has been made of the population of Herefordshire in each year since 1997 and what estimate has been made of the population of Herefordshire aged 65 years and over in each year since 1997. (170951, 170952)

Table 1 shows the total population and the population aged 65 and over for Herefordshire for the years requested.

The latest population estimates available are for mid-2006.

Retail Prices Index

Mr. Swayne: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what representations he has received on the effectiveness of the retail price index in measuring the real cost of living; and if he will make a statement. [168621]

Angela Eagle: The Chancellor and other Treasury Ministers receive a wide number of representations on economic and statistical issues. The Government believe that the maintenance of low and stable inflation is a crucial platform for increasing economic prosperity and achieving an affordable cost of living for all. Under this Government's monetary policy framework, the UK has benefited from its longest period of sustained low and stable inflation since the 1960s. GDP in the UK has now expanded for 61 consecutive quarters, the longest unbroken expansion on record.

Self-employed

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many and what percentage of people in the UK were self-employed in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [170959]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question about how many and what percentage of people in the UK were self-employed in each year since 1997. (170959)

Not seasonally adjusted and seasonally adjusted estimates for self-employed people are published each month in the Labour Market Statistics First Release in table 3. Please visit the following link;

http://www.statistics.gov.uk/StatBase/Product.asp?vlnk=1944

The attached table has been derived from the published seasonally adjusted table 3. It shows the number of people aged 16 and over in the category requested for the three month period ending September each year, from 1997 to 2007. These estimates are seasonally adjusted.

Estimates are taken from the Labour Force Survey (LFS). As with any sample survey, estimates from the LFS are subject to a margin of uncertainty.

[1] People aged 16 or over are classed as in employment by the LFS if they have done at least one hour of paid work (as an employee or self-employed) in the week prior to their LFS interview or if they have a job that they are temporarily away from. People who do unpaid work in a family business and people on Government-supported training and employment programmes are also included according to the International Labour Organisation convention.

Self-employed: Herefordshire

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many and what percentage of people in Herefordshire were self-employed in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [170958]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question asking how many and what percentage of people in Herefordshire were self-employed in each year since 1997. (170958)

The Office for National Statistics compiles employment statistics for local areas from the annual local area Labour Force Survey (LFS) and the Annual Population Survey (APS) following International Labour Organisation definitions.

The table attached shows numbers of self-employed people and these as a percentage of all employed in the Herefordshire county, for the 12 month periods ending in February from 1998 to 2004 from the annual local area LFS and for the 12 months ending in March from 2005 to 2007 from the APS.

Estimates for a subset of the population in a small geographical area are based on very small sample sizes, and are therefore subject to large margins of uncertainty. Changes over time should be treated with particular caution.

Social Investment Bank

Mr. Allen: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he expects the Social Investment Bank to make its first loan; and whether (a) local authorities and (b) local strategic partnerships will be able to borrow from the Social Investment Bank. [168291]

Jane Kennedy: The consultation document on the Government's proposals for a distribution mechanism for unclaimed assets stated that the Government's priorities for spending in England would be youth services, followed by financial capability and inclusion. In addition, the document stated:

> "Resources permitting, the Government would also like to see some of the available assets in England used to invest in the long-term sustainability of the third sector and to boost social investment."

Clause 17 of the Dormant Bank and Building Society Accounts Bill currently before the House of Lords will therefore enable dormant account funds to be allocated to a social investment wholesaler, should resources permit.

Unemployment: Chelmsford

Mr. Burns: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many 18 to 24 year olds were unemployed in (a) West Chelmsford constituency and (b) Chelmsford local authority area in each September from 2001 to 2007. [170300]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question asking how many 18 to 24 year olds were unemployed in (a) West Chelmsford constituency and (b) Chelmsford local authority area in each September from 2001 to 2007. (170300)

The Office for National Statistics (ONS) compiles unemployment statistics from the annual local area Labour Force Survey (LFS) and the Annual Population Survey (APS) following International Labour Organisation (ILO) definitions. These are annual surveys and the estimates derived from them cover twelve month periods, rather than a particular month.

However, from the annual LFS and the APS, there are only two periods in the last 6 years where the sample sizes are sufficient to provide an estimate of the number of unemployed

18 to 24 year olds resident in the West Chelmsford constituency or Chelmsford local authority. These data are from the Annual local area LFS for the 12 month period ending in February for 2003 and from the APS for the 12 month period ending in March for 2005 as shown in Table 1.

As these estimates are for a subset of the population in a small geographical area, they are based on very small sample sizes, and are therefore subject to large margins of uncertainty.

ONS also compiles statistics for local areas of people claiming Jobseeker's Allowance (JSA). Table 2 shows the number of JSA claimants aged 18 to 24, resident in West Chelmsford constituency and Chelmsford local authority, claiming in September for 2001 to 2007. The numbers are also shown as the percentage of all persons aged 18-24 resident in the areas. Percentages for the West Chelmsford constituency cannot be shown, as the working age population estimates for parliamentary constituencies cannot be broken down into different age groups.

Unemployment: Greater London

Mr. Boris Johnson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many the 16, the 17, the 18, the 19, the 20, the 21, (g) 22, (h) 23 and (i) 24 year old (i) women and (ii) men were not in education, employment or training in each of the last 10 years available, broken down by London borough. [169824]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your parliamentary question asking how many (a) 16, (b) 17, (c) 18, (d) 19, (e) 20, (f) 21, (g) 22, (h) 23 and (i) 24 year old (i) women and (ii) were not in education, employment or training in each of the last 10 years available, broken down by London borough. (169824).

Information in the form requested is not readily available and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

World Customs Organisation: European Commission

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer for what reasons the European Commission is seeking membership of the World Customs Organisation; what negotiating rights the European Commission will have in relation to EU member states; and what other rights and obligations will accrue to the Commission. [170662]

Jane Kennedy: The European Community first applied to become a member of the WCO in 2001 because it has competence for most international trade matters. The WCO's establishing convention does not currently provide for customs and economic unions to become members and will need to be modified. This will take some time, so interim membership arrangements have been put in place and came into effect for the EC on 1 July 2007.

As a member of the WCO, the EC is entitled to participate in all WCO bodies which are open to general membership. On issues subject to Community competence (which covers the majority of the WCO's work), the EC will cast a number of votes equal to the number of EU member states present at the meeting. For matters falling under joint or national competence, member states will continue to speak at meetings and to vote: the EC will not act on behalf of member states on these matters. However, member states and the European Commission will try to coordinate an agreed position where appropriate in order to present a unified view at WCO meetings.

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

Corporate Hospitality

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform on how many occasions he has accepted corporate hospitality in the last 12 months. [171321]

Mr. Hutton: Chapter 7 of the Ministerial Code sets out the rules on the registration of hospitality.

Engineering: Skilled Workers

Mr. Olner: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment he has made of future engineering skills needs. [166294]

Mr. Lammy: I have been asked to reply.

The assessment of future engineering skills needs is led by SEMTA, the Sector Skills Council (SSC) for science, engineering and manufacturing technologies sector. SEMTA has produced sector skills agreements (SSAs) for the aerospace, automotive, electronics and marine sectors in 2005-06. Each SSA identifies current workforce development and skills needs, sets out future skills needs and key skills requirements. SSAs are supported by an action plan which identifies the proposed ways in which the needs will be met. Government are working with the SSC and many other delivery partners to take these actions forward.

Summary documents on the Aerospace, Automotive and Electronics SSA and the Marine SSA have been placed in the Library. Full reports of these can be viewed on the SEMTA website at:

www.semta.org.uk.

Export Credit Guarantees: Iran

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform pursuant to the answer of 14 November 2007, Official Report, column 251W, on Export Credit Guarantees: Iran, what UK policy is on whether UN Security Council Resolution 1747 applies to the provision of export credit guarantees. [167320]

Malcolm Wicks: UK policy is that UN Security Council Resolution 1747 does not apply to the provision of export credits. The UK has pressed, both at the UN and the EU, for constraints on the provision of new export credit support for Iran, since multilateral imposition would have the maximum impact. We were unable to secure an explicit reference to export credits in UN Security Council Resolution 1747 and, like other countries, have concluded that export credits are not therefore covered by the Resolution.

We continue to press for multilateral constraints on new export credits to be among the sanctions options that may be included in a further UN Security Council Resolution and EU Common Position. Consistent with this stance, ECGD is reviewing its position on Iran and has stopped processing applications for new cover.

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform pursuant to the answer of 14 November 2007, Official Report, column 251W, on export credit guarantees: Iran, what form the Export Credits Guarantee Department market review of Iran takes; what criteria are being assessed in the review; and when he expects a decision to be made. [167322]

Malcolm Wicks: All markets are kept under regular review by ECGD to determine their riskiness.

ECGD's formal risk assessment criteria for any sovereign risk includes the capacity and willingness of the country in question to meet its debt commitments (i.e. the risk of default) taking account of any uncertainties in its international relations; how long a default might last were it to occur (which informs our judgement on the risk of potential claims); and the likely loss that could be incurred. In addition, for riskier markets, ECGD reviews on an ongoing basis whether cover and premium policies and case handling arrangements remain appropriate.

A decision on risk by ECGD is also subject to wider UK foreign policy objectives.

Information: Fees and Charges

Mr. Todd: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform which stakeholders the Cambridge university academics commissioned to conduct a study on information pricing by his Department (a) have met and (b) plan to meet. [166008]

Mr. Thomas: The terms of reference produced at the time of the tender process is being placed in the Library of the House. This document has been made freely available to parties that request it.

Post Offices: Closures

Charles Hendry: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many responses have been received to the six-week consultation over proposed post office closures in the Greater Glasgow, Central Scotland, Argyll and Bute Area plan. [172043]

Mr. McFadden: This is an operational matter for Post Office Ltd. (POL). I have therefore asked Alan Cook, Managing Director of POL, to reply direct to the hon. Member. Copies of the letter will be placed in the Libraries of the House.

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Academies: Teachers

Helen Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what consideration he has given to requiring academies to operate according to the School Teachers' Pay and Conditions Document; what recent representations he has received on this matter; and whether he plans to consult on it. [169308]

Jim Knight [holding answer 29 November 2007]: Academies are independent schools. One of their key features is the freedom to be innovative in the way they reward and retain staff. That said, we know that many Academies base their pay and conditions on the School Teachers' Pay and Conditions Document. We have no plans to make that compulsory and have received few representations on the subject.

Aviation

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much his Department and its predecessor spent on (a) business and (b) first class air travel in the last 12 months. [171254]

Kevin Brennan: The spend on (a) business class flights in the 12 month period October 2006 to September 2007 for the former Department for Education and Skills was £241,936 and (b) first class flights in the 12 month period October 2006 to September 2007 for the former Department for Education and Skills was £24,658.

Care Homes: Children

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what guidance has been issued to (a) local authority children's services, (b) local authority children's homes and (c) privately run children's homes on their responsibility to provide personal individual support for looked after children exhibiting difficulty at school either in relation to bullying or educational matters. [170111]

Kevin Brennan: Improving the education of children in care is the highest priority for the Government. The Children Act 2004 placed local authorities under a specific duty to promote the educational achievement of all children in their care. In 2005, we issued statutory guidance on the duty on to promote the educational achievement of looked after children, which set out how local authorities should meet this duty. This included guidance on how they should ensure children's homes support the education of children in care.

The National Minimum Standards (NMS) for children's homes make it clear that measures must be in place within local authority and privately run children's homes to address bullying. In particular, there must be a policy on preventing and countering bullying which is known to staff and children. This includes bullying that may occur outside the home.

We recognise that the education of children and young people in care is not good enough. "Care Matters: Time for Change", published in June 2006, set out a range of measures to improve the attainment of those in care and, in particular, personalise their learning in order to narrow the gap between children in care and all children. This work is underpinned by a public service agreement to narrow the gap in educational achievement between children from low income and disadvantaged backgrounds and their peers, and the provisions in the Children and Young Persons Bill.

Following the passage of the Children and Young Persons Bill we are committed to revising the Children Act 1989 guidance and National Minimum Standards for Children's Homes. This will include guidance on how local authorities and children's homes should support the education of children and young people in care and ensure that those experiencing difficulty receive the support that they need.

Children: Databases

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what reviews have been undertaken by external consultants of the security measures proposed for the ContactPoint database; and what recommendations were made in those reviews. [170027]

Kevin Brennan: ContactPoint has been subject to scrutiny at key stages throughout its development. My Department's own Chief Security Officer—external to and independent from the project, has checked the Security Policy, the security architecture, and our risk assessment, and found them to be appropriate.

The news on 20 November of the loss of large volumes of child benefit data from HMRC has raised questions about the safety of large scale personal data in other Government systems, including ContactPoint. ContactPoint will not contain any financial information (such as bank details) or case information (such as case notes, assessments, medical records, exam results or subjective observations).

On 20 November, the department conducted an assessment of how personal data are stored and protected in the Department. As a result of that assessment, I am confident that we have very robust procedures in place.

On 21 November, the Prime Minister confirmed this approach when he asked all departments to check their procedures for the storage and use of data. In light of the security breach at the HMRC, we are continuing to check our procedures to ensure standards are as high as they can be. To this end, on 20 November, the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families decided to commission an independent assessment of its security procedures. This will be undertaken by Deloitte.

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) if he will place in the Library copies of the regulations, guidance and directions, on the operation of databases made under section 9 of the Children Act 2004; [170208]

(2) what the outcome was of the feasibility work undertaken to identify the best source of a unique identifying number in relation to databases established under the Children Act 2004. [170209]

Kevin Brennan: In relation to question 170208, The Children Act 2004 Information Database (England) Regulations (SI2007/2182) and the accompanying explanatory memorandum are available from the Office of Public Sector Information (OPSI) website:

http://www.opsi.gov.uk/si/si2007/20072182.htm, and:

http://www.opsi.gov.uk/si/em2007/uksiem 20072182_en.pdf

and can be accessed from the Library.

The Department consulted on draft ContactPoint Guidance between 4 May and 27 July 2007. I am arranging for a copy of the consultation draft of the ContactPoint Guidance to be supplied to the Library. We plan to publish the Guidance in June/July 2008 in advance of deployment to the Early Adopter local authorities in September/October 2008.

Section 12 of the Children Act 2004 provides for the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families to establish and operate a database (to be known as ContactPoint) and to make regulations and issue guidance and directions in relation to its establishment and operation. The Children Act 2004 Information Database (England) Regulations 2007 were approved by affirmative resolution in this House on 23 July 2007, and in another place on 18 July 2007, and have been in force since 1 August 2007. No directions have been issued under Section 12 of the Children Act 2004.

In relation to question 170209, the number to be used for identifying child records on the ContactPoint system will be an entirely new and unique number generated from the child reference number by 'electronic code book encryption'.

This new number will thus be based on, but entirely different to the child reference number, which underpins the child benefit system, such that the unique link between the two numbers will be securely and separately held. This is the strongest form of such encryption, and no pattern or link can be made between these two numbers.

Children: Day Care

Ms Buck: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what recent assessment he has made of the levels of availability of childcare for children aged 12 and upwards. [170676]

Beverley Hughes: Local authorities are required to complete by 31 March 2008 assessments of the sufficiency of child care in their areas in relation to children of all ages, covering supply of places, demand for places and gaps between the two. Their assessments will provide the basis for their duty to secure sufficient child care for all working parents from 1 April 2008.

The Government do not collect this data centrally because child care markets are essentially very local, and local authority level assessments aggregated nationally would be potentially misleading. Sufficiency, of course, is not just about numbers but about a host of criteria including accessibility, flexibility and affordability, as well as quantity.

Secondary schools, as part of the development of extended services, are expected to provide young people access to a varied menu of activities in a safe place to be, before and after school from 8 am to 6 pm and during the school holidays in response to demand. At present, 1,720 secondary schools are providing access to the full core offer of extended services.

The core offer in secondary schools comprises: a varied menu to activities in a safe place to be, parenting support, swift and easy access to a wide range of specialist support services and community access to school facilities.

Children: Speech Therapy

Annette Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment his Department has made of the merits of integrating the Communication Trust's Speech, Language and Communication Framework into the Children's Workforce Development Council's Integrated Qualifications Framework. [169781]

Kevin Brennan: The Department has not made an assessment. It is for those awarding bodies developing qualifications for inclusion on the Integrated Qualifications Framework (IQF), in conjunction with sector bodies, such as the Children's Workforce Development Council (CWDC), to determine what skills and knowledge is covered by qualifications. The Integrated Qualifications Framework (IQF) is currently in its testing phase and will not be fully operational until 2010.

CWDC and the Children's Workforce Network are working together to consider how best to meet the needs of children and young people with a range of disabilities, including speech, language and communication.

Departmental Consultants

Mr. Walker: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what contracts his Department has with external consultants; what the total value, including all VAT and disbursements, of these contracts are for the current financial year; how long each contract lasts; and what the forecast total value is of each contract. [163805]

Kevin Brennan: Our records show the total number of live contracts with external consultants as at 1 October 2007 was 256; the estimated value of these contracts for the current financial year is £40.5 million; and the estimated value of these contracts over their contractual period is £89.9 million.

To list these contracts to estimate the forecasted total value for each contract and the duration of each contract would all exceed the disproportionate cost threshold.

Departmental Data Protection

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many breaches of data protection security there were in his Department in each of the last five years; and if he will provide details of each breach; [168831]

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many confirmed data security breaches there have been in his Department in the last 36 months; and what action was taken after each occurrence. [169894]

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families whether he proposes to review how his Department transports data; and whether his Department uses TNT to transport data; [169367]

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) when each electronic database held by his Department containing personal information on members of the general public was first created; [169279]

(2) how many staff in his Department have access to electronic databases which contain personal information on members of the general public, broken down by grade; [169281]

(3) how many security breaches regarding access to personal data occurred within his Department in each year since 1997. [169280]

Kevin Brennan: I refer the hon. Members to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Departmental Ministerial Policy Advisers

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families if he will list the special advisers employed by his Department, setting out in each case their (a) responsibilities and (b) pay bands. [169835]

Kevin Brennan: The names and pay bands of all special advisers are contained in the Prime Minister's written statement to the House of 22 November 2007, Official Report, column 148-49WS.

Their duties are conducted in accordance with the requirements of the Code of Conduct for Special Advisers, a copy of which is in the Library of the House.

English Language

Mr. Walker: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment his Department has made of the additional demands that children without English as their first language place on primary and secondary schools. [169550]

Jim Knight: At January 2007, there were 789,720 children in primary and secondary schools with English as an additional language (EAL): that is 120,240 or some 18 per cent. higher than in 2004. EAL children comprise 12 per cent. of the whole population, up from 9 per cent. in 2004. Schools need to help such children acquire fluency in English as early as possible so that they can access the full curriculum.

The Government provide funding for new arrivals and EAL children in schools through two main routes. The first is an element within the Dedicated Schools Grant (DSG) for primary schools which was some £256 million in 2004-05, rising to £299 million in 2007-08, with a further rise to over £330 million in 2010-11—an 11 per cent. real terms increase on the 2004-05 level. The second is a substantial provision for EAL through the ring fenced Ethnic Minority Achievement Grant (EMAG), which has risen from £162 million in 2004-05 to £179 million in 2007-08 and will rise to £206 million by 2010-11—a 9 per cent. increase on the 2004-05 level. In addition an Exceptional Circumstances Grant (ECG) has been introduced to reflect changes in local authorities' pupil numbers which occur after the three year indicative allocations of DSG have been announced. It has three elements covering: an increase of more than 2.5 per cent. in overall pupil numbers; an increase of more than 2.5 per cent. in the proportion of children with EAL; and a one-off payment to authorities with EAL proportions below 10 per cent. which experience an increase in their EAL proportion of more than 2.5 per cent.

These increases in funding form part of the substantial overall increase in school funding: over the past 10 years since 1997, overall per pupil revenue funding for schools has increased by 67 per cent. in real terms. We expect local authorities to be able to manage new pressures from within these very substantial increases.

EU Lisbon Strategy

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps he is taking to meet the objectives of the EU Lisbon strategy. [170308]

Jim Knight [holding answer 3 December 2007]: The contribution of education and training to the Lisbon agenda is set out in the Education and Training 2010 Work Programme, and this Department plays an active role within the four main strands of the programme: setting priority areas for action; supporting peer learning and exchange of best practice; benchmarking progress; and developing common tools to support EU mobility and transparency of qualifications.

Furthermore, the UK's contribution to the EU Ministerial Education and Youth Councils and the official level working groups is rooted in the Lisbon Strategy, as this is where we see the EU as adding the most value. In particular, we are working to ensure that education and youth policy complements those policies being developed in other Lisbon spheres such as employment, social policy, and economic and financial affairs. This will help member states develop policies which will equip their citizens with the education and skills needed to thrive in a knowledge-based economy.

Free School Meals

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what proportion of students in each London borough were eligible to receive free school meals in the latest period for which figures are available. [169239]

Jim Knight: The available information has been placed in the Library. The tables have been taken from the Statistical First Release "Schools and Pupils in England: January 2007 (Final)" which is available at: http://www.dfes.gov.uk/rsgateway/DB/SFR/s000744/index.shtml.

Free School Meals: Greater London

Mr. Randall: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what percentage of children in (a) Uxbridge constituency and (b) each London borough were eligible for free school meals in each year since 1997. [169681]

Jim Knight: The requested information has been placed in the Library.

GCSE

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment he has made of the effects of the introduction of more modular examinations at GCSE and A level on examination results since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [163535]

Jim Knight: It is the responsibility of the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority (QCA) to regulate the public examinations system, and review standards. The QCA seeks views on the effect of modular examinations through consultations with stakeholders and by monitoring standards. However, it is difficult to disentangle the impact of modularisation from that of any other changes to GCSEs and A levels.

QCA has worked to ensure that standards are consistent and results have improved. Anecdotally, at A level the introduction of AS has helped this by engaging more candidates from the outset and, by allowing them to take a wider range of subjects, candidates concentrate on the subjects they are best at for the full A level.

QCA sought views on the effect of modular examinations as part of the consultation on GCSE criteria which was run earlier this year. The results of the consultation will be available on the QCA website, www.qca.org.uk, in mid-December.

Head Teachers: Qualifications

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many teachers have been appointed without the National Professional Qualification for Headship as existing head teachers changing schools, in each year since 2004; and if he will make a statement. [169795]

Jim Knight: We do not hold data on how many head teachers have moved to a second or subsequent headship post since 2004 and do not hold the National Professional Qualification for Headship (NPQH), as there is no tracking of teacher movements across the system. It is compulsory for all new heads in maintained schools or non-maintained special schools to have, or be working towards, NPQH if they took up their first headship post in a local authority maintained school or a special school after April 2004. It will be mandatory to hold the qualification (rather than be working towards it) from 1 April 2009. However, it is not a requirement for head teachers who took up their first headship post prior to April 2004 to hold NPQH in their existing post, or if appointed to a second or subsequent headship post.

Higher Education: British Overseas Territories

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how many students from British Overseas Territories have obtained places at London universities in each year since 1997; [168430]

(2) how many students from British Crown Dependencies have obtained places at London universities in each year since 1997. [168431]

Bill Rammell: I have been asked to reply.

The latest available information is given in the table. Figures for 2006/07 will be available in January 2008.

Mathematics: GCSE

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what percentage score was required for a GCSE pass in mathematics at Grade A for each examination board in each year from 1997 to 2007. [163306]

Jim Knight: This information is not held centrally. The process awarding bodies go through to ensure that standards are consistent means that there will be variations in terms of raw marks required between different awarding bodies' qualifications and from year-to-year.

It is for the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority (QCA) as the qualifications regulator to oversee the awarding process to ensure that standards are comparable both between different qualifications and over time. The Chief Executive of QCA, Dr. Ken Boston, has written to the hon. Member on this issue and a copy of his reply and the report mentioned have been placed in the Library.

Letter from Ken Boston, dated 20 November 2007:

GCSE and A level grades

Thank you for your letter of 30 October following the answer that Jim Knight MP provided in response to your Parliamentary Question.

Although Jim Knight's response indicated that the QCA is responsible for maintaining standards across qualifications and over time, it also stated that the level of information on grade boundaries that you are asking for is not held centrally. I am afraid that this means that QCA does not hold the information either. It is the awarding bodies that offer GCSE and A level qualifications who are responsible for setting grade boundary marks in each subject for every examination series.

Although I am unable to provide the data you request, I think it would be helpful to explain how the number of marks required to achieve a grade in any particular examination series is determined and which conclusions can be drawn from variations in the number of raw marks required to achieve a particular grade boundary each year.

For each discrete unit within a qualification (for example, there are currently six units in most A level qualifications) the mark required to achieve a particular grade is determined by an awarding body's awarding committee according to a process that is set out in a code of practice issued by QCA. An awarding committee comprises the most senior examiners for a qualification. They are required to use professional judgment, supported by technical and statistical data, to ensure that standards are carried forward from year to year. In other words, the committee must ensure that the same level of performance will achieve the same grade across different years. However, as different question papers are used in each examination series it is possible that the demand of the question paper might not be identical year-on-year. To take into account unforeseen variances in the demand of question papers between years, the awarding committee may adjust the number of marks required to achieve a particular grade in any given year in order to ensure standards are maintained.

The awarding bodies that offer GCSE and A levels are AQA, Edexcel and OCR in England, WJEC in Wales and CCEA in Northern Ireland. Between them, each of these awarding bodies offers up to 50 different subjects at GCSE and 40 different subjects at A level. Some awarding bodies offer more than one qualification in each subject per qualification type. In addition there are now opportunities to sit GCSE examinations in March, November and June and A level examinations in January and June.

Therefore, answering your question would require the collection of an extremely large amount of data in the form of a list of each grade A and grade C boundary mark for each of the hundreds of GCSE and A level specifications in each of the examination series in each of the 10 years since 1997. The only inference that could realistically be taken from such data would be that mark boundaries have varied and, indeed must vary, in order to maintain standards. Furthermore, raw mark grade boundary data could also be misleading as they would not necessarily indicate where there have been changes in the total number of marks available in a particular examination component.

On previous occasions, QCA has investigated the issue of changes in grade boundaries to look at whether a change in grade boundary marks indicated a change in standards. We looked at a number of grade boundaries in English, English Literature and Mathematics over a number of years. In addition, QCA collected data from a wide range of GCSE and A level examinations in a single year. We concluded that changes in grade boundaries did not indicate a change in standards and that it would not be necessary for us to expand our investigation or collect data from a wider sample. I attach a copy of the report on this work.

However, all of this is in relation to raw mark grade boundaries only. A levels and modular GCSEs allow candidates to sit component parts of the same qualification in different examination series and because papers in different years will be of slightly differing demand a method of scaling is required to ensure that the same level of achievement would receive the same grade across examination series. This scale is the Uniform Mark Scale (UMS) and it enables units for which different amounts of marks are available to be aggregated across or within an examination series to give an overall grade. The percentage of UMS marks required to achieve a given grade does not vary. At GCSE the following percentage of the maximum uniform marks available for a component is required to achieve a particular grade: A* - 90% of the available uniform marks; A - 80%; B - 70%; C - 60%; D - 50%; E - 40%; F - 30%; G - 20%. At A level to following percentage of maximum uniform marks are required to achieve a particular grade: A - 80%; B - 70; C - 60%; D - 50%; E - 40%.

Although QCA is unable to answer your question in the terms in which you asked it, I hope that I have been able to provide you with information that you find to be of use.

Opinion Leader Research

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many contracts were awarded by his Department to Opinion Leader Research in each year since 1997 was; and what was (a) the title and purpose, (b) the cost to the public purse and (c) the dates of (i) tender, (ii) award, (iii) operation and (iv) completion and report to the Department. [165261]

Kevin Brennan: The Department has contracted with Opinion Leader Research through the Central Office of Information (COI) Market Research Framework on 15 occasions since 2001. The details of those contracts are shown in the following table.

In addition, the Department also contracted with Opinion Leader Research through its own tendering processes to deliver, as part of the 10 Year Childcare Strategy, Parents' Forums aimed to inform the consultation process on the strategy. The cost was £70,172.14. It was tendered in January 2005 and awarded on 25 January 2005. The project was carried out and a report on findings delivered to the Department on 23 March 2005.

Details of contacts with Opinion Leader Research prior to 2001 are not held centrally and to gather that data in order to answer this question would incur disproportionate costs.

Postal Services

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many items of post sent by his Department and its predecessor were reported missing by the intended recipient in each year since 1997. [171295]

Kevin Brennan: The Department for Children, Schools and Families (and its predecessor), does not maintain historical records of items of post reported missing by the intended recipient. Any such mail reported missing to the Department's mail rooms are dealt with on a case by case basis until an outcome can be determined and a resolution reached.

Primary Education

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the levels of numeracy and literacy were among primary school leavers in each London borough on the latest date for which figures are available. [169230]

Jim Knight: Levels of literacy and numeracy in primary school leavers are most commonly measured by the proportions of children gaining National Curriculum level 4 and above in English and mathematics, since these represent the expected national standard. The information in the table gives the percentages of 11-year-olds achieving these levels in 2007 based on provisional data. The figures for 1998 and the national averages are also shown for comparison. Inner and Outer London boroughs are listed separately.

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families if he will make a statement on the implementation of the Rose Review recommendations in primary schools. [169933]

Jim Knight: We have accepted all of the Rose Review's recommendations and have paid particular attention to the recommendation that phonics should be taught as the prime approach to learning to read. We have renewed the primary framework for teaching literacy to reflect this. To further support teachers and practitioners in implementing this key change, and in line with the Review's recommendations, we have worked with Jim Rose to produce a high quality phonics teaching programme, Letters and Sounds. As an alternative for schools that instead wish to use a commercial phonics programme, we have published guidance on a set of criteria which define the key features of an effective phonics teaching programme and which build directly on the Review's recommendations.

We have taken steps to ensure that local authorities have the capacity and expertise to support schools in developing effective phonics teaching. The Communication, Language and Literacy Development (CLLD) programme, specifically developed to implement the Review's recommendations, builds greater quality and capacity in the teaching of early literacy through developing work on speaking and listening; strengthening leadership and management of early literacy; and supporting all schools with phonics and early reading. The CLLD programme has provided training in early reading for every local authority and has funded additional consultants to lead this work in 50 targeted authorities.

We are also working with local authorities and the Training and Development Agency to ensure that newly qualified practitioners are equipped with the necessary skills to implement the Rose Review recommendations.

Primary Education: Teachers

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps he is taking to increase the number of people training to be primary school teachers; and if he will make a statement. [169802]

Jim Knight: We will be increasing significantly the number of places available for initial teacher training in the primary phase from 2008/09 onwards. This is in response to population census information showing that the number of primary age children will rise in the next few years. Details of the number of places will be available shortly.

Pupils: Assessments

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families in which month secondary schools receive key stage 2 test results data for pupils entering the school in year 7. [165765]

Jim Knight: The results of National Curriculum Key Stage 2 tests are included in the head teacher's annual report which forms part of the common transfer file of information which must be transferred between schools when pupils change schools. The Education (Pupil Information) (England) Regulations 2005 require that when a pupil changes schools, this file is sent to the receiving school no later than 15 school days after the day on which the pupil ceases to be registered at the old school. For most pupils entering secondary school, this will mean that the results will be transferred in September.

Pupils: Per Capita Costs

Mr. Randall: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what average Government spending was per child in (a) Uxbridge constituency, (b) each London borough and (c) England in (i) primary schools and (ii) secondary schools in each year since 1997. [169682]

Jim Knight: The Department allocates education funding to local authorities so the requested information for Uxbridge constituency is not available. The figures for Hillingdon local authority are included in the breakdown by London boroughs.

The revenue funding figures per pupil for primary schools (pupils aged three to 10), secondary schools (pupils aged 11 to 15) and all pupils (aged three to 19) for England and for each local authority in Greater London for years 1997-98 to 2005-06 are as follows:

Notes:
1. Price Base: Real terms at 2006-07 prices, based on GDP deflators as at 26.09.07.
2. Figures reflect relevant sub-blocks of standard spending assessment/education formula spending (EFS) settlements and exclude the pensions transfer to EFS and LSC.
3. Total funding also includes all revenue grants in DfES departmental expenditure limits relevant to pupils aged three to 19 and exclude education maintenance allowances (EMAs) and grants not allocated at LEA level. For those authorities in receipt of advance of grant under the transitional support arrangements for 2004-05, advance grant funding is included in the year of payment (2004-05). There will be a consequential reduction in DfES grant for these LEAs in future years (either 2006-07 and 2007-08 or 2006-7 to 2008-9, depending on the terms on which the advance was given to the LEA). The pupil numbers used to convert £ million figures to per pupil are those underlying the SSA/EFS settlement calculations plus PLASC three-year-old maintained pupils and estimated three to four-year-olds funded through state support in maintained and other educational institutions where these are not included in the SSA pupil numbers.
4. Figures are rounded to the nearest 10.
5. Some of the grant allocations have not been finalised. If these do change, the effect on the funding figures is expected to be minimal.
6. 1997-98 figures for authorities subject to local government reorganisation in that year have been estimated, pro-rata to their post LGR figures.

The revenue per pupil figures shown in the following table are taken from the dedicated schools grant (DSG) which was introduced in April 2006. They are not comparable with those for the years 1997-98 to 2005-06 because the introduction of the DSG in 2006-07 fundamentally changed how local authorities are funded.

The 1997-98 to 2005-06 figures are based on education formula spending (EFS) which formed the education part of the local government finance settlement, plus various grants. The DSG is based on planned spend. In addition, the DSG has a different coverage to EFS, which comprises a schools block and an LEA block (to cover LEA central functions) whereas DSG only covers the schools block. LEA block items are still funded through DCLG's local government finance settlement but education items cannot be separately identified. Consequently, there is a break in the Department's time series as the two sets of data are not comparable.

The per pupil revenue funding figures for years 2006-07 to 2007-08 for England and for each local authority in Greater London are provided in the following table. The DSG is distributed through a single guaranteed unit of funding per pupil so a split between primary and secondary funding is not available.

Notes:
1. The revenue funding per pupil figures only run to 2005-06 because we cannot provide a consistent time series beyond that year as the introduction of the dedicated schools grant (DSG) in 2006-07 fundamentally changed how local authorities are funded. The 1998-99 to 2005-06 figures are based on education formula spending (EFS) which formed the education part of the local government finance settlement, plus various grants. This was an assessment of what local authorities needed to fund education rather than what they spent. In 2006-07 funding for schools changed with the introduction of the DSG which is based largely on an authority's previous spending.
2. In addition, DSG has a different coverage to EFS: EFS comprised a schools block and an LEA block (to cover LEA central functions) whereas DSG only covers the school block. LEA block items are still funded through DCLG's local government finance settlement but education items cannot be separately identified. This means we have a break in our time series as the two sets of data are not comparable.
3. Price Base: Real terms at 2006-07 prices, based on GDP deflators as at 26 September 2007.
4. This covers funding through the dedicated schools grant, school standards grant, school standards grant (personalisation) and standards fund; it excludes grants not allocated at LEA level.
5. Some of the grant allocations have not been finalised. If these do change, the effect on the funding figures is expected to be minimal.
6. Figures are in real terms.

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the average Government spending per child in (a) primary and (b) secondary schools in West Chelmsford Parliamentary constituency was in (i) the latest year for which figures are available and (ii) 2001. Jim Knight: The Department allocates education funding to local authorities so the requested information for West Chelmsford constituency is not available. The revenue funding figures per pupil for 2001-02 and 2005-06 for Essex local authority are shown in the following table.

Notes:
1. Price Base: Real terms at 2006-07 prices, based on GDP deflators as at 26 September 2007.
2. Figures reflect relevant sub-blocks of Standard Spending Assessment/Education Formula Spending (EPS) settlements and exclude the pensions transfer to EFS and LSC.
3. Total funding also includes all revenue grants in DfES Departmental Expenditure Limits relevant to pupils aged 3-19 and exclude Education Maintenance Allowances (EMAs) and grants not allocated at LEA level. For those authorities in receipt of advance of grant under the transitional support arrangements for 2004-05, advance grant funding is included in the year of payment (2004-05). There will be a consequential reduction in DfES grant for these LEAs in future years (either 2006-07 and 2007-08 or 2006-07 to 2008-09, depending on the terms on which the advance was given to the LEA).
The pupil numbers used to convert £ million figures to £ per pupil are those underlying the SSA/EFS settlement calculations plus PLASC 3-year-old maintained pupils and estimated 3 to 4-year-olds funded through state support in maintained and other educational institutions where these are not included in the SSA pupil numbers.
4. Rounding: Figures are rounded to the nearest £10.
5. Some of the grant allocations have not been finalised. If these do change, the effect on the funding figures is expected to be minimal.
6. The figures are in real terms

The latest year for which comparable figures are available is 2005-06 and these have been given in the table. The latest revenue per pupil figures available are for 2007-08 and are taken from the Dedicated Schools Grant (DSG) which was introduced in April 2006. They are not comparable with those for 2001-02 and 2005-06 because the introduction of the DSG in 2006-07 fundamentally changed how local authorities are funded.

The 2001-02 and 2005-06 figures are based on Education Formula Spending (EPS) which formed the education part of the Local Government Finance Settlement, plus various grants. The DSG is based on planned spend. In addition, the DSG has a different coverage to EFS, which comprises a schools block and an LEA block (to cover LEA central functions) whereas DSG only covers the schools block. LEA block items are still funded through DCLG's Local Government Finance Settlement but education items cannot be separately identified. Consequently, there is a break in the Department's time series as the two sets of data are not comparable.

The per pupil revenue funding figure based on DSG plus grants for 2007-08 for Essex was £4,180.

The DSG is distributed through a single guaranteed unit of funding per pupil so a split between primary and secondary funding is not available. This figure is for all funded pupils aged 3-15 and is in real terms.

Notes:
1. The revenue funding per pupil figures only run to 2005-06 because we cannot provide a consistent time series beyond that year as the introduction of the Dedicated Schools Grant (DSG) in 2006-07 fundamentally changed how local authorities are funded. The 1998-99 to 2005-06 figures are based on Education Formula Spending (EFS) which formed the education part of the Local Government Finance Settlement, plus various grants. This was an assessment of what local authorities needed to fund education rather than what they spent. In 2006-07, funding for schools changed with the introduction of the DSG which is based largely on an authority's previous spending.
2. In addition, DSG has a different coverage to EPS: EPS comprised a schools block and an LEA block (to cover LEA central functions) whereas DSG only covers the school block. LEA block items are still funded through DCLG's Local Government Finance Settlement but education items cannot be separately identified. This means we have a break in our time series as the two sets of data are not comparable.
3. Price Base: Real terms at 2006-07 prices, based on GDP deflators as at 26 September 2007.
4. This covers funding through the Dedicated Schools Grant, School Standards Grant, School Standards Grant (Personalisation) and Standards Fund; it excludes grants not allocated at LEA level.
5. Some of the grant allocations have not been finalised. If these do change, the effect on the funding figures is expected to be minimal.

School Leaving

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how his Department plans to assess the four building blocks he has set out for raising the participation age. [169158]

Jim Knight: In his speech to the Fabian Society on 5 November, my right hon. Friend described four building blocks that must be in place before we can successfully raise the participation age. These are: curriculum and qualifications reform; advice and guidance to help all young people make the right choices; financial support; and employer engagement to provide the right training and apprenticeships. We have set out our plans to implement these reforms and will keep them under review in the run up to the increase in the participation age in 2013.

Schools: Catering

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families which (a) schools and (b) sixth form colleges have been supplied meat by McLaren Foods in the last 12 months. [170443]

Jim Knight: The information requested is not collected by this Department. Local authorities and schools must put in place their own arrangements for procuring ingredients for school food.

Science: Teaching Methods

Mr. Willis: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families if he will take steps to support Wizz Bang multi-media science and technology presentations to encourage the take up of science and related subjects in schools. [169773]

Jim Knight: The Government are already doing much to encourage young people to take up science and related subjects in schools. This includes the Science and Engineering Ambassadors scheme whereby practising scientists and engineers go into schools to support teachers and engage and enthuse pupils to continue studying science. We are also in the process of commissioning a programme of careers support and guidance, and a communications campaign both with the aim informing young people more about the varied and exciting opportunities that exist in science in pre and post-16 education and beyond.

The Government have no plans to support Wizz Bang multi-media science and technology presentations. It is for schools to decide whether they engage with this type of initiative as they are best placed to know the specific needs of their pupils.

Secondary Education

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the average Government spending was in the latest period for which figures are available per child in (a) primary and (b) secondary schools in each London borough. [169237]

Jim Knight: The revenue per pupil figures shown in the following table are taken from the Dedicated Schools Grant (DSG) which was introduced in April 2006. The DSG is distributed through a single guaranteed unit of funding per pupil so a split between primary and secondary funding is not available. The figures are for all funded pupils aged 3-15.

| Tower Hamlets | 7,107 |
| Waltham Forest | 5,206 |
| Wandsworth | 5,736 |
| Westminster | 6,164 |

Notes:
1. This covers funding through the Dedicated Schools Grant, School Standards Grant, School Standards Grant (Personalisation) and Standards Fund; it excludes grants not allocated at LEA level.
2. Some of the grant allocations have not been finalised. If these do change, the effect on the funding figures is expected to be minimal.
3. The figures are in cash terms.

Secondary Education: School Meals

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families by what means he expects secondary schools to conduct school nutrient analysis. [170031]

Kevin Brennan: The School Food Trust (SFT) will shortly publish 'A guide to introducing the Government's food-based and nutrient-based standards for school lunches'. It will be on the SFT website in early December, and hard copies will be distributed to stakeholders including schools, local authorities and catering providers. The guide will explain the standards, give advice on implementing and monitoring them, and explain how to carry out nutrient analysis of school lunch provision.

The SFT has also published independent reviews of menu planning and nutrient analysis software, giving information on the types of packages available and their costs. The reviews are available on their website at: http://www.schoolfoodtrust.org.uk/content.asp?Contentid=487

The School Lunch Grant, paid to local authorities from 2008/09 to 2010/11, can be used to meet the costs of the nutrient and menu checking software needed to ensure that school lunches are meeting the nutrient-based standards, and the expertise to use it.

The SFT is currently running pilots in 12 secondary schools to provide tested examples of nutrient standard compliant school lunch provision acceptable to secondary school pupils. The results of these pilots will be published next year.

Special Educational Needs

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families whether he plans to introduce a fast-track statementing process for children with very high needs. [169840]

Jim Knight: There are no plans to specify different timescales for the statementing of children with different levels or types of special educational needs (SEN). A significant part of the statementing process is a thorough assessment of the child's needs, in order to determine the appropriate provision to meet those needs. The Government's response to the July 2006 Education and Skills Select Committee report on SEN announced that Her Majesty's Chief Inspector of Schools will review progress in the current system in 2009-10. We will then consider, in the light of HMCI's advice, whether changes are needed to the current framework.

Specialist Schools Status

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) what his estimate is of the annual cost of increasing the funding of all maintained secondary schools to at least the level obtained by those schools granted specialist status; and if he will make a statement; [169798]

(2) how many maintained secondary schools have not yet attained specialist status; how many of these have failed to meet the required minimum standards for specialist school application; and if he will make a statement. [169799]

Jim Knight: The estimate of the annual cost of increasing the funding of all maintained secondary schools to at least the level obtained by those schools granted specialist status is around £39 million.

There are 408 maintained secondary schools outside the programme. Since 2003, of those schools, 153 have applied but not met the standard for specialist school status.

Supply Teachers: Yorkshire and the Humber

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what percentage of secondary school lessons in Yorkshire and the Humber were taught by a supply teacher in each of the last five years, broken down by local authority area; and if he will make a statement. [169737]

Jim Knight: The information is not collected centrally.

Teachers: Training

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many (a) mathematics, (b) science, (c) history and (d) English graduates entered teacher training to qualify as secondary school teachers in each year since 2001-02. [169135]

Jim Knight: The following table shows the number of graduate trainees entering postgraduate initial teacher training (ITT) courses to qualify as a secondary school teacher in the subject for which they hold a first degree, through mainstream ITT and employment-based routes (EBR), between 2002/03 and 2005/06 for:

(a) Mathematics;
(b) Science;
(c) History and
(d) English.

Number of graduates entering postgraduate initial teacher training to qualify as secondary school teachers in the subject for which they hold a first degree

| | Number of graduates entering initial teacher training courses | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | 2002/03 | | 2003/04 | | 2004/05 | | 2005/06 | |
| Subject of secondary ITT | Mainstream | EBR | Mainstream | EBR | Mainstream | EBR | Mainstream | EBR |
| Mathematics | 620 | 100 | 790 | 190 | 810 | 230 | 800 | 250 |
| Science | 710 | 170 | 780 | 200 | 740 | 40 | 730 | 140 |
| History | 650 | 40 | 530 | 70 | 510 | 100 | 510 | 90 |
| English | 1,230 | 260 | 1,190 | 310 | 1,060 | 480 | 990 | 580 |

Notes:
1. Mainstream includes universities and other higher education institutions, SCITT and OU, but excludes employment-based routes.
2. Figures are rounded to the nearest 10.
3. The method of classifying degree subjects changed as a result of the introduction of the JACS coding structure in 2002/03. Data collected prior to this date under the HESA coding system cannot be directly compared using the direct match alone.
4. Performance profiles data is collected at the end of a trainees first year, therefore 2006/07 data is collected in autumn 2007 and will be published in July 2008.
5. The table only covers those who hold a first degree in the subject of their ITT training course, it does not cover those who have a first degree (in Mathematics, Science, History or English) but are entering an ITT course which is in a different subject to their first degree.

TDA's Performance Profiles.

Truancy

Mr. Randall: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the truancy rate was in (a) secondary and (b) primary schools in (i) Uxbridge constituency, (ii) each London borough and (iii) England in each year since 1997. [169580]

Kevin Brennan: The Department collects data on unauthorised absences from schools, only some of which are truancy.

The two tables containing the figures for the proportion of half days missed due to unauthorised absence (of which truancy forms a part) have been placed in the House of Commons Library.

Unauthorised absence is absence without leave from a teacher or other authorised representative of the school. This includes all unexplained or unjustified absences, such as lateness, holidays during term time not authorised by the school, absence where reason is not yet established, other absence not authorised by the school and truancy.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Home Information Packs

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many (a) domestic energy assessors and (b) home inspectors she estimates will be required for full implementation of the home information pack (HIP) policy; how this estimate was calculated; and what (i) evidence and (ii) criteria are being used to determine the market impact of HIPs. [166956]

Yvette Cooper [holding answer 22 November 2007]: I refer my hon. Friend to the written ministerial statement 'Home Information Packs' made on 22 November 2007, Official Report, columns 140-42WS.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what proportion of home information pack searches have been undertaken via local authorities. [168929]

Yvette Cooper: The information requested is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether information on radon risks (a) can and (b) must form part of home information packs. [171516]

Yvette Cooper: Information on radon risk is required in the Home Information Pack as part of the local inquiries.

Home Information Packs: Peterborough

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment she has made of the impact of the introduction of home information packs on the residential housing market in the Peterborough City Council area; and if she will make a statement. [163179]

Yvette Cooper: I refer the hon. Member to the written ministerial statement 'Home Information Packs' made on 22 November 2007, Official Report, columns 140-42WS.

Housing: Carbon Emissions

Mr. Meacher: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what definition she uses of eco-home. [164666]

Yvette Cooper: The Government do not define or set criteria for an 'eco-home' as such. The Code for Sustainable Homes (the Code) sets standards for housing.

The Code is a set of sustainable design principles covering performance of new homes in nine key areas, including energy and $CO_2$ emissions, water, materials, surface water run-off, waste, pollution, health and well-being, management and ecology.

New homes that are assessed against the Code receive a 1-6 star rating. A 1 star home is built to higher sustainability standards that those set out in building regulations while a 6 star home is a truly sustainable—zero carbon—home. The criteria on how to achieve each star rating is set out in detail in "Code for Sustainable Homes: Technical guide", available on the Communities and Local Government's website:

www.communities.gov.uk/thecode

The Code is based on the Building Research Establishment's Environmental Assessment Method (BREEAM) for homes 'EcoHomes', which it replaced for new homes in England from April 2007. The Code is more robust than 'EcoHomes' as it sets minimum standards for Energy/$CO_2$, water, materials, surface water run-off and waste.

Housing: Inspections

Ian Stewart: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many qualified domestic energy assessors and home inspectors there are in (a) Eccles constituency, (b) Greater Manchester and (c) the North West. [162708]

Yvette Cooper: The most recent data as at 5 November provide the following information on the number of accredited home inspectors and domestic energy assessors in Eccles constituency, Greater Manchester and the North West.

| | Home inspectors | Domestic energy assessors |
|---|---|---|
| Eccles | — | 15 |
| Greater Manchester | 37 | 218 |
| North West | 93 | 595 |

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many (a) domestic energy assessors and (b) home information pack inspectors have had to retake their exams in the last 12 months. [165776]

Yvette Cooper: The information requested is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when the Government plans to extend the home information pack scheme to one and two bedroomed properties; and if she will make a statement. [165780]

Yvette Cooper: I refer the hon. Member to the written ministerial statement 'Home Information Packs' made on 22 November 2007, Official Report, columns 140-42WS.

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many qualified domestic energy assessors there are in (a) North West Leicestershire, (b) Leicestershire and (c) the East Midlands. [166769]

Yvette Cooper [holding answer 21 November 2007]: The most recent data as of 15 November provide the following information on the number of accredited domestic energy assessors in North West Leicestershire, Leicestershire and the East Midlands.

| | Domestic energy assessors |
|---|---|
| North West Leicestershire | 9 |
| Leicestershire | 80 |
| East Midlands | 421 |

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate she has made of the number of domestic energy assessors required to administer the home information pack scheme in (a) North West Leicestershire, (b) Leicestershire and (c) the East Midlands once the scheme is implemented across the housing market; and how that estimate is calculated. [166770]

Yvette Cooper [holding answer 21 November 2007]: We set out the criteria for roll out of home information packs (HIPs) to Parliament on 22 May, explaining that we would extend the requirement for HIPs when sufficient energy inspectors were in place nationally and regionally to meet market demand as well as taking into account lessons learnt from the operation of the scheme.

It was estimated that 303 domestic energy assessors would be required to produce energy performance certificates for the implementation of home information packs for all properties in the East Midlands. This was based on the estimated number of properties marketed for sale in the region and working practices of assessors.

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many qualified home inspectors and domestic energy assessors there are in Bassetlaw; and how many houses were sold in Bassetlaw in the last 12 month period for which figures are available. [167138]

Yvette Cooper [holding answer 22 November 2007]: As of 15 November, in total there were six accredited home inspectors and domestic energy assessors in Bassetlaw.

According to HM Land Registry data there were 2,573 residential property sales in Bassetlaw during 2006.

Housing: Leeds

John Battle: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment she has made of the impact of the introduction of home information packs on the residential housing market in Leeds West constituency; and if she will make a statement. [166276]

Yvette Cooper: I refer my right hon. Friend to the written ministerial statement 'Home Information Packs' made on 22 November 2007, Official Report, column 140-42WS.

Housing: Low Incomes

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment she has made of the likely effect on provision of low-cost residential housing in Peterborough constituency of the introduction of home information packs for one and two-bedroomed homes; and if she will make a statement. [169540]

Yvette Cooper: I refer the hon. Member to the written ministerial statement 'Home Information Packs' made on 22 November 2007, Official Report, columns 140-42WS.

Land

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what funding has been allocated to support community land trusts in 2007-08; and from what budgets such funding will be drawn. [171562]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Housing Corporation is working with Salford university to assist with the development of 14 pilot Community Land Trusts, seven in urban areas and seven in rural areas.

Community Land Trusts were invited to bid for Housing Corporation funds through the Corporation's National Affordable Housing Programme 2008 to 2011.

Local Government Finance: Terrorism

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what steps she is taking to ensure that the spending of Preventing Violent Extremism programme funding by local authorities is audited. [171943]

Mr. Dhanda: The £6 million Preventing Extremism Pathfinder Fund was paid as part of eligible local authorities' Local Area Agreement grants. Eligible expenditure is audited in line with the terms and conditions set in their grant determination for LAA grant. Performance against outcomes is reviewed by the local authority with partners and the Government office on a six monthly basis.

Planning Permission

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether live/work units are classified as sui generis. [171940]

Mr. Iain Wright: Live/work units, if they are such that they provide the opportunity for living and working within a single self-contained unit and neither the residential nor the business use is ancillary to the other, would be classified as a sui generis use in the context of the Town and Country Planning (Use Classes Order) 1987, as amended.

Where a single dwelling is used for both living and working, but the primary use remains as a dwelling and the business use is ancillary, this use would fall within the "C3: Dwelling Houses" class of the Town and Country Planning (Use Classes Order) 1987, as amended.

It is for local planning authorities to determine, taking into account individual characteristics, as to which class or otherwise a particular premises belongs.

Terrorism: Finance

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what safeguards she has put in place to ensure that funding provided to organisations by local authorities under the Preventing Violent Extremism programme is used for the purposes for which the programme is intended. [171941]

Mr. Dhanda: The £6 million Preventing Extremism Pathfinder Fund was paid as part of eligible local authorities' Local Area Agreement grants.

It is the responsibility of the accountable body of a grant to ensure that expenditure is in line with the terms and conditions of the grant determination.

For the LAA Grant, expenditure must contribute to achieving or exceeding the outcomes, targets, and indicators, of their LAA. Local authorities work closely with a range of partners in developing programmes to prevent violent extremism, including the police.

Urban Areas: Carbon Emissions

Tony Baldry: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what funding the Government are going to make available to create eco-towns; and how such funding is going to be distributed. [166299]

Yvette Cooper: CSR07 allocated £1.7 billion of targeted funding over the CSR07 period for infrastructure in Growth Areas, the Thames Gateway, New Growth Points and eco-towns, including £300 million to continue the Community Infrastructure Fund. Decisions on the split and distribution of growth funding will be announced in due course.

Tony Baldry: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what guidance her Department has given to local authorities on eco-town proposals. [166300]

Yvette Cooper: In July we published the Housing Green Paper and as part of this the Eco-towns Prospectus. The Prospectus sets out the vision and outline criteria for eco-towns, and how the Government can support projects. In August my officials also wrote to the chief executives of local authorities in the English regions, to stakeholders and other interested parties setting out how we would invite proposals for additional new growth points and eco-towns.

Urban Areas: Sustainable Development

Tony Baldry: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what mechanisms will be put in place to monitor delivery of the exceptional levels of infrastructure and community facility investment announced as part of the eco-towns initiative; and if she will make a statement. [171216]

Yvette Cooper: We indicated in the Ecotowns Prospectus, published alongside the Housing Green Paper that we would expect eco-town proposals to include options for a dedicated delivery body which will plan, oversee and develop (with partners) the major infrastructure needed to establish the town, such as a local trust or local authority partnership or in some instances this could be a body such as a new town development corporation. Further advice on community investment and facilities will be included in the Town and Country Planning Association guide to the practical application of the key sustainability and development criteria for eco-towns which is currently being developed.

Selected eco-town proposals, which we expect to announce in February, will be invited to produce a programme of development to setting out the delivery and funding requirements of their proposal, and this will include local infrastructure and community investment.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Departmental Data Protection

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport whether he proposes to review how his Department transports data; and whether his Department uses TNT to transport data. [169213]

Mr. Sutcliffe: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Football: Schools

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what estimate he has made of the number of (a) primary and (b) secondary schools with (i) a boys' football team and (ii) a girls' football team that meets Football Association standards. [170110]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Football Association (FA) advises that there are nearly 5,500 FA charter standard schools. Schools are required to provide football for boys and girls both in the curriculum and out of school hours as part of the qualifying criteria to be an FA charter standard school. Exact numbers of teams in primary and secondary education by gender are not available.

The 2006-07 school sport survey found that 98 per cent. of primary and secondary schools offered football during the last academic year and that 78 per cent. of primary and secondary schools have a link with a local football club.

Olympic Games 2012

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what financial information he supplies on a regular basis on the progress of arrangements for hosting the 2012 Olympic games to (a) Government departments and (b) Cabinet Committee MISC25; and with what frequency in each case. [165181]

Tessa Jowell [holding answer 19 November 2007]: I have been asked to reply as Minister for the Olympics.

(a) Financial information about costs, funding and projects is shared with relevant Government departments through the appropriate mechanisms including the Funders' Group, the Olympic Projects Review Group, and the Olympic Board Steering Group.

(b) ED (OPG) is the Cabinet sub committee responsible for issues relating to Economic Development of the London Olympic and Paralympic games. As is the case with information relating to the proceedings of Cabinet and all Cabinet committees, including the number of meetings held and topics discussed, details about ED (OPG) meetings are generally not disclosed.

Radio: Commercial Broadcasting

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many commercial radio licences were granted by Ofcom in each of the last five years. [171652]

James Purnell: The number of commercial radio licences awarded by Ofcom in each of the last five years is set out in the following table:

| | Licences awarded |
|---|---|
| 2003 | 11 |
| 2004 | 2 |
| 2005 | 16 |
| 2006 | 15 |
| 2007 | [1]12 |

[1] To date

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what recent assessment his Department has made of the size of the commercial radio sector in the UK. [171653]

James Purnell: No such assessment has been made. However, figures published by the independent regulator, Ofcom, show that in 2006, the estimated total of commercial radio revenue was £512 million[1].

[1] Source:
The UK Communications Market 2007, Ofcom, August 2007

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many commercial radio licences have been returned to Ofcom in each of the last five years. [171656]

James Purnell: The number of commercial radio licences returned to Ofcom in each of the last five years is set out in the following table:

| | Licences returned |
|---|---|
| 2003 | 0 |
| 2004 | 0 |
| 2005 | 0 |
| 2006 | 1 |
| 2007 | [1]2 |

Tourism

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what recent estimate his Department has made of the UK's market share of the international tourism industry in each of the last 10 years. [171676]

Margaret Hodge [holding answer 3 December 2007]: The most recent available figures for national shares of the world tourism market are for 2006. The UK's percentage markets shares, in terms of both visitor numbers and spending, for the 10 years to 2006 were as follows:

| | Inbound visitors to UK (million) | Percentage of world total | Inbound visitor spending in UK (£ million) | Percentage of world total |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1997 | 25.5 | 3.9 | 12.2 | 4.4 |
| 1998 | 25.7 | 3.9 | 12.7 | 4.7 |
| 1999 | 25.3 | 3.7 | 12.5 | 4.4 |
| 2000 | 25.2 | 3.4 | 12.8 | 4.0 |
| 2001 | 22.8 | 3.1 | 11.3 | 3.5 |
| 2002 | 24.2 | 3.2 | 11.7 | 3.7 |
| 2003 | 24.7 | 3.3 | 11.9 | 3.7 |
| 2004 | 25.7 | 3.4 | 13.1 | 3.8 |
| 2005 | 30.0 | 3.5 | 14.2 | 3.8 |
| 2006 | 32.2 | 3.6 | 15.4 | 4.0 |

DEFENCE

Afghanistan: Peacekeeping Operations

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what units form the UK's commitment to the Allied Rapid Reaction Corps. [170827]

Des Browne: Only those units which are integral to HQ Allied Rapid Reaction Corps (ARRC) or under operational command of Commander ARRC on a peace-time basis are actually committed to it. Most UK formations and units on which HQ ARRC might draw for operations are affiliated for training, doctrine development, communication and other purposes, but not permanently assigned to, or commanded by, HQ ARRC. The integral and affiliated HQ ARRC units are listed as follows.

Unit name

HQ ARRC Group

1 (UK) Signals Brigade (includes the ARRC Support Battalion)

12 (UK) Signals Group

Postal and Courier Support (99 Postal and Courier Squadron Royal Logistic Corps)

Operational Intelligence Support Group/UK National Intelligence Cell/12 Military Intelligence Company

Command and Liaison Flight (12 Fleet Army Air Corps)

Geographic Section (14 Geographic Squadron Royal Engineers)

(B) Affiliated To HO ARRC

ARRC Combat Support

1(UK) Artillery Brigade

16 Air Assault Brigade

Multinational Engineer Brigade (based on 8 (UK) Force Engineer Brigade)

Engineer Battalion (2) (Not identified—would be identified through force generation if/when required)

Electronic Warfare Battalion (14 Signal Regt)

Special Operations Forces

Joint Helicopter Force

Chemical, Biological, Radiological and Nuclear Defence Regiment (Joint CBRN Regiment)

Electronic Warfare Coordination Cell (from 14 Signal Regiment)

Engineer Works Team

Combat Service Support

Port Regiment (17 Port and Maritime Regiment Royal Logistic Corps)

Movement Control Company Battalion (162 Movement Control Regiment Royal Logistic Corps)

Transport and Support Group (based on HQ 2 Multinational Logistic Support Group)

Medical Group (based on 2(UK) Medical Brigade)

ARRC Multinational Military Police Battalion (based on Royal Military Police Battalion HQ)

Recovery Company (Not identified—would be identified through force generation if/when required)

ARRC Combat Affiliations

1(UK) Armoured Division (Includes 4 (UK) Mechanised Brigade, 7 (UK) Armoured Brigade, 20 (UK) Armoured Brigade)

3 (UK) Mechanised Division (Includes 1 (UK) Mechanised Brigade, 12 (UK) Mechanised Brigade, 19 (UK) Light Brigade

Rear Area Security Force

Rear Area Security Brigade HQ

Mechanised Battalions (2) (Not identified—would be identified through force generation if/when required)

Reconnaissance Company (Not identified—would be identified through force generation if/when required)

Artillery Battalion (Not identified—would be identified through force generation if/when required)

Engineer Battalion (Not identified—would be identified through force generation if/when required)

Afghanistan: Roads

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many miles of the Afghanistan Ring road run through the British Area of Operations (AO) in Regional Command South; what assessment he has made of the security of the Ring Road in Britain's AO; what percentage of the Ring Road in Britain's AO is paved; and if he will make a statement. [170826]

Des Browne: A total of 86 miles of the Afghan ring road lies within the British Area of Operations in Helmand Province. The entire road within Helmand is paved. Security along the route is kept under constant review. There have been a small number of isolated attacks carried out on vehicles using the ring road by insurgents and criminal elements, but it remains an effective communication route.

Armoured Fighting Vehicles

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what factors were taken into account in deciding the production and delivery timetable of (a) future rapid effects system utility and (b) reconnaissance vehicles; and if he will make a statement. [170022]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Our planning work has been and will continue to be driven by operational priorities, taking account of the experience of current operation, and planned future operations. The Department's first priority remains the delivery of the utility vehicle family. After that, the procurement of a successor reconnaissance vehicle is particularly important.

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what conflict scenario the future rapid effects system has been designed for. [170117]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: FRES will provide a rapid intervention capability and will also have wide utility across the spectrum of conflict, supporting three main types of operation:

Rapid intervention;

Peacekeeping and peace enforcement operations;

High intensity war-fighting operations.

Armoured Fighting Vehicles: Afghanistan

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 29 October 2007, Official Report, column 953W, on Armoured Fighting Vehicles: Afghanistan, what other new protected vehicles are required to make up the total number of Mastiff vehicles to 400. [170018]

Des Browne: As I explained in my answer of 29 October 2007, Official Report, column 953W, we plan to procure some 280 Mastiff vehicles. In addition, we are planning to procure over 170 Vector vehicles, bringing the overall total of new protected patrol vehicles to over 400.

Armoured Fighting Vehicles: Finance

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the allocation of funding is for each future rapid effects system utility vehicle. [170118]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: I am withholding the information as its disclosure would prejudice commercial interests.

Army: Standards

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence for what reason there are no Army figures for 1 July 2007 published on the Defence Analytical Services Agency TSP 09. [170019]

Derek Twigg: Army personnel figures at 1 July 2007 were not published on 3 September due to ongoing data validation from the new Joint Personnel Administration (JPA) system. This is necessary to ensure the statistics are of the quality required of a National Statistics output, and do not mislead the public.

Figures for the rank structure of the Army at 1 October 2007 were published in Tri-Service Publication (TSP) 9: UK Regular Forces Rank Structure, on 3 December 2007. A revised 1 July 2007 version, which will include Army figures, was also be published on 3 December 2007.

Astute Class Submarines

Dr. Julian Lewis: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether the BAE Systems Barrow-in-Furness yard has the capacity to build eight Astute class submarines on time for the programme for building successor submarines to those carrying the nuclear deterrent. [165172]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth [holding answer 19 November 2007]: We are working closely with industry to deliver a sustainable UK submarine programme. The Barrow-in-Furness yard remains the centre of excellence for submarine construction in the UK, however the production capacity at the facility is a matter for BAES.

In respect of the Successor programme, as was stated in December 2006 in "The Future of the United Kingdom's Nuclear Deterrent" (Cm 6994), it would be our intention to build the new SSBNs in the UK. This will be dependent on proposals from industry that provide the right capability, at the right time and offer value for money.

Astute Class Submarines: Repairs and Maintenance

Willie Rennie: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what estimate he has made of the cost of repairing the Astute submarine damaged during routine tests. [170413]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth [holding answer 3 December 2007]: Work is ongoing to identify the full extent of damage. The repair cost will be agreed when the scope of the recovery programme has been determined.

Baha Mousa

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make a public apology for the death of Baha Mousa in British custody in Iraq; and what related remedial steps he has taken since the completion of court proceedings on the case. [170012]

Des Browne: The death of Mr. Baha Mousa is a matter of deep regret to the Ministry of Defence. I will make a statement in the new year, after taking account of representations from the lawyers representing Mr. Mousa's family about the nature of any further inquiries that would be necessary to ensure relevant lessons are learned. It would therefore be inappropriate for me to make any further comment at this stage.

In February 2005, the then Chief of the General Staff announced that he had appointed a senior Army officer, Brigadier Aitken, to assess what lessons the Army needed to learn in light of deliberate abuse against Iraqi civilians. My predecessor, my right hon. Friend the Member for Ashfield (Mr. Hoon), gave an undertaking that the findings of the resulting report would be made public. I expect to announce the publication of those findings in due course.

Balkans Operational Reserve Force

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment he has made of the state of readiness of NATO's Balkans Operational Reserve Force; and if he will make a statement. [171232]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth [holding answer 4 December 2007]: The NATO pan-Balkans Operational Reserve Force, currently made up of a battalion from the UK, Germany and Italy, continues to provide the necessary stand-by capability to reinforce both KFOR in Kosovo (in support of the NATO-led Operation Joint Enterprise) and EUFOR in Bosnia and Herzegovina (in support of the EU-led Operation Althea). The UK continues to work with our EU and NATO partners to deliver peaceful progress in the Balkan region. However, if force commanders judge military reinforcements are required, the UK is prepared to meet its responsibilities as the provider of the highest readiness (four days notice to move) reserve battalion from 1 January 2008.

Defence Estates: Charities

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what role the Land Management Services Budget Manager of Defence Estates Operation South has in reviewing procedures for waiving liability charges for charities holding events on his Department's property. [170848]

Derek Twigg: The Land Management Services Budget Manager of Defence Estates Operation South does not have a role in reviewing procedures for waiving liability charges for charities holding events on Ministry of Defence property.

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much his Department has charged charitable organisations for events held on departmental property in each of the last 10 years for which figures are available. [171347]

Derek Twigg: This information is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Defence: European Union

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what plans his Department has to discuss a European defence capabilities charter with his EU counterparts. [170010]

Des Browne: Our objective is to enhance the separate defence capabilities of European nations, so that Europe can play a more effective role in reducing conflict and reinforcing peace. We are therefore encouraging partners rapidly to develop the more effective, deployable, interoperable and sustainable forces required for current and likely future operations. These capabilities would be available for, and enhance, multilateral crisis interventions, including those delivered through the NATO and the UN.

Departmental Buildings

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the estimated budget is for his Department's headquarters refurbishment project for each of the next 10 years. [170813]

Derek Twigg: The estimated budget for the provision of fully serviced office accommodation in the Ministry of Defence's main building and old War Office building is set out in the following table.

| | £ million |
|---|---|
| 2008-09 | 94.9 |
| 2009-10 | 93.3 |
| 2010-11 | 93.3 |
| 2011-12 | 95.4 |
| 2012-13 p | 96.8 |

| | £ million |
|---|---|
| 2013-14 | 98.0 |
| 2014-15 | 98.7 |
| 2015-16 | 98.3 |
| 2016-17 | 100.3 |
| 2017-18 | 107.7 |

These figures (VAT inclusive) cover the costs for the major redevelopment of the main building, as well as for the ongoing provision of services. The planned closure of the old War Office building will be fully reflected in future budgets.

Departmental Climate Change

Rob Marris: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what steps his Department (a) has taken and (b) plans to take by (i) 2012 and (ii) 2020 to adapt to the effects of climate change as they affect his Departmental responsibilities; and if he will make a statement. [165258]

Derek Twigg: MOD is working with other Government Departments on the security implications of climate change. Underpinning this work is climate modelling by the Hadley Centre in the Met Office, a MOD Trading Fund, to predict future climates and assess their defence implications in strategically important regions.

The implications of climate change will be factored into the Department's acquisition planning and future operating procedures to ensure that the armed forces can continue to perform effectively.

Climate change will also have consequences for the management of defence in the UK with some low lying sites vulnerable to rising sea levels and flooding. Adaptation to climate change has therefore been embedded in the appraisal methodology and tools used on all estate-related plans, programmes, projects and activities.

The Department is not just preparing to adapt; we also recognise that we have an important role in mitigating climate change. Improvements in energy management and energy efficiency have delivered reductions in estate carbon dioxide emissions. We are on track to meet cross-Government targets for reducing these emissions by 12.5 per cent. by 2010-11 and by 30 per cent. by 2020 in line with our commitments under the Sustainable Operations on the Government Estate.

Departmental Data Protection

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what procedures are in place in his Department to ensure that personal information relating to members of the public is (a) stored and (b) transported securely. [168478]

Derek Twigg: I refer my right hon. Friend to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

EU Defence Policy

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many UK services personnel wear EU insignia; and where those personnel are based. [170594]

Des Browne: Any UK military personnel seconded to the EU Military Staff or deployed on EU military missions may be required to wear EU insignia during the course of their duties.

18 UK military personnel are currently seconded to the EU Military Staff in Brussels. A further 19 military personnel are currently deployed on EU military missions: 13 in Bosnia Herzegovina; two in Sudan; and four in Paris as part of the proposed ESDP mission to Chad/Central African Republic, two of whom would deploy to Chad/Central African Republic as part of the Force Headquarters.

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the role of the Head of the EU Command Element, Naples is; and to whom he reports. [170602]

Des Browne: The role of the Head of the EU Command Element in Naples is to work closely with NATO staffs based at the Naples NATO Joint Force Command on co-ordinating and deconflicting EU/NATO military issues in the Balkans, including the availability to the EU of NATO common assets and capabilities in support of the EU-led Operation ALTHEA in Bosnia-Herzegovina under the "Berlin Plus" arrangements. He reports to NATO's Deputy Supreme Allied Command Europe in the latter's capacity as Operation Commander for Operation ALTHEA.

European Fighter Aircraft

Mr. Jenkin: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what he estimates the lifetime cost of Typhoon will be if the Government (a) complete the order for Tranche 3 and (b) cancels Tranche 3. [170641]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The UK has undertaken, through international MOU arrangements, to procure 232 Typhoon aircraft in three tranches. So far, the UK has contracted for the delivery of two tranches, comprising 144 aircraft. Decisions on Tranche 3 will be taken in due course, in conjunction with our partner nations, once we have analysed and considered the relevant information. The estimated cost of the Eurofighter Typhoon programme is commercially sensitive information which is protected in order to maintain our negotiating position for future acquisitions on the Typhoon programme. It is therefore inappropriate to speculate on the lifetime cost for either of the options outlined.

Future Large Aircraft

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the cost of the 25 airlift A400M aircraft is; and whether the order is on a fixed value contract. [170021]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The current forecast cost of the UK A400M programme is £2,629 million. The contract is Fixed Price with the reference price expressed in 1998

Economic Conditions and subject to a Price Revision Formula based on the Eurostat Gross Domestic Product index.

Helicopters

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence on which occasions his Department leased helicopters from commercial contractors in each year since 2003; and what the cost was in each year. [169345]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Details of helicopters leased from commercial contractors since 2003 are given in the following table. All costs are exclusive of VAT.

Total costs in each financial year only have been included. I am withholding information about individual contract value as its release would or would be likely to prejudice commercial interests.

| | | Total (£ million) |
|---|---|---|
| 2003-04 | FB Heliservices Ltd. Training task (Bell 212HP). | — |
| 2004-05 | FB Heliservices Ltd. Training task (Bell 212HP). | |

| | British International T/A Veritair Ltd. Logistics support and supply to Falkland Island units (Sikorsky S61N) | |
| | Westland Helicopters Ltd. Training and VIP short haul (AgustaA109E) | |
| | Total | 11 |

Mr. Hollobone: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the age is of the oldest (a) Puma and (b) Chinook helicopters in operational military service. [171066]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth [holding answer 4 December 2007]: The oldest Puma helicopters in operational military service are XW198 and XW199, both having entered service in January 1971; they are 36 years old.

The oldest Chinook helicopter in operational military service is ZA670, having entered service in September 1980; it is 27 years old.

Hydrographic Office

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what percentage of the UK Hydrographic Office's budget was spent on (a) travel expenses and (b) marketing events and publications in 2006-07. [170842]

Derek Twigg: During financial year 2006-07, the percentage of the total gross operating costs, excluding interest, of the UK Hydrographic Office trading fund (i.e. excluding its non-public sector subsidiaries), was:

2.49 per cent. for travel and subsistence expenses;

and

1.26 per cent. on marketing events and publications.

For the purpose of this reply it has been assumed that publications relate to promotional materials, as opposed to the cost of navigational publications produced by the UK Hydrographic Office for sale.

Iraq

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the Prime Minister's statement of 8 October 2007, Official Report, columns 21-25, on Iraq, whether service personnel relocated from Iraq to Kuwait will receive the (a) Operation Telic medal and (b) operational allowance. [169577]

Des Browne: The MOD is at an advanced stage in its arrangements concerning a regional support facility to support UK armed forces in south east Iraq but has yet formally to conclude the negotiation process. On eligibility for the operational allowance, I have nothing further to add to the response I gave to the hon. Gentleman during the defence policy debate on 16 October 2007, Official Report, column 720. The military chain of command is currently considering appropriate arrangements to recognise operational deployments to the region following the planned transfer of security responsibility for Basra to Provincial Iraqi control.

Kosovo: Peacekeeping Operations

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many (a) C-17 Globemaster, (b) C-130K Hercules, (c) C-130J Hercules, (d) Tristar and (e) VC-10 aircraft sorties were flown in support of the 2004 Spearhead Land Element's deployment to Kosovo in March 2004. [170805]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth [holding answer 4 December 2007]: The number of sorties flown in support of the 2004 Spearhead Land Element's deployment to Kosovo in March 2004 is as follows:

| Aircraft | Number of sorties |
|---|---|
| C-17 Globemaster | 5 |
| C-130K Hercules | 15 |
| C-130J Hercules | 15 |
| Tristar | 1 |
| VC-10 | 6 |

Radioactive Materials

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will provide examples of the nuclear materials for which his Department makes special handling arrangements. [171104]

Des Browne: Examples include plutonium 239, uranium enriched in the isotope 235, and any material containing either of these materials.

RFAS IPT Category Management

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many contracts his Department has signed with RFAS IPT Category Management since 2003; and what the value was of each. [169883]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth [holding answer 3 December 2007]: The Category Management procurement process was introduced into the Royal Fleet Auxiliary Support Integrated Project Team in 2004 and the first contract to incorporate this process was placed in 2005. To date, 13 such contracts have been placed, as detailed in the following table:

| Contract | Value (£ million) |
|---|---|
| Financial year 2005-06 | |
| RFA Argus | 12.0 |
| RFA Wave Ruler | 2.9 |
| RFA Oakleaf | 4.2 |
| RFA Sir Bedivere | 3.6 |
| RFA Gold Rover | 8.6 |
| RFA Sir Galahad | 2.6 |
| Financial year 2006-07 | |
| RFA Sir Bedivere | 2.2 |
| RFA Bayleaf | 5.0 |
| RFAs Fort George and Orangeleaf | 8.0 |
| Financial year 2007-08 | |
| RFA Diligence | 12.7 |
| RFA Wave Knight | 4.7 |
| RFA Black Rover | 4.2 |
| RFA Fort Austin | 12.0 |
| Total | 82.7 |

Royal Fleet Auxiliary

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what external consultancy costs have been incurred by the Royal Fleet Auxiliary Support Integrated Project Team since 2002. [168759]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Since 2005, £1.09 million has been spent on a range of external consultancies for the Royal Fleet Auxiliary Support Integrated Project Team. Information prior to 2005 is not available as electronic information management systems do not separately identify external consultancy costs and manual records are no longer available.

Submarines

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many months each Royal Navy attack submarine in service spent (a) on operations and (b) in maintenance in each year since 1997. [165880]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Following the definitions of operations and maintenance I set out in my letter to the hon. Member on 5 November, the number of months each Royal Navy attack submarine spent on both in each year since 1997 were as follows:

| | FY 1997-98 | | FY 1998-99 | | FY 1999-2000 | |

The figures given have been rounded to whole months.

The tables do not include leave, trials and work-up periods.

Submarines: Finance

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the estimated cost to his Department is of extending the out-of-service date of the existing fleet of submarines until the in-service date of the Astute class submarines is reached. [169620]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The out of service dates of the Swiftsure and Trafalgar class submarines were adjusted during the Department's 2004 planning round to reflect the planned in-service dates of the Astute class submarines and the decision, announced in the July 2004 White Paper Delivering Security in a Changing World-Future Capabilities (Cmd 6269), to reduce the size of the submarine fleet. As a consequence, some submarines had their service lives extended, and others had theirs reduced. No estimate has been made of whether any associated costs are specifically attributable to adjustments to the out of service date of the existing fleet to meet the in-service dates of the Astute class.

Travel

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) how much his Department spent on (a) business and (b) first class air travel in the last 12 months; [171246]

(2) how much was spent by his Department on first class train tickets in the last 12 months. [171259]

Derek Twigg: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave the hon. Member for Fareham (Mr. Hoban) on 3 September 2007, Official Report, column 1620W.

Warships

Mr. Scott: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many Royal Navy ships are (a) operational, (b) in reserve, (c) available for sale to a foreign navy and (d) waiting to be scrapped. [171118]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The Royal Navy has a total of 75 surface vessels available for operations at various states of readiness ranging from those that are available immediately to those that may require 365 days or more notice to deploy. I am withholding information about the readiness states of most Royal Navy vessels as its release would, or would be likely to, prejudice the capability, effectiveness or security of our armed forces. The exceptions are for those in refit and the aircraft carrier HMS Invincible. Three vessels are currently in refit and at Low or Very Low Readiness (typically between 91 and 365 days notice). HMS Invincible is at a lower readiness state than any other RN vessel and although she is capable of being returned to active duty in the Fleet (at about 18 months notice), there are no plans or requirement at this time to do so.

In addition to the 75 surface vessels available for operations, four vessels are currently available for Government to Government sale; two of these have recently been sold for recycling and three are awaiting sale for recycling.

Work Sharing

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what steps his Department has taken to promote job-sharing among its employees; and how many people in his Department job-share. [169393]

Derek Twigg: The total number of job sharers recorded on the MOD human resource management system is 530.

The vast majority of posts are open to part-time or job share. The MOD also offers flexible working generally to staff (where operational/business constraints permit) as a tool to improve work life balance.

DUCHY OF LANCASTER

Climate Change

Rob Marris: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what steps the Cabinet Office (a) has taken and (b) intends to take by (i) 2012 and (ii) 2020 in relation to adaptation to the effects of climate change as they affect the Office's responsibilities; and if he will make a statement. [166423]

Phil Hope: The Cabinet Office is committed to addressing both the causes and consequences of climate change. We will identify priority areas for action in relation to adaptation to the effects of climate change, as they affect the Cabinet Office's responsibilities, once the Climate Change Bill and the cross-Government Adapting to Climate Change—Adaptation Policy Framework has been published.

Departmental NDPBs

Mr. Burns: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what non-departmental public bodies have been (a) established and (b) abolished since 1 May 1997. [171110]

Gillian Merron: Information on all non-departmental public bodies (NDPBs) is published annually by the Cabinet Office. Information covering the period 1997-2006 appears in the Cabinet Office "Public Bodies" publications and can be downloaded from the civil service website at: www.civilservice.gov.uk/about/public/bodies.asp

Departments are in the process of collating information for 2007 and a summary will be published by the Cabinet Office in due course.

Government Departments: Property

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what was the average amount of (a) vacant space and (b) total area, in square metres, recorded on the Electronic Property Information Mapping Service (e-PIMS) database for Government Departments and executive agencies for which information was held, in each year since the database was created. [171456]

Angela Eagle: I have been asked to reply.

In 2005-06 the total floor area recorded on e-PIMS was 12,753,581 $m^2$ and the amount of vacant space was 255,929 $m^2$.

In 2006-07 the total floor area recorded on e-PIMS was 13,713,489 $m^2$ and the amount of vacant space was 340,235 $m^2$.

The total area currently recorded on e-PIMS is 13,977,243 $m^2$ and the amount of vacant space is 496,416 $m^2$.

Figures are included from 2005-06 because this is the earliest that comparator data became available. It is estimated that e-PIMS saves the Government £8 million a year.

Information Sharing Vision

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what the timetable is for implementation of the proposals in his Department's statement on Information Sharing Vision. [171450]

Mr. Wills: I have been asked to reply.

The Ministry of Justice is leading a cross-Government programme to deliver a package of measures over the next three to five years that will enable public sector organisations to share information to improve personalised public services, increase public safety and tackle social exclusion in an environment of openness and respect for citizens' privacy and access rights.

This work will also take account of the findings of the independent review of the scope of sharing personal information and the protections that apply when personal information is shared in the public and private sectors. Richard Thomas, the Information Commissioner and Dr. Mark Walport, Director of the Wellcome Trust who jointly head this review will report their findings in the first half of 2008.

Students: Fees and Charges

Mrs. May: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster when he plans to introduce the scheme announced in the 2006 pre-Budget report to reduce tuition fees for students participating in volunteering schemes. [169593]

Phil Hope: The Office of the Third Sector commissioned the youth volunteering charity v to conduct research into young people's views on the tuition fees scheme. Following the research findings The Office of the Third Sector and the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills are considering options for the scheme.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Climate Change

11. Anne Moffat: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps he has taken to help individuals to identify the steps they can take to act on climate change. [171740]

Joan Ruddock: DEFRA and some other Government Departments run information programmes aimed at helping individuals to understand the link between their own actions and $CO_2$ emissions and how they can take action to reduce their carbon footprint.

Rob Marris: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps his Department (a) has taken and (b) intends to take by (i) 2012 and (ii) 2020 in relation to adaptation to the effects of climate change as they affect his Departmental responsibilities; and if he will make a statement. [165578]

Joan Ruddock: The Climate Change Bill, which it is hoped will receive Royal Assent by mid 2008, will provide a strong sustainable framework for adapting to the impacts of climate change. It will require Government to report at least every five years on current and predicted impacts of climate change, and on its proposals and policy for adapting to these.

DEFRA is also leading on the development of a cross-Government Adaptation Policy Framework to be published in the spring. The Framework aims to provide a consistent approach to building adaptation into policies, and a coherent way to identify cross-cutting risks and opportunities and to assist in prioritisation of action across Government.

In October 2008, the UK Climate Impacts Programme (UKCIP), will launch the DEFRA-funded UK 21st Century Climate Change Scenarios (UKCIP08) programme. This will provide accurate modelling and practical tools to help organisations (like local authorities and businesses) assess and address climate change impacts for the UK up to 2100 at a regional and local level. We will continue to develop the tools and actions to address climate change in the coming decades.

DEFRA is also considering the impacts of climate change for priority sectors. With the prediction of wetter winters and drier summers, water is on the front line of climate change adaptation. We will be launching a new Water Strategy, early in 2008, which will put adaptation at the heart of policy-making and ensure that water management is fit for the future. The increased flood risk from climate change is also one focus of the separate cross-Government long-term flood management strategy, 'Making Space for Water'. The strategy is encouraging a holistic approach to the management of flood risk, together with increasing awareness and emergency preparedness within communities to help them better cope with flood events when they occur.

In addition, my Department continues to take a strong lead internationally on climate change. For example, we are working to provide a detailed assessment of potential impacts of climate change in India, and to identify and develop adaptation strategies. The project will look to improve climate change scenarios for India up to 2050 and will assess the impact of climate change nationally on water resources, agriculture and forestry.

Joint Environmental Policy

12. Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what plans he has to discuss joint environmental policy with his counterparts in the governments of Japan and China. [171741]

Hilary Benn: The UK continues to work closely with China and Japan in its ongoing international work programmes. This includes the UK-China Sustainable Development Dialogue and a number of programmes on climate change. With Japan, we are working closely on a number of environmental issues including, climate change, biodiversity, forestry and resource efficiency.

Carrier Bags

13. Kerry McCarthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what his policy is on the practice of retailers giving away single use carrier bags free of charge. [171742]

Joan Ruddock: The Government pledged in the Waste Strategy for England 2007 to phase out single use carrier bags issued free at point of sale.

The Prime Minister signalled his commitment to this goal in his speech to the Foreign Press Association on the 19 November. We are actively working on the best means by which we can achieve this objective.

Fisheries Policy

14. Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he last met his counterparts in the devolved administrations to discuss fisheries policy; and if he will make a statement. [171744]

Jonathan Shaw: I have met them on several occasions in recent weeks and last month we agreed the UK priorities for the December Fisheries Council, reflecting their respective interests.

Climate Change Meeting: Bali

15. Lyn Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what policy objectives the Government will pursue at the meeting on international climate change policy at Bali in December. [171745]

Hilary Benn: UK objectives for Bali are clear—we need to ensure we launch broad and comprehensive negotiations that include all parties leading—by the end of 2009—to a comprehensive global agreement to tackle climate change.

National Food Security

16. James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will make a statement on Government policy on national food security. [171746]

Hilary Benn: Food security is about ensuring consumers have access to a stable and adequate supply of food. This requires effective risk management, security of our energy supplies, access to food from a variety of sources, a strong food chain and infrastructure and the capacity and contingency planning to deal with specific risks to our food supply.

Foot and Mouth and Bluetongue

17. Mr. Robathan: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will make a statement on the situation regarding foot and mouth disease and bluetongue disease. [171747]

Hilary Benn: Following extensive surveillance work, DEFRA lifted the foot and mouth disease (FMD) restricted zone on Monday 19 November. A Commission decision has allowed the establishment of FMD areas to enable the export of meat and meat products from much of GB.

There have been 66 confirmed cases of bluetongue since 28 September with the latest case on 3 December. However, the rate of new cases has stowed significantly and they have all been confined to the protection zone in the east and south east of England.

Nitrate Vulnerable Zones

18. Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment he has made of the operation of the nitrate vulnerable zones action programme; and if he will make a statement. [171748]

Mr. Woolas: We have recently conducted a comprehensive assessment of the nitrates vulnerable zone action programme, as part of the four-yearly review required by the nitrates directive. Proposals and supporting evidence to revise the current programme, in light of that review, are set out in a DEFRA consultation issued in August 2007; the closing date for comments is 13 December 2007.

Departmental Funding: Small Organisations

19. Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment he has made of the effects of changes to his Department's budget on the funding it provides for small organisations. [171749]

Hilary Benn: The Department carefully takes into account the impact of changes to funding provided to all organisations big or small.

I have not been made aware of any changes to the budget that might have had any particular effect on small organisations. However, as planned, the rural social and community programme will close on 31 March 2008. The programme is a two-year investment to develop the capacity of the rural voluntary and community and parish council sectors, to address important social issues and tackle the causes of rural social exclusion. There are strands of work supported under the programme that we hope to develop beyond March 2008. We will set out our plans in greater detail in the very near future.

Diverse Composition Products

20. Angela Watkinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent discussions he has had with manufacturers on minimising products of diverse composition. [171750]

Joan Ruddock: Neither I nor my colleagues have had any recent discussions with manufacturers specifically on this issue.

However, our policies to make producers responsible for their products give businesses incentives to design products that use fewer materials, avoid the use of harmful substances, last longer and are easy to disassemble and recycle.

Carbon Dioxide Emissions

21. Kelvin Hopkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent discussions he has had with the Secretary of State for Transport on measures to reduce carbon dioxide emissions from the transport sector. [171751]

Mr. Woolas: We regularly meet with Department for Transport Ministers to discuss ways that the transport sector can contribute to our commitments to reduce carbon dioxide emissions.

The recently published 'Towards a Sustainable Transport System' demonstrates the Government's commitment to ensuring the transport sector plays its full role in tackling climate change.

Flood Sirens: Norfolk

22. Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will make a statement on the future provision of flood sirens in Norfolk. [171752]

Mr. Woolas: The Environment Agency provides flood warnings to the public by local radio and directly to individuals by telephone, mobile phone, text messages, emails, pagers and faxes through its Floodline Warnings Direct service. The Agency considers these communication methods more effective than sirens.

Energy Efficiency Direction Orders

23. Alan Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what criteria he uses in deciding whether to issue an energy efficiency direction order in response to local authorities failing to meet targets set in the Home Energy Conservation Act 1995. [171753]

Mr. Woolas: When considering whether to issue discretionary directions, we would need to consider the balance between this option and those measures identified in the 2006 Climate Change Programme and the Local Government White Paper.

Brazilian Beef

Mrs. Dorries: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent assessment he has made of the safety of imported Brazilian beef; and if he will make a statement. [171736]

Jonathan Shaw: I am aware of the concerns being expressed about beef imported from Brazil. The European Commission's Food and Veterinary Office has carried out a number of inspection visits to Brazil in recent years to look at official controls on foot and mouth disease, production methods and traceability. We will continue to work closely with the Commission to ensure the findings and recommendations from these inspection visits are followed up with appropriate action.

Agriculture: Sewage

Phil Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will bring forward proposals to amend his Department's guidelines on spreading sewage sludge on farmland to prohibit the spreading of sewage sludge on farmland adjoining villages and other centres of population. [171840]

Mr. Woolas: When carried out in accordance with best practice, spreading sewage sludge to agricultural land can be a sustainable activity which improves the soil and provides nutrients for plant growth. The activity is currently controlled under the Sludge (Use in Agriculture) Regulations 1989, which set standards and application regimes for treated sludge, and require septic tank sludge to be worked into soil as soon as possible after spreading.

The Government are currently considering whether amendment of the regulations might help to address the concerns of residents in the vicinity of sludge spreading, particularly with regard to septic tank sludge, and whether alternative approaches, such as updating the code of practice for sludge spreading, might be appropriate.

Beaches: EU Law

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what progress has been made in transposing the revised Bathing Water Directive (2006/7/EC) into domestic law; and when he expects the provisions of the directive to be fully implemented in the UK. [170432]

Mr. Woolas: England is currently on target to meet the revised bathing water directive's transposition date of 24 March 2008. The revised directive will be fully implemented in England following the 2015 bathing season, when it is proposed that the first bathing water classifications are made.

DEFRA and the Welsh Assembly Government launched a joint public consultation on 12 November 2007 inviting comments on their proposals for the implementation of the revised bathing water directive in England and Wales. The deadline for consultation responses is 4 February 2008. Further details are available on the DEFRA website.

Comments on the consultation in Wales are a matter for the Welsh Assembly Government. Further information on the progress made towards transposing and implementing the directive in Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland, is available from the relevant devolved administration.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what percentage of English bathing waters met the standards required by the current Bathing Water Directive in each of the last five years. [171186]

Mr. Woolas: The percentage of bathing waters in England complying with the mandatory standards for total and faecal coliforms for the last five years is:

| | Percentage |
|---|---|
| 2002 | 98.5 |
| 2003 | 98.8 |
| 2004 | 98.3 |
| 2005 | 98.8 |
| 2006 | 99.5 |

The figure for 2007 is 97.8 per cent.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent assessment has been made of the capability of the Environment Agency to assess bathing water quality using fewer microbiological indicators as proposed in the revised Bathing Water Directive, 2006/7/EC. [171187]

Mr. Woolas: The revised Bathing Water Directive (rBWD), 2006/7/EC, came into force last year and updates and simplifies the current Bathing Water Directive (cBWD), 76/160/EEC, following developments in scientific and technical knowledge over the last 30 years. As a result of these developments, the rBWD, unlike the cBWD, only requires member states to test for two types of bacteria (intestinal enterococci and Escherichia coli) to be monitored as the best indicators of the risk of mild gastrointestinal illness in bathers.

The Government have formed a Bathing Water Technical Advisory Group comprising of the Environment Agency, the Scottish Environment Protection Agency and the Northern Ireland Environment and Heritage Service, which will assess the implications of monitoring and analysing the two new microbiological indicators.

The Environment Agency also has an internal project in place which is overseeing the transfer from monitoring requirements under the cBWD to the rBWD, while maintaining a high level of quality assurance.

Energy Saving Trust: Finance

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) how much was allocated to the Energy Savings Trust in the last Budget; and if he will make a statement; [171521]

(2) how much has been allocated to the Energy Savings Trust in each year since it was founded; and if he will make a statement. [171523]

Mr. Woolas: DEFRA grant funds the Energy Saving Trust year-on-year, supporting the valuable work it undertakes to encourage and promote the sustainable and efficient use of energy. My Department has grant funded the Trust annually as follows[1]:

[1] These figures show the main grant funding and do not include additional money to the Energy Saving Trust for work they do on managing research and other management contracts.

| | Funding (£ million) |
|---|---|
| 1996-97 | 25 |
| 1997-98 | 19 |
| 1998-99 | 19 |
| 1999-2000 | 23 |
| 2000-01 | 22 |
| 2001-02 | 22 |
| 2002-03 | 24 |
| 2003-04 | 25 |
| 2004-05 | 28 |
| 2005-06 | 27 |
| 2006-07 | 27 |
| 2007-08 | 29 |

Floods: Gloucestershire

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will meet representatives of Gloucestershire county council to discuss its recent report on flooding in the area. [170103]

Mr. Woolas: I understand Gloucestershire county council have provided a copy of their report to Sir Michael Pitt, who is leading an independent review of the summer's flooding, on behalf of the Government.

Floods: Gravesham

Mr. Holloway: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions he has had with ministerial colleagues on ensuring the safety of new homes built on flood plains in Gravesham. [171091]

Mr. Woolas: Local planning authorities are responsible for assessing planning applications including any flood risk management issues, taking account of advice from the Environment Agency. The Government issued strengthened policy on development and flood risk in December 2006, and an accompanying practice guide is being developed to provide practical guidance on how to take full account of flood risk at all stages of the planning process.

Fly Tipping: West Midlands

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what action the Government has taken to reduce incidents of fly-tipping in the West Midlands. [162986]

Joan Ruddock: Tackling fly-tipping and wider waste crime is a priority for the Government. Our Waste Strategy for England, published in May 2007, makes clear that initiatives to boost waste prevention and recycling should be supported by fly-tipping strategies aimed at tackling the illegal dumping of waste.

The Strategy includes the Government's Illegal Waste Activity Action Plan, which sets out what action is being taken and proposed in this area. This includes:

(i) Reviewing the controls in place to deal with the management and carriage of waste. The review aims to reduce levels of fly-tipping by making it easier for businesses to understand and comply with the regulations and make them easier for local authorities to use. This is planned for completion at the end of 2008.

(ii) Developing legislation that will give local authorities and the Environment Agency the powers to stop, search and instantly seize vehicles being used to commit fly-tipping offences. This is planned for completion at the end of 2008.

(iii) Consulting on proposals to introduce mandatory Site Waste Management Plans for construction and demolition projects above a certain value. This is planned for completion in April 2008.

(iv) Funding the Environment Agency's targeted campaigns to disseminate good practice to businesses and raise awareness of good waste management practices.

(v) Delivering Flycapture Enforcement, a training programme aimed at local authority officers and their legal teams to increase knowledge of the relevant legislation and develop skills in effective enforcement and prosecution of fly-tippers.

(vi) Work with stakeholders to consider how the Flycapture database can be enhanced or improved to help local authorities implement fly-tipping interventions.

DEFRA has also funded Environmental Campaigns (Encams) to deliver a programme of work on local environmental quality and fly-tipping issues in partnership with Government Offices. This work will support the poorest performing local authorities in each region through a combination of data analysis, best practice sharing and targeted seminars. It will also promote the introduction of fly-tipping targets within local area agreements.

In addition, DEFRA funded the Jill Dando Institute of Crime Science to produce research on fly-tipping—"Fly-tipping: Causes, Incentives and Solutions". This included good practice guidance on crime prevention techniques, including surveillance, and has been distributed to all local authorities in England.

Members: Correspondence

Mr. Winnick: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he will reply to the letter from the hon. Member for Walsall North of 31 October on the Climate Change Bill. [171841]

Mr. Woolas: The hon. Member's letter was received in the Department on 5 November 2007 and a reply despatched on 4 December 2007. I will arrange for a further copy to be sent to the hon. Member.

Rodents: Pest Control

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much Government funding went into supporting research into the development of new rodenticides in each of the last five years. [171837]

Mr. Woolas: In 2002 DEFRA funded a five year research project on rat control strategies costing £400,000. This included some work on use of a new rodenticide. The final report is available on the DEFRA website at:

http://randd.defra.gov.uk/Document.aspx?Document=VC0330_6599_FRP.doc.

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment he has made of which areas of the UK support populations of rats that have become resistant to all legally-available rodenticides. [172000]

Mr. Woolas: A Government funded survey was carried out in the 1990s which looked at resistance to anti-coagulant rodenticides and concluded that rodenticide resistance was becoming a significant problem in many areas.

On behalf of UK Government, the Health and Safety Executive delivers the regulatory authority role in relation to the use of rodenticide products in the UK. Last year, following agreement by the chairman of the Advisory Committee on pesticides, the HSE gave emergency approval for outdoor use of brodifacoum at one site in Winchester on the basis of an assessment that rats there appeared to be resistant to other treatments. Risks to wildlife (the reason outdoor use is not normally permitted) could be managed since it is a relatively enclosed site.

Total Allowable Catches

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) what percentage of the UK's Total Allowable Catch for 2008 he plans to distribute to the 10 metre and under fleet; and if he will make a statement; [170899]

(2) what percentage of the UK's Total Allowable Catch for 2008 he has allocated to the 10 metre and under fleet, broken down by (a) species and (b) fishery; and if he will make a statement. [170900]

Jonathan Shaw: The opening quota for the 10 m and under fleet is boosted by Fisheries Administrations acquiring additional quota in-year for their use. Information on the 10 m and under fleet's share of quota at 31 December 2006 is set out in the table. However, focusing on such an analysis can be misleading, as some of the quota stocks included are of little interest to inshore vessels. In addition, many of these vessels catch types of fish, such as crabs and scallops, which are not subject to the constraints on their activity that may be seen when targeting quota species. Figures for landings of quota stocks and non-quota stocks are also included in the table and show that 80 per cent. of all landings by the UK 10 m and under fleet in 2006 were of non-quota stocks.

Corresponding figures for end-year quota for 2007 are not yet available, as Fisheries Administrations continue to obtain extra allocations of quota wherever possible.

Water Supply

Mr. Leigh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what measures Ofwat has put in place to improve the reliability of its consumption and leakage data. [171754]

Mr. Woolas: Ofwat has led a review of their approach to leakage regulation and target setting. The review looked at variation in per capita consumption, inclusion of externalities in the leakage calculation and alternative approaches to the economic level of leakage. Ofwat expects the findings to lead to improvements at the next price review in 2009.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

Afghanistan: Drugs

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what response the Government has made to the call by Antonio Maria Costa, Head of the United Nations Anti Narcotics Unit, for NATO forces to tackle heroin production in Afghanistan; what the UN's policy is on paying poppy growers to (a) diversify and (b) cease poppy production; and if he will make a statement. [171392]

Dr. Howells: The UK is working closely with International Security Assistance Force (ISAF) allies to ensure a fully integrated approach to counter-narcotics that best supports the Afghan Government's National Drugs Control Strategy. ISAF is providing increasing support to the Afghan counter-narcotics effort, which we are encouraging. In the past few months, ISAF has provided support to a number of Afghan law enforcement operations to disrupt drug trafficking and to the Afghan Government's public information campaign to persuade farmers not to plant poppy.

The UN does not have a policy of paying poppy growers to diversify or to cease poppy production because they judge it would not work, in part due to the risk of encouraging farmers currently farming licit crops to start cultivating poppy. The Department for International Development and the World Bank have been conducting research into possible economic incentives to reduce opium production in Afghanistan. The final report will be released shortly; initial recommendations do not include subsidies or payments to farmers.

Balkans: Politics and Government

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when he last discussed the security situation in the Balkans with the Secretary of State for Defence; and if he will make a statement. [170330]

David Miliband: I maintain regular contacts with my right hon. Friend the Defence Secretary about the security situation in the Balkans. We believe that every effort should be made to resolve issues in the region politically. The UK remains fully committed to safeguarding the region's security and contributes to the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation's (NATO) deployment in Kosovo, KFOR, and the EU's forces in Bosnia, EUFOR. We continue to work intensively with our EU and NATO partners to deliver peaceful progress towards Euro and Euro-Atlantic integration for the whole Balkan region.

Belarus: Entry Clearances

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will consider granting a waiver on the collection of biometric data for organised groups of children from Belarus affected by the Chernobyl disaster seeking to visit the UK; and if he will make a statement. [171223]

Dr. Howells: The requirement for visa nationals to provide biometric data as part of the visa application process was introduced under the provisions of The Immigration (Provision of Physical Data) Regulations 2006 that came into force on 4 July 2006. There are very few exemptions or exceptions to this and, of necessity, these are very tightly drawn. We do not, as a matter of policy or law, collect biometric data from children under the age of five years or from certain individuals, Heads of State, for example, but require all other applicants to comply with the requirements of the 2006 Regulation.

I am aware of the important work undertaken by UK charities to provide respite care for children affected by the Chernobyl disaster. We had hoped to collect fingerprints from these children in a separate visa application centre close to their homes thereby avoiding them having to travel to our embassy in Minsk. Unfortunately, despite lengthy negotiations we were unable to secure agreement from the Belarussian authorities. I am however pleased to confirm that we will be introducing a pilot initiative next year to enable our embassy in Minsk to collect the children's biometric data through mobile fingerprinting machines. The embassy will be working with the charities to confirm arrangements for this pilot.

Climate Change

Rob Marris: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps his Department (a) has taken and (b) plans to take by (i) 2012 and (ii) 2020 to adapt to the effects of climate change as they affect his departmental responsibilities; and if he will make a statement. [165036]

Meg Munn: Delivering for the Government's objectives, the Foreign and Commonwealth Office has used its overseas network of posts to lobby for an ambitious post-2012 framework under the UN Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC). This includes pressing for ambitious efforts to reduce greenhouse gas emissions in order to avoid dangerous climate change as well as adapting to the effects of climate change which are already unavoidable. Posts will continue to play an active role in building momentum for comprehensive negotiations due to be launched at the UN climate change conference in Bali from 3 to 14 December before a global agreement in Copenhagen by 2009. Posts have also undertaken some activity to help build local capacity on adapting to climate change. The Department for International Development and the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs take the lead for adaptation policy and negotiations under the UNFCCC and both will continue providing support to developing countries for adaptation activities.

The recent Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change reports show that the impacts of climate change are already being felt. There is a need to act now and over the coming decades, both to deal with the obvious impacts (from reduced water availability to weather-related disasters) and adjust development decisions to deal with the long-term risks (from making low cost policy adjustments to planning for large scale investments in the future). If we do not act now, and over the coming decades, we are likely to see unprecedented reversals in progress on poverty reduction. Making development resilient to climate risk will incur additional costs. Current estimates suggest this may be around US$40 billion a year by 2030—more work is needed to improve our understanding of these costs.

Cyprus

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the value of UK exports to (a) the area controlled by the government of the Republic of Cyprus and (b) the Turkish-occupied northern region of Cyprus was in the last 12-month period for which figures are available. [167729]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The latest data from HM Revenue and Customs state that UK exports to the Republic of Cyprus were valued at £1.02 billion in 2006. Roughly 60 per cent. of these exports were in telecommunications and sound recording apparatus.

The latest Turkish Cypriot figures for UK exports to northern Cyprus are for 2005. They state that in 2005, northern Cyprus imported US$101 million (£55.5 million at 2005 exchange rates) of goods from the UK. In the same period UK figures for exports to the Republic of Cyprus were £356 million.

Delivery Services

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs which companies are under contract to his Department to provide mail services. [170166]

Meg Munn: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office only has one contract for the provision of mail services, this is with DHL Global Forwarding (UK) Limited.

Departmental Consultants

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how much was paid in consultancy fees by his Department in each year since 1997. [171992]

Meg Munn: I refer my hon. Friend to the reply my hon. Friend the Minister for Europe, gave to the hon. Member for Fareham (Mr. Hoban) on 9 October 2007, Official Report, columns 542-43W and the reply I gave to the hon. Member for Broxbourne (Mr. Walker) on 13 November 2007, Official Report, columns 108-09W.

Departmental Data Protection

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (1) how many electronic databases held by his Department contain (a) names, (b) addresses, (c) bank details and (d) other personal information on members of the general public; [169979]

(2) when each electronic database held by his Department containing personal information on members of the general public was first created; [169980]

(3) how many staff have access to electronic databases which contain personal information on members of the general public in his Department, broken down by grade; [169982]

(4) how many times databases held by his Department containing personal information on members of the general public have been accessed in each month for the last five years; [169983]

(5) how many requests his Department has received in each year since 1997 from the National Audit Office for access to databases containing personal information on members of the general public; [169984]

(6) what provisions his Department has in place to ensure that databases containing personal information on members of the general public are not accessed (a) by unauthorised staff and (b) for unauthorised purposes. [169985]

David Miliband: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Eritrea: Emigration

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what reports he has received on the effects of emigration from Eritrea on that country; and what discussions he has had with the Eritrean Government on the matter. [171014]

Meg Munn: We recognise the general negative economic effects emigration has on the Eritrean economy. Emigration seems highest among Eritrean youth.

Our embassy in Asmara continues to monitor the situation and has discussed emigration in the context of asylum and returns with the Eritrean Government, but has not discussed the effects of emigration on Eritrea.

Eritrea: Press Freedom

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has made to the Eritrean Government on media freedom in Eritrea. [171013]

Meg Munn: We monitor the human rights situation, including media freedom, in Eritrea closely.

There is no free press in Eritrea with no independent local journalists and only two international ones. The detention without charge by the Eritrean Government of journalists is unacceptable and contravenes international human rights agreements to which Eritrea is party. Our ambassador in Asmara raises these issues with the Eritrean Government at every suitable opportunity. Foreign and Commonwealth Office officials do likewise with the Eritrean embassy here in the UK.

We also raise our concerns on human rights through the EU. For example the EU lobbied Eritrea on the sixth anniversary of the detention in September 2001 of the G11, 11 members of the Eritrean political party who protested at the Government's direction in a letter to President Isaias, together with a number of journalists who were also detained at that time.

We will continue to monitor media freedom in Eritrea including the human rights situation more generally, raising our concerns with the Eritrean Government whenever possible.

Gaza: Frontiers

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the Government's policy is on the closure of Gaza's borders; and if he will make a statement. [172016]

Dr. Howells: There is a pressing need to overcome the obstacles to re-opening Gaza's crossings for humanitarian goods, trade and people. The quartet (US, EU, UN and Russia) has expressed concern over the continued closure of major crossing points. The UN is actively involved in trying to find a solution. The EU has called

"on all parties to work towards an opening of the crossings in and out of Gaza".

My right hon. Friends the Foreign Secretary and the Secretary of State for International Development issued a statement on 30 October expressing our concern at the situation in Gaza. The full text of the statement can be found at:

http://www.fco.gov.uk/servlet/Front?pagename=OpenMarket/Xcelerate/ShowPage&c=Page&cid=1007029391629&a=KArticle&aid=1193597605085&year=2007&month=2007-10-01.

My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary said in his statement to the House on 28 November, following the Annapolis Conference, that we should not lose sight of Gaza, an integral part of a future Palestinian state Official Report, column 284.

Greece: Embassies

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs on which occasions the British embassy in Athens has hosted receptions for UK organisations visiting the city in each of the last three years; what assessment he has made of how this compares to other UK diplomatic missions; and what funding was allocated to the embassy over this period for this purpose. [170473]

Mr. Jim Murphy: Our embassy in Athens does not distinguish between receptions for UK organisations visiting the city and other forms of entertainment. Instead, the embassy follows a written policy which requires that entertainment should support the embassy's business plan (based on the Foreign and Commonwealth Office's strategic priorities). Other UK missions follow similar practice.

Since 1 January 2007 the ambassador has hosted 42 meals, 20 receptions and seven seminars or group meetings involving over 4,000 guests.

To collate a comprehensive list of events hosted from 2004-07 would incur disproportionate cost, as would the work required to assess the funding allocated to the embassy over this period for this purpose.

Human Rights

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the Government's policy is on the United Nations General Assembly passing resolutions on human rights in individual states or territories. [171394]

Meg Munn: The Government consider that the UN General Assembly (UNGA) has a responsibility to address situations of human rights violations in particular countries. We believe that the most effective means of improving such situations is through a co-operative relationship between the UN human rights machinery and the Government of the relevant country. However, where the situation is of serious concern and where the Government in question refuses to co-operate or to make use of the support offered to them by the UN human rights mechanisms, it is entirely appropriate for the UNGA or the UN Human Rights Council to express concern over the situation through a resolution, if necessary without the support of the country concerned. The Government worked very actively with European Union and other partners to secure the recent adoption of resolutions by the UNGA Third Committee on the situations in Iran, Burma, Belarus and the Democratic People's Republic of Korea.

Iran: Capital Punishment

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent representations his Department has made to the Iranian Government on child executions in Iran. [171934]

Dr. Howells: We remain deeply concerned by the growing use of capital punishment in Iran, particularly with regard to juvenile executions. Although Iran has ratified the Convention on the Rights of the Child and the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights—both of which prohibit the use of the death penalty for crimes committed before the age of 18—Iran continues to execute more juvenile offenders than any other country in the world. We deplore the fact that there have been at least three juvenile executions so far this year.

UK, and EU, policy on the death penalty is clear: we oppose it in all circumstances and are committed to taking action on individual cases that fall below international minimum standards, including juvenile cases. The EU presidency, with strong UK support, has raised concerns about juvenile execution cases with the Iranian authorities on at least thirteen occasions this year. We also make representations in bilateral meetings with the Iranians. Most recently, senior officials raised two juvenile execution cases (Soghra Nafj-Pour and Makwan Moloudzadeh) with the Iranian ambassador on 26 October—we have since heard that their cases are being reviewed—and, in a meeting with the Iranian embassy on 23 November, protested the recent execution of Mohammad Reza Tork.

Iran: Negotiations

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether Iranian nuclear negotiator Saeed Jalili and EU High Representative Javier Solana have agreed to a fresh round of talks in December; and if he will make a statement. [166129]

David Miliband: No meeting has been agreed for December. Javier Solana met Saeed Jalili on 30 November in London. He described the meeting as "disappointing". Accordingly, on the basis of the agreement I reached with my E3+3 colleagues in New York on 28 September, our Political Directors met in Paris on 1 December and agreed to prepare a new sanctions resolution to submit to the UN Security Council.

Iran: Nuclear Power

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what progress has been made in the talks between EU high representative Javier Solana and the Iranian nuclear negotiator towards meeting the mandatory UN requirement that Iran suspends the proliferation-sensitive aspects of its nuclear programme; and if he will make a statement. [166126]

David Miliband: Javier Solana met Iran's nuclear negotiator Saeed Jalili on 30 November. Dr. Solana's staff reported to E3+3 Political Directors on 1 December that the meeting was 'disappointing'. Accordingly, in line with the agreement I reached with my E3+3 colleagues in New York on 28 September, Political Directors agreed to prepare a new sanctions resolution to submit to the UN Security Council.

Iran: UN Resolutions

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when the next meeting of the Foreign Ministers of the Permanent Five Security Council members and Germany to agree a new Security Council Resolution on Iran is expected to take place; and if he will make a statement. [166128]

David Miliband: E3+3 Political Directors and Foreign Ministers are in regular touch. I agreed with my E3+3 colleagues in New York on 28 September that we would seek a vote on a new UN Security Council sanctions resolution against Iran unless both Mohammed El Baradei and Javier Solana reported a positive outcome from their dealings with the Iranians. Dr. El Baradei reported on 15 November. His report was mixed, but made clear that the International Atomic Energy Agency's visibility of Iran's nuclear programme was "diminishing". Dr. Solana's staff reported to Political Directors on 1 December and said that Solana had found his 30 November meeting with Saeed Jalili "disappointing". Accordingly, Political Directors met in Paris on 1 December and agreed to prepare a new sanctions resolution. I will continue to stay in touch with my E3+3 colleagues on the subject.

Iraq

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (1) how many of his Department's personnel were assigned to the British provincial reconstruction team in (a) Basra and (b) Lashkar Gah in each year since 2005; what contact each team has with local people on reconstruction issues; and if he will make a statement; [170817]

(2) what contacts his Department's personnel assigned to the British provincial reconstruction team in (a) Basra and (b) Lashkar Gah have with local people on reconstruction issues; and if he will make a statement; [170818]

(3) how many of his Department's personnel were assigned to the British provincial reconstruction team in (a) Basra and (b) Lashkar Gah in each year since 2005. [170822]

Dr. Howells: The UK employs a broad range of civilian staff in support of the Governments of Iraq and Afghanistan to help develop a stable and secure environment in both countries. The Basra provincial reconstruction team (PRT) was formally established in April 2006 along with PRTs in other provinces. Since this time, the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) has assigned one permanent member of staff and three consultants on contract to the PRT. Nine local people have been employed as contract staff. The Department for International Development (DFID) has assigned one permanent member of staff and 12 consultants, although no more than seven DFID consultants have provided capacity building support at any one time.

Over 50 staff have been employed in Afghanistan from across the Government, including the FCO, DFID and the Afghanistan Drugs Inter-Department Unit.

Activities covered by the PRT staff in both Iraq and Afghanistan include work in governance, rule of law, reconstruction and economic development. The Lashkar Gah PRT also covers counter narcotics activities. During the period 2006 to 2008, DFID is committing £7 million to quick impact projects in Helmand for reconstruction and development projects. The PRT in Helmand has issued 91 contracts in Lashkar Gah and these are delivered through local business, suppliers and non-governmental organisations.

Iraq: Ex Gratia Payments

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many Iraqi contracted staff there are who meet the criteria for ex gratia assistance and who work or have worked for the UK Government in Iraq (a) under the direct authority of the Basra provincial reconstruction team, (b) for the British civilian police mission or for international contractors engaged by the Government to carry out the police training programme and (c) for the Department for International Development's (i) Centre of Government, (ii) Ministry of Interior Capacity Building, (iii) Civil Society, (iv) Economic Reform and (v) Infrastructure Services and Governorate Capacity-building Programme; and if he will make a statement. [168378]

David Miliband: About 90 Iraqis who work or have worked on these programmes meet the criteria, or will meet the criteria when they have completed 12 months service.

Iraq: Oil

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 22 November 2007, Official Report, columns 1039-40W, on Iraq: oil, whether he takes into account maximising the revenues for central government in Iraq when urging Iraqi Ministers and officials to consider the benefit of a broad range of contract types. [172028]

Dr. Howells: We have not taken account of maximising revenues when providing advice to the Government of Iraq. That is a sovereign matter for the Iraqis. UK advice has focused on the need to consider a range of oil contract options, consistent with international best practice, to meet the varied conditions and circumstances in Iraq.

Iraq: Resettlement

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 12 November 2007, Official Report, columns 39-40W, on Iraq: resettlement, how many locally employed staff in Iraq have been made redundant or have had to resign from their job because of what the Government assesses to be exceptional circumstances who had (a) attained and (b) not attained 12 months or more continuous service in each year since March 2003. [166730]

Dr. Howells: The Government have employed many thousands of local staff in Iraq since 2003, many for short periods of time. Before the introduction of the policy set out in my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary's written ministerial statements of 9 October 2007, Official Report, columns 27-28WS and 30 October 2007, Official Report, columns 30-33WS, information on redundancies and resignations was not held centrally, and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Under the new policy, serving staff who are made redundant, or resign due to what we judge to be exceptional circumstances, can apply for assistance as set out in my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary's written ministerial statements of 9 and 30 October 2007, provided that they meet the eligibility criteria. Serving staff are defined as those who were in our employ on or after 8 August 2007, and comprehensive records on redundancies and resignations are therefore held from that date. Since then, two locally engaged staff have resigned due to what we judged to be exceptional circumstances. Both had completed more than twelve months service. 33 have been made redundant.

Former staff do not need to have been made redundant or resigned in exceptional circumstances in order to qualify for assistance, provided that they meet the other eligibility criteria.

Israel: Frontiers

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent discussions the Government have had with the Israeli Government on the movement of Palestinians across borders. [171831]

Dr. Howells: The implementation of the 2005 Agreement on Movement and Access stalled following the election of Hamas in January 2006. We continue to call on both the Israelis and the Palestinians to implement the agreement. We have repeatedly raised our concerns about movement and access with the Government of Israel. My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary raised our concerns about movement and access on his recent visit to Israel and the occupied Palestinian territories from 17 to 19 November.

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent discussions have taken place between the British and Israeli Governments on dismantling check points. [171832]

Dr. Howells: We remain concerned about the movement restrictions in the west bank. Israel has a right to protect its citizens from terrorist attack, but also a duty to ensure the effect of its security measures on the Palestinian population are minimised. We will continue to raise this concern at all levels with the Israeli government. My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary discussed movement and access issues during his recent visit to Israel and the occupied Palestinian territories from 17 to 19 November.

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent discussions have taken place between the British and Israeli Governments on the Israeli security wall. [171833]

Dr. Howells: We regularly raise our concerns about the routing of the barrier with the Israeli Government and will continue to do so. We fully recognise Israel's right to self-defence but the barrier's route should be on or behind the green line, and not on occupied territory. Construction of the barrier on Palestinian land is illegal and is particularly damaging around east Jerusalem where it threatens to divide the west bank in two.

Our embassy in Tel Aviv continues to raise these concerns.

Overseas Property

Dr. Starkey: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what risk assessment his Department has undertaken in relation to the acquisition of properties by UK citizens in (a) Northern Cyprus and (b) illegal Israeli settlements in the Occupied Palestinian Territories. [168618]

Mr. Jim Murphy: Our high commission in Nicosia recognises that there is a risk in relation to the acquisition of properties by UK nationals in the north of Cyprus. This is reflected in the travel advice for Cyprus given on the Foreign and Commonwealth Office's website and the answers to "Frequently Asked Questions" that are sent to inquirers on request. This advice is reproduced as follows:

Property issues are closely linked to the political situation. There are a number of potential practical, financial and legal implications, particularly for those considering buying property in the north. These relate to the non-recognition of the "Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus", the suspension of EU law in northern Cyprus, the possible consequences for property of a future settlement, and the many thousands of claims to ownership from people displaced in 1974. There is also a risk that, as a result of the disputed ownership of many of the properties, purchasers could face legal proceedings in the courts of the Republic of Cyprus, as well as attempts to enforce judgments from these courts elsewhere in the EU, including the UK.

The Government have undertaken no risk assessment in relation to the acquisition of properties by UK citizens in illegal Israeli settlements.

Dr. Starkey: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs on how many occasions UK citizens have sought advice from his Department in relation to property disputes in (a) Northern Cyprus and (b) illegal Israeli settlements in the Occupied Palestinian Territories in the last five years. [168619]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) has not kept a record of the number of occasions UK citizens have sought advice in relation to property disputes in northern Cyprus over the last five years. The FCO does, however, receive a significant number of inquiries from members of the public relating to property in northern Cyprus. The FCO is not able to directly intervene in private property disputes. However, we continue to warn potential purchasers of the risks of purchasing property in northern Cyprus, both through our online travel advice—available at www.fco.gov.uk—and in response to inquiries from the public. We also advise UK citizens in the travel advice section of our website to seek qualified legal advice from a source that is independent of the seller before purchasing property in Cyprus. Similarly, should a dispute occur as a result of a property transaction, we advise members of the public to seek qualified independent legal advice on their rights and methods of redress.

We are not aware of any occasions in which UK citizens have sought advice from the FCO on property disputes in Israeli settlements in the last five years. The Government do not advise or encourage individuals, companies or organisations to market or sell property in the settlements.

We regard all settlements in the Occupied Palestinian Territories as illegal under international law and have repeatedly raised our concerns about settlement activity with the Israeli Government.

Saudi Arabia: Human Rights

Mr. Andrew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations were made to the Government of Saudi Arabia on human rights in Saudi Arabia on the occasion of the recent official Saudi visit to the United Kingdom. [171613]

Dr. Howells: Human rights issues were discussed as part of the Two Kingdoms Conference, the last session of which was held at Lancaster House on 29 November 2007.

West Bank: Housing

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the Government's policy is on the removal of settlements on the West Bank; and if he will make a statement. [172015]

Dr. Howells: The Roadmap is clear that Israel should freeze all settlement activity including the natural growth of existing settlements, and dismantle all outposts built since former Prime Minister Sharon's election in March 2001. Settlement building is contrary to international law and is an obstacle to peace. This has been our consistent position and we will continue to raise this with the Israeli government.

Zimbabwe: EU-Africa Lisbon Summit

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will take steps to ensure that the situation in Zimbabwe will be on the formal agenda of the EU/AU summit in Lisbon. [171188]

Meg Munn: We have taken steps to ensure that Zimbabwe will be discussed at the EU-Africa summit. The EU common position stipulates that an exemption to the restrictions on President Mugabe's travel to the EU can only be made if the meeting he attends includes a political dialogue that directly promotes democracy, human rights and the rule of law in Zimbabwe. As a consequence Zimbabwe and its appalling human rights situation will be raised.

HEALTH

Disabled: Children

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much funding his Department will provide to match the £280 million for specialist short breaks for disabled children from the Department for Children, Schools and Families, as stated in the pre-Budget report, comprehensive spending review, Chapter 5. [163724]

Mr. Ivan Lewis [holding answer 14 November 2007]: A decision on the distribution of resources announced in the comprehensive spending review is still to be made.

Health Services: Publicity

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what he expects the cost of his Department's End Waiting, Change Lives campaign to have been by the end of 2008. [170194]

Mr. Bradshaw: The total anticipated spend to the end of this financial year (end March 2008) is £1,221,861.10.

The campaign budget for April to December 2008 will be determined as part of the development of the Department's 2008-09 business plan, which is now under way.

Healthcare Commission: Finance

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the annual budget of the (a) Healthcare Commission and (b) Commission for Social Care Inspection have been over the last five years. [171667]

Mr. Bradshaw [holding answer 5 December 2007]: The annual budgets of the Healthcare Commission (HC) and Commission for Social Care Inspection (CSCI) over the last five years are set out as follows:

£000

| | Department of Health (DH) revenue | DH capital charges | Income | Total budget | DH capital |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Healthcare Commission | | | | | |
| 2003-04[1] | 35,000 | — | — | 35,000 | — |
| 2004-05 | 71,694 | 1,670 | 3,250 | 76,614 | 5,072 |
| 2005-06 | 65,388 | 2,500 | 8,134 | 76,022 | 3,000 |
| 2006-07 | 71,367 | 2,800 | 8,200 | 82,367 | 4,000 |
| 2007-08 | 64,379 | 2,800 | 7,200 | 74,379 | 5,000 |

[1] Commission for Health Improvement (CHI) existed with a budget of £35 million revenue. HC took over some of CHI's functions and was being set up in 2003-04.

£000

| | DH Revenue | DH Capital Charges | Other Income | Total Budget | DH Capital |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Commission Social Care Inspectorate | | | | | |
| 2003-04[1] | 94,320 | 10,752 | 46,290 | 151,362 | 3,000 |
| 2004-05 | 98,005 | 10,000 | 44,402 | 152,407 | 2,000 |
| 2005-06 | 86,430 | 14,490 | 56,755 | 157,675 | 6,000 |
| 2006-07 | 80,984 | 15,840 | 64,500 | 161,324 | 19,978 |
| 2007-08 | 65,371 | 12,261 | 58,600 | 136,232 | 18,707 |

[1] CSCI was being set up in 2003-04. Its predecessor organisation was National Care Standards Commission

Notes:

1. Figures for revenue and capital are grant-in-aid issued by the Department of Health and are the start of year figures. Figures for income are derived from the organisations' annual accounts.
2. "Other income" repreeents income largely from regulatory fees.
3. Figures for CSCI up to 2006-07 include the cost of children's social services functions transferred to Ofsted on 1 April 2007.

Hospitals: Waiting Lists

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many operations were cancelled for each acute hospital trust in (a) each of the last 12 months and (b) each of the previous four years, broken down by specialty. [167807]

Mr. Bradshaw: Tables showing the number of operations cancelled for non-clinical reasons have been placed in the Library. This information is collected on a quarterly basis and is not broken down by specialty.

Illegal Immigrants

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many illegal immigrants have been discovered working for his Department and its agencies in the last year for which figures are available. [170504]

Mr. Bradshaw: For the year 1 December 2006 to 30 November 2007 no illegal immigrants have been discovered working for the Department of Health or its agencies. Stringent identity and nationality checks are carried out as part of the recruitment procedures applied by the Department and its agencies, prior to appointment.

Negligence

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many clinical negligence cases were closed by the NHS Litigation Authority in the last year for which figures are available; how many of those cases were funded by (a) legal aid, (b) conditional fee agreements and (c) other means; and how many cases in each category of funding resulted in an award of damages or a settlement involving an agreement to pay damages. [167022]

Ann Keen: The information requested is in the following table. The information was supplied by the NHS Litigation Authority.

Number of clinical negligence claims closed during 2006-07

| Funded by | Number of claims closed 2006-07 | Number of claims closed 2006-07 with damages payments |
|---|---|---|
| Conditional fee arrangement | 1,200 | 830 |
| Legal services commission | 1,883 | 1,001 |
| Other funding | 1,078 | 667 |
| Unknown funding | 2,181 | 624 |
| Total | 6,342 | 3,122 |

NHS: Consultants

Frank Cook: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many finished consultant episodes were completed in each of the last five years. [168351]

Mr. Bradshaw: The following table shows the number of finished consultant episodes (FCEs) completed in national health services hospitals in England from 2001-02 to 2005-06 inclusive.

| Data year | FCEs |
|---|---|
| 2005-06 | 14,425,259 |
| 2004-05 | 13,707,428 |
| 2003-04 | 13,296,566 |
| 2002-03 | 12,713,296 |
| 2001-02 | 12,338,590 |

Notes:
FCE
An FCE is defined as a period of admitted patient care under one consultant within one healthcare provider. Figures do not represent the number of patients, as a person may have more than one episode of care within the year.
Ungrossed Data
Figures have not been adjusted for shortfalls in data (i.e. the data are ungrossed).
Assessing growth through time
HES figures are available from 1989-90 onwards. During the years that these records have been collected there have been ongoing improvements in quality and coverage. These improvements in information submitted by the NHS have been particularly marked in the earlier years and need to be borne in mind when analysing time series. Changes in NHS practice also need to be borne in mind when analysing time series. For example, a number of procedures may now be undertaken in out-patient settings and may no longer be accounted in the HES data. This may account for any reductions in activity over time.
Data Quality
HES are compiled from data sent by over 300 NHS trusts and primary care trusts in England. The Information Centre for health and social care liaises closely with these organisations to encourage submission of complete and valid data and seeks to minimise inaccuracies and the effect of missing and invalid data via HES processes. Whilst this brings about improvement over time, some shortcomings remain.

NHS: Loans

Greg Mulholland: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 26 November 2007, Official Report, column 255W, on NHS: loans, how much of the £777.881 million of loans issued to national health service trusts on 22 March was used to finance private finance initiative projects, broken down by individual trusts to which a loan payment was made. [171944]

Mr. Bradshaw: In 2006-07 the informal and opaque system of cash brokerage and planned support that had previously operated across the national health service, was replaced for NHS trusts by a formal system of loans. The £777.881 million of loans issued to NHS trusts on 22 March 2007 was provided to finance the consequences of historic overspending that had previously been financed informally through the cash brokerage system.

Primary Care Trusts: Hampshire

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what redundancy payments were made during the last reorganisation of primary care trusts in Hampshire; and if he will make a statement. [165375]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The information is not held in the format requested as individual redundancy payments are not available centrally.

The following table shows the total expenditure by primary care trusts (PCTs) in Hampshire for 2006-07, which is the latest and only year for which this information is available.

There are two measures of expenditure. The first measure is for 'redundancy'. These costs will, in previous years, have been included within an 'other/miscellaneous' category. They are for redundancy, but it is not known whether all costs included will relate to redundancy following mergers or re-organisation.

The second (stand-alone) measure is 'PCT reorganisation; redundancies and early retirement'. It is expected that these are costs relating to organisations involved in mid year mergers/reorganisation.

Expenditure by PCTs in Hampshire 2006-07

£000

| Primary care trusts | Redundancies | PCT reorganisation: redundancies and early retirements |

Speech Therapy: Northumberland

Mr. Beith: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many speech therapist hours per week are available within the NHS in Northumberland. [165579]

Ann Keen: The information is not available in the requested format. However, the number of full-time equivalent qualified speech and language therapy staff in each national health service organisation in Northumberland is shown in the following table.

| Organisation | Number |
|---|---|
| Northumbria Healthcare NHS Foundation Trust | 0 |
| Northumberland Care Trust | 25 |
| Northumberland, Tyne and Wear NHS Trust | 16 |

Strokes: Health Services

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much was spent in (a) 2005-06 and (b) 2006-07 on stroke services, broken down by primary care trust. [172041]

Ann Keen: Figures were not collected in 2005-06 but the programme budgeting category was further sub-divided in 2006-07 to provide 'cerebrovascular disease' under the circulation problems category. Figures are shown in the following table.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Climate Change

Rob Marris: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps her Department (a) has taken and (b) plans to take by (i) 2012 and (ii) 2020 to adapt to the effects of climate change as they affect her departmental responsibilities; and if she will make a statement. [165038]

Meg Hillier: Actions the Home Office will take to adapt to the effects of climate change will be in accordance with the requirements set out in the Government's Climate Change Bill. This will augment a similar assessment carried out for the Home Office in 2003 and will follow any cross-Government adaptation policy framework that sets out Government's overall intentions in relation to adapting to the effects of climate change. It is envisaged that regular adaptation assessments will be made in the mid to long-term.

Human Trafficking

Jo Swinson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what progress her Department has made on implementing the UK action plan on human trafficking. [166336]

Mr. Coaker: Many of the actions in the UK Action Plan have been completed or are in the process of implementation. As implementation progresses the Plan will be updated and revised. The Inter Departmental Ministerial Group on Human Trafficking meets quarterly to monitor implementation of the Action Plan and updates on progress are also provided to the Ministerial NGO Group on human trafficking.

Jo Swinson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what her estimated timetable is for full implementation of the UK action plan on human trafficking. [166410]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 20 November 2007]: Each action point in the Action Plan contains an estimated timetable for implementation. The Action Plan is a living document and as implementation progresses the Plan will be updated and revised. The Inter Departmental Ministerial Group on Human Trafficking meets quarterly to monitor implementation of the Action Plan and updates on progress are also provided to the Ministerial NGO Group on human trafficking.

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the outcomes of Operation Pentameter (a) 1 and (b) 2 were in relation to trafficking. [170218]

Mr. Coaker: Pentameter 1 resulted in the rescue of 88 victims (12 of which were children) from 22 different countries (primarily Eastern Europe, China/South-East Asia, Africa or Brazil); 232 people were arrested and 134 charged with a variety of offences.

Pentameter 2 is still ongoing. Operational results will be released following completion of the operation.

Human Trafficking: Cambridgeshire

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether funding for Operation Pentameter II for the Cambridgeshire constabulary will be available in the financial year 2008-09; and if she will make a statement. [169526]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 3 December 2007]: Police forces receive over £1 billion in grant annually. Human trafficking is core police business and all forces including Cambridgeshire constabulary should now have the capacity to deal with trafficking problems in their area.

Operation Pentameter II is a time limited operation and is due to be completed early in the 2008-09 financial year.

Decisions on the timing of further Pentameter operations have yet to be taken.

Immigration

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department with reference to the oral answer of 15 October 2007, Official Report, column 548, on inward migration, how many and what percentage of migrants to the UK were (a) EEA nationals, (b) non-EEA nationals, (c) dependents and (d) students in each of the last five years. [163940]

Angela Eagle: I have been asked to reply.

The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 6 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question with reference to the Oral Answer of 15th October 2007, Official Report Column 548, on inward migration, how many and what percentage of migrants to the UK were (a) EEA nationals, (b) non-EEA nationals, (c) dependents, and (d) students in each of the last five years.

The requested figures are presented in the attached tables. Table 1 shows UK immigration for calendar years 2002-2006 separated into EEA and non-EEA nationals. UK nationals have been excluded from the EEA group and are shown separately. Table 2 shows UK immigration 2002-2006 for those 'accompanying or joining a family member' and for those immigrating for 'formal study' shown separately.

Both sets of figures are based on Total International Migration (TIM). This is the most comprehensive and only official estimate of long-term civilian migration covering both flows to and from the UK.

Includes adjustments for (1) those whose intended length of stay changes so that their migrant status changes; (2) asylum seekers and their dependants not identified by the IPS; and (3) flows between the UK and the Republic of Ireland.
[2] EEA grouping excludes British citizens. Up to and including 2003, EEA is defined as Iceland, Liechtenstein, Norway and the EU15 (Austria, Belgium, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, the Irish Republic, Italy, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Portugal, Spain and Sweden). From 2004 onwards, the estimates also include the A8 (the Czech Republic, Estonia, Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Slovakia and Slovenia) plus Malta and Cyprus. British citizens are excluded from all groupings .and shown separately.
[3] For 2004 onwards, the Non-EEA grouping excludes Malta and Cyprus plus the eight Central and Eastern European member states that joined the EU in May 2004.

Kid's Company

Mr. Clegg: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what funding her Department provided to the Kid's Company in each of the last five years. [167023]

Jim Knight: I have been asked to reply.

Kid's Company has been in receipt of a Treasury Invest to Save budget since April 2005. The Treasury grant is for three years and ends in March 2008. The Department for Children, Schools and Families has only acted as sponsor body and has not provided the funding. Objectives for the budget (£3,427,000 over three years) are to:

Secure statutory funding to improve and sustain The Arches drop-in centre for the long term;

Replicate the model of service delivery used at the Arches;

Contribute to the policy and institutional framework on a national scale that enables organisations to support the most vulnerable and challenging young people.

Funding is as follows:

| | £ |
|---|---|
| 2005-06 | 1,480,000 |
| 2006-07 | 1,125,000 |
| 2007-08 | 822,500 |

Olympic Games 2012: Gun Sports

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what progress has been made on negotiations to allow Olympic target pistol shooters to train and compete in the UK. [168215]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 26 November 2007]: Agreement has been reached in principle on the use of Ministry of Defence ranges by a small squad of elite pistol shooters. To enable this to take place I propose to use my powers under section 5 of the Firearms Act 1968. Scottish Ministers have also agreed in principle to exercise their powers in a similar manner in respect of Scotland. As a next step we will be meeting the national governing bodies to establish the final details.

INNOVATION, UNIVERSITIES AND SKILLS

Civil Law

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many civil lawsuits have been brought against his Department and its predecessors based either wholly or partially on grounds provided by the Human Rights Act 1998; how many were settled out of court before a court judgment was delivered; and how much such settlements have cost the public purse since the Act came into force. [166877]

Bill Rammell: The Department does not collect central records of cases brought against it in which grounds contained in the Human Rights Act 1998 have been relied on and so the information requested could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Climate Change: Research

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of the Natural Environment Research Council's programme quantifying and understanding the earth system in informing the Government's climate change policy. [167820]

Ian Pearson: A number of NERC-funded research programmes and collaborations provide scientific evidence that informs the Government's climate change policy. The Quantifying and Understanding the Earth System (QUEST) programme is just one of these; others include the RAPID Climate Change programme, the Tyndall Centre for Climate Change Research, and the National Centre for Atmospheric Science.

NERC council has undertaken an independent mid-term evaluation of the QUEST programme, which will be published shortly. This evaluation concluded that the programme has made good links with stakeholders including central government, and that it is satisfactorily mobilising its preliminary science outputs to inform policy, and increasing the UK's capability to generate policy-relevant science.

The Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (DEFRA) takes the lead within Government for climate change policy and commissions research on climate change in support of policy. It has not made an assessment of the effectiveness of the NERC programme quantifying and understanding the earth system in informing the Government's climate change policy, although it does draw on its work programmes.

Departmental Accountancy

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what departmental budget items have been reclassified, according to the classifications in HM Treasury's Consolidated Budgeting Guidance, as a result of the decisions taken in the 2007 Comprehensive Spending Review; what the (a) former and (b) new (i) classification and (ii) sum budgeted is in each case; and what activity is supported by each item. [164492]

Mr. Lammy: There has only been one departmental budget item that has been reclassified, as a result of the decisions taken in the 2007 Comprehensive Spending Review. The former classification was programme expenditure; the new classification is administration expenditure, the sum budgeted is £5.2 million and the activity supported is consultancy.

Departmental Assets

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what departmental assets are planned to be sold in each financial year from 2007-08 to 2010-11; what the (a) description and (b) book value is of each such asset; and what the expected revenue is from each such sale. [164519]

Mr. Lammy: The following departmental assets are planned to be sold.

Subject to parliamentary approval of the Sale of Student Loans Bill, a programme of sale of income-contingent student loans will start in 2008-09. The pre-Budget report, published on 9 October 2007, set out anticipated proceeds from the sales as follows:

| | Anticipated proceeds (£ billion) |
|---|---|
| 2008-09 | 3.4 |
| 2009-10 | 1.3 |
| 2010-11 | 1.6 |

The profile of actual sale proceeds will be dependent on market conditions.

Departmental Data Protection

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills on how many occasions in (a) his Department and (b) its agencies confidential data have been downloaded on to compact discs (i) without and (ii) with encryption in the last 12 month period for which figures are available; how many of those discs have been posted without using recorded or registered delivery; what procedures his Department has in place for the (A) transport, (B) exchange and (C) delivery of confidential or sensitive data; what records are kept of information held by his Department being sent outside the Department; what changes have been made to his Department's rules and procedures on data protection in the last two years; on how many occasions his Department's procedures and rules on data protection have been breached in the last five years; what those breaches were; what procedures his Department has in place on downloading confidential data on to computer discs before its transfer; what technical protections there are in his Department's computer systems to prevent access to information held on those systems which is not in accordance with departmental procedures; and if he will place in the Library a copy of each of his Department's rules and procedures on the protection of confidential data on individuals, businesses and other organisations; [168257]

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what steps his Department has taken to protect the personal data on members of the public which it holds. [171427]

Mr. Lammy: I refer the hon. Members to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Departmental Manpower

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills pursuant to the answer of 14 November 2007, Official Report, column 282W, on departmental manpower, what percentage of the staff of the former Department for Education and Skills was represented by the 536 staff who are working in his Department. [170568]

Mr. Lammy: The percentage of the total number of staff from the former Department for Education and Skills represented by the 536 staff transferring to my Department is 16 per cent.

Departmental Official Hospitality

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what entertainment or hospitality members of the Department's management board have received in each of the last three financial years; and if he will make a statement. [164735]

Mr. Lammy: Paragraph 4.3.5 of the Civil Service Management Code sets out the rules on the registration of hospitality. The Government are committed to publishing an annual list of hospitality received by members of departmental boards. The first list for 2007 will be published as soon as it is ready after the end of the current calendar year.

Departmental Public Expenditure

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills in which financial years his Department's outturn for its capital budget at the end of the year was less than planned at the beginning of the year since 2001-02; and what the (a) value and (b) reason for the underspend was in each case. [164518]

Mr. Lammy: The Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills is a new Department, therefore the Department has not had any capital underspends.

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills on what dates his Department breached its (a) resource, (b) near-cash, (c) administration and (d) capital budgets since 2001; what the total value of each breach was; and what the reason was for each breach. [164520]

Mr. Lammy: The Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills is a new Department, therefore the Department has never breached its (a) resource, (b) near-cash, (c) administration, (d) capital budgets.

Education: Prisoners

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills which level (a) 2, (b) 3 and (c) 4 courses were completed by prisoners in each institution in each year since 1997. [171968]

Mr. Lammy: I refer the hon. Member to the reply given on 24 October 2007, Official Report, column 363W.

Education: Prisons

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what the budget was for education in prisons in each year since 1997. [171971]

Mr. Lammy: The Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills (and its predecessors) took responsibility for offender learning from the start of the 2001-02 financial year.

The budget for education in prisons since then has been:

| Financial year | Budget (£ million) |
|---|---|
| 2001-02 | 57 |
| 2002-03 | 73 |
| 2003-04 | 116 |
| 2004-05 | 116 |
| 2005-06 | 141 |
| 2006-07 | 146 |
| 2007-08 | 156 |

These totals include prison libraries, Heads of Learning and Skills, capital and funds passed to the Youth Justice Board for education in young offender institutions.

Higher Education

Mr. Willis: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills (1) what plans he has for provision of funding for students studying for an MSc in clinical oncology who have already gained a first degree; [170855]

(2) what plans he has for provision of funding for post-graduate students who wish to train for a Masters qualification in health care; [170856]

(3) what plans he has for provision of funding for post-graduate students with a Post Graduate Certificate of Education who wish to gain specialist qualifications to teach children with special educational needs and autism. [170857]

Bill Rammell [holding answer 3 December 2007]: We have asked HEFCE to redistribute institutional funding of about £100 million a year by 2010 away from students doing a second qualification at an equivalent or lower level to the one they already hold in order that we can give more of all ages more of an opportunity to participate in higher education for the first time. However, we have asked HEFCE to consult about the best way of implementing these changes, including whether any exceptions should be made for students in particular circumstances. The consultation ends on 7 December after which decisions will be taken about the detailed implementation of the policy.

Higher Education: Admissions

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills which universities admitted (a) more than 90 per cent. of their students from state schools and (b) more than 20 per cent. of students from low participation backgrounds in (i) 2005 and (ii) 2006; and if he will make a statement. [170434]

Bill Rammell: The latest available information has been placed in the House Library.

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what proposals he has to increase the number of students from state-funded schools entering Russell Group universities. [170444]

Bill Rammell: The Government are firmly committed to ensuring that every young person with the ability and potential to benefit from higher education has the opportunity to do so. Recently published higher education indicators show that in England we are making progress in widening participation for students from state schools, including among some of the most selective institutions such as the Russell Group—overall the proportion of state school entrants has risen by a percentage point between 2004/05 and 2005/06. It is important that individuals are able to access a course and institution that best suits their needs, including stretching and challenging the most talented.

We will continue to treat this as a priority through, among other things: continuing our support for the national Aimhigher Programme, which seeks to raise young people's aspirations and recognise higher education as a viable and valuable ambition; the role of the Office for Fair Access, which aims to promote and safeguard fair access to higher education for under-represented groups; and the new Gifted and Talented (G and T) Excellence Hubs, which seek to provide additional activities for G and T young people across the country, with particular emphasis on those from disadvantaged backgrounds.

Even the most talented students must be sufficiently well prepared to study and succeed in higher education and that is why we are encouraging universities to extend and strengthen their existing links with schools so that they can help schools raise standards and attainment levels while identifying and nurturing the young students of the future.

Higher Education: Vocational Guidance

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what recent assessment he has made of the effectiveness of careers guidance at each university. [170436]

Bill Rammell: It is for Universities to decide what Careers Service provision they choose to offer in light of their individual circumstances, and the needs of their student body. However, the 'Delivering Quality' report by the National Institute for Careers Education and Counselling (June 2005), found that careers education, information and guidance in higher education showed continued improvement. The majority of Higher Education Careers Advisory Services (HECASs) were accredited against the matrix standard which is a respected quality standard for information, advice and guidance services.

Islam: Higher Education

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills which universities in the UK have departments dedicated to Islamic studies. [169697]

Bill Rammell: We do not collect information on whether universities have departments dedicated to Islamic studies. Courses in Islamic studies are predominantly provided in departments of theology and middle eastern studies but may also be included in a broad range of humanities and social science disciplines. In his report 'Islam at Universities in England' published earlier this year Dr. Siddiqui listed 19 departments/centres offering teaching and research related to Islam.

Medical Research Council: Human Embryo Experiments

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how much the Medical Research Council (MRC) has spent on research using (a) human embryos, (b) adult stem cells and (c) umbilical cord blood in each year since the coming into force of the Human Fertilisation and Embryology Act 1990; and how much the MRC plans to spend in each category of research in each of the next three years. [169468]

Ian Pearson: The MRC's spend on stem cell research since 2002/03 was as follows:

| | Expenditure (£ million) | Type of stem cell research |
|---|---|---|
| 2002/03 | 4.5 | Information on the type of stem cells used is not held by MRC before 2004/05. |
| 2003/04 | 14.5 | Information on the type of stem cells used is not held by MRC before 2004/05. |
| 2004/05 | 14.1 | 50 per cent. embryonic stem cells and 50 per cent. adult |
| 2005/06 | 17.4 | 55 per cent. embryonic stem cells and 45 per cent. adult |
| 2006/07 | 17.4 | — |

[1] Estimate only

Prior to 2002/03, comparable figures are not available. Umbilical cord research is included in the figures for adult stem cell research as separate figures are not available.

The MRC's estimated expenditure on stem cell research for 2007/08 is anticipated to be broadly similar to current levels. Figures are not available for the next three years but the MRC is developing strategies to increase its spend on stem cell research in line with its recently increased budgetary allocation.

National Textile Conservation Centre

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what plans he has for the future of the National Textile Conservation Centre, with particular reference to services formally provided from its Winchester centre. [171464]

Ian Pearson [holding answer 4 December 2007]: The future of the centre is a matter for the university of Southampton.

Students: Fees and Charges

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how much was charged in variable tuition fees in 2006, broken down by (a) university and (b) course. [169592]

Bill Rammell: Information on the breakdown of variable fees charged by institution and course are not currently available. In 2006, of the 124 higher education institutions planning to charge additional fees for UK and EU full-time undergraduate students, all but eight were planning to charge £3,000. Additional information on the actual level of charges and the extra income generated will be available early next year.

Students: Qualifications

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many students in England are studying for a first degree without having at least two A-levels. [161941]

Bill Rammell: A-levels are not the only route into HE, nor should they be. Students access HE through a wide variety of progression routes, including Access courses, and other vocational and non-vocational qualifications. Higher education institutions also take account of other factors, for example previous experience and personal qualities, when considering the best candidates for the course in question. Ability to successfully complete a course remains an essential criterion for selecting candidates.

In 2005/06, there were 188,735 English domiciled entrants to full time first degree courses at UK higher education institutions, who had 'A' level or equivalent qualifications on entry. Of these, 2,400 (1.3 per cent.) had a tariff score of less than 80 (two E grades at 'A' level give a tariff score of 80). Figures for 2006/07 will be available in January 2008.

Vocational Education: Finance

Mr. Boris Johnson: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills (1) how much was spent on Train to Gain brokers in 2006-07; and what percentage of the overall Train to Gain budget this constituted (a) nationally and (b) in London; [170769]

(2) how many Train to Gain brokers in (a) London and (b) nationally received funds from Government in 2006-07. [170412]

Mr. Lammy: Train to Gain is a new service that has completed its first year of national operation. In this time more than 52,000 employers have engaged with the service resulting in more than 240,000 learners. The total budget for Train to Gain was £288 million of which £25.4 million (8.8 per cent. of the total budget) was allocated to brokerage. This figure included one-off set-up costs associated with the new service. London received £4.66 million for brokerage (which equates to 18.3 per cent. of the overall brokerage budget).

The LSC contracts with 17 organisations that provide skills brokerage services to employers as part of the wider Train to Gain Service in England. Three of these organisations operate in the London region.

Vocational Training: Gloucestershire

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many (a) companies and (b) organisations in Gloucestershire have signed the Skills Pledge. [170099]

Mr. Lammy: The Skills Pledge is a voluntary public commitment by the leadership of a company or organisation to support all its employees to develop their basic skills including literacy and numeracy, and work towards relevant valuable qualifications to at least level 2 (equivalent to five good GCSEs). If companies or organisations want to go beyond this and extend the commitment to help staff gain wider skills and additional qualifications as well that is welcome. The Skills Pledge is open to all employers in England.

As at November 2007, the available information indicated that there were nine companies or organisations in Gloucestershire which have signed the Skills Pledge. We do not collect separate information on companies or organisations.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

ACP Countries: Economic Agreements

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what his policy is on whether (a) the European Commission should provide an alternative to an Economic Partnership Agreement at the request of any African, Caribbean or Pacific country and (b) any alternative offered should provide no worse market access to the EU than is enjoyed under the Cotonou preferences. [170629]

Mr. Thomas: It remains the UK position, as set out in 2005, that the European Commission should be ready to provide an alternative to an economic partnership agreement (EPA) at the request of any African, Caribbean and Pacific (ACP) country and that any alternative offered should provide no worse market access to the EU than is currently enjoyed under Cotonou preferences. We are not aware of any ACP country that has requested a permanent alternative to an EPA.

There is currently a discussion with the ACP and EU member states on what market access ACP countries should receive for a temporary period, until they sign an EPA, if they have not done so before Cotonou expires on 31 December 2007. It remains the UK's position that we do not wish ACP countries to receive worse market access to the EU on 1 January 2008 than they currently receive under Cotonou preferences.

Climate Change

Rob Marris: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what steps his Department (a) has taken and (b) intends to take by (i) 2012 and (ii) 2020 in relation to adaptation to the effects of climate change as they affect his Departmental responsibilities; and if he will make a statement. [165577]

Mr. Thomas: The Department for International Development has helped developing countries prepare for the impacts of climate change through a £20 million contribution to UN funds for developing adaptation strategies and piloting adaptation projects. We have carried out climate risk assessments of our own programmes in China, India, Bangladesh and Kenya. We have also committed £5 million for climate information on Africa and £74 million for climate adaptation research to build knowledge on how best to respond to climate change impacts in developing countries.

We are also working closely with the Department for the Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (DEFRA) and other government departments to jointly influence the international negotiations on climate change. This is to ensure that there is agreement in the post-2012 framework on international adaptation: what is needed, who will do what and how it will be financed. We are also working to ensure that adaptation will be sufficiently and effectively financed through the international system post-2012 by analysing needs and possible sources of finance, and developing pilot approaches for financing adaptation in countries susceptible to the effects of climate change.

Democratic Republic of Congo: Overseas Aid

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how the Government is co-operating with its international partners to meet the financial shortfall in the 2007 Humanitarian Action Plan for the Democratic Republic of Congo. [169907]

Mr. Thomas: The 2007 Humanitarian Action Plan (HAP) for the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC) is costed at US$687 million which includes both emergency and early recovery activities. Donors have contributed US$437 million to the HAP so far. Around US$100 million of these contributions have been made through the DRC Humanitarian Pooled Fund, which provides the United Nations Humanitarian Coordinator complete flexibility in targeting funds to meet the most critical humanitarian needs.

The UK is one of the largest humanitarian donors to the DRC. In 2007 the UK has provided some £35 million for humanitarian projects. This accounts for over 10 per cent. of the needs as expressed in the HAP. £30 million of our 2007 funding has been channelled through the Pooled Fund.

The establishment of the Pooled Fund has made it easier for other donors to contribute to the HAP and the numbers of donors contributing to the fund increased from six in 2006 to eight in 2007. DFID played a key role in establishing the Pooled Fund and encourages other donors to contribute to it. This is therefore one important way in which DFID has co-operated with its international partners to address the shortfall in humanitarian funding for DRC.

In addition, as a member of the Good Humanitarian Donor group in the DRC, DFID participates actively with other donors in regularly assessing humanitarian assistance priorities and how shortfalls in funding can be addressed.

Developing Countries: Health Services

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what progress has been made by the International Finance Facility on immunisation bonds; and if he will make a statement. [170016]

Mr. Malik: The International Finance Facility for Immunisation (IFFIm) has made impressive progress in its first year of implementation. In November 2006 IFFIm raised $1 billion from the international bond markets. Of the $1 billion raised, approximately $912 million will be disbursed by the end of 2007, through the GAVI Alliance (formerly the Global Alliance for Vaccines and Immunisation).

The GAVI Alliance is currently spending IFFIm funds in 43 of the poorest countries on immunisation activities to tackle vaccine-preventable diseases such as yellow fever, polio, measles, maternal and neonatal tetanus. IFFIm funds are also being spent on strengthening the health systems of these poor countries. Some of the early results achieved by the GAVI Alliance since 2006 through IFFIm's funding have been:

Immunising more than 100 million children under the age of five against polio.

Helping poor countries target 26 million women with immunisation against maternal and neonatal tetanus by 2007 and early 2008.

Yellow fever immunisation activities in 12 West African countries that will strengthen health systems and support vaccine security and affordability to prevent approximately 687,000 deaths between now and 2050.

Economic Agreements

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what assessment he has made of the effect on regional integration of a country signing an economic partnership agreement outside their regional grouping either individually or as a small grouping. [170633]

Mr. Thomas: In regions where all countries are not able to sign an economic partnership agreement (EPA), the European Commission will consider agreeing a sub-regional EPA with the countries that are ready and would like to sign. With the deadline only a few weeks away and with some countries wanting to sign an EPA even though the full region is not ready, this is a pragmatic way forward to ensure as many countries as possible can benefit from duty free quota free access into the European Union markets from 1 January 2008. If a sub-regional EPA is signed, other countries in the region should be able to join the EPA as soon as they are ready. The effect on regional integration will vary depending on the extent of existing regional integration in the area and the scope of neighbouring agreements. The UK is considering the impact of these on a case by case basis.

EU External Relations

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what his policy is on the recent statement by the General Affairs and External Relations Council of the EU that all parties should agree to pursue trade negotiations within agreed timeframes in outstanding areas. [170634]

Mr. Thomas: The UK's 2005 position paper on economic partnership agreements stated that investment, competition and Government procurement should be removed from the negotiations, unless specifically requested by an African, Caribbean or Pacific (ACP) regional negotiating group. The UK has strongly pushed for this with the Commission and among other European Union member states. At the General Affairs and External Relations Council we reached a compromise stating that the ACP should negotiate on these areas within an agreed timeframe. The conclusions do not state that the ACP is obliged to conclude negotiations on these areas.

Sudan: Overseas Aid

Mark Pritchard: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how much UK aid was given to the Government of Sudan between November 2006 and November 2007. [171354]

Mr. Thomas: DFID provided £109.9 million of bilateral aid to Sudan in 2006-07. None of this aid was provided directly to the Sudanese Government and the majority was delivered as humanitarian assistance. Figures for 2007-08 will be available in June 2008. Data are not available on a November to November basis.

Uganda: Overseas Aid

Mr. Andrew Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what controls he has put in place to ensure that the allocation of £700 million aid to Uganda over the next 10 years is applied to (a) poverty reduction, (b) tackling corruption, (c) strengthening human rights and (d) other purposes for which it was intended. [170070]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: DFID signed a Development Partnership Arrangement (DPA) with Uganda on 22 November. This specifies that poverty reduction, tackling corruption and strengthening human rights are the key shared commitments on which our partnership is based. Under the provisions of the DPA there will be annual partnership talks to monitor and assess performance against these commitments.

The DPA sets aside an indicative allocation of £700 million over the next 10 years which is subject to the partnership commitments being met. In the event of a breach there are a range of provisions which include changing the way DFID delivers its programme as well as the possibility of reducing aid. The specific arrangements for disbursing and monitoring our development assistance will follow the comprehensive guidelines for project and programme management that are set out in DFID's 'Blue Book' of rules, systems and procedures.

UK Search and Rescue Advisory Group

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what guidelines have been developed by the UK Search and Rescue Advisory Group; and if he will place a copy of those guidelines in the Library. [170259]

Mr. Malik: The UK International Search and Rescue Advisory Group (UKISARG) has not developed specific guidelines. However, the Group has established common principles and standards to ensure that the member organisations are able to operate in a consistent, effective, professional and accountable manner. UKISARG member organisations must comply with UKISARG specific standards as well as the "Principles of Conduct for the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement and NGOs in Disaster Response Programmes" and current International Search and Rescue Group (INSARAG) guidelines.

I am putting a copy of both of these documents in the Library of the House; alternatively they can be found via the following links:

JUSTICE

Climate Change

Rob Marris: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what steps his Department (a) has taken and (b) plans to take by (i) 2012 and (ii) 2020 to adapt to the effects of climate change as they affect his Departmental responsibilities; and if he will make a statement. [165037]

Mr. Wills: The Ministry of Justice is awaiting the cross-Government Adaptation Policy Framework, which will set out our overall intentions in relation to adapting to the effects of climate change. This is expected to be published in the spring of 2008, and is in response to the Climate Change Bill. In the meantime, my Department has developed design guidance for new construction projects to reflect the need to have buildings capable of dealing with the major impacts of climate change in northern and western Europe. Measures are also being taken to achieve carbon reduction targets that will have the additional benefit of mitigating against certain effects of climate change. Finally, the likelihood of rising water levels is also taken into account in planning and acquisition of new sites.

Crime: Victims

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will review the adequacy of funding of support services for women affected by sexual crime in Peterborough constituency; and if he will make a statement. [171942]

Maria Eagle: The Victims Fund was established to provide injections of funding for a wide range of services for victims and witnesses. It was not intended to provide core long-term resources or substitute for local funding. Grant recipients for previous years accepted their award under the agreement that it was for one year only. The resources from the Victims Fund for 2007-08 have already been allocated under the principles of open competition and are not subject to review.

There has been no reduction of funding from central Government for the specialist sexual violence and childhood abuse sector this year. Out of the £3 million package, £1.25 million has been allocated through the Victims Fund with the remainder used for funding the umbrella organisations, independent sexual violence advisors and sexual assault referral centres.

Peterborough Rape Crisis applied for a grant from the 2007-08 Victims Fund but was unsuccessful against other bidders. Each application was considered on its own merits and assessed against the published criteria. The Victims Fund received over two hundred applications and a separate assessment of the impact of each unsuccessful bid is not within the scope of the grant scheme. It was also open to the organisation to apply for funding where eligible, under the various other programmes.

The majority of funding is devolved to local areas and there is extensive work under way to try to improve the stability of local specialist sexual violence and childhood abuse services. This includes having a strong focus on sexual offences in the Making Communities Safer PSA to help influence local priorities.

Crown Dependencies: Immigration

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what UK legislation governs immigration from European Union nations to the United Kingdom via the Channel Islands; and if he will make a statement. [171207]

Mr. Wills: Entry to the Channel Islands is governed by UK immigration legislation extended to the Islands. The Border and Immigration Agency does not operate a border control on passengers arriving from the Channel Islands as this falls within the arrangements set out for the common travel area. The objective of the common travel area (the United Kingdom, the Channel Islands, the Isle of Man and the Republic of Ireland) is that all the territories should be treated as a single unit for the purpose of travel within the area. Passengers arriving in the United Kingdom from the Channel Islands are, therefore, not normally subject to examination by an immigration officer. Passengers arriving from countries outside the common travel area, including other European Union states, are required to show their passports or identity cards, where appropriate, on each arrival.

Crown Dependencies: Legislation

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will review the time taken to promulgate Jersey legislation. [171203]

Mr. Wills: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Justice and Lord Chancellor (Mr. Straw) is content that the existing arrangements for the promulgation of Jersey legislation provides for Her Majesty's Government to give effect to its constitutional responsibilities towards the Island. The time taken reflects the process that has to be undertaken which includes consultation with policy holding departments. The process provides the flexibility to process Jersey legislation on an urgent basis where there is a need to do so.

This process is kept under review.

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how the Department obtains the consent of the Crown Dependencies in circumstances where matters within the United Kingdom have legal implications for them. [171205]

Mr. Wills: UK legislation does not normally extend to the Crown Dependencies and is not extended to them without their consent. Jersey, Guernsey or the Isle of Man may, however, request that UK legislation is extended to them and this can then be done through an Order in Council.

Treaties and international agreements are extended to the Crown Dependencies with their consent.

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will review current legislation or administrative practices that directly effect the Crown Dependencies with a view to improving police and criminal judicial co-operation between Crown Dependencies and European Union member states. [171206]

Mr. Wills: The Crown Dependencies are autonomous self-governing parliamentary democracies with their own legislatures. Legislation and administrative practices that affect Crown Dependencies are a matter for their respective governments. The governments of the UK and the Crown Dependencies routinely consider shared interests and approaches to improving police and criminal judicial co-operation not just between the UK and the Crown Dependencies but with other jurisdictions, including EU member states.

Crown Dependencies: Prerogative Remedies

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what recourse the Government has had to prerogative powers in respect of (a) the Channel Islands and (b) the Isle of Man, in the last 12 months. [171204]

Mr. Wills: The prerogative powers are used all the time in respect of the Crown Dependencies, most usually in the granting of Royal Assent for insular legislation and in the making of appointments of Crown Officers. In the past 12 months Royal Assent has been given to 56 Laws for the Channel Islands and eight for the Isle of Man. There has been one new appointment which is that of the new Solicitor-General for Jersey which is still under way.

Crown Dependencies: Prisons

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what responsibility his Department has with regard to the number of available prison spaces in (a) the Isle of Man and (b) the Channel Islands. [171212]

Mr. Wills: The Crown Dependencies, the Bailiwicks of Jersey and Guernsey and the Isle of Man, are not part of the UK but are self-governing dependencies of the Crown.

The number of prison spaces in the Isle of Man and the Channel Islands is a matter for the authorities in the islands.

Crown Dependencies: Public Appointments

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice whether the Government has any plans to make new Crown appointments on any of the Channel Islands. [171211]

Mr. Wills: The Ministry of Justice is currently taking forward the appointment of the new Solicitor-General of Jersey. There are no other new Crown Appointments scheduled for the immediate future. The timing of the appointment of the majority of Crown Officers in the Crown Dependencies is determined by when their Warrants or Letters Patent expire, or by their retirement from office.

Delivery Services

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice which companies are under contract to his Department to provide mail services. [170171]

Maria Eagle: The following companies are under contract to the Ministry of Justice to provide mail services:

DX Services Limited

TNT

Amtrak Express Parcels Limited

Departmental Aviation

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how much his Department and its predecessor spent on (a) business and (b) first class air travel in the last 12 months. [171244]

Bridget Prentice: It is not possible to list the costs spent on (a) business class and (b) first class air travel by the Department in the last 12 months as the expenditure is not separately identifiable within the Department's accounts and may be provided only at a disproportionate cost.

All ministerial travel is undertaken in accordance with the rules set out in the "Ministerial Code" and "Travel by Ministers", copies of which are available in the Library of the House for the reference of Members. The Cabinet Office has recently published the annual list of Cabinet Ministers overseas travel for 2006-07.

All official travel by civil servants is undertaken in accordance with the requirements of the "Civil Service Management Code", a copy of which is also available in the Library of the House for the reference of Members.

Departmental Travel

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how much was spent by his Department and its predecessor on first class train tickets in the last 12 months. [171257]

Bridget Prentice: It is not possible to list the costs spent on first class train tickets by the Department in the last 12 months as the expenditure is not separately identifiable within the Department's accounts and may be provided only at a disproportionate cost.

All ministerial travel is undertaken in accordance with the rules set out in the "Ministerial Code" and "Travel by Ministers", copies of which are available in the Library of the House for the reference of Members. All official travel by civil servants is undertaken in accordance with the requirements of the "Civil Service Management Code", a copy of which is also available in the Library of the House for the reference of Members.

Governance of Britain Document

Nick Herbert: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will place copies of responses to "The Governance of Britain" document in the Library. [171185]

Mr. Wills: "The Governance of Britain" Green Paper was not a consultation document. However, a number of consultations concerning specific proposals within the Green Paper have since been published.

There are three public consultations that are currently continuing 'Managing Protest Around Parliament' (CM 7235); 'War Powers and Treaties: Limiting Executive Powers' (CM 7239); and 'Judicial Appointments' (CM 7210). They will all close on 17 January 2008.

A consultation on 'Altering the current guidance on flying the Union Flag from UK Government buildings' closed on 9 November and a consultation on the 'Role of the Attorney General' (CM 7192) closed on 30 November.

Responses to all of these consultations will be published in line with Cabinet Office guidelines and copies will be placed in the Libraries of the House.

Hollesley Bay Prison: Prisoners Escape

Mr. Gummer: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisoners absconded from HM Prison Hollesley Bay in each of the last six years. [169091]

Maria Eagle: The number of absconds from HMP Hollesley Bay in each of the last six years is as follows:

| | Number of absconds |
|---|---|
| 2002-03 | 14 |
| 2003-04 | 36 |
| 2004-05 | 32 |
| 2005-06 | 16 |
| 2006-07 | 21 |
| 2007-08 (to end October)[1] | 10 |

[1] Figures recorded for 2007-08 are provisional and subject to change.

Mr. Gummer: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice of what crimes those prisoners who have absconded from HM Prison Hollesley Bay in the last six years had been convicted. [169093]

Maria Eagle: Statistics are not available for the year 2002-03, however the main index offences for those who absconded from Hollesley Bay in each of the last five years up to end September 2007 are as follows:

| Crime type | 2003-04 | 2004-05 | 2005-06 | 2006-07 | 2007-08 | Total |

Mr. Gummer: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisoners who have absconded from HM Prison Hollesley Bay in the last six years remain at large. [169094]

Maria Eagle: Statistics are not available for the year 2002-03, however the information held by the establishment of those for whom there is no record of recapture is as follows.

| | Absconds remaining at large. |
|---|---|
| 2002-03 | n/a |
| 2003-04 | 4 |

Passports: Fraud

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many persons were convicted of false passport or false identity document offences in each of the last two years; and of those how many and what percentage have been given custodial sentences. [170469]

Maria Eagle: The information requested covering selected offences for the years 2005 and 2006 is provided in the following table.

The data provided do not cover all prosecutions for possession or production of false identity documents as some defendants found guilty of these offences can be prosecuted under the Forgery and Counterfeiting Act 1981 or the Theft Acts 1968 and 1978. Data on prosecutions for these offences have not been provided as data on prosecutions brought under these Acts cannot separately identify whether false documents were involved in the crimes committed.

A percentage cannot be provided due to the method of recording.

Number of defendants proceeded against at magistrates courts, found guilty at all courts, sentenced and of those sentenced, the number sentenced to immediate custody for offences related to false passports and related documents, England and Wales 2005 and 2006[1, 2, 3]

| | | 2006 | 12 | 17 | 16 | 14 |

[1] These data are on the principal offence basis.
[2] Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by the police. As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when those data are used.
[3] The found guilty column can exceed the number proceeded against and the number sentenced can exceed both those proceeded against and found guilty when a proceeding took place in a different year to conviction or sentencing, or when a defendant is found guilty for a different offence to the one for which proceedings were originally brought.

Prisoners

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice whether his Department has had discussions with Ofcom on the security implications of the radio broadcast of messages aimed at prisoners; and if he will make a statement. [171323]

Mr. Hanson: No. The granting of licences to radio stations, and the conditions of those licences, are matters for Ofcom, though official level contacts may be made in relation to specific broadcasts if concerns are raised.

Prisoners Release

Nick Herbert: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisoners have been released on End of Custody Licence who did not fit the criteria for release. [169629]

Mr. Hanson: Between 29 June 2007 and 31 October 2007 11,100 prisoners have been released under End of Custody Licence (ECL). Of this total NOMS has identified six prisoners released who did not meet the eligibility criteria and were therefore released in error. A further two cases have been identified where the prisoners met the eligibility criteria but were released on ECL earlier than they should have been.

Five of the eight errors were reported in the ECL monthly reports published on the Ministry of Justice website. Three errors were confirmed after the ECL report was published on 30 November 2007. They will be included in the report to be published at the end of December.

We are committed to ensuring that as few errors occur as possible and we will keep processes under review to minimise these.

Prisoners' Release

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice when his Department will (a) resume work on the review of Prison Service Order 6300 and the arrangements governing Childcare Resettlement Licence and (b) consult organisations acting on behalf of prisoners on this policy; and if he will make a statement. [171103]

Mr. Hanson: A review of Prison Service Order 6300 Release on Temporary Licence began in the spring of 2007. An internal survey of women's prisons was conducted but further progress, including consultation with external stakeholders, has been halted due to other pressing priorities.

Work will commence again when resources permit and relevant stakeholders, including organisations acting on behalf of prisoners, will be consulted to ensure the review balances the needs of prisoners and their families as well as public confidence in the administration of justice.

Prisoners: Females

Nick Herbert: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many women in prisons in England and Wales are held (a) more than 50 miles and (b) more than 100 miles from the sentencing court. [172123]

Mr. Hanson: Distance from court area for sentenced women prisoners is set out in the following table:

| Distance | Women prisoners[1] |
|---|---|
| Up to 50 miles | 1,639 |
| 50 to 100 miles | 830 |
| Over 100 miles | 769 |

[1] As at 19 September 2007.

159 women prisoners had no recorded court or home address.

Information on sentencing court addresses is not available for every prisoner and where not available home area addresses have been used as a proxy.

Nick Herbert: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the (a) certified normal accommodation and (b) total capacity available to house women prisoners was in each year since 1997. [172124]

Mr. Hanson: The information requested is set out in the following table:

| | Certified normal accommodation | Operational capacity |
|---|---|---|
| 1997 | 2,688 | 2,772 |
| 1998 | 3,091 | 3,269 |
| 1999 | 3,240 | 3,496 |
| 2000 | 3,524 | 3,763 |
| 2001 | 3,713 | 3,964 |
| 2002 | 4,493 | 4,828 |
| 2003 | 4,611 | 4,924 |
| 2004 | 4,743 | 5,052 |
| 2005 | 4,996 | 5,294 |
| 2006 | 4,759 | 4,996 |
| 2007 | 4,676 | 4,876 |

Certified normal accommodation is the uncrowded capacity of the women's prison estate and operational capacity is the total number of places in the women's estate.

Nick Herbert: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice on how many occasions women prisoners have been held in police or court cells over the last 12 months. [172125]

Mr. Hanson: Women prisoners are held in police cells, under Operation Safeguard, only in exceptional circumstances. This has occurred on 21 occasions in the last 12 months (an occasion equates to one prisoner on one night).

Prisoners are also sometimes held overnight in police cells as "lockouts". A lockout is an operational measure normally only used when the designated prison's reception will be closed before the prisoner's arrival time. Women prisoners have been held in police cells as "lockouts" on 33 occasions in the last 12 months.

No women prisoners have to date been held in court cells.

Prisoners: Mental Health

Mr. Hurd: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many (a) prisons and (b) young offenders' institutions receive funding for community mental health and reach teams to provide services for prisoners with severe mental health problems. [171983]

Maria Eagle: Since April 2006, commissioning responsibility for prison health services has been fully devolved to the national health service.

Funding for health services, including mental health in-reach, is therefore allocated to those primary care trusts which contain prisons in their areas.

In total, 102 mental health in-reach teams operate within prisons, including young offenders institutions, and their services are available across the entire prison estate. Since 2005-06, £20 million has been invested in these services each year.

Prisons: Finance

Nick Herbert: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice from what budget the funding for (a) the 8,000 new prison places announced by the previous Secretary of State for the Home Department and (b) the 1,500 new prison places announced by the previous Lord Chancellor will be drawn. [171184]

Mr. Hanson: The new prison places will be funded from the capital and resource budgets (as appropriate) of the National Offender Management Service, within the Ministry of Justice overall allocations. The 8,000 places are due to be delivered by 2012 and as such some of the funding falls after the Comprehensive Spending Review 2007 (CSR07) period. 500 of the 1,500 places fall within the CSR07 period. The optimum timing and composition of the further 1,000 places will be considered in the light of the Carter report.

Prisons: Mother and Baby Units

Nick Herbert: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many women were not allocated places in mother and baby units in prisons in England and Wales due to (a) lack of space and (b) other reasons in each year for which data is available. [172121]

Mr. Hanson: From 1 December 2006 (the earliest date for which information is available) until 30 November 2007 no women were refused a place due to lack of space. The criteria for admission to a mother and baby unit focus on the best interests of the child. 29 applications for places were refused during the period because the criteria were not met.

Nick Herbert: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many places there are in mother and baby units in prisons in England and Wales. [172122]

Mr. Hanson: The current national capacity is 75 places (including the nine places that will become available once the temporarily closed unit at HMP/YOI New Hall re-opens).

Prisons: Television

Nick Herbert: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how the (a) licence, (b) equipment and (c) running costs of personal televisions in prisoner cells are met; by whom; how the costs arising from digital switchover will be allocated; and if he will make a statement. [171183]

Maria Eagle: The equipment and running costs (excluding electricity) of prisoners' in-cell television is met from the weekly charge levied on prisoners for the rental of a television from the Prison Service.

The switchover of the prison estate in readiness for the switch from analogue to digital television began in 2005 and is expected to be completed in 2012. It is intended that the cost of digital switchover in the prison estate will be met primarily from the revenue generated by the weekly charge levied on prisoners for the rental of televisions from the Prison Service.

Television licences are not required because of Crown exemption.

Speed Limits: Cameras

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what estimate he has made of the number of speed cameras found to be operating illegally in each of the last 10 years; and how many fines, and of what amount, were issued through the use of these illegal cameras. [171121]

Mr. Coaker: I have been asked to reply.

The operation of speed cameras is an operational matter for the police and any challenge to their operation in a particular case would be for the courts. Information on fines imposed for offences detected by camera does not include details of the cameras involved in individual cases.

Youth Justice Board: Finance

Mr. Willis: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will provide additional funding for the Youth Justice Board to increase the staff complement at Gladstone House Young Offender Institution. [169774]

Beverley Hughes: I have been asked to reply.

I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer I gave to the hon. Member for Sheffield, Hallam (Mr. Clegg) on 22 November 2007, Official Report, column 1104W.

LEADER OF THE HOUSE

Christmas

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Leader of the House how much her Office has spent on Christmas (a) cards, (b) parties and (c) decorations in each of the last five years. [171429]

Helen Goodman: As a result of the machinery of government change in transferring the Leader of the House office from the Privy Council office to the Cabinet Office, the information requested could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Members: Allowances

Mr. Maude: To ask the Leader of the House (1) pursuant to the answer of 19 November 2007, Official Report, column 538W, on Members: allowances, what is the maximum amount in cash terms in (a) 2007-08 and (b) 2008-09 that may be spent on communication allowance expenditure, assuming the maximum amount is transferred from staffing allowance and incidental expenses provision; [171029]

(2) how much was allocated for 2007-08 to the communications allowance; [171472]

(3) what the aggregate expenditure on allowances for hon. Members was in (a) 1996-97 and (b) the most recent year for which figures are available. [171473]

Helen Goodman: The information is as follows:

1. I refer the hon. Member to the rules in the Green Book which allow Members some flexibilities to transfer money between allowances to meet the needs of their parliamentary and constituency work. The amounts available for parliamentary allowances for 2008-09 are not yet available.

2. Parliamentary allowances expenditure is limited only to the extent of the maximum rate payable for each allowance. Each Member has access to the communications allowance set at £10,000 in 2007-08, which means a maximum possible spend across all members of £6.46 million in the year.

3. The combined expenditure for Members' allowances (excluding travel costs and auxiliary expenditure) reported in the House of Commons Members Resource Accounts for 2006-07 (HC832) was £77.8 million. In 1996-97 the figure was £36.8 million. The allowance system changed significantly in July 2001 on the recommendation of the Senior Salaries Review Body (SSRB) when new allowances were introduced.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Departmental Marketing

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will place in the Library a copy of the guidelines issued to staff maintaining his Department's corporate identity; and what the estimated annual cost is of (a) producing and (b) complying with such guidelines. [170228]

Mr. Woodward: A copy of the Northern Ireland Office, corporate identity guidelines for staff has been placed in the Library. Over and above the initial cost of £44,725 there are no annual costs associated with producing or complying with the guidelines.

Elderly: Abuse

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many elderly persons were assaulted in their homes in each year since 1998 in Northern Ireland; and how many persons were (a) charged with and (b) convicted of such assaults in each year. [168492]

Paul Goggins: The number of elderly persons assaulted in their homes in Northern Ireland for each year since 2002 is set out in the following table.

The table also sets out the number of non sanction clearances, in which no further action was taken by the police, and the number of offences cleared by means of a charge or summons.

As the exact location of assault and age of victim was not recorded prior to 2002 I am not able to supply figures from 1998 to 2002.

Figures for convictions do not record details of victims. Therefore it is not possible to supply information on the number of convictions for such assaults in each year.

| | Recorded | Non sanction clearances | Cleared by means of charge/ summons |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2002-03 | 111 | 81 | 13 |
| 2003-04 | 158 | 130 | 14 |
| 2004-05 | 161 | 101 | 10 |
| 2005-06 | 167 | 122 | 20 |
| 2006-07 | 179 | 62 | 28 |

Fear of crime, particularly among older people, vulnerable people, victims and children is one of the nine key issues of the Northern Ireland Community Safety strategy. One of the proposed actions flowing from this theme was to produce a draft strategy for the safety of older people. The Community Safety Unit (CSU) launched the document 'Proposals for the Safety of Older People' for consultation on 14 June 2007 and responses are currently being evaluated.

Irish language

Mark Durkan: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what discussions his Department has had with Ministers of the Northern Ireland Executive on an Irish Language Act; and how the Government propose to meet their undertaking to work with the Northern Ireland Executive to enhance and protect the development of the Irish language. [164023]

Paul Goggins: My Department has had no discussions on an Irish Language Act with Ministers of the Northern Ireland Executive.

Section 15 of the Northern Ireland (St. Andrews Agreement) Act 2006 places a duty on the Northern Ireland Executive to adopt a strategy setting out how it proposes to enhance and protect the development of the Irish language. The Government stand ready to support the Executive's efforts in implementing this strategy, once it has been developed.

Prisoners Release

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many Northern Ireland prisoners were released under the end of custody licence scheme in each month since its introduction. [170461]

Paul Goggins: The Prison Service does not operate an end of custody licence (ECL) scheme in Northern Ireland. While prisoners transferred from Northern Ireland to serve their sentences in England and Wales may be released on ECL if they meet the eligibility criteria, I understand that none have since its introduction earlier this year.

Prisoners: Foreigners

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many and what percentage of prisoners in Northern Ireland are foreign nationals, broken down by nationality. [170462]

Paul Goggins: As of 3 December 2007, the total prisoner population in Northern Ireland prisons was 1,467. Of these 71 were foreign national prisoners which equates to 4.8 per cent.

The following table provides a breakdown of all foreign national prisoners by nationality.

| Nationality | Number |
|---|---|
| Lithuanian | 11 |
| Polish | 9 |
| Chinese | 5 |
| Nigerian | 5 |
| Portuguese | 6 |
| Romanian | 4 |
| Brazilian | 3 |
| Canadian | 1 |
| German | 2 |
| Latvian | 3 |
| Liberian | 2 |
| South African | 2 |
| Zimbabwean | 2 |
| Algerian | 1 |
| American | 1 |
| Argentinean | 1 |
| Australian | 1 |
| Belgian | 1 |
| Danish | 2 |
| Dutch | 1 |
| French | 1 |
| Ghanaian | 1 |
| Moroccan | 1 |
| Rwandan | 1 |
| Sierra Leonean | 1 |
| Slovakian | 1 |
| Slovenian | 1 |
| Ugandan | 1 |

Prisons: Education

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what additional educational (a) facilities and (b) resources are to be made available in Northern Ireland prisons on the introduction of provisions on dangerousness and dangerous offenders. [170457]

Paul Goggins: The proposals contained within the draft Criminal Justice Order (Northern Ireland) 2007 introduce new sentencing options for dangerous violent and sexual offenders; these offenders will only be released when the independent Parole Commissioners consider it is safe to do so. A strategic joint steering group has been established to focus specifically on offender behavioural programmes for high risk offenders in relation to public protection and resettlement. In addition to existing expenditure in this area, we plan to invest a further £4.7million over the next three financial years to implement the strategy. This will include investment in education and psychology services to recruit and train new staff to undertake risk assessments, provide programmes and work directly with dangerous offenders to reduce their risk, and to put the necessary structures in place to manage the process.

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much was spent on prisoner education at each facility in Northern Ireland in each of the last five years. [170466]

Paul Goggins: The expenditure by the Northern Ireland Prison Service to provide education in each of the last full five financial years is shown in the following table.

£000

| | Maghaberry | Magilligan | Hydebank Wood YOC |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2002-03 | 668 | 257 | 237 |
| 2003-04 | 655 | 275 | 251 |
| 2004-05 | 728 | 314 | 313 |
| 2005-06 | 850 | 310 | 285 |
| 2006-07 | 943 | 382 | 401 |

In addition to the above expenditure, some courses have been funded by the Department of Education and Learning at HMP Magilligan, and provided by local colleges. The cost of these courses has not been charged to the Prison Service.

SCOTLAND

Departmental Staff

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland how many and what proportion of posts in his Department have been recategorised from back office to frontline posts as classified by the Gershon efficiency review in each year since 2004. [172260]

David Cairns: The Scotland Office does not categorise staff as back office or frontline; staff numbers are shown in the office's annual report, a copy of which is in the House Library.

Departmental Marketing

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland if he will place in the Library a copy of the guidelines issued to staff maintaining his Department's corporate identity; and what the estimated annual cost is of (a) producing and (b) complying with such guidelines. [170227]

David Cairns: The Scotland Office does not have a corporate identity policy and therefore guidelines have not been produced.

TRANSPORT

Biofuels

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the primary sources are of bio-fuels; and what percentage of fuels was sourced from each in the last period for which figures are available; and if she will make a statement. [171182]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Biofuels are currently produced from a wide range of sources, including rapeseed oil, palm oil, soya oil, wheat, sugar beet, and sugar cane. In the longer term there is the potential that biofuels may be produced from other crops and other forms of biomass, including agricultural and forestry residues and the biodegradable fraction of municipal waste. The Department does not have a detailed breakdown of the percentage of UK biofuels that come from these different sources.

Once the Renewable Transport Fuel Obligation (RTFO) comes into effect in April 2008, transport fuel suppliers will be required to report on matters such as the feedstock from which their biofuels were produced and its country of origin. The Renewable Fuels Agency will be required to report regularly to Parliament on these matters.

Bus Services: Concessions

Graham Stringer: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what plans she has to abolish the Bus Service Operators Grant; and if she will make a statement. [171672]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 5 December 2007]: As stated in our bus policy document "Putting Passengers First" published last December we are considering with stakeholders whether changes to bus subsidies, including Bus Service Operators Grant, would increase their contribution to our objectives on the environment, congestion and accessibility. This work is ongoing and no decisions have yet been taken. We hope to make announcements on any changes next spring.

Cars

Mr. Boris Johnson: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what estimate she has made of the number of London households which are expected to buy a new car in the next 10 years, broken down by socio-economic group. [169817]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Department's National Car Ownership Model produces forecasts of household car ownership. This does not provide a breakdown by traditional socio-economic grouping.

The model does not forecast the purchasing of new cars by households explicitly, but does provide changes in car stock and households by the number of cars owned.

The expected change in the number of households in Greater London by car ownership and total car stock from 2007-17 is as follows:

| | Number | Percentage |
|---|---|---|
| 0 car households | 49,136 | +4 |
| 1 car households | 214,807 | +15 |
| 2 car households | 71,668 | +14 |
| 3+ car households | 32,607 | +26 |
| Total households | 368,218 | +12 |
| Total cars | 462,485 | +16 |

Climate Change

Rob Marris: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps her Department (a) has taken and (b) intends to take by (i) 2012 and (ii) 2020 in relation to adaptation to the effects of climate change as they affect her Departmental responsibilities; and if she will make a statement. [165574]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Department for Transport (DfT) has contributed to the Climate Change Bill, recently introduced into Parliament, and the cross-Government Adaptation Policy Framework (APF), which is expected to be published in spring 2008.

The Climate Change Bill will set out a requirement for the Government to produce the first UK risk assessment on climate change within three years. Following this, the Government will update the risk report and programme on a five-yearly basis, with one informing the other.

The Adaptation Policy Framework will set out Government's overall intentions in relation to adapting to the effects of climate change. Following the APF, the Government's adaptation action plan will be published, which will include specific adaptation targets. As part of the APF, the DFT are developing a Transport Adaptation Strategy, which will offer strategic guidance to DFT stakeholders in terms of risk analysis and management.

In response to the Government's 2003 White Paper "The Future of Air Transport", UK airport operators have produced comprehensive master plans that rigorously evaluate the impacts of future airport development proposals, including the impacts of air travel on climate change.

As well as funding industry research into climate adaptation through the Rail Safety and Standards Board, the DFT has established a cross-rail industry forum to identify the challenges that climate change poses to the railway.

The DFT confirmed in the recent rail White Paper "Delivering a Sustainable Railway" (July 2007) that the specification of future rolling stock, starting with the Intercity Express train, will require suppliers to take account of climate adaptation issues in their designs. Network Rail is already designing increased resilience into its renewals work.

The Department has recently completed some research on behalf of the UK Roads Board on adapting materials and techniques in highway works to the changing climate. This will be published as a guide for local authority highway engineers.

The Highways Agency (HA) will deliver a strategy report on climate change adaptation by the end of March 2008, detailing how it can continue to provide a robust network in light of predicted UK climate change effects. The HA has already written two reports in conjunction with the Met Office, cross-referencing the weather-related parameters contained in their standards, specifications and operating procedures against predicted future UK climate change.

Cycling: Children

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether she is considering introducing measures to encourage cycling by children. [164628]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Department is already actively encouraging children to cycle.

We have spent £16.2 million over the last two and a half years on providing safe routes from residential areas to over 500 schools and have provided funding for the 'Bike IT' scheme which works with schools to increase the number of young people cycling.

We have launched Bikeability—the new training scheme which gives children (and adults) the skills and confidence to deal with current traffic conditions and are investing £1.67 million in training approx 47,000 year 6 children to Bikeability level 2 this year. This is in addition to the investment in cycle training local authorities are already making. And more funding will be available next year.

Many of the improvements local authorities are making to local cycling infrastructure and cycle networks can also encourage young people to cycle. One of the cycle demonstration towns we are funding, Derby, has a specific focus on targeting improvements to encourage those under 25 to cycle.

Delivery Services

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport which companies are under contract to her Department to provide mail services. [170175]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Mail services are provided to the Department for Transport by Royal Mail, City Link Post, TNT Post UK Ltd. and DHL Global Mail (UK) Ltd.

Design

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many staff are tasked with assisting the ministerial design champion in his duties as such, broken down by grade. [164641]

Mr. Tom Harris: Aesthetic considerations for Highways Agency structures and heritage issues are embedded within the project design procedures. Currently no members of the Highways Agency are dedicated to supporting my duties as the ministerial design champion, although a pay band eight structures engineer is the focal point for structural design aesthetics and a pay band seven environmentalist is the focal point for heritage issues.

Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency: Complaints

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many customer complaints the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency received in the last 12 months, broken down by type of complaint received. [164644]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency (DVLA) manages more than 40 million driver and 32 million vehicle records. In financial year 2006-07 DVLA received a total of 6,668 complaint cases.

This can be broken down into:

| | Number |
|---|---|
| Drivers Complaints | 958 |
| Vehicles Complaints | 4671 |
| General Complaints | 1,039 |

Electric Vehicles

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will take steps to encourage local authorities and businesses to install charging points for electric vehicles. [171777]

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what her strategy is for encouraging (a) local authorities and (b) businesses to develop a comprehensive infrastructure network of charging points for electric vehicles. [172576]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Department for Transport provides grants through the Energy Saving Trust to local authorities and businesses in England for up to 50 per cent. of the cost of installation of electric vehicle charging points which are for public use.

Euston Station

Rosie Cooper: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will require Network Rail to make arrangements to help commuters with luggage, the elderly and disabled to access the underground from the concourse of Euston station while the escalators are being refurbished; if she will assess the compliance of the works with the Disability Discrimination Act (DDA) 2005; whether her Department was consulted over the works; if she will take steps to monitor the compliance of future works by Network Rail with the DDA; and if she will make it her policy to require Network Rail to (a) provide and (b) advertise assistance to vulnerable groups when such works take place. [172001]

Mr. Tom Harris: This is an operational matter for Network Rail. I understand, however, that they are working with London Underground to ensure that passengers are re-directed to the most appropriate alternative route until the works are completed at the end of this month.

Any work carried out at stations must comply with the standards in "Train and Station Services for Disabled People: A Code of Practice (2002)". The Department would only expect to be consulted if proposed works did not meet these standards. Network Rail also has a duty under part 3 of the DDA 1995 to make reasonable adjustments to allow access to their goods and services. They are responding to this duty.

As a condition of their licence to operate, Network Rail are required to publish a Disabled Persons' Protection Policy, approved by the department, setting out the service level they commit to provide to people with reduced mobility, when accessing their stations.

Fixed Penalties: Appeals

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many recorded challenges against penalty charge notices there were in each local authority area in each of the last 12 months; and how many of these were successful. [164633]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Government do not hold this information.

Galileo

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what Government resources have been used in support of Cardiff's bid to be the permanent home of the EU Galileo Supervisory Authority; and when the Government next expects an opportunity to present its case. [170783]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 3 December 2007]: The Government, in conjunction with the Welsh Assembly Government, put forward the Cardiff bid to host the EU GNSS Supervisory Authority (GSA) in 2005. At the end of 2007, the Finnish presidency reviewed the bids from 11 member states which had declared an interest, but no decision was proposed.

After the negotiations for a public private partnership to take forward Galileo collapsed earlier this year, the Commission put forward proposals for changing the governance of the programme. These will require, among other things, amendments to the EU regulation which set up the GSA. The question of its location is not likely to be considered until the GSA and other regulations have been agreed, some time in 2008.

The Department for Transport, in partnership with the Welsh Assembly Government, the Wales Office, the FCO and other Departments, has taken the lead in promoting the Cardiff bid, mainly through lobbying of other member states. It would not be possible to separate out, or cost, the amount of time spent by officials in promoting Cardiff from the efforts in promoting the Government's objective for Galileo more generally.

Motor Vehicles: Crime

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what proportion of her Department's budget is spent on combating vehicle crime. [164619]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The lead responsibility for combating vehicle crime rests with the Home Office. Many of the activities of DfT and its agencies also help to tackle vehicle crime. Among the key achievements in 2006-07 were: the introduction of theft-resistant number plates to help combat car cloning and car ID theft; and an increase in wheel clamping activities to tackle vehicle excise duty evasion. It is not possible to quantify the precise proportion of expenditure.

Public Transport: Innovation

Mr. Goodwill: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment she has made of the potential environmental effects of Government encouragement of the use on upright electric personal transporter. [171111]

Jim Fitzpatrick: None. However, if, as I understand, their use is likely to be as an alternative to walking or cycling then their potential to reduce greenhouse gases and local pollution is minimal.

There are no plans to amend legislation to permit Segway use on public roads or cycle/pedestrian facilities in Great Britain, but the Department for Transport has invited the company to share the results of any research into Segway use elsewhere.

Railways: Exhaust Emissions

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what estimate her Department has made of the average volume of carbon dioxide emissions per passenger per kilometre for travel by rail. [168688]

Mr. Tom Harris: The Department estimates that travel by rail in 2005-06 resulted in an average of 60 g of carbon dioxide emissions per passenger kilometre. A recent report by the Association of Train Operating Companies provides a slightly lower figure for 2006-07 of 58 g per passenger kilometre, reflecting both increased passenger numbers and the wider use of regenerative braking on electric trains.

Railways: Tickets

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport on what date the Government expects nationwide coverage for the use of smartcards on the national rail network to be reached. [168693]

Mr. Tom Harris: The recently let franchises—South Western, West Midlands, East Midlands and Intercity East Coast have a commitment to start the roll-out of smartcard ticketing by 2010, with the New Cross Country Franchise accepting smartcard tickets issued by other operators. The rail strategy White Paper "Delivering a Sustainable Railway", published this summer and available in the Library of the House, contains more detail of the Government's intention to work with the rail industry to roll-out ITSO smartcards more widely across the network by the end of 2014.

Renewable Transport Fuels Obligation

Mr. David Anderson: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps she is taking to ensure that the renewable transport fuels obligation will help to lower carbon dioxide emissions. [170451]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Renewable Transport Fuel Obligation (RTFO), which will come into effect in April 2008, is designed to reduce greenhouse gas emissions by requiring transport fuel suppliers to ensure that an increasing percentage of their total road transport fuel sales is made up of biofuels. The amount of greenhouse gas emissions saved by different biofuels varies considerably and depends on a wide range of factors including the amount of energy used in the cultivation, processing and transportation of the crop. The RTFO will include a reporting mechanism to encourage transport fuel suppliers to source those biofuels which deliver high levels of carbon savings in a sustainable way, and to allow the policy's greenhouse gas savings to be accurately quantified. The Government estimate that by 2010 the RTFO could save between 2.6 and 3 million tonnes of carbon dioxide per annum.

From April 2010 the Government aim to reward biofuels under the RTFO according to their carbon savings in order to provide greater certainty as to the precise carbon savings delivered by the scheme. Further details of how this might be done are set out in a policy paper which is available via the Department's website at:

http://www.dft.gov.uk/pgr/roads/environment/rtfo/secrtfostake/informalpolicypaper

Such a change would require a number of changes to the existing RTFO legislation, which would be subject to public consultation.

Road Traffic: Schools

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many of her officials are working on proposals to reduce the traffic generated by the school run. [164624]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The development of proposals to reduce the traffic generated by the school run does not fall into neat boxes that enable us to identify exactly how many officials are engaged on this. There are four officials who do work on reducing car use for journeys to and from school, mainly through the joint DfT/DCSF 'Travelling to School' project, in the Department's sustainable travel initiatives team. Additional work to promote and facilitate walking and cycling to school is done by the six officials working in the Department's walking and cycling team and by Cycling England, an independent body set up by the Department in 2005 to promote cycling. In addition, officials in several other teams across the Department work on the development of proposals that have a direct impact on parents' decisions as to whether or not to let their children travel to and from school by non-car modes. They include people engaged in road safety, traffic management, buses, and local and regional transport policy.

In addition, and as part of their joint 'Travelling to School' project, DfT and DCSF are providing sufficient funding for local authorities to employ around 250 school travel advisers who work with schools to help them develop and implement school travel plans, which are seen as the key strategies for reducing car use for journeys to and from school. The school travel advisers are supported by a network of 11 regional school travel advisers.

Roads: Gloucestershire

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what estimate her Department has made of the likely effect of (a) the new settlement planned at Hunts Grove and (b) the new waste facility planned for Javelin Park on traffic flows on (i) Junction 12 on the M5 and (ii) the B4008. [171005]

Mr. Tom Harris: The Highways Agency has assessed the likely impact of the proposed Hunts Grove development and estimates that it will increase traffic flows at M5 Junction 12 by 612 and 547 vehicle movements in the morning and afternoon peak hours respectively. The estimated increase in traffic flows on the B4008 is assessed to be an extra 157 and 129 vehicle movements in the morning and afternoon peak hours respectively.

A package of appropriate improvement works to mitigate the effects of the development on Junction 12 has been agreed in principle between the Highways Agency, Gloucestershire county council and the developers. Mitigation works to improve the A38/ B4008 Cross Keys Junction have also been agreed in principle between the county and developers.

As soon as a transport assessment is received for the proposed new waste facility planned for Javelin Park then an assessment of the impact on Junction 12 of the M5 and the B4008 can be undertaken.

Severn Bridge: Tolls

Mark Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will take steps to amend Regulation 5 of the Severn Bridges Act 1992 to allow the introduction of facilities to pay by card and online; and if she will make a statement. [169320]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 4 December 2007]: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I have given today to the hon. Member for Clwyd, West (Mr. Jones). (UIN 168704).

Severn Crossings

Mr. David Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what plans her Department has to introduce facilities for the payment of tolls on the Severn crossings by (a) debit and (b) credit cards. [168704]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 27 November 2007]: We recognise the potential benefits of a more flexible payment system for the Severn crossings. Therefore, the Government are exploring the legal and commercial issues raised by credit and debit card payments through a working group involving Department for Transport officials and Severn River Crossings plc.

Speed Limits: Cameras

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will compensate drivers who have been erroneously (a) fined and (b) charged with speeding on the evidence of illegally operating speed cameras. [171172]

Maria Eagle: I have been asked to reply.

Whether or not a person is properly convicted is a matter for the courts. If a person believes his/her conviction should not stand, they should consider whether to appeal to the appropriate appellate court. There is a compensation scheme in place for those who appeal successfully, but this only applies in certain very narrowly-defined circumstances.

Under section 133 of the Criminal Justice Act 1988 my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Justice and Lord Chancellor (Mr. Straw) will pay compensation where an applicant has a criminal conviction quashed at an out of time appeal on the basis of a new or newly discovered fact that shows beyond reasonable doubt that there has been a miscarriage of justice, unless the non-disclosure of the unknown fact was wholly or partly attributable to the convicted person. Every application is considered on its merits.

The Secretary of State and Lord Chancellor would decide whether an applicant is eligible for compensation and if he approved compensation the independent assessor would decide on the amount of compensation.

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what estimate she has made of the number of driving licences which have been disqualified as a result of points being issued on the evidence of illegally operating speed cameras in the last period for which figures are available. [171173]

Mr. Coaker: I have been asked to reply.

Information on driving licence disqualifications through totting up of penalty points does not include details of the circumstances giving rise to the endorsements of points on the licence.

Vehicle Number Plates

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what regulation applies to the placing of (a) a European 12 star flag and (b) a UK union flag on vehicle number plates above the initials GB. [171120]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Road Vehicles (Display of Registration Marks) Regulations 2001, prescribe the requirements to which number plates and registration marks must conform. Regulation 16 relates to the international distinguishing sign and other materials.

Waterloo Station

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) how much funding will be provided for track alterations to enable domestic main line services to utilise the platforms of the Waterloo International terminal; [166637]

(2) when she expects the platforms of the Waterloo International terminal to be opened for domestic services. [166638]

Mr. Tom Harris: Ownership of Waterloo International transfers to the Department at the end of March 2008 following Eurostar's de-commissioning of the facility as an international station. The Department is currently working closely with Network Rail and Stagecoach South West Trains (the train operating company) to finalise the design and costs associated with the partial conversion of Waterloo International to accommodate some domestic passenger services. The cost information should be finalised early next year. Works on site are expected to commence soon after the station transfers to the Department and will take several months to complete. Services could then operate into and out of Platform 20 of Waterloo International from the start of the timetable change date in December 2008.

Options for the medium to long-term use of all five international platforms are being assessed by the Department and Network Rail as part of a wider strategy for the upgrade of Waterloo station. Costs will be determined as part of this process. The medium term proposals would require significant infrastructure alterations at Waterloo. Additionally, it would be linked to the procurement of additional rolling stock to lengthen trains. The timescale for implementation is likely to be around 2012-14.

TREASURY

2006 Pre-Budget Report

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will place in the Library the data supporting chart 5.1 in the 2006 pre-Budget report; and what the expected benefits to families in each category will be of the health in pregnancy grant. [170069]

Jane Kennedy: The requested data is given as follows.

Weekly gains for families with children from tax credits and other children's measures by April 2007

| Gross income (£) | 1 child (£) | 2 children (£) | 3 or more children (£) | Number of families with children in income band (million) | Families with children in income band as a percentage of population |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Under 10,000 | 30 | 35 | 88 | 1.7 | 23 |
| 10,000-19,999 | 40 | 69 | 99 | 1.1 | 14 |
| 20,000-29,999 | 14 | 26 | 59 | 1.3 | 17 |
| 30,000-39,999 | 14 | 16 | 19 | 1.2 | 16 |
| 40,000-49,999 | 15 | 15 | 16 | 0.8 | 11 |
| 50,000 and above | 5 | 6 | 6 | 1.4 | 18 |
| Overall average | 21 | 29 | 54 | 7.4 | 100 |

Source:
HM Treasury

The Health in Pregnancy Grant cannot be compared with this data, as it is a one-off payment to women during pregnancy. The benefit to all women receiving the Grant will be £190.

Average Earnings: Suffolk

Mr. Spring: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the average wage in Suffolk was in each year since 1997. [171617]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 6 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question to ask Mr Chancellor of the Exchequer what the average wage in Suffolk was in each year since 1997. (171617)

Levels of earnings are estimated from the Annual Survey of Hours and Earnings (ASHE), and are provided for employees on adult rates of pay, whose pay for the survey period was not affected by absence. The ASHE, carried out in April each year, is the most comprehensive source of earnings information in the United Kingdom.

ASHE results can be obtained on the National Statistics website at:

http://www.statistics.gov.uk/ashe

Cancer

Mr. Jamie Reed: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the rate of survival for each type of cancer was in each (a) constituency, (b) primary care trust area, (c) hospital trust area, (d) region and (e) social demographic group in the most recent period for which figures are available. [171906]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Colin Mowl, dated 6 December 2007:

The National Statistician has been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question asking what the rate of survival for each type of cancer was in each (a) constituency, (b) primary care trust area, (c) hospitals trust area, (d) region and (e) social demographic group in the most recent period for which figures are available. I am replying in her absence. [171906]

The Office for National Statistics does not produce survival rates by (a) constituency, (b) primary care trust area, and (c) hospitals trust area, but the latest one-and five-year survival for eight common cancers by (d) government office region (and strategic health authority), for patients diagnosed in 1997-99 and followed up to 31 December 2004, are available on the National Statistics website at:

http://www.statistics.gov.uk/StatBase/Product.asp?vlnk=11991&Pos=9&ColRank=1&Rank=272

Five-year cancer survival by (e) social demographic group was published as a collaborative paper between the Office for National Statistics and the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, in Coleman MP et al (2004) 'Trends and socioeconomic inequalities in cancer survival in England and Wales up to 2001' in British Journal of Cancer 90, 1367-1373. The deprivation gaps between the most and least deprived groups, in five-year relative survival rates for the 20 most common cancers are available within this publication.

Child Benefit Agency: Pay

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much staff at the Child Benefit Agency were paid in bonuses in the last 12 month period for which figures are available. [168943]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 27 November 2007]: The Child Benefit Office employs around 1,200 people. The director of Child Benefit Operations recognises exceptional performance—including examples of excellent customer service—through a recognition bonus scheme.

The total value of bonus payments made to Child Benefit Office staff from December 2006 to November 2007 inclusive was £17,175.

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the 10 largest bonus payments made to Child Benefits Agency staff were in the last 12 months for which figures are available. [168944]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 27 November 2007]: The 10 largest recognition bonus scheme payments made to Child Benefit Office staff from December 2006 to November 2007 were as follows:

| Number of bonus payments | Value of bonus (£) |
|---|---|
| 1 | 1,000 |
| 1 | 500 |
| 2 | 300 |
| 1 | 275 |
| 5 | 250 |

Child Benefit: Personal Records

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer on how many occasions CDs containing personal data have been despatched to (a) other departments, (b) agencies and (c) the National Audit Office by HM Revenue and Customs in each of the last three years; and how many of those CDs were (i) encrypted and (ii) password-protected. [167681]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 26 November 2007]: HMRC may only disclose information which it holds in accordance with the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs Act 2005. Most transfers of data take place under statutory gateways which specify circumstances in which HMRC may disclose such information. All disclosures must be compliant with the Data Protection Act 1988 and the Human Rights Act 1988. Memorandums of Understanding, Partnership Agreements and Codes of Practice set out the relationship between HMRC and the department or other body receiving the data, including the specific procedures and protocols governing the use of information.

On 20 November the Chancellor announced an independent review of HMRC's data handling procedures to be conducted by Kieran Poynter, the Chair of PricewaterhouseCoopers.

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what staff grade at HM Revenue and Customs has the (a) authority and (b) ability to (i) access the entire child benefit database and (ii) transfer data on that database to other storage devices. [167682]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 26 November 2007]: There is an ongoing police investigation and an independent review of HMRC's security processes and procedures for data handling by Kieran Poynter, the chair of PricewaterhouseCoopers.

The full terms of reference for that review are available on the HM Treasury website at:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/newsroom_and_speeches/press/2007/press_133_07.cf.

Sarah Teather: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what he estimates will be the total cost to his Department of the repercussions of the loss of personal information from the Child Benefit database, including setting up the HM Revenue and Customs Child Benefit Helpline. [168118]

Jane Kennedy: At this stage it is too early to provide an estimate of what the total cost to HMRC may be.

Peter Viggers: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the cost to (a) Government and (b) other bodies of the loss of personal data from the Child Benefit database. [168359]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 26 November 2007]: At this stage it is too early to provide an estimate of the cost to the Government and other bodies.

Mr. Dunne: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether the relevant password to open the Child Benefit database was supplied with the data given by the HM Revenue and Customs to the National Audit Office. [168709]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 27 November 2007]: It would be inappropriate for me to provide information relating to this issue at this stage as there is an ongoing police investigation.

Mr. Vara: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer of the personal details lost by HM Revenue and Customs, how many of those affected were (a) adults and (b) children, broken down by sex. [168787]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 27 November 2007]: The missing information contains details of child benefit records for 25 million individuals, 9.5 million adult claimants, 15.5 million children and 7.25 million families.

A breakdown of the requested information by gender could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Mr. Vara: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer of the personal details lost by HM Revenue and Customs, how many of those affected were (a) adult and (b) children in North West Cambridgeshire constituency, broken down by sex. [168798]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 27 November 2007]: The missing information contains details of all child benefit recipients, including those in North West Cambridgeshire.

Information on families receiving child benefit at 31 August 2006 by constituency are published as part of National Statistics and can be found in tables 1a, 2 and 3 of Child Benefit Statistics Geographical Analysis which are available on HMRC's website at:

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/child_benefit/geog-aug06.pdf

A breakdown of the requested information by gender could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many of those whose data was lost by HM Revenue and Customs were (a) adults and (b) children of each sex in (i) Southend West constituency, (ii) Southend and (iii) Essex. [169421]

Jane Kennedy: The missing information contains details of all child benefit recipients, including those in Southend West constituency, Southend and Essex.

Information on families receiving child benefit at 31 August 2006 by constituency and local authority are published as part of National Statistics and can be found in Tables 1a, 2 and 3 of child benefit statistics geographical analysis which are available on HMRC's website at:

http//www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/child_benefit/geog-aug06.pdf

A breakdown of the requested information by gender could only be provided at disproportionate cost.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what sanctions he has (a) taken and (b) plans to take against the HM Revenue and Customs official who posted two compact discs containing confidential child benefit information; what grade the official is; and if he will make a statement. [169430]

Jane Kennedy: It would be inappropriate to comment on this issue as there is an ongoing investigation being conducted by the police.

Mr. Randall: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many child benefit claimants in (a) Uxbridge constituency and (b) the London borough of Hillingdon are affected by the loss of bank account details by HM Revenue and Customs. [171090]

Jane Kennedy: The missing information contains details of all child benefit recipients, including those in Uxbridge and the London borough of Hillingdon.

Information on families receiving child benefit at 31 August 2006 by constituency and local authority is published as part of National Statistics and can be found in Tables 1a and 2 of Child Benefit Statistics Geographical Analysis which are available on HMRC's website at http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/child_benefit/geogaug06.pdf.

Mr. Evans: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many of those whose data was lost by HM Revenue and Customs were (a) adults and (b) children resident in (i) Ribble Valley constituency and (ii) Lancashire; and how many families this represents. [171370]

Jane Kennedy: The missing information contains details of all child benefit recipients including those from Ribble Valley and Lancashire.

Information on families receiving child benefit at 31 August 2006 by constituency and local authority is published as part of National Statistics and can be found in Tables 1a and 2 of Child Benefit Statistics Geographical Analysis which are available on HMRC's website at http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/child_benefit/geogaug06.pdf.

Data Protection

Mr. Evans: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what training is provided to staff in his Department and its agencies on the safe handling of data to counteract identity theft and other data security breaches. [171371]

Jane Kennedy: HMRC and its agency has in place a range of measures and procedures in relation to training and guidance on data protection and data security and transfer.

On 20 November, the Chancellor announced an independent review of HMRC's data handling procedures to be conducted by Kieran Poynter, the chair of PricewaterhouseCoopers.

Death: Elderly

Sir Nicholas Winterton: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what percentage of excess winter deaths were of pensioners in the most recent period for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [172127]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 6 December 2007:

As National Statistician I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking what percentage of excess winter deaths were of pensioners in the most recent period for which figures are available. (172127)

The latest data for excess winter mortality for England and Wales are currently provisional figures for 2006/07. It is not possible to tell from mortality data whether the deceased was a pensioner. However, ONS has published figures for excess winter mortality by age group and Government Office Region (GOR) of England, and Wales on the National Statistics website at:

http://www.statistics.gov.uk/statbase/Expodata/Spreadsheets/D7089.xls

Using this table for the latest provisional year's figures available for the winter of 2006/07, 93 per cent of excess winter mortality occurred in people aged 65 and over.

Death: Macclesfield

Sir Nicholas Winterton: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the average number of excess winter deaths in Macclesfield constituency was in each year between (a) 2000 and 2005; and how many there were in 2004-05. [172064]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 6 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking what the average number of excess winter deaths in Macclesfield constituency was in the period (a) 2000 to 2005 and (b) 2004-05. (172064)

Estimates of excess winter deaths relate to a four-month period from December of one year to March of the next year. The average annual number of excess winter deaths[1,2] in Macclesfield parliamentary constituency[3] in the five winters from 2000-01 to 2004-05, and the number in winter 2004-05, was 50.

[1] The estimated number of excess winter deaths is the difference between the number of deaths during the four winter months (December to March) and the average number of deaths during the preceding four months (August to November) and the following four months (April to July). Figures are rounded to the nearest 10.

[2] Data are based on deaths occurring in each month.

[3] Using boundaries as of 2007 for all years.

Departmental Data Protection

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what reviews have been undertaken of his Department's rules on data protection in the last two years; if he will place in the Library a copy of the report of the last review of his Department's compliance with data protection laws; and if (a) his Department and (b) his Department's agencies will undertake a review of their compliance with data protection laws. [168073]

Jane Kennedy: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Mr. Walker: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether his Department's information technology and data management systems are BS7799 compliant. [168754]

Jane Kennedy: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within Departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Departmental Pay

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many and what proportion of his Department's staff are employed within each salary band; what the title and role of each position within each salary band is; and for each salary band what the (a) bonus structure, (b) retirement provision, (c) expenses provision, (d) total expenses incurred in each of the last 10 years, (e) average age of employee, (f) number of (i) women and (ii) men and (g) ethnic composition are. [171401]

Angela Eagle: The information requested is as follows:

Salary band information as at 31 October 2007

| Salary Band | Range B | Range C | Range D | Range E | SCS Payband 1 | SCS Payband 2 | SCS Payband 3 | Permanent Secretary |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Number of staff (FTE) | 152.63 | 164.92 | 395.93 | 348.62 | 85.36 | 18.80 | 6 | 2 |

Posts within HM Treasury are known by ranges and not role titles.

Bonus Structure

Bonuses are paid in two circumstances: performance bonuses are those linked to the annual staff appraisal system; special bonuses are those paid to recognise exceptional performance for specific contributions or pieces of work during the year or situations outside the normal expectations of the post.

Retirement Provision

The retirement age for staff is 65

Expenses Provision

Any expenses necessarily incurred by staff in conducting the business of the Department are reimbursed in accordance with HM Treasury's travel policy.

Total expenses incurred in each of the last 10 years

The information can be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Average age, gender breakdown and ethnic composition

This information is published as Civil Service Statistics 2006 on the Government statistics public website http://www.statistics.gov.uk/downloads/theme_labour/2006CivilServiceStatistics.p

Departmental Telephone Services

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much each telephone contact centre for which his Department is responsible has (a) cost and (b) generated in income in each financial year since their establishment. [166543]

Jane Kennedy: The information requested relating to each specific Contact Centre is not readily available in the format requested and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

With regard to income generation, I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by my hon. Friend the Exchequer Secretary on 5 July 2007, Official Report, column 1183W.

Departmental Travel

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) how much his Department spent on (a) business and (b) first class air travel in the last 12 months; [171243]

(2) how much was spent by his Department on first-class train tickets in the last 12 months. [171269]

Angela Eagle: I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer given to the right hon. Member for Maidenhead (Mrs. May) on 25 July 2007, Official Report, column 1186W and to the hon. Member for Fareham (Mr. Hoban) on 10 September 2007, Official Report, column 1970W.

This figure includes most, but not all, first-class train travel by HMT staff. We do not hold central records of train tickets bought with corporate credit cards or for which paper claims are submitted. This information could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

All travel and subsistence is conducted in accordance with the requirements of the Ministerial Code, Travel by Ministers and the Civil Service Management Code.

Pensioners: Suffolk

Mr. Spring: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many and what proportion of people in Suffolk were aged 65 years and over in each year since 1997. [171620]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 6 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your questions regarding how many and what proportion of people in Suffolk were aged 65 years and over in each year since 1997. (171620)

Table 1 shows the population aged 65 and over and the percentage of population aged 65 and over for Suffolk for the years requested.

The latest population estimates available are for mid-2006.

Table 1: Population aged 65 and over and percentage of population aged 65 and over for Suffolk

| Mid-year | 65 plus | Percentage of population 65 plus |
|---|---|---|
| 1997 | 118,000 | 18 |
| 1998 | 119,000 | 18 |
| 1999 | 120,000 | 18 |
| 2000 | 121,000 | 18 |
| 2001 | 123,000 | 18 |
| 2002 | 124,000 | 18 |
| 2003 | 126,000 | 19 |
| 2004 | 128,000 | 19 |
| 2005 | 130,000 | 19 |
| 2006 | 131,000 | 19 |

PriceWaterhouse Coopers

Stephen Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what Government contracts have been awarded to PricewaterhouseCoopers for the purposes of administering an insolvency in which the Government was a creditor in the last 10 years; and what percentage of Government debt was recovered in each case. [171179]

Angela Eagle: Information on individual contracts is not held centrally and Government interest in the contracts is not identified at project summary level. It would be necessary to review all professional services contracts with PricewaterhouseCoopers with each Department who may have been involved in insolvency work and this would incur disproportionate cost. Legal, contractual and ethical protocols safeguard propriety.

Public Expenditure

Mr. Boris Johnson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much was distributed under the Barnett formula to (a) Scotland, (b) Wales and (c) Northern Ireland as a result of expenditure on London in each of the last 10 years. [169820]

Andy Burnham: The Barnett Formula gives the Devolved Administrations in Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland shares of changes in public expenditure allocations to UK Government Departments. It is a matter for individual UK Government Departments to allocate spending to individual regions of England such as London. Details of operation of the Barnett Formula are available in the Treasury publication 'Funding the Scottish Parliament, National Assembly for Wales and Northern Ireland Assembly: Statement of Funding Policy'.

Full details of identifiable spending by region including London may be found in Chapter 9 of Public Expenditure Statistical Analyses 2007 (Cm 7091).

Revenue and Customs: Data Protection

John Hemming: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will ensure all CD burners are removed from HM Revenue and Customs computer departments until security procedures have been reviewed. [168650]

Jane Kennedy: I understand that staff access to removable media has already been disabled. Desktop PCs and laptops in HMRC are no longer able to read CDs, floppy disks, USB storage and other memory card devices. This facility can only be re-enabled with the authorisation of a director or the senior member of staff responsible for data transfer in the appropriate business area.

On 20 November, the Chancellor announced an independent review of HMRC's data handling procedures to be conducted by Kieran Poynter, the chair of PricewaterhouseCoopers.

Revenue and Customs: Northern Ireland

Lady Hermon: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will make a statement on the future of the HM Revenue and Customs' estate in Northern Ireland. [171048]

Jane Kennedy: HM Revenue & Customs (HMRC) is conducting a series of regional reviews of all its accommodation across the UK to match it to future operational requirements. By consolidating work in fewer locations HMRC will be able to provide a better service at a lower cost to the taxpayer.

HMRC is currently considering feedback from consultation on its initial proposals for rationalising its estate in the Belfast urban centre. All HMRC's other offices in Northern Ireland will be reviewed together next year, in order to facilitate the completion of an equality impact assessment of its proposals. Decisions will be announced after the completion of full consultation and subsequent evaluation of the proposals. HMRC is fully committed to complying with its statutory obligations in Northern Ireland.

Revenue and Customs: Pay

Mark Williams: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many staff were employed (a) in each salary grade and (b) in each region by HM Revenue and Customs (i) in 2005 and (ii) on the latest date for which figures are available. [169319]

Angela Eagle [holding answer 4 December 2007]: The numbers of staff employed by HM Revenue and Customs in each Government Office Region at the relevant dates are shown in the following table.

| At 1 April 2005 | SCS | Grade 6 | Grade 7 | SEO | HEO | EO | AO | AA | Total |

Revenue and Customs: Stroud

Mr. Drew: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the average number of people visiting the Stroud tax office for advice each week was in each year since 1997. [171016]

Jane Kennedy: The information requested is not available in the format requested. However it is possible to provide a weekly average for the number of callers to HMRC's Stroud inquiry centre for each year from 2003-04 to the end of October 2007 and this information is provided in the following table. The figures prior to 2003 are not available.

Stroud inquiry centre

| | Total callers | Weekly average |
|---|---|---|
| 2003-04 | 12,019 | 231 |
| 2004-05 | 10,850 | 209 |

Revenue and Customs: Telephone Services

Mr. Swire: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much money HM Revenue and Customs generated from revenue sharing telephone numbers in the latest period for which figures are available. [171686]

Jane Kennedy: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by my hon. Friend the Exchequer Secretary on 5 July 2007, Official Report, column 1183W.

Social Security Benefits: EC Nationals

Mr. Evans: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many non-British EU citizens are in receipt of (a) family benefit and (b) child tax credits in respect of children who are not domiciled in the UK. [171374]

Jane Kennedy: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave the hon. Member for South-West Bedfordshire (Andrew Selous) on 15 October 2007, Official Report, column 817W.

Taxation

Mr. Gauke: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what his policy is on whether changes to the tax system should be announced to Parliament first. [168531]

Jane Kennedy: The vast majority of changes to the tax system are announced to Parliament as part of the Budget and pre-Budget report process. To ensure tax policy remains sufficiently flexible and reactive, for example to respond effectively to tax avoidance, tax announcements may also be made outside of this process.

Taxation: Sports

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) if he will overturn the decision by HM Revenue and Customs not to treat pigeon racing as a sport for tax purposes; [171659]

(2) what factors HM Revenue and Customs took into account when determining whether pigeon racing should be treated as a sport for tax purposes; and if he will make a statement. [171678]

Jane Kennedy: HM Revenue and Customs are not the arbiters of whether pigeon racing should be treated as a sport and have made no determination as such for tax purposes.

Unemployment: Greater London

Mr. Randall: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many 16 to 24-year-olds were not in employment, education or training in (a) the Uxbridge constituency, (b) each London borough and (c) England in each year since 1997. [169974]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 6 December 2007:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question about how many 16 to 24 year olds were not in employment, education or training in (a) the Uxbridge constituency, (b) each London borough and (c) England in each year since 1997. (169974)

The Office for National Statistics (ONS) compiles statistics for local areas from the annual local area Labour Force Survey (LFS) and the Annual Population Survey (APS) following International Labour Organisation (ILO) definitions.

The tables attached show the numbers of 16 to 24 year olds not in full-time education, employment or training, resident in the Uxbridge constituency, each London borough, and England. Estimates are provided from the local area LFS for the twelve months ending February, for 1999 to 2004, and from the APS for the twelve months ending March, for 2005 to 2007. The tables also show these numbers as the percentage of all 16 to 24 year olds in the areas, for each year, which allows changes to be seen in the context of changing population numbers. Data for the twelve month period ending in February 1998 are not readily available.

Estimates for a subset of the population in a small geographical area are based on very small sample sizes, and are therefore subject to large margins of uncertainty. Changes over time should be treated with particular caution.

Welfare Tax Credits

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what steps his Department is taking to ensure that tax credit claimants are consulted before deductions are made to compensate for overpayments; [163504]

(2) what measures are in place to assist families in financial hardship as a result of tax credit overpayments; [163507]

(3) if he will take steps to ensure that repayment demands made of tax credit claimants who have received overpayments are affordable; [164661]

(4) what procedures are in place for consultations between his Department and HM Revenue and Customs to ensure that demands for repayments made to tax credit claimants who have been overpaid by both departments are affordable. [164660]

Jane Kennedy: HMRC's approach on recovery of overpayments is set out in Code of Practice 26 'What happens if we have paid you too much tax credits'. In cases where recovery is made from an ongoing award, a customer's award notice will confirm the amount of the overpayment and how much the award will be reduced by to recover the sum. To prevent hardship, payments from ongoing award are restricted to 10 per cent. of the tax credit award for those on maximum tax credits awards (those families with the lowest incomes). For those on a tapered award (those families whose income is higher than the WTC or CTC income threshold) recovery is set at 25 per cent. If families face financial difficulties on the reduced payments, they are advised to contact HMRC and ask for their case to be reconsidered.

If the customer is no longer entitled to tax credits, or their tax credits award has ended, as the household has changed, HMRC will write asking for a direct payment. The customer can pay back the amount over 12 months or, if a family says this would cause them financial hardship, over a longer period.

In exceptional circumstances, HMRC may write off all or part of an overpayment if it would cause hardship to pay it back.

I announced to the House on 18 October 2007, Official Report, column 944, that HMRC will replace the "reasonable belief test" with a clearer test that will set out customer's responsibilities for checking factual information, and what in turn they can expect from HMRC.

Welfare Tax Credits: Overpayments

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what steps his Department is taking to recover tax credits overpaid to claimants from their estates after their decease, as referred to in the answer of 8 October 2007, Official Report, column 243W, on welfare tax credits: overpayments. [169509]

Jane Kennedy: Where a customer has died, HMRC make every effort to obtain a voluntary settlement of any outstanding overpayment from their personal representative or executor. If there are no funds in the estate, or if HMRC are unable to identify the personal representative or executor, the overpayment is written off.

In cases where a household has broken down and one of the couple has since died, both customers remain jointly and severally liable in law for any outstanding overpayment. If there are no funds in the deceased estate HMRC attempt to recover the full overpayment from the surviving partner taking account of their personal circumstances and our hardship provisions. But, HMRC would seek to do so sensitively and may, for example, recover the overpayment over an extended period or use our discretion to recover less than the full amount in some cases if appropriate.

WALES

Corporate Hospitality

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales on how many occasions he has accepted corporate hospitality in the last 12 months. [171312]

Mr. Hain: Chapter 7 of the ministerial code sets out the rules on the registration of hospitality.

Departmental Conditions of Employment

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales how many and what proportion of posts in his Department have been recategorised from back office to frontline posts as classified by the Gershon efficiency review in each year since 2004. [172263]

Mr. Hain: The Wales Office is a small office which supports the Secretary of State for Wales. We do not have executive functions, and posts are not defined as 'frontline' or 'back office'.

Departmental Pay

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales how much his Department and its agencies spent on end-of-year bonus payments in each of the last five years. [171539]

Mr. Hain: Nil.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what training programmes will be provided for Child Support Agency staff relating to the establishment of the Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission. [167815]

Mr. Plaskitt: People working in the Child Support Agency will be prepared for the establishment of the Child maintenance and Enforcement Commission through training and communication programmes, which will be developed as key appointments and decisions are made.

It is worth noting that the introduction of changes to the statutory maintenance system will be phased over the next few years, and we anticipate the Commission developing training programmes in line with these changes.

Children: Maintenance

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what procedures the Child Support Agency has in place to deal with cases of disputed parentage. [167814]

Mr. Plaskitt: The administration of the Child Support Agency is the matter for the Chief Executive. He will write to the Hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Stephen Geraghty dated 6 December 2007:

In reply to your recent parliamentary question about the Child Support Agency, the Secretary of State promised a substantive reply from the Chief Executive.

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and pensions, what procedures the Child Support Agency has in place to deal with cases of disputed parentage. [167814].

When preparing a maintenance assessment for a qualifying child, the Agency can assume parentage if one of a number of conditions are met. S3ection 26 of the Child Support Act 1991 details each of the circumstances in which the Agency can assume parentage.

An alleged non-resident parent can seek to rebut such a presumption via the courts at any time if they so wish, but in the meantime the Agency will proceed with making and enforcing a maintenance assessment. This speeds up the assessment process and helps prevent parentage disputes which only serve to delay the flow of maintenance to the detriment of the children.

In addition the Agency can offer alleged non-resident parents who dispute parentage access to DNA test. However parentage is assumed where the alleged non-resident parent refuses to take a DNA test or the test result shows that they are the parent of the child in question.

Climate Change

Rob Marris: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what steps his Department (a) has taken and (b) intends to take by (i) 2012 and (ii) 2020 in relation to adaptation to the effects of climate change as they affect his Departmental responsibilities; and if he will make a statement. [165575]

Mr. Plaskitt: The Climate Change Bill and the cross-Government Adaptation Policy Framework (due for publication in spring 2008) will set out the Government's overall strategy on climate change. As yet, there are no specific targets in place for adaptation—these will be set following the publication of the Adaptation Policy Framework. The Department continues to work towards the achievement of the carbon reduction and neutrality targets for Sustainable Operations on the Government Estate.

DWP recognises that the most vulnerable in society may be disproportionately affected by climate change. As such, it is important to take steps to adapt to the short, medium and long-term risks and impacts. At the beginning of this year, the Department commissioned the Hadley Centre for Climate Change to undertake a high level assessment, building on an internal review carried out in 2003, of the risks that climate change poses to its policies and operations. This was launched at the Department's Sustainable Development conference in March, which focused and engaged senior officials specifically on the theme of climate change adaptation. The review is expected to be completed by the end of 2007, and will form the basis for a future programme of adaptation work, based on the priorities identified.

Crisis Loans: Standards

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what progress has been made in implementing the Crisis Loans Improvement Plan; and if he will make a statement. [163589]

Caroline Flint: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the chief executive of Jobcentre Plus, Lesley Strathie. I have asked her to provide the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Lesley Strathie, dated 6 December 2007:

The Secretary of State has asked me to respond to your question on what progress has been made in implementing the Crisis Loan Improvement Plan. This is something which falls within the responsibilities delegated to me as Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus.

The Crisis Loan Improvement Plan involved a pilot which started in Sheffield Contact Centre on 21 May 2007 which involved working with Benefit Delivery Centres to provide decisions on Crisis Loan applications within three hours of the customer's telephone call. Due to the success of this pilot the process has since been extended to 12 Social Fund Centres, supported by eight Contact Centres answering all Crisis Loan calls.

The Contact Centres are able to move calls around the network to support demand. After three months 700 Contact Centre staff, supported by Benefit Delivery Centre colleagues are undertaking this work. As a result over 90% of calls handled in this way are now being answered first time.

In addition, the call logger system, which captures management information on volumes of calls and numbers of calls answered has been further developed and is currently being implemented in Benefit Delivery Centres and Contact Centres to ensure that sufficient staff are available to answer calls.

I hope this is helpful.

Departmental Publicity

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many full-time equivalent staff are responsible for brand management and marketing in his Department and its agencies. [165230]

Mrs. McGuire: The amount of full-time equivalent staff responsible for brand management and marketing in the Department and its agencies is set out in the following table. It is not possible to separate figures for each category as many posts combine both roles.

| Agency | Staff |
|---|---|
| Child Support Agency | 4 |
| DWP Corporate | 27 |
| Disability and Carers Service | 1 |
| Health and Safety Executive | 3 |
| Jobcentre Plus | 92 |
| The Pension Service | 11 |
| The Rent Service | 5 |
| Total | 143 |

Note:
These figures have been rounded to reflect part-time staff.

Government Equalities Office

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions which Government Department the Government Equalities Office comes under; and what the Ministerial responsibilities are of the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State in the office. [170007]

Barbara Follett [holding answer 3 December 2007]: The Government Equalities Office is a Government Department in its own right; support services are currently provided by the Department for Work and Pensions. Barbara Follett supports the Minister for Women and Equality (Ms Harman) across the range of equalities issues. A revised list of ministerial responsibilities was published by my right hon. Friend the Minister for the Cabinet Office (Edward Miliband) on 18 October 2007. Copies have been placed in the Vote Office and the Libraries of the House. The list can also be accessed at:

http://www.cabinetoffice.gov.uk/ministerial_responsibilities.aspx

Incapacity Benefit

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) how many incapacity benefit claimants in receipt of incapacity benefit for two to five years have found (a) employment and (b) sustained employment in each year since 2000; [162355]

(2) how many incapacity benefit claimants in receipt of incapacity benefit for five years or more have found (a) employment and (b) sustained employment in each year since 2000; [162357]

(3) how many incapacity benefit claimants in receipt of incapacity benefit for between one and two years have found (a) employment and (b) sustained employment in each year since 2000. [162358]

Mrs. McGuire: The information is not available as claimants are not obliged to explain why they are leaving incapacity benefit, and the information we have, therefore, is not considered to provide an accurate picture.

Incapacity Benefit: Appeals

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the (a) cost of administering, (b) number and (c) average success rate was of appeals against refusal of incapacity benefit in each of the last 10 years. [169912]

Bridget Prentice: I have been asked to reply.

The information requested is only available from 2000-01 and the costs are not broken down specifically by benefit type.

The following table shows the total number of incapacity benefit appeals cleared at a hearing since 2000-01 and the number found in favour of the appellant. The cost figure for each year represents the average cost of clearing an appeal over the entire appeal caseload and is not broken down specifically by benefit type, or by type of clearance (hearing/non hearing).

Jobseeker's Allowance: Basic Skills

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what proportion of jobseeker's allowance claimants in receipt of basic skills training have succeeded in obtaining a basic skills qualification in each year since 1997. [162361]

Mr. Plaskitt: Skills provision is a devolved issue. Responsibility for monitoring training outcomes rests with the Learning and Skills Council in England, Local Authorities in Scotland and The Welsh Assembly Government in Wales.

Jobseeker's allowance customers can undertake part-time skills training including basic skills courses without a referral from Jobcentre Plus provided it does not conflict with the work search requirements of their benefit. Jobcentre Plus would not routinely record qualification outcomes for these part-time courses.

Some jobseeker's allowance customers with identified basic skills needs that are a barrier to finding work are referred by Jobcentre Plus to full-time basic skills provision on a voluntary basis. These customers are supported by a training allowance.

The recently published "Employment, Opportunity and Progression: making skills work" aims to build on these arrangements and provide a more integrated employment and skills service. Obtaining more comprehensive information about the skills as well as the work outcomes will be one element of the new approach.

New Deal Schemes: Disabled

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many individuals participated in the new deal for disabled people in each year since its inception; and what estimate he has made of the number of people who will access (a) the new deal for disabled people and (b) pathways to work following the roll out of pathways to work, broken down by Jobcentre Plus district. [165524]

Caroline Flint: An estimate of the total number of people who will access new deal for disabled people (NDDP) and pathways to work, following roll out of pathways to work, broken down by Jobcentre Plus district, is not available.

Up to the end of August 2007, 271,180 people had participated in new deal for disabled people.

Information on the number of people starting the programme in each year is in the following table.

New deal for disabled people

| | Number of individuals starting |
|---|---|
| 2001 | 5,740 |
| 2002 | 24,320 |

New deal for disabled people

| | Number of individuals starting |
|---|---|
| 2003 | 30,260 |
| 2004 | 48,280 |
| 2005 | 58,140 |
| 2006 | 61,600 |

Notes:
1. The new deal for disabled people programme was introduced in July 2001.
2. Latest complete year data is for 2006.
3. Figures are rounded to the nearest 10.
4. Years are calendar years. Data for 2001 relates to July 2001 to December 2001.
5. If an individual has started more than once, only their latest start will be included in the table.

School Leaving

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what assessment he has made of the likely effect on child support cases of having a different school leaving age in England and other parts of the United Kingdom; [165771]

(2) whether he will seek to amend the definition of child in article 55 of the Child Support Act 1991 in line with the Government's proposals to raise the minimum age to which young people must stay in education or training; and if he will make a statement; [166270]

(3) if he will assess the effect of the Government's proposals to raise the minimum age to which young people must stay in education or training on the projected caseload of (a) the Child Support Agency and (b) the Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission; and if he will make a statement. [166271]

Mr. Plaskitt: The details of the Government's proposals to raise the school leaving age are currently being developed. However we intend to continue to mirror child benefit provisions in the definition of a child for child maintenance purposes.

If young people in England are required to stay at school or in training until they are 17 or 18, we anticipate that non-resident parents will still be liable for maintenance until the young person leaves school or training. Young people in other parts of the UK who can choose to leave education or training at 16 will cease to receive maintenance should they do so.

The Government's proposals on raising the school leaving age are due to take effect from 2013, by which time we anticipate that child maintenance cases will largely be subject to the new scheme's rules.

With the increased focus on voluntary arrangements and the ending of the requirement that parents with care on benefit be treated as applying for child maintenance, not all of the current Child Support Agency caseload will choose to use the statutory maintenance service and be subject to the new scheme's rules. Since we do not know the precise composition of the resulting caseload, it is not possible to estimate the impact on those existing cases on moving to the Commission.

Social Fund

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the rate of refusal was for Social Fund applications in the latest period for which figures are available, broken down by (a) type and (b) reason for rejection. [163513]

Mr. Plaskitt: The available information is in the following tables.

Budgeting loans, Great Britain, 1 April 2007 to 31 October 2007

| Refusal reason | Number of initial refusals | Initial refusals as percentage of initial decisions |
|---|---|---|
| Outstanding debt | 96,300 | 11.1 |

Social Security Benefits

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of expected (a) on-flows, (b) off-flows and (c) stock claimant numbers for (i) incapacity benefit (credits only), (ii) incapacity benefit (benefits) (iii) severe disablement allowance, (iv) income support and (v) jobseeker's allowance in each year to 2019-20. [163511]

Mr. Plaskitt: The available information is in the tables.

The figures provided are projections that are made as part of the normal process of assessing long-term public finances. As part of this, projections for jobseeker's allowance make use of the Treasury's unemployment assumption.

The figures provided in the tables are in line with the cautious and prudent approach to making fiscal projections, where the impact of existing and proposed policies is taken into account once there is robust evidence of their effect, but the impact of new or planned policies is not considered where the evidence is more limited. For example, the incapacity benefits figures include estimates of the impact of the roll-out of Pathways to Work but not the introduction of Employment and Support Allowance.

The figures are not therefore an assessment of the aims or effect of Government strategy in the benefit and employment field.

NAO-audited assumption of the numbers on jobseeker's allowance

| | Thousand |
|---|---|
| 2007-08 | 842 |
| 2008-09 | 871 |
| 2009-10 | 894 |
| 2010-11 | 896 |
| 2011-12 | 896 |

Notes:

1. These figures relate to Great Britain, and are consistent with the assumption for the UK.
2. The assumption on the future claimant count is the average of a number of forecasts, all of which are made by non-Governmental organisations. When these forecasters predict that the claimant count will increase (as here), it follows that the assumption will reflect that increase. Were these forecasters to predict a decrease in the claimant count, then the assumption would remain constant at its current level for all future years.
3. These figures are audited by the National Audit Office.
4. Since very few of the external forecasters predict the claimant count beyond 2011-12, the assumption ends in that year.
5. The claimant count in 2011-12 is equivalent to 2.9 per cent. of the economically active population of working age, based on the calculations underpinning the Long-Term Public Finance Report. Projections for 2012-13 onwards assume that this rate will be constant.

Stevenage

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what discussions he has had with the Leader of the House on the (a) ministerial role of and (b) support for the hon. Member for Stevenage. [170004]

Mr. Hain [holding answer 3 December 2007]: I have had no discussions with the Leader of the House on this subject. However, there have been various discussions at official level about the provision of administrative and logistical support from my Department to the Government Equalities Office, including ministerial support.

Unemployed: Basic Skills

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what research has been carried out into the number of benefit claimants who have undertaken basic skills training whilst in receipt of benefits and who have subsequently been assessed as having basic skills needs on completion of such training. [162360]

Mr. Plaskitt: None. However, to address Jobcentre Plus customers' skills barriers, the new Employability Skills programme was introduced in August 2007. This programme has been developed specifically for Jobcentre Plus customers. Measurable outcomes include gaining an employability certificate and associated job outcomes.

A joint Jobcentre Plus/Learning and Skills Council management information strategy has been developed to evaluate the impact that this training has on our customers and includes collection of data to measure retention and attrition rates together with outcome data for both qualifications and progression into work.

Jobcentre Plus continues to fund basic skill assessments and training provision for customers that are eligible for the mandatory new deal programmes.

Winter Fuel Payments

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the average percentage of pensioners' energy bills likely to be met by the winter fuel allowance in 2007-08. [163849]

Mr. Mike O'Brien [holding answer 19 November 2007]: The information is in the following table. The winter fuel payment is intended to provide a contribution towards winter heating bills which account for around 60 per cent. of the total annual fuel bill. The payment provides a significant contribution to these higher winter costs. Winter fuel payments have increased from 20 in 1997-98 to the current value of £200 for households with someone aged 60 to 79 years of age, and £300 for households with someone aged 80 or over.

|---|---|
| Average expenditure on fuel (£) | 731 |
| Average winter fuel payment (£) | 236 |
| Likely percentage of total fuel bill met by winter fuel payment (Percentage) | 32 |

Between 1996-97 and 2005-06 pensioners' incomes increased by 29 per cent. in real terms, compared with a 15 per cent. real terms increase in utility bills between 1996-97 and 2006. It is important to note that whilst pensioner incomes tend to increase consistently, with two per cent growth between 2004-05 and 2005-06 building on the growth in earlier years, utility bills tend to fluctuate.

Average household fuel expenditure for 2007-08 is estimated using the domestic fuel price inflation rate between the second quarter of 2006 to the second quarter of 2007, of 6 per cent. This is the most recent reliable fuel price inflation data, available from the BERR quarterly energy prices September 2007 report. The estimates given here for 2007-08 are subject to change if fuel inflation for the year ahead deviates from this rate.

Notes:

1. Figures for 2007-08 are estimates based on the most recent available data and projections.
2. Average winter fuel payments have been calculated by dividing expenditure on winter fuel payments by the number of households in receipt of winter fuel payments.

Sheltered Housing

16. Mr. John Leech (Manchester, Withington) (LD): What assessment she has made of the level of satisfaction amongst older sheltered housing residents with floating support under supporting people. [158165]

[Official Report, 16 October 2007, Vol. 464, c. 690-92.]

The following answer was given to a supplementary question:

Hazel Blears: ... I am sure that the hon. Member for Manchester, Withington (Mr. Leech) is aware that his council in Manchester is a four-star local authority providing excellent services, with an excellent direction of travel.

Letter of correction from Hazel Blears:

It has been brought to my attention that a reference I made at my Department's Oral Questions on 16 October was incorrect.

I referred to Manchester as a 'four-star local authority providing excellent services, with an excellent direction of travel' [16 October 2007 Column 692]. In doing so, I was referring incorrectly to the assessment made by the Audit Commission of Manchester's performance in delivering its Supporting People programme.

For Supporting People, the Audit Commission assessed Manchester as providing 'an excellent three star service that has excellent prospects for improvement'. This, rather than a four-star scoring, is the highest rating achievable for that programme. I would be grateful if a correction on this could be noted in the Official Record.

I am copying this letter to Eric Pickles MP and Greg Hands MP.

JUSTICE

Community Service Orders

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many unpaid work appointments have been cancelled since January, broken down by probation area. [155367]

[Official Report, 17 September 2007, Vol. 464, c. 2245-46.]

Letter of correction from Mr. Hanson:

Errors have been identified in the text and table of the written answer given to the hon. Member for Hayes and Harlington on 17 September 2007, Official Report, columns 2245-2246W. The correct answer should have been:

Across all probation areas a total of 29,865 work appointments (4.9 per cent.) were cancelled between 1 January 2007 and 30 June 2007. This compares with 583,430 work appointments which were kept during the same period. The number of unpaid work appointments cancelled in each probation area is detailed in the table below.

TREASURY

Tax Credits

Mr. Francois: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the total number of tax credit overpayments made to couples who have since separated is; and in how many such cases (a) overpayments are owed, (b) recovery of the whole of the joint liability is being pursued against one party only and (c) one party is untraceable. [113664]

[Official Report, 8 January 2007, Vol. 455, c. 426W.]

Letter of correction from Jane Kennedy:

An error has been identified in the answer given to the hon. Member for Rayleigh (Mr. Francois) on 8 January 2007, Official Report, column 426W.

The correct answer should have been:

At April 2006 there were about 220,000 claims originally made by couples, who are recorded as having split up by that date, and for which there were outstanding undisputed overpayments over £10 for either 2003-04 or 2004-05.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Household Rubbish

Mr. Brian Jenkins (Tamworth) (Lab): My hon. Friend will realise that we all pay for household collection through the council tax. Does he recognise that improving recycling is one the main contributory factors to reducing household waste? Will he re-emphasise that and send out one of his circulars to each council saying that it is up to them to decide their policies, and not this Government?

[Official Report, 27 November 2007, Vol. 468, c. 132.]

Letter of correction from Mr. Dhanda:

An error has been identified in the oral answer given to the hon. Member for Tamworth on 27 November 2007, Official Report, column 132.

A letter has been sent to the MP and made available in the Library of the House.

The correct answer should have been:

Mr. Dhanda: We want to work with local authorities and, as I say, it is up to them if they want to be among the five pilots. The mood that we sense among local authorities is that this process is a positive way of reducing waste, increasing recycling and having more money to return as rebate. This will not be a profit-making exercise. All revenues raised through charges under a scheme have to be paid back as rebates.

Local Government Finance

Mr. Bone: ...Given that 52,000 new homes are to be built in north Northamptonshire over the next few years, 30 per cent. of which will be for migrant workers, and that no infrastructure programmes are being planned, will she come to my constituency and explain to the protest groups why no such infrastructure plans exist for Wellingborough as part of the growth strategy?

[Official Report, 27 November 2007, Vol. 468, c. 137.]

Letter of correction from Yvette Cooper:

An error has been identified in the oral answer given to the hon. Member for Wellingborough on 27 November 2007, Official Report, column 137.

A letter has been sent to the MP and made available in the Library of the House.

The correct answer should have been:

Yvette Cooper: We have put substantial investment into infrastructure and we are going further. We have set out proposals for £1.7 billion of additional infrastructure investment over the next three years from our Department alone. That is in addition to the investment from the Department for Transport and so on. Also, we are today publishing the Planning Reform Bill, which includes proposals for a community infrastructure levy. I would encourage people in the hon. Gentleman's constituency to look properly at that and at other ways of raising additional infrastructure funding for his area.

Housing and Regeneration Bill

John Bercow: I am grateful to the Minister of State both for her generosity and for her concern for my physical health.

The draft south-east plan presented to the Government in March 2006 proposed the creation of 28,900 new homes per year. I do not sniff at that—there is a need for new housing—but the plan added the rider that the creation of new homes should be closely related to the availability of infrastructure and associated services. Now that the Government's panel of planning inspectors has said that it does not accept that new home levels should be contingent on infrastructure, I eagerly anticipate discovering on which side of the argument the Minister falls.

[Official Report, 27 November 2007, Vol. 468, c. 148-49.]

Letter of correction from Yvette Cooper:

An error has been identified in the oral answer given to the hon. Member for Buckingham on 27 November 2007, Official Report, column 148.

A letter has been sent to the MP and made available in the Library of the House.

The correct answer should have been:

Yvette Cooper: The hon. Gentleman knows that I obviously cannot comment on the details of the south-east plan, which is still going through the planning process. However, he will be aware of my frequently stated view that at a time when we face growing pressure from first-time buyers and rising demand for new housing the South East England regional assembly's proposal to cut the level of new housing in the south-east is bonkers. It is not an appropriate position for that regional assembly to have adopted. We need more housing, but I agree with the hon. Gentleman that we need more investment in infrastructure. From my Department alone, we set out proposals to increase the level of infrastructure to £1.7 billion over the next few years; there are proposals from other Departments, too. Today, as part of the Planning Bill, we published details of the community infrastructure levy that will allow local councils to raise additional resources for local infrastructure. I urge the hon. Gentleman and his party to support that proposal so that we have the parks and play areas as well as the new transport systems we need to support new homes for the future.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Arts Council of England: Finance

Jeff Ennis: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what (a) grant-in-aid and (b) National Lottery funding was allocated to the Arts Council England (ACE) in each of the last five years; and how much ACE awarded to brass bands in the same period. [157098]

[Official Report, 22 October 2007, Vol. 465, c. 36W.]

Letter of correction from Margaret Hodge:

An error has been identified in the written answer given to Jeff Ennis the hon. Member for Barnsley, East and Mexborough on 22 October 2007, Official Report, column 36W.

The correct answer should have been:

Margaret Hodge: This information is shown in the table.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

Gough Island: Nature Conservation

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps he is taking to protect the native sea bird population on Gough Island. [167238]

[Official Report, 26 November 2007, Vol. 468, c. 220W.]

Letter of correction from Meg Munn:

An error has been identified in the written answer given to Mr. Andrew Rosindell, the hon. Member for Romford on 26 November 2007, Official Report, column 220W (PQ 167238).

The correct answer should have been as follows, reflecting that rats are not a predator of seabirds on Gough Island:

Meg Munn: Mice have been identified as the main predator of seabirds on Gough Island. The Overseas Territories Environment Programme, a joint FCO and DFID funded programme, has provided £54,954 to the Tristan da Cunha administration, with technical support being provided by the Royal Society for the Protection of Birds, to assess the potential for the eradication of these rodents from Gough Island.
